This, then, is the establishment which, with that kindly interest in the welfare of the people which so happily distinguishes the Royal Family, the Prince and Princess of Wales and their eldest son and daughter went down on Saturday to open. The act of opening which had been arranged for was the unveiling of a brass tablet let into the wall of the reading-room recording the fact of the visit of the Princess, but the real ceremony took place in a large marquee in the rear of the building, to which the distinguished guests were conducted from the entrance, the Lord Mayor giving his arm to the Princess of Wales, and the Prince of Wales escorting the Lady Mayoress to a crimson-covered daïs at one end of the marquee, which was prettily adorned with groups of flags, palms, and chrysanthemums, and lighted by three large crystal chandeliers. This pavilion was designed to hold seven hundred guests, and was well filled. At three o'clock in the afternoon a company of students from the Guildhall School of Music opened the proceedings by a vocal and instrumental concert, which very pleasantly beguiled the time until the cheering without announced the arrival of the principal guests. At this time a number of distinguished persons occupied seats to the right and left of the central daïs, among them being Lord Dorchester, Sir Robert Carden, M.P., Sir James M'Garel-Hogg, M.P., Mr. Ritchie, M.P., Alderman Cotton, M.P., Alderman Cowan, Rev. Dr. Tyler, Rev. C. J. Robinson, rector of Whitechapel, and others. The drum and fife band of the institution greeted the Royal party on their entrance into the pavilion with an outburst of "God save the Queen," after which was sung a dedicatory hymn, followed by a prayer offered by the Rector of Whitechapel, and then the honorary secretary read a short statement as to the objects of the work and the state of the building fund. He had, he said, received a great many sympathetic letters from persons unable to attend, but he would read only two, one from Lord Salisbury, briefly expressing his regret that he could not be there owing to the pressure of official engagements, and the other from Mr. Gladstone, who wrote as follows: "Hawarden Castle, October 29. Dear Sir,—I regret to say that receiving your note as I was about to undertake a journey, and not having a moment to acquaint myself with the papers inclosed, I can only thank you for the kind expressions you have sent, and assure you of my cordial interest in every undertaking by which the members, and not less when they are the younger members, of the great working class which constitutes the bulk of the nation, endeavour courageously to fit themselves for the duties of life, including in their view those public duties which the Legislature has imposed upon them, for these duties are indeed of a character which calls upon them not only for intelligence and love of liberty and loyalty, but for much prudence and self-restraint." After Mr. Hill's address, in the course of which he explained that an anonymous benefactor had secured, at a cost of over £2000, a piece of land in the rear of their premises, and had presented it as a free gift for a public recreation ground, which the Metropolitan Playgrounds' Association had undertaken to lay out and maintain, Her Royal Highness the Princess of Wales pronounced the institution open. The Prince of Wales, who was suffering from hoarseness, made a short speech, in which he declared that he could not conceive of any institution more useful than the one just declared upon. As Mr. Hill had said, the lads of that institute would in ten years' time become working men, and it was our duty to do all that could be done to render them useful members of society. Most sincerely did he hope that that institution would flourish and be imitated throughout the length and breadth of the land. A large number of purses were then handed to the Princess by ladies and children, each of whom was introduced and graciously received. The National Anthem was then sung, and the illustrious visitors proceeded to inspect the building, the company in the pavilion remaining for further speeches, in which the Lord Mayor, Sir Robert Carden, Mr. Alderman and Sheriff Evans, the Treasurer, Mr. Bevan, and Mr. Tyler took part. The presentation of swimming prizes was to have been an item in the proceedings, but the prize-winners had by some mischance got stowed away in some odd corner of the premises and only one of them could be found at the proper time. It may be explained that this admirable institution has been provided entirely by public contributions, but it is hoped that it will be nearly self-supporting. The work was prompted by benevolent and religious motives, and will be carried on upon religious principles, but the teaching is entirely unsectarian, and all who wish well to working lads may, therefore, freely support this most excellent work.—Daily News.

At a preliminary prayer meeting, on Friday night, Mr. Hill traced the origin of the institute to a letter which he wrote to The Christian te years ago last Sunday. Last Sunday afternoo Rev. Dr. Bevan held a religious service in the Princess's Pavilion, and Mr. William Forbes ir the evening.

◆

BRITAIN, ARISE!

By Rev. THORNLEY SMITH.

BRITAIN, arise! and of the foe beware—
The secret, cruel, and insidious foe
That lurks within thy streets, and taints the air
That spreads disease, and misery, and woe.

The invader's foot stands not upon thy shores;
Of foreign arms thou hast not much to dread
Nor does gaunt famine rob thee of thy stores,
Or pestilence sweep down its victims—dead.

But lust, more dreadful far, with fœtid breath,
To victimise our youth, now stalks abroad;
Her ways, the ways that lead to certain death,
Her feet, the feet that tread the downward road

Our maidens fair, our little ones, her prey,
Are bought by rich men's paltry gold, and le
From innocence and virtue far astray,
To sin, and poverty, and want of bread.

Is it not time, ye parents of the land,
Ye preachers of God's truth and righteousness
That you should take a bold and noble stand,
And seek those crying evils to suppress?

Friends of our hearths and homes, arise, arise!
And plead with Heaven to vindicate you cause;
Workmen of God, take heart, and lift your eyes
To Him who gives us just and holy laws.

Join the white cross of love and purity,
Enroll your children's names in this crusade,
And onward press to certain victory,
Till in the dust the mighty foe is laid.

THE PRINCE OF WALES has consented to becom patron of the Bethnal-green Free Library, in plac of the late Lord Shaftesbury.

A STARTLING STATEMENT.—At a large an enthusiastic meeting in Barnsley last week, M Wookey gave a powerful address on questions relating to social purity. Rev. J. Micklethwaite chaplain to the Horbury House of Mercy, cause much sensation by stating that he knew of a limite liability company, whose members are making fortunes through the traffic in English girls. Thi company's headquarters, he asserted, are in Manchester, and they have branch houses in Liverpool Leeds, Wakefield, Edinburgh, York, and Londor It is a thoroughly organised system. The girls ar shifted from town to town to avoid the notice c the police, and they only knew the principals of th various houses by fictitious names. Girls fro these places had been brought to the Horbur House of Mercy, and Mr. Micklethwaite said tha they were more hardened and hopeless of reformation than any he had met with.

MISSION SERVICES FOR THE PEOPLE.—On th invitation of the Lord Mayor and the Lad Mayoress a large company of the promoter supporters, and conductors of the Special Religiou Services for the people in threatres, halls, an mission-rooms met last week at a conversazione an concert given in the Mansion House. About fou hundred ladies and gentlemen were received in th saloon, and afterwards formed a meeting in th Egyptian Hall. The Lord Mayor, spoke of th fifty years' labours of the City Mission and th quarter of a century's work of the present societ It was incumbent on all to exert themselves in orde to maintain this institution, and provide for i funds. The Lord Mayor gave as the result of h own observation through the part he had taken i the services at the Pavilion Theatre, Bermondse Town Hall, and other places, that people woul attend worship in those buildings who would n go to church. Mr. J. E. Jack and Mr. R. C. Bevan, the treasurer, also addressed the meeting.

TO CANDIDATES FOR PARLIAMENT.*

SIR,—Will you patiently read these few lines, and the accompanying enclosure [The ppeal to Electors]? Though I write to you in y own name, I express the thought of tens of ousands of women in this country. From all des I have been entreated to suggest some eans of speaking directly to the conscience of ndidates for the new Parliament on a subject hich is near to our hearts. That subject is the rsonal character of the men who are to represent r country in future. It is not a subject about hich women alone are deeply concerned. You ust be aware that a great movement has isen, and is daily gathering force among the eople, in favour of having a Moral Government d a Moral Parliament; and that this move- ent was awakened by recent revelations of the rrible criminal vice which has prevailed for a mber of years in the midst of us, unrebuked law, until Parliament was forced by the pres- re of public opinion to pass the Criminal Law mendment Act. You are not ignorant of what cently occurred—of the shocking travesty of stice in the hushing up of the trial of the oman Jeffries, whose houses of ill-fame were equented by men of wealth and high position; the prosecution by the Government of those rsons to whom we owe the creation of this eat wave of moral indignation; and in the eedom from such prosecution of a number of iminals known to the Police, who have stematically ruined young girls and little ildren, and who nevertheless are still at large.

You may also be aware of the fact that ectors are at this moment far more awake than retofore to the necessity of having men of ght moral principles and decent lives as their presentatives in Parliament.

It is not our part to inquire into the secrets of y man's life, nor do we judge with harshness n who may be forced to look back with regret on their past, as not having been free from fences against the law of purity. We who ow how to pity and defend the outcast woman, e ready to speak a word of encouragement to ery honest man who is influenced by the sire now to do well, to look truth in the face, d to speak and to act, in his public character, favour of justice and purity.

In our numerous public meetings on this estion, we encounter men of the working sses whose consciences upbraid them when ought face to face with the law of purity, and ne who have been plunged in vice. But ely, very rarely, indeed, do we find such men deavouring to form theories of life and to ke suggestions for law in accordance with ir own low morality: on the contrary, they nestly and openly condemn themselves, and for severe measures against the criminal shness of men, and in favour of unprotected ls and children. The same can scarcely be d of our ruling classes, among whom there e been too many who have persistently endea- red, unhappily with success, to lower the s which touch on moral questions to the level their own cynical theories and impure lives.

We are not speaking vaguely. We have in hands proofs of the complicity of certain mbers of the legislature in the criminal vice which some of us have long been cognisant, which has lately been more full revealed. have experienced many a painful shock in ountering these proofs in the course of our crusade against vice. There are others in Parliament who, though not criminal in this sense, are fatally poisoned by the debased moral tone fostered there by the persons above mentioned. And through this state of things the whole nation has suffered; the families of the poor have been desolated, and the cry of the murdered innocents has ascended to Heaven, till now almost unheard and unheeded on earth. But the people of England are waking up to a realisation of the need of a great national purifying, beginning with a purer Parliament.

Some of those who will read this appeal are men who heartily agree with what I have here written, men who have helped, or mean to help the cause of justice, of purity, and of equal laws. There are others who are not so disposed, and who have no desire for a thorough purification, either of their hearts and lives, or of society. To the latter I would say—as in the presence of God:—Think a little of the responsibilities you are about to incur, of the judgment of the future which is awaiting you—I do not mean only at the bar of heaven—but here on earth by the public of England, and by your own constituents. We dare not judge your private life, but we dare to judge and we will judge you by your public utterances and acts; and aided by the great wave of awakened opinion upon the crest of which we now are, we will use the utmost force of our influence to prevent your election, if we are driven to infer from your attitude in public that you will prove to be one of those who are a hindrance to measures for the equalising of the moral law and its penalties for men and women, and whose presence in Parliament will contribute to the delay or hindering of justice.

Josephine E. Butler,
Hon. Sec. Ladies' National Association.
The Close, Winchester, October, 1885.

---

* A copy of this letter is being sent to every candi- for election to the House of Commons.

Requests for Praise and Prayer.

PRAISE.—For blessing given during the past season in the meetings on the sands and in the hall at Shaftesbury House, Margate.

PRAYER.—For blessing on meetings by G. Brealy, at Brighton, Tunbridge Wells, Hastings, and St. Leonard's.——For blessing on Gospel meetings at Beckenham, Kent.——A magisterial dictum at Sedgley, prohibiting open-air services in certain public spaces in the town, has been appealed against. Prayer is asked that the decision of the higher court may restore this right and conduce to the spread of the Gospel.——For blessing on the weekly Gospel services at Shaftesbury House during the winter.——Mr. Baron, of the Mildmay Mission to the Jews, is about to visit Jews in Dublin, Belfast, and Cork. Prayer is asked that abundant blessing may accompany and follow his testimony in these places.——For special services by Mr. Opie Rodway at Chelsea Baptist Chapel, on Saturday, Nov. 7, and following days.

"ELISHA AT DOTHAN."—Correspondence on this subject is reserved till next week.

STUDENTS AT OXFORD.—We have received an interesting account of addresses that have been delivered to undergraduates at Oxford, by Professor Henry Drummond; we regret that owing to a great pressure of matter we have not space in this issue for details.

MR. SPURGEON AND MR. GOUGH.—In noticing Mr. J. B. Gough's new book, Mr. Spurgeon says:—Our honoured friend is a cyclopædia of illustrations, and possesses a fund of anecdote as big as the National Debt. He is in downright earnest, and yet he is full of fun. He would by weeping or laughing get men from their cups. Moderate drinking he treats as politely as the executioner handles a criminal: he begs pardon, exchanges compliments, begs his victim to recline upon the block, with the utmost pleasure affords one satisfactory stroke, and the business is over.

FOLDING THE LAMBS.

THE great religious movement that is so conspicuously going forward among children in connection with Mr. Hammond's meetings, will be productive of as great a good for grown-up people as it will be for the children themselves. No word need be said as to the reality of the work—that is incontrovertible. The churches are beginning to recognise that the child-life is a strand of the great vital force of the living Church, and that no church can be complete without a recognition of the Christian child-life and provision being made for its protection and sustenance.

The tidal wave of spiritual life is gathering power every week, and is sweeping in the waifs and strays—weary-hearted children, famishing for affection, and stupefied by neglect. They are found side by side with the children of the wealthy who have been delicately nurtured and carefully instructed, differing in almost everything but that common humanity that is dear to the heart of God.

It is in dealing with the very young that grown-up people will derive most advantage to themselves in spiritual insight. The person who would "win souls" must first be winsome, vivid in apprehension, tender in sensibility. With babelings, and newborn babes in Christ, spiritual anatomy of feelings, spiritual surgery in thoughts, bring confusion and even death. What is the movement of the Spirit? Oftenest a breath—the breath of the Eternal Spirit. And that breath passes over the famished heart, the numbed soul, and they are quickened! It is the life of the Spirit. Shall that be denied? Shall that be stifled, because it has not attained to formal speech? It is not the less the life of the Spirit begun, and it should be fostered with joy. Oftenest the sole utterance is a desire—"I want to go to Jesus," says the child. It is not a thing of understanding; it is a desire, it comes from the heart; but it is a new desire. Another child will say, "Take me, too," and a flicker of gladness will ripple over the soft but haggard child-face.

Children are sympathetic, and they are gregarious; they like to be where other children are. When they have got something that makes them happy they always want to share it, so that really the poorest, tiniest child becomes immediately a messenger and missionary, to make known that good thing which has made itself feel happy. Children will be coming in flocks of their own accord, gladsome from the life that has been breathed into them. Who shall fold the lambs? Who are skilled enough to fulfil the parting behest, "Feed my lambs?"

E. V. I.

RICHARD WEAVER, though not in good health, began a mission in Glasgow on Sunday week. The meetings have been crowded, and very many have professed to receive Christ as their Saviour.

SOUTHPORT Y.M.C.A.—This Association has entered on new and spacious premises. On the 12th ult. Mr. George Williams, of St. Paul's Churchyard, formally declared the building open for the use of the Southport young men. A large and enthusiastic public meeting was held in the evening, when various speakers congratulated the Association on its prosperous and hopeful condition.

RESCUE HOME, POPLAR.—Mrs. Green writes to say that Mrs. Wilkes' Rescue Home, Kirby-street, Poplar, is much in need of present help. "A ready admittance is given to all penitent ones at Manor Cottage, as far as rooms and means will permit. Sometimes, even when the Home is quite full, Mrs. Wilkes can place one or even two women with a humble helper of hers, a woman who, seven years ago, was one of the most degraded, violent characters in Poplar, but whose heart, after long and patient pleading, the Lord opened to receive his love and forgiveness during the mission last November, and who since then is always ready to hold out a helping hand to the erring ones. As weekly visitor at Manor Cottage I can testify to much real good done among the women, and their soul's salvation is the one thing sought. Any help, then, given to this cause will greatly cheer the heart of our dear friend the originator and mother of the Home."

TEMPERANCE NOTES.

The imports of coffee are at present, more than one third less than in 1861.

The Mongols are fond of whiskey, and drunkenness is common amongst all classes.

In The British Workman for November there is a thrilling story by Rev. Mark Guy Pearse.

Dram-shops are rapidly increasing in Paris, and in the hospitals drink-patients are conspicuously common.

Through the exertions of the Manchester Police-court Mission, 282 discharged prisoners have taken the pledge.

The National Temperance Federation has issued an address to the electors, urging them to vote for a popular veto.

At Nottingham the C E.T.S. has opened a Home for factory and warehouse girls, to counteract the gin palaces and dancing saloons.

It is stated that in the North of Ireland ether is largely used as a substitute for whiskey; through its use a number of persons are in asylums.

The Bishop of London presided, Oct. 26, at a meeting at the Edinburgh Castle, to celebrate the Jubilee of the Independent Order of Rechabites.

Sir Charles Warren says prohibition of the liquor-traffic in Bechuanaland is absolutely essential to commerce, and is begged for by the natives.

Mrs. Leavitt has concluded a Temperance mission in Brisbane, and, as a result of her labours, has succeeded in establishing a Women's Christian Temperance Union.

At a recent meeting in Surrey, Dr. Carpenter said the national system of education was deficient, in that there was no systematic instruction in the principles of Temperance.

At Miss Weston's Five Sailors' Rests last year the receipts were £12,599, the bulk of which might otherwise have gone to the public-house. The evil thus prevented is incalculable.

Temperance friends in New Zealand have induced Mr. T. W. Glover, the Temperance advocate, to decide to make New Zealand his home. He sails with his family early in December.

In Scotland recently several chemists and others have been heavily fined for selling methylated spirits for drinking purposes. It is purchased chiefly on Sundays when the public-houses are closed.

The Lancashire and Cheshire Band of Hope Union has issued a report covering a period of seventeen months. There are now in connection 866 Societies, 139,588 members, a large increase on the previous year.

In the South of France a liquor distilled from raisins and currants is largely used in the manufacture of wine. The Spectator suggests the trade might be carried on in England, as to convey water so far must be costly.

Dr. Richards, an American missionary, has lately taken an inland tour from the East Coast of Africa. He relates that the Amakwakwa tribe are almost constantly drunk from palm wine which is to be had almost without limit.

The great majority of the Scotch candidates for Parliament are believed to be in favour of a popular control of the liquor traffic. At the Scotch licensing sessions just held there was evident a growing disposition to restrict the traffic.

The recently appointed Commission of the City of Boston, U.S., has been making vigorous attacks on liquor sellers who contravene the law, and the keepers of gambling dens. A Boston paper states that more has been done to bring transgressors to book during their three months of office than during any previous twelve months.

Switzerland —Writing from Geneva, a correspondent of The Times says: "The Swiss people adopted the law on alcoholism, which had been submitted to them by the Federal Chambers. The cantons—and this is the object the friends of Temperance were aiming at—will henceforth be authorised by the revised Constitution to take such special measures as they will think proper, in order to check the evils caused by poisonous liquors.

Russia.—The Russian Minister of Finance has issued a circular to the Inspectors of Excise in the different provinces for the purpose of showing that the New Liquor Law will not, as has been asserted, favour the sale of spirits in retail. The main object of the new law is to place the sale of spirituous liquors upon a fresh basis. This will lead to the closing of 80,000 drinking-places on the 1st of January, the only exception being in favour of the itinerant vendors who attend the large fairs and festivals.

A Moravian missionary writes that a small vessel, in which he and his wife were the only passengers, lately landed on the African Coast 100,000 gallons of rum.

Our countrymen have, by millions of signatures to their petitions to Parliament, and by votes of crowded public meetings, earnestly sought the stoppage of the Sunday liquor traffic. 1,000,116 householders (being one-sixth of the householders of England), have expressed their opinions on the question in writing, and 817,185 were in favour of stopping the sale the whole of Sunday, while only 110,920 were against it, and 72,011 were neutral. This question especially affects working men, a larger proportion of whom are in favour of closing public-houses on Sunday than of any class of society. The Act of 1878, which gave seven-eighths of the people of Ireland the benefits of Sunday closing, has been followed by the most gratifying results, drunkenness having been reduced on that day more than one-half.

EVANGELISTIC NOTES.

MR. CATLIN opens this evening (Thursday) a new mission room in a densely crowded neighbourhood, behind the Clerkenwell House of Detention.

FARNCOMBE, GODALMING.—A mission in Francombe, conducted by Mr. G. A. Wellerd, of the Evangelisation Society, has come to a close. The meetings were well attended, and much blessing has rested on the preaching of the Word.

MISS EMMA PARKER is holding a mission at Staincliffe, near Dewsbury, Yorkshire. During the past few months she has visited, and held successful missions in Brighton, Poplar, Allerton (near Bradford), Kensington, Hastings, Danbury in Essex, and Mirfield in Yorkshire.

PEWSEY.—The mission held in Pewsey Barn by Mr. Oscar Owens, has been very successful as regards numbers. There is nothing to relate of a striking character in the way of conversions, but there were many happy incidents continually cropping up during the mission, proving the power of the Gospel faithfully preached.

HACKNEY.—On Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. C. King concluded a very earnest and helpful Gospel mission at the mission hall in Morning-lane. The meetings throughout have been largely attended, and much blessing has been experienced. In addition to the regular services, a meeting was held for women only, and services for the young. A special feature of the mission was a meeting for young men and lads.

DR. PENTECOST.—His English friends (writes a correspondent of The Freeman) will be glad to know that Rev. George F. Pentecost, of Brooklyn, has opened the Academy of Music in that city for Sunday afternoon services. In previous years these services have been of great use. Young men in large numbers attend them. Dr. Pentecost is a famous bicyclist, but he is a still better preacher. He carries, in either case, the two essentials—weight and motion.

WANDSWORTH.—At a recent meeting of workers at the Howard-street Gospel Mission Hall, Wandsworth-road, a report of the past season's work in the open air was given by the Hon. Superintendent. During five months upwards of sixty meetings have been held to audiences ranging from 50 to 250 people. Many cases of blessing have resulted from the meetings. The Howard-street Hall is too small to accommodate the people who attend the services, and a larger building is needed.

MR. GEORGE CLARKE, Secretary to the Railway Mission, commenced a week's meetings for the railway men of Glasgow, on Saturday, October 10. The meetings were held in Argyll Halls, Duke-street, and were largely attended. Mr. Clarke's addresses were very practical, and as a result many gave clear evidence of a saving change. In Glasgow there are two meetings for railway men held every week—one in the north end of the city, and the other in Rutherglen-road, S.S.—The Young Men's Christian Magazine.

PRESTON.—Rev. T. Cook's mission here, which came to a close lately, has been remarkably successful. Immense congregations have been gathered, and on two or three evenings nearly 200 adults have entered the inquiry-rooms, the entire number of inquiries being very large. Preston, with it's 100,000 inhabitants, is one of those large towns in the North which we are anxious to see thoroughly evangelised, and we trust that the impetus Methodism has now received in Preston will result in a permanent extension of the work of God in the town.—Methodist Times.

CHURCH ARMY EVANGELISTS have commenced Missions at Portsea and Gainsborough. Other missions are about to be commenced at Canterbury, Hornsey, Acton, and other places.

BEXLEY HEATH.—Three Mothers' Meetings are held weekly in this place—Church of England, Congregational, and General Baptist. An invitation was recently given by the Vicar of the parish, Rev. G. Graham, to all the women attending these meetings, to a united tea-meeting at the National school. It was a very happy gathering. Addresses were given by the Vicar, Rev. J. Geddes (Minister of the Congregational Church), Mr. H. D. Wood (representing the General Baptist Church), and Mr. J. Knight, who had recently made a journey to New Zealand.

RATHMINES, DUBLIN.—One of Africa's dusky sons, Rev. Thomas L. Johnson, missionary from the West Coast, has lately visited Dublin, and preached in various churches and other places, exciting great interest wherever he went. Among other places, he held special evangelistic services at Rathmines, under the auspices of the Young Men's Services. Mr. Johnson also delivered several lectures of great interest in reference to slavery, and to "Africa, the Land of his Fathers," representing scenes in his own life, or within his own knowledge, most graphically and completely riveting the attention of his audiences.

NORTHUMBERLAND.—The disclosures in The Pall Mall Gazette have thoroughly awakened a feeling of horror and indignation in the minds of the working-men and their wives at Broomhill Colliery, Northumberland. On Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 24 and 25, Mr. James B. Wookey spoke to the men most powerfully on the subject of the "Foreign Traffic" and "England's Shame," which made a strong impression for good on the minds of the people. Mr. Wookey also preached twice on Sunday to crowded congregations in the Wesleyan Chapel, when some found rest in Christ, and one has decided since, while working in the coal mine.

A BIBLE READING is held every Tuesday, at eleven o'clock, at Mr. Cheyne Brady's Villa, Asquasciati, 2, San Remo.

REV. J. P. CHOWN.—The illness of Rev. J. P. Chown, of Bloomsbury Chapel, has taken a favourable turn, though he is by no means out of immediate danger. He is now suffering from weak action of the heart and a slight attack of erysipelas in the head and face. He is allowed to see no one except his immediate attendants.

DISTRESS IN BRITISH KAFFRARIA.—Rev. John Harper, of King William's Town, South Africa, makes an appeal for temporal relief for the multitude who are suffering from famine in Kaffirland. Help may be sent to Dr. R. Wardlaw Thompson, Foreign Secretary of the London Missionary Society, Bloomfield-street, E.C.

A NIGHT SHELTER for Homeless Men is in contemplation. For £300, 200 men could be sheltered nightly for six months, and for £200 more a very plain breakfast could be given. Further particulars next week. Meanwhile, communications or contributions are requested. J. Jackson, Hon. Secretary (pro tem.), 58, Bousfield-road, Hatcham-park, S.E.

METROPOLITAN TABERNACLE.—On Monday week the annual meeting of the Tabernacle Loan Tract Society was held conjointly with the prayer-meeting. Mr. C. H. Spurgeon presided. The object is the distribution of Mr. Spurgeon's sermons in the form of loan tracts. From the report it appeared that some 4000 houses had been visited weekly, and Mr. Spurgeon's sermons delivered.

DRESS, DRINK, AND DANCING.—Mrs. Jebb (Derby) says that dress, drink, and dancing are the three things which help to ruin girls; and that at present young servants and shop-girls mostly spend Sunday afternoons and evenings walking about with all sorts of questionable acquaintances. To such an extent has this evil practice grown in some towns, that the Sunday may almost be called the devil's day.

A NEW DAILY PRAYER MEETING.—Dear Sir,—We purpose to commence "A Daily Prayer Meeting at 172, Queen's-road, Bayswater (the new premises of the Westbourne-grove Y.M.C.A.), on Monday, Nov. 9. The meeting will commence at twelve and close at or before one. The meeting will be open to both sexes to lead in prayer. We trust this may be a rallying point for Christians of all denominations in this neighbourhood, and those from a distance will be heartily welcomed.—Yours sincerely, W. Mitchell-Carruthers, Inverness-terrace, W Hon. Sec.

Letters to the Editor.

LORD SHAFTESBURY AND RAGGED SCHOOLS.

Sir,—Will you allow me to call he attention of the admirers of the late Lord Shaftesbury, to e desirability of honouring his memory by being pporters, in however small a degree, of that ble institution, "The Ragged School Union," e office of which is No. 13, Exeter Hall, Strand? is Society has many smaller Ragged Schools, in rious parts of the country, more or less dependent on it, and may be called their mother, it is quite adequate to the exhausting demands constantly ing made upon it.

I feel certain no memorial would be more acceptble to the noble worker and friend of the poor d outcast, who has so recently passed away from r midst, than a hearty support of Ragged School ork. Melville Churchill.

CONFESSING JESUS AS LORD.

Dear Sir,—Surely there are some of your aders who would like to protest against the gmatic utterance of "Mercator" in a recent sue. He seems to be unaware that there are any who hold that only God Himself could have one what our Lord Jesus Christ did. These friends, olding that the "emergency" of a lost world as worthy of the interposition of a Deity, believe the superlative meaning of that little word so in ohn iii. 16; therefore, while failing to see in this ct the provision of "a vicarious atonement," they re necessarily as wide asunder as the poles from nitarianism. Their Christ, to be a Saviour to hem, must be Divine. Is it possible that such a resentation of this grand truth, too much lost ight of, is likely to increase infidelity?—Yours ruly, Another Merchant.

Dear Sir,—I thank "Mercator" for his letter your columns recently concerning "Jesus s Lord." It leads me to say a word which much upon my heart about the slovenly way which so many prayers are closed, in hurried and hardly audible syllables, in forgetlness of the truth that these form, or ought to rm, the most important part of the prayer. Such formula as "for Jesus' sake" is now wholly admissible, such an expression as "dear Jesus" painfully irreverent. "Jesus Christ is Lord, to he glory of God the Father;" and the mention f his blessed name ought never to be dissociated rom his Lordship or Messiahship, now that He sits resurrection glory.

Is it too much to say, or at least to suggest, that erhaps much unanswered prayer may be accounted or by the neglect to recognise the true position and laims of our Advocate, when we mention his ame as our only plea? He is not only Saviour, e is Prince. Imagine a subject venturing to peak to an earthly king or queen in this familiar, ip-shod way!

The weariness engendered by the attempt to ollow closely long prayers and vain repetitions, too ften, I fear, hinders real concentration of heart pon the great concluding words—"for Jesus hrist's sake, Amen."—Believe me, yours truly,
A Suppliant.

An error crept into the quotation made by "Mercator" in is article from a note by the Editor of the Oxford edition f the parallel New Testament; it should run: "No attempt made to discriminate," &c.]

THE DEATH OF BELIEVERS.

Dear Sir,—In your issue of Sept. 24, Mr. A. R. unt refers to the report of some remarks I made t the Northfield Conference on this subject. I id not say that there is no case when a believer's eparture is described as "death." I did say that seems as though after our Lord's resurrection a ew set of terms was employed. I said that where "death" was used it seemed to be designedly to all attention to the human aspect of the case—the uffering of martyrs, &c.; and that when looked t from the Divine side, this and similar words eem to be avoided, or qualified by some clause, as "die in the Lord," &c. The case of Stephen is in oint. The Divine side is, "he fell asleep;" the uman side is, "Saul consenting to his death." abitha dying is in contrast to Tabitha raised. utychus was not necessarily a believer. But if r. Hunt will compare, as I have done, every case in which a believer's departure is referred to after Christ rose, he will find, as I did, a wonderful inspiration in the study.

I add a hastily-compiled list of references, which will show the principle. Let them be carefully compared.—Very truly yours,
Arthur T. Pierson.
Philadelphia, Pa, Oct. 17.

References: 2 Tim. i. 10; John xi. 26; Matt. xxvii. 52; Acts ix. 37; Rom. xiv. 8; Rev. xiv. 13; Acts vii. 60; ix. 37; xx. 27; xxi. 23; 1 Cor. xv. 18, 20, 51; 2 Cor. v. 1; Phil. i. 23; 1 Thess. iv. 13, 14, 16; v. 10; 2 Tim. iv. 6, 7; Heb. ii. 14, 15; 2 Pet. i. 14; Rev. xiv. 13.

ON DISESTABLISHMENT.

Dear Sir,—The question of the Disestablishment of the Church of England seems likely to lead the minds of many of God's children to the human rather than the Divine view of the resources of the Church of Christ. That Church, composed of all who love the Lord Jesus Christ in sincerity, is built by our Lord, and the gates of Hades cannot prevail against it: its resources are—"All things are yours, whether the world, or life, or death, or things present, or things to come, all are yours," and as to influence —our Head with whom we are united has all power in heaven or earth. Therefore, his brethren, who are called Church of England need not for one moment be disturbed by the thought that Disestablishment, if it takes place, will weaken the cause of Christ. On the contrary, it may be the means of teaching many the infinite resources of God, and his nearness to his people, and his care for them, and thus be a means of preparing them for a blessing, which should multiply these numbers tenfold.

But there is a still greater danger for some Nonconformist children of God who are rather in the spirit of one who said, "Lord, speak to my brother, that he divide the inheritance with me," and the Lord says to such, "Take heed and beware of covetousness." There is a danger lest some should secretly love the wealth or the earthly position of the Church of England and seek to get some of it. This would be a distinct breach of the Ninth Commandment, and if, in the pursuit of this aim, they are led to appeal to the political passions of men, and seek by their aid to attain their end, it is a proof they have gone far from our Lord's teaching, "My kingdom is not of this world, else would my servants fight." Let them also place themselves in the position of thousands of clergy, and let them ask themselves, would they like an organised attack made on the sources from which their own wants are supplied, and by which much good for others was being done? If they remember the command, "Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself," they will certainly not take one step which would be a source of annoyance, and still less would they employ their energies to diminish the pecuniary help their brethren may receive.

But some Nonconformist brethren may say they think it is wrong in principle for a Church to be allied with the State. That may be true; but that does not prove that they are sent of God, or qualified to set their neighbour's house in order; and still less does it warrant them in being unequally yoked with unbelievers for carrying out their purpose.

Others may say there is much evil doctrine often allowed in the Church of England, and therefore would desire to see its influence weakened. I think, on reflection, they will see that the Apostolic method of stopping false doctrine and wrong practice was very different. It was, by proclaiming in the power of the Holy Ghost, and in the spirit of love, the marvellous privileges of the Church, as united to a risen Christ, and thus strengthening them to put away evil. Now the course adopted by many seems daily to stir up more and more enmity and so to unfit people for the apprehension of spiritual truth, or for any exercise of the powers of the spiritual life. So long as the spirit of opposition between God's children in the Church of England and God's children among Nonconformists exists, both are weakened and hindered in their spiritual life, and, grieving their Lord, lose fellowship with Him, and become like withered branches which men gather and burn.

If men drank more into the spirit of Christ, the Church of England man would say, I am willing to lose all earthly position and pecuniary help, if by doing so I can remove a stumbling-block to my brother. And the Nonconformist would say, I will give no help to any who would in any way do that which would weaken or distress the many thousands of God's children. This would be bringing "the tithes into the storehouse," and would be followed by such a "blessing as there would not be room to receive" it.

It was after Abraham had given up the well-watered plain to Lot, and left himself possibly only a portion of the poorer country, that the Lord said, "Lift up thine eyes; all the land that thou seest, to thee will I give it, to thee and thy seed forever." And when he was so jealous for the honour of God that he would not take a shoe-latchet from the king of Sodom, then he got that promise, "Fear not, I am thy shield and thy exceeding great reward."

"Beloved, let us love one another, for love is of God, and he that dwelleth in love dwelleth in God, and God in him."—Yours for Christ's sake,
Paris, October 24. Radstock.

In the November Sword and Trowel, Mr. Spurgeon says:—"To us the union of Church and State seems to be unscriptural, contrary to the very nature of a spiritual kingdom, and fraught with countless evils. Moreover, it is a manifest injustice towards those who are not members of the favoured Church, and therefore it ought not to be continued. The better a Church is, the stronger is the reason for its being free from the State, from its own side; and the worse it is, the stronger is the reason for the separation, from the State's side. We are not disposed to handle the question with bitterness, and if any harsh words have escaped us in the heat of controversy, it must be remembered that the memories of long years of intolerance, and then of humiliating 'toleration,' are not calculated to promote mildness of expression. Now that our Church friends are feeling the pressure of a coming trial, we cannot say that we regret the impending change, or would delay its coming; but we do wish to have the battle waged with sound argument only, and with due consideration for all the circumstances of difficulty in which many true brethren will unavoidably be placed."

CHRISTIAN WOMEN IN CONFERENCE.

Sir,—For a merely personal explanation I should not venture to ask space in your pages; but may I refer to two things in your report of what I said at the Annual Conference of the Christian Women's Union, which may mislead others?

(a) The system of instruction by correspondence, of which I was there asked to give some account, is not in any way connected with the valuable work Miss Samson described. It is the "Students' Branch," which, four years ago, I had the pleasure of organising in connection with the "Christian Women's Education Union," and which has since been the means of helping nearly a thousand girls, whose schoolroom days are over, to carry on, under definite guidance, the study of languages, literature, history, and, above all, Holy Scripture. Neither pottery-painting, wood engraving, nor lace work, is among the subjects taught in my classes.

(b) The few sentences of my other speech as given in your columns have been interpreted, by some not present, as implying views which are certainly not mine. I was pleading for a more potent Christian influence on higher education, and a wider intellectual range in education avowedly religious. I was pointing out that scientific and historical truth can never be at variance with revealed truth, and should, therefore, be boldly and earnestly sought after by those who hold the faith, and not left to furnish weapons to the adversary.—Yours faithfully, Mary L. G. Petrie, B.A.
Hanover Lodge, Kensington Park, W.

THROAT AND CHEST DISEASES.—There is a Home for the treatment of these complaints in Lower Maize-hill, St. Leonards-on-Sea, under the kind and experienced supervision of Dr. Gambier. The object of the Institution is to supply a Home hospital for the treatment of cases which would be specially benefited by sea air, and is more particularly intended for that large class, the poor clerk, the tradesman's assistant, and the respectable artizan. It is conducted upon total abstinence principles, and is only partly self-supporting, as the average cost of each patient is much more than he contributes. It is in contemplation to extend the usefulness of the Institution by erecting a new and more commodious building on the West-hill, St. Leonards, having a southern aspect and facing the sea. An appeal is made to those who have at heart the welfare of the sick poor to give the help needed to embark upon the more extended enterprise. The secretary is Mr. Herbert Beaumont, 65, Cambridge-road, Hastings.

The Book World.

Forewarned, Forearmed. 3s. 6d. Hodder & Stoughton. Under this title Dr. Thain Davidson has issued a volume of his monthly addresses to young men. They are full of power, and the truth is presented in an attractive and interesting form.

Divine and Moral Songs. By Isaac Watts, D.D. Religious Tract Society. Old Jewels reset. Illustrated suitably and beautifully, the stray etchings are alone worth the price of the volume, not to speak of the full-paged pictures, coloured and otherwise.

Bible Flowers. 1s. 6d. Hodder & Stoughton. A very useful and instructive little book, which will be doubly valuable to lovers of flowers who love their Bibles too. It contains more information than many more pretentious volumes, and is written in a lucid and interesting style.

Your Sundays. By Rev. G. Everard. 2s. 6d. Nisbet & Co. A capital book, containing fifty-two short readings, especially intended for schoolboys. The selection of subjects from Scripture is wise and extensive, and suitable for the family, school, or more public service.

Blessings for the Little Ones. By the Author of "Walking with Jesus." Religious Tract Society. Some very practical and helpful stories on the beatitudes, for the younger children. Illustrations, paper, type, and finish, make the little book a perfect luxury. It is sure to be popular.

Kate, a Daughter of the People, and other Stories. Mr. Elliot Stock. A rather unique series of character sketches from lowly lives, and of noble sacrifice for the good of others. There is a quaint and vivid weirdness about them which reminds the reader of Charlotte Brontë's style of writing.

Heavenly Relationships. By Mary E. Beck. Nisbet & Co. 1s. 6d. These pages have evidently been written out of a full heart. They breathe certainty, charity, rest. They do not contain an argumentative or a dogmatic line; but present Jesus so really to us, that we know the author enjoys the "Heavenly Relationship" of his peace in very full measure.

When I was a Child. 3s. 6d. T. Fisher Unwin. As a faithful record of the childhood of a little girl forty years ago, left behind with unsympathising relatives while her parents spend some years in China, it has many points of interest. But Christian parents, we judge, would scarcely choose the detailed scrapes, frights, and fancies of a spoilt child, as suitable reading for their own young folks.

Ministers' Wives. By Mrs. James Martin. 3s. 6d. Hodder & Stoughton. A very clever and entertaining book, introducing various types of ministerial helpmeets, which are characterised by such adjectives as "the active," "the quiet," "the financing," "the aggrieved," "the cultured minister's wife." It contains sound advice and warning to which ministers and their partners may well take heed.

Eugene Bersier's Sermons (Second Series). R. D. Dickinson. This volume of twenty-seven select sermons, by a valued minister of the French Evangelical Church, should be welcomed by all in England who love the pure Gospel. The discourses have been well translated, and, making due allowance for the peculiar circumstances of Evangelical truth in France, contain much to profit general readers. M. Bersier's style is hortatory rather than dogmatic.

Bible Heathens; or, Church and World in Scripture Times. By C. M. Grant. Nisbet & Co. 2s. 6d. Some very instructive and original thoughts appear in these fifteen discourses upon some Scripture celebrities. Multitudes of lessons hover around events and characters, and they are more easily remembered, as a rule, than when drawn from isolated texts. This volume dispenses some very precious crumbs to those who are anxious to feed upon the Word.

The Boys' Own Annual, and The Girl' Own Annual. 8s. each. Religious Tract Society. These are two volumes which thousands of young eyes are eagerly on the lookout for, and never yet have we known either of them to fail in providing a very feast of good things. The first-named issue for the past year, is as usual teeming with articles of history, travel, adventure, and amusement, with a liberal supply of illustrations. "Great Shipwrecks of the World," is possessed of a mournful interest. We are glad to find in the second volume much that is useful and instructive for young women as well as entertaining stories for their juniors. In style and variety this is in no way behind its companion.

Michael's Treasures; or, Choice Silver. By Emma Marshall. Nisbet & Co. 3s. 6d. Michael's "Treasures" are a little child washed to his feet by the waves, a brave heart, and trust in God. How he loses one but retains the others, how he manfully fights the battle of life, and how he at last wins, and is made happy, we must leave our readers to find out for themselves. The story is very well written.

That Aggravating Schoolgirl. Nisbet & Co. 3s. 6d. This story gives a very clever sketch of schoolgirl life, and shows the marvellous effect of patient kindness upon an impetuous and rebelliously inclined young maiden. The way in which two diametrically opposite spirits become united is very ingeniously brought about, while the ready wit and genuine humour of the narrative help to make a very acceptable volume.

Glimpses of the Higher Life: Poems and Hymns, illustrative of Christian Truth and Life. By Henry Whamond. John McQueen, Galashiels. A volume of verse which, while it can in no way be called poetry, is full of the spirit of piety and peace. Mr. Whamond's industry in writing this large book of verse, in addition to carrying on his missionary labours, is almost formidable; yet such "glimpses" are rest in the midst of work.

Methodism in the Light of the Early Church: Fernley Lecture for 1885. By Rev. W. F. Slater, M.A. Wesleyan Methodist Book Room. 1s. 6d. Here we get a faithful picture of the position of the Methodist Church in the Christian world, and the author carefully endeavours to show its exact relation to the primitive Church, as well as to the universal Church of Christ. The chapter on "Order and Progress" has the true Methodist ring about it, and clearly shows what Methodism was and is.

Katie, an Edinburgh Lassie. By Robina F. Hardy. Messrs. Oliphant & Co. A delightful Scotch story of a rough little gutter girl, taken into the service of two maiden ladies, where she developed into a good and useful woman. There are no puppets in this story, every character is a real individual, and the lessons taught are good. Archie, and other Stories, is another book from the same author and publisher. It is of an exceptionally high tone, and will be read and enjoyed with equal delight by young and old.

A spirited election ballad, entitled "Boycotting the Blackguards," has been published by Mr. John Kensit, 10, Paternoster-row. 1d. It breathes forth in every stanza a holy indignation against every member of the "Minatour" tribe who plan and effect the ruin of the innocent. In the same pamphlet there are equally vigorous verses embodying Mr. A. S. Dyer's descriptions of the "European Slave Trade," and the verdict of the late Mansion House Committee with respect to Mr. Stead's revelations. These rough and ready, but well-directed rhymes, will do good service if scattered among the constituencies.

The Life of Lives; or, The Story of Jesus of Nazareth in its earliest form. By Rev. W. S. Lewis. Religious Tract Society. 2s. 6d. Under this rather quaint title, Mr. Lewis gives us a thoughtful monograph on the Gospel according to St. Matthew, carefully preserving the plan, order, and style of the Evangelist; he sets before us in dignified language the majestic king of the Jews, so human yet so Divine. Without dwelling much on the outward circumstances of our Lord's life, the mind of Christ is exhibited and the motives of his words and deeds reverently unfolded. The writer's style is not unlike that of Dr. Culross. This, we think, will be enough to recommend it to many readers.

Congregational Church Polity. By Rev. R. W. Dale. 2s.—Tracts on Church Principles. Nos. 1—6.—By Eustace Conder. 1d. each. Hodder & Stoughton.

Dr. Dale's manual is written with his usual force and perspicacity, and with a most valuable and logical analysis of Scriptural principles of Church government. These will be useful to others besides Congregationalists, even though they differ from the author in some of the applications of them. The Tracts by Dr. Conder are on "Schism," "Church Membership," "Baptism," "The Church," "Authority to Preach," and the "Lord's Supper." They are not written in a spirit of controversy but of exposition, and will be found instructive for all those who desire to study both sides of the matters on which they treat. The graceful and courteous tone of the writing adds much to their interest. In the one on the Lord's Supper we are surprised that Dr. Conder quotes the words, "Ye do shew the Lord's death," and leaves out "until He come." Neither does he at all include this among the purposes of the Lord's Supper. That on Baptism seems to us far from satisfactory.

We have not a few gifted living poets, but it is well for us not to forget the sweet singers of a bygone time whose choice thoughts charmed and instructed our forefathers. We are glad that the simple homely lays of Wordsworth, and the quaint but deeply spiritual stanzas of George Herbert, are, by publishing enterprise, being kept before the public view. Messrs. Cassell & Co. have sent us the second volume of Wordsworth's Poems (1s.), which forms one of the excellent "Miniature Library of the Poets." Mr. Walter Scott has published an edition of George Herbert's poems as one of the series of "Canterbury Poets."

Saint Chrysostom: His Life and Times, by Rev. R. Wheler Bush (Religious Tract Society. 5s.), is no ordinary book. Within the compass of 344 pages the author sets before us not only the life of a distinguished Christian, but the condition of Eastern Christianity during that critical period, the fourth century. Though this history naturally centres round Chrysostom, his friends and foes are by no means meagrely sketched, and we are given lifelike pictures of the two centres of his activity, Antioch and Constantinople. To preachers and Christian writers we specially commend the chapter on Chrysostom's Theology.

The King's Windows. By the late Rev. Paxton Hood. 6s. Religious Tract Society. "The universe is full of windows, through which a thoughtful mind may look out and see its Author, the Great King, pass by." This sentence may be taken as the keynote of the beautiful volume before us, whose revision for the press was the last work of its gifted author, only completed a few days before he was called higher to see "the King in his beauty." The windows dealt with comprise wind and cloud, mountain, forest, flowers, and others of the wonderful works of God in nature. The book is handsomely bound and profusely illustrated, forming an admirable souvenir of this brother beloved of many.

"Heart Cries and Heavenly Answers." Floral sprays and double texts (12 cards, 6d.). "Palms of Victory." Bible landscapes and palm-trees, with texts on Triumph (12 in packet, 6d.). "Views and Verses for my Sunday Scholars." Tinted cards, pale blue, with gold borders (48 in packet, 6d.). "Solomon's Gold." Texts from the Book of Proverbs, on golden cards, with flowers (36 full-size cards, 6d.). Misch & Stock, 55, Jewin-street, E.C. All these are original, or selected by our friend and contributor, Mr. William Luff. We heartily commend them for their poetic fervour, their Scripture truth, their artistic beauty, and their general suitability for the purposes for which they are designed.

The Life of our Saviour Jesus Christ. By Mrs. S. Watson. 5s. Religious Tract Society. To add one more Life of Jesus Christ to the scores in circulation is a bold venture, but we think Mrs. Watson will not lack a circle of readers. Her object is to give Sunday-school teachers and elder scholars a connected account of our Saviour's life and ministry. "Faithful narration, not theological exposition" is her aim, and to this she strictly adheres. Still it is easy to see that she has studied learned works, and hallowed her labours with prayer. The illustrations, though designedly "subordinate to the text," are a valuable feature of the work. Some of the views are to us quite new, while the closing scenes of our Lord's life are selected from George Tinworth's justly-admired bas-reliefs. A clear map of Palestine, by Lieut. Conder, is annexed.

What saith the Scripture? An Exposition and Analysis of the Pentateuch and earlier Historical Books of the Old Testament. By J. Anderson, M.D. Hodder & Stoughton. "The design of this book is to supply the Bible student with a guide and help to the consecutive study of the Word of God as a whole." That this would be done in spirit of reverence for the Word of God, none who know Dr. Anderson's writings could doubt. It is refreshing, in this age of rationalism, to meet with so distinct a recognition of the inspiration of Holy Scripture as the following: "The words themselves, which record the facts, describe the narratives, and enunciate the truths, are all and equally inspired. That is, that the words of inspired Scripture (the original manuscripts, not translations or versions) are the words of the Lord God Himself; that the men who were inspired by the Spirit of God to write the Scriptures were not left to choose their own words promiscuously, but that whilst the individuality of each writer was preserved, the words themselves, with their various inflections, as well as the subject-matter, were given to them by direct inspiration from God. In confirmation whereof consult the following passages of Scripture: 2 Pet. i. 21 (R.V.); Rom. xv. 4; 1 Cor. ii. 13; Luke i. 07; 2 Sam. xxiii. 2; Exod. iv. 12; Jer. vii. 1." We feel confident that this work of Dr. Anderson's will be helpful and profitable to many.

A Rabbinical Commentary on Genesis. By . I. Hershon. Hodder & Stoughton. If anyone esires to know how sadly Rabbinical Commentaries n Scripture pervert the plain and simple meaning the Word of God, and how truly they may be escribed in the pointed language of the Apostle aul as "profane and old wives' fables," let him ead this Commentary on Genesis. It is almost nusing, if it be right to be amused with what is diculous in Scripture exposition. But here is a pecimen: "A woman in anger can be pacified less asily than a man, because she is of bone (Gen. ii. 2); you may all day long pour water on a bone and will not melt; but pour water on earth, and in a ttle while it softens." Yet with much that is bsurd we find at times what is interesting in its earing on Christian truth; for example, on Gen. i. 3, Let there be light," we read: "This shows us at after the Captivity (the Jews consider the abylonish captivity still to exist) God will en- ghten us and send us the Messiah, respecting hom it is said, 'Arise, shine, for thy light is ome.'"

ANNUAL VOLUMES.

As usual, a most attractive parcel comes from essrs. Partridge & Co., who cater so success- lly for all classes of the community in the matter home literature. The British Workman (1s. 6d.), ith its striking full-page pictures and telling nar- tives, is a fit visitor to the middle-class homes of ngland. The Band of Hope Review (1s.) has a e portrait of Bishop Temple as its frontispiece; continues to do splendid service in promoting the emperance cause among the young. The Family riend (2s. 6d.), Friendly Visitor (2s. 6d.), Child- n's Friend (2s. 6d.), and Infants' Magazine s. 6d.), are all gorgeously bound, while the con- nts are so good and so well known as to need no mmendation.

Our Darlings (3s., Shaw & Co.), edited by our usy friend Dr. Barnardo, forms a rich storehouse pretty pictures, short stories, prize puzzles, and ts of other things fitted to charm and improve the uthful mind.

The volumes of the minor serials of The Reli- ous Tract Society denote maintained reputa- on and increasing interest. Of these the Tract agazine (2s. cloth) deserves an extra notice. The ew series is a great improvement in shape. and ofusely illustrated, while its literary contents are a superior order. These consist of suggestive ible-readings, Travels in Norway, Good Ballads, ories from Real Life, with much else that is good d useful. The Child's Companion, with its gor- eous cover, handsome frontispiece, and gilt edges, akes a splendid halfcrown's worth. The Cottager d Artisan is a worthy compeer of the "British orkman," and can hardly be surpassed, we should ink, in the excellence and variety of its illustra- ons.

MUSIC.

Messrs. Stanley, Lucas, Weber & Co., 84, New ond-street, W., send us the following selections om their new publications:—Sunday Songs for hildren. By E. F. Reinhault. 2s. and 4s. hese pieces are most suitably selected and prettily ranged, being within the capacity of children to ay and to sing. Both music and words are very eet. Holy Thoughts in Song. By Mrs. Moun- y Bartholomew. 4s. This is a very welcome llection of twelve short sacred songs. The music selected from eminent composers, and the words e equal in merit. To Christian singers and players is quarto volume will be a great boon, the accom- niments, in many cases, making excellent volun- ries. By the Rivers of Babylon. 3s. A sacred nthem, by S. W. Waley, from Psalm xxxvii., d The Lord is My Shepherd (3s.), by same mposer, both set to good classical music, which ll be appreciated by advanced students. Golden rain. 3s. Words by Mrs. Gordon, music by C. A. acirone. A charming song, recognising the odness of Him whose "love Divine fills our orehouses;" and reminding us of the "hundred- ld more" in the life to come, which is the reward faithful service here. God Bless the Little hildren. 3s. Words by J. P. Hopps, music by Trousselle. Sunday-school anniversaries are ways coming round. Here is a splendid feature r a programme. The music is easy and flowing, d strikingly beautiful. "Save Me, O God!" . Solo, with pianoforte and orchestral accom- niment by A. Randegger. A vigorous and mpathetic arrangement of the words of the almist. The grandeur and solemnity of the ayer are in no degree lost in the musical rendering.

A sketch of the late Earl of Shaftesbury as a philanthropist and statesman. with an account of his last days and funeral, and a splendid photographic portrait, is issued by Robt. Banks, Racquet-court, Fleet-street. 1s.

The Sunday School Teachers' Pocket Book, with Diary, Register, &c, for 1886 (Sunday School Union) is full of useful information which all teachers should possess. A comprehensive table forms the forty-sixth annual series of lessons. The constitution and working of the Sunday School Union are also described.

The Sunday School Teachers' Scrap Book, and Library Index (Sunday School Union) is designed for the convenience of teachers, ministers, and students, for the preservation of notes and cuttings, and the notification of books relating to subjects of study. To the methodical teacher and student it will be found a useful help.

When the Storm Rages Loud. By John Robertson. 6d. Morgan & Scott. This very effective evangelistic anthem is dedicated to the Carrubber's Close Mission, Edinburgh. The music. which is of no mean order, is grandly appropriate to the words, the roar of the tempest, the roll of the billows, followed by the quiet rest secured in Christ, being each vividly described. It should rank well amongst glees and sacred songs.

We have also received the following books:—

Messrs. Cassell & Co., Limited.
Moses and Geology. By Dr. Kinns. New Edition. 6s

Mr. Thomas C. Jack, 45, Ludgate-hill.
Matthew Henry's Exposition of the New Testament. Vol. 1.

Messrs. S. W. Partridge & Co.
By a Hair's Breadth, and other stories. 2s.
Her Saddest Blessing. By Jennie Chappell. 3s. 6d.

Messrs. Jarrold & Sons.
The Mother's Crown Jewels. 2s. 6s.
The Art of Thriving. 2s. 6d.
The Squire's Hat, and other stories. 1s. 6d.

Messrs. Nisbet & Co.
Daisy of Old Meadow. By Agnes Giberne. 2s.
Songs of Perseverance. 1s.
Commentary on the Book of Judges; Studies in the CL. Psalms. By Rev. A. R. Fausset.

Messrs. J. F. Shaw & Co.
A Tangled Web. By Emily S. Holt. 5s.
Her Husband's Home. By E. Everett-Green. 5s.
Five Minutes too Late. By Emily Brodie. 3s. 6d.
Afloat. By Mrs. Stanley Leathes. 3s. 6d.
The River Waif. By Constance Cross. 3s 6d.
Sent to Coventry. By M. L. Ridley. 3s. 6d.
On the Cliff. By Catherine Shaw. 3s. 6d.
Worth the Winning. By Emma E. Hornibrook. 3s. 6d.
Us Three. By E. A. B. D. 2s. 6d.
Margaret Casson's Resolve. By E. C. Kenyon. 2s. 6d.
David Elliot. By E. C. Irvine. 2s. 6d
That Boy Tom; East and West; The Secret of the Forest. 1s 6d each
Lost Maggie: Oughts and Crosses. 1s. each.
Our Darlings' Annual Volume. 3s.
Something for Sunday; Mother's and Mine. 1s. each.

Messrs. Funk & Wagnalls.
Pastor's Hand Book. 3s.

Messrs. W. B. Horner & Son.
Conversations on "Bethesda" Family Matters. By Edward K. Groves.

Notices.

Katie and Mabel.—Mrs. Ginever's Orphanage, in your own neighbourhood.

Communications Received with Thanks.—L L.R W.H R. W.E. F.J. S.G.P. R.C. C.A. H.J.A. S.G.S. R.M. J.T.W. P.H.G. J.M. J.A.S. C.M. A.B.V. E A.C. E.J B. H.W.G. D.W. L.B. S.W. C.B. J.B. C.I. M.E.P. W.J.C. E.E. J.M.S. E.C.D. W.H.W. E.C. M.L.G.P. L.F. D.H.L. J.S.W. C.H. W.W. E.S.S. E.F. G.K. H.W. W.G. H O.A. V.L.T. A.C.McL. E S.E. N A.S. W.H. J.N. P.G. R.T.S. J.K. M.C.F. W.T. M.S. I M. T P.R. W.P.P. E.M.M. W.F. Old Magistrate. J.F. J.E.C. A.T.P. R.D.F. E.M.F. G.H. H.H.B. J.F.G. R.B. Du P. de la H. W.C.D. J.W. A.E.H. W.T. M R. E.H. C.H. F.A.H. J.K. J.E.T. J.T. L.B.B. E.V.I S G L. E.P.T. R P. E.D. A.R. E.G. E.W. J.J. T.G. R L T M L. J.T A. W.J. W.O.M. I O H.G.G. J A. J.O. W.McG. W.C. A L. G.A. E.B. H.H. K.G.

Applicants for Tracts.—W. S. Michell, care of Rev. E. E. Gill, Mullion Vicarage, Cury Cross-lane, R.S.O., Cornwall; B. Bryant, 27, Windsor-place, Cardiff; Mrs. Wood, 83, Edgware-road, W.; A. Ashford, Badingham, Wickham Market; Miss Elliott, Blennerville, Tralee, co Kerry, Ireland; R. Chambers, 52, Linton-street, Edgware-road, N.W.; J Turner, 87, Raymouth-road, Rotherhithe, S E.; T. P. Roseveare, Camelford; Miss E Nanjulian, tract distributor and district visitor, Camelford; H Wilson, 29, Naburn-street, Glasgow; J. P. Squire, 2, Adelaide terrace, New Benwell, Newcastle-on-Tyne; Mrs. F. Radcliffe, Andreas Village, Isle of Man; Miss Smith, 54, Cumberland-market, N.W.; J. Bosworth, Great Eastern, near Caldecot, Leicestershire; Miss Hadley, 60, Gifford-street, Kingsland-road; F. Girling, care of Mrs. Vesey, 22, Wellington-street, Newington-causeway, S.E.; A. Tatchell, Kingston, Wareham, Dorset; Rev. G. Harris, 17, Upper Alma-street, Newport (Mon); T. Guest, Woodsetton, near Dudley, Staffordshire.

[As it is found that infidels and others send tracts to the persons whose names are inserted here, it is most important that all books and papers received should be carefully read before being given away.]

PARIS CITY MISSION.—A meeting in French, organised by the Committee of the Comité auxiliaire d'Evangélisation de Paris, in honour of the memory of the late Lord Shaftesbury (who was president of the society), was held on Monday, Oct. 26, at the Chapelle Malesherbes, 4, Rue Roquepine. Pastor Dhombre, Mons. E. Reveillaud, L. Soutter, and others spoke, dwelling on the devotion and Christian catholicity of the deceased Earl.

CONTINENTAL AND FOREIGN NOTES.

BUILDING FOR THE FUTURE.—Last year nearly 1000 school-houses were erected in Dakota.

THE FISK JUBILEE SINGERS are about setting out on their fifteenth annual tour in the United States.

BOSTON, U S.—A service was held by our Y.M.C.A., in memory of the late Earl of Shaftesbury. Rev. Frank White and Mr. J. H. Lydall, both of London, were among the speakers.

AMERICAN MINISTER TO LIBERIA.—President Cleveland has appointed as Minister to Liberia Rev. Moses A. Hopkins, born a Virginia slave, a graduate of Lincoln University and Auburn Theological Seminary.

PURSUED BY CONSCIENCE.—A man who, eight years ago, forged notes amounting to 7000 dollars on New York merchants and fled to Canada, and has not since been heard of, lately gave himself up to the Chicago police, unable longer to bear the reproach of conscience.

INDIA.—Rev. P. M. Rudra, of North India, says, as the result of a tour in South India: "From what I have both seen and heard, the prospects of Christianity in South India are so encouraging as to lead me to hope that in no very distant time the whole country will be brought to the feet of Christ."

"WHERE THERE'S A WILL THERE'S A WAY."—The chief of police of Newburyport, Mass., told the mayor of that city that it was impossible to get evidence to convict for violation of the Sunday law. Thereupon his honour went himself with two policemen; in about three minutes he obtained the necessary evidence, and then raided two saloons.

MODEL LEGISLATION.—South Carolina prohibits divorce absolutely. It prohibits the sale of liquor in the rural districts, allows it in incorporated towns with the privilege of local option, of which about half the towns avail themselves. It forbids the running of all freight trains and of all passenger trains except such as carry the United States mail on Sunday. It classes duelling with murder, and disfranchises the lottery-ticket dealer.

THE EDICT OF NANTES.—Services in commemoration of the bi-centenary of the Revocation of the Edict of Nantes have been very generally held throughout France. Useless recrimination against the persecutors of the Church have been avoided, but meditations on the Word of God, and declarations of their faith have been given, as well as exhortations of praise to God, the King of kings, to whom alone belong the kingdom and the power. Where the persecutors were referred to, the real guilt was considered to rest upon the Catholic clergy, insatiable in their hatred, more than upon Louis XIV., Madame de Maintenon, or Père Lachaise.

THE OPIUM TRADE.—We do not share the enthusiasm of the Anti-opium party over the settlement of the long pending controversy with China. The utmost that can be said is that the Chinese have been allowed to levy a higher duty on opium than heretofore, and that for the first time their right to impose this duty has been conceded. On the other hand the settlement is a virtual surrender on the part of China to the inevitable. The cultivation of the poppy has spread so widely throughout the empire, and the use of opium has become so universal, that no further effort will be made to stay the plague. The awful work has been but too well done. The blight has lighted upon the teeming empire to stay. England and India will reap the awful harvest which they have been sowing, and for the thousandth time the nations will be made to see that God is not mocked.—Indian Witness.

CHILD MARRIAGE IN INDIA.—Mr. Justice Pinhey, of the Bombay High Court, has rendered a decision in the case of a husband claiming the possession of a wife whom he had married when a mere child, which is of the utmost importance. The child wife did not like the man to whom she had been married, and persistently refused to own him as her husband. She is now twenty-one, and having had the courage to go into court to defend her rights, has been declared, not free exactly, but at the same time not bound. Had she been a Christian we fear she would not have fared so well, but the decision which she has secured in her favour will prove a shelter to thousands of Christian maidens in all parts of the empire. It is a great point gained when the law of the land protects a young woman from a man whom she never really married; the next step to take is to declare the so-called marriage null and void, and thus not only protect the maiden, but make her free.—Indian Witness.

Notes on Daily Readings.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 5.—GEN. XXI.

IN striking contrast to Abraham's untruthful equivocation, related in the last chapter, we have here presented to us God's faithfulness to his word—"And the Lord visited Sarah as He had said, and the Lord did unto Sarah as He had spoken."

3.—"And Abraham called the name of his son, . . . Isaac."—The name for the promised son had been selected by God in connection with Abraham's laughing (xvii. 17—19), to indicate the nature of his birth and existence. For, as his laughing sprang from the contrast between the idea and the reality, so, through a miracle of grace, the birth of Isaac gave effect to this contrast between the promise of God on the one hand, and the incapacity of Abraham on the other; and through this name, Isaac was designated as the fruit of omnipotent grace, working against and above the forces of nature."—Keil.

9.—"And Sarah saw the son of Hagar the Egyptian. . . . mocking."—"The enmity which we here see on the part of Ishmael is much what we should be led to expect from chap. iii. 15. It is the enmity between the two seeds: each had its laugh, but how different are they!—the one the laugh of happiness, the laugh that is from God, the other the laugh of the flesh, the sneer and mockery that has nothing to do with happiness but with misery. It is the aversion of nature to grace, unwilling to be stript of what it thinks is right, the emnity of the flesh to that which is of the Spirit." —C. Hargrove.

32.—"Thus they made a covenant at Beersheba."—This covenant between Abraham and Abimelech, coming as it does immediately after the expulsion of the bondwoman and her son from Abraham's house owing to the birth of Isaac, points mystically to the Gentile dispensation. The covenant too was made at, and had relation to, a well. But Hagar and her son were all but dying of thirst while close to a well, which they only saw when "God opened her eyes." So "when Israel shall turn to the Lord the vail shall be taken away."

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 6.—GEN. XXII.

The key to understand this chapter aright is contained in the words, "We are become partakers of Christ if we hold fast the beginning of our confidence firm unto the end" (Heb. iii. 14, R.V.). The beginning of Abraham's confidence was shown in his trusting God, who "quickeneth the dead," to make good his promise, in spite of "his own body, own dead," and "the deadness of Sarah's womb." In thus relying upon God to bring life out of death he was not disappointed, as the last chapter shows; but now arises the question, will he "hold fast the beginning of this confidence steadfast to the end"? and to test this God tries him by requiring that his son, "of whom it was said, In Isaac shall thy seed be called," should be put to death, and Abraham's faith, so tested, triumphed under the trial, "accounting that God was able to raise him up even from the dead: from whence also he received him in a figure."

14.—"Abraham called the name of that place Jehovah-jireh."—There is considerable difference of opinion as to the exact meaning of the saying connected with this name; but, on the whole, the most satisfactory rendering seems to be that of the LXX.: "In the mount the Lord shall be seen." The Vulgate, Syriac, and Samaritan render it, "In the mount the Lord will see or provide," which is much the same in meaning.

17.—"As the stars of the heaven, and as the sand which is upon the sea shore."—The two spheres of heaven and earth, from which are taken these two illustrations of the countless seed of Abraham, seem to point to the two seeds—the spiritual or heavenly, and the carnal or earthly; both of which are "in the dispensation of the fulness of times" to be gathered under the one Head, Christ, "both things which are in heaven and which are on earth, even in Him" (Eph. i. 10).

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 7.—GEN. XXIII.

1.—"Sarah was a hundred and seven and twenty years old."—Sarah is the only woman whose age is mentioned in the Scriptures, because as the mother of the promised seed, she became the mother of all believers (1 Pet. iii. 6)."—Keil.

2.—"And Sarah died."—"These all died in faith, not having received the promises, but having seen them afar off, and were persuaded of them, and embraced them, and confessed that they were strangers and pilgrims on the earth" (Heb. xi. 13). These words are peculiarly applicable to the death of Sarah, seeing that "Abraham stood up from before his dead, and spake unto the sons of Heth, saying, I am a stranger and a sojourner with you: give me a possession of a burying-place."

16.—"Four hundred shekels of silver."—The price Abraham gave for the land of Machpelah is stated, both in Keil's and the "Speaker's Commentary," to have been about fifty guineas, which Keil says was "a very considerable amount for that time."

"The same overcoming faith, when Isaac was demanded, we trace in the very next scene, the burial of Sarah. This was the same faith, the faith of a dead and risen man: the faith which had already received Isaac, and offered Isaac, now buries Sarah. Abraham believed in resurrection, and in God as the God of resurrection. The cave of Machpelah tells us this. 'Earth to earth, ashes to ashes, dust to dust, in sure and certain hope,' was the language of Abraham's heart there. His purchase of that place, with all his care to make it his own, to have it as his possession, while beyond it he cared not for a single acre of the whole land, tells us of his faith in resurrection. The handful of sacred dust, as he knew, was to be gathered again. Death itself was eyed in like victory of faith, as had already been eyed the fire, the wood, and the beloved victim on the altar."—J. G. B.

SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 8.—GEN. XXIV.

1.—"Abraham was old."—"He was 137 at the death of Sarah. Isaac was then thirty-seven; and when he married Rebekah he was forty (xxv. 20). Abraham, therefore, must have been in his 140th year at this time, and he lived thirty-five years after it (xxv. 7)."—Speaker's Commentary. "What first attracts our attention here is the twofold anxiety of Abraham that Isaac should not marry a Canaanite, and that he should not be led back to Mesopotamia, the abode of his family, by marriage with a countrywoman. Both rest upon the same foundation, Abraham's faith in the promise. Seeing the invisible as though it were already visible, he endeavours to prevent every mixture of the chosen and rejected races, from which at a future time unnatural relations would inevitably result. In the same way we may explain his prohibition to take Isaac back to Mesopotamia. He will not leave the post which God had assigned to him, and to his race. Again we recognise Abraham's faith in his words to his servant: 'The God which spake unto me, and sware unto me, saying, Unto thy seed will I give this land; He shall send his angel before thee.' He is firmly convinced that he and his race are chosen; and to this consciousness we may attribute his unshaken faith in God's special providence in a matter so closely connected with this election."—Hengstenberg. The mystical teaching of this chapter has often been pointed out. Isaac, the promised seed, represents the Lord Jesus; Rebecca his bride, who is allured to leave her father's house and cross the desert under the guidance of Abraham's servant, is a type of the Church of Christ; and the servant who tells her about Isaac and guides her in safety across the desert is a type of the Holy Spirit, who takes of the things of Christ and shows them to his people.

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 9.—GEN. XXV.

1.—"Then again Abraham took a wife."—"In the opening of this chapter, Abraham's second marriage is set before us, an event not without its interest to the spiritual mind, when viewed in connection with what we have been considering in the previous chapter. With the light furnished by the prophetic Scriptures of the New Testament, we understand that after the completion and taking up of the elect bride of Christ, the seed of Abraham will again come into notice. Thus, after the marriage of Isaac, the Holy Ghost takes up the history of Abraham's seed by a new marriage, together with other points in his history, and that of his seed according to the flesh."—C. H. M.

5.—"And Abraham gave all that he had unto Isaac."—Compare with this, John iii. 35, "The Father loveth the Son, and hath given all things into his hand." Compare, also, 1 Cor. iii. 21, "all things are yours . . . . and ye are Christ's, and Christ is God's."

21.—"And Isaac entreated the Lord for his wife, because she was barren."—"This barrenness lasted twenty years (ver. 26). Another instance of the delay in the fulfilment of God's promises, and of the trial of the faith of those for whom the greatest blessings are reserved."

27.—"Jacob was a plain man."—R.V. in margin, "a quiet or harmless man." "The Speaker's Commentary" renders it "an upright man," and explains it to mean "a man of steady, domestic, moral habits."

34.—"Thus Esau despised his birthright."—Esau is called in Heb. xii. 16, "a profane person," which Delitzsch explains, "low-minded, utterly lost to a sense of higher things," and of the birthright he says it involved "a double portion of the inheritance of his father, and, what to the mind of faith was the most precious privilege of all, the continuation of that patriarchal line in which were enshrined the promises."

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 10.—GEN. XXVI.

"In this chapter Isaac replaces Abraham as heir upon the earth. It is a new revelation, when Isaac is himself in a strange land, like the one made to Abraham at the first; only that Isaac was already in connection with the calling of God. It was a fresh calling under different circumstances; the Lord appearing to him anew not to journey to a land, but to dwell where He should show him, and not to seek natural resources (Egypt). . . . . He fails, like Abraham, and yet more as to energy. He denies his wife as Abraham had done, and he leaves in the hand of the enemy the wells which Abraham had dug; he had failed in faith in God before Abimelech, and though God had said to him "Dwell in this land," he has to recede before the will of Abimelech, then driven from well to well, and has room only where the Philistine has room. In Beersheba he meets with God where he had pitched his tent where Abraham had set his bounds with Abimelech when Isaac was born. There the Lord appeared and blessed Isaac."—J. N. D.

"The chapter closes with the account of Esau's wilful marriage with two of the daughters of the land, Hittites of the cursed race (x. 15). It brought grief of mind to his parents, but it was only what was to be expected of him: a profane one and a wilful one are nearly related."—C. Hargrove.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 11.—GEN. XXVII.

This chapter reveals a sad picture of deceit and falsehood on the part of Rebekah and Jacob; a scheming on their part to obtain old Isaac's dying blessing, in which they succeed. But Jacob suffers afterwards for his part of the deception. Looking, however, above the human actors and their imperfections, we see Divine mysteries foreshadowed. Jacob clothed in the garments of his elder brother receives the blessing intended for that brother. Wonderful type of the believer's acceptance before God, clothed in the righteousness of Him who is not ashamed to call his people brethren. The very language of Jacob, which in his lips seems far from justifiable, becomes, when mystically viewed, profoundly significant. "How is it that thou has found it so quickly, my son? Because the Lord thy God brought it to me."

Whilst we deplore the deceit practised on old Isaac, it should not be forgotten that God was permitting evil in his wife and son to thwart what was even more evil in him—an opposition to God's purpose that "the elder should serve the younger." His purpose to bless Esau is the cause of his being deceived, but "Isaac, foiled in his purpose, at once and without hesitation confirms the blessing upon the head of Jacob—'I have blessed him, and he shall be blessed;' nor do Esau's cries for a moment change this deep conviction. He 'trembles,' indeed, for the struggle of his own with God's will moves him exceedingly, but the blessing is fixed." —A. Jukes.

The typical teaching conveyed by the history of Jacob and Esau is very instructive. Just as Isaac, the promised seed, typifies Christ and his Church (Gal. iv. 28), as distinguished from Ishmael, the carnal seed of Abraham or Israel after the flesh, so Jacob typifies the elect people of God (Rom. ix. 11)—those taught and led by the Spirit of God—as distinguished from Esau the type of the professing Church. Hence, in Heb. xii. 16, Esau selling his birthright for a mess of pottage is used as a warning to the Christian professor. It is interesting, moreover, to know that Edom, the land of Esau, is regarded by the Jews as typifying Rome, which, it cannot be denied, is the headquarters of the professing, as opposed to the real, Church of Christ.

THE AUSTRALIAN ABORIGINES.—There are few more interesting missions than that to the Aborigines of Australia. The reports from the Maloga Aboriginal Mission Station, Murray River, N. S. W., conducted by Mr. D. Matthews, are such as to fill the heart with thankfulness to God. The annual statement recently received tells us of the difficulties as well as the triumphs of the work. Often there is want of food, and trial of faith through shortness of money; but the true light is shining in the midst of the people, and even their trials are sanctified to them. The lives of many, and the triumphant death-beds of others, tell of the reality of the work that has been done.

[For Forthcoming Meetings, Donation List, &c., see p. vii.]

NOW READY. WEEKLY, ONE HALFPENNY. MONTHLY PARTS, THREEPENCE.

"Our Darlings."

THE CHILDREN'S TREASURY, EDITED BY DR. BARNARDO.

This admirable Children's Magazine is full of beautiful Pictures as well as of Gospel Stories and Christian instruction suited to the capacities of the young, and is earnestly commended to the heads of Christian Families and Schools.

The first Number of the New Volume (October 31) is now ready, price ½d.; as also is the November Part, with which a Coloured Chromo is given away.

This contains many attractions: among others may be mentioned the opening chapters of a Narrative by the Editor, recounting the struggles and sorrows of poor Street Children; and several instructive papers upon the history of public benefactors. There are also subjects for Prize Essays, for Biblical, Historical, and Geographical Puzzles, to the successful competitors in which

700 PRIZES WILL BE GIVEN AWAY

during the Twelve Months beginning with these first Numbers.

Hundreds of letters have been received from Christian parents and teachers, expressing surprised thankfulness that so cheap a Magazine should have been so beautiful in appearance and so useful in results.

"OUR DARLINGS" may be ordered of all Booksellers and Newsagents; or of the Publishers, Messrs. J. F. Shaw & Co., 48, Paternoster-row, E.C.

THE NEWLY BOUND VOLUME FOR CHRISTMAS, 1885,

IS NOW READY.

In handsome illustrated Paper Boards, containing 600 Illustrations, and Six Coloured Chromos, 3s.; or, in Cloth with gilt edges, a very elegant gift, 5s., to be had of the same Publishers.

ALL FOR JESUS.

Motto Cards, with Ribbon for hanging up.
Verses by F. R. Havergal.
1s. the dozen, or 7s. the 100, post free.

RUBY LEAFLETS.

A Novelty for Letters. In Three Tints. Choice Verses.
Eight different kinds. In assorted Packets.
Sixpence, post free.
London: John G. Wheeler, 88, Mildmay Park, N.

Paper covers, 9d.; cloth, bev. bds., gilt edges, 1s. 3d.

THE CONVERSION OF Lydia Montefiore,

Aunt of the late SIR MOSES MONTEFIORE.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

PREVENTIVE WORK, IRELAND.

GIRLS' TRAINING HOME,

64, LOWER BAGGOT STREET, DUBLIN.

FUNDS URGENTLY NEEDED.

Has received and helped since opening in March, 1883, 120 girls between the ages of 12 and 20, and aided by Free Registry, 140 extern cases.

Furniture, blankets, gifts of clothing, school requisites, much needed. Winter approaching. Constant pressing applications. Bank account overdrawn £70. We earnestly ask help.

(Mrs.) A. M. BURTON, Hon. Treasurer.
(Mrs.) F. M. SIBTHORPE, Hon. Sec.

DANIEL THE PROPHET.

An Amplification and Extension of Mr. Moody's various Lectures on the Life of Daniel.

Tinted Covers, 6d. Cloth, 1s.

"The lessons our brother has here brought out must be useful to all, both young and old, in the Divine life."—Footsteps of Truth.

"A small book; but big as regards the truth it contains. Every worker in the Lord's vineyard would be helped by reading it."—Railway Signal.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

To get hold of the Masses in Winter. For Mission or School Treats.

WILLIAM CATLIN,

17, Claremont Square, Pentonville, London, N.,
CAN SUPPLY YOU WITH EVERY DESCRIPTION OF

MAGIC LANTERNS AND SLIDES.

LATEST INVENTION, WITH PATENTED
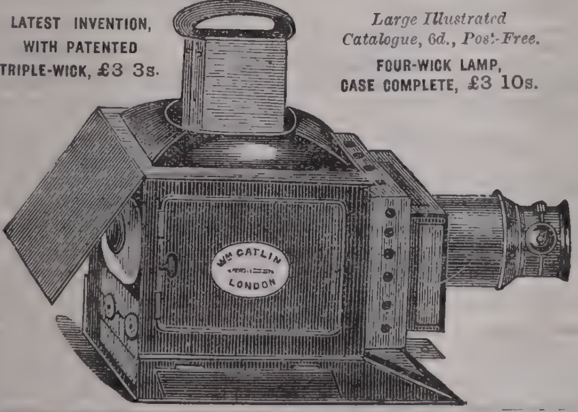
TRIPLE-WICK, £3 3s.

Large Illustrated Catalogue, 6d., Post-Free.

FOUR-WICK LAMP,
CASE COMPLETE, £3 10s.



LIME-LIGHT EXHIBITIONS

As at the Metropolitan Tabernacle, Mildmay Conference Hall, and other buildings in and around London.
Prospectus Post Free.

SECOND-HAND SLIDES ON SALE.

Monthly Catalogue Gratis.

LANTERNS AND SLIDES ON HIRE.

Terms on Application.

Original Designs for Public Lecturers.
Slide-colouring done upon the Premises.

In Library Binding, Gilt Top, 10s. 6d.

MORGAN AND SCOTT'S ILLUSTRATED EDITION OF

CRUDEN'S CONCORDANCE.

(UNABRIDGED).

The special features of this Edition are the NEW TRANSLATION, Revision, and Extension of the PROPER NAMES OF THE OLD AND NEW TESTAMENTS, with their meanings in the Original Languages. The Twelve following exquisite Steel Plate Engravings:—

Samaria.
Elisha's Fountain, Jericho.
Rephidim.
Damascus.
Mount Tabor.
Tyre.
Hebron.
Jerusalem from the South.
Shechem—Sychar.
Tiberias.
Bethany.
Athens.
And Six beautifully-coloured Maps.

The Rev. J. L. Porter, D.D., Professor of Biblical Criticism, speaking of the Steel Plate Engravings, says:—

"I have examined with care the views for Biblical Illustration. . . .The Engravings are very beautiful. In clearness, accuracy, and general effect, they surpass, I think, any I have seen. The places represented are all familiar to me; and I have been particularly struck by the fidelity with which your artist has reproduced Frith's admirable photographs."

J. L. Porter.

It is beautifully got up, carefully edited, and all has been done to make the work as useful as possible. Every Christian home ought to have a copy.—Oldham Chronicle.

Also being published in 18 Monthly Parts at Sixpence each.
A 5s. Cheap Edition of the above work may be had, without the Plates and Maps.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

GIFT BOOKS published by MORGAN & SCOTT.

And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

The Tabernacle, The Priesthood, and The Offerings.

FIFTH THOUSAND.

WITH THE SPIRITUAL LESSONS DERIVED FROM THE RITUAL AND CEREMONIES OF THE OLD DISPENSATION.

By Henry W. Soltau, Author of "The Holy Vessels of the Tabernacle," &c.

With Four Beautiful Coloured Illustrations and numerous smaller Engravings, and Memoir of the Author.

Cloth boards, 5s.; Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 6s.
Cheap Edition (without Coloured Plates), 3s.

"This volume is an exhaustive description of the Tabernacle, and its adornments, and of the functions and vestments of the priesthood, and the special character of the sacrifices."—Publishers' Circular.

The King's Palace.

FOURTH THOUSAND.

A SERIES OF READINGS FOR EACH DAY OF THE MONTH.

By Rev. J. H. Rogers, M.A.

With Carmine Borders.

Cloth limp, 1s.; Cloth boards, 1s. 6d.; with gilt edges, 2s.; leather binding, gilt edges, 3s. 6d.

"Its counsels are wise, loving, and direct. Its aim is to lead the reader to have a clean heart and a clean life—to consecrate all to Christ. The writer's heart has been enlarged, and hence he is able to get help from all quarters. Last, and by no means least, the book is beautiful. All that art, taste, and skill can do to make the theme attractive has been done by the well-known publishers. The result is that, within and without, 'The King's Palace' is simply perfect."—Irish Congregational Magazine.

Notes for Bible Readings.

SEVENTEENTH THOUSAND.

A COLLECTION OF OVER SIX HUNDRED SUBJECTS.

Carefully compiled and arranged by S. R. Briggs and John H. Elliott.
Suitable for Bible Readings, Cottage Lectures, Sabbath School Lessons, &c.

Tinted Covers, 2s. 6d.; Cloth, bevelled boards, 3s. 6d.

"This is a book which every Bible student should possess. It will be of special value to the class-teacher, and an assistance also to the preacher. It supplies valuable matter for private meditation; and those who conduct Bible readings will find it most suggestive."—Christian Progress.

Lays of Lowly Service.

THIRD THOUSAND.

By Georgiana M. Taylor,
Author of the Hymn, "Oh to be nothing, nothing!"

Tinted Covers, 1s.; Cloth limp, 1s. 6d.; Cloth boards, 2s.
Handsomely bound in morocco, gilt edges, 4s. 6d.

"These 'Lays' are the outcome of an earnest, practical piety, and a warm, loving faith, and, employed in religious service, they will, we can believe, kindle and quicken devotions."—Edinburgh Daily Review.

Life, Warfare, and Victory.

FOURTH THOUSAND.

BEING NOTES OF BIBLE READINGS TO YOUNG CONVERTS.

By Major Whittle.

Tinted covers, 1s.; Cloth limp, 1s. 6d.; Cloth boards, 2s. 6d.

"Just the book to put into the hands of young converts. The title aptly expresses the contents, which are both spiritual and instructive."
The Railway Signal.

Searching the Scriptures.

FOURTH THOUSAND.

IN ORDER TO ABIDING COMMUNION WITH GOD.

Also, Suggestions for Bible Reading and Study, and a Plan for Consecutive Daily Reading.

By Dr. J. Anderson.
Cloth, bevelled boards, 3s. 6d.

"Dr. Anderson's counsels and suggestions are most valuable; and the design of his work is one which will meet with ready acceptance from those who have learned that God's Word is a lamp to their feet and a light to their path."—The Christian Week.

Birds of the Bible.

THIRD THOUSAND.

CHATS WITH THE CHILDREN ABOUT BIBLE BIRDS.

By James Bowker, F.R.G.S.I.

Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 2s.
With very attractive Coloured Frontispiece, and 29 other Illustrations.
Beautifully printed on toned paper, with carmine borders.
An Elegant Gift Book.

"The 'Chats' here given will be found both interesting and instructive to the young folks who are fortunate enough to obtain a copy of the work. . . . One friend to whom we showed the book at once ordered three dozen copies for Sunday School Rewards. We hope that many others will follow his example."—The Christian Treasury.

Life more Abundant.

FOURTH THOUSAND.

AND OTHER ADDRESSES.

By Pastor Theodore Monod.
Tinted Covers, 1s.; Cloth boards, 1s. 6d.

"The chapters are full of holy and devout thought. Christians will read and be profited, and be stirred up to new life and new consecration in the Master's service."—Baptist Messenger.

Dorothea Trüdel;

FOURTEENTH THOUSAND.

A RECORD OF THE HEALING OF THE SICK AT MANNEDORF,

In answer to Special Prayer, from the year 1853 to 1871. Containing, in addition to the History of Dorothea Trudel, particulars of the continuance of the work. With Portrait.

Cloth, gilt edges, 2s. 6d. Cheap Edition, Cloth, 1s. 6d.; Tinted covers, 1s.

"A touching narrative of the simple faith and devoted piety of one who effected in Switzerland hundreds of most extraordinary and well-authenticated cures of mental and bodily diseases."—Christian World.

The Gospel according to Moses.

TWENTY-FIFTH THOUSAND.

AS SEEN IN THE TABERNACLE AND ITS VARIOUS OFFERINGS.

By Rev. G. Rogers. With Frontispiece.

Tinted covers, 1s.; Cloth boards, 1s. 6d.; Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 2s.

"A very spiritual as well as instructive little book."
Churchman's Monthly Penny Magazine.

"No young Christian, and especially no preacher, should be ignorant of the truth which this small volume very simply but very forcibly enunciates."
The Christian.

"We cordially recommend this short and very suggestive treatise."
The Bulwark.

Duncan Matheson;

THIRTY-SIXTH THOUSAND.

THE SCOTTISH EVANGELIST.

By John Macpherson.

Tinted covers, 1s. 6d.; Cloth boards, 2s. 6d.

"We very strongly advise every reader who wishes to get a glimpse of a real man, a real Christian, and a real worker for eternity, to get this volume."
Weekly Review.

Bible Readings.

SIXTH THOUSAND.

By Henry Moorhouse.
Tinted Covers, 1s.; Cloth boards, 1s. 6d.

"Every page is full of thought, expressed in words that tell of the Author's earnest and devout spirit."—Lay Preacher.

"The reverent spirit of the Author breathes on every page; and a careful reading must stimulate moral seriousness and earnest service for Christ."
Christian Commonwealth.

"They are simple, direct, and forceful, and present some vital Christian truths in an impressive aspect."—Primitive Methodist.

"A delightful little volume of simple sermonettes in a popular and illustrative style. They are very touching in interest and searching in style."
Preachers' Analyst.

The Number 'Seven' in Scripture.

FOURTH THOUSAND.

Compiled by S. A. Blackwood, C.B.,

Author of "The Shadow and the Substance," "Forgiveness, Life, Glory," &c.

Tinted Covers, 1s.; Limp cloth, 1s. 6d.; Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 2s. 6d.

"An excellent Text-book for Bible classes."—Sabbath School Magazine.

"From Genesis i. to Revelation xxii., all the many times the word occurs are duly noted; and each book is dealt with seriatim, so that reference is easy. We hope Mr. Blackwood will add a similar treatise on the numbers three, twelve, and forty."—The Rock.

"A very complete and well-arranged manual."—The Baptist.

"A little book which can scarcely fail to interest the Biblical Student, illustrating as it does the use which is made of the number seven in the sacred volume."—Publishers' Circular.

"Out of Egypt."

SIXTH THOUSAND.

A SERIES OF ADDRESSES AND BIBLE READINGS ON THE EXODUS OF ISRAEL, AND ITS SPIRITUAL LESSONS.

By Rev. Dr. Pentecost.

Tinted covers, 2s.; Cloth limp, 2s. 6d.; Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 3s. 6d.

"Dr. Pentecost's power as a teacher and expositor of the Word is anew displayed in these Addresses; and we are not surprised to learn that there has been an earnest demand for their publication."—Word and Work.

"The Readings have lately been given to large numbers on the Author's late visit to London; and most profitable and spiritual they are."
Footsteps of Truth.

"This is a powerful, brilliant, and thrilling work. Dr. Pentecost is not only a man of marked ability and scholarship, but he is a pulpit orator of the highest order. He at once arrests the attention, penetrates the heart, moves the affections, and directs the conduct."—Oldham Chronicle.

ON

CONSUMPTION,

CHRONIC BRONCHITIS,

AND ALL OTHER

CHEST DISEASES.

READ

MR. CONGREVE'S NEW WORK,

SIXPENCE, POST FREE,

Or Large Edition (cloth) for 1s. 3d.

FIFTEENTH SERIES

OF WEEKLY CASES.

NOTICE TO THE READERS OF "The Christian," WHO MAY BE personally or relatively INTERESTED IN THIS MATTER.

Mr. Congreve will give ONE RECENT CASE, NOT PUBLISHED BEFORE, in this Journal EVERY WEEK.

CASE FOR THIS WEEK.

CASE of a YOUNG LADY at PLYMOUTH.

Mr. John Hawke, of George-street, writing me on behalf of a poor Consumptive man, speaks of his daughter's case. "My daughter Lily, who was under you, continues in good health (she had commenced my treatment several years ago, and persevered for four months). He adds, "I believe she would have gone long ago but for the use of your Balsam and Liniment. You should see her now, the picture of health."

CASE of a YOUNG MAN at WALLINGTON.

(The name and address of this patient are withheld by request, and can only be given privately.)

In February last Mrs. R. consulted me relative to her son, a banker's clerk, then seriously ill with threatened Consumption. Symptoms, a dry, hacking Cough, following on Hooping Cough; expectoration mixed with blood, and other appearances indicative of commencing Phthisis.

In five weeks decided improvement was reported; in another month the "Cough was nearly gone, and blood almost ceased."

Writing me on the 11th of July, Mrs. R. says:—"I feel it is my duty to let you know that your medicines have quite cured my son; for which I am truly thankful."

NOTE.—Days of Consultation.—TUESDAY, THURSDAY, and SATURDAY MORNINGS ONLY, at Coombe Lodge, Peckham. Patients from any long distance should choose either of the two former days. Everyone is expected to have seen the book first.

EPILEPTIC FITS!

ALL PERSONS SUFFERING FROM EPILEPSY should SEND Name and Address to JAMES OSBORNE, MEDICAL PHARMACY, ASHBOURNE, who will forward, free of charge, full particulars (with Testimonials) of the most successful remedy ever discovered for this distressing malady. Reference permitted to the Rev. J. Baker, M.A., 254, Plymouth-grove, Manchester.

BOOK OF 441 HYMNS FOR ONE PENNY.

SACRED * SONGS * AND * SOLOS.

Sung by IRA D. SANKEY.

SUITABLE FOR

CONGREGATIONS, MISSION SERVICES, | SABBATH SCHOOLS, EVANGELISTIC MEETINGS, | OPEN-AIR SERVICES, ANNIVERSARY SERVICES, &c.

A Specimen Copy of either Edition will be forwarded post free on receipt of published price.

MUSIC AND WORDS.

			s.	d.
1 F.	OLD NOTATION	...Tinted Covers	2	6
2 F.	Ditto	...Limp Cloth	3	6
3 F.	Ditto	...Cloth Boards	4	6
4 F.	Ditto	... Do. Gilt Edges	5	0
5 F.	Ditto	...Morocco do.	8	6
6 F.	Ditto	... Do. flexible, kid-lined, Gilt Edges	12	6
7 F.	Ditto	...Seal yapped, kid-lined, silk sewn	21	0
1 G.	TONIC SOL-FA	...Tinted Covers	2	6
2 G.	Ditto	...Limp Cloth	3	6
3 G.	Ditto	...Cloth Boards	4	6
4 G.	Ditto	... Do. Gilt Edges	5	0
5 G.	Ditto	...Morocco do.	8	6

CHEAPER EDITIONS.

			s.	d.
1 H.	OLD NOTATION	...Tinted Covers	1	6
2 H.	Ditto	...Limp Cloth	2	0
3 H.	Ditto	...Cloth Boards	2	6
4 H.	Ditto	...Morocco, Gilt Edges	5	6
5 H.	Ditto	... Do. flexible, kid-lined, Gilt Edges	8	6
1 R.	TONIC SOL-FA	...Tinted Covers	1	6
2 R.	Ditto	...Limp Cloth	2	0
3 R.	Ditto	...Cloth Boards	2	6

WORDS ONLY.

			s.	d.
1 A.	RUBY ED.	...Sewed	0	1½
1¼ A.	Ditto	...Paste-down Covers	0	1
2 A.	Ditto	...Printed Cloth	0	2
1 B.	NONPAREIL ED.	...Tinted Covers	0	3
2 B.	Ditto	...Printed Cloth	0	4
1 C.	MEDIUM TYPE	...Limp Cloth	0	6
2 C.	Ditto	...Cloth Boards	1	0
3 C.	Ditto	...Morocco, Gilt Edges	2	6
4 C.	Ditto	...Do. flexible, kid-lined	4	6
1 D.	FOOLSCAP 8vo ED.	...Tinted Covers	1	0
2 D.	Ditto	...Cloth Limp	1	6
3 D.	Ditto	...Cloth Boards	2	0
4 D.	Ditto	...Morocco, Gilt Edges	4	6
7 D.	Special Cheap Ed.	...(Reduced size) Blocked Cloth	0	9
1 E.	EX. LARGE TYPE	...Tinted Covers	1	6
2 E.	Ditto	...Limp Cloth	2	0
3 E.	Ditto	...Cloth Boards	2	6
4 E.	Ditto	...Morocco, Gilt Edges	5	6
5 E.	Ditto	...Morocco, flexible, kid-lined	8	6
7 E.	Special Cheap Ed.	...(Reduced size) Tinted Covers	1	0
8 E.	Ditto	... Do. Blocked Cloth	1	6
9 E.	Ditto	... Do. Morocco, Gilt Edges	4	6
10 E.	Ditto	... Do. Morocco, flexible, kid-lined	6	6

QUARTO EDITION (For Piano, Harmonium, or Organ).

	s.	d.
Handsomely Bound in Cloth Extra, Bevelled Boards, Gilt Edges	16	6
Elegantly Bound in Morocco, Gilt Edges	30	0

MAY ALSO BE HAD IN TWO VOLUMES.

		s.	d.
Vol. I., containing Nos. 1—271	Cloth Extra, Gilt Edges	10	6
	Morocco, Gilt Edges	17	6
Vol. II., containing Nos. 272—441	Cloth Extra, Gilt Edges	7	6
	Morocco, Gilt Edges	14	6

A detailed Price List of "SACRED SONGS AND SOLOS," giving Specimens of the Types of all the various Editions, may be had on application.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings; and may be ordered of any Bookseller or Musicseller.

New Edition, complete in One Volume.
1,083 pages.

Foxe's Book of Martyrs.

A Complete and Authentic Account of the Lives, Sufferings, and Triumphant Deaths of Early Christian and Protestant Martyrs in all parts of the world. By John Foxe.

With Twelve Full-page Illustrations and Steel Plate Frontispiece. Handsomely bound in cloth. 10/6

"Messrs. Morgan & Scott deserve most cordial thanks for the production of this noble edition of a noble book."—Christian Leader.

May also be obtained in Sixteen Monthly Parts, at 6d. each.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

INTERNATIONAL INVENTIONS EXHIBITION, 1885.

EASY PROFITS.

APPLY to RIDDLE & COUCHMAN for Special Terms for their Popular Exhibition Series of

SHILLING PORTRAITS OF POLITICAL AND OTHER CELEBRITIES,

Lithographed in the style of Steel Engravings, Size, 18 by 24 ins., by which large Profits may be made.

22, Southwark Bridge Road, London, S.E.

New and Revised Edition. Post Free, Twelve Stamps.

FITS.

EPILEPSY OR FALLING SICKNESS.

With ESSAYS ON GIDDINESS, SENSATIONS, FAINTS, AND HEADACHES. A Practical Treatise explaining the Causes, Treatment and Cure of these Diseases; with Directions for Diet. By S. BERRY NIBLETT, Licentiate of the Royal College of Physicians. Published by Mr. Williams, 10, Oxford Terrace, Hyde Park, London.

NOW READY. ONE SHILLING.

THE "HERALD OF MERCY" ANNUAL VOLUME.

PROFUSELY ILLUSTRATED.

The "SWORD AND TROWEL" says:
"Full of good tidings. Here we have no word written for mere amusement, but all for conversion and edification."

"THE CHRISTIAN MISCELLANY" says:
"One of the very best, cheapest, and most attractive of the evangelistic periodicals."

"The ROCK" says:
"Its numerous illustrations, and short pithy Readings and Anecdotes, cannot fail to make it a favourite with many readers."

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

NEWHAM'S

Lincolnshire Feather Beds and Down Quilts,

DIRECT FROM BOSTON, LINCOLNSHIRE.

MESSRS. C. N. NEWHAM & Co. are now offering the r celebrated FEATHER BEDS at the following greatly reduced prices:—

No. 1.—Single Bed, Bolster, and Pillow, 6ft. 3in by 3ft. 6in., weighing 40lbs. ...	30s. 0d.
No. 2.—Double Bed, Bolster, and Two Pillows, 6ft. 6in. by 4ft. 6in., weighing 50lbs.	37s. 6d.
No. 3.—Double Bed, Bolster and Two Pillows, 6ft. 6in. by 4ft. 6in., weighing 55lbs.	41s. 3d.
No. 4.—Extra-Sized Bed, Bolster and Two Pillows, 6ft. 6in. by 5ft., weighing 65lbs.	48s. 9d.

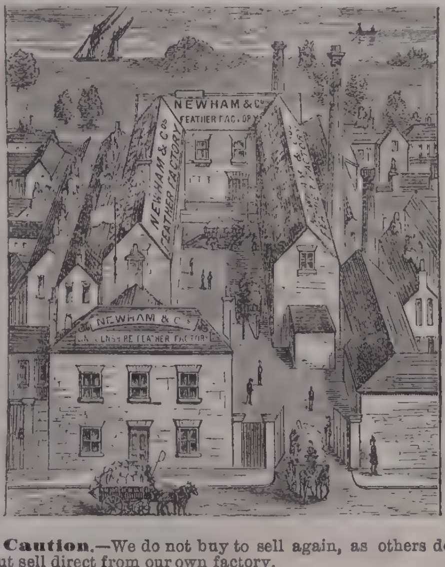
WARRANTED NEW AND SWEET.

Any sized Bed only 9d. per lb., including Feathers, in white (bordered) tick, making, packing, wrapper, and carriage paid to any station in the United Kingdom. Superior Beds, Splendid Feathers, Linen Tick, 1s. per lb. Samples of Feathers and Tick, Price Lists, &c., post-free.

We rely on Advertisements in Newspapers, published all over the Kingdom, to bring us into direct communication with the public; but we rely chiefly on recommendations of our friends who have themselves tried our goods, for second and repeat orders. Being our own manufacturers for the Trade, and having no Agents except the Wholesale Furniture Dealers and Upholsterers throughout the country, we are able to offer our goods at first cost. Every Feather is warranted NEW and SWEET, being hand-picked, and specially purified by steam. Formerly, and indeed now in some factories, chemicals, such as sulphur, acids, &c., are used for destroying life and cleansing Feathers, but we are confident that such chemicals are highly injurious to Feathers, often destroying their tender structure, whereas Steam at a high temperature, not only effectually destroys all life, but cleanses, and subsequently dries, the Feathers so purified.

For the convenience of the public, several sizes, weights, and qualities of Beds are made; and as the demand for each Bed is large, a stock is kept ready made, so that all orders may be executed same day as received.

Carriage Free at less than Wholesale Prices.



Caution.—We do not buy to sell again, as others do, but sell direct from our own factory.

MESSRS. C. N. NEWHAM & Co. were favoured last season with many applications for Down Goods, and gave great satisfaction to the public with their celebrated Down Quilts, lined throughout with best purified Down. Having a large stock of Down, they are able to offer at Low Prices; in fact, to give the public the advantage of Wholesale Terms with Quilts as with Feather Beds.

Two Qualities are made of Down Quilts; one in Washable Chintz with bright scarlet ground, woven in various Designs and Colours. A choice Bedroom decoration. Also in splendid close-woven new Sateen, in beautiful and variegated Patterns designed for the present Season. Each Quilt is reversible, and can be used on either side. These goods have a brightness almost equal to Satin.

The following sizes in Chintz and Sateen are now in stock, and will be sent off immediately on receipt of order. Any size Quilt made to order.

	£	s.	d.
No. 1.—5ft. long by 4ft. broad—20ft.
Chintz, at 8d. per square foot	0	13	4
Sateen, at 10d. per square foot	0	16	8
No. 2.—5ft. 6in. long by 4ft. broad—22ft.
Chintz, at 8d. per square foot	0	14	8
Sateen, at 10d. per square foot	0	18	4
No. 3.—6ft. long by 5ft. broad—30ft.
Chintz, at 8d. per square foot	1	0	0
Sateen, at 10d. per square foot	1	5	0

"Gas Works, Thrapston, 15th June, 1885.

"Dear Sir,—I received the bed from your factory quite safe, and I am very pleased with it, as it makes the third bed we have had from you, and, if anything, this one gives us more pleasure than either of the others, as it seems such a good one. Hoping I may have an opportunity of recommending them to some of my friends who may want anything of the sort, as I shall be very pleased to do so, as I think that people ought to know where to get a good bed at so very reasonable price.—I remain, Sir, yours truly, John Nicholls, Manager."

All orders must be accompanied by Cheque or P.O.O., made payable to Messrs. C. N. Newham & Co., Feather Purifiers, Boston, Lincolnshire, which, to ensure safe delivery of Goods, may be post-dated ten days. Feathers only, 9d. per pound. The trade supplied. Please mention this paper. A great reduction on three or more beds.

NON-FLUCTUATING SECURITIES.

Six per Cent. First Mortgage Real Estate Bonds

THE ANGLO-AMERICAN LOAN AND INVESTMENT CO.,

WICHITA, KANSAS, U.S.A.

Capital, 250,000 dols.

Sir Edward S. Hutchinson, Bart, President.
Joseph S. Smithson, Vice-President.

These Bonds are secured by Farm Lands in the best agricultural State in America. The interest, which is guaranteed and collected by the Company, is payable Half-Yearly at

The Bank of Ireland, Dublin, or
The Alliance Bank, Limited, London.

American Bankers—
Metropolitan National Bank, Chicago, and
The Wichita National Bank, Wichita.

Address—HENRY ANDERSON,
Managing Director
(Late Bank of Ireland),
WICHITA, KANSAS.

Intending Emigrants and parties desiring to invest in Real Estate should correspond with us.

AMERICAN BREAKFAST CEREALS
ABC

A B C White Wheat

A B C White Oats

A B C Barley Food

A B C Yellow Maize

The Purest, most Nutritious and Health-giving Foods in the World. Hulled, crushed, steam-cooked and desiccated. Ready for table in ten minutes.

Sold by Grocers, &c.

A Delicious Breakfast at little cost.

Ask for the A B C Brand.

Particulars of B. Lampe, 44, Great Tower-st., E.C.

Bona-fide Direct Shopping.

Richard Ecroyd

A Plain Statement of Fact

Manufactures at his Mills, Shipley, near Bradford,

Beautiful Dress Fabrics

ALL-WOOL CASHMERES: Brilliant Finish, Superb Dye, Choice Colours, 38 in. to 46 in. wide, All Wool, 1s. 11½d. to 3s. 7d. per yard. FOULE SERGES: 24 in. to 27 in. wide, 9d. to 1s. 7d. MERINOES: Blacks and Colours, 42 in. to 46 in. wide, 2s. 2d. to 6s. per yard. BEIGES: 24 in. to 26 in. wide, 11½d. to 1s. 4d. NUNS' VEILINGS: Printed—lovely Patterns, 22 in. to 25 in. wide, 10d. to 1s. 3d. per yard. CANVAS AND BASKET CLOTHS: In the latest fashionable shades, for Ladies' and Children's Dresses, Costumes, &c., 25 in. wide, from 1s. 2½d. per yard. ALL-WOOL (Double Width) SERGES, for Hard Wear, for Tourists, Travellers, Seaside, Yachting, 44 in. to 47 in. wide, 1s. 7d. to 2s. 7½d. per yard. OTTOMAN CLOTHS, ESTAMINES, SATEENS, &c.

RICHARD ECROYD SELLS DIRECT

To the PUBLIC through his NEW RETAIL ESTABLISHMENTS:

BIRMINGHAM	135, New-street.	LIVERPOOL	47, Bold-street.	MANCHESTER	104, Deansgate.
LEEDS	9, Bond-street.	SHEFFIELD	29, High-street.	NOTTINGHAM	13, Market-street.
DERBY	18, Wardwick.	EDINBURGH	114, George-street.	GLASGOW	255, Sauchiehall-street.

ANY LENGTH CUT. Carriage Paid on Parcels of 20s. value and upwards.

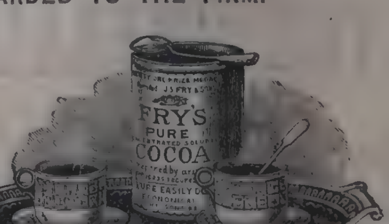
LADIES ARE INVITED to call and inspect the Goods or to write for Patterns. RICHARD ECROYD'S system of business is based upon straightforward dealing, and the absence of extravagant pretences. Silk Goods shall be all silk—Wool Fabrics shall be all wool. "WEAR IS THE TRUE TEST OF VALUE." If you prefer to send direct to the Mills, do so, and a FULL SET OF PATTERNS and all particulars shall be sent you. The address is, RICHARD ECROYD, Charlestown Mills, SHIPLEY, near Bradford.

TWENTY-TWO PRIZE MEDALS AWARDED TO THE FIRM.

FRY'S

Pure Concentrated COCOA



Prepared by a new and special scientific process securing extreme solubility, and developing the finest flavour of the Cocoa.—"It is especially adapted to those whose digestive organs are weak, and I strongly recommend it as a substitute for tea for young persons."—Sir Chas. A. Cameron, President Royal College of Surgeons, Ireland, &c.

The Christian:

A WEEKLY RECORD OF CHRISTIAN LIFE, CHRISTIAN TESTIMONY, AND CHRISTIAN WORK.

WITH WHICH IS INCORPORATED "THE REVIVAL."

LONDON: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster Buildings, E.C.]

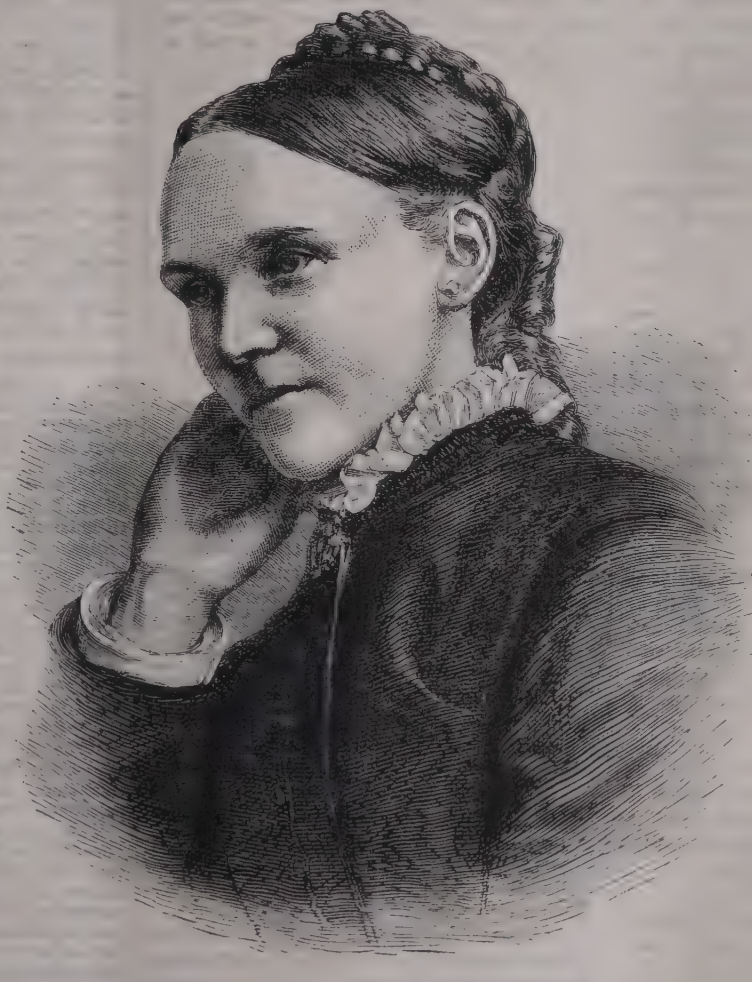
[REGISTERED AT THE G.P.O. AS A NEWSPAPER.

No. 824.] THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 12, 1885. [ONE PENNY. POST FREE, 1½d.

☞ THE EIGHT PAGES OF ADVERTISEMENTS IN THE CENTRE OF THIS NUMBER MAY BE PUT OUTSIDE TO FORM A WRAPPER.

FRANCES RIDLEY HAVERGAL.

THE name of Frances Ridley Havergal has become to thousands of Christians, in all parts of the world, a household word. She has spoken to us in her writings so personally as to be a real friend of all. Little children go to sleep on one of the "Little Pillows," and wake to the chime of a "Morning Bell." The older folk are helped, stimulated, and cheered by wise and loving words, unfolding some of the promises and commands of the King whom she loved and served, or the privilege and blessing of being wholly his, "kept for the Master's use;" whilst many voices, the wide world over, take up the echo of her songs of praise. The Memorials of her life have brought us yet nearer to her, and explained the power of her words by showing her lowly walk with God.



Born December 14, 1836, she was the youngest daughter of Rev. W. H. Havergal, then Rector of Astley, Worcestershire, afterwards of St. Nicholas, Worcester.

She was a singularly bright, clever child, early giving promise of the gifts so fully developed in later years. The little book in which she wrote her childish hymns and rhymes begins with verses written at the age of seven; from nine years old upwards she wrote long and amusingly descriptive letters in perfect rhyme and rhythm. She seems to have had deep religious impressions during childhood, both at home and at school, but could not fix any actual time as the date of conversion.

From 1851, she knew what it was consciously to trust in Jesus, and to find the sweetness of the Word of God.

All her life henceforth was filled with blessed work for the Master, in Sunday-school, Bible-classes, cottage visiting, Y.W.C.A. meetings, and many other things. More than once she was laid aside for a time through severe illness, and "under his shadow" learning more and more of the love of Him who laid her low; and made to feel the pressure of his hand, she was further trained in that wonderful sympathy with, and tenderness for others which was such a marked feature in her character. Truly she comforted others with the comfort wherewith she herself was comforted of God.

In 1870, Rev. W. H. Havergal entered into rest, and those who have read "The Memorials" or the poem "Yet Speaketh," can form some idea of how much poorer was earth henceforth to his daughter, and how much richer heaven.

She had an intense love for music, and would play from memory through Handel, and much of Beethoven and Mendelssohn. Her singing was beautifully expressive and sweet, and she loved to sing God's own words, praying that they might be his message to the listeners. In this way many opportunities were afforded of speaking of Him of whom she sang, and she had the joy of seeing fruit found to his glory.

Her sister writes: "Almost the last time we walked to church together she turned round to me and said, 'Marie, I've come to the conclusion that it will be very nice to go to heaven. The perfect harmony, the perfect praise, no jarring tunes. You don't know the intense enjoyment it is to me to sing in part music. I don't think I could hear the Hallelujah Chorus and not sing it but there——!'"

Miss Havergal made several tours in Switzerland, entering with intense enjoyment into the beauties of nature, recognising the touch of the Father's hand in all, and finding in them spiritual help and teaching. Abroad, as well as at home, she was constantly doing the "King's business," and was privileged to lead many—tourists, peasants, invalids—to rejoice in her Saviour. The volume "Swiss Letters" is a lasting memorial of these happy journeys.

In 1873 a little book, entitled "All for Jesus," by Rev. J. T. Wrenford, Newport, Mon., came under Miss Havergal's notice, telling of a fulness of blessing beyond anything she had yet attained. It met a felt need, and soon she herself could say, "I have the blessing," the Spirit powerfully applying this word to her soul: "The blood of Jesus Christ, his Son, cleanseth us from all sin."

From this time her life was full of sunshine; some expression of it is found in the beautiful hymns, "Without Carefulness," and "From Glory unto Glory":—

"And now I find thy promise true,
Of perfect peace and rest;
I cannot sigh; I can but sing,
While leaning on thy breast,
And leaving everything to Thee,
Whose ways are always best."

"From glory unto glory! without a shade of care,
Because the Lord who loves us will every burden bear;

> Because we trust Him fully, and know that He will guide,
> And know that He will keep us at his belovèd side.
> Abiding in his presence, and walking in the light,
> And seeking to 'do always what is pleasing in his sight,'
> We look to Him to keep us 'all glorious within,
> Because 'the blood of Jesus Christ is cleansing from all sin.'"

In 1878 Miss Havergal went to live with her sister near Swansea. Here for a few months she was fully occupied in writing, helping others, and working in the neighbourhood of her new home. On May 21st, 1879, she took cold from being out in the damp on one of the Master's errands; a feverish attack ensued, then inflammation and peritonitis.

Through intense suffering and constant sickness her patient endurance and gladness in God's will witnessed to his power. Through the last hours again and again were heard the words, "Splendid, to be so near the gates of heaven!" and "So beautiful to go!" At dawn on June 3, the change came, and with the King's name on her lips—trying to sing, but just uttering HE—she passed into his presence to behold Him in his beauty.

MISS HAVERGAL'S LETTERS.

The new and interesting volume of Letters,* just published by Nisbet & Co., is a beautiful and valuable addition to those already published. These letters seem to show us her very heart; they breathe throughout the fragrance of the Name which "is as ointment poured forth," and are characterised by a wonderful sympathy, a peculiar skill in giving the Master's messages, which alone would tell of her habitual waiting to hear his voice before speaking for Him. The second division, "Letters to a young Correspondent," are most helpful, and will be much appreciated by young Christians. In reading this book one cannot help feeling how letter-writing may be and should be work for Jesus, and what splendid opportunities it gives. May every reader henceforth write every letter "unto Him." It is difficult to make selections from such wealth of material, but a few are given below:—

"'He knoweth the way that I take; and when He hath tried me I shall come forth as gold.' And He has known all along by what road you would be taken. . . . Oh, there is great comfort in the mere thought of this wonderful knowledge of our God. Then add to it that He who knoweth careth too, and He who careth loveth with a love that passeth knowledge. He has, indeed, tried you, and the trial time is still present with you; but 'when' (then it is not meant to last always—there is something beyond), 'when He hath tried me,' when all is over, and the storms are quieted, and the wounded heart is healing under his touch, then you 'shall come forth as gold,' very precious in his sight, impressed with his own refining mark, purified and prepared for his work here and his own safe treasury above when that work is done" (pp. 24, 25).

"Are you not conscious of the detaching power of sorrow? Ah, but it is attaching, too, only the attaching to things not seen" (p. 67).

"(To a young Correspondent.)—You tell me about your stones. What would a little child do who had to go along a rough place over hard stones? Do you not think she would call out to her mother or father and ask them to lift her over them, or at least hold their hand very tight while she stepped over them? So when you come to a great stone, you must look up to Jesus and seek his help in getting over it, and then you will find the way smoother and pleasanter. . . . . I have written in printing so that you may be able to read it quite by yourself" (p. 71).

"(To the same.)—You do not yet know from experience how much harder it is to do right and keep right when one has left school, and has no outward rules to keep, but only one's conscience and God's Word to follow. Do not fancy that school life is the hardest in this way. . . . . Look up; you are very weak, no doubt, but Christ is very strong; and is not his strength yours, if you will but draw upon it? Your love may be cold, but has his love changed?" (p. 74).

"(To the same.)—I can most fully enter into your somewhat complicated trials. I will hand on to you what comforted me exceedingly a night or two ago, though not a text. It is the refrain of an old slave hymn, 'Nobody knows but Jesus.' Does it not draw one very near, to feel that? Say that to yourself next time you feel troubled, and have no relief of telling it to a human ear. It is so sweet. Just a secret between one's own sore heart and the dear Lord's loving heart!" (p. 92).

"With the disciples who feared as they entered into the cloud, it was 'Jesus only' when the cloud was past. But don't you think that for us it is 'Jesus only,' in the cloud as well as after it?" (p. 128).

"I feel much for you in your sad story of trials, but may I send you Prov. iv. 11, 'I have led you in right paths'? Does not that cover all the life-sorrows, and solve all the life-mysteries? Do not look at your trials as only sent for your own sake: see Phil. i. 29. Who knows for what blessed service our Master is meetening and polishing you in your sad and lonely hours!" (p. 188).

"I do not know that I can do more than send you what cost me the greatest struggle I ever had to allow anything to be printed. ["Such a blessing."] The way in which my Master came and astonished me by giving me, even me, a blessing, which I had hardly heard of, much less understood, was more than I could have imagined" (p. 206).

"The one thing strongly on my mind to say to you is, Do not let your mind dwell at all on any attentions you may receive. If it is to come to anything, your thinking about it will not make any difference; but if it is not, then every thought you have spent on it will have to be, as it were, unthought; you will be preparing pain and disappointment for yourself just in proportion to how much you have allowed yourself to dwell on this. . . . . I want you, first thing, to go and lay the matter very simply before the Lord. Tell Him all that is in your heart, every bit of it. And then ask Him to undertake for you. Ask your King just to order everything if it is his will, and to keep you very calm till his will is clearly shown, and very willing that He should take his own way with you and with your future life. But ask the Lord, if it is not his will you should marry, to make you perfectly content, and then to take away all the wish out of your heart, so that you may be 'free to serve' with your whole mind undistracted by it. And then ask Him, in his great kindness, that He would interpose in some way to make this easy to you, He has such wonderful ways! . . . . I should so like you to have the happiness of human love and care for you; it would make me extremely happy if it does turn out to be a real and right step. But you are in the hands of your own dear Master, and He will do the best thing for you, I have no doubt of that!" (pp. 323, 324).

---

* LETTERS BY THE LATE F. R. HAVERGAL. Edited by her Sister, M. V. G. H.

PROHIBITION IN AMERICA.

IT is a poor time to decry prohibition when it is working so successfully in Maine and Canada and the West and South. Maine has given it a full trial, and is so well satisfied with it that it puts the principle in its constitution by the handsome majority of nearly 50,000; and as the years pass and the law gets firmer grip of the traffic in the cities and larger towns, this majority will grow. Every day proves prohibition to be the great conservator of peace and prosperity.

Similar testimony is coming already from Iowa. When the State adopted prohibition, a year or two ago, some of the wiseacres predicted that business would decline and prosperity take wings. The saloon, they contended, helps business, and makes trade move. There would be vacant shops and houses, silent mills and deserted villages, as the result of driving out the enterprising saloons. How is it in the capital city? Let The Iowa State Register answer:—

"Let any man who scoffs at prohibition and its material good, go about Des Moines to-day, even this early, and locate the former sites of saloons—sites then occupied by old shanties, and rented by saloon keepers who employ no clerks and no help, and who robbed labouring men and their families daily of their earnings—and then compare the same properties, their value to the city and to society, with the large brick blocks erected on them in the last two seasons, or since the prohibitory law went into effect, and inspect the business now being carried on on the same sites, the character of the business, the amount of capital invested to carry it on, adding so largely to the taxable wealth of the city, and the value of better-paid employment, and then let him answer the question himself, which is best for the city, these brick blocks and the new stores, and the large employment given by the new stores, or the old, rotten shanties and the saloons in them that used to be?"

This material improvement is the least of the benefits Des Moines is receiving from the closing up of the saloons. More than half of the temptations to crime and immorality have been removed with the rum-shop, and nobody can tell how much domestic happiness has been increased in hundreds of families. Prohibition is coming, and it is coming to stay. Let distillers, brewers, and dealers take notice, and betake themselves to honourable employments.—New York Independent.

RESCUE WORK.—Mrs. Wilkes, Manor Cottage, Kerby-street, Poplar, will feel deeply grateful if some kind Christian readers of THE CHRISTIAN would send her some calico and flannel to be made into garments for the poor creatures who come in almost without clothes.

WHAT DEACON BAXTER SAID.

By ROSE TERRY COOKE.

IT was a calm, sweet sunset. I had been to church with the Deacon in the morning, and, lying in the hammock, had read The Congregationalist, while he and "Mis' Baxter" went to Sunday-school; for I was only a summer boarder at the farm, and, like most summer boarders, I had left my work behind me for a week of absolute rest. I thought I had done my full share when I went to hear old Parson Simpson preach that morning. Just now the Deacon, having had his supper and done his chores, sat down on the front doorstep to enjoy the utter quiet, and I lay stretched on the grass just below, thinking of an article I had been reading. Before us spread a vast amphitheatre of folding hills, with silent, darkling forests clothing every crest, their verdant foothills meeting in a narrow intervale, and their blue distances keeping well the secret of the hidden water-courses that in the stillness sent up the plash and fall of their downward leap and made the air musical.

The Deacon's benign face, wrinkled with many a year of toil and trouble, seemed touched with that solemn peace of the mountains; his kind old eyes were pathetic in their expression of patient exceptance; I thought, glancing up at him, of the Psalmist's words: "I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills from whence cometh my help. My help cometh from the Lord who made heaven and earth." But my mind was filled with a sort of uncertain pleasure that yet I half doubted. I wanted the Deacon's opinion, so I interrupted his quiet.

"Deacon," said I, "did you read that letter in The Congregationalist, signed 'Veza'?" [The subject of the letter is implied in what follows.]

"Well, I did," said he. "Poor feller! poor feller!" he added, in a tone of the tenderest pity.

"Why!" I resumed, "I liked it so much! It's just the way I feel myself."

"Do ye? Well! well! Say, cap'en, you went to the war, didn't ye?"

"Yes, I'm glad and proud to say I did. I was all through it from the first volunteering to Lee's surrender. That's where I got the bullet in my hip that's given me a limp, and had those two fingers shot off, besides two months of typhoid in camp at Tallahassee."

"What made you go?"

"Why, Deacon! what else could a man do who loved his country?"

"Still, the' was some who stayed to home."

"That is so, I'm sorry to say."

"Well, now I'd like to ask a few questions about it all. I couldn't go myself. I was lame from a boy; put out my hip by a fall, and 'twasn't set right, so they wouldn't take me. I did what I could to home, but I always felt real interested in the whole thing, and, when I heared you say the other day somethin' about your old ridgiment, I thought I'd like to have a dish of talk with ye about it, and perhaps now's a good time."

I did not think how the Deacon had suddenly changed the subject from "Veza's" letter and my sympathy with it; for the war with its glorious results was the theme of all others that interested me; and all was just now freshly recalled, as I searched eagerly every day for the bulletins of my grand old General's condition, dying by inches where he lay on the heights of Mount MacGregor, spared by shot and shell to be tortured for months with deadly and terrible disease. "What shall I tell you about?" I asked.

"How came you first to think of j'inin' the army?"

"Why, I wanted to help fight the rebels, and then I hoped to help do away with slavery—that was a second thought, perhaps."

"You didn't have any doubts nor hankerings about which side you'd fight on?"

"No! I meant to be on the right side, whether we beat or were whipped. But I didn't expect to be beaten. I remember, one line of a verse I saw somewhere once kept ringing and singing in my ears,

> 'Forward, and God defend the right!'

and I meant to help defend it."

"I suppose you liked the folks in your company, too, and that made it pleasant for you?"

"No, I didn't, not all of them. There were some of the worst fellows I ever saw in our regiment; low rascals who cursed like pirates, and stole even our rations if they could get at them. I gave one fellow a good sound kicking for swearing about Grant when we got down to Shiloh. I don't believe he used his vile tongue against the General for one while again. Then there were a parcel of gamblers—drunken bullies—who were good food for powder, nothing else; a perfect disgrace to the army."

"I suppose they fit pretty well, though, don't they?"

"No, sir; the best men were the best fighters. These fellows shirked and malingered and ran when they got a chance; lots of 'em deserted while we were near home; they couldn't very well when we were in the enemy's country."

"What made 'em join the army, do you suppose?"

"Oh, some of them did it for the sound of it; they got excited; they liked the interest everybody felt then in volunteers; they had one eye on the pay and bounty, too. I think some of them expected 'twould be a good thing for them afterwards. It has proved good capital for beggars ever since. Lots of people will help an old soldier who wouldn't give one cent to a common tramp."

"I shouldn't think you'd have liked to fight alongside such folks."

"I didn't, but then my business was to fight, whether or no. I'd enlisted for the war. The General was all right; I'd got to obey orders myself, and I couldn't fall out of ranks because my right-hand man in file was half drunk, or the one on the left singing a vile song. I did blow at them a good deal, but I couldn't desert in the face of the enemy."

"P'rhaps you wouldn't have 'listed if you'd known what sort of fellers was to be in your ridgiment?"

"Why, yes, I should. I tell you I wanted to fight those confounded rebels. I didn't care who went along, if I only went myself. I was going to fight my country's battles whether the men along with me were good or bad. I didn't trouble my head about them."

"You wa'n't afraid folks would think you was one of 'em?"

"I didn't think about it any way. I'd got to march, to forage, to camp, to fight, to retreat; in short, to obey orders. I didn't stop to consider what the stay-at-homes thought about me or my comrades."

"You had a pretty hard time?"

"Yes, but that we expected after we got used to the business. It wasn't play, it was business."

"Ain't you a little queer?" said he, looking at me with sad, serious eyes. "You did all this, and you won't enlist under the Lord of Hosts because there's just such a lot of folks takes the name of his soldiers upon themselves as there was in the Fed'ral Army."

I sat dumb; the Deacon went on. "Can't you obey his orders, and fight under Him same as you did under Grant, because there is hypocrites and backsliders in his Church? What if you'd said, 'I'll fight on my own hook rather than beside these scalliwags and rascals; I won't enlist, but I'll take my gun and go raiding around and do my level best without wearin' a uniform or gettin' into line and under orders'? If that is the right way to fight, why don't people do it? Why don't the generals say, 'Go along, do your best; whatever's right in your own eyes, foller that'? Why, there would be no race nor people left on the face of the airth if they done so. Here's this poor 'Veza', he's too good to eat with publicans and sinners at his Master's table. Is the disciple above his Lord? Just look back and see how Jesus Christ fixed the first Christian Church, and who was in it. There was Thomas, who wouldn't believe the Lord was risen onless he could put his finger right into the nail-holes in his hands. That wasn't a great deal like faith, was it? Then there was Peter went and denied Him three times, and the Lord knew he was goin' to do it; and well He knew that Judas would betray Him into the hands of them that would crucify Him on the cross, but He sat down with them all at the table and gave to them his last commands, and shared with them the sacramental bread and wine. Why, I think He did it a-purpose, so's that we should not set ourselves up above anybody.

"I suppose it's natural that you and this 'Veza,' and a good many other folks, should feel the way you do, for I've been there myself before now. There's been times when I have knowed evil about our church members, and such evil that it seemed as though I couldn't pass the bread and wine to 'em or take it myself in their comp'ny; but somehow I fell back on the Lord—how He set there and ate the supper with them He knowed well was false, and murderous, and deceitful,—and I thought if He could do it who was I to set up that I couldn't?

"'Veza' says he knows there is better Christians in the Church than he is. Well, if that's so, why can't he train with them? And how does he know but what some of these folks he despises are sayin' in their own hearts, 'God be merciful to me a sinner!' whilst that he is thankin' God that he isn't as they are?

"I tell you, folks don't seem to understand that a man has got to grow in grace in the Church. It is a strait gate and a narrow way, and people will stray and stumble therein; but after all Christ says, 'Enter in at the strait gate,' and 'Whosoever, therefore, shall confess Me before men, him will I confess also before My Father which is in heaven; but whosoever shall deny Me before men, him will I also deny before My Father which is in heaven.' There's your orders, Cap'en." And the old man looked at me with such a grand, sweet look that I turned my own face away. I was not ready to speak.

Presently, however, words came to me. "But, Deacon Baxter, you must own that the sins and shortcomings of so-called Christians are a great stumbling-block to many."

"Yes, to them that want to stumble; but I never yet heared anybody that was really new-hearted and in dead airnest to serve the Lord, who was kept out of the Church by the poor professors in it, any more than you was kept out of the Fed'ral Army by the rascals and dead-beats you knowed was in your ridgiment when you 'listed. I am willin', and more than willin', to allow that the average Church member doesn't live as he'd ought to live, and them that do ought to stir up them that don't.

"The Lord said to Peter, 'When thou art converted, strengthen thy brethren,' as much as to say Peter wasn't converted; yet he was one of the twelve—one of the visible Church. So I b'lieve there is some in every church who ain't converted, and when they are, why, their duty is to strengthen the rest from their own experience. And there's some that are backsliders; they've died down to the roots as you may say, same as young trees will in a cold winter, or a long dry spell. But if the livin' root is in them, they'll sprout up agin an' grow. If it isn't, then they'll have to be cast into the fire for what I see. But neither for you nor for this 'Veza,' Cap'en is there any gettin' away from the Word of God. 'He that is not for Me is against Me.' And I can't add nothing to the Word of the Lord, for it is his, not mine."—The Boston Congregationalist.

LECTURES ON ELOCUTION.—The first of four lectures on the art of reading and speaking, arranged by the Open-air Mission, was delivered in the Exeter Hall on the 4th inst., by Rev. Alex. J. D. D'Orsey, Professor of Elocution in Kings' College. Mr. George Williams presided. There was a very good attendance, including some ladies, and as the physical side of elocution—the attitude, the voice, the breath, articulation, and pronunciation—was dwelt upon, it was manifest that the lecturer was closely and sympathetically followed by his interested audience.

THE CHRISTIAN VESSEL.

"In a great house there are not only vessels of gold and of silver, but also of wood and of earth; and some to honour, and some to dishonour. If a man therefore purge himself from these, he shall be a vessel unto honour, sanctified, and meet for the master's use, prepared unto every good work."—2 Tim. ii. 20, 21.

THE Master's house is a "great house," he needs many vessels of different materials, and for various purposes. Whatever the material of which the vessel is made, there are four requisites that it may be "unto honour:" (1) purged; (2) sanctified; (3) meet for the Master's use; (4) prepared unto every good work.

Vessels of Gold and of Silver.—We are reminded here of the vessels used in tabernacle and temple service, golden basins for the blood, golden dishes for the bread, golden flagons for the wine, golden snuffers, snuff dishes, and oil vessels, for the lamps. Then there were the silver sockets for the foundations of the tabernacle, silver fillets and hooks, silver vessels, attached to the brazen altar. To prepare these, the gold and silver needed refining that the dross might be purged away by the fire. In figure we see the refining process through which God passes his people that they may be fit for his use. "He is like a refiner's fire, and He shall sit as a refiner and purifier of silver" (Mal. iii. 2, 3). He sits and watches until the reflection of Himself is visible in the hearts and lives of those whom He is refining. Abraham was a man of mighty faith, and God put him through various trials of faith. At length he heated the furnace seven times, and tried this heart of faith by the command, "Take thy son Isaac, and offer him for a burnt offering." When Abraham had obeyed the command, had bound Isaac, and taken the knife to slay his son, the voice from heaven was heard, "Lay not thy hand upon the child." God had seen in Abraham the reflection of his purpose not to spare his only begotten Son, the true Isaac, and the trial of Abraham's faith was ended. He came forth "a vessel for the finer." If we would be honoured in special service in the sanctuary, and be found prepared unto every good work, we must cheerfully and willingly submit to the refiner, and the refiner's fire. Self must be consumed, all impurity of motive must be purged away, all the faith that God esteems so precious must be tried to its utmost power of endurance.

Vessels of Wood and of Earth.—These are the vessels for everyday and ordinary use—for the Master's constant use in his house. A wooden vessel is formed out of the rough timber, and must undergo the sharp cutting of saw, plane, and chisel. The Lord finds many knots and gnarls in the rough material, from which He fashions these vessels, and He knows how to use the sharp tools of discipline and trial. He will shape our lives according to his own design, and the pattern after which we are made will be a heavenly one.

An earthen vessel is made out of the clay under the hands of the potter. "We are the clay" (Is. lxiv. 8). Some are inclined to boast of superiority of ancestry, but after all it is only clay. To be made into vessels the clay must needs be soft to receive the impression of the hand of the potter. It must be free from grit and other hard substances, otherwise it will not yield to the hand. God would have us as the clay, able to take the impression, and yield to the pressure of his will. He must remove all the grit of self and pride, and the many hard substances that find their way in, otherwise "the vessel will be marred in the hands of the potter" (Jer. xviii. 5). Adam came forth from under the hand of God with all the splendid impress on him of his Maker, but how soon that mark was defaced by the hand of the enemy who marked him with sin.

The wheel was a horizontal disk on which the clay was placed, and made to rotate rapidly. Day by day, the wheel of our life spins round, and God would fashion us by our daily circumstances and surroundings. When the wheel stops how will He finds us? Finished or unfinished? Unto honour or dishonour? Complete or marred? Has He not frequently almost stopped the wheel, and, finding the vessel marred, has "made it again another vessel, as it hath pleased Him"? Many can thank God for the change in their lives, produced through sickness sanctified to their souls.

The hand that should be on us is a pierced hand—the hand of Jesus—otherwise it must be the hand of the evil one. What impressions can be traced? A seared conscience, a scarred visage, an unfeeling heart, are the well-known marks of the dark hand of the prince of evil. A submissive will, a chastened mind, an unselfish heart, a tender sympathy, are the marks of the pierced hand. Wherever that hand is laid there must be left the marks of the cross.

And yet, almighty power and almighty love are combined in the utmost tenderness of touch, and for effectual working. All the famous porcelain works have their private marks burned into the vessels they produce, so that they can be easily identified at any time. So the Great Potter has placed his private mark on all who are his handiwork, and the mark has been burned in by the fire of his love, thus becoming indelible, and easy of identification.

The vessel made and marked, and prepared in the furnace, is now fit for use, and is to be in constant use, by being filled with treasure. A glance at some of the earthen vessels mentioned in the Bible and their uses may serve to illustrate this matter. Rebekah's pitcher (Gen. xxiv.) was full of the treasure of cold water, for a weary traveller and his thirsty camels; and, though she knew it not, that water was an answer to a special prayer. The bason held in the hand of the father of the family on the Passover night contained the treasure of the blood that would secure life and salvation. The cruse of oil, all that was left to the poor widow, was an earthen vessel full of treasure, for from it she filled a houseful of borrowed vessels. The pitcher in Gideon's hand contained another earthen vessel within—a lamp to shine in the darkness, and startle the sleeping enemy. The bason of water in the hands of the blessed Master on the evening of his betrayal was an earthen vessel full of treasure. So the vessel may contain water of life, blood of atonement, oil of the Holy Spirit, light to shine, or water for cleansing, and the Master would have us all ready to be used in conveying these various treasures of grace for Him, as He shall appoint.

Look for a moment into yonder house. It is breakfast-time, and the little white earthenware mug stands full of milk on the table for little Mary. Afterwards it is washed and put away ready for use, and in the course of the morning her little brother asks for a drink of water. Mary fills her mug and gives it to him. Again the vessel is put aside ready for use. A friend calls and leaves a nosegay of flowers. Down runs the child to fill her mug with water to revive the flowers, and the house is filled with their perfume. At the door later on a poor creature falls fainting and exhausted, and the mug, ready again, is quickly brought containing some wine or other restorative, that is poured down the sufferer's throat; and yet again, in the evening, a lamp upstairs is burning dim for lack of oil, then Mary will carry a fresh supply in her mug. It is only an earthen vessel, but it is prepared for every good work by being kept clean. What shall we be? Only vessels, to do one thing, only a Sunday-school teacher, only a tract distributor, only a Church member. Let us ask the Master to use us in every way He chooses. Let us be for Him the bason wherewith He may wash some soiled ones, or a vessel wherewith He may give of the milk of the Word to his babes, or the bearer of the message of atoning blood, or all these, as He may have need. Let us purge ourselves from all filthiness of flesh and spirit; be sanctified by the truth, and reserved absolutely for his use, and for no other.

If not a "vessel of mercy," then a "vessel of wrath." If not full of treasure, then full of vinegar. If not in his hand for his use in his household, then to be dashed in pieces, and to be but a potsherd cast away amongst the rubbish.

G. Soltau.

◆

THE DESTRUCTION OF HELL GATE.

"Hell Gate" was the name given to some dangerous reefs and rocks in the channel to New York harbour. Excavations many acres in extent, and galleries many miles in length, were made, and the whole mass blown up.

WAS it a vision, a dream of the night?
Nay, a reality, mighty and true!
Lo, in the distance, Heaven's harbour in sight!
But the black rocks—could my bark venture through?

Darkly they rose, reefs of terror and sin,
Dangers and judgments—oh! how could I pass?
Reach the calm waters of mercy within?
How could I enter those hell-gates of brass?

Strangely the vision was changed, and I saw
Still, tranquil wavelets of beauty and love;
While the bright sun seemed divinely to draw
O'er the hushed sea, where soft winds made me move.

Where were the reefs and the flood rocks of death?
Where was the hell-gate so near to my rest?
"Angels," I cried with a full thankful breath,
"Tell me this mystery, wondrous and blest."

Near to my side stood a messenger fair:
"Brother," he said, "'tis thy Saviour's great deed:
Sapping the rocks of eternal despair,
Long years He laboured in hardships and need."

"Dark was the region, and deep were His woes:
Hidden, unseen, was the toil of His life;
Mining a blackness that He only knows;
Waves rolling over Him—waters of strife.

"Then came the moment of triumph and joy.
'Finished!' He cried, and the rending earth quailed,
Shattering all He had worked to destroy:
Perfect the deed—not a tittle had failed.

"Brother, behold Him! the Mighty, the Wise,
Taking away the vast sin of the race!
Now, not a reef, not a barrier, lies
Across the deep track to the Haven of Grace."

Thanks, mighty Worker, alone in thy work!
Thanks for removing the danger, the death.
Open the sea-way! no terrors now lurk
Near the fair capital bright to our faith.

Was it a vision, a dream of the night?
Nay, it was blessedly, perfectly true.
Lo, in the distance Heaven's harbour in sight—
Safely God's Spirit now pilots me through.

William Luff.

A PERSONAL WORD will often change a vote in politics, and few citizens hesitate to do this much for party. A personal word will often induce the sinful to forsake his sins and be saved. Why is it that there are so few of the followers of Christ to work in this way for the Master?—New York Independent.

EARTH-TIED.

"Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth."
Matt. vi. 19.

BY the very position of a man's face, it is clear that earthly scenes are not the only ones meant for his eyes. His face is placed so that he is able, just at will, to look either earthward or heavenward. He who sees nothing but earth all around him loses one-half of the good scenery that is meant for him.

Man should not become earth-tied. God's word bristles with pointers pointing away from earth. Even on earth itself God has placed countless little pointers—all pointing away from it. Under man's very feet, the grass of the fields points myriads of little blades towards the sky. The flowers of earth open their petals towards the sun, and cast their fragrance heavenward. The forests of earth wave innumerable branches towards heaven. The little hills lift their heads towards the sky, and the mountains pierce the very clouds—all pointing away from earth.

A child of God laying up for himself "treasures upon earth" is a great contradiction; but, alas, it is not an unknown thing. You can know yourself readily if you are an earth-tied child of God. These are among the symptoms:—

A Neglected Bible. The old Book has lost some of its usual charm. There is but little about mere earthly treasures in that Book, and for that reason it does not interest you so much as the novel, or the daily newspaper that gives news of elections, markets, stocks, shares, securities, and dividends; news of fashions, dress-fabrics, balls, parties, marriages; news of dark deeds—the offspring of drink and passion.

Another symptom is Lack of Interest in God's Service. You have no real pleasure in communing with God, and seeking out ways, and ideas, and words, by means of which you can, with God's help, interest others in the matter of salvation. You feel hard and cold. You shrink from speaking to any one about his spiritual welfare. You think it is out of place. But you can talk to any one about current events, which are comparatively of no moment to either of you.

A Habitual Neglect of the Prayer Meeting. You are there on some great or special occasion, perhaps, but from the regular social prayer meeting you are almost invariably absent. When you happen to come, you feel uneasy lest you should be asked to pray. If called upon you feel you had rather be let alone. It is an irksome task. A brother Christian puts his hand kindly on your arm, and says as you leave, "I am glad to see you here; we shall be glad to see you again amongst us." You have the ready excuse: "Can't leave business." Whenever I hear that, or a similar phrase, used, I know that I am in the neighbourhood of a soul that is sticking fast in this earth's mud.

True, you put your shilling, your half-crown, your guinea, perhaps your five or fifty pound note on the plate, or on the subscription list. You feel in your heart that you have done a good thing, and so you have, for it is the very dust that clogs the healthy action of your heart. Clear more of it out.

Child of God, be not deceived. The best of earthly treasure is only for a season. You know this well, but you have never realised it. Let earth pour its treasures into your house, and bless the Lord for it; but let it not pour any into your heart. Your soul can cling to earthly treasures only for a few years at most, "and what good is there to the owners thereof, saving the beholding of them with their eyes?"—Ec. v. 11.

Bath. John Saunders.

◆

DR. PENTECOST ON ELECTION.

NO subject has in past days been discussed by the Church of Christ with more earnestness and intensity of feeling, indeed with more heat of temper, acrimony, and bitterness, than that of Election. This generation has, however, to a great extent, allowed the controversy to cease. So far as this is consequent upon enlarged conceptions of the love and righteousness of God, and of the freeness of the Gospel, it is matter for rejoicing; but so far as it arises from the more superficial character of the age, and a declining habit of searching the Scriptures, it is not a good sign of the times.

Dr. Pentecost, however, has raised the question, and a little attention to it, conducted in a brotherly and courteous spirit, will do good and not harm.

Mr. Gosse has called attention to the fact that in other passages, and, as he has shown, specially in the words of the Lord Jesus, election is affirmed; and the reverent spirit which Mr. Gosse desiderates is essential in those who seek to understand it. But in the Epistle to the Romans the doctrine is more systematically and formally argued out than elsewhere, and a sound exegesis of chapters viii.—xi. would explain the doctrine wherever it occurs; and the doctrine permeates all Scripture.

We have received several communications, chiefly on the affirmative side. One friend, who doubtless thinks he is speaking moderately, and holding fast the form of sound words, thus expresses his view:—

> I deem it unnecessary to prove the doctrine of original sin, as I presume all who are readers of your paper are quite convinced of its truth, but I mention it, as it is of the utmost importance in dealing with the subject. What is the extent of this sin, and what its punishment? See Rom. v. 12, from which text you will see that Adam's sin brought sin into the world, and, as the consequence of that sin, the sentence of death is passed upon every one born into the world; so that if it were possible for a man to live a hundred years without having a single evil thought, he would be guilty of the sin of Adam, and sentenced to eternal damnation for that sin; such we believe is the state of man on entering into the world—born in sin.

We can only say that if Scriptures can be produced affirming this view, we accept the teaching, because we believe that all Scripture is given by inspiration of God. But unless such Scripture exists, and it does not, we are bound to regard such a conception as inconsistent with the revealed Word of God. And here let us remark that the bitterness of controversy is likely to ensue when we cite suppositious and confessedly impossible cases, and apply a process of à priori argument to the revelation of God, adding to the words which He has spoken our own conclusions, and treating them as if they were part of his revelation. Our friend signs himself "One who believes in Rev. xxii. 17." We beg his prayerful attention to the two following verses, 18, 19.

We are blamed by some of our best friends for publishing Dr. Pentecost's papers. They had already been printed in America, and had, at least in outline, been delivered in this country. Our readers had, therefore, an interest in reading his statement of doctrine. We are conscious that Dr. Pentecost's papers are too controversially expressed. This we regret. Had we foreseen how much feeling they would have evoked we should not have reproduced certain passages. But we do not think that this generation should be debarred from an inquiry, which our readers, we are firmly assured, are able to conduct in a calm, courteous, and Christian spirit. We want to know the truth; and the time is come when every subject, in theology, as well as in morals and in politics, will be inquired into with the advantage of the accumulated wisdom and experience of the past.

The main idea of Dr. Pentecost appears to be that Election has not to do with individual persons, but with the plan according to which men are saved.

We confess that this does not appear to us a satisfactory exposition. Again and again, in the New Testament, persons are spoken of as being chosen. One great difficulty of the doctrine of Election has been imported into it by the false view which some theologians have entertained of God's sovereignty. They have represented God's decrees as arbitrary edicts of his own will for which there was no foundation beyond his will: whereas God's will is based upon his holiness and righteousness, and all the other attributes composing his character, which is love; just as the seven colours form the white and colourless light.

Theologians have dealt with Election, or Predestination, as though that were the ultimate element, whereas beyond predestination is foreknowledge: "Whom He did foreknow, He also did predestinate." Certainly this is a mystery of God; but we need not add to its mysteriousness by treating a part as if it were the whole. It is unfair towards God and man to profess to explain predestination apart from foreknowledge. There is no difficulty about foreknowledge, and foreknowledge relieves predestination of the difficulty which has attached to it when it has been treated as if it were an arbitrary act of God, in choosing one and rejecting another of two persons or two classes of persons, who were equally eligible or equally ineligible, apart from such election.

That is a misrepresentation of the facts. "Whom He did foreknow, He also did predestinate." Why did He predestinate? Because He foreknew. What did He foreknow? He foreknew the individual and his character. He foreknew Abel as one who would repent, and believe, and worship, whereas Cain, who was of that wicked one, would not; and He predestinated Abel.

He foreknew Abram as the fittest slip of the vine of the earth, to be taken out of the forest of humanity, and planted in a very fruitful hill, in order to test the whole vine; and He predestinated Abram. He foreknew the Son of his love as the only possible Saviour of mankind, and He became his elect Servant in whom his soul delighted. He foreknew all who, like Abel and Abram, would yield their will in obedience to his will, and He chose them in Christ before the foundation of the world.

We do not pretend that this covers the whole ground, but we ask that attention be paid to the revealed beginning of the subject, and we contribute this reference to foreknowledge as an element not to be overlooked. There is a mystery of God; but predestination based upon foreknowledge is not outside the range of the intelligible portion of that mystery.

THE DUKE OF WESTMINSTER has consented to become President of the Hospital for Women, Soho-square, in place of the late Earl of Shaftesbury.

THE STEAD PROSECUTION.

FOR some months the world has been astonished, if not edified, by the spectacle of the foremost country "in the foremost files of time" laboriously straining out a gnat and swallowing wild beasts. The Government of this enlightened nation has prosecuted, with an energy worthy of a better cause, a number of persons who have wrought a comparatively infinitesimal wrong with a good intent and with a beneficent result, while they have taken no action against a woman who, during more than a dozen years, has carried on the infamous traffic in flesh and blood which it was the design of those who have been prosecuted to suppress. Nay, more: the Government not only left it to a Society to prosecute Mrs. Jeffries, but wantonly refused, after a verdict had been obtained, to give the Society, as is usual in such cases, even a portion of the fine towards the expenses of the prosecution. And while Mrs. Jeffries is still engaged, unmolested and with impunity, in pursuing her atrocious and criminal business, against William Stead, Rebecca Jarrett, Bramwell Booth, and Thomas Jacques, all the ingenuity of the Detective Police and all the weight of a Government prosecution, conducted by the Attorney-General, a chief legal member of the Government, has been brought to bear.

And this last fact leads to the observation that the Government as a whole, and the Attorney-General in particular, as the law adviser of the Crown, have been also on their trial. Having undertaken this prosecution (at whose dictation will be an interesting question at a later stage), it has been a necessity for the Government to justify its action in having done so. But, as in a well-known ancient examination the judge and not the prisoner trembled, so has it been in this case. During the three hours in which the Court was waiting for the verdict, it was remarked to Mrs. Josephine Butler that never had there been seen such a cheerful company of prisoners and their friends. She replied, "The reason is because we have a good conscience."

And not only have the Government and the Attorney-General been on their trial, but also a large portion of the Press. No wonder, therefore, that with a unanimity and harmony that would be beautiful if the cause were just, the daily papers have laid down their arms for a moment, and shaken hands over the issue of this case.

We find no fault with the verdict. The twelve honest men in the jury-box (and we believe no case could be more fairly and anxiously considered) gave a verdict according to the evidence, and while we write the country waits to see what the Judge will do with the convicted persons.

We do not defend or apologise for the line of action taken by Mr. Stead. From our point of view the detective system which he pursued is morally wrong, and, therefore, essentially and entirely wrong. But no one has a right to denounce his method who does not denounce our whole detective system. What Mr. Stead did to collect information, by visiting bad places, and deceiving the people with false representations, is exactly what every man of the detective force is engaged and paid to do. But while we do not justify Mr. Stead in this, we can with all fairness say much in excuse of a man set on fire by the recital of inhuman atrocities, and shut up to a few weeks wherein to carry the Criminal Law Amendment Act, under which, since it has become law, more than two hundred men have been convicted and punished, few of whom would otherwise have been interfered with for their infamies.

With singular audacity, or ignorance, or untruthfulness, The Times declares that "Mr. Stead and Jarrett have been convicted, and their conviction is in effect an acquittal of the English people of a foul slander which has gone abroad." In the first place, the English people were not charged with the foul atrocities which have been exposed; one of the grandest popular demonstrations ever made proved at once that the people believed the charge concerning those against whom it was made, and that the English people, as such, were not guilty of it. If the statements were not true, why was the Criminal Law Amendment Act passed? Were both Houses of Parliament and the English people who urged them on, hoodwinked and befooled by a "fanatical editor," as The Standard calls Mr. Stead, and an "abandoned woman," as the Attorney-General and Judge Lopes describes Rebecca Jarrett? If the charges are untrue, is Mr. Howard Vincent an inventor of lies? for the "Secret Commission" asserted nothing worse than he had stated. Is the Blue Book containing the report of the Lords' Committee a fabrication? for nothing has been charged which is not abundantly substantiated there. If the statements are false, is the whole world mad? for from every Continental nation, from America, and from the Antipodes, have come the ashamed confession that the crimes asserted here are perpetrated there.

The address of the Attorney-General, and the summing-up of the Judge, have shown more than a tendency to ease off the pressure of the charge against Mr. Stead, and to make Rebecca Jarrett the sin-bearing scapegoat. Jarrett was forced into the matter by Mr. Stead, and no one would lament it more than he if the evident drift of the Judge's summing-up should be carried out in the sentence.

The Attorney-General is said to be a Christian, and to have taken an active part in the last West-end mission. We can only say the way in which, in spite of her pathetic protest against inquiry into her past life, which had nothing to do with this case, he wantonly, needlessly, raked it up, appears to us the reverse of Christian. And the way in which the Judge dwelt upon the contradictions in her evidence, and passed over those in the evidence of Mrs. Armstrong and Mrs. Broughton, appears to us a very lame example of judicial fairness.

We are authorised to say that Mrs. Butler is preparing a narrative of which Rebecca Jarrett will be the chief subject, and the public will see the other side of the picture drawn by the prosecution and the Judge.

FOREIGN SEAMEN IN MARSEILLES.—The Local Committee of Management of the Strangers' Rest here appeal for the aid of Christian friends in meeting a deficiency of over £150 caused by the visitation of cholera for two succeeding summers. The importance of such a work in a port like Marseilles, and the undoubted blessing graciously vouchsafed to it by God hitherto are sufficient reasons for maintaining so useful an effort on behalf of seamen of all nationalities. It is earnestly hoped the above sum will be promptly subscribed, and thus remove the burden from Mr. C. E. Faithfull, who commenced the work, and, though living at Nice, still continues to direct it. Mr. Faithfull's address is, Villa & Avenue, Carabacel, Nice.

SPAIN.—Mr. Wm. Jelly, Calle Colon B., Valencia, writes us of the great wealth of the country everywhere, and of the gross waste, filth, and ignorance of the people. The bull ring, which holds 18,000 to 20,000 people, is packed every Sunday; theatres and cafés all filled, and most luxurious and pompous processions, all out of the people's pocket; while wine and tobacco do their work from six years old and upwards. The very rich harvest of corn, wine, oil, fruits, and vegetables of all kinds have been in greatest abundance, and there is no crying for bread in this land, nor has been since the heavy snows and floods of last year.

THE McALL MISSION IN FRANCE.

DEAR SIR,—It will interest readers of THE CHRISTIAN, and will, we trust, call forth their prayerful sympathy, to know that Lord Radstock and Colonel Paschhoff have arranged to hold a series of special meetings, from the 13th to 22nd, inclusive, of this month, in our hall, 404, Rue S. Honoré. Lord Radstock is now in Trouville, where M. Réveillaud joins him for two days' service, on the 8th and 9th inst.

The work here has gone on with much success during the summer and autumn. The large and attentive audiences have greatly encouraged the workers, and we hope for a good time of ingathering this winter. Those who have known the Paris work in years gone by will be glad to learn that we are beginning work again, in January, in the Rue Royale. A spacious hall has been put up in No. 23, and Mr. McAll has taken it for our nightly meetings, while M. Armand Delille reopens his afternoon meetings as in the old days, and the English Congregational Church will again meet on Sunday mornings and evenings. Thus we shall have seized both extremities of the great boulevards. With our large hall, 9, Boulevard Bonne Nouvelle—open and well filled night by night, and 23, Rue Royale also occupied, may we not hope for great things to be accomplished by the good hand of our God upon us?

We have now one hundred halls open in France in connection with the Mission, thirty-five being in Paris and the environs.

From Marseilles, Lyons, S. Etienne, Toulouse, Le Rochelle, Rochefort, Bordeaux, Nimes, Cannes, Algiers, &c., good tidings reach us week by week. We desire the prayers of all interested in the evangelisation of this great country, that the winter may be one of special blessing and power.

Yours faithfully, W. SOLTAU.

32, Rue Pierre-Guérins, Auteuil, Paris, Nov. 6.

◆

YOUNG WOMEN'S BUSINESS AGENCY.

THE Y.W.C.A., in consequence of the proved usefulness and general appreciation of the work of its employment agency department, has recently opened a branch agency for the special benefit of those engaged in business. The advantages of this agency to employées are that, in addition to the services of the registrar, applicants out of employment may use the office as a resting-place during the day, or, by paying one penny, have a comfortable reading-room, well supplied with books and newspapers, while, in the restaurant below, they may obtain hot dinners and teas at most moderate prices. To employers it offers the means of saving time and of securing a good class of workers. The office is open daily, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.; Saturdays, 2 p.m. to 6 p.m.

All applications to be addressed to Miss Hall, 101, Mortimer-street, Regent-street, W., from whom urther particulars may be obtained.

WORKING LADS' INSTITUTE, WHITECHAPEL.—The contributions received in connection with the opening ceremony amount to about £1000, out of £3000 required before the swimming-baths and lecture-hall can be commenced. As these buildings are urgently required, one friend has offered £100, if nineteen others will contribute a similar sum before the end of November. This would enable the committee to commence the buildings forthwith.

"JESUS WILL SEND US SOMETHING."—A missionary in Brooklyn, related at the Fulton-street prayer-meeting the following incident that occurred very recently in his city: In a house where there was even less one morning than the handful of meal and the little oil in a cruse of Zarephath's widow, a little girl went to work to set the breakfast table. "It's no use putting the plates on the table," said her mother, "for we have not a mouthful in the house to eat." "But Jesus will send us something," said the little girl, "for I have just been praying to Him for it." And already help was at the door. A friend had been impressed thus early in the day—before breakfast-time—to send a silver dollar, and the individual who conveyed the help had reason to know, from something unintentionally overheard, that the help was thus timely and acceptable.

ELISHA AT DOTHAN.

We will give the explanations we have received in what appears to us an advancing order, from darkness to light. The least intelligent in our view is that given in "The Speaker's Commentary," and endorsed in "The Biblical Museum":—

Untruth has been held by all moralists to be justifiable towards a public enemy. Where we have a right to kill, much more have we a right to deceive by stratagem.

This is bad in morals and religion, and unsound and unsatisfactory in exposition. It approves of doing evil that good may come. In this view Elisha not only deceived by stratagem, but told a downright lie.

Where is the "difficulty"? Surely no one supposes that Elisha did what he considered to be wrong. Even if he had done so, he would only have shown that Bible saints were not perfect in holiness. We read that Abraham blamefully deceived Pharaoh. Why should we not frankly admit that Elisha's conception of what was right may have been an imperfect one? Supposing in this particular case we can explain away the apparent deception, we cannot explain away David's approval of the deception practised on Absalom by Hushai. We need some wide principle to cover these moral "difficulties" of the Old Testament generally, and then, if single "difficulties" can be solved apart from the principle, well and good. It is thus that we treat miracles. We grant the occurrence of the miraculous, yet on evidence would accept a non-miraculous interpretation of any single supposed miracle, as, for instance, the staying of the sun by Joshua.

The principle to go upon is laid down by the Apostle in the words, "the times of ignorance." Just as young children cannot judge of what is right and wrong so well as older people can, so in pre-Christian times, as now in heathen lands, even the best men had but very imperfect moral enlightenment. We need feel no "difficulty" in admitting this, for, as the late Frederic Myers pointed out in his "Catholic Thoughts on the Bible and Theology," "our safety does not lie in the present perfection of our knowledge of the will of God, but in our sincerity in obeying the light we have, and in seeking for more." In matters of conduct our standard is not Elisha, but Christ, "the image of the invisible God."

Falmouth. Edward Worsdell.

Dear Sir,—Allow me to send you an explanation of the apparent falsehood of Elisha alluded to by Mr. R. Burn. I was led to consider the subject, as the newly started Bible-class at the Y.M.C.A. here on Sunday is using at present the International Lessons.

The whole point turns on the question as to what Elisha meant when he said, "This is not the way, neither is this the city." What way? What city? The Syrians knew for certain that they were at Dothan, because they were already there, and had compassed the city round about (ver. 14). Elisha could not have hoped to deceive them on that point. What follows makes it plain what he meant: "Follow me, and I will bring you to the man whom ye seek."

The Syrians did not care about Dothan itself; their object was to find Elisha. So when God had "opened" the eyes of the servant, and "shut" the eyes of the Syrians, Elisha goes outside the city to them, and says as it were: This is not the way (to find Elisha), and this is not the city (where you will find him, because he had left it, and was going to Samaria). Come with me, and I will bring you to him.

If he had told them that Dothan was the city where he was to be found, that would have been a lie; but when he took them to Samaria, and the Lord opened their eyes, then they found that he had led them by the right way, and they were in the right city, and the man whom they sought was truly found by them, according to Elisha's promise.—Yours in the Lord, W. P. Partridge.

Beckenham.

Alex. Robertson, Oban, writes to much the same effect, which is also in accordance with Scott's "Commentary."

Dear Sir,—I questioned the boys of my class as to their opinion of the prophet's conduct on this occasion, and, whilst some thought that he had done right, several held that a deceit for any purpose must be wrong in God's sight. I unhesitatingly gave my support to the latter view, reminded them how faithfully the Scriptures record the failings of God's saints, and impressed upon them the necessity of taking as their example the Lord Jesus, and Him alone. Are not these the lessons which we are intended to gather from this very interesting passage?—Very faithfully yours,

G. Herbert Carpenter.

7, Bushey Hill-road, Camberwell, S.E.

Dear Sir,—In reference to my letter in a recent issue, the solution of the apparent difficulties respecting Elisha's statement to the Syrians (2 Kings vi. 19) is, that, although God revealed to Elisha all the King of Syria's plans against the King of Israel, we are not told that God revealed to Elisha that the Syrian king's attack was now directed against himself. When the prophet saw the Syrian host he concluded that they were still seeking the King of Israel. He used the power of prayer for his own immediate protection, and then informed his stricken foes that they had come wrong, but he would guide them to the man whom they sought; and he led them to Samaria, where they received back their sight, and found themselves in the power of the King (ver. 21).—Yours truly, 186, Aldersgate-street, E.C. Robert Burn.

Dear Sir,—The inquiry of Mr. Burn respecting Elisha's conduct admits of a definite explanation. The desire of the King of Syria was to capture the King of Israel; having for this object previously sent out detachments of his army. These efforts had been defeated by the warnings given by Elisha. On this being known in Syria, the king sends to arrest the prophet, so to prevent any further warning being given; Elisha, well instructed in the design, offers to conduct them to the man whom they sought; and this he does. But his calmness and confidence in his God are truly admirable. In nowise disturbed about his own safety, he leads these soldiers a long march from Dothan to Samaria; during which, had any one of them recovered his sight, surely his life would have been taken on the outburst of their indignation.

The mercy of God towards the Gentile was signally displayed both in forbearing to destroy these enemies of his people, and in their subsequent refreshment and release without injury; carrying back with them undeniable evidence of the futility of all efforts against the God of Israel, and also of his generosity towards themselves.

Waveridge Lawn, Malvern. Robert Nelson.

It will be seen that the two last replies regard the man sought not to be Elisha but the King of Israel. The prophet was only the means to an end. He was only wanted because he enabled the king to escape the ambuscades of the King of Syria. We prefer Mr. Nelson's reply because he attributes neither deception, nor ignorance, nor dimness of perception, to the prophet. Elisha was acting as a servant of God, in full and intelligent communion, and with a conscience void of offence toward God and man.

Mr. Burn notes the reading of "And" instead of "But he led them to Samaria." The A.V. takes for granted that Elisha did not, the R.V. shows that he did, fulfil his promise.

It is quite true that David and other saints in the Old and New Testament failed and sinned when they were not walking in the light; but here Elisha is fully in the Spirit, and his special ministry is to show to the King of Syria, through his army, the power and wisdom and grace of the God of Israel.

CABMEN IN FINSBURY PARK.—Our Cabmen, writes Mr. Orchard, of the Finsbury Y.M.C.A., are now receiving our earnest attention. Anyone passing the cab-stand at the bottom of Stroud Green-road, Finsbury Park, must be struck with the fact that many hours of the day are spent by these men without the slightest possible shelter, in one of the coldest spots in the north of London. No wonder that the public-house is resorted to, where warmth and light are to be had for nothing. Our President has promised £10 10s. towards the expense of erecting a cab shelter, and we shall be grateful to know that our efforts are supported, so that ere the winter fairly sets in we may have the privilege of knowing something has been done for the comfort of these men. The estimated cost for a suitable shelter is from £100 to £150.

POPERY IN SARDINIA.

Dear Sir,—How different is the way of salvation, as set forth in the Scriptures, to that imposed upon the people by Romish teaching, and yet how strange it is to see so many even in England with their faces Romewards! A Sassari Correspondent writes to a Continental paper the following lines in regard to "Redemption for Money":—

"In this town (Sassari) the authorities tolerate strange things. It is surprising how people invent redemptions for money nowadays," and the writer goes on and says, "Now we hear that a widow makes the sister of her confessor the sole heiress of her property. Another widow leaves all her substance to the parish church, constituting as executor the priest, who sells the property and pockets the money. Again, we hear that a widow is not allowed by the priest to die in peace until she promises a sum of money for the performances of masses. Just now, a priest, having got the loan of money, does not return it, and, at the death of his creditor, declares the debt condoned. . . . . The dying man is threatened with the eternal flames of hell, he is frightened, he is tormented. . . . . and at last he gives way and pays. Could the magistrates not occupy themselves a little with these matters? If they cannot, might not the legislators study to form some remedial law?"

Seeing sacred things abused to such a degree, I am glad to find that many of the young in this land abandon Popery. Last year five students left a seminary near Sassari, with a strong determination not to return. When the Bishop asked them, "Why do you thus leave religion, and make it appear contemptible to the people?" their answer was, "We do not leave religion, but cleave to it more firmly than ever; it is you, by your unworthy conduct, your tyranny and avarice, that make the country irreligious. You give black for white and white for black." J. E. Thomas.

Sassari, Oct. 26.

SEAMEN'S CHRISTIAN FRIEND SOCIETY.

A very interesting meeting of the workers and friends of this Mission was held at the Seamen's Chapel, London Docks, on Tuesday, Nov. 3, under the presidency of Captain W. Dalrymple. Rev. G. J. Hill gave an encouraging account of the work of the Society's sea-coast stations, and several missionaries and workers gave brief statements of the various branches of the London work. Over one hundred meetings had been held, and about five hundred visits had been made to ships, boarding-houses, &c., every week during the past quarter.

The workers were addressed by Mr. William Green, of Highgate, who, after giving a cheering account of his summer's work among the children at Saltburn-on-Sea, proceeded to speak in a most helpful way of Gideon as a model for workers. Messrs. Wade, Young, and Blow (of the "Welcome Home") took part in the conference, and before the meeting closed several sailors bore personal testimony to benefit received from the Society's labours. Through enlargement of the work, together with losses occasioned through the decease of many generous supporters, this Mission is now in debt, and in much need of help.

GENESIS AND GEOLOGY.—On Friday week, Dr. Samuel Kinns, author of "Moses and Geology," delivered a lecture, in the Saloon, upon "The Remarkable Scientific Accuracy of the First Chapter of Genesis," illustrated with numerous diagrams and geological specimens. The Lord Mayor presided, and a large number of friends were present. Dr. Kinns' lecture was listened to with the greatest interest by the large audience. The Lord Chancellor, on the conclusion of the lecture, said it was a matter of congratulation that such a man as Dr. Kinns should be able to show that the Bible and the words of science had in them the same inspiration. It was a most interesting fact that the more such studies were pursued the more the words of the Bible were brought into harmony with the facts acquired by scientific research.

For the Young.

A BRIGHT SUNSET.

DID you ever watch the sun set? It is a lovely sight to see the King of Day going to rest in all the beauty of purple and golden clouds, making the western sky like a gate into heaven. I sat, on a lovely Sabbath evening, on the Mount of Olives, "over against Jerusalem." I watched the sun sink behind the "beloved city." It got lower and lower, until the domes and minarets seemed to lie against a back-ground of burning gold. I never saw the city looking so lovely as then.

It seems to me that the close of some lives is just such a sunset—more lovely in the end even than in the beginning, and we can only feel delight in looking at them. Such a sunset took place lately in Dunos Platery, Switzerland. You may remember seeing a notice of it in this paper. A beautiful life "set" there, to rise in the land where suns go no more down. A true friend of the children's, Miss Annie K. Fraser, went to see Jesus from among the hills of earth, and to walk with Him upon the hill of God.

All her life was a shining one. She felt that Jesus had told her to shine, and she obeyed; and every one saw the light. God's own people rejoiced to see it. Many of us feel sad to think we will see it here no more.

When only five years old, Miss Frazer began to work for Jesus. Think of that, little ones. You see she gave all her years to the Lord. That is the reason she always looked so happy.

As she grew older she got more work to do, until at last she had her hands quite full.

What were some of the things she did? you may ask. I will try and tell you. Along with a dear friend of her's, she conducted a Sabbath-school and Band of Hope in the Drummond district. And the pretty little meeting-house there now is just a result of this work. I am glad to hear that a tablet to her memory is to be erected in it by her scholars. But the memorial most pleasing to her would be to see the young people growing up to be polished stones in the Lord's temple. I hope all her pupils will remember this.

Then she had another Band of Hope in the Y.M.C.A. rooms, for town children—a most interesting meeting with a large attendance. Many a time she spoke to me about it, and of different young people in it, and her hopes and fears with regard to them. The Boys' Prayer-meeting especially she took a great delight in, and often spoke of how cheered she felt by the prayers offered there.

When we were together for a while in Germany, wherever we went, Annie's whole thought was to get interesting things to tell to her dear classes. She was like a person looking for treasure in all directions, not for herself only, but to share with those she loved. How well I remember her delight when she got anything she thought the children would like to hear—"I have got such a splendid story; I think I have now what will do me all the winter."

From this you can see how unselfish she was. She took that little trip just to fit her to do her work better. Yet after all, God did not allow her to use the stories so lovingly gathered. She wrote her dear class but a few times after her return. So mysterious are his ways.

We cannot tell you here of her work among cabmen, her visitation from house to house, her visit to Paris, where she helped Miss de Broen for a time. She was always fully occupied, and her working power taxed to the uttermost. The time came when this active service must cease, and our dear friend was called to serve her Master in the retirement of her sick room.

She did this part of her work in the same way she had done the rest, brightly, cheerfully, without a murmur or complaint. Many pleasant meetings I have had in that room, and have always come away the better for the visit. Indeed, so very bright and cheery was Annie, it was hard to realise she was ill.

After a time Miss Fraser was sent to Dunos Platery. We hoped the change there would restore her, and send her back to us well. Yet in all her letters you could see she had no will of her own in the matter. She was ready either to go or stay as the Lord willed. What cheerful letters she wrote! Sparkling with fun, so that in reading them you could sometimes fancy you heard her clear ringing laugh. I take one or two short extracts from a few of these letters.

All through her letters there was the same childlike spirit, so that it makes one glad, and never sad to read them. One day the kind doctor told her she could only live a little while. "How did she feel when she heard the tidings?" you may ask. The following little note, written with her own hand some hours before she died, will tell you:—

"Dear ——,—I am going to see Jesus. Glorious! Let me go. You will come soon. Cheer them up. Tell the boys and girls to come. Very nice minister, and everything done for me. Myself more comfortable. Cough nearly gone. Dear —— be willing. Love to all friends.—Yours till glory,

"Annie K. Fraser."

Is that not a sweet letter dear children? There was no fear—only great joy at going to see Jesus whom she loved. And she did see Him in a very little while after writing this.

Do you not agree with me, that this was a bright sun-set among the beautiful Swiss mountains?—"M.B.," in Highland News.

THE WONDERFUL.*

"His name shall be called Wonderful."—Isa. ix. 6.

And certainly it may well be called so; and that for many reasons. Of these I will mention only four.

(1) It means so much. Even the few talks we have had about it have helped to show what a wealth of meaning there is in the name of Jesus. There are unsearchable riches in his name. It is more full of significance than all other names together that the world has known. Richard Newton wisely puts "the wonderful name" first among the wonders of the Bible; and, after giving at least 150 of the titles that belong to Jesus, he says that he has not given them all, and cannot tell which is most beautiful.

(2) It has lasted so long. There are very few names that outlast their generation. Of the multitudes of men who lived upon the earth in the days of Jesus we know now only a very few names; and of those we do know, some are mere names and nothing more. Even famous names fade in lustre as the ages pass. But the name of Jesus shines forth with undying splendour. His memory will never fade. It will grow more and more vivid, if possible, as time goes on. For God has said, "I will make thy name to be remembered in all generations."

(3) It has travelled so far. Some men are counted great in one place, who are not so much as heard of in another. The head man in the village is not known in the nearest town; and the Town Provost's fame has not reached the neighbouring great city; and even the Prime Minister of England's name may not be familiar in some other countries. But where will you find me the land in which the name of Jesus has not been often said and sung? Its glad sound has gone forth unto all the earth. It has travelled to the remotest corners of the world.

(4) It has so much influence. While He lived on earth, the name of Jesus brought a spell over the hearts of multitudes who thronged to hear Him. After He departed, many miracles were wrought by his apostles in the name of God's holy Child, Jesus; and by faith in his name dead souls were made alive, as well as enfeebled bodies healed. Then, during the dark succeeding ages, the name of Jesus still lived on, a name of power, amid the overthrow of dynasties and the wreck of thrones. And in the world at this moment it has a more commanding influence than ever before. There are more Lives of Christ written than of any other hero, and they never want for readers. His is a name which men cannot put aside. They feel its influence in spite of themselves. Some rage against Him. Multitudes adore Him. As Napoleon said, "Alexander, Cæsar, and I were men; but I tell you Jesus Christ was more than man. We founded our empires upon force. He founded his on love; and to this day millions would die for Him."

There is no name like that of Jesus! It brings gladness to the heart in life; it gives comfort to the saint in death; it opens for the believer heaven's own gate. It is the name of greatest influence with men; it is the one name of influence with God. Is not Jesus, then, "the Wonderful"?

A BIBLE PYRAMID.

I am.
I am He.
I am the Door.
I am the true Vine.
I am the Bread of Life.
I am Alpha and Omega.
I am the Good Shepherd.
I am the Light of the World.
I am the Resurrection and the Life.
I am the Way, the Truth, and the Life.
I am He that liveth and was dead, and behold.
I am alive for evermore, and have the keys of hell and death.

[Will our young readers discover the references to these texts, without Concordance?]

ANSWER TO BURIED TEXT.

"I will be his God, and he shall be my Son."—Rev. xxi. 7.

I	Ps. cxvi. 1.
Will	John xv. 7.
Be	Eph. v. 1.
His	2 Tim. ii. 19.
God	Rom. viii. 31.
And	Ps. xxxvii. 3.
He	Matt. ii. 2.
Shall	Ps. xxxvii. 29.
Be	Rom. xii. 21.
My	Ps. xxiii. 1.
Son	Gal. ii. 20.

Answers received from K.S.W. H.Z. R.S. E.J.M.S. J.M.G. A.P. A.F.B. F.S. D.W.H. J.W.S. E.M.T. S.S. J.W.C. J.P.B. E.McB. G.E.K. T.F.T. C.T. E.N.B.

◆

A SUNDAY-SCHOOL CENTENARY.

IN October, 1785, Rev. Rowland Hill commenced the first Sunday-school in London, in connection with Surrey Chapel, Blackfriars-road, Southwark. The centenary was recently celebrated in Hawkestone Hall, adjoining Christ Church, the perpetuation of Surrey Chapel. The school is so named from the birthplace of the founder. A handsome clock was presented in the name of the teachers, by the President, Rev. Newman Hall, to Mr. Earl, the superintendent, whose jubilee was also celebrated, he having served the same school during fifty years. It was stated that during half this time he had never been absent from either morning or afternoon school; when away from home on vacation he would always return on Saturday for his Sunday work.

Mr. Watkins, another teacher in the same school during fifty years, narrated many interesting facts. At first each teacher was paid one shilling per Sunday, but with cessation of payment, the numbers and regularity of teachers had increased. In the list of successive superintendents were the names of Benjamin Neale (whose widow became the wife of John Angell James), and William Jones, of the Tract Society. During the hundred years 25,000 children had passed through the school, in which there are now 700 scholars and seventy teachers.

Rev. Burman Cassin, spoke in hearty sympathy on the motives of teachers; and Rev. F. Hastings with much enthusiasm on "bright Sunday-schools." In connexion with this school there are adult Bible-classes, an infant school, a Temperance society, and two special evangelistic services every week, with a children's band, from which many admissions are made to the church.

CHILDREN'S SCRIPTURE UNION.—Portions for the ensuing week:—Nov. 15, Exod. ix. 13—26 Nov. 16, ix. 27—35; Nov. 17, x. 1—15; Nov. 18 x. 16—29; Nov. 19, xi. 1—10; Nov. 20, xii. 1—13 Nov. 21, xii. 14—27.

---

* From a delightful little book for the children, just written by Rev. C. A. Salmond, Glasgow: Thy Saviour; or, Words to the Young about some of the Names of Christ. Charles Glass & Co., Glasgow. 1d.

THE PRESENT MORAL CRISIS.

AN APPEAL TO WOMEN.

By ELLICE HOPKINS.

AT the beginning of another winter's work, and at what we all realise to be a great moral crisis in the history of England, the deepest longing of my heart is to say a strengthening and a guiding word to the many earnest hearts who are fighting with me against the deadliest of all our world's evils, the enemy which is threatening to undermine the rock on which the life of the great English people has ever been based, the sanctity of the family, and the purity of the home—the very fountains of the national life.

Let me first express my deep thankfulness to God, who is so manifestly with us in this battle of the few against the many, of the one here and the one there who has moral backbone enough to stand up and say across all the evil of the world "I believe in God;" to give the lie to all history,

> "and cry supreme in right,
> This wrong is dead and damned to-night,
> Though through all ages it had held its sway."

For the last three weeks I have been moving from town to town, chiefly in the sleepy West of England, and I must honestly say that I am struck by the depth and magnitude of the work that has been done during the summer. I seemed to move about in a new world.

Everywhere, stirred hearts and quickened consciences and deepened sense of responsibility; everywhere, educated women willing to hear and suffer and pray and work in silence; everywhere, men ready to form Vigilance Associations for working the new Act; everywhere, the conviction, which till now we seemed to be bleeding out our lives alone in the dark to obtain, that young girls should not be suffered to be in our dens of infamy, nor be considered capable of disposing of themselves in a life of vice when they are legally incapable of disposing of the smallest bit of property. It is a new world.

Two great lessons I seem to learn from it all. First the irresistibility of the moral sense, which is God's voice within us, the word to which all things do bow and obey. Let men deride, hiss, ignore, trample you under their feet and beat you small; the world "will crystal out a kosmos" about the right thought, the world will in the end acknowledge the righteousness of those who > "Dare to be

> In the right, with two or three."

The second great truth one learns is that in this work at least God seems pre-eminently to bless sacrifice. The man who has thought no sacrifice too great to make in fighting the battle of English womanhood, the man who has thought no risk too great to his own life and reputation, nay, to his young wife and little children, in fighting the battle of our English children, however little we may approve of all that he has said and done in his difficult and hazardous task, is the man who has roused England. Across much unwise action and wrong method, across any amount of honest mistakes and blunders, God stretches out his hand to bless sacrifice. The only expression of bitter contempt that is ever recorded of our Lord is not to the blundering, the mistaken, or the erring, but to the indifferent—men and women, who, in a world where thousands of women and children are ground down in an oppression and degradation that has literally no name, don't care; whose ears are too nice to hear the cry of outraged children, whose delicacy is too fine to endure to know what weak women have to bear. "Because thou art neither hot nor cold, I will spue thee out of my mouth."

If God is teaching us anything, He is teaching us that we are not going to quench this pit of hell in our midst by emptying out our scent bottles upon it, giving a few sentimental good wishes to the work, that cost us nothing, and attending a few meetings to come away and merely say "How very dreadful!" There is but one thing in heaven or earth that will quench it—life-blood, and wherever that is given, God blesses. If you would save England, nay save your own boys, make sacrifices. Give money that really costs you something that you would like to have. Give time that you really want for something else. Care for three or four young girls and take real trouble over them. Give real thought to your young servants, to their safety and recreation, such as you would give to your own girls. Surrender some worldly advantage to keep your son pure. Incur some real unpopularity in excluding tainted men from your society. Make sacrifices.

And the humblest cup of cold water, given at some cost to ourselves, will glow and tremble and flush into the cup of blessing and grow eucharistic with his presence who gave Himself for us.

But, now, will my beloved fellow-workers allow me to give some warnings and directions as to how to help on this mighty movement and strengthen that which is good in it and minimise that which is evil; for both the warning and the directing post is needed on the difficult bit of the road that we have got to travel.

In the first place refuse to be drawn off by side issues. The irresistible tendency of human nature to go off on side issues makes me think that we must be descended through some long line of ancestry from crabs or some other sidling crustacean. Mrs. Fawcett, addressing her late lamented husband's constituents at a public meeting at Hackney, said some very wise words, which I venture to quote:—

"The enemies of our movement are making a great to-do about the question whether in his successful efforts to awaken the national conscience as to criminal vice Mr. Stead did or did not overstep the letter of the law. It is an important and interesting question to lawyers and those immediately concerned, but it has no general or national importance. Do not allow yourself to be diverted from the real centre and rallying point of this movement, which is, How and by what various means each one of us can resist the flesh and the devil, and finally beat down Satan under our feet. This trick of the enemy is a very old one. I remember well, at the time of the agitation on the Eastern question, that for a few weeks and months one would have thought that the right and wrong of the whole situation depended upon whether Mr. Malcolm McColl did or did not see the impaled body of a man on the Turkish bank of the Save. Mr. McColl said he did see it; the Philo-Turks said his heated imagination caused him to suffer from an optical delusion. Newspapers, Blue Books, and speeches discussed the matter at great length. At this distance of time we see quite clearly that the matter in dispute was of no importance at all. The right or wrong of Turkish rule over Bulgaria and Roumelia did not depend on the accuracy of Mr. McColl's eyesight. And so it is in this matter—the question how wisely to amend the law for the protection of girls, how to achieve the good administration of the law, and how by our life and conduct each individual can do something to lift up the whole nation to a purer and higher ideal of right and wrong as between men and women—that is the real question; and that does not in the least depend on the legality or illegality of the course of conduct which Mr. Stead felt it his duty to pursue four months ago. If Mr. Stead has unwittingly overstepped the limits of legality in his war against vice, he is not the man I take him to be, if he is not willing and ready to pay any penalty the law demands. A prison cell, I imagine, has very few terrors to a man who has done and suffered for his fellow-men and fellow-women what Mr. Stead has done."

These are wise words. To each one of us our Lord is saying, "Let the dead past bury its dead, but go thou in the living present and help build up the kingdom of God." Let us give over disputing about the methods employed by the secret scouts to get accurate information as to the enemy's exact position so as to give definiteness to the attack, and let us at once fall into solid square and fight a foe that is threatening our own honour, threatening those who are dearer to us than our own life, threatening all that makes life worth living.

One only question we have a right to ask, "Has the evil been exaggerated?" To that there is, alas! but too satisfactory an answer. Precisely the same facts in substance were embodied four years ago in the Blue Book of the Protection Committee of the House of Lords, as the result of many months' patient investigation—so terrible a report that I have over and over again besought women not to read it. And Mr. Merrick, the well-known Chaplain of Middlesex Goal, the man in all England who perhaps knows best what is really going on beneath the surface of our life, stated in the Minors' Protection Committee in my own hearing, that "the evil has been understated by nine-tenths"

My second point is one of direction rather than of warning. I would beseech you by the experience of nine years to direct your chief efforts not to societies and institutions, not to Girls' Friendly Societies or Y.W.C.A.s, not to Training Homes or Rescue agencies, or Vigilance Associations, however valuable all these may be, but to seeing that educated women are sound on their own question. I ask you, what hope is there in this holy warfare till we have secured our very base of operations, till our own camp is united? Whilst we have women—they abound chiefly in our watering-places, and I fear I must add in high places as well—who do not believe in the possibility of purity for every man; women who are guilty of the moral turpitude of accepting an outcast class made up of other women's daughters and other women's sisters, as long as it isn't their own; women who placidly accept the Egyptian Sphinx as their ideal of their own womanhood, half pure woman and half unclean beast, on condition that they and their girls are treated as the upper half—what hope can there be?

We poor "platform women," as we are called, not that we like that unshady spot, but because we are humbly and earnestly trying to stick at nothing in pleading for the slain of the daughters of our people, get many hard blows and many hard words. But I wish that the devout and excellent men who sorrowfully allude to us as "females that talk and do not help the cause of purity as much as their quieter sisters," or who mourn over us as their "unsexed sisters," or who mildly repudiate us in public prints as "amiable enthusiasts"—an epithet suggestive of much mental reservation—would bestow a little of their thought and care on these women, not of the platform, but of the hearth. Excellent domestic women, admirable wives and mothers, abhorring all publicity, who fulfil the most cherished ideals of "woman's sphere," and whom these good men bless with both hands earnestly, but who all the time are infecting the men that belong to them with their own secret conviction that men cannot be pure, that consequently the degradation of some women is a necessity, and who are deliberately laying the beams of their chambers on the ruined bodies and lost souls of their own sisters—always with the strict proviso that they are not related to them, but are poor and defenceless. Verily, this strikes me as more unwomanly than daring to tell three thousand men that they can be pure, and pleading with them to reverence all women for their own mother's sake, and treat them even as they would have all other men treat their own sisters or their own daughters.

Now I ask, whilst we have so little respect for the dignity and sanctity of our own womanhood, can we honestly expect men to respect it? Never was a truer word uttered than that by Mr. Stead at our National Conference in the summer:—"There are two great steps which must be taken ere we can achieve the end at which we aim: I want to get men made as moral as women, and in order to attain this I want women to expect men to be as moral as themselves. Oh, it is too cruel to talk to a good lady of the walfare of her sex and to hear her expressions of sympathy, and then to know that if she were asked to sit down and eat with a fallen girl she would be mortally offended; but that, nevertheless, she would invite to her table the very man who had ruined that girl." Men will rise to any level to which we expect them to rise, but they certainly will not rise higher. The result of my three years' work among men has been the inmost conviction that the heart of our Englishmen is splendidly sound on this question; they are only waiting for women to say to them, "Come up higher.' But their great stumbling-block is that women do not say it. At almost all my meetings where there is any discussion this difficulty comes up. They point to men whose character is perfectly well known, but who, because they have a handle to their name, or are men of means, are courted and received by women, and looked upon as eligible husbands for their pure girls, and they exclaim, with the utmost bitterness, "Women don't care. They teach us it does not matter whether we keep ourselves pure or not, as long as it isn't their girls we insult." "A man is what a woman makes him," and the miserably low standard that women have adopted for men on the matter of purity, and our base carelessness as to the consequence of that low standard to other women, has been largely responsible for the present state of things.

Let us, therefore, clearly recognise that the most vital work of all is this quiet work of education among ourselves. See that every woman you know holds to the law of God that purity is equally binding and equally possible to men and women alike. If you have any reason to doubt her soundness on this crucial point, pray first, and then lend her, or even send anonymously—though I always look on this as rather a sneaking way of doing our Lord's work—the three White Cross papers on the outcast class: "The Black Anchor," "The Ride of Death," and "The British Zu-lu."* If it is a very desperate case, get into her hands "Is it Natural?" another White Cross paper, which strikes me as simply unanswerable.

You won't find it after all a very difficult task, if you will have the courage to come out on the subject among your own equals. This low standard among women is generally the result of want of thought rather than want of heart, and that deference for the male bird which characterises the female parrot. It is a curious mock Satan, made up of dust and patches, and all sorts of odds and ends picked up chiefly from husbands and doctors and male friends in general, which one wholesome breath of God's Spirit will disperse. But on its being dispersed, on women having faith in the affirmations of the moral sense, of God's voice within them, on their respecting the dignity and the sanctity of their own womanhood, depends the whole success of our cause.

My third point might almost come under my second, so closely cognate is it. I have simply stood aghast at the letters from parents that have appeared in some of our religious organs during the summer, publicly repudiating the possibility of their performing their natural function of being the moral teachers of their own children, and stating with a modest touch of pride at their own superior purity that they cannot possibly mention the subject to their own boy. Now, here again I ask, is not the whole thing absolutely hopeless whilst parents are in the grasp of this paralysing tradition of the elders, which emphatically makes of none effect the law of God that appoints them and them only the moral teachers of their own children. Is not our first step of all to get rid of the tradition of the elders and return to the law of God? And till we do so, are not all our efforts to remedy the evil like a system of mechanics based on the violation of Newton's first law of motion, and productive of the same inevitable wrong results? Do we really think that the moral law is less certain in its action than the laws of phenomena?

And at the very time that parents are thus publicly repudiating their most sacred responsibilities, Dr. Duke, Member of the Royal College of Physicians, and Physician to Rugby School, is stating in his prize essay, "The Preservation of Health," that 90 or 95 per cent. of all boys at boarding schools are tainted with habits that make purity an impossibility." God grant that it may be an exaggerated statement, but I quote it as the statement of the head physician of a great public school. Yet in the face of this gigantic evil, the same physician states that "a large experience makes me certain that not one per cent. of parents ever help their children to guard against this evil when they first part with them for school. Not a word of warning is given to them to put them on their guard."

"What can the boy think?" Dr. Duke goes on to say. "He will say to himself, 'My father knows of all this vice at schools, and yet he has not said one word to me about it. He has warned me about most things. He told me to be truthful, to keep my temper, to be upright and manly, to say my prayers. He pressed me never to get into debt, never to drink, and never to use bad language; and he told me I ought to change my boots and clothes when wet, so as not to get ill; and yet he has not said one syllable about this. My father is a good man and loves me; and if he wanted me not to do this he would surely have told me. It can't be so very wrong, else I am sure he would have protected me and told me all about it.'"

Now surely our first efforts must be directed to rousing parents, and till we do so, we are only building and endowing hospitals to accommodate the results of neglected drains and open sewers. And yet, that we are not concentrating our efforts on this stronghold of the enemy is shown by a little paper "Schoolboy Morality" (1d. Hatchards, Piccadilly) recommended by the Dean of Gloucester, at the great Lambeth Palace meeting for the formation of the C.E.P.S. as the best thing he had met with on the subject, being only in its tenth thousand, instead of in the hands of every mother of public or private schoolboys.

Now here is an easy thing you can do; you can see that it is in the hands of every mother of schoolboys you know. Keep some by you and steadily circulate it. Get, too, a White Cross leaflet called "The Temple of the Eternal," with Quetelet's Diagram of the male and female lines of life, which shows the terrible physical dangers.

But when you have roused up a parent to a sense of forgotten responsibilities, do not leave her there distressed but utterly perplexed how to fulfil them. Get into her hands "True Manliness," a White Cross paper. Ask her to read it over with her husband, and see whether there is anything in its pure, high teaching that there would be the smallest difficulty in giving to their boys on the Sunday afternoon. Suggest "A Strange Companion" (White Cross series), and "A Letter to a Boy of Fifteen" (C.E.P.S., 111, Palace-chambers, Westminster), as well as "Purity the Guard of Manhood," a White Cross Confirmation paper that might give some valuable suggestions how to deal with the subject. Why, I ask, should not we women, at a great moral crisis like the present, be quietly passing from hand to hand, and from heart to heart, the papers that will strengthen and guide us in dealing with an evil that must be pressing so heavily on all our hearts?

(To be concluded.)

◆

MERSEY MISSION TO SEAMEN.

THE work of this Society is a deeply important one, having for its object the religious instruction of sailors, and it should commend itself to every individual of a community whose wealth is dependent in so great a degree on their toil and exertion. In anticipation of the tea-parties held for seamen in December, at which gifts are given to them from the Christmas trees, an urgent appeal is again made that lady friends will kindly assist in providing presents. The following articles have been found especially appropriate:—Knitted jerseys or waistcoats, gloves and mittens, socks, comforters, mufflers, and pocket handkerchiefs; also bags containing needles, thread, tape and buttons; and bags containing Bibles, Testaments, and interesting books.

It is proposed to hold the Christmas trees in the New Seamen's Institute, Hanover-street, and any articles would be gratefully accepted by Rev. T. Patrick, at 8, Price-street.

CHARLES T. BUSHELL, Chairman.
ALEXANDER BALFOUR, Secretary.

Liverpool.

OUR SOLDIERS, AT HOME AND ABROAD.

AT the end of February last the Brigade of Guards sailed for Suakim. It is not so generally known that in each battalion, besides the excellent Scripture-readers who accompanied them, there were some Christian soldiers, who were truly missionaries to their comrades. A sergeant, on arrival at Suakim, wrote to a friend at home, "On board ship a few would gather round me, all anxious for me to speak to them about their souls. The Lord helped me to speak to them, and good has been done. To Him that 'doeth all things well' be all the honour and the glory."

Besides this, a little band of Christian soldiers at home (linked with those who had gone abroad in the strongest bonds of Christian and brotherly love) met every evening, after February 18, to pray for those on active service, in fulfilment of a promise made before their comrades left. In most earnest prayer and faith, these men, some of whom knew from experience the dangers of war, poured out their hearts to God for their comrades abroad. God has wonderfully answered our prayers, in preserving the lives of the men in the hour of battle, and in saving them from disease from the climate. All agree that the loss of life is comparatively small to what might have been expected.

We ask the earnest prayers of all your readers for these men whom God has brought back from scenes of danger and of death, that they may be brought to Christ, that they may be saved from the temptations and evils of the world, and follow Christ as the "Captain of their salvation."

M. S.

◆

NIGHT SHELTER FOR HOMELESS MEN.

THE need of a place of refuge for the many men who are absolutely homeless and penniless, which has long been felt, is pressing itself very deeply, as winter arrives, upon the minds of many workers amongst the poor. The necessity for such a shelter is well known to all who come into contact with "outcast London," and is strikingly shown by two facts of recent date. In one case thirty destitute men were found at one time huddled up, in the middle of the night, in the recesses of London Bridge. In another instance a houseless wanderer sought in vain for a place on one of the seats of the Thames Embankment. They were all filled by the waifs and strays of the wealthiest city in the world. An intelligent police constable said to the writer, "My heart bleeds for them, sir. We are obliged to move them on; and what becomes of them in winter I cannot bear to think." At the same time he expressed his opinion that the coming winter was likely to find more men than ever without the means to pay for even a fourpenny "doss" in a common lodging-house.

To meet the need of this large class, it is desired to secure a roomy warehouse, in the neighbourhood of the docks, and to fit it up with wooden beds (or sloping rests), the place to be warmed, by fires or otherwise, so that clean, warm shelter would be open for all who desired to escape the exposure of a winter's night in the street. It clearly must not be made too comfortable, or it would be speedily filled by those who could pay for their own lodging. The question of giving food raises the same difficulty, and will have to be dealt with as experience may direct, and funds enable, but the primary object is simply a shelter.

The extent to which this can be done must depend entirely upon the means forthcoming, but it is estimated that for a sum of about £300 something like 200 men could be sheltered nightly for six months, whilst for £200 more a breakfast could be given to each of them daily before setting out to seek work. A responsible committee is in course of formation. In the meantime communications will be gladly received by the honorary secretary pro tem. Arrangements would be made for preaching the Gospel to the inmates. J. JACKSON.

58, Bousfield-road, Hatcham Park, S.E.

---

* WHITE CROSS SERIES. 400th Thousand. Price 1d., or 50 at half price. (Hatchards, Piccadilly.)

PROFESSOR DRUMMOND IN OXFORD.

THIS young but famous professor and evangelist, as mentioned last week, has recently been giving addresses to University men in Oxford. He was the guest of Sir William Anson, the Warden of All Souls' College. On Sunday evening, October 25, he addressed a crowded audience of University men in the hall of Trinity College. "His address," says The Oxford Review, "was a most impressive representation of the scientific view of Christianity, of which he is the apostle."

On Monday, Oct. 26, he addressed a large body of undergraduates at Wycliffe Hall, gathered by Canon Girdlestone. He dwelt at the close on the Christian work carried on of late by students of Edinburgh University, who were willing to go anywhere and do anything for Christ. On the Tuesday Professor Drummond addressed a body of undergraduates in the rooms of Mr. H. F. Wright, of Christ Church, the second son of the late lamented Henry Wright, hon. secretary of the C.M.S. On Thursday he addressed a meeting of undergraduates in the common room of New College.

On Saturday the Professor gave a spiritual and valuable address to more than a hundred undergraduates in St. Aldate's Rectory-room, to which they had come by the invitation of Rev. A. M. W. Christopher. We can only give a very brief, condensed report of the address.

Addressing himself to Christian workers, he began with three general remarks: (1) He who would seek to do good to others must look to himself. It is the man himself that preaches, and not his words. (2) The great object of doing anyone good is to lead him to be conformed to the image of Christ—that, and only that, is true sanctification. (3) The worker must not think that work—even the work of saving souls—is the end of life. The true end of life is to do the will of God, whatever it may be. To realise this is the way to be calm in difficulty, and to meet apparent failure with a high heart. Paul and Luther did God's will; the servant girl in the kitchen can do it equally. To do it s to achieve success; it is the maximum of human achievement.

Mr. Drummond then proceeded to discuss the spiritual needs of men which the Christian worker is to seek to supply. Find the need, diagnose the disease, then apply the remedy. Giving to all souls the same medicine is a fruitful source of failure. What is the most common need of men now? Theology might say, Deliverance from the guilt of sin; experience will say, Deliverance from its power. Young men, especially, do not realise guilt and do not long for pardon; but they do realise that they are in bondage, and they do long to be free. This is the Spirit's work as much as what is called conviction of sin. He is convincing now "of ighteousness" (John xvi.); there is a yearning, a hunger, for a better life, a pure life, a life like Christ's life. What is the remedy for this form f spiritual disease? The presentation of a iving Saviour who now "saves his people from heir sins." And in presenting the living Lord we are presenting Him who was once crucified. But do not go on saying to those who have ooked on the brazen serpent and been cured, Look at the serpent; rather give them their daily manna, the bread of life, as their strength f sustenance.

Professor Drummond concluded with a fervent ppeal to any present who were uncertain if hey were Christians yet, but wished to become o. They must be converts, not merely to Christianity, but to Christ; they must have eligion, not mere religiousness. The five oolish virgins were refused admittance, not ecause they were too late, but because the Bridegroom, opening the door and looking at hem, did not know them: "I never knew you." To know Him, that is real religion. The heart must be not only given to Him, but left with Him, not taken back again; and He is able to eep it, not for a few days only, but "until that ay."

The last and most wonderful meeting was in the great hall of Christ Church on the evening of Sunday week at 9.15, when the Professor addressed a crowded gathering of University men. Several hundred gownsmen (probably six or seven hundred) came together, and listened for nearly an hour with the deepest attention. Dr. Ince, the Regius Professor of Divinity, presided, in the unavoidable absence of the Dean of Christ Church. Professor Drummond announced as his subject, "Natural Selection, and the Survival of the Fittest." By a series of vivid pictures he expounded this "scientific" doctrine, and then applied it to the spiritual world. It was a wonderful opportunity, and Mr. Drummond used it not unworthily. If the address was not at every point all that could be desired, it, at all events, was very plain and very solemn; and the texts of Scripture introduced, such as "If any man love the world, the love of the Father is not in him," and, "Without holiness no man shall see the Lord," seemed to come in with great power. There can be no doubt that a deep impression was produced upon many of the youthful auditors.

DR. BARNARDO'S HOMES.

THE EMIGRATION WORK.

THE following is from a very appreciative leading article in The Toronto Globe of October 10:—

A member of the staff of this paper on a recent visit to the Old Country took special trouble to inspect the Barnardo Homes for Destitute Children, and to go into the whole subject thoroughly. He visited not only the industrial institutions in the East of London, but also the Village Home for Girls at Ilford, in the county of Essex. He went prejudiced against rather than friendly to them. He found that the boys in the industrial institutions received a thorough training for two, three, or more years, as the case might be. They are subjected to disciplinary training. They are trained in industry, trained in handiness of hand and quickness of eye. They are given the rudiments of secular education, and are constantly kept under religious and moral influences. These children are by no means only the vicious poor. The east of London has vast juvenile populations belonging to the industrial poor, quite as free from vicious taint as are their more wealthy neighbours. It was a very interesting sight to see these boys industriously engaged, some in making brushes, some in making boots, some making and some mending harness, and others at kindred occupations calculated to make the pupils of great value in any farmer's home. In fact, in many instances in Canada, boys from the Homes have been found able to do the shoemaking and harness-mending required in the households in which they live. The boys are given promotion from the position of private to that of corporal and sergeant, with stripes on their arms as marks of good conduct, and in every way the influence of the industrial training schools seems to be of the highest kind, both from an industrial and moral point of view. Of these boys the pick only are sent out to Canada, and they are not sent until they have received the training of which we speak.

Then as to the Village Home for Girls, situated in a beautiful section of country, the idea is to reproduce somewhat as to plainness, yet comfort, the conditions which these young girls will encounter when they come to the rural districts of Canada or Australia as the case may be. Throughout, the surroundings and conditions are of the highest character as to healthfulness, both physical and moral, and, among other advantages, these little girls have the close and loving supervision of many ladies, who devote themselves to this work of love and self-denial purely from the highest considerations. There the little girls are imbued with moral and religious ideas and trained in habits of neatness, self-help, cleanliness, and of usefulness in the way of washing, ironing, mending, &c. Of these, too, after they have received several years preliminary training and watchful care, the select are transplanted to the colonies, and particularly to Canada. Arriving here they proceed at once to the Receiving Home in Canada, which is situated in the neighbourhood of Peterborough, Ont.

A recent visit there shows that the watchfulness and care exercised on the other side of the Atlantic are equally extended on this side. The institution at Peterborough is charmingly situated in the midst of salubrious air and pleasant surroundings. The home is a pattern of cleanliness and neatness. The children divide their time between working, playing, singing, and the school-room, but are constantly under kindly supervision until they obtain homes elsewhere. They do not ordinarily stay long in the home at Peterborough, because the demand for these children in Canada is very great—the demand, indeed, being far ahead of the supply. These children, whether adopted, or merely allowed to be hired, chiefly in the families of farmers, are never lost sight of. They are visited at their places of abode twice a year, and no matter to what part of the world these young immigrants may go, through inspection, by letter and otherwise, their welfare is kept constantly in view for years and years after they have left the parental institution.

The children have turned out exceedingly well, on the average; it is believed, as well as those children who have had far greater advantages in the way of early surroundings. Indeed, in these days of neglect of parental authority it would be a matter very much to be desired that every child in Canada had two or three years of the steady disciplinary training which is received by all the youthful immigrants that come from the Barnardo Homes. Nor should this fact be lost sight of, that these institutions, valuable and far-reaching in their beneficent results as they are, do not use one penny of the public money. All expenses are met by purely voluntary subscriptions; and as far as the Canada home is concerned, Canadian destitute children are not excluded.

The sending of these children from Dr. Barnardo's Homes is not only a blessing for themselves and an advantage to Great Britain, but also a great advantage to Canada; for undoubtedly what we need in Canada is more labour applied directly and indirectly to purposes of production from the soil. Not only is a wise system of child immigration useful to Canada, but the heart cannot but be enkindled at the thought of the improved opportunity that many of these destitute children, whose only crime is that of being born of poverty-stricken parents, have of growing up to be useful and possibly honoured citizens of the country of their adoption.

A HOME MISSION IN MIDDLESBOROUGH.

IN sending an account of "Cottage Meetings" in the courts and yards of St. Hilda's Parish, Middlesborough, Mr. William McGowan, the missionary, writes:—

"The people have been gradually drawn to these meetings. The service being short, simple and hearty, they continue to attend regularly, and many proofs of a better life are evident in the changed conduct of not a few. Many are now regular attenders at Church, and many others have joined the Sunday classes. One school is now fully occupied by young men, and married men, who form ten large classes for Bible study on Sunday afternoons. Another result is a large meeting now held on Wednesday evenings, when 150 to 200 may be found joining heartily in singing Mr. Sankey's hymns. This meeting is conducted largely by the men themselves. Three hundred children also attend our Band of Hope meeting. Many of the young men help in this part of the work.

"There are many other good results, direct or indirect. The other day our Member of Parliament and the mayor of the town, bore witness to the great change effected, and ascribed it to the religious work. The masses can be reached if sensible and practical ways of doing so are adopted."

Mr. McGowan will be thankful for gifts of tracts, religious periodicals, illustrated papers, and useful interesting books, for distribution in the homes of the people. His address is 40, Feversham-street, Middlesborough.

Notes and Comments.

WITH our next issue will be supplied The Christian Almanack for 1886. Besides daily texts, and the usual information, it contains an excellent portrait of the late Earl of Shaftesbury, produced in eleven colours. The price of the Almanack is 6d., but the issue containing it will be sent out to our readers as a Double Number, price 2d.

The new edition of the "Life of George Eliot" contains some further information with regard to that portion of Miss Evans's life during which the celebrated novelist was drifting on the shoreless sea of doubt. Mrs. Cash, who gives the additional particulars, concludes that Miss Evans's "repulsion from Christianity" was due, in a great measure, to discrepancies which she observed between religious professions and practical conduct.

The same unsatisfactory reason has frequently been urged by people less famous than George Eliot; but it is difficult to understand how anyone of Miss Evans's mental calibre could rest satisfied behind so flimsy an explanation. The translator of Strauss could not fail to see how unlike Jesus many professors unfortunately are, but faith in Christ was the one thing needful, not faith in his feeble and far-off imitators. Looking unto Jesus would have removed the difficulties created by a too critical observation of the failings of his followers.

The great mistake of George Eliot's life would not have been made had she possessed that simple faith which has saved so many others, gifted and unlettered alike, from moral shipwreck. It is by no means difficult to trace, by the aid of even the somewhat scanty information which has been afforded us with reference to her mental condition during the later years of her career, that there was in her life that sad element of dissatisfaction which has been present in so many similar lives.

George Eliot's life is only another illustration, and a very striking one, of the fact that the gift of genius does not include immunity from the rules and responsibilities which govern the conduct of ordinary people, and it would have been unfortunate if her biographer had withheld the evidence, slight as it is. All culture which is Christless brings with it its own disturbing influence, and it must necessarily be a failure if it is set up as a substitute for that peace which the world cannot give.

"Nothing is so much needed by the Churches for the rectification of religious thought as a great spiritual revival and baptism of fire from on high, which may heaven hasten!"—Joseph Cook.

Will anyone who possesses a copy of the earliest edition of Wesley's Hymns inform us how the fourth verse of that noble hymn by Charles Wesley, "Jesus, lover of my soul," reads? The versions given in "The Book of Praise," published in the Golden Treasury Series, are, as a rule, so accurately in accordance with the original text, that one is hardly disposed to question them; but in this particular instance, from the use of the first person in the commencing and concluding lines of the verse, it would seem that the word "the" in the third and fourth lines is a substitution for "me." The slight change converts the verse from a general into a personal prayer.

Charles Kingsley apparently held this view, for in a solemn prayer before Holy Communion he used the verse thus—

> "I am come to cast away my own life, my life of self and selfishness, which is corrupt according to the deceitful lusts, that I may live it no more, and to receive thy life. . . . Then shall I hunger no more, and thirst no more, for
>
> "'Thou, O Christ, art all I want:
> More than all in Thee I find.
> Raise me, fallen; cheer me, faint;
> Heal me, sick; and lead me, blind.'"

A Roman Catholic hymn-book has Toplady's celebrated hymn, "Rock of Ages, cleft for me," as a translation from the Latin, the compiler of the volume and the translator also having, apparently, been ignorant of the original, and of the fact that the noble Latin version, commencing "Jesu, pro me perforatus," is from the pen of Mr. Gladstone. Two years ago, the late Premier translated into the Italian Cowper's hymn, "Hark, my soul, it is the Lord," and students of the language in which Dante wrote cannot fail to find in the rendering—

"Senti, senti, anima mia
(Fu il Signore che sentia);
Gesu parla, e parla a te:
'Di,' Figliuolo, ami Me?"

and the following five verses, much of the beauty and force of the original. Now that the want of good hymns in the mother tongue of Italy is beginning to result from the Protestant movement, the wide circulation of this translation doubtless would be appreciated, and even printed as a leaflet for travellers to distribute here and there, it might prove to be as bread cast upon the waters.

"Nothing but failure can come, or has ever come, of the attempt to fathom the depths of God with the finger of man—the attempt to fly up into the secrets of the Deity on the waxen wings of the understanding."—Archdeacon Farrar.

In the November Fortnightly Review there is a very practical paper on "Rescue Work," by Hon. Mrs. Jeune, who has had long experience in the matter. She urges, instead of a sedentary life, regular work in "Homes," as beneficial for health and recovery; insists strongly on the importance of assuring a rescued woman who goes into domestic service that she has a permanent friend to whom she can look for help, advice, and encouragement. This gives a new colour to her life, and helps her to pass safely through the severest tests. She speaks of 136 women saved from vice out of 148 who entered two Homes.

In the same Review there is a remarkable paper on "Human Personality," by F. W. H. Myers, and which details some experiments carefully performed by committees of the Society of Psychical Research, and in which Mr. Myers took part. These experiments and others showed that thought and sensation can be transferred from one mind to another, and that one person may act on another, and may subject will and memory to his influence after the action is withdrawn. These "Hypnotic Experiments" are only referred to here. Maybe the subject, if conducted as it should be, will throw light on the mystery of malign influences. At present we suspend all judgment.

The present week is being devoted by the Y.M.C. Associations throughout the world to prayer for the salvation of young men; and with prayer we trust there will be renewed effort.

In reply to various correspondents, we beg to say that we can supply a few copies of Dr. Pentecost's monthly magazine, Words and Weapons, price 4½d. each, post free.

A correspondent thinks we were somewha unfair in our recent note on indistinct reading of the Scriptures in public religious service, when Dean Burgon's name was incidentally used. Our correspondent says:—

> I do not sit particularly near the Dean, in a church where he both reads and preaches some weeks every year, but I have had no difficulty in hearing him. The poor here have remarked to me on the Dean's reading. One old woman, when dying, told me how she delighted in listening to him, and said "he reads about heaven as if he had been there." His pathetic reading of the sufferings of our Lord has certainly brought those realities very forcibly before my mind, and with a fresh power.

Perhaps the experience mentioned in our note was unusual, but it was that of others who sat by the side of the writer of it.

We are happy to announce that our friends at Mildmay Conference Hall propose to set apart Thursday afternoon, November 26 (the same date as in former years), for a season of prayer and humiliation respecting our land and our people. Whilst politics of every shade will doubtless be avoided at the meeting, it may be made an occasion to supplicate God to rule and govern the hearts of the electors, to choose men who fear Him and love righteousness. The meeting will be from four to six o'clock, followed in the evening by a meeting for men only, to be addressed by Mr. Blackwood, C.B., Rev. H. Webb-Peploe, and Mr. J. B. Wookey; and by another meeting for mothers only, to be addressed by Mrs. Hind Smith and Miss Mason.

We gladly give a place to the following important announcement:—

> Sir,—Will you kindly allow me to say that it has been arranged to hold at the City Temple, Holborn-viaduct, an open conference upon the subject of "the loss and gain of Disestablishment," on Thursday morning, the 19th inst., at one o'clock. My hope is that not a few Churchmen will be present to say something upon their side of this great question.
>
> Rev. J. Guinness Rogers will preside. Every opportunity will be given, under the direction of the chairman, to such speakers as may wish to address the conference. I wish it to be clearly understood that there will be no partiality, and that we are just as anxious to hear the one side as the other. My distinct opinion is that counsel upon such a subject, conducted in a Christian spirit, cannot but result satisfactorily.
>
> I am confident that we do not clearly perceive each other's standpoint in this anxious controversy, and if anything can be done to make that more wisely apprehended, I think much will be done towards bringing the controversy to a happy issue. At all events, I shall be most thankful if both Churchmen and Dissenters can, upon the day referred to, meet one another and listen carefully to each other's statements.—I am, faithfully yours,
>
> Joseph Parker.
>
> The City Temple, Nov. 5.

We learn that Messrs. Penn and Cairns, evangelists from Texas, are about to engage in Gospel work in this country. From a statement by Rev. Dr. F. M. Law, of Texas, it appears that the labours of these two brethren have been greatly blessed in that country. Rev. W. E. Penn is described as a very powerful preacher, while his companion, Mr. G. R. Cairns, sings the Gospel with much effect, and also helps in addressing young people. Rev. A. Thompson, Baptist minister, Galashiels (where the evangelists are to commence their meetings), states that they purpose remaining in the country for some time, and will be open to invitations to other places.

A correspondent writes, in "Helps to the Study of the Bible," published by The Oxford University Press, "I was much surprised to read, under the head of 'Goat' (p. 65), the following":—

> The goat was the sin-offering for accidental manslaughter (Numbers xv. 27), and for sins of the congregation on the Day of Atonement, when one ram was sacrificed, and another (azazel), dyed with its fellow's blood, was let escape into the wilderness till his scarlet wool was bleached, as a symbol of pardoned sin.

"This statement, if true, seems to throw a flood of light on that famous Scripture in Isaiah, 'Though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow.' But is the statement true? I can find no warrant for it in the Biblical account of the Day of Atonement (Lev. xvi.), and Dr. Smith's 'Bible Dictionary' is silent upon it. Yet I can hardly think that the compiler of the valuable 'Helps' would have advanced such a statement without good authority."

We have also searched in vain for any Scriptural authority whatever for the assertion: (1) that the scape-goat was dyed with the blood of his fellow—the goat for the sin-offering, and (2) that the bleaching of the blood-stain symbolised the pardon of sin. There may be Jewish traditions to support these statements; but of what value are they in such a matter! But, further, these statements are most unscriptural in their tendencies. They take the blood of the sin-offering as the symbol of sin, whereas Scripture alludes to it as the atonement for sin. "It is the blood that maketh atonement for the soul" (Lev. xvii. 11). Even more objectionable is the idea that the bleaching of the scape-goat is a symbol of pardon. Such bleaching would be a very gradual, as well as an uncertain, process. This will fit in exactly with certain doctrines of forgiveness, according to which guilt is slowly removed by repentance and good works. In direct opposition to all this, the Bible speaks of a cleansing from sin which is instant and complete through contact with the blood of the sacrifice.

The Evangelical Alliance has done good service by its appeal made last week to the authorities at the Foreign Office to interpose on behalf of oppressed Christians in Turkey. The memorial presented to Lord Salisbury, after relating the conversion to the Christian faith, in 1884, of a Moslem Professor, and fifteen of his students, and their proposed removal from their home to Constantinople, goes on to state:—

> On their way, at Samsoun, it became known to the Turkish authorities at that place that they were converts to the Christian faith. The Pasha of Samsoun telegraphed the circumstances to the Turkish authorities at Constantinople. On the arrival of the vessel in which the Professor and his companions had embarked in the harbour of Constantinople, a Turkish guard surrounded the vessel and arrested the Moslem Professor, his wife and two children, and the fifteen students. The prisoners were taken to the barracks at Scutari, stripped of their clothes, dressed in the Turkish uniform as private soldiers, separated, and drafted to different regiments. The Professor's wife and children were carried off to some place unknown.

Another case of intolerance in Syria is thus described:—

> A tribe named Nusarieh inhabits the mountains near Latakieh, consisting of about 200,000 persons. A large number of this people have become converts to the Christian faith through the labours of American missionaries. Mission churches have been built and Christian communities established. The Governor of Damascus has given positive orders that no change of religion shall be recognised, and that all the Christians shall be registered and treated as Moslems, and at a late census this has been done.

Mr. Bourke, on behalf of the Foreign office, said he was sure the British Ambassador at Constantinople would do all he could to secure the redress of these grievances. Our readers, we trust, will offer earnest prayer to God that He may sustain these tried ones in their affliction, and send speedy relief. As for the Moslem "Sick Man," he seems as incapable as the Pope of Rome of learning wisdom by the warnings of the past, or the promptings of true self-interest in the present. But his day is coming rapidly. Yet a little while and the waters of the Euphrates will be dried up.

We have said elsewhere that this inquisitive age is discussing every subject down to its very roots, and testing traditionary views in politics, morals, and religion, by the increased knowledge of these latter days. Sir Wilfred Scawen Blunt, in a letter to The Times, about the coming Burmese war, asks—

> Will there be any public inquiry held when the war is over? Will anybody be placed upon his trial? Will the author of the blunder or the intrigue, if such there should chance to be, ever find his way to the gallows?

He shows that all engaged in the blunders of the late Egyptian war have been rewarded, and not one of them has been called to account. Then he inquires—

> Seriously, Sir, ought we not in every case of war to have its authors formally put upon their trial—say before a Parliamentary Commission, with power to examine on their oath all concerned? A naval captain when he loses his ship is ipso facto triable by court-martial. Why should those responsible for the ship of the State, Viceroys and Ambassadors and Cabinet Ministers, alone be exempt from inquiry, where blood has been shed and the peace of the world wrecked through their mismanagement? I am sure there must be many of your readers who will echo my thought when I say that nine out of ten wars are preventible, and that even the tenth is a great national calamity not to be lightly condoned.

Cowper, like every true poet, was ahead of his time, and anticipated this letter of Mr. Blunt when he wrote—

War's a game which, were their subjects wise,
    Kings would not play at.

Now and then a subscriber intimates to us a desire to cease taking in this paper for one reason or another, sometimes a sufficient reason, and at other times not so, as it seems to us. But the most extraordinary reason ever assigned for taking the step to which we refer is that given by a reader in New York. After stating, rather strangely under the circumstances, that he does not value the paper any more because there are no further accounts of the two buildings constructed for Messrs. Moody and Sankey's London Mission, or of work done in them, he adds:—

> There is another cause—namely, prejudice. When I was a boy, forty-two years ago, Ireland numbered 8,250,000 of inhabitants, and it should now number 12,000,000. My mind often recurs, with a shuddering horror, to the wholesale extermination of my countrymen, which is not in any degree abated. I may say that anything English is viewed through this medium.

We honour the candour of our irate Irish friend, but what school of logic he has graduated in we may not conjecture. In our simplicity it appears to us rather singular, to say the least of it, that he should visit the sins of bygone or present rulers of Ireland upon the heads of those who have strenuously and invariably pleaded for just, nay generous, treatment of Irishmen, in dealing with any possible grievance they might have. Our astonishment is increased when our subscriber, with true Irish consistency, having shuddered with horror at the expatriation of his countrymen, thus winds up his remarkable epistle:—

> Why don't the Irish emigrate to the United States? There is plenty of room.

Here argument entirely fails us, and we resign ourselves with the best grace we may to the loss caused by the withdrawal of our friend's subscription. It will be some compensation, however, to preserve his letter in our editorial archives, as one of the literary curiosities of the century.

"Fashionable and luxurious churches are pretty things to look at; but, estimated by their efficiency in the deadly combat with ignorance, vice, and crime, their usefulness may not rank so high as their social pretensions."—Zion's Herald.

Archdeacon Farrar has no cause to complain of the reception that has been accorded him across the Atlantic. Everywhere he has been welcomed and fêted in that hearty generous fashion which seems indigenous to American soil. At a breakfast given to the Archdeacon, by Mr. Cyrus Field, at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, New York, when a large number of the city ministers were present, the eloquent Dr. Storrs, of Brooklyn, spoke an address of welcome, of which we quote the closing sentences:—

> No other desire is so near our hearts as that the holy kingdom of God, which is righteousness, peace, and joy in the Holy Ghost, may be so established in beauty and power on both sides of the sea, through the labours of those who work with you and the labours of those who work with us, that the only rivalry between the two peoples shall afterward be in great thoughts and noble action; that the two nations divided by a war a century ago, but speaking the common English tongue and sharing the inheritance of illustrious memories, with the fruitful blessing of illustrious struggles, shall bear together the banner of the Lord, whom both worship, to the ends of the earth!

To these noble words every true Christian heart on either side of the sea will respond with a deep and hearty Amen.

In the Chronicle of the London Missionary Society there is an extract from a native paper in India, which records with approval an act of the Rev. T. E. Slater. To a crowded audience in Bangalore, comprising near 2000 influential Hindoos, the courageous missionary has denounced the curse of Hindoo social life—the marriage of little children to each other, and of infant girls to adult and old men. There was, instead of disapprobation, applause, and a cordial vote of thanks to the lecturer. Such facts are very significant, even though the end is not yet.

In an article in this month's Nineteenth Century by the Countess Cowper, on "Some Experiences of Work in an East-end District," there are strong utterances respecting early marriages in London. Boys and girls of fifteen and sixteen marry, and from this cause the writer of the article traces physical degeneration, premature old age of the wives, desertion of husbands, and the recourse for a living to the streets. The subject is an important one, but it ought to be approached carefully. A conference of leading workers in London might throw much light on these grave social questions.

In our next issue will appear a portrait of Mr. Alfred S. Dyer, with sketch of some of the leading incidents in his life. It will be remembered that Mr. Dyer was the first to expose the "Foreign Traffic in English Girls."

MR. HAMMOND AT NOTTING-HILL.

IT was determined to prolong the services in Dr. Sinclair Paterson's Presbyterian Church for a week further. Monday week being the School Board Election day, the children of the schools all had a holiday. They came in great force in the afternoon, and completely filled the church. In every pew there were one, two, and sometimes three teachers, or some grown up person, who took the oversight. A large detachment from Lady Kinnaird's schools was again present, but the number was quadrupled; healthy, orderly, well-trained girls. A thoughtful Christian matron was along with them. Mr. Josiah Spiers, that skilful worker among children, gave the address, and kept up the interest of the whole congregation unflaggingly throughout.

There is a large number of willing workers, male and female, connected with the congregation, and their number has been increased by others who have come from considerable distances to help in the work going on now under Mr. Hammond. But all were needed, and more would have found occupation amongst the large number that remained to the inquiry-meeting.

The number of conversions increases as service succeeds service. The children wait and look wistfully for some one who will come and talk with them of God and Jesus, and of themselves. Learning their own relation to Jesus and to God often brings out looks of delighted astonishment. What refreshment there is in these flashes of the child soul! The absence of distrust, and the whole-hearted gladness at being told that God their Father loves them as God only can love. They believe it, and listen with wonderment often, and look for more, as if they could not get enough of the beautiful talk.

The work throughout has been conducted in a very methodical and orderly way, so that there has been little of that waste of power which often deprives the labourers of their fair harvest. A large number of those children who have been constant in their attendance have become members of "The Scripture Union." This, verily, is worthy of the name of a "Noble Army." The numbers enrolled amount to something like 250,000 strong. The conditions of membership are that a certain period of every day, say one half hour, shall be devoted to Scripture-reading, first asking God that He will grant his Holy Spirit to "understand aright," and that that time shall be regarded as "Consecrated unto the Lord."

We have pleasure in publishing the following list of ministers and other Christian gentlemen in London, who have agreed to form Rev. Edward Payson Hammond's Committee :—

Rev. Prebendary Wilson, M.A.
Rev. D. B. Hankin.
Rev. H. Nevile Sherbrooke.
Rev. George F. Head, M.A.
Rev. Marmaduke Washington, M.A.
Rev. Gilbert S. Karney, M.A.
*Rev. H. Sinclair Paterson, M.D.
Rev. J. Thain Davidson, D.D.
*J. E. Mathieson, Esq.
George Williams, Esq.
*Lieut.-Colonel Elphinstone.
Henry Campbell, Esq.
*R. C. Morgan, Esq.
Robert Scott, Esq.
Dr. Barnardo.
H. Grattan Guinness, Esq.
Henry Varley, Esq.
*Henry S. Lidstone, Esq.
*Frederic Pitts, Esq.
*Robert Westall, Esq.
*T. J. Hughes, Esq.
*Gibbard Hughes, Esq.

Hon. Secretaries—Captain Dale, Mr. Josiah Spiers, Conference Hall, Mildmay-park, N.

CLEATOR MOOR.—Mr. Spencer Walton has been holding a ten days' mission in the Mission Church here, with large audiences and very blessed results. His afternoon Bible-readings have also been much valued. Since Mr. Walton's departure several persons under deep conviction have called at the vicarage, seeking the way of salvation.

SIERRA LEONE MISSION.

THE native church of Sierra Leone, as represented by the pastors of its several parishes, have addressed a most interesting letter to the Episcopal Church in England, requesting that two English clergymen might be sent to conduct special missions in the Colony. The subject had also been much upon the heart of the Bishop, who, in conversation with Rev. F. W. Dodd and Rev. S. Darwin Fox, Secretary of the Church Parochial Mission, at the end of last year, had expressed his conviction that such a mission, if the native church were itself to see the need of it, would largely tend to raise the tone of Christian life among the people. When, therefore, a special call came to these two clergymen, through those to whom the selection had been entrusted, the Committee gladly allowed them to accept it. They left England on the 7th inst.; Mrs. Darwin Fox accompanies them with a view to work among the women. The missionaries will accompany the bishop to Lagos, and there take a mission of some three weeks' duration.

Returning to Sierra Leone a series of missions of ten days each will be held in several churches. The two clergymen who are going on this most important and interesting mission earnestly desire the prayers of friends at home that through a deep work of the Holy Ghost a revival of true and practical religion may result from this effort. The weekly prayer meeting at the Church Missionary House, Salisbury-square, was on Thursday, November 5, devoted to this West African Mission.

During the absence of the Secretary his place will be filled by Mr. Swann Hurrell.

SPEZIA MISSION.

THE following is extracted from the tenth report of Mr. E. Clark's mission to Italians :—

Some time since a well-tried friend of the mission expressed an earnest desire that, as soon as possible, some Italian Christian labourers should find their way to South America, in some way connected with the Spezia Mission. Who could have imagined that his desires would have received so speedy and remarkable an answer! I can now report that I have assisted four of the members of our little church in La Spezia to emigrate to an Italian colony in Buenos Ayres, bearing with them the bread of life. They have been welcomed by a young man, who some years ago received a copy of God's Word from his uncle, then resident in Casa Alberto. The Bible was blessed to the young man's salvation, and he is now diligently engaged in house to house evangelisation in Buenos Ayres.

He says, in a recent letter, "In this land Spanish is chiefly spoken, yet it would be well if there were some preachers in Italian, as our colony is the largest. Here there is an immense field: the harvest is white, but the labourers are wanting. Some time ago a country labourer bought the Gospel by Matthew. Not caring much for it, he lost it in a field, and soon after returned to Italy, where he stayed about three years. Having returned to Buenos Ayres, he was sent to labour in the same field, where, when digging, he turned up the book he had lost. The book was almost as perfect as ever. He sent it to be bound. He meditated and prayed, and from a notable drunkard, whose family never had peace, he, by the grace of God, has passed from death to life, as also his family." Recently a very considerable number of the sacred Scriptures have been sent out to South America from the depôt in Casa Alberto, to the Spanish and the Italian population.

A GOOD WORK AT LEWISHAM.—A few months ago a Home for the children of girls who have been led astray, but who are trying hard to redeem their characters, was opened in the parish of St. Mary's, Lewisham, in connection with a Crèche for the children of working mothers. As the sums obtained from the mothers do not pay all the expenses, about £50 is required to be raised by annual subscriptions. I would ask any who are interested in this department of Christian work to come forward and help us. We are also hampered in our work by a debt of £50, incurred in connection with the furnishing and opening of the Home. We are most anxious to get clear of it by Christmas, and so begin the New Year unencumbered. Clothing of every description, both new and old, either for the use of the children in the Home, or to be sold to the poor at moderate charges for the benefit of the Home, is very acceptable. (Miss) AGNES BECKER.
1, Ladywell Park, Lewisham, S.E.

CHRISTIAN WORK IN NEW YORK.

THE praying ones among us are encouraged by the evidences we see of blessing in our midst.. The presence of Mr. Moody in different sections of our State last year has left marked proofs of fruit, which is now being seen in increased activity in many places; while the three conventions to be held in our State this month, at Newburgh, Poughkeepsie, and Kingston, are preceded by special services of real interest. He has closed three days of services at the new Broome-street Tabernacle,'N.Y. City, which have been seasons of great blessing.

Mr. Aitken has commenced his mission at Newburgh, and it is very clear to all who have been privileged to be present that the Master is with him. We are looking forward to a rich feast in the services of the mission at St. George's Church, N.Y. City.

The presence of Mrs. Baxter, with the large number of others at the Christian Convention led by Mr. Simpson, at the 23rd-street Tabernacle, was hailed with joy by a great many of those who "look for the appearing of our Lord." Each session was full of interest. While all present might not receive everything said, so much of the Word of the Lord was expounded that souls were fed, believers were edified, and good was done. Following this convention, two special gatherings were held in Brooklyn, at both of which Mrs. Baxter was particularly helpful to those who had believed.

The work among the young men of our Association was never so aggressive as to-day. Young Men's Gospel meetings and Bible-classes, both evangelistic and for training Christian workers, are more largely used this autumn than ever. We are specially hopeful over this last form of effort; Christian young men are being organised into classes for the special purpose of studying the Word, for the purpose of using it with others. These classes are limited to about twenty, and, after a portion of the hour is spent about the books of the Bible, locating passages and giving synopses of the teaching on given topics, then actual difficulties met in dealing with inquirers are considered, and Scriptural answers are found which may be used by the workers. Thus each one, having carefully prepared himself beforehand, aids the other, and the hour becomes mutually very helpful. Already we are beginning to develop men skilful in the use of the Word.

The dedication of the new Brooklyn building for the Y.M.C.A., has attracted a great deal of attention. Truly it may be said of Francis Marquand, the generous donor, that "he being dead, yet speaketh." One man giving evidence of his interest in young men, by devoting £60,000 (300,000 dollars) for this building, is an example well worthy of imitation. Before the building had been open two weeks, 500 new members enrolled themselves. During the early part of December, Mr. Moody will hold a week of special services for young men in their new Hall. May it be a Bethesda to many precious souls.

GEO. A. HALL, State Secretary Y.M.C.A.

HOUSE OF REST, KILBURN.—At the "All-day Meeting" here, on the 6th inst., the morning hours were spent in seeking the face of the Lord on behalf of the numerous wants and hopes and joys of those assembled. Several gave thanks for marked answers to prayer offered at previous meetings. The need of funds for the current expenses of the Houses of Rest at Kilburn and Eastbourne was brought before the Lord in very earnest prayer by many, not only of Chirstian workers who had received the benefits of the Houses, but also by others who testified to great blessings received through attending the meetings. The House of Rest is continually ministering to the Lord's labourers, who sorely need the encouragement it affords them in their fierce conflicts with sin and degradation In the afternoon an excellent address was given by Rev. J. Pearce Clark, of Streatham, on "Sanctification by Faith, and Sanctification by the Word of God." In the evening Miss Mason gave an address on "The present State of Christendom, and the Remedy," illustrated by several passages from the Book of Jeremiah.

---

* These gentlemen form the Consultative Committee.

A BITTER CRY IN INDIA.

I AM in the mood to send you greetings this morning from Bombay. Never a week passes without a visit from THE CHRISTIAN to our parsonage. All the world seems to be interested in the great struggle on behalf of woman in London to-day. We have heard the loud and bitter wail from your great city, and we have thanked God for the noble men and women of England who have been aroused by the discovery of this armada of vice so near the heart of Albion. For a brief moment the attention of Christians has been withdrawn from India's enslaved womanhood, to the contemplation of a crueler bondage in a land as far to the west of Egypt as this is to the east. Shall not the daughters of Israel again "Sound the loud cymbal o'er Egypt's dark sea," because "Jehovah has conquered, his people are free"?

In Bombay we have been listening to the cry for help of a poor "Hindu Lady," which has been ringing through our daily papers. A daughter of the people has appeared, a veritable Deborah with the pen. She writes out of the fulness of her heart, and seems to get her inspiration from the fulness of a Marah of experience. She writes with a polish and power which surprise one. Her language is in the purest and noblest English. She evidently is familiar with our literature; her appeals to men of India and the Government of Britons, her invective hurled against Manu, the heartless law-maker and chain-forger of Hindustan, her arguments in favour of prompt action for the deliverance of her enslaved sisters, betoken a strong mind, a broad familiarity with our manner of expressing thought, and still more, a very deep experience of heart-bitterness. Her first letter was upon infant marriage. In this she unfolded a story of sadness that only one who knew whereof she wrote could tell.

The Pharisaical brutality of the men of India is monstrous to conceive, but what must it be to experience by a high-minded woman of delicate sensibilities? The infamous libels circulated concerning the girls of England—that their degradation is not a crime because they choose and enjoy a life of sin, is as offensively upheld in India by many, concerning the happy (?) lot of the wives and widows of Hindustan. They feel not what others picture. They do not drink the cup of gall that others analyse for the benefit of a horror-loving public. In a letter written by one subscribing herself "English Lady," which appeared a few days after the bitter cry of the Hindu lady, who had been betrothed as an infant to one too foul for any woman to associate with, this writer said that the condition of Hindu ladies betrothed in infancy was in a sense preferable to that of English girls who had to wait for husbands, often vainly, and, failing to see the coming laggard, had no future but enforced maidenhood and dependence on reluctant relations. Could you imagine anything more disgusting?

The second letter of the "Hindu Lady," was on the subject of "Enforced Widowhood." The Times of India says, "In taking up the question of Enforced Widowhood, the 'Hindu Lady' stands forward as the champion of so great a multitude of miserable girls and women, that no mere figures can convey an adequate idea of their numbers." The Education Commission gives in their report twenty-one millions.

The "Hindu Lady" writes, "Our throes are mental as well as physical, and they end only with our wretched lives. Our Shastras have invented a mode of torture for the benefit of Hindu widows, by the side of which the tortures practised by the followers of Ignatius Loyola pale. This is no exaggeration, for the tortures inflicted by the Inquisition, horrible as they were, could last only for a few hours, but our throes end only with our wretched lives." She describes to us the venerable head of a Hindu family sending out his creatures to hunt down a girl of ten or twelve to bless the remaining years of his life, and then turning to comfort his grand-daughter of fifteen, just entering the critical period of life, when girlhood ends and womanhood begins. "My darling," says the affectionate grandfather, "fate has ordained this widowhood for you, and what human effort can upset the decrees of fate? This is a punishment for the sins of your previous birth, and you can only expiate your sins by a life of austere devotion. Give up, dear, the vanities of this world, and live a life of purity." The editor of The Times very aptly remarks: "This is turning the tables with a vengeance, and is a capital exposition of the custom which enforces perpetual widowhood on a girl of fifteen, and encourages an old dotard to marry, 'even when the very shadow of death seems to stretch upon him,' so as to leave behind him yet another blighted life."

A decision has just been given by one of our Bombay Judges which is full of interest to the women of India. Near a score of years ago, a baby girl was betrothed to a young Hindu lad. The first marriage ceremonies were duly performed. Years came and went. The girl became the maiden, and now has blossomed out into a lovely and high-minded woman of the most refined tastes. She has received a very thorough education. The lad, too, has undergone a metamorphosis. He soon learned that his betrothed was an heiress; therefore he reasoned: "Why should I study or work, when my wife has plenty of money, I won't do any such thing. I'll live in anticipation, and enjoy myself, finally, on the realisation, &c., &c." Thus he has grown into a dissolute rake and spendthrift. At the proper time he asked for the second marriage ceremony, which, of course, she objected to. He carried his suit into the High Court with the result that I have intimated, a triumph for the woman. This is a victory for Indian women worth celebrating. This lady is a visitor often in our home. We hope soon to see her numbered among the devout women who minister unto Him whose ministers we are. A MISSIONARY.

Bombay.

◆

PALESTINE EXPLORATION FUND.

THE deeply interesting subject of the explorations that been lately going on in and about Jerusalem, and in various parts of Palestine, is again brought before us in the Quarterly Statement of the Palestine Exploration Fund. It is very important that public interest in this work should be stimulated from time to time, by the publication of facts so valuable as those that are being continually brought to light. The work that has been already done comprises a geological survey, besides thousands of ruins sketched and excavated.

In the present number we have an account of the discovery of some very interesting tombs on the western slope of the hill, above Jeremiah's Grotto, or near to the ruins of a church that have long been hidden in the dust of ages, and which probably are the remains of the magnificent church of the Empress Eudocia, in 460 A.D., erected in memory of the martyr Stephen, on the supposed place of his martydom. These tombs are cut in the solid rock, and one curious feature is the holes in the walls of the rooms in which the tombs are grouped, these holes being so cut, as the Arabs say, that the dead might speak to each other. By these and other discoveries brought to light, we are reminded of the interest taken in the Holy Land in the early centuries of the Christian era, and by the Crusaders, who committed a similar mistake to that made by the Jews of old, and thought that by deeds of violence they might prepare the day for the coming of the Messiah.

A large portion of this statement is taken up with the description of "A Naturalist's Journey to Sinai, Petra, and South Palestine," in which there is much botanical, entomological, and geographical information, of considerable value. There is a continuation of the paper on "The Day of Atonement," which students of Scripture will read with great interest. The office of the Society is at 1, Adam-street, Adelphi, W.C.

REQUESTS FOR PRAYER.—For a mission to be conduted by Rev. C. Melville Pym, at the Mission Hall, Aldershot, from Nov. 28 to Dec. 7.——For God's blessing on the conversion of souls at Gospel meetings being held during this month on Thursdays and Sundays at Dulverton, Somerset.——For blessing on evangelistic services in Campsie Free Church Hall, from Nov. 9 to 13 inclusive.

"THOU ART THE MAN."

FROM THE GERMAN OF KARL GEROK.

2 SAMUEL xii. 7.

"THOU art the man—thy mouth the doom hath spoken!"
The prophet sternly cries
To blood-stained David. Sin's dark spell is broken,
And in the dust he lies.
Thou art the man, whose righteous indignation
Unwitting, hath pronounced thy condemnation:
"He surely dies whoe'er this deed hath done."
Thou art the man.

Thou art the man, whose greedy lust desired
Thy neighbour's only lamb;
Who, merciless, against his life conspired,
And revelled in his shame.
Thou! saved by God from angry Saul's displeasure,
Enthroned and blessed from heaven's bounteous treasure,
Whose harp was tuned to many a holy strain,
Thou art the man.

Thou art the man. Hear, O my soul, with terror,
Lest thou, to judgment prone,
Shouldst be so watchful of thy brother's error
As to forget thine own.
Within thy breast are germs and evil seeds
Of fruit accurs'd, and all unholy deeds.
Behold in others' guiltiness thine own—
Thou art the man.

Thou art the man, whose soul to-day enraptured,
Is tuned with holy fire,
And yet, by fleshly lust to-morrow captured,
Thou'rt grovelling in the mire!
To David's treach'ry, Peter's false denial,
Cain's murderous hate, or Judas' base betrayal,
To every sin, wherever done or when,
Thou art the man.

Thou art the man, for in the heart deep hidden,
Sleeps every evil lust,
And when the lust awakes to fruit forbidden,
Then rise from out the breast
Vile wanton thoughts and covetous desires,
Fanning, with poisoned breath, unhallowed fires,
Consuming soul and body in their flame—
Thou art the man.

Thou art the man, and wert thou high in favour
As head of Israel's host,
Say not, "The Evil One can touch me never!"
A crown may soon be lost!
The higher that thy Master's love doth place thee,
The more thy foe will glory to disgrace thee.
Oft ends in flesh, in spirit who began.
Thou art the man.

Thou art the man. Yes, Lord, I own with sadness
My guilt is dark and deep;
'Tis Thou alone canst cure me of sin's madness,
And Thou alone canst keep.
Who but Thyself can break sin's galling chain?
And who deliver from its curse and pain?
Who save my guilty soul from death's dark ban?
THOU art the Man!

Thou art the Man didst plunge in death's dark water
To rescue me from hell;
God's Lamb, led, unresisting, to the slaughter,
That I in life might dwell.
From power and doom of sin, Lord, make me whole,
And strengthen, by thy Spirit's might, my soul.
Thou! who upon the cross my victory won,
THOU ART THE MAN!

A. S. WARDLAW.

BARBICAN MISSION TO THE JEWS.—A large company of Jews of various nationalities with their wives and children and other friends came together recently to the annual social tea given at Albion Hall, London-wall, by Mr. and Mrs. Warschawski, in connection with this movement. Appropriate hymns were sung, and portions of Scripture read in Hebrew, German, and English. Addresses followed by Rev. J. W. Pratt, vicar of St. Stephen's, Mr. Warschawski, and others. The speakers sought to point the sons and daughters of Abraham to Him whose day that Patriarch "saw and was glad." Nor were the children forgotten, Captain Porter having admirably adapted himself to the capacity of the little ones present, who were seemingly impressed by the earnest words of that gentleman.

NORWICH BIBLE FLOWER MISSION.—The eighth annual report of this mission contains the information that during the year 6590 articles with texts attached have been distributed to sick, aged, and infirm inmates of hospitals, workhouses, infirmaries, barracks, and cottage homes. These articles included (besides flowers and ornamental cards), lavender bags, scrapbooks, needle-cases, pin-cushions, Japanese fans, bags of sweets, and balls for children, and a very extensive assortment of woollen shawls, cuffs, handkerchiefs, crossovers, comforters, caps, mittens, night-socks, &c. &c. The report concludes with an appeal for a continuance of gifts, especially for woollen articles of the kind enumerated, which are much in request during the winter months. The Hon. Secretary is Mrs. Robert Adcock, Bracondale, Norwich.

THE RESCUE SOCIETY.

DARK, indeed, have been the shadows that during the past few months have been chasing each other across the face of society. Depths of iniquity have been revealed that could not have been imagined. The revelations are such as to cause shame and sorrow to all right-thinking persons, and the Christian to cry out, in anguish and bitterness of heart, "Lamentation, Mourning, and Woe."

In the Report now before us, the Thirty-second Annual Report of the Society for the Rescue of Young Women and Children, these shadows lie deep indeed; but there is also much to cause great thankfulness. We see that iniquities abound, that out of 8755 fallen young women and girls admitted to the society's Homes since 1853, no less than 1801 were ruined before they were fifteen years old. We see that in some cases, even parents and relatives have caused or connived at the girl's ruin. But we see also how the grace of God has been manifested in the reclamation of many of the worst cases admitted to these Homes, how persistently both reformatory and preventive work has been carried on, and how God's blessing has been given to the labours of those who have thus laboured beside the darkest waters of human sin and degradation. For instance, we read of several who, having passed through the Homes, have given great satisfaction in the situations to which they were sent; of another who had murdered her children and attempted suicide in France, who, after two years' imprisonment, was received in one of the Homes, and eventually restored to her friends. Of another, once thought an incorrigible, who showed her gratitude by bringing to the secretary a sovereign out of her three months' wages. Amongst the legacies is one of £31 17s. 5d., from a former inmate. Most encouraging is it, too, to note in how many cases there is evidence of a change of heart as well as of life. Masters and mistresses bear witness concerning those who once were outcasts, that they are now adorning the doctrine of God their Saviour.

An analysis of the statistics brings to light two facts that may well cause much reflection to those who have the care of the young. In the first place, how important it is that from earliest years our young people should be surrounded with the restraints of that morality which has its base in the law of God, seeing that temptation meets so many when they are still so young. A large majority fall a prey to the wiles of the seducer before they are eighteen years of age; no less than 52 out of 255 fell from the paths of virtue before they were fifteen. Then it must be remembered education alone will not save them. Of the year's total of 502, no less than 355 could read and write tolerably well, while, sad to say, 469 had attended Sunday-schools. Sunday-school teachers may well learn a lesson from this latter fact, as to the necessity of praying and striving for a change of heart in those committed to their care.

In the Report also there is a much-needed word to young men, who, as is well said, are really causing the evil that this society is endeavouring to cope with. This word receives emphasis from the fact that 199 of the 255 fallen had been domestic servants. Besides these, who had actually lapsed from a virtuous life, 247 had been dealt with in time to rescue them from an immoral career. Of the total of 502 thus reached, 179 had been placed in situations, and 67 restored to their friends. The society has nine Homes in different parts of London. We are sorry to see the statement of accounts shows a balance on the wrong side of £308 18s. 9d., so that friends interested in this grand work of the rescue of young girls from a life of infamy and vice, would do well to come to its help in their arduous work. The Secretary is Mr. Stuart Thorpe, 79, Finsbury-pavement, E.C.

THE THEATRICAL MISSION.

THE account of the work of this Mission—of the extent and difficulties of the work also—given by Mr. Courthope Todd, at the meeting held at Mildmay on Tuesday evening last was painfully interesting, and calculated to evoke great sympathy, both on behalf of those engaged in this work, as well as with those amongst whom they labour. The chair was occupied by Rev. Burman Cassin, whose earnest words were full of encouragement.

Mr. Todd, at the outset of his remarks, said few people knew the immense proportions of the theatrical world. There are no less than 28,000 women and children engaged in theatres, and at Christmas-time the largest theatre employs no less than 1500 hands, and the smallest sixty; while altogether there are 60,000 persons engaged in the various theatres and music-halls; between 3000 and 4000 young people are being systematically trained up as theatre artists. He went on to describe how the work had grown—how, finding that in order to do much they must begin with the children, they hired a large hall, where some 200 children of two years old and upwards were addressed by Mr. Spiers; and how, from a desire then expressed for some book "where the heroine did not die," a library was formed, the first book being "A Peep behind the Scenes," which was soon worn to rags.

Mr. Todd gave most thrilling details of the dangers to which theatrical employés were exposed. Mr. Burnand had said that in a week the moral susceptibilities of a young woman not brought up to the stage must be thoroughly bluuted, if she herself were not thoroughly disgusted. Mrs. Kendal had expressed her utter abhorrence of the enormities perpetrated behind the scenes; and Mr. Todd caused some sensation by saying that out of 6000 of these young women no less than 4000 had fallen, and that he could tell of most fearful things that were perpetrated in connection with the stage—far more dreadful than any of the disclosures made by Mr. Stead. He referred in scathing terms to the Church and Stage Guild, and to a lecture recently delivered by Canon Shuttleworth, in which the stage was spoken of as the daughter of the Church. He was glad that the Archbishop of Canterbury had written such firm words in denunciation of that Guild. Many most interesting illustrations of the work, especially amongst children, were then given, and, in conclusion, Mr. Todd asked for help that they might commence work free of debt in the new hall shortly to be opened.

Mr. Mathieson said he should give a practical proof of the increased interest he felt in this work from Mr. Todd's statement, by giving £5, instead of £1, as he had intended, and he hoped others would do the same.

CANON WILBERFORCE has returned to the Deanery, Southampton. The hoped-for improvement in his health has not taken place, and his medical advisers recommend further surgical treatment.

PREACHING FROM CONVICTION.—Rev. Colmer B. Symes, the minister of Allen-street Chapel, Kensington, delivered an earnest and deeply instructive address in Hornton-street Chapel, Kensington, on the occasion of the quarterly meeting of West London Auxiliary of the Open-air Mission on the 2nd inst. Starting from the text, "We believe, and therefore speak," he emphasised the fact that all successful preaching had in it this element of personal conviction on the preacher, whose strength and usefulness depended upon preaching the old doctrines of grace under the power of the Holy Ghost. These expressions were cordially endorsed by the chairman, Sir William J. Charley, Q.C., Common Serjeant of London.

THE PURITY MOVEMENT IN CHELSEA.—The district of Chelsea has attained an evil repute in connection with the recent disclosures as to London vice, mainly as the residence of the notorious Mrs. Jeffries. It is satisfactory, therefore, to find that Chelsea is awaking to a sense of its unenviable position. A large and enthusiastic meeting was held in the schoolroom of Markham-square Church last week, when strong and stirring speeches were delivered by Mr. Wookey, Mrs. Butler, Rev. B. Waugh, Mrs. Bradley, and others. Rev. J. L. Foster, pastor of the church, who presided, made the remarkable statement that Mrs. Jeffries is still pursuing her horrible trade in no less than ten houses in that district. If this be true, why do not the police show the same alacrity in bringing her to justice that they have shown in placing in the criminal dock those who may have unwittingly over-stepped the law in seeking to reform it?

WORK AMONG GLASGOW SAILORS.

"IT is a good thing to give thanks unto the Lord, and to sing praises unto thy name, O Most High." This was the key-note of the very interesting social thanksgiving meeting, held at the new Seamen's Bethel, Eaglesham-street, Glasgow, on the evening of Saturday week. Seamen, wives, and friends to the number of 600, gathered together to thank God for the great blessing which had attended this part of the Glasgow Seamen's Friend Society's work during the past year. The chair was occupied by Mr. Richard H. Hunter, and several of the large shipowners and city ministers took part in the meeting.

The Chairman stated that it was just ten years that night since the first little Bethel on the South Side of the river, was opened with eight persons present. The work, then begun in deep dependence upon God, had steadily grown, until this large new Bethel was built, and was now being very much blessed to the men of the sea. The Lord had provided all the money, not only to meet current expenses, but to erect the building which cost over £6300; and the past year had been a time of much blessing to all connected with the work.

Mr. Morrison, the missionary in charge of the place, gave a brief summary of the work done during the year. Over 67,000 visits had been made to the reading and recreation rooms by sailors. Six hundred and thirty-five had taken the pledge, and some 650 persons—a large number of whom were sailors—had professed to give themselves to Christ at the meetings. He had good reason to believe that a large proportion were genuine cases of conversion.

Rev. A. Andrew, in the course of a very interesting address, stated that a large number of those who had been converted at the Bethel meetings, had joined the new Church he had formed in the neighbourhood, and were working zealously for the Master. Rev. F. H. Robarts, of Hillhead Baptist Church, addressed an earnest word to young Christians.

The Chairman referred to the case of two sailors, who were brought under the influence of the mission two years ago. They had been discharged from their ship, and had £25 to £30 each in their pockets. They had got a little drink, and were fast spending all they had, when Mr. Morrison got hold of them, and, after earnest talk and prayer, both of them surrendered to Christ. They sent their money home, and went off on their next voyage happy Christians. Nothing more was heard of them, till this week one of them turned up full of joy for all that the Lord had done for him, and saying his companion was also living a Christian life.

Rev. T. Lawson, who has frequently taken part in the Bethel services, referred to the very thorough way in which Mr. Morrison conducted the work, and the influence such meetings had over sailors. He was followed by Mr. George Andrews, of the London Evangelisation Society, who had just concluded a very successful fortnight's meetings in that place, and who had much to praise God for in the manifest blessing which had attended these special services.

Some little time being allowed for testimony from those who had found the Lord during the past year, about a dozen testified to the power of the Lord to save from sin and from the power of drink. The meeting was of the heartiest character throughout. After a few words from Mr. Alexander Allan, of the "Allan" Line, the Benediction was pronounced, and this happy thanksgiving meeting was brought to a close. Earnest prayer is asked for this work during the coming year, that it may be more blessed than in the past.

DOMESTIC SERVANTS FOR CANADA.—I have a long list of very suitable girls who wish to go out to Canada in the spring, but who are unable to meet all the expenses of outfit and ocean passage. I have a still longer list of mistresses in Canada who are anxiously awaiting the arrival of the young girls. We have sent out more than one hundred this season, and with scarcely an exception they are doing well.—Yours faithfully, ADELAIDE ROSS.

Snelston Rectory, Ashburne, Derbyshire.

THE GOSPEL FOR NORTH AFRICA.

DEAR SIR,—At the beginning of the present year our missionary brethren and their wives engaged in connection with the Kabyle Mission numbered eight souls. During the ten months that have passed six more have joined them, three started on November 7, and several others are ready to follow as God shall guide and provide. Beside local work at the various mission stations in Algeria and Morocco, several journeys have been taken into the surrounding country; portions of Scripture and tracts have been distributed, and the Word of God explained. Everywhere our brethren found open doors; and though we cannot say that the people are intelligently thirsting for the Gospel, they are quite willing to hear it. Some, of course, raise objections, but, considering that our work is amongst Mohammedans, the readiness with which the message is heard is very remarkable.

Mrs. Baldwin has been carrying on medical mission work in Tangier, where more than 1800 patients have been treated. The fame of "Hope House" has spread far away into the villages and cities of Morocco. Dr. Churcher has now gone to take up this work, and we trust he will be able to organise a thoroughly useful medical mission in this diplomatic capital of North Morocco.

An attempt has been made to translate portions of the Scriptures into Moorish Arabic, and a number of leaflets have been printed on the Typograph. The natives read them with much pleasure, and seem to be able to understand them better than what is printed in the ordinary Arabic.

Mr. Bureau, who has been for about two years in the province of Oran, in Algeria, started for Tunis last month, and it is proposed that he shall itinerate in that country. Thus we hope to open up another country to the light of the Gospel. It is interesting to remember that this is the very land in which the early Church especially flourished, for it is close to the city of Tunis that Carthage stood, where so many earnest Christians lived, laboured, and died.

Brethren and sisters are offering to go forth, and though we tell them that we cannot guarantee them salary, and that there are difficulties lying in their path, they beg of us to send them forth. We thank God that the hearts of his people are being stirred up to give themselves to carry the Gospel to the Mohammedans of North Africa; we thank God also that He has inclined some of his servants who are unable to go themselves, to give their time, and their means, to help those who do go. Still we cannot be blind to the fact that with a large increase in the number of workers in the field, very much larger supplies will be needed to sustain the work.—Yours faithfully,

EDWARD H. GLENNY, Hon. Sec.

21, Linton-road, Barking.

SHELTERING HOMES, LIVERPOOL.

ON Thursday last was held the second workers' monthly meeting, and a most refreshing time of blessing it proved to be. Mr. Kirlew, from Manchester, led the meeting, and the presence of the Holy Spirit was felt throughout the whole gathering.

The children, about seventy in number, who have just recently been rescued, were all there, and were not the least attentive of the audience by any means. It was utterly impossible for any stranger to realise that only a few hours before some of them had been in rags and wretchedness, neglected and perishing. The Homes are filling fast. We hope our friends will bear us up, and our needs for them, in earnest prayer before the God of the widow and the fatherless. LOUISA BIRT.

1, Sugnall-street, Liverpool.

MORE MISSIONARIES FOR CHINA.

THE China Inland Mission continues to send reinforcements to the front. A contingent of nine gentlemen (including Mr. Stevenson, who returns to his post after a period of rest) left London on Wednesday last week. Another band of nine—all ladies—are to leave on Wednesday next, 19th inst. A number of valedictory meetings have been held by the first band in England and Scotland. The closing meeting of the series took place at Exeter Hall on Monday evening, 2nd inst. Many friends assembled for a social hour, and partook of tea at the invitation of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Scott; subsequently the lower hall was well filled by a deeply interested audience, composed mainly of young people of both sexes. After songs of praise, and earnest prayer by Mr. Morgan for those already in the field and for those about to go forth, Mr. R. SCOTT, who presided, read the missionary chapter, Matt. x.

In a brief address, Dr. MCKILLIAM bespoke earnest prayer for those about to leave for China, and trusted that from the young people present at the meeting many would rise up and follow the example of those who have gone to heathen lands as ambassadors for God. There is at present a great waking-up in the Church to a deeper Christian life and to more devoted labour for others. What a grand commission Christ has given to all who go at his command to face danger and difficulty in his service. No need for anxious thought, surely, when we have the assurance that the very hairs of our head are numbered, and we have the promise of his perpetual presence.

Mr. BROOMHALL, the secretary of the mission, said he had just returned from Edinburgh, where a series of remarkable meetings had been held. At least 5000 persons must have been present, and the presence of God was felt in great power. On the previous evening about 1000 students were present at a meeting specially for them. It must have been the turning-point in the lives of many, as a number stood up desiring prayer. Similar meetings had been held at Oxford, Cambridge, and Glasgow. When the second band has gone out, thirty-seven will have left this year; forty-six went last year, making eighty-three since the beginning of last year in connection with this mission. There are nearly 200 workers in the field. In a short time if the present rate of progress is maintained, those belonging to this mission will number about half the entire strength of the missionary force in China—about 500. These figures surely indicated either that this mission was going too fast, or others were moving too slowly. During the last few months they had had others offering to go at the rate of one a day. Mr. Broomhall asked prayer that the right men and women should be chosen, and also that those at work in China, and those about to go, might be mightily energised of God for their great work.

Short addresses followed from those on the platform who were about to leave. The first to speak were Revs. T. G. Vanstone and S. T. Thorne, who go out in connection with the Bible Christians, in which community they have each held the office of minister. They are going at first under the tutelage of the Inland Mission; but, as soon as the way is opened, they purpose taking up the work more directly on behalf of the Bible Christians. They briefly related their previous experiences as workers at home, and how they had ventured to leave their present spheres of labour, expressing great satisfaction at going forth as ambassadors of God to the Chinese. They were followed by Messrs. J. H. Heal, J. R. Douglas, D. M. Robertson, R. Grierson, M. Harrison, and W. H. Gill. All spoke with great propriety and earnestness in detailing their personal experiences and God's leading, in view of foreign mission work, and their words produced a deep impression on the meeting. Several expressed their indebtedness to the Y.M.C.A. It is a blessed thing to find that these institutions are proving nurseries for the evangelisation of the world.

Dr. DOUTHWAITE said it was about the meanest thing he could imagine, to talk about it being a "sacrifice" to go to labour for Christ in China; it was a glorious privilege. It was no easy task fighting heathenism, but in the power of God they could prevail. He and his wife hoped soon to return to China, to resume their loved work.

Four ladies were present of the band to sail next week. Miss REUTER, a Norwegian young lady, described, with much simple pathos, the Lord's dealings with her, and how, through some old copies of China's Millions, carried to her country by a sailor who had visited the Sailors' Rest, in Ratcliff-highway, her mind was attracted to China and its great needs. She heard the call, "The Lord hath need of thee," and He had given her strength to break every earthly and family tie that bound her to her own land and enabled her to go forth joyfully. Miss JAKOBSON, also from Norway, followed her Scandinavian sister, and evoked much deep and heartfelt sympathy by her artless account of how she had been moved to enter on this path of service. Miss JONES, a Welsh young lady, told how her heart had been turned to the heathen field, but there was no society in Wales that believed much in sending young missionaries to foreign lands. She asked the Lord for guidance, and she was directed to the China Inland Mission, who were now sending her forth. Miss CLARK, from Devonshire, though it was the first time, as she said, that she had spoken in public, described with much composure and clearness God's wonderful leading in preparing her for the path on which she was happily about to enter.

A few very earnest words came from Mr. T. W. Piggott (who has been for six years in China), as to the unspeakable need of the vast stretches of country without a single preacher of the Gospel. Then Rev. J. W. STEVENSON, who has laboured in China already for twenty years, and who is now returning to that land, made a fervent appeal that all present should definitely consecrate themselves to the Lord to be led by Him whither He will, and used of Him in the furtherance of his kingdom in the world. We talk of "giving up," he said; but it is only giving back what we have received. Mr. Stevenson said he believed there were soon to be great times of revival at home, and that would surely affect the work of Christian missions abroad. The deeply interesting and inspiring proceedings concluded with a solemn act of consecration and prayer.

SHEFFIELD Y.M.C.A.

THE annual members' meeting of this Association, which was resuscitated about a year ago, was held at St. Paul's-chambers, Norfolk-street, on Thursday, October 22, Mr. Emerson Bainbridge in the chair. The financial statement showed an expenditure (including furnishing, adaptation of rooms, &c.) of £478 17s. 8d., the total receipts being £483 17s. 7d. An abstract of the report of work done was read by the secretary, Mr. Rosevear, which showed that 270 young men had enrolled themselves as members and associates.

The Chairman said he felt sure the employers of labour in Sheffield would contribute to make the Association a financial success as the result of the report of work shown. Mr. Hind Smith reviewed the work of the year, congratulating the Committee on the successful operations of the Association.

MESSRS. WHITTLE AND McGRANAHAN have entered on a Gospel campaign in Kansas. Major Whittle's daughter May, who is a student at the Northfield Seminary, has been seriously ill of typhoid fever; but we are glad to learn that she is recovering.

GOSPEL WORK IN CEYLON.—Will Christian friends in England help me with a set or two of coloured magic lantern slides, on such subjects as "The Martyrs," "John Wesley and his Times," and also with some Temperance subjects, that I may be enabled to have exhibitions at our native circuits to raise funds on behalf of extension work of sending the Gospel to the heathen villages. Messrs. Morgan & Scott will receive contributions. Perhaps the lowest amount necessary will be £15.

J. A. SPAAR, Wesleyan Minister.

Kalutara, Ceylon.

Letters to the Editor.

REFUGES AND THEIR MANAGEMENT.

SIR,—I was concerned to read the article in your paper signed "One who Knows," speaking of the "Homes" in England for the rescue of fallen women and girls. The writer brings forward one or two cases where the matrons seemed hard, and the rules strict, and he speaks of two girls who got out of a window and climbed a gate. Surely the writer ought to know that in no Home in England can a girl be retained an hour against her will. Had they told the matron that they wished to leave, the door would have been opened, and they could go. Surely, where this is the case, it is folly to talk of "penal servitude" in reference to these Homes.

Again, the writer says the women should be paid because they are industrious, and earn so much per annum, &c. This is not net, and they would earn very little indeed were it not for careful teaching, constant supervision, and costly machinery. The women have great encouragement to do well. A comfortable home, with every allowable indulgence, and, when they leave for service, a box of good clothes (worth from £3 to £5 each), according to conduct and character. To pay the women so much a week would mar the work and take away all call for gratitude.

Most gladly would we give our matrons higher salaries if we had the means, but I am not at all sure that devotion and self-denial can be purchased. Our excellent matrons do not work for the payment they receive. Those I have had the privilege of knowing—(not a few)—work from far higher motives; the love of Christ constrains them to seek to save the lost. I have worked amongst these poor girls for more than thirty years, and have had large experience in the management of Homes. I have conversed with thousands of girls, and rejoice to know that very many, through the instrumentality of these Homes, are now treading the paths of purity and usefulness who were once sunk in degradation and misery!

The foregoing remarks must not be taken as approval of the strict rules of the old Penitentiary system, which are fast becoming a thing of the past—the omnipotence of loving-kindness is, I believe, now the rule, and severe treatment quite the exception. I know very many Homes in their internal workings, but I do not know one where women are placed alone for a week before admission, or where vexatious rules as to silence, &c., are enforced.

Yours respectfully, (Miss) E. GILPIN.
31, South Hill-road, Liverpool.

THE GENERAL ELECTION.

SIR,—It is impossible to over-estimate the gravity of the issues involved in the approaching General Election. Now, if ever, in the history of our country, it has become essential that Christian men should speak out, and let candidates for Parliament know that, so far as they are concerned, elections shall depend, not on the question whether the man seeking their support is Liberal, Radical, or Conservative, a follower of Mr. Gladstone, Mr. Chamberlain, or Lord Salisbury, but whether he will advocate and vote for measures affecting the purity of our homes, the spread of Temperance, the maintenance of the sanctity of the Lord's Day, and of the professedly Christian character of our Legislature.

The responsibility of Christian men invested with the franchise is tremendous, and is one which, as the Archbishops of Canterbury and York rightly tell us, should be discharged in the sight of God.

The hearts and consciences of multitudes throughout the land have been moved "as the trees of the wood are moved with the wind;" and that movement, which we can only attribute to the gracious Spirit of God, acting in mercy to us as a nation, will be largely in vain, if it be not used to guide our action in the highest duty of citizenship—the election of a new legislature. "When thou hearest the sound of a going in the tops of the mulberry trees, then shalt thou bestir thyself."

If God-fearing men all over the country will now respond to the call which is sounded in their ears by the circumstances of the time and will "be of good courage (to) play the men for our people, and for the cities of our God," they will surely be given "understanding of the times," like the men of Issachar, to "know what Israel ought to do."

I enclose, for what it is worth, the copy of a letter I have felt it my duty to address to the Parliamentary candidate for my division. I have not alluded to the Disestablishment of the Church of England, though I believe it would be a grave national sin, because, on that question, he has indicated his attitude in his address.

Whatever each man may think it his duty to do, let us unite in pleading with God, day and night, that men of high moral principle may be elected to govern us, that so our national sins may be "broken off by righteousness, that there may be a lengthening of our tranquillity."—Yours faithfully,

STEVENSON A. BLACKWOOD.
Shortlands House, Shortlands, Kent.

COPY OF LETTER.

SIR,—As a Conservative elector for West Kent, but attaching greater importance to the assertion of moral principles than to the predominance of one or another political party, I take the liberty of asking you (as the several subjects are not alluded to in your address to the electors) whether, if returned to Parliament, you will support measures having for their object:—

(1) The total repeal of the Contagious Diseases Acts.

(2) The Sunday closing of public-houses.

(3) The establishment of some form or other of local option.

Also, whether you will oppose:—

(1) The admission of avowed Atheists to Parliament.

(2) The opening of museums, &c., on Sunday.

There are many who, like myself, would sooner abstain from recording their votes altogether than incur the responsibility of aiding in the election of a Parliamentary representative whose views would not be in accordance with their own on questions affecting most vitally, as they believe, the highest interests of the nation.—Yours faithfully,

Nov. 2. STEVENSON A. BLACKWOOD.

CHRISTIANS AND POLITICS.

The letter by Miss Murray, in your issue of October 29, calls attention to a very serious characteristic of our modern English Evangelical Christianity. I wish to direct attention to what I conceive to be the root of the mischief, in the hope that a remedy may be forthcoming.

From the time of Wilberforce and Thornton till within the last thirty or forty years, my impression is that it was generally accepted as an axiom, by all sections of the Church, that amongst the primary duties of a Christian Englishman was the duty of accepting and discharging in a Christian spirit the functions of English citizenship. But then some earnest and spiritually-minded men began to set forth a new doctrine, viz.: that our citizenship is in heaven (Phil. iii. 20, R.V.) and, therefore, we are not only exempted from the duties of English citizenship, but are actually doing wrong to encumber ourselves with them; especially where they involve any risk of our finding ourselves unequally yoked in their discharge with persons who may not be "believers" in the full sense of the word.

This doctrine harmonises exactly with the natural feelings of men whose citizenship is in heaven. Ordinary motives (including patriotic ambition) will not prompt the spiritually-minded Christian to embark on the troubled sea of politics; and so, when (as Miss Murray observes) it is much more delightful to address an open-air meeting, &c. &c., than to engage in Parliamentary or other so-called secular work, it is not matter of surprise that the seed diligently sown has produced an abundant crop, until now there are hundreds, perhaps thousands, of truly Christian men of ability and leisure, who think they are doing God service by ignoring their duties as English citizens.

My object in writing this is not to combat the doctrine to which I have called attention, though I will just observe, by the way, that I have never found its advocates maintaining that, because we are dead and our life hidden with Christ in God (Col. iii. 3), therefore we ought to refrain from eating and drinking; but my object is to induce some competent expositor of Scripture amongst your readers to take up the subject and write a tractate fully setting forth the true doctrine of Scripture. I have only attempted just to indicate the basis on which I have usually found the error resting; but, if it is to be effectually grappled with, the arguments put forth by its most capable advocates would have to be stated fully and fairly, and then answered from Scripture. Mere rhetoric, or appeals to the feelings, or our common sense, or the necessity of the case will not suffice. Nothing but close and cogent à priori reasoning from Scripture, and Scripture alone, will have any effect with the class of persons to be dealt with, and in this they are worthy of all respect.

T.

MR. J. M. SCROGGIE has conducted Gospel services in Hawick during the past week, with much success. The mission is being continued.

NEW HEBRIDES MISSION.

DEAR SIR,—Being now on board the ss. Potosi, on my return journey to Australia, and, God willing, also to my dear islanders, let me, through you, thank all kind Christian friends who have helped me in raising £8700 for the new vessel, and for additional missionaries. If it rises to £9000, as appears every day likely, that will enable us to secure a ship at £6000, and also three new missionaries, of whom two are engaged already to follow us in April, providing a house and a boat for each and taking possession of three new islands for Jesus.

I have not privately asked anyone for a contribution, but have told the needs and the claims of the work publicly to God's people, and the Lord has sent me all that was required. This I hope is a proof that He smiles on our efforts and that He will bring many through us to love and serve Jesus. My brother, Rev. James Paton, B.A., 2, Park-quadrant, Glasgow, will receive and forward to me any contributions, now or hereafter, to the New Hebrides Mission Fund. With sincere thanks, and entreating the prayers of all God's faithful people.

I am, yours faithfully,
JOHN G. PATON, Missionary, Aniwa.
Off Gravesend, Oct. 29.

WIDOWS AT HOME OF INDUSTRY.

WE need scarcely bespeak the kind and sympathetic attention of our readers to the following brief note from Miss Annie Macpherson, Home of Industry, Commercial-street, E.:—

It is again our happy privilege to be busy cheering and comforting many an aged widowed and dying saint. How they eke out their existence we cannot tell, but this we do know: they never murmur, and are tenderly grateful for the least help either temporal or spiritual.

On Monday a lady friend sent her servants to spend an hour with our widows. Their joy was great to hand them the meat sandwich and pour out their tea. Next day the lady wrote: "Our servants have come home delighted with all they saw and heard. Their hearts went out to all the wretchedness and poverty, and they cannot get out of their minds the poor old widow who was so ill and had to be helped down the stairs for the last time." (She had made a great effort to come, as her room was cold and she had no coals.) "They realised for the first time in their lives the real abject poverty of some of our fellow-creatures. It has stirred their hearts and done them much good."

We feel assured that not only the servants but the lady will be a gainer in thus sparing them for an afternoon, giving them the joy of not only bringing the sovereign for the feast to those who much needed it, but allowing them to see the Lord's aged saints brightened while they sewed a few hours for their sixpence.

£5 is spent as follows:—

	£	s.	d.
100 sixpences	2	10	0
Tea for 100	1	0	0
Sick ones	0	10	0
Material for work	1	0	0
	£5	0	0

The widow spends her sixpence thus:—Bread, ½d.; sugar, ½d.; tea, ¾d.; wood, ¼d.; milk, ½d.; 7lb. of coals, 1d.; butter, ½d.—4d.; and the 2d. for end of the week.

SOLDIERS IN DOVER.—At the present time the garrison of Dover is a very large one. The Soldiers' Home there provides a safe resort for the men during the time they spend out of barracks, and its benefits are much valued by those who use it. The number attending the Bible-classes is very encouraging, while, from time to time, one and another coming out boldly on the Lord's side testifies to the reality of the work. The mother's meeting held weekly for the wives married without leave has been the means of real blessing. Help is much needed to meet existing expenses. Miss Wright, the lady superintendent, will thankfully receive contributions addressed to her.

Soldiers' Home, Dover.

EVANGELISTIC NOTES.

PORT GLASGOW.—Mr. W. D. Dunn has con- uded a most successful series of Gospel meetings ere. Not a night passed without seeing marked onversions. Christians were also greatly blessed.

MESSRS. WILLIAM CATLIN AND J. PHILLIPS ave held a series of Gospel services at Gamblingay nd Everton, in Cambridgeshire, visiting the bourers in their cottages, and the navvies at the prolite diggings in the day time.

MR. AND MRS. E. P. TELFORD IN OLDHAM.—he three weeks' mission which these esteemed vangelists are conducting in Oldham is success- lly progressing. Much blessing is being expe- enced. God's people are being quickened, and early two hundred persons have presented them- lves in the inquiry-room for direction.

FETTER-LANE CHAPEL, HOLBORN, E.C.—uring last week Mr. C. King has held very suc- essful Gospel services here. He has particularly tracted the youths employed by printers and anufacturers in the neighbourhood. On Friday vening when Mr. King gave his lecture "How to e a Man," the chapel was half-full of these lads, hose attention was riveted for an hour.

LEISTON.—A very successful three weeks' ission has been held here by John Harris, of the vangelisation Society. The effort has been a nited one. Congregationalists, Free Methodists, esleyans, and Friends have worked together, and uch good has been done, not only in the conver- on of sinners, but in the quickening of the Lord's eople. J. N.

SIDMOUTH.—Mr. George Heath, of Hilden- orough, Kent, recently concluded a most encoura- ng mission here, extending over six weeks. He as sent by the Open-air Mission at the request of cal Christians. The mission was an open-air one a considerable extent, but embraced many in- oor meetings also. The neighbouring villages ere also visited, and meetings held in them. More an 160 addresses were given during the six eeks, though how one voice could hold out under ch a strain is to us a mystery.

THE COW-CROSS MISSION.—Clerkenwell is hard-working operative district. I know much of e people, and I know that even in the darkest bodes may be seen hundreds of bright, open, onest faces, under the battered hats and bonnets of r costermongers. The landlord of some property Bowling Green-lane, having made us a tempting fer, at a low rent, we felt constrained to accept e offer, and on November 5 we started another anch of our Mission. Quite a sensation was used when Mr. Thomas Campbell, the well- own former Secretary of Cardinal Manning, ounted the platform and professed conversion to od. We want a larger building in this district, d hope to have it shortly, when they pull down e House of Detention. William Catlin.

VICTORIA.—We are glad to see that good ork is being done in Victoria, through the instru- entality of the Evangelisation Society established ere two years since. Fifty missions have been ncluded, eighty-four places have been visited by e evangelists; and at 1839 meetings held the timated aggregate attendance has been 106,400. he reports of the various evangelists engaged are ry encouraging, and prove that in the far-off uth, as elsewhere, the Word of God is, by the wer of the Spirit, made quick and powerful to e pulling down of the strongholds of sin and tan.

DAY NURSERY FOR CHILDREN.—The "Gor- on Day Nursery for Little Children and the eople's Church Mission," 8, High-street, Shad- ell, London, E., has been established in order to ccour the very poorest of the dock and wharf bouring classes, among whom the mothers are mpelled to go out washing, charing, &c., to ovide for their family wants. The institution is en daily from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m., for the reception children from the age of three months up to four ars. It is also in contemplation to open a soup tchen, to provide dinners for the poor, during the inter, at a very small charge. Several other encies are in operation. To sustain the mission proper working order, the committee need at ast £400 a year. Any articles of left-off clothing, mnants, or toys, would greatly help us in provi- ng for, and amusing the little ones. Communi- tions of all kinds to be addressed to A. C. A. cLaglen, superintendent and secretary, 8, High- reet, Shadwell, London, E. The institution is en to visitors every day in the week, Saturdays cepted. The late Lord Shaftesbury was presi- nt of the mission.

CONTINENTAL AND FOREIGN NOTES.

ASIA MINOR.—Dr. J. R. S. Sterrett has returned to Smyrna from a five months' trip in Asia Minor after Greek inscriptions. He brings back 611 Greek and Latin inscriptions, and reports the important discovery of the site of the Biblical Lystra at Kha tün Serai.

WOMEN'S WAGES. — The Frauen-Bund, in taking up the cause of working-women in Berlin, states that cap-makers, laundresses, &c , gain from 4s. to 6s. per week only, and skilled, experienced shirt-makers, working fifteen hours daily, can earn only about 12s. 6d. per week.

THE CONGO.—Mr. H. M. Stanley will not leave for the Congo until early in the new year. The delay in his return is said to be consequent upon the financial and other arrangements which have to be made in connection with the projected development of railway enterprise in the new State.

NEW YORK.—The Gospel meetings in the Broome-street Tabernacle, opened by Messrs. Moody and Sankey, still continue with encouraging interest. There is a large attendance upon all the meetings, and many are inquiring. It is proposed to invite the several City pastors in turn to occupy the pulpit on Sabbath evenings.

CINCINNATI.—The Christian people of this place, so far as represented by the members of the Noon-day Prayer-meeting Committee of the city, send forth to the Christian world a request for prayers for Cincinnati, its ministers and people. Several evangelists will, it is expected, supplement the work of the pastors during the coming fall and winter.

MONACO.—"How much longer," says a New York contemporary, "will that plague spot of Europe, Monaco, be permitted to extend its career of crime? It is a very pit of hell. The latest case of ruin and suicide is that of a French woman who lost 75,000 francs at the gambling table, and, in remorse, took her life. It were better that this Sodom were razed and sown with salt."

FATHER HYACINTHE held a service in his church, in Paris, in commemoration of the Revocation of the Edict of Nantes. The church was draped in black, and was filled by a crowd of people, amongst whom were many Protestants and some pastors. He spoke in withering tones of the Revocation, and of all those who brought it about, the most guilty party being public opinion.—Evangéliste.

MORMONS IN EXTREMIS.—The over-married saints in Utah and surrounding regions have been so extensively and effectually "persecuted" and peeled, harried and sealed, of late, that now no less than fifty polygamous elders languish in prison, all the way from Detroit to Yuma, Arizona, Boise, Idaho, and Salt Lake; while, in one prison, hard by the latter city, an even thirty wear the striped suit, with a dozen more sure to follow as soon as jury can convict and judge can sentence, and not to mention the army of others not yet numerable, after whom three able-bodied and plucky grand juries are in red-hot chase.—New York Independent.

A TRAINING SCHOOL FOR CHRISTIAN WOMEN is being established in Chicago under the auspices of the Methodist Church. In this school it is designed to give all ladies who desire it the best possible course of lessons and lectures on the Bible. All will be trained in the practical work of carrying forward all suitable kinds of Christian enterprise in the fields which Chicago furnishes in such sad abundance. It is intended to make the expenses of the school so light that no enterprising girl "from Maine to California" shall be debarred for lack of means, and it is confidently believed that a great increase in missionary activity among ladies must be the outcome of the school.

THE WINTER'S EVANGELISTIC WORK of the Presbytery of New York began with a prayer-meeting of pastors and elders. This was followed by a general prayer-meeting of all the churches. These introductory meetings will be followed by special services during the next six months. For each of these services from four to five pastors have been appointed, and organised efforts will be made, by advertising and by personal visitation and invitation, as well as by a careful arrangement and conduct of the meetings, to insure a large attendance and an increasing interest in personal holiness and practical religion. Missions have also been begun in several of the Episcopal churches. There is no reason why every denomination of Christians should not participate in a great and glorious revival this winter.—New York Observer.

A Y.M.C.A. is just being started in Oporto, Portugal.

A MONUMENT, raised at the junction of Broadway and Sixth Avenue, New York, by the business men of that city, to commemorate the excellences of William E. Dodge, the Christian merchant and philanthropist, was unveiled October 22.

PERSIA.—Notwithstanding much opposition from Jews and Mahomedans, it appears that an English colporteur has met with much success in distributing the Bible in the Persian language. Crowds of men gather round the colporteur's door to hear and ask questions concerning Christianity. The Governor of a village of 800 families came to him with the question, "What shall I do to be saved?" An hour's conversation ended with the sale of a Bible. In the town of Barahamabud the Mahomedans were not a little pleased that Bibles were offered to them in their own tongue. Though they did not venture to buy them openly, yet thirty were sold, which was a good beginning.—Anzeiger.

TEMPERANCE NOTES.

Burton Brewery is said to clear £400,000 a year. There are eight partners.

Mr. R. T. Booth has announced his intention to settle in New South Wales.

Strathaven has voted on Local Option. 1289 for, 52 against, and 54 neutral.

Canton has a "Spirituous-Liquor-street," and Toronto a "Temperance-street."

Seventy-one of the seventy-five students of Mogee College, Belfast, are total abstainers.

A Coffee-stall has been started at Osnabruck on market days, and one is to be begun at Gotha.

In Norway legislation on the drink trade combines both local power of restriction and local control.

The Salvation Army has 687 congregations and 2500 officers who are understood to be total abstainers.

Dr. John Burn, of Edinburgh, has just died, aged eighty-four. He was a staunch Temperance reformer.

A new Temperance restaurant at Gateshead has appliances for supplying dinners to a thousand people a day.

The ex-Solicitor-General, Sir Farrar Herschel, thinks "the idea of compensating" publicans in case of Prohibition, is "monstrous."

Canon Wilberforce recently said that in the United Kingdom were 600,000 families who through drink alone "never knew the meaning of that word of sweetest cadence, Home."

The Watchword, November 2, had a vigorous article, by Rev. Forbes E. Winslow, urging electors to be uncompromising on the drink traffic.

The Paris correspondent of the Daily News hopes the Swiss movement against intemperance will be copied in Paris. He says drink shops are increasing with fearful rapidity.

In reply to the Royal Commission on the Depression in Trade, the Batley Chamber of Commerce suggest, as a means of improvement, "Further restrictions on the Drink Traffic."

Mr. G. Blaiklock, of London, has just concluded a Temperance Mission at the Congregational Church, Greenheys, Manchester, and Mr. Coad a similar one at Norwich. Both were successful.

The Good Templars of Kimberley and Dutvilspan, Cape Colony, have forwarded an address to Khama, Chief of the Bamangwato, thanking him for firmness in resisting the importation of intoxicating drinks.

The Rev. Charles Garrett is to preside at a great Wesleyan Temperance Demonstration on Tuesday, Dec. 8, in the Free Trade Hall, Manchester. Revs. H. W. Holland, Dr. Stephenson, J. Colwell, and Silas K. Hocking are to speak.

A Conference of the German Foreign Missionary Society at Bremen was opened Oct. 30. All agreed that the introduction of brandy into the German colonies was fraught with much danger, and a resolution was passed that the attention of the German Government and people should be called to this question.

Snakes and High License.—Breeding rattlesnakes to bite people is a nefarious business; to license men to carry on this business would be wrong; therefore we will not license them to do so unless they pay us 1000 dollars for the privilege. Wherein does this differ from the logic of the advocates of high license?—New York Evangelist.

Notes on Daily Readings.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 12.—GEN. XXVIII.

IN Isaac's directions to Jacob as to the choice of a wife, we find regard paid to one of the two principles laid down by Abraham in reference to Isaac's own case, namely, that she should not be of the daughters of the Canaanites; but the other, that Isaac should not himself go back to the land out of which Abraham had been called, is disregarded. This may be traced to Rebekah's anxiety that he should go to Haran "and tarry a few days, until thy brother's fury turn away" (xxvii. 44). Hence the mother who induced her son to deceive his father is herself the means of his being sent off on a journey from which he does not return for twenty years (or as some think, forty), and those years of much trial to him. We do not read of Rebekah again till the record of her burial (xlix. 31).

12.—"Behold a ladder set up on the earth, and the top of it reached to heaven."—The Lord Jesus (John i. 51) teaches that this ladder typified Him. "Set up on the earth" in his mediatorial work, He forms the sole channel of communication betwixt earth and heaven. By means of Him blessings descend, and believers ascend, and "the Lord stood above it" assures the acceptance of all "who come unto God by Him." Here Jacob received a renewal of the promise of the Christ whom that ladder typified, in the words, "In thy seed shall all the families of the earth be blessed."

20.—"And Jacob vowed a vow."—This is the first mention of a vow in Scripture, and the doubting, bargaining spirit in which Jacob makes it is but a poor return for the free bounty of the promise so lately uttered by the Lord. "It was, doubtless, the expression of the gratitude of his heart under the sense of the wondrous blessing, but, as it reads to us, it was not worthy of the occasion; it seems to say, if God will make good his word to me then I will avouch the Lord to be my God. . . . If so, how it fails of the full confidence that one would look for under the circumstances! It seems to savour of Jacob's character."—C. Hargrove.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 13.—GEN. XXIX.

"As we have just seen in chap. xxviii., Jacob utterly fails in the apprehension of God's real character, and meets all the rich grace of Bethel with an "if," and a miserable bargain about food and raiment. We now follow him into a scene of thorough bargain-making. "Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap." There is no possibility of escaping from this. Jacob had not yet found his true level in the presence of God; and therefore God uses circumstances to chasten and break him down. It is remarkable to see how he gets back into an atmosphere so entirely suited to his moral constitution. The bargain-making Jacob meets with the bargain-making Laban, and they are both seen, as it were, straining every nerve to outwit the other. Nor can we wonder at Laban, for he had never been at Bethel, . . . but to find Jacob, after all he had seen and heard at Bethel, struggling with a man of the world, and endeavouring by such means to accumulate property, is peculiarly humbling."—C. H. M.

25.—"Wherefore then hast thou beguiled me?"—"It has been observed that the fraud practised by Laban on Jacob was a fit penalty for the fraud practised by Jacob on Isaac and Esau."—Sp. Com. Nevertheless, here as there, Divine mysteries are strikingly foreshadowed. Rachel represents "Israel, first loved on earth, but not possessed; Leah, the fruitful mother of children" (the Gentile Church), and these six sons of Leah all reflect Gospel truth in their names: Reuben, "see a son;" Simeon, "hearing;" Levi, "joined;" Judah, "praise;" Issachar, "there is a reward;" Zebulun, "dwelling."

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 14.—GEN. XXX.

8.—"With great wrestlings."—Literally, "with wrestlings of God." The LXX. renders, "God has helped me," and so the Syriac. "Wrestling being a type of prayer, it is most probable that in this passage the allusion is to Rachel's earnest striving in prayer with God for the blessing of offspring (so Hengstenberg, Delitzsch, Keil). Above, ver. 1, Rachel had manifested impatience and neglect of prayer, seeking from Jacob what could only be given of God: Jacob's remonstrance with her, ver. 2, may have directed her to wiser and better thoughts."—Sp. Com. "Jacob cannot allow God to settle the question as to his wives and his wages, but seeks to settle all by his own cunning and management. In short, it is 'the Supplanter' throughout. Turn, for example, to xxx. 37—42, and say where can be found a more masterly piece of cunning. It is verily a perfect picture of Jacob. Now it is in tracing out Jacob's real character from stage to stage of his extraordinary history that one gets a wondrous view of Divine grace. None but God could have borne with such an one, as none but God could have taken such an one up. Grace begins at the very lowest point. It takes up man as he is, and deals with him in the full intelligence of what he is."—C. H. M.

"He may have felt himself wronged by Laban, and thought this a true way to right himself, possibly somewhat of Laban's own way (xxxi. 7); but it would hardly be Abraham's way; but natural character will remain and manifest itself even in those in whom grace has wrought, and God will bear with his people, notwithstanding all their infirmity."—C. Hargrove.

SUNDAY, NOVÈMBER 15.—GEN. XXXI.

Jacob now perceiving Laban's incipient hostility towards him, and warned of God in a dream to return to his home, speaks to his wives about it. Commentators are much perplexed by the difficulty of reconciling Jacob's action towards Laban, as narrated in the last chapter, with his words in this chapter, especially in ver. 11, where he seems to claim the Lord's sanction to his artifice towards Laban. Hengstenberg's is, perhaps, the best solution of the difficulty: "His conduct cannot be justified, and therefore must not be regarded as the result of God's counsel, as many have assumed, misunderstanding xxxi. 11, which is not a command to Jacob, but only foretells what will happen, and what would have happened, even without the human means applied, and for which he alone is responsible." The "Speaker's Commentary" also gives a very similar explanation: "Jacob is here relating to his wives two dreams, that concerning the sheep and the goats having occurred at the beginning of his agreement with Laban, and that in which he was commanded to depart from Padan-Aram just before his actual departure. If so, we may infer that Jacob believed the promise that the sheep which were to be his should multiply rapidly, but yet, consistently with his mixed character, partly believing and partly impatient of the fulfilment, he adopted natural means for bringing about this event which he desired (so Kurtz and Keil)."

19.—"Rachel had stolen the images that were her father's."—Some of the Jewish writers think that Rachel stole the images to wean her father from his idolatry, but from xxxv. 2 it is much more likely that she was herself not free from superstition, especially as "Jacob knew not that Rachel had stolen them." Rashi (a celebrated Jewish writer) says, "On account of Jacob's curse, 'with whomsoever thou findest thy gods, let him not live,' Rachel died on the road." See xxxv. 19.

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 16.—GEN. XXII.

1.—"The angels of God met him."—"The fear of Laban having passed away, there succeeded to it the fear of Esau; therefore the merciful Lord, willing that he should be encouraged and his fear dispelled, ordained that he should see this vision of angels."—Chrysostom.

20.—"I will appease him with the present that goeth before me."—The Hebrew literally is, "I will cover his face with the offering that goeth before me." "The covering of the face of the offended person, so that he could no longer see the offence, became the usual legal word for making an atonement" (Lev. ix. 7, &c.).—Dean Payne Smith.

24.—"There wrestled a man with him."—"He is called 'the angel' (Hos. xii. 4), and Jacob says of him (ver. 30), 'I have seen God face to face.' Most of the fathers thought this to have been one of the manifestations of the Word, of the Eternal Son, anticipatory of His Incarnation."—Sp. Com. "Jacob's great fear of Esau's wrath and vengeance, which he could not suppress notwithstanding the Divine revelations at Bethel and Mahanaim, had its foundation in an evil conscience, in the consciousness of the sin connected with his wilful and treacherous appropriation of the blessing of the firstborn. To save him from the hand of his brother, it was necessary that God should first meet him as an enemy and show him that his real opponent was God Himself, and that he must first of all overcome Him before he could hope to overcome his brother. And Jacob overcame God, not with the power of the flesh however (God convinced him of that by touching his hip, so that it was put out of joint), but by the power of faith and prayer, reaching by firm hold of God, even to the point of being blessed, by which he proved himself to be a true wrestler of God, who fought with God and with men, i.e., who by his wrestling with God overcame men as well."—Keil.

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 17.—GEN. XXXIII.

1.—"Behold, Esau came, and with him four hundred men."—"The whole meaning of Jacob's wrestling is changed, if we assume that Esau had previously had peaceable intentions. If the danger had been merely imaginary, how could God say that Jacob had striven with God and with men, and had prevailed? But Esau's hatred is obliged to yield to a power stronger than his own, which stifles the flame of revenge, and fans to a flame the few sparks of brotherly love existing along with it. It is plainly set forth that this decisive struggle forms a turning-point in Jacob's life. We see nothing more of his cunning and self-reliance. His trust is now firmly placed in God. But his old nature is perpetuated in his sons."—Hengstenberg.

17.—"And Jacob journeyed to Succoth, and built him an house, and made booths for his cattle."—"After all this manifestation of God's goodness, we find Jacob settling down at Succoth, and, contrary to the spirit and principles of a pilgrim life, building a house, as if it were his home. . . . Jacob then moves on to Shechem and purchases ground, still falling short of the Divine mark. We see in chap. xxxiv. the bitter fruits of his sojourn at Shechem."—C. H. M.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 18.—GEN. XXXIV.

"Jacob now has settled down in Shechem on his own purchased possessions, and there he has abode several years, as the course of our history leads us to conclude, for we find that his children, who were too tender for any hurried journeying (xxxiii. 13), are now grown to man's estate, and Dinah, who was Leah's youngest child, and probably but little older than Joseph, has now arrived at womanhood. She "went out to see the daughters of the land." Jacob may have in a measure exposed her to this by too hastily settling down among the uncircumcised. If he will have his portion among them, what can he expect but that his children will learn their ways?"—C. Hargrove.

7.—"And the sons of Jacob . . . were very wroth, because he had wrought folly in Israel." "This is their first application of the new name, and it is in unhappy association, into what defilement is not his holy name brought down! Folly in the Scriptural sense is impious and shameful conduct, and not, as with us, something indicating intellectual weakness. The conduct of Shechem was evil, very evil, but in all the evil of the sad story that of the sons of Jacob is the worst. They 'answered Shechem and Hamor his father deceitfully,' and then excuse themselves by the sin of Shechem, as if his sin was to give them a liberty to sin also, and was to be a justification of their sin. How vile is their hypocrisy, covering over their purpose of evil by a profession of zeal for their ordinance, and taking occasion of Shechem's attachment to their sister to urge subjection to a religious rite by which they might more easily accomplish their wicked end."—Ibid.

v. 25.—"Simeon and Levi, Dinah's brethren, took each man his sword."—On them was pronounced by their dying father a solemn curse for their cruelty: "Cursed be their anger, for it was fierce; and their wrath, for it was cruel: I will divide them in Jacob and scatter them in Israel." But in the case of Levi, owing to their zeal for the Lord at Sinai (Exod. xxxii. 26), shown also by their use of the sword, this curse was turned into a blessing. For though they were "scattered" in Israel, thereby was fulfilled the blessing of Moses: "They shall teach Jacob thy judgments, and Israel thy law" (Deut. xxxiii. 10); and though they had no inheritance given them, "the Lord God of Israel was their inheritance" (Josh. xiii. 33).

NATIONAL BIBLE SOCIETY OF SCOTLAND.—The Directors and some other friends of the Society have presented Mr. W. J. Slowan, one of the secretaries, with a cheque for £600, on the completion of his semi-jubilee of office, in token of their high appreciation of the ability, earnestness, and Christian courtesy with which he has discharged its duties, and of the value of the services which he has rendered in furtherance of the circulation of the Scriptures in many lands.

EUROPEAN PRISONS.—We have received from Mr. Charles Cook an account of the visits recently paid by him to various prisons in Austria and Italy for the purpose of distributing copies of the Scriptures. We hope, in an early issue, to give details. Mr. Cook is prepared, from the experiences he has gained during these and other visits to foreign prisons, to give a lecture on the subject, illustrated with Oriental costumes, or with dissolving views. He will be glad to hear from any friends in the country who may wish to arrange for a lecture. His address is Hyde-park Hall, London, W.

(For Forthcoming Meetings, Donation List, &c., see p. vii.)

NOW READY. WEEKLY, ONE HALFPENNY. MONTHLY PARTS, THREEPENCE.

"Our Darlings."

THE CHILDREN'S TREASURY, EDITED BY DR. BARNARDO.

This admirable Children's Magazine is full of beautiful Pictures as well as of Gospel Stories and Christian instruction suited to the capacities of the young, and is earnestly commended to the heads of Christian Families and Schools.

The first Number of the New Volume (October 31) is now ready, price ½d.; as also is the November Part, with which a Coloured Chromo is given away.

This contains many attractions: among others may be mentioned the opening chapters of a Narrative by the Editor, recounting the struggles and sorrows of poor Street Children; and several instructive papers upon the history of public benefactors. There are also subjects for Prize Essays, for Biblical, Historical, and Geographical Puzzles, to the successful competitors in which during the Twelve Months beginning with these first Numbers.

700 PRIZES WILL BE GIVEN AWAY

Hundreds of letters have been received from Christian parents and teachers, expressing surprised thankfulness that so cheap a Magazine should have been so beautiful in appearance and so useful in results.

"OUR DARLINGS" may be ordered of all Booksellers and Newsagents; or of the Publishers, Messrs. J. F. Shaw & Co., 48, Paternoster-row, E.C.

THE NEWLY BOUND VOLUME FOR CHRISTMAS, 1885,

IS NOW READY.

In handsome illustrated Paper Boards, containing 600 Illustrations, and Six Coloured Chromos, 3s.; or, in Cloth with gilt edges, a very elegant gift, 5s., to be had of the same Publishers.

CHRISTIAN COMMUNITY.

Instituted 1772.
President: G. WILLIAMS, ESQ.
Vice-Presidents: A. PEASE, ESQ., M.P., S. D. WADDY, ESQ., M.P., Q.C., and J. H. GLADSTONE, ESQ., Ph.D., F.R.S., &c.
Treasurer: F. A. BEVAN, ESQ.
Honorary Secretary: THE REV. W. TYLER.

This, the oldest of all the Evangelistic Societies in London, is largely engaged in taking the Gospel to two classes, viz., those who cannot, and those who will not, attend ordinary places of worship. The former are met with in workhouses, infirmaries, and suchlike places; the latter in the open air, common lodging-houses, &c., besides in rooms and mission halls, where every sort of religious, social, and benevolent efforts are in daily operation, by 150 volunteer workers and a large contingent of lady helpers, who visit 12 workhouses and infirmaries, with 12,000 or more inmates.

During the winter, an earnest and most successful effort has been made to reach the "Outcast" from whom the "Bitter Cry" has come. Thousands of them have been sheltered all night and fed in the Mission Hall, Thrawl-street, Spitalfields. Many have been secured work, and assisted in other ways. To sustain this and the general work, Funds are urgently needed.

Subscriptions and Donations will be most gratefully received by the Treasurer, F. A. Bevan, Esq., at the Bank; by the Secretary, Mr. James Atkinson, 10, Enfield-road South, Kingsland, N.; by the Bankers, Messrs. Barclay, Bevan & Co., 54, Lombard-street, E.C.; or the Editors of The Christian.

JAMES ATKINSON, Secretary.

FAMINE IN SOUTH AFRICA.—Dear Sir,—I have gratefully to acknowledge the following subscriptions in aid of the above object. A respected merchant in King Williams Town, in a letter just received, writes as follows: "During the next six months famine will play terrible havoc. I fear thousands will succumb before the next crops are reaped." Rev. Edward and Mrs. Maxwell, High Roding, Essex, £10; Robert Macfie, Esq., of Airds, £5; Do., for Macfie Station, £5; William Mackinnon, Esq., of Balinskil, £5; G. F. Barbour, Esq., of Bouskeid for Lovedale, £3; Misses Carnegy, Trinity, £3; Misses Abercombie and Miss Bruce, Edinburgh, £3; Miss Keating, Tottenham, £2 10s; Mrs. Wright, Edinburgh, for Lovedale, £2; Colonel A. G. Young, Edinburgh, £1; Misses Milne, Edinburgh, £1; J. B. Gillies, Esq., Edinburgh, £1; Friends at 17, Grange-road, Edinburgh, £1; Family Circle, 18, East Preston-street, Edinburgh, £1; Professor Grainger Stewart, Edinburgh, £1; Mrs. Beith, Edinburgh, £1; Hugh Alexander, Esq., Irvine, £1; William Wood, Esq., C.A., Edinburgh, £1; Mrs Laurence Robertson, Edinburgh, £1; Miss Sandilands, Edinburgh, £1; Mrs. David P. Wood, London, £1; Hugh K. Wood, Esq., London, £1; M. Cruickshank, Esq., London, £1; Mrs. Hog, Dunedin, £1; Mrs. Cleghorn, Edinburgh, £1; A. Faucett, Esq., London, 18s.; Dundas Erskine, Esq., Edinburgh, 10s.; A Friend, Edinburgh, 10s.; A Friend in Sweden, 5s. 6d.

I shall be happy to receive further subscriptions in aid of the famishing Kafirs, and, I am yours faithfully,

ROBERT YOUNG.

Edinburgh.

ALL FOR JESUS.

Motto Cards, with Ribbon for hanging up.
Verses by F. R. Havergal.
1s. the dozen, or 7s. the 100, post free.

RUBY LEAFLETS.

A Novelty for Letters. In Three Tints. Choice Verses. Eight different kinds. In assorted Packets, containing Fifty. Sixpence, post free.

London: John G. Wheeler, 88, Mildmay Park, N.

Dinners to Poor Children in Clerkenwell.

(Address Letters and Parcels 17, Claremont Square, Pentonville.)

THE COW CROSS MISSION.

WILLIAM CATLIN, Gen. Supt.

FUNDS URGENTLY NEEDED. COLLECTING CARDS ON APPLICATION.

Paper covers 2s.; Cloth boards, 2s. 6d.; Cloth boards, gilt edges, 3s. 6d.

THE BRISTOL ORPHAN HOUSES.

THE RISE AND PROGRESS OF THE ORPHAN HOMES, ASHLEY DOWN, BRISTOL,
UNDER THE DIRECTION OF
MR. GEORGE MÜLLER.
WITH FIVE ILLUSTRATIONS OF THE HOMES.
BY W. ELFE TAYLER.

"A most full and complete narrative is given of the great work, which has been in itself and in its results the reward of Mr. Müller's faith, and the answer to his prayers."—The Record.

"Our heart has been invigorated by re-perusing the narrative. Well do the common people call it 'The Bristol Miracle'; but too many forget that it is only one of ten thousand wonders which are wrought by the Lord in response to the believing prayers of his people."—Sword and Trowel.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

WORKS BY
Rev. E. P. Hammond, M.A.

(COPYRIGHT.)

JESUS THE LAMB OF GOD:

Showing how He Died on the Cross for Children; and how Little Ones have Learned to Love and Trust Him. By Rev. E. Payson Hammond, M.A. With Seven Full-page Illustrations.

Tinted covers, 1s.; Cloth limp, 1s. 6d.;
Cloth boards, 2s. 6d.

This little book will be eagerly read by almost any child into whose hands it may fall. It is full of stories, all clustering round some great truth, made simple to the very youngest mind. By way of illustration, the author occasionally refers to interesting cases of children who have been hopefully led to the Saviour in his meetings. Parents and Sunday-school teachers, who would see their little ones led to Christ, should get the book for them to read, and pray that the Holy Spirit may use it in teaching them the way of salvation.

GATHERED LAMBS:

Telling how Jesus Gathers the Lambs to his Fold. With Eight Illustrations.

Tinted covers, 6d.; Cloth limp, 1s.;
Cloth boards, 1s. 6d.

"In this book we find some excellent samples of Mr. Hammond's anecdotal addresses to the young. They are full of picture and parable, some of the most effective of the illustrations having been picked up in the Highlands of Scotland. The book contains striking letters received by the author from children converted under his ministry."—Christian Leader.

THE REAPER AND THE HARVEST.

Scenes and Incidents, in connection with the Works of the Holy Spirit, in the Life and Labours of Rev. E. Payson Hammond, M.A. Edited by Rev. P. C. Headley. 550 pages. With Life-like Portrait of Mr. Hammond. Cloth, 4s. 6d.

Ministers, Evangelists, and Christian Workers, who are looking for illustrations and facts, will discover here a treasury of information. They will at the same time feel their own hearts stimulated to labour more earnestly for the salvation of souls.

GEMS OF PRAISE.

THE HYMN-BOOK USED AT MR. HAMMOND'S MEETINGS.

A Choice Collection of HYMNS and TUNES, suitable for Gospel Services, Prayer Meetings, Christian Associations, Sabbath Schools, and Family Worship. Edited and Compiled by Rev. E. Payson Hammond, M.A.

MUSIC AND WORDS.

OLD NOTATION.	s.	d.	TONIC SOLFA.	s.	d.
Tinted Covers	1	0	Tinted Covers	1	0
Limp Cloth...	1	6
TonedPaper,Bevlld.Bds.	2	6	Limp Cloth	1	6

WORDS ONLY. Sewn, 1d.; Printed Cloth, 2d.

"A charming collection of two hundred and twenty-eight hymns and tunes, specially adapted for Gospel Services, Sabbath Schools, &c. While it includes some of the finest compositions of the great masters of sacred song, there are many hymns and tunes in it that will be new to the Christian people of this country; and it may probably surprise most readers to find how prolific and successful Mr. Hammond himself has been in this department of literature. Not a few of his pieces have been suggested by the touching testimonies of children led under his ministry to give their hearts to Jesus; and in these strains there is a richly experimental power."—Christian Leader.

◆

JESUS' LAMBS:

A Series of Stories for Children. Teaching the Little Ones How to Find Jesus. With Five Full-page Illustrations, and numerous small Engravings.

Tinted covers, 6d.; Cloth boards, 1s.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

JUST READY. PRICE SIXPENCE.

"The Christian" ALMANAC
FOR 1886.
WITH A
STRIKING PORTRAIT
OF THE LATE
EARL OF SHAFTESBURY.

Beautifully printed in Eleven Colours, similar to an Oil Painting.

Containing an appropriate and carefully selected Scripture Text for every day in the year. Each of the twelve months is surmounted by a Choice Pictorial Illustration in Colour.

(Size of Sheet, 17 × 13½ in.)

It is believed that the thousands of men and women who loved and honoured the late Earl of Shaftesbury will gladly avail themselves of this striking and beautiful memento. The moderate size of the sheet renders it suitable for hanging up in any apartment.

A Copy will be forwarded, post free, on receipt of the published price, to any address, securely packed (without folding) in a cylinder.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

BOOK OF 441 HYMNS FOR ONE PENNY.

SACRED * SONGS * AND * SOLOS.

Sung by IRA D. SANKEY.

SUITABLE FOR

CONGREGATIONS, MISSION SERVICES, | SABBATH SCHOOLS, EVANGELISTIC MEETINGS, | OPEN-AIR SERVICES, ANNIVERSARY SERVICES, &c.

A Specimen Copy of either Edition will be forwarded post free on receipt of published price.

MUSIC AND WORDS.

			s.	d.
1 F.	OLD NOTATION	...Tinted Covers	2	6
2 F.	Ditto	...Limp Cloth	3	6
3 F.	Ditto	...Cloth Boards	4	6
4 F.	Ditto	... Do. Gilt Edges......	5	0
5 F.	Ditto	...Morocco do.	8	6
6 F.	Ditto	... Do. flexible, kid-lined, Gilt Edges..................	12	6
7 F.	Ditto	...Seal yapped, kid-lined, silk sewn	21	0
1 G.	TONIC SOL-FA	...Tinted Covers	2	6
2 G.	Ditto	...Limp Cloth	3	6
3 G.	Ditto	...Cloth Boards	4	6
4 G.	Ditto	... Do. Gilt Edges......	5	0
5 G.	Ditto	...Morocco do.	8	6

CHEAPER EDITIONS.

			s.	d.
1 H.	OLD NOTATION	...Tinted Covers	1	6
2 H.	Ditto	...Limp Cloth	2	0
3 H.	Ditto	...Cloth Boards	2	6
4 H.	Ditto	...Morocco, Gilt Edges.........	5	6
5 H.	Ditto	... Do. flexible, kid-lined, Gilt Edges..................	8	6
1 R.	TONIC SOL-FA	...Tinted Covers	1	6
2 R.	Ditto	...Limp Cloth	2	0
3 R.	Ditto	...Cloth Boards	2	6

WORDS ONLY.

			s.	d.
1 A.	RUBY ED.	............Sewed	0	1½
1½ A.	Ditto	............Paste-down Covers...	0	1
2 A.	Ditto	............Printed Cloth	0	2
1 B.	NONPAREIL ED.	.......Tinted Covers	0	3
2 B.	Ditto	............Printed Cloth	0	4
1 C.	MEDIUM TYPE	.........Limp Cloth	0	6
2 C.	Ditto	............Cloth Boards............	1	0
3 C.	Ditto	............Morocco, Gilt Edges	2	6
4 C.	Ditto	............Do. flexible, kid-lined	4	6
1 D.	FOOLSCAP 8vo ED.	....Tinted Covers	1	0
2 D.	Ditto	............Cloth Limp	1	6
3 D.	Ditto	............Cloth Boards............	2	0
4 D.	Ditto	............Morocco, Gilt Edges	4	6
7 D.	Special Cheap Ed.	...(Reduced size) Blocked Cloth	0	9
1 E.	EX. LARGE TYPE	...Tinted Covers	1	6
2 E.	Ditto	............Limp Cloth	2	0
3 E.	Ditto	............Cloth Boards............	2	6
4 E.	Ditto	............Morocco, Gilt Edges	5	6
5 E.	Ditto	............Morocco, flexible, kid-lined	8	6
7 E.	Special Cheap Ed.	...(Reduced size) Tinted Covers	1	0
8 E.	Ditto	.... Do. Blocked Cloth	1	6
9 E.	Ditto	.... Do. Morocco, Gilt Edges	4	6
10 E.	Ditto	.... Do. Morocco, flexible, kid-lined	6	6

QUARTO EDITION (For Piano, Harmonium, or Organ).

	s.	d.
Handsomely Bound in Cloth Extra, Bevelled Boards, Gilt Edges	16	6
Elegantly Bound in Morocco, Gilt Edges	30	0

MAY ALSO BE HAD IN TWO VOLUMES.

		s.	d.
Vol. I., containing Nos. 1—271.........	Cloth Extra, Gilt Edges	10	6
	Morocco, Gilt Edges..................	17	6
Vol. II., containing Nos. 272—441 ...	Cloth Extra, Gilt Edges	7	6
	Morocco, Gilt Edges..................	14	6

A detailed Price List of "SACRED SONGS AND SOLOS," giving Specimens of the Types of all the various Editions, may be had on application.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings; and may be ordered of any Bookseller or Musicseller.

Tinted covers, 1s. Cloth limp, 1s. 6d. Cloth boards, gilt edges, 2s. 6d.

NEW WORK BY REV. ANDREW A. BONAR, D.D.

JAMES SCOTT.
A Labourer for God.
By Rev. ANDREW A. BONAR, D.D.

Author of "Commentary on Leviticus," "Memoirs of Rev. R. M. McCheyne," etc.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings; and may be ordered of any Bookseller

NEURALGIA AND ITS TREATMENT.

NEURALGIA is one of the commonest of common ailments, and is such an everyday disorder that, as in the ase of a common cold, the poor sufferer meets but ttle sympathy. Of course we refer chiefly to facial Neuralgia; but the complaint may affect any part of the ystem, receiving various names, as in the sciatic erve, when it is known as Sciatica, and may arise rom other causes than cold. Fatigue, over-anxiety, nd over-work are fertile sources of Neuralgia; also mpaired digestion, with all its train of evils, oftimes gives rise to internal Neuralgia of the most distressing character.

Those who have not suffered from this malady cannot orm any idea of its excruciating effects, which are ften intensified by the seeming inability of anything to elieve, let alone remove it. There are multitudes trying irst one remedy, then another, in the endeavour to btain rest, but in numberless instances failing, and becoming prematurely old through intensity of suffering.

Perhaps to some such sufferers it would seem like mockery to say there is real and tangible ground for hope; and the method by which relief is to be obtained may be as much misjudged as the persons who speak of t. Nevertheless, it is a well-attested fact that a large number of sufferers have found in Magnetic Treatment a degree of relief which under medicinal treatment had been denied to them. The reason is plain, when we consider that nine-tenths of Neuralgic affections are traceable to some constitutional derangement or weakness resulting from the over-strain referred to, and treatment, to be effective, must be directed to the removal of the constitutional cause before the Neuralgia consequent upon it can be overcome. Sufferers recognise this when they take Quinine with the object of "strengthening the nerves;" but this is only temporary and partial relief, even when most successful; hence it fails to effectually eradicate the complaint. What is necessary to accomplish this is something possessing power to invigorate and regulate every organ and its functions, improve the circulation, and perfect both muscular and nervous action. The use of narcotics or tonics can scarcely be expected to produce this. One of the commonest, yet, in our experience, one of the most disastrous practices for the relief of Neuralgia is the subcutaneous application of morphia. Although it may for a time allay the pain, simply through destroying nervous sensibility, we have noticed that the ailment offers greater resistance to subsequent remedial measures at the spot at which the injection was made.

Space forbids a full consideration of the subject, but any sufferer from this distressing ailment communicating with us will be gladly advised as to the best course to be pursued, free of cost. Encouragement may be derived from a perusal of the following statements, which may be readily verified:—

Miss WORMLEIGHTON, 58, Kirkgate, Bridlington.

November 4. 1882

"I am happy to say that I have not had the slightest indication of the Neuralgia since I began to wear your Appliances, and I think it surprising that a case of such severity as mine should have disappeared so rapidly, and my general health so much improved. I shall still continue to recommend your Treatment whenever opportunity offers, as the only means of showing my gratitude for the relief I have obtained."

February 28, 1885.

"I am happy to say I still enjoy freedom from Neuralgia."

Miss PADMAN, Boston Spa, Tadcaster.

"If any lady suffering from Neuralgia wishes to know how effectually your Treatment relieves this most distressing ailment, I shall be very glad indeed to give them the result of my experience, which has been most favourable: and, strange to say, I have been quite free from Chilblains."

February 26, 1885.

"I cannot add to my former testimony, which still holds good, and I wish you every success."

Miss C. A. HARRIS, Godstone-road, Caterham Valley, Surrey.

November 26, 1884.

"Having derived great benefit from your Treatment, which was commenced a few months ago, I gladly write to tell you that the Neuralgic pain in my side, which at one time almost prevented my walking, has so much abated that I am now able to take quite long walks, and feel altogether brighter.

"The means devised by you to relieve facial Neuralgia has afforded instantaneous relief whenever used, and now, I am thankful to be able to tell you, it is seldom required. I am indeed thankful that I heard of your Treatment."

Although we do not assure any applicant that cure is certain, we are permitted to refer such inquirers to a goodly number of those who know from experience what Magnetic Treatment has done for them. A list, containing the names of 1000 such persons willing to answer inquirers, can be had free, together with all information on the treatment, from B. Copson Garratt, 16, Finsbury-square, London, E.C.

An Aneroid Barometer for 2s.

THE NEW SWISS ANEROID

Cannot get out of order. Warranted for years. Foretells change of weather accurately. Sent free in box by parcels post for 24 stamps, 2 for 3s. 6d.

The Swiss Clock and Novelty Company,

BEING about to make extensive alterations in their manufacturing premises, have determined to effect a clearance of a portion of their large stock, and intend to offer the readers of this Journal the following parcel of goods at an immense reduction. They are goods that have been advertised by them for the last five years, and which have given satisfaction to thousands of purchasers, at prices, in most cases, six times the prices now charged.

NICKEL SILVER SWISS MICROSCOPE.—In long nickel silver case, magnifying 2000 times. See the living monsters in the water you drink. As powerful as a microscope costing £2.

REAL CORAL NECKLET.—Consisting of upwards of 200 pieces, beautifully graduated, of real coral, finished off with real rolled gold end pieces and snap. This is honestly worth 5s.

REAL SHELL COLLARETTE.—A beautiful Collarette, containing about 200 of the most exquisite miniature real pearl shells. These came from Fisheries Exhibition, and we cannot replace them when gone. Well worth 10s.

A BEAUTIFUL BRACELET TO MATCH, made of sixty of the same shells, and would certainly be cheap at 5s.

A FAIRY PRISMATIC BALLOON.—It consists of a neat little instrument made of Swiss Amalgam Metal, and with only the aid of a few drops of clear water produces thousands of the most beautifully shaped prismatic balloon bubbles, 36-in. in circumference. No soap or soap-suds required. Nothing injurious. Will act and last for years. Endless amusement for young and old. Sold by us for years at 1s. each.

SWISS CARVINGS.—A series of splendid work by Swiss Peasants, representing Swiss Scenery, Groups of Peasants, &c., carved in vegetable ivory, and framed and glazed to hang up; quite unique. Sold by us at 1s. each.

A LILLIPUTIAN POCKET KNIFE, with ivory or tortoiseshell handle, steel blade, when shut 1-in. long, with ring to attach to watch guard.

100 BEAUTIFULLY EMBOSSED SCRAPS, Assorted subjects for the Scrap Book.

50 ASSORTED CARDS, consisting of Birthday, New Year, Scripture, Easter, and Valentine Cards, many of them worth 1s. each.

CASE OF WRITING MATERIALS, in polished olive wood and mounted in nickel silver, consisting of a steel knife, pencil, penholder, square inch rule, round and flat rulers, indiarubber, &c., and an enamel and gilt combination of pen, pencil, ruler, and indiarubber in one, for the pocket.

A BEAUTIFULLY EMBOSSED AND SILK FRINGED VALENTINE or BIRTHDAY CARD.

The whole of the above, worth £2, will be sent to any address free on receipt of postal order for 5s.; if stamps are sent, three extra must be enclosed. Two lots sent free for 9s.; or, if preferred, any of the above articles will be sent free singly for 1s. each. All orders will be sent off in rotation as received. Illustrated catalogue of goods sent free for one stamp.

As an extra inducement to the readers of this paper, we will, for the next fourteen days, present to every purchaser of the above parcel of goods, free, one of the new ANEROID BAROMETERS advertised above. The whole of the goods enumerated above, including the Aneroid Barometer, sent free on receipt of 5s. This is an unprecedented offer, and we can only guarantee it for a short time. This advertisement will not be repeated.

Note the Address—

H. BAYLY,

Sole Agent for

SWISS CLOCK AND NOVELTY CO.,

83, High Street, Kingsland, London

(One minute from Dalston Junction, and next door to London and County Bank).

ESTABLISHED SAME ADDRESS FIFTEEN YEARS.

"Manna Cake"

Children take it readily; they do not suspect its properties; they like its sweet, strong flavour. Truly termed by an Agent, "The Children's Friend." Manna Cake is the mildest and yet the most certain in action of all aperients; it does not gripe, and leaves no after constipation. A singularly mild, pleasant, and efficacious substitute for Castor Oil.

From W. H. Hayward, Chemist, Trowbridge:—"A Physician in the West of England says he gave Calomel and Jalap in repeated doses without effect, but a Manna Cake acted almost immediately."

Ask for Manna Cake, price 1s. 3d. per packet of one doz., of any chemist or medicine vendor. Wholesale of Barclay's; Edwards; Hovenden's; Newbery's; May Roberts; Sanger & Sons; Sutton & Co.; &c., &c.

ON

CONSUMPTION, CHRONIC BRONCHITIS, AND ALL OTHER CHEST DISEASES.

READ

MR. CONGREVE'S NEW WORK,

SIXPENCE, POST FREE,

Or Large Edition (cloth) for 1s. 3d.

FIFTEENTH SERIES OF WEEKLY CASES.

NOTICE TO THE READERS OF "The Christian," WHO MAY BE personally or relatively INTERESTED IN THIS MATTER.

Mr. Congreve will give ONE RECENT CASE, NOT PUBLISHED BEFORE, in this Journal EVERY WEEK.

CASE FOR THIS WEEK.

CASES reported by Mr. W. J. LOCKIE, Secretary of the PARIS CITY MISSION.

71, Rue des Batignolles, Paris,
Aug. 24, 1885.

My dear Sir,—I am happy to testify to the efficacy of your medicine; first of all, years ago, in the case of my own wife; secondly, in the cases of Mr. and Mrs. Fortnum and Mrs. Simmons, of Paris. The latter was in a deep decline, but has been raised as it were from the dead through the divine blessing on your medicine.

As Secretary of the Paris City Mission* I meet with many distressing cases of chest disease among the poor. I am, therefore, deeply grateful to you for your kindness in supplying deserving cases at reduced price.

Praying that the blessing of "those who were ready to perish" may rest on you, I am, yours, &c.,

W. J. L.

* N.B.—The Society referred to is called the Comité Auxiliare d'Evangelisation de Paris.

Mrs. BARKER, of WORCESTER,

Writing me on behalf of a poor girl, says, "I once received so much benefit from your medicine myself, when at Derby. I was your patient (as you will see in reference) for a whole year, after which I was restored to perfect health."—7, Catherine-place, London-road, Worcester.

NOTE.—Days of Consultation.—TUESDAY, THURSDAY, and SATURDAY MORNINGS ONLY, at Coombe Lodge, Peckham. Patients from any long distance should choose either of the two former days. Everyone is expected to have seen the book first.

INTERNATIONAL INVENTIONS EXHIBITION, 1885.

EASY PROFITS.

APPLY to RIDDLE & COUCHMAN for Special Terms for their Popular Exhibition Series of SHILLING PORTRAITS OF POLITICAL AND OTHER CELEBRITIES,

Lithographed in the style of Steel Engravings, Size, 18 by 24 ins., by which large Profits may be made.

22, Southwark Bridge Road, London, S.E.

New and Revised Edition. Post Free, Twelve Stamps.

FITS.

EPILEPSY OR FALLING SICKNESS.

With ESSAYS ON GIDDINESS, SENSATIONS, FAINTS, AND HEADACHES. A Practical Treatise explaining the Causes, Treatment and Cure of these Diseases; with Directions for Diet. By S. BERRY NIBLETT, Licentiate of the Royal College of Physicians. Published by Mr. Williams, 10, Oxford Terrace, Hyde Park, London.

EPILEPTIC FITS!

ALL PERSONS SUFFERING FROM EPILEPSY should SEND Name and Address to JAMES OSBORNE, MEDICAL PHARMACY, ASHBOURNE, who will forward, free of charge, full particulars (with Testimonials) of the most successful remedy ever discovered for this distressing malady. Reference permitted to the Rev. J. Baker, M.A., 254, Plymouth-grove, Manchester.

S. W. PARTRIDGE & Co.'s
Illustrated Monthly Magazines
FOR THE FAMILY CIRCLE.

New Volumes begin with the January Numbers.
The Yearly Volumes for 1885 are now ready.

"Still keep at the head of the list."—Sword and Trowel.

One Penny Monthly.
The Children's Friend.
Illustrated Magazine for Children, with page of Music and interesting Stories.
The Yearly Volume, coloured paper cover, 1s. 6d. cloth, 2s.; gilt edges, 2s. 6d.

One Penny Monthly.
The Infant's Magazine.
Full of Pictures, and large type, for mothers to teach their infants. Music page.
The Yearly Volume, coloured paper cover, 1s. 6d.; cloth, 2s.; gilt edges, 2s. 6d.

One Penny Monthly.
The Friendly Visitor.
Printed in large type to suit the aged and other classes.
The Yearly Volume, coloured paper cover, 1s. 6d.; cloth, 2s.; gilt edges, 2s. 6d.

One Halfpenny Monthly.
The Band of Hope Review.
For boys and girls. With large illustrations.
The Yearly Part, coloured cover, 1s.; cloth, gilt edges, 2s.

Sixpence Monthly.
The Welcome.
A Magazine for the family circle, with page of music, &c.
The Yearly Volume, cloth, 7s. 6d.; gilt edges, 10s. 6d.

Twopence Monthly.
The Illustrated Missionary News.
An Illustrated Monthly Paper of Missionary Intelligence.
The Yearly Volume, coloured paper cover, 2s. 6d.; cloth, 3s. 6d.

One Penny Monthly.
The British Workman.
An Illustrated Paper for promoting the health, wealth, and happiness of the working classes.
The Yearly Part, coloured paper cover, 1s. 6d.; cloth, gilt edges, 2s. 6d.

One Penny Monthly.
The Family Friend.
An Illustrated Paper for the family circle, with music page.
The Yearly Volume, coloured paper cover, 1s. 6d.; cloth, 2s.; gilt edges, 2s. 6d.

"All worthy the reputation of the firm."—Daily Telegraph.

S. W. PARTRIDGE & CO.'S
List of New Illustrated Books.

Shaftesbury: His Life and Work. By G. Holden Pike. Illustrated. Crown 8vo, colth extra, 1s.; roan, gilt edges, 3s.
"I must add my appreciation of the singular accuracy that is manifested in the details."—Extract from letter of the late Lord Shaftesbury to Author.

The Cross and the Dragon; or, Light in the Broad East. By Rev. B. C. Henry. With an Introduction by Joseph Cook. With 36 Illustrations. Large Crown 8vo, cloth extra, 6s.

Kenneth M'Alpine. A Tale of Mountain, Moorland, and Sea. By Gordon Stables, M.D., R.N., author of "Aileen Aroon," "The Cruise of the Snowbird," &c. Profusely Illustrated. Crown 8vo, cloth extra, 3s. 6d.

Her Saddest Blessing. A Tale. By Jennie Chappell, author of "Aubert," "One Tiny Link," &c. With six full-page Engravings by W. S. Stacy. Crown 8vo, cloth extra, 3s, 6d.

Teresa's Secret. By Laura M. Lane, author of "Gentleman Verschoyle," "My Sister's Keeper," "A Dresden Romance," &c. Illustrated. Crown 8vo, cloth extra, 2s. 6d.

Birds and their Nests. By Mary Howitt. With twenty-three full-page Illustrations and numerous smaller Woodcuts. Fcap. 4to, cloth boards, 2s.

By a Hair's Breadth, and other Stories. By Popular Authors. With twelve full-page Engravings. Fcap. 8vo, cloth extra, 2s.

Hampered; or, The Hollister Family and their Trials. By A. K. Dunning. Illustrated. Crown 8vo, cloth extra, 1s. 6d.

Down in the Valley. A Tale. By Lady Hope, author of "Our Coffee Room," "A Red Brick Cottage," &c., &c. Crown 8vo, cloth extra, 1s. 6d.

Christ and the Bible. By the Rev. Professo Stanley Leathes, D.D., author of "The Ground of Christian Hope," "The Birthday of Christ," & Crown 8vo, cloth extra, 1s. 6d.

Issy: A Story of Trust and Triumph. B Laura M'L. Backler. With Illustrations. Clot 1s. 6d.

Bible Pictures and Stories. By Jame Weston. With forty-five beautiful full-page Illus trations by W. J. Webb, Sir John Gilbert, an others. Fcap. 4to, illustrated boards, 1s.; clot gilt, bevelled boards, 2s. (New Edition.)

The Young Folk's Picture Book. Wit Descriptive Stories by James Weston, author c "Dick's Holidays," &c. Forty-six full-page Illu trations by Robert Barnes, and others. Fcap 4to. illustrated boards, 1s.; cloth gilt, bevelle boards, 2s.

Pretty Pictures for Tiny Pets. Wit Stories and Verses; Eighty-five beautiful Illustra tions. Fcap. 4to, illustrated boards, 1s.; cloth gil bevelled boards, 2s.

Wait till it Blooms. By Jennie Chappell author of "Her Saddest Blessing," &c. Illustrated Crown 8vo, cloth extra, 1s.

Master Lionel, that Tiresome Child. B E. M. Waterworth, author of "Pictures, Pros and Rhymes," &c. With seven Illustrations b Robert Barnes. Crown 8vo, cloth extra, 1s.

Nan's Story; or, The Life and Work of a Cit Arab. By L. Sharp. Crown 8vo, cloth, 1s.

The Book Season, 1885-86.

Visitors to London and Residents in the Metropoli are invited to visit the Book Saloon, 9, Paternoster row, where they will find one of the largest and choice collections of Evangelical and Temperance Literatu conveniently arranged for inspection. Open nine t six; Saturdays, nine till two.

London: S. W. PARTRIDGE & CO., 9, Paternoster-row, E.C.

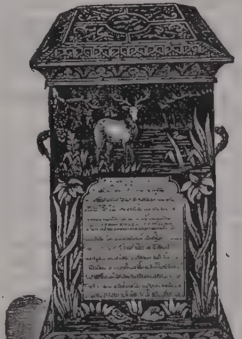
NON-FLUCTUATING SECURITIES.
Six per Cent. First Mortgage Real Estate Bonds
THE ANGLO-AMERICAN LOAN AND INVESTMENT CO.,
WICHITA, KANSAS, U.S.A.
Capital, 250,000 dols.

Sir Edward S. Hutchinson, Bart, President,
Joseph S. Smithson, Vice-President.

These Bonds are secured by Farm Lands in the best agricultural State in America. The interest, which is guaranteed and collected by the Company, is payable Half-Yearly at
The Bank of Ireland, Dublin, or
The Alliance Bank, Limited, London.

American Bankers—
Metropolitan National Bank, Chicago, and
The Wichita National Bank, Wichita.
Address—HENRY ANDERSON,
Managing Director
(Late Bank of Ireland),
WICHITA, KANSAS.

Intending Emigrants and parties desiring to invest in Real Estate should correspond with us.



RIPPINGILLE'S
PATENT PRIZE MEDAL
OIL WARMING STOVES

The cheapest and most effective means known for warming Greenhouse Offices, Shops, Bedrooms, Studies, Halls, Landings, &c., and for keeping out fro and damp from apartments of every description.
Odourless, Smokeless, Portable, Safe, and Cleanly.
They require no pipes or fittings, give off no injurious vapour to either vegetab or animal life, will burn from twelve to twenty-four hours without alteration, an for comfort, efficiency, economy, and utility are unsurpassed.
They have received the Highest Awards wherever exhibited, proving them
THE BEST OIL STOVES IN THE WORLD.
Prices from a few shillings. Sold by all Ironmongers and Lamp Dealer Ask for RIPPINGILLE'S PATENT, and take no other. Full Illustrated List, an name of nearest Agent, forwarded free on application to the Sole Manufacturers
The ALBION LAMP CO., Aston Brook, BIRMINGHAM

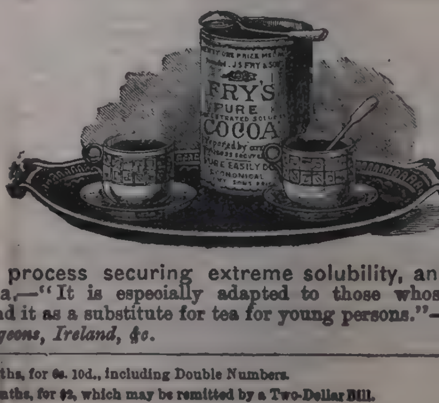
AMERICAN BREAKFAST CEREALS
ABC

A B C White Wheat
A B C White Oats
A B C Barley Food
A B C Yellow Maize
The Purest, most Nutritious and Health-giving Foods in the World. Hulled, crushed, steam-cooked and desiccated. Ready for table in ten minutes.
Sold by Grocers, &c.
A Delicious Breakfast at little cost.
Ask for the A B C Brand.
Particulars of B. Lampe, 44, Great Tower-st., E.C.

½d. each, or 4d. per dozen.
PRAYER UNION FOR IRELAND.
REMEMBRANCE CARDS.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings, E.C.

TWENTY-TWO PRIZE MEDALS AWARDED TO THE FIRM.
FRY'S
Pure Concentrated
COCOA



Prepared by a new and special scientific process securing extreme solubility, an developing the finest flavour of the Cocoa.—"It is especially adapted to those whos digestive organs are weak, and I strongly recommend it as a substitute for tea for young persons."—Sir Chas. A. Cameron, President Royal College of Surgeons, Ireland, &c.

"The Christian" will be sent by the Publishers post-free to any address in the United Kingdom, for 12 months, for 6s. 10d., including Double Numbers.
"The Christian" (weekly) and the HERALD OF MERCY (monthly) will be sent to the United States or Canada, for 12 months, for $2, which may be remitted by a Two-Dollar Bill.

The Christian.

No. 824.] THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 12, 1885. [ONE PENNY. POST FREE, 1½d.

☞ Our next will be a Double Number, price 2d., and will contain, in addition to eight pages of extra matter, The Christian Almanack for 1886, with an admirable Portrait of the late Earl of Shaftesbury, in eleven colours.

Published by Messrs. HATCHARD.

WORKS FOR THE PROMOTION OF PURITY OF LIFE.

BY ELLICE HOPKINS.

1. A HOMELY TALK on the NEW LAW for the PROTECTION of GIRLS. Addressed to Fathers and Mothers, for Reading at Mothers' Meetings, and for District Distribution. Price 1d ; fifty copies at half price.
2. GRAVE MORAL QUESTIONS. Addressed to the Men and Women of England. 140th Thou. 16mo., 2d. ; fifty copies at half-price.
3. WORK IN BRIGHTON ; or, Woman's Mission to Women. With Additions and Preface by Florence Nightingale. 23rd Thousand. Square 16mo., sewed, 6d.
4. PREVENTIVE WORK ; or, The Care of Our Girls. 12th Edition. Square 16mo., sewed, 6d.
5. VILLAGE MORALITY. A Letter addressed to Clergymen's Wives and Christian Workers. 7th Thousand. Crown 8vo., in wrapper, 6d.
6. On the EARLY TRAINING of GIRLS and BOYS. An Appeal to Working Women. Especially intended for Mothers' Meetings. 25th Thousand. Crown 8vo., in wrapper, 2d.

THE WHITE CROSS SERIES.

1. An ADDRESS to the MEMBERS of the WHITE CROSS ARMY. By the Right Rev. the Lord Bishop of Durham.
2. The WHITE CROSS MOVEMENT. By Ellice Hopkins.
3. PER ANGUSTA AD AUGUSTA. By J. E. H.
4. TRUE MANLINESS. By J. E. H.
5. MAN and WOMAN ; or, The Christian Ideal. By Ellice Hopkins.
6. WILD OATS, or ACORNS? By J. E. H.
7. The RIDE of DEATH. By Ellice Hopkins.
8. The BLACK ANCHOR. By Ellice Hopkins.
9. The BRITISH ZULU. By Ellice Hopkins.
10. GOD'S GREAT GIFT of SPEECH ABUSED. By Ellice Hopkins.
11. WHAT CAN WE DO? By Ellice Hopkins.
12. LITTLE KINDNESSES. By Ellice Hopkins.
13. The CROCODILE and the LITTLE BIRDS. By Ellice Hopkins.
14. ENGLAND'S LAW for WOMEN and CHILDREN. By Ellice Hopkins.
15. The MAN with the DRAWN SWORD. By Ellice Hopkins.
17. A STRANGE COMPANION. By the Rev. George Everard.
18. PURITY : The GUARD of MANHOOD. A Confirmation Paper. 2d. ; fifty at half-price.
19. DAMAGED PEARLS : an Appeal to Working Men. By Ellice Hopkins.
20. BLOOD-GUILTINESS. By Rev. J. W. Horsley.
21. The PURITY MOVEMENT : Cannot we use Existing Organisations?
22. The STANDARD of the WHITE CROSS : Do we Need it? 2d. each.
23. BURIED SEED. By Ellice Hopkins.
24. SAVED AT LAST! By Ellice Hopkins.

Price 1d. each ; fifty copies at half-price.

THE WHITE CROSS SERIES.—Continued.

SHORTER PAPERS, ½d., or 4d. a dozen.

Lost in Quicksand.
Is it Natural?
Moral Money-Clippers.
Who Holds the Rope?
Rolling Away the Stone.
Touching Pitch.
The Defaced Image Restored.
My Little Sister.
Ten Reasons why I Should Join.
Power to Let.
A White Cross Appeal. By Rev. Professor Charteris, D.D.

LEAFLETS.

* The Temple of the Eternal.
* The Devil's Chain.
* Saved by Fire.
† The Cracked Coin.
* Address to the Members By the Bishop of Durham.
* A Practical Suggestion. By Ellice Hopkins.

* 4d. per dozen, or 2s. per hundred.
† 2d. per dozen, or 1s. per hundred.

Nearly Half a Million of this Series have been Sold

Hatchards, 187, Piccadilly, London.

The Book Season,

1885-6.

VISITORS to London and Residents in the Metropolis are invited to visit the Book Saloon at 9, Paternoster-row, where they will find, conveniently arranged for inspection, one of the Largest and Choicest Collections of Evangelical and Temperance Literature.

The SALOON is open from 9 till 6 ; SATURDAYS 9 till 2.

S. W. PARTRIDGE & CO., 9, Paternoster-row, London.

NEW YEAR MOTTO CARDS.

With Original Verses by GEORGIANA M. TAYLOR, Author of "Oh, to be Nothing!"

"MY EXPECTATION IS FROM HIM."

A MOTTO FOR 1886.

Neatly printed, with ribbon loop for hanging up, 1s. 2d. per dozen, post free ; also on Leaflets. 1s. 1d. per 100. Or with other Motto Hymns by the same author, in assorted packets. same prices. Specially suited for distributions in Bible Classes, Christian Associations, &c.

Also by the same Author, lines entitled,

"CONSIDER!"

A WATCHWORD FOR THE NEW YEAR.

On large cards, printed in extra-sized type (for hanging up), price 1s. 8d. (post free) per packet of Six. Uniform with the above, at same price,

OUR HAPPY HOME.
THINK AND THANK.
"WE WALK BY FAITH, NOT BY SIGHT."

Also on tinted cards, gilt, lines entitled, "My Heart's Desire for Thee," and "Heartfelt Wishes ;" both suitable for Christmas. Price 1s. 1d. per packet.

To be had only from G. M. T., Young Women's Christian Association, 14. Regent-street, Leamington.

Tinted Covers, 6d ; cloth, 1s.

AMIE ; or, Heavenly Wisdom. By Eliza Richardson.

London : Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

Hodder & Stoughton's List.

Now Ready, Second Thousand, 3s. 6d.

THE PARABLES OF OUR LORD, AS RECORDED BY ST. LUKE. By Marcus Dods, D.D.

Rev. Marcus Rainsford's New Work.

Now Ready, price 6s.

NO CONDEMNATION—NO SEPARATION. Lectures on the Eighth Chapter of St. Paul's Epistle to the Romans. By Rev. Marcus Rainsford, B.A., Minister of Belgrave Chapel.

"An exceedingly rich and edifying series of lectures."—British and Foreign Evangelical Review.

Rescue Work in Outcast London.

With Portraits and Illustrations, 2s. 6d.

SAVING TO THE UTTERMOST. The Story of George Hatton's Mission Work in St. Giles'. By G. H. Pike.

New Book by Mr. J. B. Gough.

PLATFORM ECHOES : Leaves from my Note Book of Forty Years. By J. B. Gough, Author of "Sunlight and Shadow." Price 5s., with Twelve choice Engravings.

Work Among the Navvies.

OUR NAVVIES : A Dozen Years Ago and To-day. By Mrs. Garnett, of the Navvy Mission Society. Crown 8vo., price 3s. 6d.

"A fascinating narrative of home mission effort, worthy to rank with Miss Marsh's celebrated 'English Hearts and English Hands.'"
Church Missionary Intelligencer.

Miss Hack's Lives of Saintly Women.

CHRISTIAN WOMANHOOD. By Mary P. Hack. Uniform with "Consecrated Women," and "Self-Surrender." Elegantly bound, 5s.

CONSECRATED WOMEN. By Mary P. Hack. Fourth Thousand, 5s., handsomely bound.

"The memorials are all deeply interesting, bright, and vivid."—Freeman.

London : Hodder & Stoughton, 27, Paternoster-row.

1886.—ALMANACKS—1886.

THE GOLDEN GRAIN ALMANACK, And Christian's Text Book for 1886. Price One Penny. Limp cloth, 4d. ; Interleaved, Cloth boards, gilt edges, 6d. Large type edition, 2d. ; Cloth, 6d.

"The Golden Grain Almanack is a most valuable little publication, and the price being only a penny, it ought to have, and we trust will have, a sale of myriads."—Christian Standard.

THE GOLDEN GRAIN SHEET ALMANACK. Price One Penny. Containing Woodcut Illustrations, A Text of Scripture for each Day in the Year, Hymns, Gospel Extracts, &c.

THE GRACIOUS WORDS ALMANACK. Price One Penny. Cloth, 6d. 32 pp. Demy 16mo., with cover.

This Almanack will be found most useful for wide circulation amongst the unsaved. It is printed in good type, and contains, besides the Texts arranged under various heads, a number of striking pages of Gospel Truth, with two full-page Scripture Illustrations.

THE GOLDEN GRAIN DIARY. Roan tuck, One Shilling and Sixpence.

THE MILDMAY CALENDAR. Price One Shilling.

A very pretty Floral design, printed in 14 colours, and silver ; with silvered bevelled edge, and strong support at back, so that it can stand on table or shelf. Size 7½ by 6in.

BLOCK CALENDAR. Price One Shilling. A very Choice Design of Rushes and Water Lilies with tear-off leaves, and bold and suitable Text for each Day in the Year. The Cheapest and Best.

SHINING LIGHT CALENDAR. Price Two Shillings and Sixpence. By E. St. B. Holland. No. 131c. With Date Tablets.

Twelve Cards, each furnished with support at the back, in box, with postal information. (Mildmay.)

London : James E. Hawkins, 17, Paternoster-row, E.C. ; and 36, Baker-street, W.

GEORGE YARD RAGGED SCHOOLS, &c., Whitechapel, E.

George Holland thankfully acknowledges receiving from "A Friend," a parcel of cast-off Boys' Clothing, so acceptable just now.

The Infant Day Nursery opens at 7.30 a.m. Class for Rough Boys on Mondays and Thursdays at 8, and on Sundays at 6.30 p.m. Rations of Food to Hungry Children. Bible Class for Men at 8.30. on Friday evenings. Evangelistic Services every Sunday at 7 p.m. Lodging House Meetings every Sunday at 6.30 p.m. Room to Room Visitation every day. Special work amongst Girls and Young People, &c.

Friends are invited to visit the Institution any day but Saturday.

Post-office Orders should be made payable at 66, High-street, Whitechapel, E. Letters and parcels should be addressed to George Holland, The Ragged Schools, George-yard, High-street, Whitechapel, London, E.

A HUNDRED GUINEAS has been given by W. C. G., for a Church of England Lady to be trained at the Zenana and Medical Mission, School and Home, 58, St. George's-road, S.W. Treasurer, G. J. Green, Esq., L. and C. Bank, Victoria-street, S.W. Dr. Griffith, Hon. Sec.

DESTITUTE CHILDREN'S DINNER SOCIETY.—The dining-rooms of the Society in all the poor districts of the Metropolis are now open. Applications for grants to be made to the Secretary, H. Morton Carr, Esq., 89, St. George's-square, S.W. Subscriptions and donations to meet the monthly expenditure of £300 to £400 to be sent to the Treasurers, Lord Kinnaird, 1, Pall Mall East, S.W., and William Fuller, Esq., 111, Piccadilly, W.; or may be paid to their account with Messrs. Ransom, Bouverie, & Co., 1, Pall Mall East.

DESTITUTE CHILDREN'S DINNERS SOCIETY.—Notice is hereby given that in consequence of the death of the late Secretary, Colonel Alston, all communications are to be addressed to the new Secretary, H. Morton Carr, Esq., 89, St. George's-square, S.W.

THE WORKING CLASSES AND THE SUNDAY QUESTION.

Electors are earnestly asked to press Parliamentary Candidates for a reply as to whether they will support the following resolution, passed by the Trades Union Congress, representing 600,000 working men, on the 11th September, 1885, at Southport, and to vote for Candidates who will preserve the day of rest:—

"That in the opinion of the Congress it is undesirable to augment Sunday Labour by opening the National Museums and Galleries, but (the Congress) approves of their being opened on three or more days during the week, between the hours of 6 and 10 p.m., to give the working classes facilities for visiting them."

Charles Hill, Secretary.
Working Man's Lord's Day Rest Association,
13, Bedford-row, W.C.

WESTBOURNE GROVE CHAPEL.—Old Scholars' Meeting, Thursday, November 12, 1885.—Superintendents, Miss Gregson, Mr. E. M. Jones.

THE BENEVOLENT OR STRANGERS' FRIEND SOCIETY.

Treasurer, the Rt. Hon. the Lord Mayor, M.P.
J. H. Anderson, Esq., Chairman.
Clarence Smith, Esq., J.P., Hon. Secretary.

For one hundred years this Institution has visited and relieved the destitute sick, by an entirely unpaid agency, consisting of over 280 Christian men and women.

Funds are urgently needed.

The Committee will be thankful for the Society being remembered in the testamentary arrangements of the benevolent.—Office of the Society, 52, Finsbury-pavement, E.C.

MRS. BOTTING'S HOME for the reception of young children. Taken at any age, and kept until 16 years old. Maintained, clothed, educated, and trained for service. Contributions will be most thankfully received.

23, Ridley-road, Dalston, London.

CHRISTMAS PRESENTS. — On Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, December 1, 2, and 3, from 12 o'clock to 5, the Ladies of the Society for Promoting Female Welfare (President, Lady Gertrude Foljambe), propose holding, at 47, Weymouth-street, Portland-place, a Special Sale of Industrial Work, from the affiliated Institutions, of Winter Garments suitable for gifts to the Poor, and useful and ornamental articles for Christmas trees, &c., made by ladies in reduced circumstances, the cripples, and the blind.

ASHLEY MISSION, Peel Grove, Bethnal Green.—President, The Hon. Lionel Ashley. Funds are greatly needed to start the Soup Kitchen, Loan Blankets, Coals, Bread, &c. There is much distress through want of work, and the Mission has reached some of the very poorest in the East End, through house to house visitation, classes, and meetings of various kinds for men, women, and children. The smallest donation thankfully received by Miss Bontein, 47, Weymouth-street, W.

"BIRD'S NEST," near Dublin.—A Lady collecting £10 for the support of a child at the above Home, would gratefully receive and acknowledge the smallest contributions, either of money or needlework (sent before Christmas) for this charity.—Miss Roche, Bryngolen, Thornlaw-road, West Norwood, London, S.E.

FAITH-HEALING and Power for Service.—Meetings conducted by the Rev. John Allen or his workers. Blackheath Hill Greenwich (Auction Rooms, Trinity-street), Tuesdays, 7 p.m. Camberwell Gate (The Hall, Horsley-street), Tuesdays, 7 p.m. Hackney (Trinity Church, Triangle, Mare-street), Sundays, 3 p.m.; Mondays, 7 p.m.; on Fridays, Baptism of the Spirit, 7 p.m.; Ilford Workmen's Hall, Thursdays, 7 p.m.; Mildmay-park (Mission Hall), Wall-street, near Station, Thursdays, 7 p.m.

Postal address, Balclutha Lodge, Southgate, N.

LONDON FEMALE PENITENTIARY, 191, High-street, Stoke Newington, N. (Founded at Pentonville.)—This door of mercy, opened in 1807 as an Asylum for fallen women, is suffering from lack of Funds. Its endowment is spent, and the income is insufficient to meet necessary expenditure. Present number of inmates, 68. Donations will be thankfully received by Barclay, Bevan & Co., 54, Lombard-street; the office of The Christian; and at the above Institution.—W. E. Page, Secretary.

MISSION SERVICES.—Will some kind friend give an Harmonium to a poor parish (population 9,000), for Mission and Out-door Services? Cost about £10. Matt. ix. 36.—Rev. Henderson Burnside, Vicar, St. Saviour's, Forest-gate, E.

WEEK OF PRAYER FOR YOUNG MEN, Nov. 8 to 15.—Meetings will be held as follows: From 1 to 2 p.m. each day, Centenary Hall, 17, Bishopsgate Within: Wednesday, Mr. Henry Varley; Thursday, Rev. T. B. Robertson; Friday, Mr. J. Herbert Tritton. Open to all.—N. R. Hughman, Sec. Y.M.C.A., 61, Gracechurch-street.

LECTURES AT STAFFORD ROOMS.—Mr. B. W. Newton proposes (D.V.) to resume his lectures on Prophetic and Other Parts of Scripture, at the Stafford Rooms, Titchborne-street, Edgware-road, on successive Tuesday mornings, commencing on Tuesday, November 3, at a Quarter-past Eleven o'Clock.

CONVALESCENT AND SEASIDE HOME, Beach Rocks, Sandgate, Kent.—Admission by small weekly payments, with recommendation by subscriber or by arrangement.—For particulars, apply to Henry H. Board, London Samaritan Society, 57 and 59, Ludgate-hill, London, E.C.

ANXIETY OF SOUL.—Any to whom the way of salvation is not clear, are invited to communicate, either personally or by letter, to W. S., care of Evangelistic Secretary, Exeter Hall, Strand, W.C.

Educational.

MARLBOROUGH COLLEGE FOR YOUNG LADIES, Larkbeare, Exeter, Devon. For Resident Pupils only. Miss Bamber offers to parents seeking safe Christian training for their daughters the advantages of a University education, without its attendant dangers. Miss Darling, of Newnham College, Cambridge, L.L.A. of St. Andrew's University, is Resident Head English Teacher at Marlborough College. The highest testimonials from Clergymen, Ministers, and Gentlemen whose daughters have been entrusted to Miss Bamber's care. Pupils are always accompanied from London.

BELLE VUE, Ambleside.—Good School for Girls.—Having increased accommodation, Mrs. Fleming can now receive six additional Pupils. House well and healthily situated, with large rooms, garden, tennis ground. Careful Christian training, and thorough teaching. Distinguished success in Cambridge Examinations, which are optional. Resident foreign and English governesses. Visiting masters. 50 to 60 guineas.

SOUTHSEA.—Holland House, Clarence-parade.—School for the daughters of gentlemen. Christian training. Home comforts and care. Preparation for the Oxford Local, College of Preceptors, and South Kensington Examinations.—For prospectus, with references, apply to the Principal.

MARGATE. — Alresford House School.—High-class School for the Sons of Gentlemen. Sound religious training. Careful supervision. Thorough preparation for public schools and the usual examinations. Conducted by Lady Principal, assisted by Resident and Visiting Masters. Prospectus on application.

LONDON.—First-class Education for the Daughters of Gentlemen in an establishment of long standing, conducted by members of the Church of England, occupying a spacious house in a most healthy locality in the West-end. The pupils have the advantage of loving care and safe training while pursuing their studies under first-rate Professors; their health, individual temper, and disposition carefully and tenderly watched over, and the whole system based on Christian principles. — Delta, Boddington's Library, Notting-hill-gate, W.

BAYSWATER.—St. John's College, close to Parks. High-class Boys' School. Large, well-ventilated class-rooms, 55 feet long. School chapel. Good playground. Thorough teaching.—Rev. C. Baker, 41-43, Moscow-road, Pembridge-square, W.

FRANCE. — HAVRE. — Mdlle. Cournil de Lavergne, 29, Rue d'Epremenil. Protestant Boarding-school for Young Ladies. Comfortable home. First-rate instruction. Highest references (Pasteur Theodore Monod) in France, England, Germany, Holland.

PARIS. — Mdlle. Vienot, 36, Avenue des Princes, Gare d'Auteuil, Paris. Protestant Boarding school for Young Ladies. Careful instruction. Pleasant, comfortable house, with large garden. References and prospectus on application

JERSEY LADIES' COLLEGE, St. Helier, Jersey.—Lady Principal, Miss Roberts (late of Newnham College, Cambridge). Sixteen resident English and foreign mistresses. Honours taken by the pupils in the Cambridge Women's and London Matriculation Exams. First Gilchrist Exhibition gained in the Intermediate Arts Examination, 1884. Terms moderate. Reduction made for sisters and ministers' daughters.

MR. EDWIN ARROWSMITH, of the Children's Special Service Mission, recommends any parents requiring the comforts and privileges of a good Christian home, combined with an excellent education, for their Daughters, to apply to D. C. L., Farley's Library, FitzJohn's-parade, Hampstead. One vacancy in January. Terms 100 to 120 guineas per annum.

TO GODLY PARENTS.—The undermentioned (who is in no way connected with the school) is desirous of recommending an old-established YOUNG GENTLEMEN'S BOARDING SCHOOL, DELIGHTFULLY SITUATED ON HIGH GROUND, WITH VIEWS OF THE SEA on the South Coast, a short run from London, in which a thorough and a first-class Education is given, based upon the teaching of the Holy Scriptures.

It is one of the few remaining schools in which the power of the Gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ influences the hearts and conduct of the pupils.

The success, happiness, and training of the Boys have been so remarkable in this school that a BOOK OF TESTIMONIALS GIVEN BY THE PARENTS, together with the papers of Examinations passed and Honours gained, should be read to appreciate results so unusual. Two Vice-Chancellors have placed their wards as pupils in the school. Reference kindly permitted to Dr. Thorn, Paddington, London.

KEMPLEY HOUSE, Coronation-road, Bristol.—Principal, Mrs. Prescott. An excellent education for Girls. Ten guineas a term, payable in advance. Accomplishments and all expenses included, except for books. See Prospectus.

EDUCATION FOR YOUNG LADIES, in an old-established School, with careful Christian training. The Misses Mabbs will be glad to meet with two or three Young Ladies as boarders, on moderate terms. Pupils prepared for the College of Preceptors' examinations. Congregationalists and abstainers.

Richmond Villa, Brentwood, Essex.

TO FILL VACANCIES, a few Resident Pupils can be received on very advantageous terms, in a high-class Ladies' School, in the South of England. Highest references.—Alpha, 24, St. Lawrence-road, N. Kensington, London, W.

TUITION in exchange for Board. Divinity Student, M.A. of Edinburgh, requiring bracing country air, will give services as above in suitable locality. Doctor's family preferred.

Wilson, Glenluce, Scotland.

MISS WATTS (Evangelist) has vacancies in her quiet country home for two young ladies, who will be educated by her sister. Assisted by a competent governess and masters.

Wetherden, Stowmarket.

A LADY, with select Morning School, solicits Boarders. Christian training. English instruction, languages, music, drawing, painting. Eight guineas per term (inclusive).—Carlyle House, Warkworth-street, Cambridge. Half term, November 3.

CHRISTIAN PARENTS, desiring for their daughters religious influence with an advanced order of mental culture, will find their requirements fully met in this school. Dancing not taught; but daily physical exercises given. References and prospectuses forwarded on application to the Principal, Mrs. Anderson, Duffield House, West Norwood, London, S.E.

FOUR LITTLE GIRLS can be received and educated in a happy Christian Home. Country residence. Extensive grounds. Situation healthy and bracing.—Terms on application to Lady Principal, Belle Vue House, Castel, Guernsey.

BOARD AND EDUCATION offered by a young Widow, late Assistant Board-school Mistress, for a girl over seven. Country home, near London. Terms on application. References exchanged.

Mrs. S., Woodlawn, Hanworth, Feltham.

MRS. NORWOOD EARLE is anxious to obtain a few more Boarders and day Scholars. Home comforts. Mother's care. High testimonials. Healthy part of Ealing.

Gowbusk Villa, Richmond-road, South Ealing.

LADY DESIRES to place her daughter, 18, in a good school, as Governess-Pupil, after Christmas. Church of England, Evangelical.—Mater, care of Mr. Taylor, Church-road, Essex-road, N.

BEDFORD.—Howard College.—Principal, Mrs. J. Compton Burnett.—A Boarding School for Girls. Modern methods. A very superior Education and careful Christian training. During past year pupils have passed the Cambridge Local Examination, College of Preceptors, Royal Academy Local, and Trinity College. Sixty-six passes in last two years. Eighteen distinctions. Vacancy for Governess-Pupil at Christmas; premium.

A CHRISTIAN GENTLEWOMAN (clergyman's sister, officer's niece) desires an engagement as experienced Resident Governess (after the Christmas holidays), in a home where firm religious principles, good temper, patience, and excellent teaching will be valued. Church of England. Acquirements: English, French, German, music, singing, drawing, and water-colours. English and Continental experience in families of rank and position. Unexceptionable testimonials and references. Liberal salary required.—Address, with full particulars,

Fides, Norton Court, Gloucester.

FINISHING GOVERNESS, Daily or Resident, London.—Protestant Parisian Lady, diplomée, experienced. French, English, Italian, music, drawing, oil painting. Moderate salary. Last engagement in a clergyman's family.

Mademoiselle, 70, Wimpole-street, London.

A LADY HAS PLEASURE in recommending a Governess (daily or otherwise) for children under twelve. English, music, elementary French, drawing; certificate Kindergarten.—Y.W.C.A., 463, Holloway-road, N.

LADY (Scotch) desires re-engagement as Governess or Companion. English, Continental French and German, music, painting, chrystoleum. Salary £35.

Dot, Field's Library, Clifton, Bristol.

IMPORTANT to Parents and Guardians.—A few delicate or backward Children can be received in the home of a professional man. Seaside. Every care and attention. Terms on application; very moderate.

A. C. B., Windsor House, Sandgate, Kent.

A LADY, well educated, desires an engagement as Lady-Housekeeper or Companion, or any position of trust in a Christian family.—K., care of Rev. W. S. S., 23, Devonshire-road, Hackney, London.

ONE OR MORE (if brothers) orphan Boys can be received permanently in a good school, to be educated and entered in any desired profession or calling, for one inclusive and very moderate payment.

L. G., May's Advertising Offices, 159, Piccadilly.

NO SALARY.—A young Lady offers her services in a Christian family or school to teach junior pupils, assist at housekeeping, needlework, district visiting, &c., in return for a comfortable home; with laundress.

X. Y. Z., 74, St. Mary-street, Weymouth.

Appointments, Situations, &c., Wanted.

LAW. — A Christian solicitor, admitted 1883, now engaged in a first-class office, wishes to hear of a partnership or appointment in country or town. No objection to preliminary clerkship.—C., 117, Chancery-lane, London.

TO MERCHANTS and Manufacturers.—A mother wishing to secure a suitable position for her only son, a tall, intelligent, conscientious youth of 16, active, observant, obliging; is sure any employer would find in him a capable assistant, anxious to please and to advance by merit and perseverance. Has had introductory experience.

H. B., 6, Thayer-street, Manchester-square, W.

AS CLERK of Works and Accountant (thorough practical joiner). Preference given where opening for Evangelistic work offered.—O. H., 23, Caroline-street, Eaton-square, London, S.W.

COACHMAN, one or pair, good character. Age 35. Christian, also abstainer. Married; three children. Christian privileges valued. Disengaged.—Thomas Pateman, South Cottage, Copthorn-common, Crawley, Sussex.

MAN AND WIFE, as Valet and Plain Cook to one or two gentlemen; offices or chambers. Christians and total abstainers.

J. B. D., 36, Newland-street, Eaton-square.

HOUSEKEEPER.—A Lady wishes to highly recommend a Lady who has lived with her for the last three years (especially where there are little children who need care). She is a good manager, well educated, and of an exceedingly amiable disposition.—Mrs. Akhurst, Gore-hill, Ashford, Kent.

A YOUNG LADY, cheerful, domesticated, and of Christian principles, desires an engagement as Nursery Governess to young children, or as Companion to a Lady.

S., 35, Clapton-square, Clapton.

RE-ENGAGEMENT REQUIRED, as Nursery Governess, Useful Companion, or Mother's Help (22). Fond of children, domesticated, and good needlewoman. Church of England. Also an abstainer.

B. Taylor, Greyfriars Vicarage, Reading.

RE-ENGAGEMENT WANTED, as Superintendent or Matron, in a Home or Institution. Experienced. Age 33. Salary from £30.—G. W., 54, Thornhill-sq., Barnsbury, Islington, N.

SUPERINTENDENT, or Matron.—Lady seeks immediate re-engagement. Considerable experience; excellent testimonials. Salary secondary consideration to an active life.

D. R. E., 27a, St. John's-square, Wolverhampton.

SITUATION required, by young person, as Assistant Housekeeper, Under-Matron, Working Housekeeper; or would engage in Christian work in any useful sphere.

M. B., 88, Rendlesham-road, Clapton.

MATRONSHIP wanted, by a person of considerable experience and lengthy references, for House of Rest or Convalescent Home.

S. P., 8, St. Catherine's-terrace, Guildford, Surrey.

AS USEFUL COMPANION to an elderly or delicate lady, age 28. Good needlewoman and plain dressmaker. Total abstainer. London or south of England preferred.

J., 12, Aubrey-terrace, Sunderland.

WILL ANY EARNEST Christian Lady take a Servant, who is leaving Mrs. Vicars' Home? Qualifications, household and needlework, washing. Country preferred. Aged 24.

Hope, Mrs. Charlwood, West-street, Reigate.

SITUATION wanted, to attend on a Lady or young Lady. Understands dressmaking, and would like to help in the Lord's work. Personal character if required.

S. J., 45, Piccadilly, W.

AS MAID or Attendant to a delicate Lady. Kind and attentive in illness. Good dressmaker, packer, traveller. Speaks German. (Rubbing.) Good references. Age 30.

I. P., 77a, Bower-street, Maidstone.

A CHRISTIAN WOMAN, aged 50, seeks situation as Housekeeper to a Gentleman, where girl is kept; or care of offices. Nonconformist. Plain cook. Disengaged early in December.—Mrs. Dewdney, Rusper, Horsham

HOUSEKEEPER, Companion, or Lady Help, by Orphan Lady, who is well recommended. Age 36. Presbyterian. Domesticated, amiable, useful. Having small income, salary is secondary consideration.—Marie, 57, Spurnstowe-road, Hackney Downs, London.

REQUIRED, by a Lady, re-engagement as Companion to a nervous invalid Lady (mental). Excellent references to several medical men.—M. S., Thuringia, Manor-road, Stamford-hill, N.

MISS STEER has several girls in the Ratcliff Highway Refuge for whom she wishes to obtain situations. It is better for no mistress to apply who is not willing to give Christian and motherly help to a girl who is trying to regain her character.—26, Princes-square, St. George's-in-the-East, London, E.

A LADY WISHES to hear of a situation as Kitchenmaid or Under-Housemaid, in a Christian household (Church of England preferred), for a girl of sixteen.
Mrs. C. Plumptre, Claypole Rectory, Newark.

SERVANTS' AGENCY, SOHO BAZAAR.—Unexceptionable references required. Testimonials of religious character fully appreciated. Male and female servants are in daily attendance from 11 to 2; on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday the number is very large. Entrances, Soho-square, and 77, Oxford-street.

AS UNDER-KITCHENMAID or UNDER-NURSE.—A Christian woman is anxious to find a place for her daughter in a Christian family.
Mrs. H., 6, Portland-pl. North, Lower Clapton, E.

Appointments, Situations, &c., Vacant.

MAN AND WIFE without family wanted, husband as Night Watchman on large works, wife to assist another servant in manager's household. Permanent situation.—For particulars address, stating ages and references, Abstainer, Mercury Office, Cinderford, Glo'stershire.

BUTLER wanted; married man. Must be thorough indoor servant, and understand cleaning plate, &c. Earnest Christian and abstainer, with good character from last place. Wages £3 10s. per month, and board, with cottage and garden free.—Address, stating age, references, and when disengaged, &c., to Mr. C., Vaindre Hall, St. Mellon's, near Cardiff.

A CHRISTIAN YOUNG LADY wanted, for the Retail Bookselling. Must have good experience of the trade. Out of the house.
J. E. Hawkins, 17, Paternoster-row, E C.

A LADY wanted to assist in a Training Home for Girls, under a lady-superintendent. One willing to give her services gratuitously preferred. — Applications, accompanied with full particulars, to be addressed to Miss A. Bayly, Seven Trees, Plymouth.

MISSION WORK.—Any German, between 24 and 40 years of age, and holding evangelical views, who is anxious for employment in missionary work, is requested to communicate with the Secretaries of the London City Mission, 3, Bridewell-place, E.C.

WANTED, Nov. 27th, House-Parlourmaid. Country. Two in family. All found but beer. Needlewoman. Tall, neat appearance. Good character indispensable. Church of England and abstainer preferred.—Apply at once, by letter, stating wages and full particulars, to Mrs. Todd, Hextable Lodge, Swanley, Kent.

AN ACTIVE, CLEAN GIRL wanted, as second Housemaid, in a private family in Hampstead. Wages £10, all found.—Write full particulars to K. A., at C. H. May & Co's., 78, Gracechurch-street, E.C.

WANTED, in a small Christian family, a Sewing-maid. Must understand sewing machine and little dressmaking.
Mrs. John Parkinson, Neville-street, Southport.

YOUNG LADY wanted, of decided Christian principles, not under 24, to train as Nurse in a hospital. No salary first year, but uniform given.—Matron, The Hospital, Guisborough, Yorkshire.

SWISS GIRL wanted, speaking German; good accent. Protestant, Christian, neat needlewoman. To help in nursery and housework. Comfortable place. Send photograph and particulars.
Mrs. Morris, Ramsey, Isle of Man.

MOTHER'S HELP, or Nurse.—Can any Lady recommend a thoroughly patient, Christian young woman, to take charge of two little children? Eldest three years.
Mrs. Millidge, 14, Mercer's-road, Holloway.

MOTHER'S HELP wanted, between 20 and 30; experienced with and fond of children. Servants kept. Five little children. A true Christian valued.
E. Dixon, 5, Wood-lane, Highgate, N.

A GOOD HOME offered to a Christian Lady in return for light and useful service.—Apply, by letter, to A. B., care of Housekeeper, 13, Rose-street, Newgate-street, E.C.

EXPERIENCED LAUNDRYMAID wanted.—Christian principles, abstainer. Two girls helping and being trained.—Miss Winscombe, Brownshill court, Stroud, Gloucestershire.

EXPERIENCED GENERAL SERVANT wanted. Godly woman, abstainer, in private family of two at Ealing. Active and cheerful. Comfortable Christian home. Moderate wages. Write only.
Mrs. Hukins, 14, Mattock-lane, Ealing.

AN ENERGETIC, Christian young woman wanted, to assist in Temperance coffee bar, and be generally useful.
Manager, 10, Calverley-road, Tunbridge Wells

SECRETARIAL APPOINTMENTS, Y.M.C.A.—Gentlemen desirous of engaging in Christian work among young men should apply by letter to the Secretarial Appointment Board, Exeter Hall, London, W.C. Candidates should be under thirty years of age, unless previously engaged in the work.

A TRAVELLING SECRETARY wanted, for Y.M.C.A.'s. With other qualifications, experience in the work of great importance.—Apply, by letter only, giving fullest particulars, to Hon. Sec., National Council, Exeter Hall.

THOROUGHLY RESPECTABLE middle-aged person wanted, as General Servant to single Lady. One who would be glad of comfortable home. State age and wages.
Miss Burgess, 4, Hobart-street, Leicester.

GOOD PLAIN COOK wanted, private family, N.W. of London. Must be an early riser. Some housework, washing put out. All found. Personal character. Three servants kept. Good wages to competent person.—State full particulars to J. Z., at C. H. May & Co's. General Advertising Offices, 78, Gracechurch-street, E.C.

LAUNDRYMAID wanted, for private family, willing to assist in housework to fill up her time.
Mrs. Lawe, Fosbury Vicarage, Hungerford.

GENERAL SERVANT wanted, who understands dairy work. Pious Churchwoman, and abstainer. Housemaid kept.—Rev. G. F. Smith, Park Farm, Hadleigh, Rochford, Essex.

GOOD GENERAL SERVANT wanted. Thoroughly respectable; well recommended. Able to do plain cooking. Not under 20. Nurse-girl kept. Three in family. Quiet, Christian home. Wages £12 to £14; no beer.
Mrs. C. Barker, Sunbury, Sidcup, Kent.

GENERAL SERVANT. — Miss Ellice Hopkins wishes to recommend a woman, aged 35. A Christian and abstainer.
Miss Hopkins, Percy House, Brighton.

GENERAL SERVANT wanted.—Strong, active, and a Christian. One who is fond of children. Good character indispensable. State wages.—T., Manor House, Dagmar-road, South Norwood, S.E.

GENERAL SERVANT wanted, who can cook. Small family. No children.—Mrs. H. S. Robertson, 116, Finchley-road, Swiss Cottage Station.

WANTED, A SERVANT who can do plain cooking and undertake part of housework. Three only in family. No washing. Charwoman to do rough work. Good character indispensable.—Mrs. Hadley, 1, Spring-villas, High-road, North Finchley.

WANTED, 12 miles from London, a good Housemaid; an early riser, and willing. Cook kept. Wages £14; all found but beer.—Write or apply
Mrs. Bourne, Farmside, Brighton-road, Sutton.

To Let, Apartments, &c.

PERCY'S HOTEL, LONDON.
40, Bedford-place, Bloomsbury-sq., W.C.

This First-class Private Hotel is highly recommended by readers of The Christian from all parts of the world. The Bishop of Algoma writes: "The comfort, perfect order, and attendance at Percy's Hotel, render it all that can be desired as a central place of sojourn in this great city." Beds from 1s. 6d. Tea, 1s. 3d. Tariff on application.

W. TAVERNER, Temperance Hotel, 35 and 36, Hunter-street, Judd-street, Euston-road. Five minutes from G.N., Mid., and N.W. Railways. Beds from 1s. 6d. Plain breakfast or tea, 1s. Tariff and testimonials on application. Patronised by ministers of all denominations.

HUTCHINSON'S PRIVATE HOTEL, 24, Guilford-street, Russell-square, the most central position for all parts of London. Extensively patronised and strongly recommended. Home comforts. Terms moderate.

LONDON. — Insull's Temperance Hotel, 20, 21, Burton-crescent, Tavistock-square, W.C.—Five minutes' walk or 1s. cab fare from Euston, St. Pancras, King's Cross Railways; easily reached from other stations. Patronised by readers of The Christian.

BRIGHTON. — Sussex House Boarding Establishment, pleasantly situated in the Old Steine, having a sea view, and the beautiful Steine Gardens in front. Near to Pavilion, Aquarium, and piers. Liberal table, with every home comfort.—Mr. & Mrs. Box, 58, Old Steine.

ST. LEONARD'S-ON-SEA.—The Widow of the late Rev. Frederic Wagstaff, and Mrs. Locke, offer superior Board and Residence. Replete with every comfort. Close to sea, gardens, &c. Terms moderate.
Meliora House, 21, Carisbrooke-road.

BOURNEMOUTH. — Board and Residence, with home comforts and every attention. House pleasantly situated in one of the healthiest parts.—Terms on application to Miss Searle, or Miss Hutteman, Loughtonhurst, West Cliff-gardens.

PARIS.—Board and Residence in French Protestant family. Highly recommended by English doctor who resided there some months. Terms, &c.,
M. D., 14, Maitland-park-villas, N.W.

WESTBOURNE, BOURNEMOUTH. — Comfortable, well furnished Apartments. Pleasant outlook. Bath-room. Every attention. Terms moderate. No other lodgers.—L. V., care of G. D. Shipley, Breachwood-green, Welwyn, Herts.

MARGATE.—Shaftesbury House, the Seaside Home of the Y.M.C.A.—From Oct. 1st until March, married ladies and gentlemen can be received as Boarders. Apply to the Manager.

MENTAL.—A Vacancy occurs in a Home, where a small number of Ladies, mentally afflicted, are received. The skilful services of the resident physician are supplemented by Christian kindness and care. One hour from London.—Dr Craig, Bishopstone, Bedford.

BOURNEMOUTH. — Mancetter, West Cliff.—Superior Boarding House. Very comfortable winter residence. Best position, close to sea and pines. Liberal table.—For terms, &c., address Proprietress.

WORTHING HOME OF REST for Christians.—Vacancies for the winter. Every comfort. Terms, one to two guineas.—Lady Superintendent, Rutherford Lodge, Worthing.

SOUTHSEA. — Solent House Boarding Establishment, 16 and 17, South Parade. Sunny and cheerful position, directly facing sea and the Isle of Wight. Liberal table, and every home comfort. Winter terms from 30s. to 3 guineas a week.—Miss Baker.

BOURNEMOUTH, West.—A young Lady can be received as Boarder in a Christian Home, for the winter months. Every comfort. Motherly care given. Terms very moderate.
Vernon, Princess-road.

BOURNEMOUTH.—A Lady receives a few boarders. Home comforts. Scenery; sheltered position; late dinner. Moderate terms. References exchanged.
B., Leigh Wood, Cambridge-road, Bournemouth.

FOLKESTONE. — Y.W.C.A. Seaside Home. Comfortable home for ladies during the winter months. Very moderate terms. Reduced fare from London.
Lady Superintendent, 6, Alexandra-gardens.

BOARD AND RESIDENCE. — Facing the sea. South aspect, with good South bed-rooms. A warm and genial climate for winter. Gentleman's room. Terms very moderate.
Principal, Poonah House, Worthing.

SAN REMO, The Home for Invalid Ladies of limited means, re-opened on Nov. 1st. — Applications for admission to be addressed to the Secretary, San Remo, Italy.

BOARD AND RESIDENCE.—An Officer's Daughter, who receives one lady to share her quiet home, has a vacancy at present. Could take charge of a young lady.—Address, by letter only, Beta, 117, Crawford-street, Baker-street, W.

BOARD AND LODGING wanted, for an old man, in a respectable family. Terms 10s. a week.—J. W., care of J. Young, 100, Gipsy-hill, London, S.E.

A CLERGYMAN desires to recommend a home in a private family for a young Gentleman employed in London. Reference to several well-known business men. Highest references required.—X., 52, Highbury-hill, N.

AN EXPERIENCED MEDICAL MAN, in a quiet part of London, has good accommodation for a patient, either a chronic case requiring a home, or one needing treatment. First-class references. Terms moderate.—W. H., Temperance Hotel, Featherstone-buildings, Holborn.

MENTAL.—Wanted a Home and attendance for a Gentleman in a quiet country cottage.—Address, stating terms, Mr. B., care of Mr. Carter, 6, Moore-park-road, Fulham, S.W.

NERVOUS AFFECTION.—A Home is wanted in a private family in the south of London, for a Lady, where her health and comfort would be considered.—Address, with terms, to J. 969, Messrs. Deacon's, Leadenhall-street.

MARRIED MEDICAL MAN offers Home, with every comfort, to Lady or Gentleman, mental case or otherwise. Would take charge of one or two children. Healthy sea-side village.—Send particulars and terms offered to
M. W., Marsh House, Lower Tottenham.

HOUSE FURNISHING Business (with House Agency, &c.) for sale. Suburban; well established. Capable of great expansion. Double-fronted shop, plate glass; roomy premises. Suit man with £1,000. Or, partnership entertained. Principals only.
X. B., Mr. Bateman, 26, Paternoster-square, E C

A REFINED CHRISTIAN HOME for a few Ladies. Near to sea, town, or rail. Mild, healthy, climate. Terms moderate for winter months.—R. B., Sea View, Littlehampton.

WIDOW LADY can offer comfortable, refined Home, on moderate terms, to Lady or Gentleman. Would suit mother and daughter, or two sisters. Very large garden. Tennis lawn, &c.—Woodlands, Clissold-road, Mildmay park, London, N.

INTEMPERANCE.

COLEMAN HILL HOUSE RETREAT, Halesowen, Worcestershire. For Ladies only.—For terms and all particulars apply to the Proprietors, Townsend House, Halesowen, Worcestershire.

UNFURNISHED APARTMENTS.—Parlours (large), communicating, and kitchen. Extra room if required. Gas and venetians. No children. Close to tram or rail. Terms moderate.—30, Mildmay-road, N.

A HOME IN ITALY.—A Christian family having a large house in a very beautiful and healthy locality, near Naples, would be pleased to receive in their circle a married couple or a widow Lady wishing for a comfortable but quiet home, in a warm climate, with a charming position. Terms 25 guineas per month for two people, or 30 guineas with private sitting-room; 15 guineas per month for a single person. References exchanged.—For further particulars, Mon. Eugene Vagner, St. Michele, Ana Capri, Isola di Capri.

CROWN BATHS, Kennington Oval, and Victoria Baths, High-street, Peckham.—The large gentlemen's Swimming Bath at each of these establishment, both of which form an Assembly Room capable of holding 2,000 persons, are available, during the winter months, for political, temperance, and other public meetings, for concerts and evangelistic services, &c. For terms, address Manager of either Bath.

WANTED, BY ADVERTISER, a Coffee House, shut up or to let. Or house and shop eligible for that trade.—Apply, stating terms, L. W., 26, Church-street, Croydon, Surrey.

AN ELDERLY LADY wishes to find a Home in a private family, or in a Boarding House, where only two or three ladies are received. The neighbourhood of Kensington-gardens preferred.
W. W., Hancock's Library, 7, Bishop's-road, W.

A LADY residing in her own well-furnished House desires to meet with a Lady, or two Sisters, to share it. Terms moderate. References exchanged.
F. Day, Post office, Denmark-hill, S.E.

A LADY WISHES to hear of a Home, where two children could be placed. Father has deserted them. Mother quite unable to support them.
Mrs. B., 1, Southbourne-terrace, Bournemouth.

SUPERIOR FURNISHED APARTMENTS.—Large bed-room and sitting-room. Comfortable home, with attendance, suitable for either lady or gentleman. Beautiful position, near Stamford-hill. Terms moderate.
E. R., 49, Drayton-park, Highbury, N.

NORTH LONDON.—Four rooms, 9s. 6d.; or three, 8s. Remarkably cheap.—Write, Mr. Watt, care of Housekeeper, 13, Rose-street, Newgate-street, E.C.

Miscellaneous.

ANXIOUS INQUIRERS are again earnestly invited to write to
Titus iii. 4–7. Evangelist, Clapham, S.W.

AMERICAN ORGAN, £8 15s., carriage paid. Five stops; knee swell. Sweet tone. Solid walnutwood case. Early English design; beautifully polished, and richly panelled—Approval.
J. Hayes, 23, Anatola-road, London, N.

AMERICAN ORGAN.—Magnificent genuine 35-guinea instrument, scarcely been used, thirteen stops, including sub-bass octave coupler, full organ and grand organ knee swells. Guaranteed perfect condition. Maker's six years' warranty transferred, £17. Approval.
Fairey, 96, Wynford-road, Islington, London.

HARMONIUM. — Beautifully polished walnut case. Condition new. Seven stops, grand organ tone. Perfect. Price only £6 18s., as cash is wanted. Packed, on trial free.
Beta, 58, Bickerton-road, London, N

PIANO, by the noted maker, Erard. Full-compass, Italian walnut, cottage, good as new. Cost £75; price, to an immediate purchaser, 35 guineas.
Mr. Sanderson, High-street, Wood-green, N.

AMERICAN ORGANS, Harmoniums, Pianos, of any make, for Church, School, or private purposes, supplied at great reduction through Ede & Co., 177, Upper Thames-street, E.C. Price lists and discounts on application.

IRON MISSION ROOMS, &c., erected on the most reasonable terms, by R. Saunders, 216, Brecknock-road, London, N. Estimates and designs free. 25 years' practical experience. Also Churches and Schools, &c.

WAGGONETTE, in first-rate order. Price to immediate purchaser, only 13 guineas. A bargain.—Mr. Sanderson, The Pantechnicon, High-street, Wood-green, N.

CHOICE ORNAMENTAL Shrubs, 4s.; garden Azaleas, 3s. 6d.; choicest Tea Roses, 7s. 6d.; Brompton Stocks, Wallflowers (double, 1s.); Forget-me-not (dissitiflora) 6d. dozen. Deutzias, extra strong, double white, rose, gracilis, 1s. 3d. Selling off Bulbs cheap.
C. Simcox, 158, Severn-road, Cardiff.

NEEDLEWORK FOR LADIES, for Pleasure and Profit. All the New Art Work. Directions for lovely things in knitting and crochet. Useful articles and wearable things, saleable bazaar articles. How to Dispose of Work, and List of Work Societies. Price 1s. 7½d., post free.—Practical Artistic Patchwork. Six lovely patterns, artistically coloured, with full-sized diagrams for cutting out papers, 14 stamps.
Ringrose, Malvern Link.

ASTHMA. — Persons suffering from Asthma, Difficulty of Breathing, &c., are invited to try (free of charge) a remedy for affording immediate relief.
C., Mr. G. A. Keyworth, Hastings.

WASHING WANTED, by an experienced Laundress, with every convenience. Terms moderate. Good drying grounds, and plentiful supply of water.—Mrs. Hunt, 2, Vine cottages, Lower St. James's-road, Notting-hill, W.

WASHING WANTED by an experienced Laundress. Horse and van in town daily. Large open drying-ground. All sent home Fridays.—Mrs. Bosher, 3, Albert-place, Starch-green.

MATTHEW VI. 4.—Will some dear Christian brothers or sisters help two Ladies to keep their Home of Industry, which, through rascality, they must otherwise lose?
Gratitude, Whiteman, Stationer, Hastings.

AGENTS WANTED, for Temperance Beverages. Grocers and others sell them largely. Good profits, no risk, small outlay. Best yet introduced. Good testimonials.—Anti-Burton, 178, York-road, King's Cross, London, N.

SPECIAL OFFER.—Musical Boxes playing Mr. Sankey's and other sacred airs Messrs. Wales & McCulloch have a limited number of these choice Instruments, by the original Nicole and other eminent makers, which they are offering at greatly reduced prices. Particulars will be sent on application, addressed to 22, Ludgate-hill, London.

ELEGANT COUNTERPANE, Turkey twill and white calico. Coloured illustration, model, and instructions, nine stamps. Twelve fashionable Dinner Napkin Patterns, including three charming German for dishes, 1s. 1d.—Clifford, Newport, Mon.

SPARE TIME WORK, which will pay, may be obtained by Secretaries of Temperance Societies, Bands of Hope, Good Templar Lodges, visitors, and others, by applying to The Blue Ribbon Life, Accident, Mutual, and Industrial Insurance Company, Limited, Colmore Chambers, Newhall-street, Birmingham.

THE AUTUMN MEDICINE.—Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla is the most effective remedy for Skin and Blood Diseases, dropsy, gout, indigestion, pimples, blotches, boils, &c.; and is highly recommended for ladies and children. In bottles of all chemists 2s. 6d., 4s. 6d., 7s. 6d., 11s.—Depot, 131, Fleet-street, E.C.

FURNISH on Norman & Stacy's Hire-Purchase System. No registration. Deposit not necessary. Economical. Strictly private. 1, 2, or 3 years. Sixty genuine wholesale firms to select from.—Offices, 79, Queen Victoria-street, E.C., & 121, Pall Mall, S.W. Carriage paid.

MAGIC LANTERNS, or Dissolving Views. Buy of the manufacturer, William Catlin, 17, Claremont-square, Pentonville, London. Exhibitions (Gospel), town or country. Slides on hire, 1½d. each. Second-hand catalogue gratis.

A PATIENT SUFFERING from Epilepsy, Hysteria, Paralysis, or otherwise requiring experienced treatment with care and supervision, is offered a loving Christian home at the seaside, where the above has for many years been very successfully treated. Highest references.—Medicus, care of Messrs. C. Tayler & Co., Advertising Agents, Fleet-street, London.

INTEMPERANCE. — A Lady, thoroughly experienced in the care of ladies suffering from alcoholic and narcotic indulgence, can receive a few ladies. Terms moderate.—Miss Pudney, Buxton House, Earl's Colne, Essex.

INTEMPERANCE.—A successfully established private Home at the seaside for six, suffering from excess of morphia, chloral, absinthe, stimulants, or Nervous Debility. Christian care and influence. Judicious supervision and home comforts.
Medicus, 9, Stokes Croft, Bristol.

SUPERFINE STUBBLE BUTTER.—J. A. Boyd can now supply his numerous private customers and others with excellent keeping quality, in original packages of about 70 lbs. net each. Carriage paid to any railway station in England, Ireland, or Scotland, at 1s. 3d. per lb.—James A. Boyd, Westfield, Limerick

BUNTER'S

Cures Toothache, prevents Decay, saves Extraction, 1s. 1½d.

NERVINE.

Further Issue of Shares.

The Aylesbury Dairy Co. (Limited).

ESTABLISHED 1868.

The dividends paid during seventeen years have averaged over 8½ per cent. per annum.

Incorporated as a Company limited by Shares, under the Companies Acts, limiting the liability of Shareholders to the amount of their Shares.

The Directors of the Aylesbury Dairy Company (Limited) are prepared to Issue the Balance of the Unissued Capital.

Prospectuses may be obtained from the Secretary.

The Aylesbury Dairy Company (Limited), 31, St. Petersburgh-place, Bayswater, London, W.; or of the Brokers, Messrs. Cavell, Strachan & Lardelli 50, Threadneedle-street, London, E.C.

A PROVED REMEDY for Diabetes, Bright, Liver, Dropsy, Bladder, and Kidney diseases, by GLENN and BETHESDA Natural Mineral Waters. Valuable table drinks. Allen's Euphorbia for Bronchitis and Asthma.—Testimonials by physicians, ministers, and others from Rev. T. Penrose, Reading.

DR. G. H. JONES, Surgeon Dentist, 57, Great Russell-street, facing the entrance to the British Museum, London. Pamphlet, with list of diplomas, gold medals, and other awards, sent free by post. Consultation gratis.

Tonga:

"Tonga maintains its reputation in the treatment of Neuralgia."
Lancet.

"Invaluable in facial Neuralgia. Has proved effective in all those cases in which we have prescribed it."
Medical Press.

2/9, 4/6, & 11 - Of all Chemists.

EPPS'S

GRATEFUL—COMFORTING.

COCOA.

Publications.

MRS. GRIMKE'S TEXT CARD MISSION.—56 Languages. Precious souls in many lands have been led to Jesus Christ by these cards, and others brought under Christian influence. Records come of great blessing. Millions are asked for by Missionaries and others, who, able wisely to distribute to the nations afar, have no means to buy them. To meet this need, we pray God to send gifts and bequests, also increased sales. For new list send stamped envelope to Mrs Grimke, Prestwich, Manchester: or apply to Elliot Stock, 62, Paternoster-row, London.

THE NEAR RETURN of the Lord Jesus Christ. By Cheyne Brady. 7th Thousand. Price 1d. London: S. W. Partridge & Co., 9, Paternoster-row.

Price 2s., post free.

THE MORAL UNITY OF HUMANITY the Key to The Evangelic Theory; or, The Way to Conscious Union with God through Faith in Christ rationally indicated. By R. Brown.—Elliot Stock, 62, Paternoster-row.

THE "MOUNTAINS OF BREAD" Series of little Books and Leaflets, by the late Georgiana Thompson, are copyright. Profits for poor aged, suffering Christians. Are still supplied by addressing Miss A. Thompson, care of Dr. Cranage, Old Hall, Wellington, Salop.

ANTI-INFIDEL TRACTS Given Away. Parcels of 1 lb. or 3 lbs. weight. On receipt of six or twelve stamps, to pay for carriage and packing.—W. R. Bradlaugh, 70, King's Cross-road, London, W.C.

FRIENDLY LETTER, addressed to Women employed in factories, mills, and warehouses. Price ½d. No. 28 of Series.—Jarrold, Norwich and London; may also be had from Author, Miss Skinner, 5, St. James's-square, Bath.

Now Ready.

Y.W.C.A. ALMANACK for 1886.—The peculiar feature of this Almanack is that it gives, besides other matter, Daily Bible Readings, as well as Texts of the Y.W.C.A. Subject for the Year, The Tabernacle and Offerings. 1d. each, 7s. 6d. per 100 (sheet or book), from 1, Harewood-square, N.W. Also from same address, Y.W.C.A. MOTTO CARDS for 1886. Subject: Holiness to the Lord.

C. H. SPURGEON'S GREAT WORK ON THE PSALMS is now complete, in seven volumes, cloth, 8s. each, and can be had in whole calf or half calf.—Messrs. Passmore & Alabaster, 4, Paternoster buildings.

THE Stirling Reward Cards.

In Packets at 6d. each.

BIBLE COUNSELS.—Packets 1 and 2, each containing 900 Cards.

GOLDEN WORDS.—Packets 1 and 2, each containing 96 Cards, with Floral Designs, printed in Colours.

In Sheets, 2d. each, or 3 Sheets for 6d., post free.

			Cards on Sheet.
1.	Bible Precepts,	No. 1	162
2.	,, ,,	,, 2	162
3.	Bible Mottoes,	,, 1	104
4.	,, ,,	,, 2	104
5.	Bible Prayers,	,, 1	128
6.	,, ,,	,, 2	128
7.	Bible Seed,	,, 1	192
8.	,, ,,	,, 2	192
	Floral Designs, printed in Colours.
9.	Bible Promises,	No. 1	72
10.	,, ,,	,, 2	72
11.	Bible Light,	,, 1	28
12.	,, ,,	,, 2	28
13.	Bible Warnings,	,, 1	25
14.	,, ,,	,, 2	25

Drummond's Tract Depôt, Stirling, N.B.
London: S. W. Partridge & Co.;
And all Booksellers.

NEW FANCY WORK FOR LADIES.

Registered.] "TOILECROSSE" [Registered.

This beautiful new Work, which is pleasant to handle while working, easy to do, and very effective when worked, is manufactured and supplied to the trade wholesale by ISAAC PICKARD, 4 and 5, Gascoigne-street, LEEDS. Samples on application. Ladies may obtain supplies at Berlin Wool Repositories everywhere. Be sure and ask for Toilecrosse (Registered).

NEW CARDS, TEXTS, AND VERSES.

By WILLIAM LUFF.

Packets of Twelve, SIXPENCE.

1. Heart Cries and Heavenly Answers. Floral Sprays, with gold centre.
2. Ripples on the Shores of Time. Birthday packet, with marine views.
3. Lilies of Life. Book-mark shape. Novel and new.
4. Palms of Victory. Beautiful designs in Palm Trees, with texts on Triumph.
5. Peeps at Palestine. Landscapes of the Holy Land, with precious promises.
6. Views and Verses for my Sunday Scholars. 48 tinted, gold-bordered Cards.

Solomon's Gold. Six gilt Cards, in 1d. packets.
Heavenly Words for Earthly Homes. Texts for the House in floral designs. 13¾ by 6 inches. Set of twelve, 1s.
Wreaths of Favour. Designs by Berth Maguire. 13¼ by 10¼ inches. Set of six, 6s.

MISCH & STOCK, 55, Jewin-street, London, E.C.

BAGSTER'S BIBLES.

Extra flexible, silk sewed, in best Bagster morocco, kid-lined, elastic band. With full helps. Prices from 20s.

In French morocco, projecting edges, elastic band. From 4s.

Samuel Bagster & Sons, Limited, 15, Paternoster-row London.

TO ALL WHO USE THE

TONIC SOL-FA NOTATION.

JUST PUBLISHED. A NEW and CHEAPER EDITION of

TONIC SOL-FA

SACRED SONGS AND SOLOS.

(441 Hymns) sung by IRA D. SANKEY.

Tinted covers, 1s. 6d; Cloth limp, 2s.; Cloth boards 2s. 6d.

BIBLE LIGHT,

For Truth Seekers and Christian Workers.

MONTHLY, 1d. Enlarged to 14 Pages.

John F. Shaw & Co., 48, Paternoster-row, and of all Booksellers. A specimen copy sent free on application to the Editor.

KINDNESS TO ANIMALS. — Card Pictures, with suitable anecdotes. Very attractive. Eight varieties in English, French, German, Italian. Score, 1s. 1d.; hundred, 4s. 9d., carriage free.
Mrs. Barrow, 11, Ampton-road, Birmingham.

Cloth, 3s. 6d.

"WHAT SAITH THE SCRIPTURES?"

An Exposition and Analysis of the Pentateuch and earlier Historical Books of the Old Testament, with explanatory and practical Notes.

By Dr. J. ANDERSON,

Author of "Searching The Scriptures."

"Embodying the results of wide reading, as well as earnest personal reflection."
Christian Leader.

"Its careful scholarship and suggestive hints will make it useful to ministers."
Methodist Recorder.

"Local preachers and others will find Dr. Anderson's pages both informing and stimulative."—Home Evangelical Magazine.

"Though not professing to be a commentary, it is really one of the best kind."
Edinburgh Courant.

"A happy combination of spiritual suggestion with critical comment."—Christian.

"Warmly commended to teachers and students of Scripture"—London Quarterly Review.

"The exposition of Genesis is very carefully and completely considered."—Church Times.

"For Sunday-school teachers and Bible Classes it would be of great service."
Homiletic Magazine.

London: Messrs. Hodder & Stoughton, 27, Paternoster-row, E.C.

Just published. Stiff covers, 2s.; Cloth, 3s. 6d.
To Missionaries half-price.

SONGS, READINGS, AND RECITATIONS. By John H. L. Christien. For the Mission Hall, Christian and Temperance Assemblies, and the Fireside. Evangelistic, instructive, and entertaining.—Ford & Shapland, Great Turnstile, Holborn; and all booksellers. Author's address, 50, Thornhill-square, N.

AMONG THE OLIVES;

or,

The Allegory of the Bible Readers.

Price Sixpence.

"And to find that from that Book there could be no separation till given into the hands of its great Author."—Extract.

London: Partridge & Co., 9, Paternoster-row.

"A very Practical and Helpful Little Volume."—Evangelical Christendom.

THE ENQUIRY ROOM:

Hints for Dealing with the Anxious.

By GEORGE SOLTAU.

TINTED COVERS, 4d.; CLOTH LIMP, 6d.

"Many Christian workers have felt the need of such a handbook as this; and Mr. Soltau's wide experience makes his advice specially valuable."
Christian Miscellany.

"The 'Enquiry Room' is a very clear and simple, yet thorough and comprehensive, direction for those who undertake to guide the awakened to the Saviour."—The Outlook.

"We heartily commend this little manual to all who would be wise in soul-winning, and also to the earnest perusal of the anxious themselves; and may it be as the good Samaritan to many."
Irish Baptist Magazine.

"This is an excellent little handbook for all Christians who desire to help wisely and well in the great work of winning souls for Christ."
The Watchman.

London: Morgan & Scott, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

Terms for Advertisements.

(PREPAID.)

Miscellaneous Advertisements in small type are charged at the following rates:—

Not exceeding 30 Words	....	3	0
,, 39 ,,	....	3	9
,, 48 ,,	....	4	6

And 9d. for every additional line of nine words or under, the address being in all cases charged for.

Scale for larger Advertisements sent on application.

☞ In order to secure insertion of Advertisements in the following number of The Christian they should reach this office on or before Friday, and at the latest by Saturday Morning's first pos

NOW READY.

NEW WORK BY THE WELL-KNOWN AND FAVOURITE WRITER,

A. L. O. E.

PEARLS OF WISDOM

FROM The Parables of Christ.

Twenty-four Chapters of Exposition and Meditation on the Parables of the New Testament. By A. L. O. E. Author of "Rescued from Egypt," Exiles in Babylon," "The Young Pilgrim," &c., &c. With TWENTY-FOUR ILLUSTRATIONS, specially designed for this Book. 256 Pages. Crown 8vo. Attractively Bound, 3s. 6d. Bevelled Boards, Gilt Edges, 4s.

Contents.

The Pharisee and the Publican.
The Wedding Feast.
The Ten Virgins.
The Guest at Midnight.
The Two Houses.
The Good Samaritan.
The Lost Sheep.
The Excuses.
The Sower.
The Tares and the Wheat.
The Talents.
The Rich Man and the Beggar.
The Prodigal Son.
The Rich Fool.
The Unmerciful Servant.
The Strong Man Armed.
The Barren Fig-tree.
The Door Shut.
The Hidden Treasure.
The Corn Growing.
The Vineyard Labourers.
The Mustard Seed.
The Wicked Husbandmen.
The Empty House.

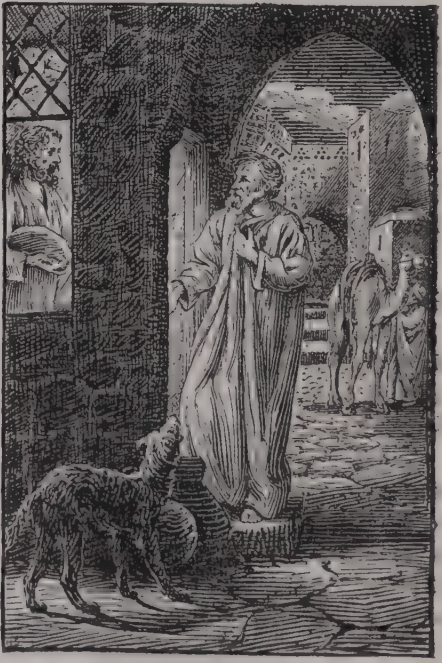
PUBLISHER'S PREFACE.

The lady who writes under the signature of A. L. O. E. has been long and favourably known by her works.

To many it has been no secret that some years since this lady bade farewell to home and country, and went to India, with the view of devoting her remaining life to Mission work in Hindustan.

The Pearls from the Parables have therefore been written from an Oriental standpoint; and this treatment of the Parables will be new to English readers. From those simple allegories to which Christ gave utterance on the shore of the Sea of Galilee and in the streets of Jerusalem, A. L. O. E., deduces arguments to bring Hindoos and Mohamedans to the faith of the Gospel. And no one can read these pages without being struck with the remarkable manner in which the Parables adapt themselves to use as Evangelistic Lessons. The New Testament is a book not only for all ages, but for all peoples.

"Far as the East is from the West," the Bible and its teachings are found as acceptable and applicable in the one hemisphere as the other; and the truths which first touched hearts in the East and then travelled westward into Europe, have now in turn made their way to Asia, and are finding an entrance among the natives of British India.



"Because of his importunity he will rise and give him as many as he needeth."

The present volume—originally written, as we have already said, for the purpose of conveying a knowledge of Christ and his salvation to the natives of Hindustan—will be found equally well adapted for circulation in this and other English-speaking communities.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings, E.C.; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

UNDER THE PATRONAGE OF H.R.H. THE PRINCESS CHRISTIAN.

Mrs. Hilton's Crèche, Infant Infirmary & Orphan's Home,

12, 14, & 16, STEPNEY CAUSEWAY, COMMERCIAL ROAD, E.

AND

Training and Convalescent Home, The Limes, Feltham.

Dear Friends,—I am under the necessity of making a special appeal fo funds, and trust that, as in former times, you will kindly respond. I am in immediate need of £150 to meet current expenses, and, unless help is forth-coming, I shall not only have to refuse many distressing cases, but shall b reduced to the painful necessity of contracting some portion of the work. need not further urge the claims of the little ones, as at this time the shelterin of young children is one of the most important missions before the Christia public.

Trusting that the Lord will incline your hearts to aid me in this time o anxiety,

I am, Yours in the Master's Service,

MARIE HILTON.

All communications to be addressed to Mrs. HILTON, Founder and Hon. Superintendent, Langveld House, Burdett-road, London, E.

JEWISH REFUGEES AID SOCIETY

Established 1883.

President—Right Hon. THE EARL OF ABERDEEN.

Vice-Presidents.

Right Hon. LORD POLWARTH.	Rev. ANDREW A. BONAR, D.D.
Right Rev. BISHOP HELLMUTH, D.D.	Sir CHARLES LOWTHER.
Rev. CANON TRISTRAM, D.D.	JOSEPH HOARE, Esq.

Objects.—To settle under Christian influence on land in Palestine Jewish Refugees obliged to qui Russia and Roumania from Christian persecution.

Progress.—An estate about 1,250 acres in extent has been purchased at a place named Artuf, betwee Jaffa and Jerusalem, near the site of the ancient Eshcol. Ten families of Jewish proselytes, or inquirers, ar settled on it under the direction of a Christian manager, who receives his orders from a Local Committee a Jerusalem, and regular Christian teaching is provided on the estate.

Difficulties.—While £775 have been subscribed to build houses for the settlers, since the undertakin was commenced the Turkish Government have thrown impediments in the way of Jews building in Palestine so the settlers are still in poor wooden sheds. We know that this difficulty has been overcome in the case a certain Jewish settlement, we hope it may soon be on ours. Meanwhile, we ask for help to carry on th enterprise on a reduced scale for the present, as it would be most unwise to let it drop. Already it has give a great impulse to Mission Work in the Holy City.

Wants.—We need £500 before winter, if possible, for purchase of cattle, erection of sheds, &c., an £6 a week for maintenance.

The Second Annual Report, with Balance Sheet and full information up to June, 1885, has lately bee published, and the Secretary will be glad to send it to any desiring further information.

Rev. H. A. BIRKS, 94, Newgate-street, E.C., Hon. Sec.
S. FIELD, Esq., 10, Angel-court, London, E.C., Hon. Treasurer.

Cheques may be crossed "Barnett & Co."

Forthcoming Meetings.

EVANGELISTIC.

HE EVANGELISATION SOCIETY will send evangelists to any part of England, Scotland, and Wales on due notice. Apply Hon. Sec., 21, Surrey-street, Strand, W.C.

HE IRISH EVANGELISATION SOCIETY will send evangelists to any part of Ireland on due notice. Apply to Mr. J. Barton, Hon. Sec , Dundalk, Ireland.

HE METROPOLITAN TABERNACLE EVANGELISTS' ASSOCIATION will send lay preachers and evangelists to any chapel or hall of any evangelical denomination in London. Apply Hon. Sec., 121, Camberwell New road, S.E.

HE CHILDREN'S EVANGELISTIC MISSION will send evangelists to any part of Great Britain to conduct missions for children and young people. No charge. Apply T. Eyres, Hon. Sec., 253, Southampton-street, Camberwell, S.E.

HE CHURCH ARMY will send evangelists (working men) to any clergymen on due notice, for short or long missions. Apply Hon. Sec., 36, Southampton-street, Strand, W.C.

OCIAL PURITY.—The Gospel Purity Association is prepared to send competent lecturers to address meetings of men or women on the above subject. Apply J. B. Wookey, General Secretary, 31, Paternoster-square, London, E.C.

R. GAWIN KIRKHAM.—November 13, Kingston-on-Thames High Wycombe, 15 and 16; Southend, 17; Old Cavendish street, 20; St. James's Hall, 22 and 29; Nettlestead, 23 Bermondsey, 24; Spitalfields, 30; Exeter Hall, 18 and 25.

ESSRS. FULLERTON AND SMITH.—Abbey-road, St. John's Wood, to November 26; Norwood, 29 to December 20; January 3, and onwards, New Great Assembly Hall, Mile-end-road.

R. F. B. MARSH.—Sheffield, to November 22; Hove Brighton, December 6 to 20; Peterhead, N.B., January 1 to 24.

R. W. SPENCER WALTON.—November, Weston-super-Mare, Southsea, and Wandsworth; December, Wandsworth, Barnet.

R. HENRY THORNE.—November 14 to 23, Bridgwater 28 to December 7, Malvern; 12 to 21, Stratford, London.

R. JAMES NEECH.—Harby, Lincoln, November 22 to December 3; Swinderby, December 6 to 18.

RS. REANEY every Sunday afternoon at Stepney Meeting House.

R. T. SHULDHAM HENRY.—St. George's Hall, Langham-place, W., during November, Sundays, 11 a.m. and 7 p.m.; Burlington Hall, Savile-row, Wednesdays, 8 p.m.

R. J. M. SCROGGIE.—November, Hawick. N.B.; December and January, N.E. Coast, Banff, Macduff, Portsoy, Buckie, and Fraserburgh; February, Dunfermline; March, Doncaster; April, Bristol.

R. E. P. TELFORD.—Dewsbury, November 15 to December 10; Southend, December 13 to 23.

ISS BREWSTER.—Finsbury Park Hall Y.M.C.A., evangelistic services each evening at 7 o'clock, Sundays, November 15, 22, and 29.

DINBURGH CASTLE.—Mr. Henry Varley, Sunday next, 11 a.m. and 7 p.m.

OW AND BROMLEY INSTITUTE, Bow-road, E.—Mr. Evans-Hurndall, M.A , Sundays, 8.30 p.m.

ONFERENCE HALL, Mildmay-park, N.—November 15, 3.30 p.m., Mr. P. S. Badenoch; 7 p.m., Rev. D. B. Hankin.

AMMERSMITH BATHS (near Broadway).—Gospel services, in the Board-room on Sundays during the winter, 7 p.m.

LAPTON HALL, Upper Clapton.—Mr. J. Denham Smith during November, Sundays, 6.30 p.m.; Fridays, 7.30 p.m.

GRICULTURAL HALL, Islington, N.—Sunday, November 15, 3.30 p.m., Rev. Frederick A. Jones; Mr. Elvin and a soloist, 7 p.m.

ALBOT TABERNACLE, Powis-square, W.—Thursday, November 12, at 7.30, and Sunday, 15, at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m., Mr. Müller, of Bristol.

ESTMINSTER CHAPEL, Buckingham Palace-road, S.W.—Mr. Russell Hurditch throughout November; Sundays at 7, Wednesdays at 8.

ORTH LONDON EVANGELISTIC CHOIR.—November 19, Gospel Hall, Wood-green, 8 p.m.; 21, Conference Hall, Mildmay, 6 p.m.; 27, School-room, Conduit-street, Upper Clapton, 8 p.m.; every Sunday evening, at 7, Conference Hall, Mildmay.

VANGELISATION OF THE WORLD.—Annual conference of Christian workers, in connection with the Manchester and Salford Boys and Girls' Refuges, December 8 and 9. Messrs. Leonard K. Shaw, J. Wakefield MacGill, and Gilbert R. Kirlew are the hon. secs, Conference Hall, Strangeways, Manchester, to whom all communications may be addressed.

NION HALL MISSION (under the direction of Mr. Robert Bilke).—Services on Sunday next, November 15: Union Hall, Carlisle-street, Edgware-road, N.W., Mr. W. P. Harwood, at 7 p.m.; Kensal Hall, Kensal-road, W., Mr. W. R. Lane, 7 p.m.; Queen's-park Hall, Kilburn-lane, Mr. S. Stidolph, 7 p.m.; Gospel Hall, Green-lane, High-street, Battersea, S.W., Mr. Edwin Cook, 7 p.m.; Gospel Hall, Market-place, Brentford, Mr. S. E. Angel, 7 p.m. 18, Greenhill-park-villas, Harlesden, workers' prayer meeting, Monday, 10.30 to 12 noon.

ELIGIOUS SERVICES FOR THE PEOPLE.—Sunday services at Pavilion Theatre, Whitechapel-road, 7 p.m ; Town Hall, Shoreditch, 3.30; Town Hall, Holborn, 3.30 and 7; Town Hall, Bermondsey, 3 30 and 7; Town Hall, Kensington, 7; St. James's Hall, Regent-street, 3.30 and 7; Temple of Varieties, Hammersmith, 3.30 and 7; Croydon Theatre, 7; Good Duke Humphrey Hall, Greenwich, 3.30 and 7; Alexandra Temperance Hall, Southwark-park-road, 6.30; Park Hall, Camden Town, 3.30 and 7; Morley Hall, Hackney, 7; Evangelical Hall, High-street, Homerton, 7.

VANGELISTIC MISSION (under the direction of Mr. C. Russell Hurditch).—Bignold Hall, Bignold-road, Station-road, Forest Gate, Mr. Abraham Wallis, Sunday, 7 p.m.; Wednesday, 8 p m. Dalston—Tent, on ground behind the (late) Hall of Commerce, near Dalston Junction Railway Station, Mr. H. Osborn, Sunday, 7 p.m. Dalston-lane, 103A—Mr. H. W. Davidson, and others, Sunday at 7 p m.; Thursday at 8 p.m. Hammersmith—Upper Mission Room, 130, King-street, various speakers, Sunday, 7 p.m.; Dr. Popham, Thursday, 8 p.m.: Kilburn Hall, Kilburn Gate (not Town Hall), Dr. McKilliam, Sunday, at 7 p.m.; Wednesday, 7.30 p.m. Malden Hall, Kentish Town, Rev. Alexander Carson, M.A., Sunday, at 7, on "Gospel Light from Ancient Egypt;" Mr. John Churchill, Thursday, at 8 p.m., on "The Book of Esther." Mortlake, Rest Mission Hall, Mr. Jackman, Sunday, 7 p.m. St. John's Wood, N.W., 164 Alexandra-road—Meeting for workers, Wednesday, 10.30 a.m. West Kensington Hall (known as Cadby Hall), Hammersmith-road, West Kensington—Mr. C. V. T. Onslow and Dr. Popham, Sunday, at 3 and 7 p.m.

MISCELLANEOUS.

ILKLEY, Yorkshire.—Convention for the deepening of spiritual life, December 3.

CITY OF LONDON CENTRAL NOON PRAYER MEETING, 186, Aldersgate-street.—Daily, 12 to 1.

UPPER NORWOOD, Stafford House, Tudor-road.—Drawing-room meetings every Thursday at 3 and 8 p.m.

MERCHANTS' LECTURE, Finsbury Chapel, Moorfields, City. —Rev. Edward White, Tuesday, November 17, 12 noon.

MISS MITTENDORFF'S ANNUAL MEETING, Tuesday, December 15, at the Y.W.C.A., 17, Old Cavendish-street, Cavendish-square, W., 7.30 p.m.

Y.W.C.A., Mall Hall, Notting-hill-gate, W.—Tuesday, November 17, 9.30 to 10.15 p.m., Miss Fanny Boyd (China Inland Mission); Tuesday, 24, Rev. Nevile Sherbrooke.

CHURCH ARMY.—Holiness meeting, every Friday, at 8 p.m., at Brunswick Chapel, Upper Berkeley-street, W. (close to Marble Arch). Revs. F. S. Webster, E. W. Moore, and others.

DEEPENING OF SPIRITUAL LIFE—Meetings at Stafford Rooms, Titchborne-street, Edgware-road, Friday, November 13, 3 30 p.m., address by Rev. C. A. Fox; 20, Rev. E. H. Hopkins.

A DRAWING-ROOM MEETING for German and Swiss governesses, Saturday, November 14, 3.30 p.m., at Mrs. Gonner's, 57, Finchley New-road, N.W., address in German by Dr. Ziemann.

HOME OF INDUSTRY, 60, Commercial-street, Spitalfields, E.—Monthly meeting for Christian workers, Wednesday, November 18, tea at 6, meeting at 7. Rev. Charles A. Fox will give the address.

3, HIGHBURY-PLACE, N.—Each Tuesday, 6.30 p.m , at Rev. W. E Boardman's, a meeting held for advancement in spiritual life. On Thursday, at 11 a.m., Mrs. Boardman's Bible-class for ladies at same place.

HOUSE OF REST, 8, Cambridge-gardens, Kilburn-park, N.W. —Friday, November 13, at 7 p m., subject, "Oneness with Christ," by Miss Mason; tea at 6. Sunday, 15, at 3.30 p.m., "God's Men in the Old Testament," by Miss Mason.

PRAYER FOR THE NATION.—Meeting on Thursday, November 12, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., in Lower Exeter Hall, Strand, Mrs. Josephine Butler, Mrs. Evered Poole, Mrs. Booth, Miss Macpherson, Miss Mason, and others will take part.

HUMILIATION AND PRAYER.—Thursday, November 26, meeting in Room No. 4, Conference Hall, Mildmay-park, N., from 4 to 6 p m., for humiliation and prayer concerning our country and our people. Mr. R. C. Morgan will preside. Christians from all parts of London are invited to attend. At 7 p.m., in Room No. 4, a meeting for mothers; addresses by Mrs. Hind Smith, Miss Mason, and others.

Y.M.C. ASSOCIATIONS.

61, GRACECHURCH-STREET.—Daily prayer meeting, 1.15 p.m. (Sat. excepted). Bible study, Tuesdays, 6.15 p.m. Workers' meeting, Monday, 7 p m. Soldiers, Friday, 7 p.m. Y.M.C.A. Mission-hall, Melior-street, S.E., Sunday 11 a.m. and 3 p.m , children, and 6.30 p.m. adults; Thursday, 8 p.m. (See also advertisement.)

EXETER HALL.—Thursday, November 12, 8 p.m., Bible lecture, by Mr. H. F. Bowker, on "A Christian: What is he in Character?" Tuesday, November 17, 8 p.m., medical lecture, by Mr. F. le Gros Clark, F.R.S., F.R.C.P., on "How and Why the Blood is Circulated." Gymnasium open every evening. Musical exercises in Large Hall, 8.15. Gospel address to gymnasts every Wednesday evening by the General Secretary.

THE PRIORY, 198, Upper-street, Islington, N.—Thursday, November 12, 8.30 p.m., address, by Rev. Marmaduke Washington; Wednesday, 6 to 10, anxious inquirers and strangers.

BURLINGTON HALL, 23, Savile-row, Regent-street, W.—Week of prayer. A meeting for prayer each night at 8.45. Wednesday, November 11, a meeting at 9.30, intended for those detained by late hours; Thursday, 12, a social meeting, special addresses by Revs. T. Eynon Davies and Joseph Rhodes, Mr. W. H. Seagrove in the chair.

17, CAMDEN-ROAD, N.W.—Thursday, November 19, 8 30 p.m., young men's meeting, special address by Mr. J. L. Whelen.

CONFERENCE HALL, Stratford.—Sunday, November 15, 3 and 7 p.m., Mr. Dudgeon, from Ireland.

Notices.

MISS SKINNER, 5, St. James's-square, Bath, would be glad to receive addresses of factories, mills, and warehouses, &c., where she might send copies of her "Friendly Letter" to women employed in them.

COMMUNICATIONS RECEIVED WITH THANKS.—H E.R. H.B. M.H.M. H.W. M.E.W. F.E.W. G.H.C. C.W.P. R.N. J.E H. M.G. C.J.M. G.K. E.H.K. W.C. J.T. W.S. W.D.R. H.B L. T.R. I S. J.N. S.B. J.B. H.R. C.E.F. S.A.B M M. Miss D. F.L.W. A.D. M.W. C.C.F. G.S. A McC. A.C. A.H. J.E.L. S.D. J.P. P.J.W. S.J.C. R.A. C.J.J. G.B J.E.M. D.C. G.W.S. A.M. J.D. M.D.J. T.B. M.G. B.G.M. T.E.L. W G. E.D.P. J.N. Learner. V.M S. W.S. S.K. A.L. A.A.B. Wayfarer. M.M.G. C.T. L.B. M.E.A. H.F.K. H.T. R.D.F. Constant Reader. R.M. H.F.B. L.K.S. Patriot E.H. G.M. G.H.S. W.B. L.D.D. W.E. M.J.D. D.McL. Mrs. J. C.M.H. D.F. A.G. G.W.B. R.W.W. J.C.C. G.W. M.A.C. H.W.F. G.F. J.M S.

APPLICANTS FOR TRACTS.—Miss E. A. Arkcoll, South Malling, Lewes: Mrs. Maddox, 55, Flask-walk, Hampstead, N.W.; G. W. Pockett, 89, Ossulston-street, Euston-road, N.W.; W. Pearn, Dean-street, Liskeard, Cornwall; L. Brown, care of Mrs. Sutton, 50, Clapton-common, Upper Clapton, N.; Miss Sealy, Gasberton Vicarage, Spalding; F. Parrott, 9, Colwell-road, Wellingborough; Miss J. Wray, 46, Rendal-street, Everton, Liverpool; Miss L. Hine, Fairview Cottage, C. Campden, Gloucestershire; Mrs. Earlam, Oak Farm, Styal, Handforth, Cheshire; W. Willcock, 271, Deansgate, Manchester; T. Fairley, Sunderland-street, Houghton-le-Street, Fence Houses, Durham; R. S. Smith, 13, Colville-mansions, Powis-terrace, Bayswater, W.; G. Chatton, Union Hall, Carlisle-street, Edgware-road, W.; T. Sayer, 85, Crayford-road, Tufnell-park, N.; Miss M. Vickers, 18, Balfour-road, Highbury New-park, N.; T. W. Rowe, evangelist, Partridge-street, Keighley, Yorkshire; Miss P. H. Smith, Lyme-street, Axminster; Mr. Pratt, 3, Park-terrace, Willesden-green, N.W.; E. K. Adams, 69, Arlingford-road, Brixton, S.W.; Miss K. M. Nye, 15, Wayland-avenue, Dalston-lane, N.

[As it is found that infidels and others send tracts to the persons whose names are inserted here, it is most important that all books and papers received should be carefully read before being given away.]

Subscriptions received by Messrs. Morgan & Scott to Saturday Morning, November 7, 1885.

 Donations should be sent by Cheque or P.O. Orders, not by stamps. Cheques to be drawn in favour of Morgan and Scott, and crossed City Bank; P.O. Orders payable to Morgan and Scott, at G.P.O.

 Will donors oblige us by giving explicitly and fully the titles of the Missions to which they wish their donations to be applied? Mistakes which sometimes arise will thus be obviated. Will they also bear in mind that our Donation List is made up for the Printer on Saturday morning? And amounts received afterwards will be acknowledged in the subsequent week's number.

	£	s.	d.
Stead, &c., Defence Fund—Y.M.C.A , Hammersmith, 5s. 6d.; Mrs. G. A. £2; E. A. H. 2s. 6d.; Mrs. R. £1; M. and A. M. S. J. £1; F. H. 5s.; H. H. 10s.; A. T. 2s.; Mrs. G T. £5; Collected at Hinton St. George, 12s.; T. S. 10s.; L. J. 5s.; E. H. 1s.; E. R. 3d.; Mrs. S. A. B. £1; D. E. O'C. 5s.; M. M. G. £1	13	18	3
Dock Labourers' Mission—(Free Meals) Miss D.	0	5	0
Thames Church Mission—(Free Meals) J. E.	0	15	0
Irish Church Missions—J. E.	0	15	0
London City Mission—J. E. 10s.; T. O. 5s.	0	15	0
China Inland Mission—C , Oxford, 12s.; M. G. G. 10s.; A Friend, £100; L. J. 10s.	101	12	0
Miss E. Hopkins' Work—C. 2s. 6d.; (White Cross Crusade) F. H. 5s.	0	7	6
Mission to Indians in Canada (Mr. H. McKay)—G. R. 2s. 6d.; Mrs. J. £1	1	2	6
St. Giles' Christian Mission—M. M., Belfast, 3s.; Anon. £2; J. B. 10s.; I. I. 10s.; (Prison Mission) D. E. O'C. 5s.	3	8	0
Dr. Barnardo's Homes—Anon. £4 10s; Mrs. H. S. £2 10s.; Boys, Old Hall School, 7s.	7	7	0
Rev. R. W. McAll's Work, Paris—Anon. £4 10s.; J. B. 10s.	5	0	0
Friendless and Fallen—Anon. £2: J. B, 10s.; C. L. M. T. £1	3	10	0
East London Mission—(Rescue Home) Anon.	2	0	0
Mr. Geo. Smith, of Coalville, Fund—C.	0	2	6
Home of Industry—Mrs. H. S. £2 10s.; J. B. £1	3	10	0
George-yard Ragged Schools—A. 2s. 6d.; J. B. £1	1	2	6
Mrs. Meredith's Nine Elms Mission—J. B. £1; (Prison Mission) T. O. 5s.	1	5	0
Bloomsbury Refuges—J. B.	0	10	0
Miss Leigh's Work, Paris—J. B.	0	10	0
Blackdown Hills Mission—J. B.	0	10	0
London Samaritan Society and Homerton Mission—J. B.	0	10	0
Joshua Poole—J. B.	0	10	0
Gray's-yard Ragged Church—J. B.	0	10	0
Home for Worn-out Governesses—J. B.	0	10	0
Indigent Blind Visiting Society—J. B.	0	10	0
Home for Blind Children, Hackney—J. B.	0	10	0
Ladies' Samaritan Society for Paralysed and Epileptic—J. B.	0	10	0
Midnight Meeting Movement—J. B. 10s.; P. A. £1; Anon. £5	6	10	0
Homes of Hope, Regent-square—J. B.	0	10	0
Ragged School Union—J. B.	0	10	0
Bridge of Hope, Ratcliff—J. B.	0	10	0
Vessel for New Hebrides Mission—P. A.	1	0	0
Distressed Jews in Jerusalem (Mrs. Finn)—P. A. £2; T. O. 5s.	2	5	0
Scriptures for the Blind (Dr. Moon)—P. A.	1	0	0
Pastor Rodriguez' Figueras Mission—A. M. C. S.	0	2	6
Sick Children's Dinners (Miss Mayo)—H. M. A. S.	0	5	0
Rev. A. Jones's Work, Maindee—S. P.	0	5	0
Mission to Deep Sea Fishermen—A. R. £2 10s.; C. L. M. T. £1	3	10	0
Y. W. C. Association—L. J.	0	10	0
Miss Weston's Work in Royal Navy—T. O.	0	5	0
Christian Union Hall, Cawnpore (Dr. J. H. Condon) Mrs. E. M. D.	5	0	0
Relief of Cholera Sufferers in Spain—T. C. J.	0	10	6
Mission to Navvies—Miss L. M. C.	1	0	0
Miss Sharman's Orphans' Home—Leam	1	0	0
Miss Mittendorff's Orphans' Home—Leam	1	0	0
Mildmay Mission to the Jews—D. E. O'C.	0	5	0
City Outcasts, Dublin—D. E. O'C.	0	5	0
Miss Robinson's Work, Portsmouth, &c.—T. N. J.	0	10	0
Scandinavian Sailors' Home—T. N. J.	0	10	0
Moravian Missions, London Association—T. N. J.	0	10	0
Breton Evangelical Mission—T. N. J.	0	10	0
Gratuitous Circulation of THE CHRISTIAN—T. N. J.	0	0	6
Bristol Orphan Houses—C. L. M. T. £1; (Missions) C. L M. T. £1	2	0	0
Miss De Broen's Work, Paris—C. L. M. T.	1	0	0
	£182	18	9

[ADVERTISEMENTS.]

Dr. Barnardo's Homes—S. A. Y. 1s.

Mission to Deep Sea Fishermen—A. Z. parcel.

Mission and Relief Work (Mr. W. Evans Hurndall, M.A.)—E. V. £1.

Bethnal Green Free Library, E.—Miss G. £3 3s.; Mrs. B. parcel of illustrated papers.

RAILWAY MEN.—Mr. R. Robins, Walpole Station, Norfolk, asks for a regular supply of tracts, books, and religious papers for distribution among railway signalmen, guards, and others on the Midland and Great Northern railways.

STIRLING TRACT ENTERPRISE.—The Trustees have had for some time an unusually large number of applications for grants of tracts, &c. During the last twelve months they have granted £327 more than the contributions received. There still remain 349 letters from clergymen, ministers, missionaries, evangelists, &c., at home and abroad, to whom grants cannot be given for want of funds. New applications are received daily. Can any of your readers help? A large sum could be judiciously expended. Contributions would be thankfully received by JOHN MACFARLANE, Manager, Drummond's Tract Depôt, Stirling, Scotland.

MINNEAPOLIS.—The census of this city has just been taken, and reveals the astonishing fact that there are residing here 129,200 people. In 1880, only five years ago, the population was 47,000. During the hard times this city has steadily grown in size and wealth, and beautiful residences are springing up on every side. All the evangelical denominations are doing their best to give the Gospel to the masses who are crowding upon them.

The Anchorage.

HEBREWS vi. 19.

To Shelter Young Women (otherwise respectable) lately Fallen into Sin.

FOR rules of admission to the Anchorage House, and for the particulars of its work, and for trained servants, apply (by letter only) to Mrs. H. STUART-WORTLEY (President of the Ladies' Committee), Bosslyn House, Grove End-road, N.W., London, and to whom, or to any member of Committee, subscriptions may be sent, or to Messrs. Morgan & Scott.

CANON PAYNE acknowledges the following for the Krishnagar sufferers:—Mrs. Kalvo, Bournemouth, 2s.; Mr. Lumsdaine, Edinbro', £1; Miss Terry, Leamington, £2; Reader of CHRISTIAN, 5s.; Ed. Bailey, Esq., London, £5; Mrs. Ash, Clifton, £2; Widow's mite, Streatham, 6d.; Mr. T. Emery, Finsbury-park, 4s.; J. A., 5s.; H. M. A. S., 10s.; Miss J. Parry Nisbet, St. Albans, £5; The Misses Graham, Crief, 7s.

PREVENTIVE WORK, IRELAND.

GIRLS' TRAINING HOME,

64, LOWER BAGGOT STREET, DUBLIN.

FUNDS URGENTLY NEEDED.

Has received and helped since opening in March, 1883, 120 girls between the ages of 12 and 20, and aided by Free Registry, 140 extern cases.

Furniture, blankets, gifts of clothing, school requisites, much needed. Winter approaching. Constant pressing applications. Bank account overdrawn £70. We earnestly ask help.

(MRS.) A. M. BURTON, Hon. Treasurer.
(MRS.) F. M. SIBTHORPE, Hon. Sec.

SCRIPTURE READERS' SOCIETY FOR IRELAND.

President, The Rt. Hon. the Earl of SHAFTESBURY, K.G.
ESTABLISHED 1822.

For the purpose of employing humble Christian men well versed in the Scriptures to visit and read the Bible from house to house throughout the country. The Scripture Readers are invariably placed under carefully selected Christian Superintendents, and are also employed by the Society in the large towns and cities, such as Dublin, Belfast, Waterford, &c., as City Missionaries, and visit all classes and denominations, where permitted so to do, Irish-speaking Readers are sent to Irish-speaking districts when required, but are now seldom or ever asked for. The work is carried on in a spirit of love, and not of controversy.

The Scripture Readers also visit amongst the Sailors in seaports and hold Bethel Meeting on board Ships, at hours not to interfere with the usual Public Services. The Society is supported by voluntary contributions.

OFFICES:

37, LOWER PEMBROKE STREET, DUBLIN;
AND 9, PATERNOSTER ROW, LONDON.

Full particulars, reports, &c., can be obtained post free on application to the Secretary, Capt. JAMES KEARNEY WHITE, or by the Proprietors of this paper.

NOTE.—Subscriptions or Donations may be sent to the above addresses, or will be received by the Proprietors of "THE CHRISTIAN."

Friends will please notice the exact title, "Scripture Readers' Society for Ireland," and not "Irish Scripture Readers' Society."

MISSION to DEEP SEA FISHERMEN.

Five Mission Vessels are cruising amongst the North Sea trawling fleets. 12,000 smacksmen are engaged all the year round in providing our tables with fish. These men, who for us toil through furious blast and sleety storm—who hazard their lives and fall victims, hundreds of them, to the pitiless waves, that markets at home may be well supplied—may rightly claim some small share in the privileges we so richly enjoy and so highly prize.

THIS THEY CAN ONLY HAVE THROUGH THE PRESENCE OF THE
MISSION VESSELS

Carrying to the fisher men the message of Divine mercy and pardoning love, bringing the pleasure of books to while away the weary hours, affording relief in case of sickness and injury, and cheering and brightening dull and monotonous lives by their presence and ministry.

"The Mission smacks are doing in the North Sea a grand work, worthy of the support of a great maritime nation like England; and I believe that the results of their effort, great as they are in the present, will, if only supported liberally by the public, be of untold value in the future."—Edward Birkbeck, Esq., M.P.

FUNDS are greatly NEEDED to enable the Society to place a Mission Vessel with every fleet.

E. J. MATHER, Secretary.
31, New Bridge-street, E.C.

Paper covers, 9d.; cloth, bev. bds., gilt edges, 1s. 3d.

THE CONVERSION OF Lydia Montefiore,

Aunt of the late SIR MOSES MONTEFIORE.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

Just Published. First Edition, 50,000. A PEOPLE'S PENNY EDITION (uniform in size with "CHRISTIE'S OLD ORGAN," "JESSICA'S FIRST PRAYER," &c.) Imperial 8vo., with Coloured Wrapper, and Eight Illustrations.

MARY, THE POACHER'S WIFE, and other Stories. By K.

CONTENTS:—Mary, the Poacher's Wife; or, Christ Accepted. Living Alone; or, Without Christ. Dying Alone; or, Christ with Me. Homeward Bound; or, The Heart Won. Hopes of Heaven; or, Their Own Way. Sailor Jim; or, My First Soul. Peace: Do You Know it? The Lost Soul; or, Christ Rejected.

"A Series of Illustrated Stories, from the varied experiences of a lady worker, graphically told, and with a decided Gospel tone. We hope it will secure a very extensive circulation."—Footsteps of Truth.

PRICE ONE PENNY; or 7s. per 100 for Free Distribution. A PRESENTATION EDITION. 16mo., cloth, gilt edges, 2s., post free.

London: W. B. HORNER & SON, 27, Paternoster-square; and 10, D'Olier-street, Dublin.

STRANGERS' REST,

163, ST. GEORGE'S STREET, RATCLIFF HIGHWAY, E.

THE EIGHTH ANNUAL MEETING

WILL BE HELD (D.V.)

On FRIDAY, NOV. 20, 1885.

THE CHAIR TO BE TAKEN AT 6.30 P.M. BY ROBERT PATON, ESQ.,

Supported by J. E. MATHIESON, Esq.; GURNEY S. SHEPPARD, Esq.; REGINALD RADCLIFFE, Esq.; R. C. MORGAN, Esq.; Rev. F. A. C. LILLINGSTON; GEO. HOLLAND, Esq.; Dr. BARNARDO; Dr. ZIEMANN; GEO. LEWIS, Esq.; and other Friends.

THE LORD'S SUPPER AT 8.30.
THE "REST" IS TEN MINUTES' WALK FROM ALDGATE AND SHADWELL STATIONS.
Tea and Coffee from 5.30 to 6.30.

GRAY'S YARD RAGGED CHURCH AND SCHOOL,

James Street, Oxford Street, London, W.

President—F. A. BEVAN, ESQ. | Treasurer—GEORGE HANBURY, ESQ.

Gospel Services, attended by about 500 of the Homeless Poor, are held on Sundays, at 11 a.m. and 3 p.m., after which each person present is supplied with Bread and Coffee. About £2 each Sunday ar required for the Food alone, and there are other heavy expenses connected with the Work of the Church and Schools. Funds are Urgently Needed, and will be thankfully received by the TREASURER 21, Portman-square, W.; Mr. PHILIP GOUGH, 33, Cambridge-street, Hyde-park, W.; or by Mr A. G. FRASER, 4, Inverness-terrace, W.

THE CHILDREN.

WHY do children grow up so indifferent to GOD, their own FATHER and MOTHER, and true BIBL Religion? What answer will many Parents give to this momentous question?

We all know life begins at home, and the strongest impressions are made between the ages of four and te For many years Parents had no proper system of Bible Catechisms to enable them to teach their children th great things of God and Religion, and it is impossible for Parents to teach and train them right without.

The Systematic Bible Teacher and Bible Voices for the Young, post free, 2s. 6d., contain a complete system of Standard Catechism and Scripture Lessons, by good Dr. Watts, the Westminste Assembly, and the late R. Mimpriss, graduated to suit all ages from infancy to maturity, and which enable PARENTS to teach one child or a family of twelve children, TEACHERS to teach a class of twenty or a school of fiv hundred, EDUCATED LADIES to teach all ages, or MINISTERS without study to conduct a quarterly examination s that all can answer, and also carry home the lessons for parents to both train and profit by all the week. Here i the one hope for Parents in the training of their dear children. VISITORS TO LONDON should call and lear about the system at the

SYSTEMATIC BIBLE TEACHING MISSION, 67, Paternoster-row, London, E.C.

BIBLE VOICES can be had—Part I., 1d., or 7s. per 100; cloth, 2d. or 12s. Parts I. and II., 3d., or 18s. per 10

GOVERNMENT PROSECUTION

Of Mr. STEAD and Mr. BOOTH and their Assistants.

DEFENCE FUND.

Treasurers—ALEXANDER MCARTHUR, Esq., M.P.; Professor STUART, M.P.

This Fund has now nearly reached the original estimate of £5,000; but the great and unexpecte length of the trial involves further expense of more than £1,000. The Treasurers, therefore, whi warmly thanking the subscribers for their prompt and generous response to the Appeal, earnestl request FURTHER SUBSCRIPTIONS, which may be sent to them, care of P. W. BUNTING, Esq 11, Old-square, Lincoln's-inn. A Third List of Subscriptions will be published shortly.]

In Library Binding, Gilt Top, 10s. 6d.

MORGAN AND SCOTT'S ILLUSTRATED EDITION OF

CRUDEN'S CONCORDANCE

(UNABRIDGED).

The special features of this Edition are the NEW TRANSLATION, Revision, and Extension of the PROPE NAMES OF THE OLD AND NEW TESTAMENTS, with their meanings in the Original Languages. The Twel following exquisite Plates and Engravings:—

Samaria.
Elisha's Fountain, Jericho.
Rephidim.
Damascus.
Mount Tabor.
Tyre.
Hebron.
Jerusalem from the South.
Shechem—Sychar.
Tiberias.
Bethany.
Athens.
And Six beautifully-coloured Maps.

The Rev. J. L. PORTER, D.D., Professor of Biblical Criticism, speaking of the Steel Plate Engravings, says: "I have examined with care the views for Biblical Illustration. . . . The Engravings are very beautiful. In clearne accuracy, and general effect, they surpass, I think, any I have seen. The places represented are all familiar to me; and I ha been particularly struck by the fidelity with which your artist has reproduced Frith's admirable photographs."

J. L. PORTER.

It is beautifully got up, carefully edited, and all has been done to make the work as useful as possible. Eve Christian home ought to have a copy.—Oldham Chronicle.

Also being published in 18 Monthly Parts at Sixpence each.

A 5s. CHEAP EDITION of the above work may be had, without the Plates and Maps.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

The Christian:

A WEEKLY RECORD OF CHRISTIAN LIFE, CHRISTIAN TESTIMONY, AND CHRISTIAN WORK.

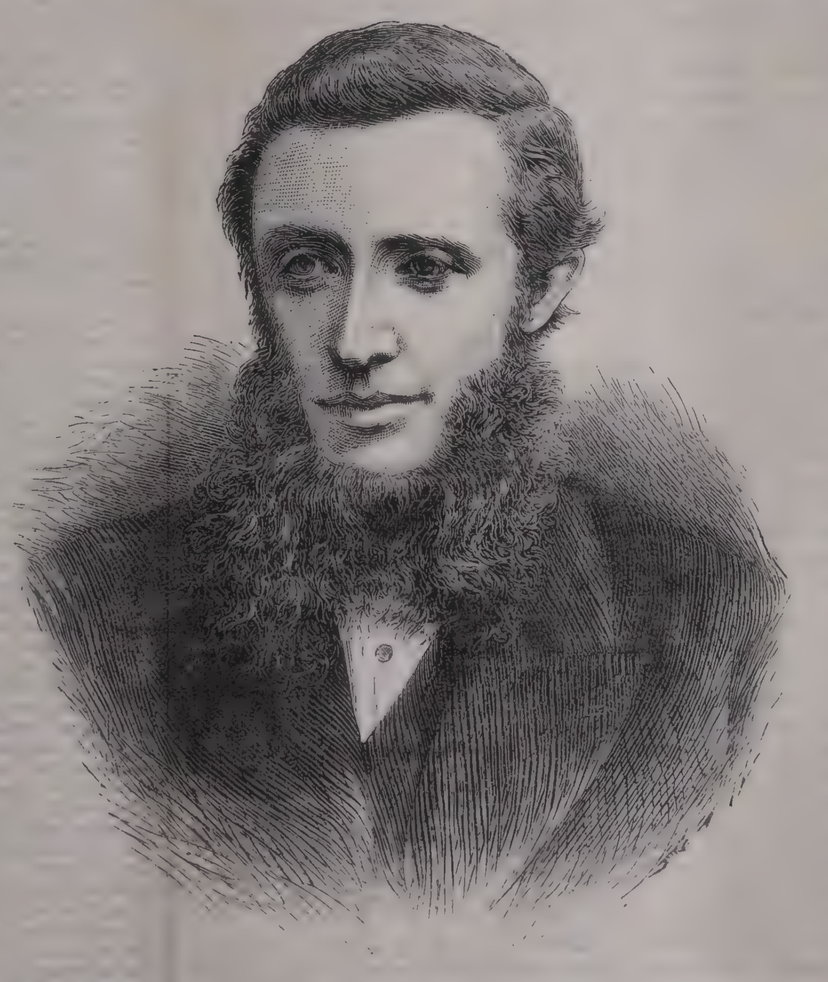
WITH WHICH IS INCORPORATED "THE REVIVAL."

LONDON: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster Buildings, E.C.] [REGISTERED AT THE G.P.O. AS A NEWSPAPER.

No. 825.] THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 19, 1885. DOUBLE NUMBER. [TWOPENCE. POST FREE, 2½d.

☞ THE EIGHT PAGES OF ADVERTISEMENTS IN THE CENTRE OF THIS NUMBER MAY BE PUT OUTSIDE TO FORM A WRAPPER.

MR. ALFRED S. DYER.



SOME men, as the saying goes, are born to greatness; some achieve it; others have it thrust upon them. Mr. Alfred S. Dyer, with whose portrait we furnish our readers to-day, may be cited as a striking illustration of both the second and third clauses of the proverb. Sprung from lowly parentage, and by temperament and natural choice one of the most retiring of men, he has yet, within a very few years, achieved a name that will give him an honourable place among the social reformers of the time. This, in brief, may be attributed to his possession of a keen sense of the claims of justice, purity, and righteousness, an unflinching courage in the advocacy of his convictions, and an all-pervasive sympathy with the victims of human craft and wrongdoing.

Mr. Dyer was born in a small Northamptonshire village, and was yet young when his father died, so that he has had entirely to carve his own way in the world. His godly mother, now over fourscore, still lives to rejoice in the growing usefulness of her son's career. Having himself had to struggle with poverty in early life, he has learned to understand and to sympathise with the special sorrows and trials of the poor.

In the year 1870, Mrs. Josephine Butler undertook to visit the districts subjected to the operation of State-regulated vice, and to enlighten the inhabitants as to the true nature of the Acts then recently passed. She was accompanied by Mr. Daniel Cooper, the late Secretary of the Rescue Society, and Mr. Frederic Wheeler, of Rochester. At the meetings held by these early advocates of social and national purity, Mr. Dyer first heard of the licensed iniquity; his heart was fired with an ambition to labour in the cause of repeal, and in that cause he has been a most ardent worker ever since. A Working Men's League for the repeal of these infamous statutes was formed in Liverpool early in 1875. At the instigation of Mr. Dyer the headquarters of the League were removed to London, where he furnished it with an office, for some time, at his own expense.

It was in 1879 that Mr. Dyer came before the public, in a prominent way, in connection with the "Foreign Traffic in English Girls." His personal efforts to unearth and expose that nefarious and unspeakable commerce in flesh and blood, and human souls, forms, as The Pall Mall Gazette well remarked one day last week, "one of the brightest chapters in the history of the New Chivalry." Having heard that a young English girl was forcibly confined in a licensed den of infamy in Brussels, and was contemplating suicide as the only means of deliverance from her awful lot, Mr. Dyer took immediate steps to secure her release from this worse than African slavery. With the help of Pastor Anet, of Brussels, this was at length accomplished, and the girl was returned to London, where she related to Mr. Dyer in person the story of the cruel deceit and violence by which she had been entrapped.

Other cases of a similar kind having come to his knowledge, Mr. Dyer determined, in company with Mr. George Gillet, of London, to visit Brussels, and learn for himself, as far as circumstances would allow, the truth as to this international disgrace. An account of that visit, with its startling discoveries, made at no small personal risk, was published in our columns at the time, and may be found in still greater detail in Mr. Dyer's pamphlet on "The European Slave Trade," of which a ninth edition has just been issued, and which has been translated into several European languages. In his Belgian experiences Mr. Dyer was thwarted on every hand, not only by the police officials of the country, but, we regret to say, by the British Consular authorities, who ought to have rendered him every assistance in his humane endeavours on behalf of his enslaved countrywomen. There is some satisfaction in knowing that all the chief Brussels officials, whose guilty complicity in these evils became patent to every impartial observer, have either been demitted from office or have found it convenient to retire into private life. It would be a happy omen for the cause in this country if the same guilty complicity in official circles were to meet with a like result. The history of the Jeffries' case does not afford us much ground for hope on this point, but Nemesis, though it may tarry long, sometimes arrives at an unexpected moment and in unlooked-for ways.

One outcome of this visit to Brussels was the formation of the London Committee for the Suppression of the Continental Traffic in British Girls. Of this committee Mr. Dyer has been one of the most active working members, and its operations may be said to embrace the whole history of the social purity reform during the last five eventful years. It was at its earnest solicitation that the House of Lords Committee of Inquiry was formed, from whose recommendation sprang, though all too tardily, the Criminal Law Amendment Act, which is now part of the effective law of the land. To Mr. W. T. Stead belongs the high honour of having given the final impetus to public opinion which floated that Act safely through the breakers of official, and even national, indifference, and the overt or concealed opposition of vicious men. To Mr. Alfred S. Dyer and his coadjutors must be accorded the equally high honour of setting in motion and giving increased volume to the wave of opinion on whose crest the Act reached the harbour of complete legal enactment. The chequered story of these "Six Years' Labour and Sorrow" has just been published as the fourth report of the London Committee, and ought to be carefully read by all who wish well to their country in these times of fierce struggle for the right and the true, when we are sometimes inclined to be discouraged by the seeming triumph of the evil and eclipse of the good. Copies can be had at the office of this paper, price 6d. Mr. Dyer's share in the agitation, and in the struggle, has been no sentimental one. Besides the expenditure of much personal exertion and strength in the cause of those who had come, or were in danger of coming, within the ruthless grasp of an abominable law, he has, when occasion required, opened his own house to these unhappy sisters, giving them a temporary shelter till they could be placed beyond the reach of peril.

The Jeffries' case, in which Mr. Dyer was a prime mover, is of too recent occurrence to need any detailed reference. But it may be appropriate here to say that the public agitation which has grown out of that case has been greatly helped by the brave and outspoken little monthly, The Sentinel, of which Mr. Dyer is the editor. Through that channel alone he has rendered invaluable service to the cause of virtue and righteousness, for which he is entitled to the earnest thanks of his fellow Christians in every land. He has also addressed many public gatherings of his countrymen on a subject which he has made peculiarly his own, and has, in every case, roused a strong feeling as to the supreme justice and necessity of the great Purity Crusade. We must not omit to add that, like many other men in humble stations of life who have become benefactors to their kind, Mr. Dyer is blessed with an excellent helpmeet, whose literary capacity and perfect sympathy with all his endeavours has aided him in numberless ways.

Much against the natural bent of his inclination, but in obedience to the stern call of what he believes to be his duty in this crisis of the nation's history, Mr. Dyer has embarked on the troubled sea of politics, and is a candidate for the representation in Parliament of the borough of Derby. He has taken this step mainly as a protest against the public and official action of the late Home Secretary in connection with the administration of the Contagious Diseases Acts and the passing of the Criminal Law Amendment Act through the popular branch of the Legislature. It is no part of our present duty to arraign Sir W. Harcourt at the bar of public opinion in respect of these matters, but we are assured that Mr. Dyer has ample grounds for endeavouring to prevent that gentleman from again misrepresenting in the House of Commons the best and soundest feelings of an English constituency. We will content ourselves with quoting a few words from a daily contemporary when referring to Mr. Dyer's candidature:—

"Mr. Dyer bases his appeal to the electors of Derby on his persistent efforts on behalf of English women and children. Sir W. Harcourt, as everybody knows, has lately been proclaiming his own efforts in that direction too; but then the late Home Secretary has to answer this awkward question of Mr. Dyer's: Did Sir W. Harcourt feel a tithe of the interest in the protection and rescue of English girls that his predecessor at Derby, Mr. Plimsoll, felt in the salvation of our seamen? If he did not, what becomes of his word? If he did, what are we to say, considering that he nevertheless accomplished nothing, of the power of his deeds?"

We wish our brave Quaker friend all success in his gallant fight against heavy odds. If the electors of Derby are true to themselves and to the right, one more will be added to the phalanx of pure-living and purity-loving men, who we are convinced will not permit, in the coming Parliament, the important questions relating to social reform to be relegated to the limbo of obscurity and neglect, as they have been in the past.

◆

MAJOR AND MRS. POOLE AT DURSLEY.

THESE friends have been at work in this Gloucestershire village, and by the help of God, greatly stirred it in the cause of Temperance and holy living. Says a local chronicler: "Success beyond the most sanguine expectation of its promoters has attended the eight days' Blue Ribbon Gospel Mission held by Major Evered Poole and Mrs. Poole from Wednesday, October 28, to Wednesday last, November 4. The opening meetings were marked by crowded audiences and increasing enthusiasm, and the number of pledges taken at the close of each gathering gradually increased. We may safely say that amongst the 580 who during the mission put their names to Major Pooles's pledge cards and donned the little bit of blue ribbon can be included persons in nearly all the ranks and conditions of life which can be found in the town and neighbourhood of Dursley."

Meetings were held for children and two addresses were specially devoted by Major Poole to the subject of social purity; they made a deep impression. Various friends from Gloucester and elsewhere helped in the work, and Mrs. Poole added much to the influence of the mission both by speech and song. Mr. and Mrs. Poole have postponed several missions in consequence of the excitement due to the approaching election; in the early spring they hope to visit Manchester, Liverpool, Chester, and other places.

Letters to the Editor.

ELECTION.

SIR,—When I am able to record, with gratitude to God, that it was through Dr. Pentecost's Bible-readings in London that one of my own flock was brought to the Good Shepherd, and when I add that, when recently reading Dr. Pentecost's work on Exodus, that had been warmly recommended to me, I found myself so at one with him in the views therein set forth that I wrote to him to express my gratification, neither he nor you will suspect me of any unkind feeling if I venture to express the grief and disappointment which I now experience on seeing his attack upon the doctrine of Election which has appeared in The Christian.

The deep things of God cannot be dealt with in the summary manner with which they are handled in these articles. There is scarcely a mystery in all the Gospel scheme which might not, if subjected to a process of rash human logic, be represented in an unfavourable light. The doctrines of the Trinity of God, of the union of the Divine and human nature of Christ, the doctrine of the eternal retribution of the wicked, and many other doctrines most surely believed among us, only need a gross method of statement and a slight removal from the exact position and proportion in which they stand in Scripture, and they cease to be Scriptural; and it is so with the precious doctrine of God's eternal choice of, love towards, provision for, distinguishing grace to, and preservation of, them that are saved.

Dr. Pentecost sums up the view which he advocates in the text: "God so loved the world that He gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life." God forbid that this or any other text of Scripture should be hushed up, or that it should be narrowed down to fit any theological scheme; but will Dr. Pentecost undertake to affirm that the designation "whosoever believeth" includes those who do not believe?

Surely no candid reader, unless bound by the requirements of a particular school, would suppose that all that the Holy Ghost designed to express in Eph. i. 4, 5 was that such and such persons, if eventually saved, were predestined to be saved through Christ alone. In a word, that the predestination referred to the method, and not to the men. But this is only one Scripture out of many. Our blessed Lord's declarations, John vi. 39; xvii. 2, 6, 9, must be subjected to like violence. And the ninth chapter of the Epistle to the Romans must be explained to be only applicable to nations, or must be limited to the particular persons mentioned, namely, Isaac, Esau, Jacob, Pharaoh.

But, argues Dr. Pentecost, if we admit that vessels of mercy and vessels of destruction are the subjects of Divine prescience and predestination, and, unless we make God's election of individuals to stand or fall with their election of God, and unless we ignore or explain away all those passages which fix the date of election as before the foundation of the world, we are involved in a series of blasphemous inferences which are flatly contradictory to all our notions of God's justice and his love.

It is precisely here that we are at issue with Dr. Pentecost. We could draw as shocking conclusions from his own premises, as he does from ours, if we ventured upon a logical treatment of the subject from a purely human point of view, but we contend that this is a matter in which human reason is forbidden to argue and reply against God (Rom. ix. 19, 20). Would it not be a humbler, wiser, safer course, meekly and without reasoning or trying to reconcile everything, to receive all that God says in his Inspired Word upon this solemn subject. There are some Scriptures that present the matter of salvation from its Divine side, as a matter of eternal and absolute prescience; and others again that present it in its human relation; and God speaks to us after the manner of men with reference to our responsibility. If we do not perceive how the wheels that turn in opposite directions cog in together, and cannot explain their harmonious working, shall we attempt to remove this or that part of the complex system? Nay, the Divine machinery will go on as smoothly as through ages past, but we ourselves shall suffer humiliation as the reward of our temerity.

For instance, if I find one class of texts in Scripture that declare that "God willeth not the death of a sinner, but that all should come to repentance," and another that declare that "God hath created the wicked for the day of evil," and that they were "before of old ordained unto this condemnation;" dare I assert that these two apparently opposite views are manifestly incompatible? and shall I proceed to study how I can explain away either the one or the other side of the truth? Rather let me be assured that though I may be unable to reconcile both; yet that both, being God's Word are to be received, and are true according to their different spheres of operation. Any representation that detracts from God's sovereignty, or that tampers with the plain meaning of his Word in reference to this subject, is as earnestly to be avoided as any like attempt to diminish from the declarations of his love in the Gospel, or of the responsibility of those that hear it.

I cannot but hope that, even before we meet in that happy home, where we shall all see eye to eye, Dr. Pentecost may be led to modify the views expressed in the recent articles. May we all be taught of God, and be enabled rightly to divide the word of truth.—Yours faithfully,

G. W. B.

SIR,—It was my providential lot to do my first thinking on theological questions under very strong Arminian influences; but some years later I was blessed with the warm friendship of an extreme Calvinist of the old school. Our mutual affection rendered possible a frank discussion, that not only did much to reduce the distance between our extreme positions, but also brought a large enrichment of heart and mind. In every way the spirit of the inquirer is a large factor in determining the success of his search for truth. Whether or not a man shall see clearly, depends as much upon the condition of his organ of vision as upon the abundant shining of God's clear light. These days of more love ought to be days of clearer seeing of the things of God.

Coming to the subject of Dr. Pentecost's paper, I would ask, what are the facts, revealed in the Scriptures, that the Calvinistic docrines of election, &c., have presented to us with a colouring of entirely human origin? I take them to be three:—

(1) That God foresees the final issue in every case of his present dealings in grace with the sinful children of men.

(2) That He allows to be born into the world, and to grow up into full moral responsibility, men and women who, He knows, will, in the exercise of the power of choice with which He has endowed them, persistently choose sin and darkness, and reject light and life.

(3) That, whilst God has fully and publicly committed Himself to do the utmost possible for the salvation of every single human soul, there are nevertheless limits to what He can righteously and wisely do. These limits we can at present but dimly discern and understand. But it is clearly revealed that could God have passed them, and brought to bear additional persuasive influences, many who remain unwilling and disobedient would have yielded and repented. Take Christ's words, "Woe unto you, Bethsaida, for if the mighty works which were done in you had been done in Tyre and Sidon, they would have repented long ago in sackcloth and ashes." Here are three stern facts: that Tyre and Sidon, with all their privileges, remained unrepentant; that there were limits to what God could consistently do for their salvation; and that could those limits have been passed, and the same privileges have been granted to them as to Bethsaida, they would have repented. Surely here are mystery and Divine sovereignty sufficient for even Calvin himself. To look such facts in the face we need a mighty hold of the Divine assurances of truest love to every individual soul. "He will have all men to be saved;" and that God's will is committed to it is pledge enough for any believer that so far as in Him lies, in accordance with the laws of his own working, He will seek the salvation of all.

Now, whilst the above statements in no wise violate the Scripture teachings concerning Divine sovereignty and salvation by grace, they do not at other points present that antagonism to the plain statements of the Word of God, that we cannot persuade ourselves is absent from high Calvinism. Note the following: (1) We leave the responsibility for the impenitent sinner's doom where the Scriptures always and consistently place it. In the case of those who heard Christ it was: "Ye will not come to Me that ye might have life." "I would . . . ye would not." In the case of those who had not the light of revelation it was: "They did not like to retain God in their knowledge." Not God's decree, but man's wilful rejection of light and mercy in the presence of all that God can do for his salvation, is the revealed cause of eternal death.

(2) We avoid charging God with insincerity. It is a revealed element in Divine perfection, that, whilst possessing a full knowledge of all the issues of his dealings with men, God yet acts as sincerely in the present as though the future were entirely unknown. Had a mere man gone to the grave of Lazarus with the intention and authority to raise the dead, could he have lingered in the present sorrow as Jesus did, and wept as though He knew nothing of the fast-coming joy and resurrection? So God, in representing Himself to us as intensely concerned for the salvation of many who, nevertheless, perish, is not playing a part. No human mind, as at present constituted, can possibly harmonise an eternal decree not to save with sincerity in a multitude of the words and deeds that are in the Scriptures attributed to the God of all grace. Many of the so-called mysterious contradictions of Scripture are entirely the creation of our own false interpretations.

(3) We strictly adhere to the Scripture statement as to the province of grace. "As by the offence of one, judgment came upon all men to condemnation; even so by the righteousness of one the free gift came upon all men unto justification of life." We have no more authority for declaring that all men are under condemnation, than we have for maintaining that the free gift has come within reach of all. Both stand or fall together. The fact that a gift is rejected does not in any wise impeach the reality of the provision and offer of that gift.

Then, again: "Where sin abounded, grace did much more abound." If Calvinism has in all things spoken the truth, there are vast tracts of moral being where sin has abounded, but where not only grace has not abounded, but where God never intended that it should. But some may here appeal to facts, and maintain that in many cases there is manifestly no superabounding grace. To such we say, You have no reliable vision for these things. "God is good to all; and his tender mercies are over all his works." Who of us could have seen in Rahab's conduct a warrant for a high place in faith's list of heroes? How good, how kind, how longsuffering, God shows himself continually to those whose lives are cased in sin, we can but faintly realise yet. Meanwhile, let God be true.

I close for the present with two remarks; —FIRST: There is no impeachment of the reality of the Spirit's workings in the soul of man in the fact that man can resist his gracious influences; nor of the truth that salvation is of God alone in the fact that man must heartily consent to be saved; nor of the truth that eternal life is in every case a gift of grace in the fact that when offered it can be refused or accepted.

Christ's plain and beautiful words perfectly harmonise all Scripture statements on this question: "Behold, I stand at the door and knock: if any man hear my voice and open the door, I will come in to him, and will sup with him, and he with Me." Here is grace indeed, boundless grace: and in every case where there is realised the blessed presence and fellowship of Jesus, it is all of grace. Nevertheless, in seeking this holy consummation, the Saviour acknowledges the existence of man's right to control the entrance to the banqueting chamber, and requires that it shall be exercised in his favour ere He enters. We have here neither the one extreme nor the other. Man is not, on the one hand, represented as of his own movement, and when and as he chooses, going forth to seek the Saviour: the Saviour comes, and stands in pleading presence at his door. Nor, on the other, is Christ represented as forcing his way within, regardless of any consent, co-operation, or welcome on the part of the inmate. "IF any man hear my voice, and open the door" is the plain condition of his entrance.

SECOND: A word to those who are burdened with the mysteries of God's dealings with other souls. There is only one case in which, as yet, we possess anything like sufficient material upon which to base a judgment as to God's conduct towards a human soul, and that is our own. I know that God has dealt with my soul in boundless mercy; that in my case He has been slow to anger; that there have been times in my life when, had He left me to my sin, I could only have said it was what I deserved; that if I should ever find myself among the lost, it would be in spite of infinite mercy and longsuffering on God's part. If, then, I am to think of God according to dealings with my case, I not only have not a vestige of a warrant for a hard thought about Him, but am bound to call upon everything that is within me to praise Him as "The Lord, the Lord God, merciful and gracious, longsuffering and abundant in goodness and truth." And thoroughly believing that "He is the Lord, and changeth not," and is "no respecter of persons," we may confidently expect that, with his unchangeable character, He will one day manifestly harmonise his dealings with every soul. Meanwhile, with his goodness so manifest in the one case where we have any right to express an opinion, can we not trust Him with regard to all others where the full facts of men's conduct towards God and his towards them will never be known until the day when "all secrets shall be revealed"?

C. G. M.

THE THEATRICAL MISSION.

DEAR SIR,—The report in your last issue of the meeting at Mildmay for the "Theatrical Mission" is, unfortunately, in many points misleading. In the first place, the reference to Mrs. Kendal is erroneous; in the paper she read, and to which I referred, she deals with certain recognised evils of the theatre as it is, not to "enormities perpetrated behind the scenes"—words which neither she nor I should think of using. It is the temptations to which playgoers expose players, the late hours when the theatre is quitted, and the evils at the stage-door, far more than the green-room which need reform, and much that we deplore could be easily remedied.

The reporter has depicted ours as almost a hopeless work. He has unwittingly left out of my address the many bright rays of spiritual blessing alluded to: true conversions, instances of self-denial, and whole-hearted consecration; and I therefore appeal to you, in justice to myself and to the much-slandered class of people amongst whom we are working, to correct in your readers' minds so gloomy a picture.

Statistics of "Stage Immorality" could not be obtained, so it is impossible I could have mentioned such figures as quoted. Moreover, thank God, this mission is far more a protective and preventive than a rescue work, and in these phases it has received the most blessing.

Lastly, it was the Bishop of London, and not the Primate who expressed his views of the "Church and Stage Guild," and Canon Shuttleworth was mentioned by me as one of its lecturers only—the stage being alluded to as the "Daughter of the Church," not by him, but in one of the Guild publications, although, of course, his sympathies are known to be with its promoters!

Yours faithfully, COURTHOPE TODD.

[We very much regret the inaccuracy of the report we received.—ED.]

THE ELECTION AND THE SUNDAY QUESTION.—Mr. C. Hill, Secretary of the Working Men's Lord's Day Rest Association writes, asking our readers not to forget those candidates who will maintain intact the day of holy rest. There are very few questions which are pushed to the front of more vital importance to the highest good of the people than the conservation of the day of rest.

PROSECUTION BY GOVERNMENT.

IT is necessary that offenders against the public weal should be brought to justice, and the country has given the Government power to prosecute. But every power may be abused or misapplied, and it is necessary that the exercise of this power should be jealously watched if it is necessary that it should exist.

There is an important difference between the trial of a cause between two contending parties before a judge who has no interest in either, and a Government prosecution; for in this case the judge is the minister of the Government which prosecutes.

In a private case the counsel on either side may be justified in presenting the case of his client in the best, and that of the other side in the worst, possible light. He is engaged with the object of getting a verdict for his own side. But in a Government prosecution the aim of the prosecuting counsel should not be to obtain a verdict at any price, but to arrive at the truth. The defendant, equally with the accuser, is a subject of the realm, and entitled to the protection of the Crown, and the prosecuting counsel is not engaged or paid by the plaintiff, but by the country, and therefore proportionately by the defendant himself. He consequently has a right to as much consideration as the plaintiff.

It is quite possible that the Government might be justified in proceeding against an accused or suspected person, who yet might be innocent, and we have placed in the hands of Government a very dangerous weapon in the person of the Public Prosecutor, if he should suppose that his duty is, not to arrive at the truth but to obtain a verdict. If the Government should undertake a prosecution and find the accused innocent, it should be a cause of satisfaction and not of regret; for it is not the interest of a country or a Government to multiply its criminals. If a prosecution were undertaken in good faith and with sufficient apparent cause, the Government would not be discredited, but the reverse, by an impartial trial resulting in acquittal.

It is of immense importance to the people that it be borne in mind that when the acutest legal acumen in the country is the diamond point worked by the powerful engine of the State, his duty to the State is that he shall bore straight through the hard rocks of contending evidence, and not swerve to the right or left. In the recent trial, the counsel for the prosecution did not take this view of the case. They could not have acted in more decided opposition to it had they been engaged by Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong to obtain a verdict for them, instead of being engaged by the country to sift the case and to see strict justice done towards every defendant as much as to the adverse witnesses.

We have heard a good deal lately about the country being disgraced in the eyes of other nations by the recent revelations. But the saddle has been put upon the wrong horse. The real disgrace has been that for four years the revelations of the Lords Committee, which were to the full as terrible as those of Mr. Stead, have been allowed to lie as a dead letter, while the cry of our murdered girlhood has gone up to God. The country was disgraced by the refusal of the Government to prosecute the infamous Mrs. Jeffries, and is still disgraced by her being permitted to pursue her infernal trade. The country was and is disgraced by the selfish and criminal silence, and, when it speaks, by the misrepresentation of the Metropolitan Daily Press.

Had the Public Prosecutor done his duty, Mrs. Jeffries would have been prosecuted by the Government, and the case would have been heard in open court instead of being hushed up by a plea of guilty agreed upon in secret conclave. Then the Pall Mall investigations would have been unnecessary, and Rebecca Jarrett would not have been thrust into as difficult a position as could have befallen a sinner whom the goodness of God had led to repentance. A comparison of the evidence, even as reported by themselves, with their leading articles, sufficiently demonstrates this.

But the Government, being already in a false position in consequence of its refusal to prosecute Mrs. Jeffries, and its neglect to prosecute a hundred others as vile or viler, was goaded into the other false position of prosecuting a number of persons comparatively innocent. The evident and offensive animus of the prosecuting counsel and the magistrate at Bow-street sufficiently showed the spirit in which the prosecution was undertaken.

The conscience of the nation was never with this action of the Government. It was and is a puzzle and an anomaly, that those who, at the peril of character and life, produced the evidence which compelled the Government, at the point of the bayonet of public opinion, to pass the Criminal Law Amendment Act, should immediately after be prosecuted and imprisoned. It puzzles all right-minded people that the British Government, which passed the infamous Contagious Diseases Acts, and compelled the examination of many thousands of victims, to ensure their fitness for the shambles, should take such action on account of an offence which was infinitesimal in comparison.

Mr. Stead was confessedly and professedly the chief offender, but public opinion would not endure that he should severely suffer. But his agent in one particular case was a reformed woman, and there was a grim poetic tit-for-tat in her becoming the scapegoat to bear the penalty of the crime of seeking better laws for the protection of women and children.

We cannot speak too highly of the transparent candour of Mr. Stead throughout, nor of his noble confession of his share of the blame of the discrepancy of evidence between himself and Jarrett, and we believe he would rather have borne the heavier sentence than that it should have fallen on her. The untruth she told about the number of the house was forced out of her by the cross-examination, which had no other apparent object in going over her past life except to catch her tripping, to discredit her testimony, and then to denounce her as a perjured witness.

Mrs. Butler's pamphlet, which will be ready in a few days (at this office, 6d.), will prove to most minds that the theory set up by the prosecution about her is impossible, and the view of the case based upon it untenable.

The Judge had minimized the indictment down to the smallest possible issue, and there was no doubt, from the evidence, of the child having been taken without the consent of the father. But there was no contention that Jarrett had ever told Mr. Stead that the father had sold the child. And Mr. Stead, as he has not only admitted, but again and again asserted, was more responsible than Jarrett, inasmuch as what she did was done under pressure of a peculiarly powerful and painful kind.

Of the exceedingly one-sided and injudicial summing-up of the Judge we have before spoken, and will only now say that the more we examine it in the light of all the evidence, the more strongly we are convinced of its great partiality. Mr. Justice Lopes went out of his way to declare that the Pall Mall "revelations" were and ever would be a disgrace to journalism. We think that the decision of the learned Judge in this trial, like that of the flagrant Poole perjury case, has been in some particulars, and ever will be, a disgrace to jurisprudence.

We are thankful that the Queen has graciously ordered Mr. Stead to be treated as a first-class misdemeanant, instead of as a felon, lying on a plank bed and clothed in a felon's dress. But Rebecca Jarrett's sentence remains unchanged, and the time will not be long before those who are open to conviction are convinced that she has been grossly misrepresented, and that a Public Prosecutor may be a very dangerous tool.

NOTES FROM ADELAIDE.

THE Y.M.C. Association have a new building in Gawler-place. It is a pity it is a little off the main thoroughfare, as it is found not so easy to get young men to come in to the various services as it was in the old place in Rundle-street. It is lamentable to see the crowds of young men who throng the principal streets every evening, Sunday included. They lounge about in the most listless manner, a power for evil, yet each one might be a power for good!

It was pleasant on Sunday evening to meet a band of workers, ten or a dozen strong, singing Songs and Solos in the streets. They were all young men. They confined themselves entirely to singing and giving out notices of the meetings. This seems a good plan, as some of the hymns contain excellent Gospel, and, well sung, it is attractively presented, and more attention is probably paid to the song than would be accorded to speaking.

An excellent mission is being conducted in the Congregational Church at North Adelaide, by two Irish friends, Mr. Thomas Houston, "the blind evangelist," assisted by Mr. H. T. Fry. They have travelled through several of the up-country towns, where they have accomplished an excellent work, and are looking forward to holding missions in different parts of Adelaide amongst various denominations who have invited them. The services are exceptionally bright, cheerful, and thorough.

Undoubtedly, one of the religious features of the place is the local branch of the Salvation Army. An old gentleman, who is intimately acquainted with the colonies, told me he had been an atheist until about three years ago, and now he is a spiritist, so he had no sympathy with Christian doctrines. Though he thought the Salvation Army a great nuisance to many people, yet there were not half the drunken men about that there were four years ago. There were also hundreds of families about the colony now happy and comfortable which a few years ago were miserable, and he says this is entirely due to the efforts of the Salvation Army. This I hear confirmed from various sources.

The Methodists are preparing to celebrate their Jubilee next year. God has abundantly blessed them during the half-century shortly about to close. It is proposed to raise the sum of £60,000 as a thankoffering during the year 1886 and two following years, to be principally applied in reducing the indebtedness of many of the stations.

The Social Purity question, as well as the rescue of girls and protection for them from local minotaurs, are happily being kept well to the front in South Australia. It is to be hoped that some strenuous action may be taken and the vice stamped out with stern and unrelenting vigour.

H. W. Fry.

WORKING GIRLS IN LONDON.—The Skinners' Company have given a donation of twenty guineas to the Homes for Working Girls in London.

THE EASTERN CRISIS.

By H. GRATTAN GUINNESS.

THE PRESENT CRISIS IN THE EASTERN QUESTION IN RELATION TO SCRIPTURE PROPHECY.

THE present sudden re-opening of the Eastern Question, supposed by many to have been settled for a generation at least at the Berlin Conference seven years ago, may be a surprise to those who think that sovereigns and statesmen are the makers of history, but not to those who recognise that the Most High ruleth in the kingdoms of men.

Twenty-five centuries ago God made known to Daniel the period during which Moslem power was to endure, and that period, reckoned from the Mohammedan capture of Jerusalem, closes in four years from the present date. Western Europe may band itself together to uphold the independence of the Ottoman Porte as much as it will; it may conclude treaty after treaty with that end in view, but all its attempts are and will be in vain; for the purpose of God must stand, and inspired prophecy assures us that his purpose is that the Ottoman power in Palestine shall cease, and that, if our interpretation be correct, before the close of this decade.

Is this a rash, presumptuous statement? For three centuries before the end of the temporal power of the Papacy, students of prophecy had understood from Scripture, and stated in their expository works, that it would terminate between A.D. 1866 and 1870, as it actually did. The same system of interpretation that led them to the anticipation thus verified by history, leads now to the conclusion above stated, that the end of Mohammedan power in Syria is close at hand. The present re-opening of the Eastern question may be, and probably is, the beginning of the end—the commencement of the last stage of the long struggle. A further brief postponement of the inevitable may possibly happen, but if it does, the reprieve will be even shorter than that secured by the Berlin Treaty, for there is little room to doubt that A.D. 1889 will witness the complete collapse of Mohammedan power, at any rate in Syria. A statement of the grounds on which this conclusion is based will doubtless prove interesting to your readers at this crisis. I will endeavour to give as brief a one as I can, divested of extraneous matter, however strongly corroborative.

And first I must be allowed to recall a few unquestioned Biblical, historic, and astronomic facts.

(1) The final restoration of God's ancient people, the Jews, is as largely predicted as is their present dispersion, in countless passages of Scripture, such as "He that scattered Israel will gather him" (see also Isaiah xi. 11, 12).

(2) Connected with the restoration of the people of Israel is a promise of deliverance of their land from Gentile oppression, and of Jerusalem itself and the Temple site from subjection to aliens.

(3) Since the time of its destruction by Titus, Jerusalem has been desolated and Palestine oppressed by two great Gentile powers, and by two only, the Roman and the Mohammedan. The latter has trodden down Jerusalem in its two successive forms, Saracenic and Ottoman, or Turkish. Jerusalem was destroyed by the Romans in A.D. 70, conquered by the Saracens in A.D. 637, and is trodden down by the Turks to this day.

(4) In Dan. xii. 7—11, chronological limits are assigned to the desolations of Jerusalem. Their duration is fixed by the expression "1290 days."

(5) Nature measures years of different lengths, and the proportion of the solar year to the lunar year is such, that 1260 lunar are 1222½ solar; while 1290 lunar years are 1251·2 solar.

(6) The original destruction of Solomon's Temple, and the overthrow of Jerusalem in the reign of Zedekiah, took place in the nineteenth year of Nebuchadnezzar, B.C. 587, after a series of victorious attacks on the city, and deportations of Jews to Babylon extending over the twenty previous years, during the first of which Daniel himself was carried captive.

(7) The Saracenic conquest of Jerusalem, in A.D. 637, was the closing incident of a series of most remarkable campaigns, extending over four years, in the course of which the whole of Northern Syria and Palestine Proper fell before the fanatical Moslem hordes, under the leadership of Caled, who was called "The Sword of God." Damascus fell first, and a great victory was gained over the Imperial army of the Eastern Empire at the battle of Aiz-Nadin, July, A.D. 633. From the conquest of Damascus the Saracens advanced on that of Baalbec and Emesa. The subjugation of the plain and vale of Syria occupied two years, A.D. 634-5; the battle of Yermuk, near the Springs of Hermon, in which the Saracens overthrew the great army sent to defend his Syrian Province by Heraclius, the Eastern Roman Emperor, took place in A.D. 636; and then, in the following year, the Siege of Jerusalem commenced, and lasted four months. It yielded at length to the besiegers, and the Caliph Omar, who founded the mosque which bears his name, and still occupies the site of Solomon's Temple, entered the city after having signed the capitulation. The Patriarch Sophronius, while bowing before his new master, secretly muttered the words, "The abomination of desolation stands in the holy place."

The four years of Mohammedan conquest in Syria, 633 to 637, correspond in duration and character with the four years of the Roman war which ended with the Titus capture of Jerusalem, A.D. 66 to 70. By the Romans the daily sacrifice was taken away; by the Mohammedans the desolation of Jerusalem was completed. The years 633 to 637 witnessed the full establishment in Palestine and in Jerusalem of the final desolating power, the power which still treads down the city of the Great King.

(8) The year A.D. 1860 was a remarkable year in the history of the Jews and of their country. It was the year of the horrible Druze massacre of the Christians in the Lebanon and at Damascus. That massacre was connived at, if not planned by the Turkish Government. The remonstrances of the European Consuls in the country were treated with neglect and contempt. The Christians were disarmed by the authorities, and left like defenceless sheep to be butchered by their bloodthirsty enemies, the Druzes. Thousands of innocent lives and millions of property were sacrificed, and the total apathy and the incompetence of the Turkish Government to maintain order was such, that the Great Powers of Europe intervened. Syria was occupied by French troops and an English fleet anchored at Beyrout. The result was the conclusion of the treaty by which Northern Syria was placed under a Christian governor, and the welfare of its inhabitants secured by a restriction of the Turkish power insisted upon by European compulsion. The year, in short, witnessed a marked, though partial deliverance of the Holy Land from Mohammedan oppression; it witnessed the turn of the tide. The condition of Palestine and Syria have ever since been improving, and the contrast of what they are to-day and what they were twenty-five years ago is remarkable.

The year 1860 also witnessed the foundation of "The Universal Israelite Alliance," an organisation which has now reached its twenty-fifth anniversary, and has reconstituted the Jews, scattered throughout the world, into an organised body, for the first time since their dispersion in the days of Titus. It is a patriotic association for the help and protection of the Jewish people, its aim being to secure in every country Jewish emancipation and liberty, and the intellectual and moral regeneration of the people. It is an alliance which now has branches not only in every nation, but almost in every city and town in which Jews are resident; and t has given to the scattered people a sense of unity and mutual help, to which for long centuries they had been strangers.

It has connected with it numerous schools and educational establishments, especially an agricultural school in Palestine itself, founded under a conviction that only by inducing them to turn their attention to agriculture could the Jews in Palestine be benefited. In 1870 it obtained an Imperial firman by which the Porte leased to it, for an indefinite period, a splendid piece of land in the neighbourhood of Jaffa, where an agricultural establishment was founded. 25,000 vine trees were planted, and gardens, farm buildings, orange, lemon, and pomegranate plantations have sprung up around this school of practical agriculture, which trains Jewish youth for productive industry in the land of their fathers.

The importance of the Universal Israelite Alliance to the fortunes of the Jewish people cannot well be over-estimated. Its headquarters are in Paris, but its influence is felt and its beneficial action on behalf of the Jews exerted everywhere, from Persia to Morocco. The twenty-five years of its existence have been especially a period of rènaissance to the seed of Abraham, who are once more possessed, by its means, of what the French call "solidarité."

To the above statements, each of which is absolutely unquestionable, I add two more, universally and unhesitatingly admitted by the greater number of those who have studied the predictions of Scripture in the light of history, including Sir Isaac Newton and a host of other eminent men.

(1) That the days in Daniel's prophecy are symbols for years, "time times and a half," or three and a half years, or 1260 days, meaning 1260 years, and 1290 days similarly meaning 1290 years.

(2) That twice 1260 years, or 2520 years, are the appointed length of "the times of the Gentiles;" or the interval between the commencement of the Babylonish captivity in the days of Jehoakim and the still future deliverance of Israel. This period is the great "seven times" of prophecy, the lifetime, if I may so say, of the fourfold image of Gentile monarchy, shewn to Nebuchadnezzar. It is the period spoken of by our Lord in the passage, "Jerusalem shall be trodden down by the Gentiles, until the times of the Gentiles" be fulfilled.

To adduce proof of these two last statements would, of course, be impossible here. It will be found in abundance in my work on "The approaching End of the Age" (Hodder & Stoughton) and elsewhere. For the present

I take these positions for granted, as they are endorsed by the wisest and most learned prophetic interpreters.

The 1260 years of the Prophecy we are considering is the latter half of this great week of years. It measures in Scripture prophecy and in actual history various great episodes of Jewish and Church history, extending from several different starting points to several corresponding termini, as I may perhaps show in another article. In the prophecy we are now considering (Daniel xii.) it leads up to the conclusion of the scattering of the power of the holy people; while with the addition of thirty years, making it 1290, it brings the deliverance of Jerusalem from "the abomination that maketh desolate" (Daniel xii. 7, 11).

We have seen that the year 1860 witnessed the first stage of the removal of Mohammedan power from Syria, and the formation of the "Universal Israelite Alliance." It may consequently be regarded as the first commencement of the re-constitution of the Jewish nation. It marks the first close of "the scattering of the power of the holy people," and the first loosening of the grasp of the Mohammedan conqueror on the Holy Land. It may be regarded consequently as in a sense the era of incipient Jewish restoration.

Now the question arises, how is this year, 1860, related chronologically, first, to Nebuchadnezzar's capture of Jerusalem in the days of Zedekiah, and, secondly, to the Mohammedan capture of Jerusalem in the time of the Kaliph Omar. The answer is solemn, and profoundly interesting.

It is separated from A.D. 637, the date of the Omar capture, by exactly 1260 lunar years, and it is separated from B.C. 587, the date of the Zedekiah capture, by precisely double that interval, 2520 lunar years, or "seven times" on the lunar scale. In other words, the Saracenic conquest of Jerusalem, A.D. 637, exactly bisects the 2520 years of the great week of "the times of the Gentiles," reckoned on the lunar scale. Any one can prove this by making the requisite calculations for himself, remembering that 1260 lunar years are only 1222 and a half solar, and that in adding A.D. to B C. periods, one year must always be substracted.

Add the Omar date, A.D. 637, to the Zedekiah date, B.C. 587 (fifth month), substracting one, and the result is 1222½; add a second 1222½ to the central Omar date, and it brings you to the incipient restoration date, A.D. 1860. This year, 1860, is therefore removed by "seven times" lunar from the completion of Jewish desolation, in the eleventh year of Zedekiah; and it is "time, times and a half" from Omar's capture of Jerusalem.

It is owing to the fact that it is the lunar year which has been divinely employed in the chronological prediction, that its fulfilment is not more commonly recognised. The Mohammedans, however, use the lunar year. Their calendar is exclusively lunar, as is well known. Hence it was appropriate that the lunar year should be used in chronological statement as to their history. Its employment is, moreover, one means by which a veil of intentional mystery has been thrown over the subject. This prophecy itself distinctly asserts that its own chronological statements were not intended to be clearly understood, at the time it was given, nor for long afterwards: "The words are closed up and sealed until the time of the end," and only Godly students were ever to understand it. "None of the wicked shall understand, but the wise shall understand"—i.e., in "the time of the end."

But, though not so obvious as to force themselves on the attention of men, these chronological facts are, when once observed, uncontrovertible. 1260 lunar years are 1222½ solar, and this is precisely the interval which separates from each other the three dates, B.C. 587 (fifth month), A.D. 637, and A.D. 1860. The final stage of the Babylonian overthrow of Jerusalem, accompanied by the burning of Solomon's Temple; the Saracenic capture of the city, accompanied by the erection of the Mosque of Omar on the Temple site; and the year which witnessed the beginning of Jewish reorganisation on the one hand, and of the fall of Mohammedan power in the Holy Land on the other, bear this remarkable and predicted chronological relation to each other.

But to proceed, an addition of thirty years, or a prophetic month, to the main period of 1260, is, according to this prophecy, to end the reign of the final desolator of Jerusalem, to bring to a close Mohammedan rule in Syria. Now 1860, plus 30 lunar years, is 1889, four years from the present time. In that year, 1888-9, consequently, we may expect to see Jerusalem liberated from Turkish power, though it is impossible to say at present by what means or with what direct and immediate result.

The prophecy does not state that the full restoration of Israel will take place at that date, nor is it likely so to do; the renaissance of a nation does not take place in a year, nor in a decade. Like the fall of a nation, it has many stages, and it may stretch over a considerable time. The renaissance of Israel has already been going on for 100 years or more. The removal of civil disabilities by emancipation bills passed by all the Governments of Europe since the French Revolution; the consequent advance of the Jews in power, wealth, and learning, in numbers, influence, and social status, are proofs of the fact.

As to the elevation of their country, Palestine, its present condition is an amazing advance on that of a century, or even half a century ago. Jewish colonisation in that country is already considerable, and has recently begun to promise most hopefully for the future, prosperous agricultural colonies being already in existence, as at Zimmarin. Already a larger number of Jews have returned to Palestine than did so after the Babylonish captivity; and the introduction of a better Government than that under which the country has so long groaned would no doubt wonderfully stimulate and expedite its colonisation by the seed of Abraham, especially as the homes of their exile in Russia and in Germany have been made so painful to them of late years.

Much, however, remains to be done before a revived Jewish nation will be seen in Palestine; but events move quickly in these days, and great changes come about in short periods. We say nothing here, be it observed, as to the date of the restoration of Israel. That great event will not probably have any date; it will mark an era, not a year, and that era is undoubtedly the 19th century. Jewish restoration has begun, and will go on with ever-increasing velocity. But the fact to which I call attention in connection with the present crisis is that an event which must have a material influence on Jewish restoration—the liberation of the Holy Land and Jerusalem from Moslem tryanny—seems, according to prophecy, due to take place in 1888-9.

In a prophetic conference, held last May in London, I pointed solemnly to this fact, and indicated 1889 as a probable year of crisis in the overthrow of Turkish power in Syria, in order to the restoration of the Jews. I pointed out that Lord Beaconsfield's "Anglo-Turkish Convention" treaty could not stand, because it was in opposition to the counsels of God. In it he pledged England to uphold the Turkish power in Asia, including, of course, Syria and Palestine. The omnipotent God, on the other hand, had determined that Palestine and Jerusalem should be freed, and freed speedily from Moslem domination, and what are statesmen, that they should withstand God? It is vain to kick against the pricks. The treaty is already broken, and no effort to maintain Turkey will be of any use.

Jerusalem fell before Omar, after a four years' war; have we not already entered on another four years' struggle, which will close with the liberation of Syria and Palestine from Moslem power? Who shall say? It will be intensely interesting to Bible students to watch the development of the next few years. That we are living in the rapids of the last days, no intelligent Christian can doubt. The final prophecies of Scripture are year by year fulfilling before our eyes; the sceptical generation which boldly denied the occurrence or possibility of miracles, in the world of matter, is thus confronted with what is even more wonderful, miracle in the world of mind—miracle in the realm of history. It is witnessing the fulfilment of predictions, made 25 centuries ago, by holy men of God, who spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost.

Of the relation of the overthrow of Turkey, and the restoration of Israel to the great hope of the Church, the Second Advent of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ, I say nothing here; but I may close by quoting his own words: "When these things begin to come to pass, then look up and lift up your heads, for your redemption draweth nigh."
—Record.

MISSION WORK IN SWITZERLAND.

AT Brighton, to a large and appreciative assembly, in the Emmanuel Church Lecture Hall, Dr. J. Anderson recently gave an account of a tour in Switzerland, with notes of Gospel mission work. Bible-readings were held in Lausanne, Vevey, Zermatt, Thun, Interlaken, Villars, &c., the attendance at which in some cases was large. At Chesières, a mountain resort near Aigle, very interesting meetings were held, in which friends from Paris and Geneva assisted in Gospel addresses to the villagers. A Sunday afternoon service was held at Villars for the servants of the hotels. There is a great want in the hotels of suitable books for reading, and the landlords would gladly receive and take charge of any that might be sent to them.

The opportunities for Christian work on the Continent, especially as regards teaching from God's Word, are absolutely boundless; and, taking the whole of the societies and agencies together, there is a great evangelistic work in progress. The need for earnest, well-taught labourers is very urgent, for the truths of the Bible are to a great extent repudiated, and the inspiration of the Scriptures is more or less denied both in France and Switzerland. For some time yet the help must come from English-speaking people, who are well instructed in the Word of God, and able to some extent to speak French and German. A well-conducted Bible Training Institution, specially, but not exclusively, for Continental mission work, would be an immense help to many.

RED HOUSE HOME FOR DESTITUTE BOYS.

Musselburgh.—The annual sale of work on behalf of this Home took place on Friday and Saturday, 6th and 7th inst., in the Masonic Hall, Edinburgh. It was opened on Friday by Rev. John Smith, of Broughton-place U.P. Church, and on Saturday by Rev. Alexander Wright, of Musselburgh, both of whom warmly commended the Home. The amount received during the two days was £358. The boys of the Home and the children from the Misses Logan's Home were present, and helped to enliven the proceedings. Many old friends came to testify in a practical way their interest in the work.

MR. HAMMOND IN LONDON.

THE NOTTING-HILL MEETINGS.

THE series of meetings for children in Trinity Presbyterian Church, Kensington Park-road, (Dr. Sinclair Paterson's), has now been concluded. They have been much blessed and owned of God. Those who were in frequent attendance could not but feel that the work deepened, and that the Spirit of God was present in much power. Many children and young people have been brought to a saving knowledge of Jesus as their Saviour, and are now living lives which testify to their true conversion. Boys, who had come in scoffing, have been impressed at the after-meeting, when they were directly spoken to, with kindness and earnestness, by some Christian worker. Next night they would come in a very different spirit, and, instead of trying to disturb the meeting, they would ask their mates if they would not also give their hearts to the Saviour.

These meetings have also been of much blessing to some who, though Christians, had not before known the joy of working for Jesus, or of leading anxious souls to Him. One girl, speaking to some others who also loved the Lord Jesus, said: "Won't you go and try to lead some to Jesus? I only began the other day, and you don't know how good it is!" And that is the testimony of so many. Among the workers, three converted Mahommedan girls created great interest. It was most touching to see them going in and out among the children, and speaking to one and another of Jesus, their faces beaming with joy and graciousness.

Many incidents of special interest might be mentioned. Some children in a family were brought to the Lord at the first meeting, and have been testifying of the change by their lives since, amidst much opposition at home. A little girl, who gave her heart to Christ at one of the meetings, when asked afterwards, how she knew she had done so, answered: "Because when mother tells me to do anything, I don't wait till she tells me twice, but do as I am bid at once." A boy of fourteen, going home from one of the meetings, went up to his grandmother, and said: "I think I have given my heart to Jesus, granny." Since then, on his way out to one of the Colonies, he has written back: "The people on the ship wanted me to take grog with them, and tried me very hard, but I prayed to the Lord, and He helped me, and I was able to resist, and not take it. This is my first victory for God."

As a testimony of the reality of the work going forward in London, as results of Mr. Hammond's ministry, we may give the following letter, which dates from Walworth:—

"Dear Mr. Hammond,—It is with great joy that I write this letter, for it is my duty to enclose letters which several of the little ones have wished might be sent on to you. God has put it into the heart of a Christian brother to lend me his room one night a week, when I meet with nine young converts who are some of the fruit of your Haddon Hall Mission. We hold a prayer-meeting, when each one of them prays and testifies for Jesus. It does one good to be with them. Besides these, many are holding on their way. Mr. W. Olney and several of us workers are forming a 'Young Christians' Band,' in which they will be encouraged to go on in the Christian life."

Another extract from a letter received will be read with special interest:—

"Our Aziz Padrí Sahib Salàmat,—Grace be unto you, and peace from God our Father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ. . . . We have been enjoying these meetings so very much, and I am sure when we will all meet in heaven we will often speak about them, and the happy times we have all had together with you and the kind Mem Sahibás and Lady Sahibás, and gentlemen who, because they love the Lord Jesus too, have been near you every day telling about Him. Our darling Miss Sahibás have been taking us to your services as often as they could, because they felt that God was opening the windows of heaven, and we must be all there to get his sweet blessings on our hearts, to tell our dear country-people about Jesus when we go back, and that this was more, even more important, than to have as many lessons as usual; and when you are gone we could study all the harder, with fresh love for the Lord Jesus, singing sweeter music in our hearts."

There was much more, characteristic of the ardent feelings of the writers. But it needs no word to reveal that the letter comes conjointly from the three young girls—daughters of the East, the children of a Mahommedan family, of whom mention has already been made.

Monday, last week, was looked upon as the last time there would be a service conducted by Mr. Hammond at Notting-hill, but there is an expectation that he may be persuaded to return for a short term to Trinity Presbyterian Church. There were so many "last words" to be spoken, so many crowding around the evangelist, as if the last time they might see his face, and wistfully gathering up every crumb that could feed the new life that had been awakened in them, that it was late before the final partings were spoken. The prevailing feeling was joyousness, with some regretfulness that their might be no more such seasons of blessing.

LIGHT IN LONDON DARKNESS.

SINCE last writing a few words on the rescue work carried on near the "Elephant and Castle," we would add our continued testimony to help from God in this most difficult work. We are thankful now to devote all our time to that portion of South London where so many lost sisters congregate. Forty-five passed under our influence during the month of October. With the help of a rescued girl we have made our way into their rooms by day, and sought them in the street by night. This has led us more than once to the prison to meet a discharged one.

In A.'s case we knew her family had not received tidings of her for five years. The stage of the theatre had completed her ruin. As the gates of the prison closed upon us last week, the sister of a respectable tradesman exclaimed, "Oh, this would break my mother's heart if she knew it!" We believe the petitions of many an enduring mother will be heard "after many days." Friendless M. applied for help one wet morning; she had narrowly escaped the dark road of shame. A situation was found for her in a Christian family, where she is giving great satisfaction. She writes: "I constantly think of the way I was led to you, and the great kindness that took me in."

The last two girls it was our joy to bring to the Brixton Home were orphans, age seventeen and eighteen, exposed from early childhood to sights and sounds that would seem to make it impossible for any girl to remain virtuous.

We have one evening in the week set apart at the mission room, Trinity-street, to receive those wishing to begin a new life. We have many proofs that a quiet, loving influence exerted over the indifferent, the half-resolved, and the broken ones alike is not in vain.

To encourage any questioner longing to engage in this work, we would say the Lord as a Shield has become a great reality to us; very sweet it is to prove the truth of his precious Word!

Our great need is some temporary sleeping accommodation for many cases, which for various reasons we could not at once send to the Home. To save them from exposure to sin, or an "all night out," we have procured lodgings, but always under great difficulty. Rooms suitable for our purpose are now vacant, under the same roof as the mission room, and we are anxious to secure these at once, at a yearly tenancy. The rent asked is £55, and one friend has kindly promised an annual subscription of £25. We ask the help of others to enable us to meet this special expenditure. Any contributions may be sent to the Lady Superintendent, Deaconess House, Brixton, S.W.

A Mildmay Deaconess.

CHILDREN FOR JESUS.

WORKERS with God in his great cause,
  Go forth, though by the world reviled;
Work not to gain from man applause,
  But pray all night to gain a child!

Prove how you love your gracious Lord,
  Be trusting, pure, be firm and mild;
Go forth with love, and with the WORD
  Bring home to glory many a child.

The opening day and early spring,
  The buds and blossoms thickly piled,
And every other growing thing
  Proclaim the value of a child.

Yet children quickly learn deceit
  When by indulgence early spoiled,
And aping manhood's cool conceit,
  Show blighted beauty in the child.

"Now do the thing just like a man,"
  Such talk is surely vain and wild;
Let men, as men, do what they can,
  Nor seek for man's work from a child.

It is a pleasant sight to see
  In this wide world, by sin defiled,
Obedient truth with childish glee—
  God's Spirit working in a child.

Rescue the prey, the spoiler spoil,
  Go seize the captives so beguiled,
And drag them from the Serpent's coil;
  God is your strength, hold fast each child!

Blessing is hidden in your work,
  Upon it God has always smiled;
No longer urgent duty shirk,
  Go lead to Jesus many a child!

T. J. Hughes.

A LETTER TO LADS.

THE friend of the young, Mr. John Shrimpton, has written another "Letter to Lads," from which we make one or two extracts, to show the practical nature of the little brochure. It can be had of the Church of England Book Society, 11, Adam-street, Strand, price 2d., or 1s. 6d. per dozen.

"Let me now ask, 'How are you circumstanced relative to your evenings?' Do you make good use of them—not simply waste them, or perhaps do worse even than that? Are you applying yourself to study, or to the reading of some good book? A young fellow must be miserable and dark if he never reads his Bible, which really is the only book that can be 'a lamp unto his feet and a light unto his path;' its truth cheers, stimulates, and instructs; it is the oldest book in the world, and is indeed a precious gift. . . . .

"The lives of youths and young men depend much on the kind of friendships they make; and yet there are, I find, many who have companions of whom they know comparatively nothing; and many, too, become entangled with bad companions without counting the cost. Surely it is well to choose some friends older than one's self, and who are superior in something at least. It is impossible to form a long friendship with anyone who is your inferior in everything. . . . .

"Make Sunday the happiest day of the week; spend it wisely and well; on no account 'keep your bed' in the morning, at the cost of forsaking the house of God; count it a privilege to be a Christian and to render the best possible return in your power to the God who made, preserves, and has redeemed you. . . . .

"Until some time back I never knew the intense comfort of 'talking' to God. Now I am able to take every doubt, as well as every care, to Him. I could tell you of mighty answers to prayer, even in my own life; and to be accustomed to send 'telegrams' to God—in seasons of temptation, fear, and care—is such a tower of strength to daily life that I counsel you to cultivate the habit. It is the 'walking with God' that can alone keep you straight amid the increasing temptations of daily life."

THE DIMINUTION OF CRIME.—An interesting little pamphlet on this subject, dealing especially with the important part played by the St. Giles' Mission to Discharged Prisoners as a factor in the problem, has been issued by Mr. George Hatton, and may be had on application to him at 4, Ampton-street, Regent-square, W.C.

For the Young.

TWO CHINESE BOYS.

I AM sure there must be many of the young folks who regularly look out for their special piece in The Christian, to whom the missionary story is always interesting, and I fancy that not a few of those who read the page "For the Young" have a finger in the missionary pie themselves. I know many boys and girls who do a good deal in the way of helping missionary work by their ready earnestness in calling the attention of their seniors to their missionary box. One little girl, from whom I had a letter a few days ago, was just going to send in the contents of her collecting-box to the mission, and when she emptied it she found that it contained over three pounds.

I have no doubt that there are many who succeed in getting much more than this, but when the little collectors' circle of friends are among the poor in this world's goods, and the year's collection only comes to a few shillings, they should not be discouraged. If the little box is attended to, and the little offering of personal self-denial is given, for Jesu's sake, it will be as much thought of by Him as though the amount were far larger, and a great deal more thought of than those collections which are made for the sake of self-gratification in the obtaining of a larger amount than others.

In this far-away part of China it takes a long, long time for letters and newspapers to reach. I do not get them very regularly either. Sometimes I get letters once a month—and some of you would think that a long time to wait—but generally it is six weeks or more between the receipt of packages. It is now May 20, and The Christian of January 15 reached me on May 15—just four months after date.

Sometimes when I have been reading the young people's page, I have thought that I would like to tell you two simple little stories about two Chinese boys; and to-night I will try to do so. When you read about these boys, will you try to call to mind that they are real living boys, not story-book boys, and that they are as full of fun and frolic as most English boys? Whilst I write this I can hear one of them downstairs reading the story of the blind man in the 9th chapter of John's Gospel. The first boy I am to tell you about is called Lin Reu-seng. Lin is the name of his father, and Reu-seng is his given name. This boy is now about seventeen years old, and he has been for nearly four years at the "Jesus Hall," as the mission station is called. For the greater part of the time he has been in the school, but about a year and a half ago he began to act as a servant to Mr. C——. There was nothing in this boy naturally to make the missionary specially hopeful about him; indeed, he seemed to be particularly dull. When the simple story of how Jesus went about among men doing good was told to the children of the school, hardly a single idea appeared to remain in this boy's memory.

Very many prayers were offered for him and the other children by the missionaries, and, in the goodness of God, prayer was answered in his case. Reu-seng began to take more interest in what he heard, and to remember much of the Bible story. The truth did not seem to lay hold on his heart, however, and when I arrived here he seemed quite indifferent to the Gospel. In the summer of last year, about ten months ago, I started upon a missionary journey, taking Reu-seng with me to act as a servant. On this journey he performed his duties very well, but without my knowledge he managed to pilfer from me seven or eight shillings—a considerable sum in Chinese money. Now, however, the prayers and seed-sowing of dear Mr. and Mrs. C—— and Mrs. A—— were to bring forth fruit. The stolen money and the lies which he had to tell to cover his thefts began to weigh like lead upon his conscience. One evening, in a Chinese inn, when I had been through a very trying day, and was feeling downcast, the dear lad told me that he felt unwell. I gave him some medicine, and was preparing for bed, when he startled me by saying, "If I were to die to-night, I should go to hell."

I began to see that the Spirit of God was at work in his heart, and I replied, "Such a state of things need not continue another hour." I told him again the old, old story of Jesus and his love, and how he might be saved at once if he would. He then asked me to pray with him, and when I had done this he prayed for himself, and cried to God to forgive him all his sins. After we had risen from our knees, he begged me to forgive him for all his disobedience in the past, and to my astonishment told me about his theft, and brought me all the cash he had, to make restitution so far as possible, and asked me to keep back the remainder out of his wages. From that day onward Lin Reu-seng was a changed lad. He became humble and teachable, and earnest in prayer; and on March 12 last Mr. C—— baptized him in the waters of Lake Urh. This dear lad has faults, as all of us have, but I believe he strives and prays for grace, and is overcoming in the name of Jesus.

The other little boy is called Chou T'sung T'ien. He came to us about a year ago at his father's request, as his mother was dead, and his father was suffering from dropsy, and could not support the lad. He was a poor, half-starved, frightened looking little fellow when we first received him to have his food in the house. At this time he went home to sleep. For a long time the child was too timid to say much, and could hardly answer a question. By degrees, however, loving care and kindness broke down the barriers of shyness and reserve, and he became willing to tell us all his little heart. It was strange to notice the difference between this clear headed, earnest, and loving eight-year-old boy and his cruel, selfish, opium sodden father. He seemed to feel very much the ruin into which his father was sinking by his sin. The Gospel story began gradually to fasten itself in little T'sung T'ien's mind, and after a time I and Mr. S——, who was with me at that time, began to see, by his quiet attention and obedience, and his observance of private reading of the Bible and prayer, that they were no empty words when he said that he trusted and loved the Lord Jesus, and prayed for grace always to serve God.

I have often had long talks and prayer with him alone. I am sure that it would have warmed the hearts of the dear young folks in Old England if they could have heard his prayers a few nights ago. His father has been trying to sell him to a man about ten miles away, and we were praying that God would prevent this. The little fellow prayed very earnestly: "O Lord, Thou canst do everything. Please don't let my father sell me, but make him repent of his sins, and believe in Jesus, and be saved. Oh, Heavenly Father, we are all great sinners, and have no power to do good. Help me to trust Jesus, and to serve Him. Make me to be completely warm-hearted and true, and not in any way sin against Thee. Make the people of this city to come to Jesus, for Jesu's sake. Amen."

The dear lad is far more original and seemingly genuine in his prayers than many older men. When he has seen his father he has often pleaded with him to give up smoking opium and worshipping idols. The father says, "You too must worship the idols." "No," says the brave little confessor; "I worship the true God. These idols are only wood and earth, and can never save anybody. Jesus loves men, and can forgive their sins and save their souls." God grant that his words may influence his father and many others, and that in after years he may be a brave soldier of Jesus Christ, and an evangelist among his countrymen! Will you, dear children, pray for Reu-seng and T'sung T'ien, and for all of God's work in China, and pray that very many more missionaries may come out to preach the Gospel to them? F. A. S.

CHILDREN'S SCRIPTURE UNION.—Portions for the ensuing week:—Nov. 22, Exod. xii. 28—39; Nov. 23, xii. 40—51; Nov. 24, xiii. 17—22, xiv. 1—14; Nov. 25, xiv. 15—31; Nov. 26, xv. 1—19; Nov. 27, 20—27; Nov. 28, 1—10.

DIAMOND SCRIPTURE PUZZLE.

1. My first, a letter, found in seer;
   In prophet it does not appear.
2. One of the four of great renown
   Upon whose head was placed a crown.
3. This prophet disobeyed God's laws,
   And for this sin he punished was.
4. A city of the Philistines
   Near to which were planted vines.
5. Here lived a man of noble zeal,
   Who in his day made bold appeal.
6. The Centrals give a wicked king
   Who sorrow to his land did bring.
7. These Sabbath-breakers were afraid
   That hands on them might soon be laid.
8. At this Italian town, when prayed,
   Apostles for a full week stayed?
9. A king commanded long ago
   That men do this at Jericho.
10. The Psalmist said, in ages past,
    "Like men" this shall we do at last.
11. My last in Babel you may trace;
    But in confusion has no place?

[The central lines of the diamond, both horizontally and perpendicularly, form the same word.]
Liverpool. P. M. Nairn.

Additional answers to "The Buried Text," Rev. xxi. 7, have been received from A.L.V. E.A.B. P.M.N. M.L. M.A.M. S.T. E.M. A.B. E.A.F. A.L.J. J.N.L. E.L.H. B.M.J. G.E.B. O.S.F. M.A.S. E.B.H. J.M.G. J.B.D. A.L.D. E.H. L.C.S. A.K.P. I.M.N. M.M.C. E.C. L.W.

References to "The Bible Pyramid" given in our last are furnished to us by G.E.B. E.M.B. F.S. A.F.B. M.C. I.R. R.L B. A.L.P. E.S. F.P. E.McB. M.L. M.C. I.T.

MR. THORNE AT HARROGATE.

A TEN Days' Mission here has been completed by Mr. Henry Thorne, on the invitation of the Y.M.C.A. and a General Committee. The attendance from the first was encouraging, and continued to increase; an overflow meeting had to be held on the last Sunday afternoon. Two youths decided for Christ at the preliminary or workers' meeting, and there were inquirers after every evangelistic meeting, nearly all of whom were maidens and youths. In several instances two of a family, and in one instance three of a family, are rejoicing in their newly-found Saviour, while in many other cases a work of conviction has been evident, which we pray may ripen into conversion.

Christians too, have found much profit in the Bible-reading meetings as was evinced by the increasing attendance day by day. The meetings have given an impetus to Christian work in the town, as a consequence of believers being roused from the torpor into which many have confessed they were falling. The Y.M.C.A. and the Y.W.C.A. have both received additions to their numbers. Altogether the committee have confidence in recommending others to engage in similar services, especially when they can get the assistance of such an earnest and experienced servant of God as Mr. Thorne. W. D. D.

BRISTOL GOSPEL MISSION.—A friend of ours recently visited this excellent work, which, though not pretentious in name nor obtrusive in operation, is nevertheless being much used of God amongst the low and degraded in that city. An important feature is the lodging-house visitation on Sunday evenings, when a number of gentlemen in couples visit several large lodging-houses with the twofold object of inviting all who are willing to the Gospel service in the hall at Pennywell-road, and of preaching Christ to those who prefer a short meeting on the spot. This reaches a lower stratum than any touched by mission-hall services, and there are many hopeful cases of reclaimation. Open-air work, Temperance meetings, and Sunday-school also form a part of the weekly programme. Probably many Christians in Bristol would be glad to aid in such a devoted work if once acquainted with it. The secretary is Mr. C. J. Duck, 49, Stanley-street, Stapleton-road.

PRAYER FOR THE NATION.

THOSE who were led to call a meeting in Exeter Hall, on Thursday last, for prayer on behalf of the nation, must have been much encouraged by the large and hearty gathering of friends. The proceedings were almost entirely occupied with the consideration of the recent revelations, and the prosecution and punishment of Mr. Stead, &c. Miss Mason, Kilburn, presided during the day. At 10 a.m. the meeting opened with praise and prayer; after which Mrs. Haycraft earnestly spoke on the importance of securing, so far as possible, the return of moral men at the coming Parliamentary election.

Mrs. Josephine Butler said: It will not be thought foreign to the purpose of this meeting if I speak briefly of the events of the last fortnight. That fortnight has seemed to me in some sense the culminating climax of my life-work. For years I have been striving on behalf of the foully oppressed victims of lust. I see two mighty principles warring together in our nation. At present we may well say, "This is the hour and power of darkness." Outwardly we have had a great check: the enemy has gained a great victory. For seventeen years past I have been conscious to a great degree of the existence of the very crimes recently revealed, but I and my fellow-workers have found that the greatest obstacle to action regarding this immorality was general incredulity. The utter incredulity of good Christian people has been a greater hindrance than the wickedness of wicked people. Even now, what is our great obstacle? Incredulity. In all these years I have been asking God that this great barrier might be thrown down. At last the blow was struck. Our friend Mr. Stead, whom I have known for nine years, and know to be a good and true man, was trained by God for this great work; in agony of spirit, and in all the fury of a righteous man, indignant at the vile crimes committed against the weak and innocent, he rose and drew aside, with a rude hand if you like, the curtain from these odious crimes.

You may believe it or not, as you please, but I think we are living on the top of an inferno, walking about on a volcano which may burst at any moment and destroy us. And it seems to me impossible that God, looking on that hell raging beneath us, can bless us. Mr. Stead tore aside the curtain and revealed the abyss of crime and misery. In doing so he has overstepped the law; our zeal—I say "our," for I do not hesitate to admit I have been with him all through—our zeal for law was so great, our pity for the innocents ruined, wronged, betrayed, was greater than we could bear, and, like Jehu, we drove furiously. In so doing we may have done those things we ought not to have done, and left undone those things we ought to have done. But we did not ask your advice, and we do not ask your pardon. I believe it is true that in all times of great reform there have been zealous reformers who have overstepped the bounds of law and prudence. But this very fact has been overruled to bring the whole question into public knowledge.

There has been a great outcry in the papers. Of course there was a good deal of journalistic jealousy, but the great motive, I believe, has been the determination to silence, to check, to frighten the persons who had dared to draw aside such a curtain and reveal such crimes. It is, of course, extremely inconvenient for many persons to have the light of public knowledge and public opinion thrown upon their deeds. It does not suit them that anything should be known of these transactions; hence the conspiracy which exists among them to compel silence and to discredit the revelations already made. They waited to take breath, then searched out one little fault, one slip, and down they came with the whole resources of the Treasury behind them. And all this that we may be checked, frightened, silenced, and these things shut up and hidden. Then you know very well what would follow. The vile deeds, now somewhat checked, would go on again, and I say the issue would be a revolution, discontent, murmuring, class-hatred, and the judgment of God upon our nation.

In view of these things I say now is our time. It is my firm belief we stand, as it were, at the parting of the stream, and the question for each one to-day is, "Choose you this day whom you will serve." You have seen, no doubt, the leaders in the daily journals; in every one there is a current of rejoicing: "No one will venture to do the same thing again." I read as I came along in the train from Winchester the account of our dear friend in prison, of his room, too dark to read the Bible he loves. I read, too, the leading article in The Standard deprecating any expression of public sympathy for this criminal whose odious crimes against society have merited punishment. "Against society!" What society? The society of the clubs and brothels, not the society of God-fearing, moral people; not the society of humble and poor people. I tell you our sons and daughters have experienced a deliverance on account of the shock given to this criminal vice. But now seems the hour and power of darkness; our dear friend is in prison, and we are calling upon God for him. And, moreover, we are fully resolved, God helping us, that curtain shall not be drawn again (shouts of "Never!") Let us pray God this day that however painful it may be to a certain section of society, the great electric searching light shall fall upon every corner of this inferno. The one whose hand drew aside that curtain is in a prison cell. We have heard the verdict of the jury, but the verdict of the nation has yet to be given. Let us pray that the verdict given in a few weeks' time may be one of stern justice and purity, in accordance with God's will.

May I add a few words about my friend, Rebecca Jarrett? I would only say, suspend your judgment until you know the facts. You do not know, and I trust you never may know, what it is to be cross-examined by a keen, merciless lawyer, dragging up the sin and shame of the past, and doing so perfectly needlessly. Confused, bewildered, her brain ringing, she did utter a lie. She knows it, and confesses it. For two hours after her examination she was on her knees in her room, weeping before God: "I have lied; I have perjured myself; I have ruined this cause. But Thou knowest why I did it." Why? Because she was standing between two sacred vows. She had vowed to her own wicked people she would not reveal the past. In an evil moment, and to shield them, she gave a wrong address; and you remember how she wailed, "You drove me to tell that lie." Had she pity shown her? No! Every possible vocabulary of contempt was poured on her. What was she? "Nothing but a fallen woman." So they rounded on her like a pack of hounds. When I saw all this I was content; I saw God had a great purpose in it all. I was content she should bear the scorn and contempt, for high above that Court of Justice I saw the figure of my Saviour and hers, and I recalled how He sat at the table of Simon, a gentleman, a man of the world, and how a poor woman of the city crept to his feet and was not repulsed. Said the man of the world: "If this man were a prophet, if He were even a discerning man, He would know this woman, for she is a sinner." When I thought of his loving answer, I was well content. When they sneered at my credulity and blindness, I was well content, for they said the same of my Lord and hers.

Pray, then, for these two in their prison house, because a prison is not a happy place; it would be a trial to the best of us. We had a meeting at Winchester, before Rebecca went to prison, and men and women were there she had reclaimed from vice and sin. Canon Butler spoke on Paul and Silas rejoicing and singing praises in prison. Said Rebecca: "Don't bother for me, I feel I'll be all the better for it; I'll be alone with God, anyhow."

But I ask you to pray not so much for these as for the nation. The nation, especially in the north, is judging the matter on the broad lines of right and wrong. I want to say that I know that "Minotaur" described in The Pall Mall Gazette—and there are others like him. I do not know if the time may not come when their names will be known; it is not yet, and I will not mention any names. I could give the names of such men who systematically destroy and ravish the children of the poor. I have some in my own Home ruined by this man, turned into a mass of disease, some of them possessed as by fiends. The Government has turned its machinery of police and law against us who exposed these things, not against those who commit them. The new law is being put in force, not by the Government, but by private people. The police know these men as well as we do, but they prosecute those who go forth in the name of God to draw aside the veil and unmask this terrible evil. Let us go to God that He may overrule all things for good.

After prayer by various friends, a letter was read from Birmingham expressing sympathy, and allusion was made to meetings being held all over the country.

Mr. R. C. Morgan read and briefly expounded, as bearing on the question of the day, the first eight visions of Zechariah, all growing out of one another, and all given in one night.

Miss Mason remarked on the indecency of the articles appearing in many of the daily papers on Monday, before the second verdict, and before sentence was pronounced. She had also been struck by the curious similarity of tone in the leaders of certain well-known journals, which seemed as if they had emanated from some common source.

After prayer and the singing of a hymn, an interval of an hour was allowed for refreshment.

In the afternooon the friends re-assembled in augmented numbers. After praise and prayer,

Mr. Henry Varley referred with indignation to the treatment of Mr. Stead as a common criminal, and contrasted it with the consideration shown to Colonel Valentine Baker. He read an extract from a letter written by Mr. Stead, and proceeded to read Deborah's words in Judges v. 23—31. He commented somewhat severely on some of Mr. Justice Lopes' statements. Rev. B. Waugh, Secretary of the Society for the Protection of Young Girls, has, he said, issued a paper which begins in the middle of August and ends with the close of September, and which gives a list of ninety-eight girls and women outraged in these six weeks. A criminally-silent Press hunts us down because we dare not keep silence. Some tell me I almost exceed the delicacy which becomes a public speaker when I refer to such things; but when I remind you that of these ninety-eight in that list forty-seven were little girls under the age of ten years, you will feel I dare not keep silence. I say, by the children God has given us, by the mothers whose memories we reverence, we will not keep silence until this damnable "Diana of the Ephesians" is broken up and destroyed, though it cost a revolution. Said one statesman to whom I was talking the other day: "I don't know where you are going to end; it may cause a revolution." Then let a revolution come. The Church has been too long shorn of her strength in the matter. Is not the old curse over her to-day? "Curse ye, Meroz, said the angel of the Lord: curse ye bitterly the inhabitants thereof, because they came not to the help of the Lord against the mighty."

Mr. Varley proceeded to refer to Derby, and the agitation there, in which he has taken a prominent part. He said he had addressed four large meetings. The audiences, of men, unanimously passed a resolution that they would never vote for Sir William Harcourt again. After describing the treatment to which he had been subjected, he said that out of it all good had come, for the intense feeling begotten of his maltreatment caused a revulsion in his favour. Since then Mr. A. S. Dyer had been prevailed on to stand for Derby, and he trusted to see Mr. Dyer triumphantly carried into the House of Commons.

You will be amazed, continued Mr. Varley, when I tell you that a friend of mine took a paper on the subject of the Pavilion Theatre to The Daily Telegraph, to be paid for as an advertisement, and it was refused. But we mean to have the right men. For ten years we have been played with, pledges have been broken and promises forgotten. Everything has gone to the bad because of this wretched strife between parties.

Telegrams were read from Plymouth and Wales, and from various individuals, expressive of sympathy.

Mrs. Butler said: Many have requested me to make a proposition, that we should all rise in a body and march to the Home Office, to present a memorial for the release of Mr. Stead, Mrs. Jarrett, and Mr. Jacques. Mr. H. Varley having seconded the proposition, Miss Mason put it to the meeting. It was agreed, promptly acted upon, and the large majority of those present marched in procession to the Home Office. The appearance of this large body of well-dressed persons created some little stir in the streets, and was undoubtedly a public manifestation of the sympathy felt for Mr. Stead and his helpers. At the door of the Home Office the assembly waited while some sixteen delegates, including Messrs. H. Varley, R. C. Morgan, E. Boys, B. Waugh, C. F. Dowsett, Mrs. Butler, Mrs. Haycraft, and Miss Mason, entered the office as a deputation.

After an interval of some fifteen minutes the deputation were shown out. Mr. H. Varley, on the steps, and in spite of the efforts of some officials to stop him, gave a short address, stating that the deputation had been treated with the greatest discourtesy by the Under-Secretary. It is fair to add, however, that he apologised for his conduct.

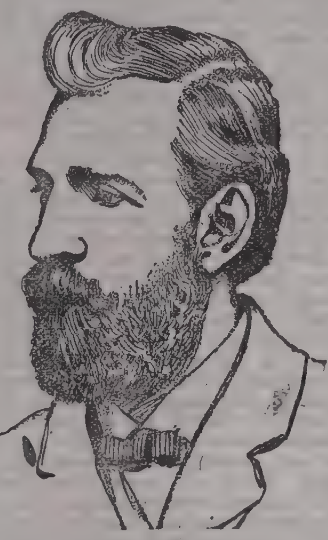
After the return to Exeter Hall, Miss Mason said: We gathered here to-day to wait upon God, and I am more than ever convinced, after this, my first visit to the Home Office, that our only hope is in God. Why are those in high quarters so irate? Because iniquity has been brought to light. Jeremiah had the same experiences when he spoke against iniquity, and he waited on the Lord even as we do.

Mrs. Butler said: I believe the purpose of this meeting is beginning to be fulfilled. Letters have been sent round to candidates with respect to personal character and social purity, and many of the replies have been most encouraging. Of course those who do not come out well in this matter do not write. We must remember when one tries to do good Satan is sure to try to spoil it. So he has done here, and in the bitterness of the contest this question has in some places become a strife between parties, the opposing sides making personal charges against each other. Then, again, we have come across candidates whose past has certainly not been what they can feel proud of, but who now, in response to the public awakening, are looking at the question honestly, and with self-reproach seeking to lead better lives. I am often asked what should be done in such cases. I incline to show mercy, and to give these men credit for the repentance they profess. Then there is a yet more troublesome class of candidates, of whom we know nothing bad, but who are cynics—caring for none of these things.

We have just been to the Home Office. Some are asking what reception we had. We had no reception at all. I felt sorry for Mr. Lushington, Permanent Under-Secretary. I have known him since he was a boy. He came in in a terrible state of excitement, and really ordered us out. But, remember, we must not slacken our efforts for a moment. We must go forward in the spirit of self-sacrifice, of which we have had an example lately. I must tell you, one of our poor girls heard, in a general way, of what had been done by Mr. Stead for the deliverance of girls, of his imprisonment, and of the cruel leaders in the London Press. What did she say? "I don't believe God cares a bit for girls. He lets these rich, bad men off so easily, and just when you good men and women try to help us you are silenced immediately. No, God don't care for us girls." I told her to wait a bit. "Oh, no," she said; "we have waited so long." I tell you these things lead to a terrible scepticism of God and of good.

Mr. Varley, at the request of the meeting, gave a further account of what transpired at the Home Office. About sixteen of us, he said, were permitted to enter a room, which would have held 200. After waiting a few minutes a gentleman came in who treated us with the greatest courtesy. Whilst we were presenting a memorial for the release of Mr. Stead and his associates, after Mrs. Butler had made a few remarks, the door was suddenly flung open, and in came a gentleman, who is the Permanent Under-Secretary of the Department. He appeared to be in a white heat of passion, and said, "This meeting is very irregular, and cannot be permitted." He tried to get away, but some of us button-holed him, and Mrs. Butler essayed to speak, but her very name was like the proverbial red rag to a bull. I thank and bless God for the power He has given her very name in connection with this dreadful subject. We frankly told the official that I had never known a greater want of respect than he had shown. It was simply monstrous he should dare so to treat a deputation. He said: "There is a proper way to go to work. This is not the place to come to." "What," I asked, "does the Home Office exist for? You have shown the strongest animosity against us, and we shall not forget it."

My belief is that the time is coming when we shall have a Christian morning Daily taking such a platform as that noble man, the proprietor of The Leeds Mercury, who will have nothing to do with giving accounts of horse-racing, nor with advertisements of theatres. After some further remarks, Mr. Varley concluded with prayer, and the proceedings terminated.



In a letter received from Miss Mason, after the meeting, she says:—

I enclose you a copy of the telegrams sent to us yesterday during the meeting. I think a report of the meeting would hardly be complete without them. They show the intense interest which is being taken in Mr. Stead and his fellow-sufferers throughout England. When business men, ladies, and others, spend time and money in sending long telegrams, and otherwise exerting themselves in the cause, the Government may rest assured that they will have to pay some attention to their demand.

I look upon the meeting yesterday as a very ominous sign of the feeling abroad. When we remember that it has been got up simply by notices sent out by myself, without advertisements, except one in The Pall Mall Gazette on Wednesday evening, and a letter from me which The Christian, Word and Work, and The Methodist Times, were good enough to insert, I think we may fairly conclude that the tow was ready; it only wanted the spark to ignite it.

Do you not think that some notice should be taken of Mr. Lushington's extraordinary behaviour? We had not forced our way into the office; we had been invited in by the subordinates, and we were clearly within our rights, as far as we knew. For a man holding a public position, and paid by public money, to conduct himself in the presence of ladies as Mr. Lushington did, is little short of a national scandal. If we were in the wrong, we should have been informed of it in a respectful manner; it is no part of an official's prerogative to act the bully, especially in the presence of ladies who wish to present a petition to their Queen, for whom they feel nothing but the highest respect and devotion.

COPIES OF TELEGRAMS.

From Mrs. E. Walker, Leeds: "Deepest sympathy with your meeting; with you in spirit all day while working hard at memorial on behalf of Stead."

From Masonic Hall, Llandudno: "Greeting from women in Cambria. We pray that conviction of sin may be impressed, and Pentecostal showers of blessing bestowed."

From James Sellock and Alfred Balkwell, Plymouth: "Many here are feeling deeply the sentence passed upon Messrs. Stead and Jacques, and R. Jarrett. Many prayers of faith unite that those wrongfully and shamefully imprisoned will be sustained, and that good may come out of all this suffering. We have tried to do our part, and now the weight of injustice must be upon those who bear the responsibility. It is better, if the will of God be so, to suffer for well doing than for evil doing, and we do remember those that are in bonds as bound with them."

WILLIAM T. STEAD.

We are sure that most of our readers, especially those in distant places, who have little chance of seeing Mr. Stead "in the flesh," would like to see his portrait. A very delightful little sketch of his life and work has just been given to the public by his friend and fellow-worker on behalf of the suffering and the oppressed, Rev. Benjamin Waugh.* This pamphlet contains the best portrait of Mr. Stead that we have yet seen. Through the kindness of the proprietors of The Pall Mall Gazette, we give a portrait which is a fair representation of Mr. Stead. We think, if those friends who have written to us expressing disapproval of the course we have deemed it our duty to take in connection with the recent "revelations," and the still more recent prosecution and trial, would but read Mr. Waugh's charming and graphic sketch of "that good man Stead" (as Thomas Carlyle once called him), they would cherish more kindly feelings towards him and towards those who have stood by him in the time of his reproach and rejection. We cannot refrain from making one quotation from the prefatory pages of Mr. Waugh's timely and beautiful tribute:—

"By letting the public eye fall upon this private letter, I fear that, could he know, I should grieve my imprisoned friend. But all other considerations just now are overborne by my one desire that my readers should know him; and this letter, written whilst he was waiting for sentence, will help to this better than any poor words of mine.

"The Dock, Old Bailey, Nov. 10, 1885.

"Dear Benjamin,—Good-bye, my dear friend. I am going to gaol with joy unspeakable, and a peace which is very rare with me. My peace is usually due to excessive action. Now I am inactive, and still am at peace. It is a new experience—possibly only a transient one—but very pleasant and heavenly while it lasts. I have a kind of dread of the relapse when this trial is over, and I am left alone in a cell. But God will be there. Perhaps He wants a quiet talk with me, and has not had time hitherto, and so we are to be alone.

"God bless you, dear Mr. Waugh. You have fed me and kept me in good humour with myself when I have been inclined to be in doleful dumps. You have loved me with a love passing the love of woman, and I am deeply grateful to you for it all. But now that we must part for a season, take one parting word from me. Pray do moderate your wrath against those who have been prosecuting me. Remember that we must be as charitable to a judge as to a harlot, and that we must be just even to those we judge to be unjust. Pardon this liberty, and believe me to be none the less thankful to you for your sympathy and helpful, inspiring love, which I feel you have heaped upon me far more than I deserve.—Yours in brotherly love,

"W. T. Stead."

---

* William T. Stead: A Life for the People. 6d. H. Vickers, 317, Strand.

THE LATE EARL OF SHAFTESBURY.

WITH our present issue we supply a portrait, in colours, of the deceased Earl whose loss we so deeply deplore, and whose labours on behalf of the poor and oppressed will be remembered with gratitude while the world stands. The opinion expressed by some of those who intimately knew Lord Shaftesbury confirms us in the belief that the artist has been most happy in securing a faithful and pleasing likeness of our departed friend. One who knew his lordship well, and was closely associated with him in his labours of love, writes: "The likeness is strikingly good, and brings vividly to mind his expression of two years ago, before pain and weakness had made their impress on his manly and intelligent countenance." We trust many of our readers may deem the portrait worthy of a more enduring setting than it was possible for us to give to it in the form in which it is issued.

Since the death of the noble earl many very interesting incidents of his life have come to light, and there have been many public expressions of the high esteem in which he was held by Christians of all shades of thought. Among the latter we may fittingly quote the following paragraph by Mr. C. H. Spurgeon, as it appears in this month's Sword and Trowel :—

"We mourn, in common with the whole Church, the decease of the good Earl of Shaftesbury; but we have our own personal loss to deplore. We never had a truer friend, nor one with whom we have had more real heart-to-heart fellowship. He had great fears for the future. His forecasts of the result of the loose theology of the times were of the darkest order, and he had a similar foreboding as to the democracy which is gaining so much power. It has frequently been our lot to cheer him, though we must confess we sympathised to a considerable degree in the fears which we sought to allay. Yet his faith in God, and in the unchanging Word, was as firm as a rock. Take him for all in all, we shall not look upon his like again."

In a recent letter to The New York Observer, Rev. Dr. Blaikie, of Edinburgh, says:—

"The Earl was a remarkable instance of what can be done by steady uniformity of aim, single-eyed devotion to work, and lofty consistency of character. One seems to see in him a living exemplification of the parable of the talents. I hardly think that anything but vital Christianity can give a man the kind of impulse which keeps him steadily and unweariedly at his task, day after day, and year after year, and enables him to bring to bear on it powers that are continually increasing in skill, in vigour, and in weight. His life is a great argument for Christianity. Where, in all the ranks of secularism, can one be found associated with one-tenth such service to humanity as his?"

Perhaps one of the most interesting contributions to the obituary literature of the Earl is that from the pen of Mr. Weylland, of the City Mission, which chiefly makes up the current issue of The City Mission Magazine; vivid glimpses are given both of the public and private life of his lordship:—

"There have been not a few proposals as to the best way in which the memory of Lord Shaftesbury should be kept alive through succeeding generations. His sympathies with philanthropic and Christian efforts were so universal that it is no easy task to decide what should be the most appropriate expression of the nation's esteem, and probably it will ultimately take various forms. An increased interest in and continued support of the many good works in which he took a personal share would, it seems to us, be a truer and better memorial than any monument of stone, or brass, or bronze, or even of gold. If his example should prove a perennial source of stimulus to more earnest war with oppression and wrong in its myriad shapes, and more faithful endeavour for the evangelisation and elevation of the masses, the memory of his work will be perpetuated in the way that would, we feel sure, be most in accord with his own feelings and desires, were it possible for him to send back a message from the spirit land whither he has gone."

The last portrait of the Earl, taken in his drawing-room, at Grosvenor-square, on his eighty-fourth birthday, is published by the artists, Messrs. Martin and Sallnow, 416, Strand, W.C. A Service of Song in both notations, compiled and written by Mr. A. J. Foxwell, is issued by Messrs. Curwen & Sons, Warwick-lane, price 4d.

In order to perpetuate the memory of the late Earl, who was forty years President of the Young Men's Christian Association, a Scholarship has been established in connection with the Exeter Hall University classes. It is of the annual value of twelve guineas, secured by open competition, and is intended to encourage and assist young men (under 21) to graduate at the London University. Regulations and other information can be had free on application to the Secretary, Y.M.C.A., Exeter Hall, London.

RICHARD WEAVER IN GLASGOW.

GLASGOW has again been privileged to hear the voice of this servant of God, who was so largely used in our city in years past—although, perhaps, never more so than during his present visit. Mr. Weaver came to Glasgow on October 24, and has been labouring every night for the past three weeks in connection with the Orphan Home Mission. The services have been held on Sundays in St. Andrew's and the National Halls, and on week nights in the City Home and Garscube Halls. The audiences, drawn from all quarters of the city, have been very large, on many occasions crowds being unable to gain admittance.

Although not in good health, Mr. Weaver has been in splendid voice, and while on the platform his "physical force seems quite unabated." We never remember hearing him preach so manifestly in the power of God. His awful earnestness has night by night held the crowds of working men and women as it were spellbound. It has been found difficult to efficiently deal with the anxious ones in the packed state of the halls, and yet every night there have been numbers who have literally forced their way through to the enquiry-rooms, so real have been the impressions made on their hearts. We believe there has been much cause of heavenly joy over not a few who have passed from death unto life, and also over many backsliders who have been reclaimed.

The evangelist's heart has been much cheered by the number who have come forward to grasp his hand, and say: "Twenty-nine years ago, Richard;" "Twenty years ago;" "Eighteen years ago;" and so forth, indicating the date at which they had been brought to God through his instrumentality. With full hearts we would ask your readers to unite with us in praising God for what He has wrought. We would commend our brother to their prayers as he leaves us to enter on another mission at Hull.

D. J. F.

SOLDIERS' HOME, WOOLWICH.—The annual sale of work in aid of the above will be held on Thursday and Friday, November 26 and 27. Contributions of work, painted china, plants, or any useful articles will be gladly received by Mrs. Digby Dent, at the Soldiers' Home, Hill-street, Woolwich. If friends cannot contribute, it is hoped they will come and buy.

GIRLS' MISSION, STRATFORD.—This work seeks to benefit spiritually, morally, and intellectually some of the many young girls who find employment in the various factories of one of the poorest and most populous parts of East London Every year increases its usefulness, as new factories are opened, and the demand for young girls is constantly on the increase. The girls who attend are from fourteen to eighteen years of age; they work eleven to twelve hours a day for a mere pittance, many earning but from four to six shillings a week. This in most cases goes into a common fund at home, and often a drunken father or mother is supported out of it. The work goes on all the year round, and having God's blessing is enabled to accomplish much good. It was hoped that ere this means would have been provided to erect a substantial building in place of the temporary iron one in use, a special fund having been subscribed by several kind friends for the purpose. The hon. superintendent is Mr. J. Dowding-Sansom, Oak Villa, 47, Hamfrith-road, Stratford, E.

LIFE IN PALESTINE.

ON Tuesday and Thursday evenings last week Miss Von Finkelstein lectured in the Conference Hall, Mildmay-park, on "Life in the Holy Land." The first lecture was illustrative of the manners, habits, and existing customs of the rural population. As a background to the subject the platform was arranged to represent the interior of the dwelling of a peasant. Circumscribed as the space, and scanty as the appointments were, it was a picturesque suggestion of the home of a well-to-do peasant. Many a hut of the fellaheen is far more poorly furnished. In correspondence with such realistic effects, the lady was attired in the garb of a peasant woman—the long linen gown and head-gear—the dress as worn by the woman who daily grinds the corn and draws the water at the common fountain of the village, bearing her earthen water cruise upon her head.

Miss Finkelstein was assisted by a gentleman who wore the dress of the man of the soil—the farmer, the shepherd—being just such a garb as would have been worn by David, the son of Jesse, when he was a keeper of sheep. Later on he donned the "coat of many colours," illustrating a practice still existing in the East, and known of wherever the Scriptures are read, by the conspicuous place it holds in the biography of Joseph, the son of Jacob, and offering a vivid contrast to the dull linen garb, the ordinary dress, that would be worn by all his brethren, as also usually by himself.

It was from this great section of the people that the Great Teacher, while on earth, drew so many of his illustrations, in which He clothed the Divine wisdom He would leave as an everlasting heritage to men. It was a woman of this class who, having ten pieces of silver, lost one.

The subject of the second lecture was "City Life." The manners and customs of the wealthy living in the cities—that is, cities having walls, such as Damascus or Jerusalem. For this there was a different interior; the appointments were more numerous, and even sumptuous. The costume of the lady was noble, was superb; gold sequins plaited into the strands of her long hair falling to her waist as an adornment, the jewels flashing in her head-dress, the brilliant colours and rich texture of her attire, all indicative of rank.

But though all these adjuncts greatly heighten the interest of subjects familiar to the audience through Scripture narrative, yet their representative and historical worth is immensely heightened by the skill of the accomplished lecturer. Her own mind, deeply imbued with spiritual truth, gives her a power by which she vitalises those mute things, and shows how they entered into the web which was woven in the bygone as the shuttle of daily life passed to and fro, and how unmistakably they damascened the pattern that remains unchanged to the present day, supplying imagery and colour for all minds that turn to the Old Book, or that listen to its story.

The gentleman on this occasion had a dress very similar to what might have been worn by that young nobleman who came putting the momentous question, "Good Lord, what shall I do to be saved?" but, when told, went away sorrowful. The elucidation of those more obscure passages, such as that said of the Bridegroom, "The government on his shoulder," exemplified by a bridal custom, observed whenever a marriage takes place, and many more, created deep interest in the large audience. With untiring attention they listened to one exposition after the other, comprising a lecture, or rather a delightful conversation long drawn out; it must have tried the strength of the speaker who seemed so willing to impart so much.

ALNWICK.—Mr. W. Forbes is holding evangelistic services and Gospel Temperance meetings in this town.

Notes and Comments.

OUR next issue will contain a portrait of Rev. E. A. Stuart, of Holloway, with biographical sketch and report of an address to young men last Monday evening on "Manliness."

In a recent issue we quoted an account of the large gatherings in Boston at the meetings of the American Board of Foreign Missions. At one of the sittings Rev. Joseph Cook strongly combated the view which it seems has been widely advocated among the subscribers to the Mission by The Andover Review, to the effect that the Gospel will be preached in the next life to such as have not had it fairly presented in this.

On this semi Universalism we would say, Why cannot men bow in reverent acquiescence before the silence of Scripture? Why should one obscure passage relating to an unknown period set aside the reiterated enforcement of the tremendous urgencies of the Gospel? We can leave the untaught heathen with Him who spake of the "few stripes" for those who knew not the Lord's will, and yet did things worthy of death. But these attempts to formulate theories where there is no light to guide us are the setting up of mere human imaginings against the plain teaching of Revelation. They are bewildering the people, and robbing preachers of pleading earnestness. They are not the methods whereby the missions of the American Board have gathered everywhere their numerous converts, and increased in three quarters of a century from four to 2,500 missionaries and native teachers and pastors.

The Pall Mall Gazette describes a mode of helping the people that may be imitated wisely in poor districts. At Rousden, not far from Lyme Regis, Sir Henry Peek about nine years ago made an experiment of a system of penny dinners. The tuition is free, but the dinners the children pay for, an allowance being benevolently made where there is more than one child in a family at school. "A brighter, healthier-looking set of children," we are told, "it would be hard to find." A hundred per cent. pass the examination in the three Rs, and the Vice-President of the Council of Education says, "It would be impossible to find a better school." This happy state of things suggests much.

From mid-China a missionary of the Church Missionary Society writes to The Record that, in a part where there had been no Church missionary, a chapel was built by liberal-minded laymen, for those who used the English language, with a clause in the trust-deed that once a month the service should be according to the forms of the Church of England. The Nonconformists gladly acceded, and for some years members of different Churches met in common around the Lord's Table. An extreme agent of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel arrived: a notice was issued which shut off all but Episcopalians. This has been followed by entire separation from the church where other Christians worshipped, and now, in a place with no more than 120 foreign laymen, there appear two rival churches for them at different ends of the beach. We feel constrained to hang our heads in shame as we think of the effects of this upon the Chinese.

A correspondent in The Nonconformist and Independent calls attention to the growing hindrance of preachers whose proclamation of the tidings of great joy is smothered by the hair which is allowed to grow so thickly over their mouth. The adornment also hides all that expression of the lip which nature gives to a speaker. He quotes to this effect a writer "distinguished in the school of art," and the Rev. Dr. Stoughton. He might have quoted to the same effect the late Metropolitan pastor—Thomas Binney, who once spoke on the loss to preachers from this cause.

The clear utterance of words from the pulpit is a necessity, if, as it was with the Lord, the "common people" are to hear gladly. They are often slow to catch words. We once carefully studied the beards of the old Romans as their busts are preserved in the Capitol. In no case of emperor or orator were the lips hidden, as is so deplorably common nowadays.

It is very significant that while the London dailies approve the sentences in the Armstrong case, many of the provincial dailies condemn them. The Newcastle Leader says the country will regard them with shame and indignation; The Bradford Observer has strong words on the miscarriage of justice in the lenient manner in which others are dealt with; The Leicester Post pleads for an effort in mitigation of the sentence; The Leeds Mercury speaks of the "impolicy" of it; The Sheffield Independent argues that a nominal judgment would have met the case; The Bristol Mercury would encourage Mr. Stead amid "the interested howls of the London editors"; and The Western Morning News writes of "the jealousy of the London press" and the "strong feeling against the defendants on the part of the judge throughout the trial."

A correspondent desires to know what efforts are being made to spread the Gospel message in the island of Cyprus. Perhaps some of our readers may be able to supply the information.

The Lancet of Nov. 7 puts in a plea for cattle drovers whose calling requires them to be on duty all night at the Metropolitan Cattle Market. Our medical contemporary says:—

> We have known a man so employed, with a reluctance to go into a public-house, in winter, to be without food from midnight on Sunday to mid-day on Monday, and then, chilled and starved, affected with temporary paralysis, which passed off on his being warmed and fed. It is astonishing that even a coffee-stall is not allowed in the market-place. The Corporation of London has lately done much for the men necessarily detained long in the market. It has built a comfortable place of shelter for them; but, strange to say, it does not facilitate their being able to obtain warm and simple food. This is a great defect, and we cannot doubt that before the severity of the winter sets in the defect will be supplied.

We learn with much regret that Mrs. Reaney, of Stepney, has been ordered by her physicians to abstain for a time, as far as possible, from public work. She will continue, however, to hold the Sunday-afternoon Service at Stepney Meeting House. We sincerely trust that a period of comparative rest may prove beneficial, and that our gifted friend may be able again to take her usual active part in all the Christian movements of the time.

When will the periodical press regard it as immoral to advertise the immoral works of immoral writers? Even The Spectator, which claims to be a religious journal, and has lately been reading The Pall Mall Gazette a lofty lecture for spreading corruption, continues to advertise the "realistic novels" of Zola, productions incomparably more unjustifiable than anything The Pall Mall Gazette has done. We are justified in singling out The Spectator for comment in reference to this matter, both because of the general high tone of its articles, and because it disregards private remonstrances which have been addressed to it.

We invite the attention of the heads of all Christian households to the following extract from the letter of a correspondent:—

> Could you not devote some space to denounce what, I am sure, you will admit to be a great and increasing danger for the young—viz., private theatricals? I was terribly shocked last winter on reading a play which was acted by some dear friends of mine. I did what I could to prevent it, but in vain. Can we wonder at the prevailing low tone of morals if our children are to be polluted in this way? This being just the season for such entertainments is my excuse for bringing the point under your notice.

At the present time, when the feelings of the Christian public are so much exercised on the subject of "gambling," it may interest many to know that a lecture on this topic will be delivered at the Young Men's Christian Association, Exeter Hall, Strand, by Rev. Frederick Hastings, on Monday next, Nov. 23, at 8 p.m.

Much prosperity is attending the various branches of the work at the recently opened Institute, in Whitechapel-road, for Working Lads. Mr. Henry Hill, the hon. sec., informs us, however, that there is a lack of helpers; he wants at least twenty friends who could devote some time on one evening a week to the work of the Institute. We hope some of our readers who have the requisite leisure will communicate with Mr. Hill, at 38, Bow-lane, Cheapside, E.C. Visitors are welcomed at the Institute (which is opposite the London Hospital) any Tuesday afternoon or evening.

The great army of Christian singers who use the tonic sol-fa notation, will learn with pleasure that a new and cheaper edition of the Combined Sacred Songs and Solos has been prepared for their special benefit. It is of a size convenient for the pocket, and can be had at various prices according to binding. (See Advt.)

Mr. Roberts, of the well-known catering firm of Bertram & Roberts, has rendered a distinct service to the cause of philanthropy by his recent circular, describing the waste of nourishing food ingredients that goes on at all our large hotels, clubs, restaurants, houses of business, and private establishments. He proposes that a responsible committee of ladies and gentlemen should be formed to arrange for the collection of this wasted material, and make from it soups and other nutritious preparations which could be sold to the poor at a cheap rate. We hope the plan will be carried into execution before severe winter weather sets in. If any reader is disposed to help in this important economic movement, they should communicate with Mr. Roberts, Linkwood, Central-hill, Upper Norwood, S.E.

Several correspondents draw our attention to an error in the article which we recently quoted from The Sentinel, respecting Sir William Harcourt and the representation of Derby. It was stated in the article that the ex-Home Secretary was unseated at Oxford for bribery; the facts of the case are that, on his attempted re-election on the acceptance of office, he was defeated by Mr. Hall, an Oxford brewer, whose seat was subsequently declared vacant because of the bribery that marked his share in the contest.

We trust the serious and immediate attention of the proper authorities will be drawn to the facts disclosed in the following extracts from a soldier at Gibraltar, written to our friend Mrs. Evered Poole. She informs us that it is not the only one she has received on the subject. It reveals a state of things that are a burning disgrace to the British nation:—

> It grieves me to see here between 500 and 600 soldiers going on the downward course to destruction. Here we are locked in every night at sunset, which is about 5.30, and have nothing but the canteen staring us in the face. It has been something horrible of late. Yesterday there were thirty-two prisoners through drink; to-day there are fifteen. Some of them stop absent all night. I am sorry to say there is not a place of worship for us to attend. Should the men go into the library they are led on to gambling. On Sunday night the place was in an uproar through the accursed drink. That God may yet work with his people, and enable them to open a way of salvation to the troops, is my constant prayer.

Dr. Barnardo has been seriously ill—threatened with a brain attack. He is now better, and is ordered to leave town for a short time. Will those correspondents who have been expecting a personal reply from him accept this notice as an explanation of his silence. The "Homes" are in urgent need of funds just now, and any gifts sent to Dr. Barnardo, 18, Stepney-causeway, E., will be gratefully acknowledged by his helpers.

Trinity College, Dublin, on Saturday last witnessed a scene bordering on apostolic times. Two clergymen from Cambridge, both young men, addressed a large meeting of students on missionary effort. They were assisted by well-known brethren in Dublin. Such was the effect of their addresses that fifty young men rose in a body, offering themselves as missionaries, to go to any part of the world. If there were no openings now, they agreed to labour in Dublin until the way was opened for foreign service. This incident has had a most powerful voice to others who have been standing for years idle in the market-place.

The Ritualistic journal which a few days ago took occasion to sneer at Dissenters because in moving into a new district he "want nothing to begin with but a preacher and a tub," might with advantage turn its attention to Wychling, near Sittingbourne, Kent. The church at this place fell into ruins, and, with the consent of the Archbishop of Canterbury, was closed about three years ago. It is stated that, since the closing of the church, the rector has written over 6000 letters, and been untiring in other directions, in the endeavour to raise sufficient money for the restoration of the building. The outlay of £25 in postage stamps has, however, brought in only £700, and the wearied rector says: "We have no building to worship in, and we are at the mercy of the wind and the rain. We have tried every known source and failed." He adds, in perhaps ardonable despondency, that the unfinished building is "a disgrace to those who profess themselves so keen for Church and State." Perhaps, if a few more of those who are keen for the preaching of the Gospel were to come forward, the rector's difficulty might be overcome.

The two letters on "Election" in our present issue are by Christian brethren from opposite quarters. They are noteworthy not only for the kindly spirit in which they are written, but also as showing how nearly Calvinists and Arminians may approach each other.

Commenting upon the recent Church Congress at Portsmouth, one of the leading High Church journals prophesies that "the future of the Church of England will be on the lines of the via media," and that "the great body of Churchmen will be moderate men." It would appear from the somewhat remarkable article, that "moderate men," though they may teach Church doctrine "up to a certain point," will teach "a vague doctrine of the Real Presence;" they "will not teach that our Lord is to be worshipped on his altars," and also "will repudiate the Catholic use of the Sacrament of penance." If in this their moderation is to consist, we can only hope that their moderation may be known of all men, and shunned accordingly.

A recent writer has defined scepticism as "not so much a creed as an attitude of mind," and with considerable force has urged that it is possible to create a moral atmosphere where faith can hardly breathe. Few factors in the creation of such an unhealthy atmosphere are more potent than Sacerdotalism with its bold and unblushing claims. Like Ritualism—and the two frequently go hand in hand—it may aid in producing superstition; it cannot but prove injurious to budding faith, and it gives rise to unrest where there ought to be abiding peace.

> Under a purely natural dispensation philosophy would have been the guide of life. But, in the present order of Providence, not philosophy but the faith of Christ is appointed to lead man to his goal. . . . As things stand, there is no way to eternal joys except by faith in Christ. Christian "Godliness is profitable to all things, having the promise of the life that now is, and of that which is to come." . . . Mankind cannot prosper as a race, unless they live for heaven, and living for heaven in the actual order of things means Christianity. There is no other name under heaven given to men but the name of Jesus whereby we must be saved eternally or rescued from present social miseries.

These are noble words, and it is a hopeful sign to find a man like Father Rickaby proclaiming such doctrine. Day by day public speakers are putting forward all sorts of quack remedies for our social disorders and wrongs; remedies, many of them, worse than the disease, whereas it is only by the spread of Christ's kingdom that the other kingdom of cruelty and lust can be conquered. The name of Christ has already been powerful over most social and national evils; it will ultimately triumph over these.

The Church of Rome never forgives or forgets. A century and a half ago John Wesley, who frequently was accused of being a Papist, prepared an address to King George II., after the attempted French invasion of 1744. In it, speaking for the Methodist body, he said, "We detest and abhor the fundamental doctrines of the Church of Rome." Last week a Roman Catholic newspaper had the following incidental reference to the great evangelist:—

> Protestantism buries Darwin, who did not believe in God, with Wesley, who blasphemed against the Church of God; it is the religion of private judgment, and cares for no profanation, no scandal except that of not paying the burial fees. Its whole history is entangled with sacrilege of one sort or the other, either against God directly, or against his anointed ministers or his consecrated sanctuaries, so that at this date the English heresy takes to it quite naturally and would be incomplete without it.

Such an allusion is, indeed, a high tribute to the power and permanence of Wesley's words and teaching, for the names of many men who, at the period in question, truckled to, and fraternised with Rome, are now buried in oblivion.

The article by Mr. Grattan Guinness (pages 5, 6) derives additional interest from the wanton declaration of war by Servia against Bulgaria, of which Rev. Malcolm Maccoll says in a letter to The Times:—

> I was in Servia at the crisis of her fortunes in 1876, and on my return to England I served her to the best of my ability by every means within my reach, and at the cost of much personal obloquy. No Servian, therefore, can suspect me of unfriendliness to his country when I express my conviction that the Servian declaration of war against Bulgaria is one of the most infamous and impudent exhibitions of hyyocrisy on record.

The Times, after dwelling on the danger of other minor States taking action, goes on to say:—

> Yet, obvious as these dangers are, they sink into insignificance compared with the probability—now fully recognised, as it seems, at Vienna—that this border-fighting between Servians and Bulgarians, a trivial and even a burlesque business in itself, will unmask the radical and permanent antagonism of Austrian and Russian policy in Eastern Europe. By precipitating a struggle for predominance in the Balkans the Servian declaration of war may not only call up new and perilous questions for solution, but may dissolve that League of the Three Empires on which the structure of Prince Bismarck's policy has heretofore been founded."

It is possible, therefore, that we may be on the eve of a discussion of the Eastern Question by the Great European Powers on the battle-field. May God avert so terrible a calamity!

In considering the question of voting for men of good character at the coming Election, this difficulty arises: The man of character, or the man who will vote for moral as against immoral legislation, may not be of my party; and he would vote on other questions in opposition to my views. Reply.—This would right itself in a little time. If a body of new men with the fear of God before their eyes should be elected—numerous enough to decide the party in power, it is more than probable that party spirit would be greatly checked, and that attention would be paid to home affairs, which, under the present system, are grossly neglected.

Nothing would give this or any other country so mighty an influence with foreign Powers as a well-governed, prosperous, and contented people. Therefore, from every point of view, righteous home government is the first concern.

"The faith that God is going to heal sickness may be very good; but it is infinitely lower than that other faith which trusts in the love and wisdom of God in sickness or health, sinking our will in his will."—New York Independent.

A MESSAGE TO YOUNG MEN.

Sermon preached last Sabbath,

By Dr. J. ELDER CUMMING, Glasgow.

"And the thorns sprang up and choked them."—Matt. xiii. 7.

MANY of you must be aware that this is the conclusion of the Week of Prayer for Young Men, and in common with others, I have promised to devote our time this morning to delivering a message from the pulpit to the young men around me.

Without further preface, then, observe what the meaning of the text is: "The thorns sprang up and choked them." The thing that is choked is the beginning of spiritual life in the soul, germinating from the seed of the word. It is the state of a soul which has come under solemn impressions, which is moving, which is (so to speak) about to live. But in the same ground into which the seed has been cast there are thorns, and they begin to grow. Now, it is not the sharp pricking character of the thorn that is alluded to here, but the fact that the strong, rough, vigorous weed outgrows the more delicate and more valuable grain; pushes it aside, occupies its room, drinks up the juices of the soil, on which it should feed, and allows it nothing to live upon. Sometimes the grain never grows beyond a feeble blade, but is killed down in infancy. Sometimes it grows to its full height, but either has no ear, or the ear never ripens; the thorns get the mastery, and the good seed dies.

In all this we may find a parable of what is very common among young men. Not among the worst young men by any means. Not those who drink and swear, who frequent the tavern, the theatre, the bar, the billiard saloon, and worse places still. Not those who gamble, and bet, and speculate, and fall into disreputable ways. There are too many of them in a great city like this, and especially where money is plentiful, sometimes too plentiful for their good. But young men who, whether at home or in lodgings, have not given up coming to church, who remember the prayers and teachings of a godly mother, who still read their Bibles, who are convinced that religion is a real thing, only that there are not many in whom it is real; these young men are living amid temptation; and some of them will listen to me as I speak.

PRESENT-DAY "THORNS."

Let me show you then to-day some of the thorns which are apt to grow up and choke the good seed in the hearts of young men; that is, some of the evil influences which abound in a city like ours, and the effects which they produce in destroying the first shoots of spiritual life. I suppose young men occasionally speak among themselves about such things and their dangers. Sometimes when one of their own companions goes astray, and they see him disappearing from their side into by-paths of shame, they feel sorrow and pity; sometimes they speak a word to him, which is only disregarded; oftener, perhaps, they refuse invitations from him and leave him in silence to go on alone. Then, among themselves, they drop the passing word, that it is not safe for a man to walk among pitfals in the dark, or to take up serpents in his arms which may sting. It is such talk, if they will listen, which I would like to have with them to-day, talk which I will make a good deal stronger than they would make it, but of the truth of which I shall leave them to judge.

1. Business itself becomes an evil influence—can hardly be otherwise in the present day.

Simply as an occupation—which wholly engrosses the mind and the time of a young man—it has great dangers. The hurry and the pressure of responsibility, continued for so many hours a day, not only are bad for bodily health, but are injurious to the soul. The habits which are engendered even by sound business in the midst of much competition—the looking after one's own interest, the standing one's ground, the endeavour to defeat and come before a rival. The temptation to misrepresent or to conceal, the desire to be rich, and to avoid loss. Do you not see the multitude of difficult spiritual problems that have to be wisely dealt with every hour? But I wish business life had no other tendency to evil than that which naturally comes from this occupation, or over-occupation. Are there not kinds of business; and are there not habits in most kinds of business, that are in themselves evil and full of temptation? What about the habit of speculation, where a man risks what he possibly cannot pay if he loses, where it is ruin to many if he does not succeed, and great gain to himself if he does? What about the facilities offered for this sort of business, and offered to men without means of their own almost as freely as to those who have? And, where a young man is employed in an office where such things are done, sees such things going on, has a hand in helping them, carrying messages and writing letters on the subject, what influence can that have on his soul and conscience? And for one such case that comes to exposure and punishment how many are there which escape, but escape by "the skin of their teeth"?

Then, again, as to the petty frauds of business life. "The scant measure" sometimes asked and ordered of the manufacturer for purposes of deceit—the mixture of goods to be passed off as pure, the imitation of trade signs, the concealment where detection is difficult and can only be suspected, and the young men who, seeing so far behind the scenes, know all these things—can they keep their hands clean? Can they keep their minds pure? I do not say that they cannot. But surely the danger is not small; and in such business nothing but the great grace of God in those who are living very close to Him, can keep men from falling into carelessness or into sin!

AMUSEMENTS.

2. We may point in the next place to amusements as being, in the sense of the text, thorns which tend to choke the word. There are certain amusements which suggest themselves readily as those which Christian men ought not in any case to enter. Others which are very doubtful and misleading, and then it is surely wise to give the benefit of the doubt to the side of safety rather than of risk. A Christian can hardly venture to keep near the side of the pit, and see how close he can go to it without falling in.

But it is of more consequence, probably, to speak of other amusements, in themselves innocent and harmless, which may yet become the means of great temptation. Any man who lives for pleasure chiefly is living an ignoble life—a butterfly existence which brings no fruit, little enjoyment, and less satisfaction. The object of recreation is to keep a true balance as to bodily health; and the object of pleasure ought to be to keep a true balance as to mental health, under the pressure of occupation.

Every pleasure into which we enter should be narrowly watched, for nowhere does temptation so abound or come so close to us. There are very few pleasures of life into which evil has not been introduced, often to the extent of destroying their innocence. Sometimes it is betting, as if by itself pleasure had not stimulus sufficient without the risk of money. If that be so, it is not worth following. You should take to that which can be enjoyed without such stimulus. Surely business life in the present day has risk enough without carrying the element into one's pleasure. And if you say the stake is so small as to be nothing if it is lost, then, I answer, if that be so, there is no object in adding it to the game, save to keep up the evil desire of gain. Sometimes the evil added is that of drinking, not positively to excess, but something taken hour by hour, early in the day, always tending to become more and more frequent. How many a man has traced his ruin to drinking so begun.

Surely, then, it is well to warn against all pleasures which cannot be separated from such things, and to help young Christians to form no such habits or connections, which may become a snare. Even music itself, one of the purest sources of pleasure, and one of the most elevating, has become so much associated with evil, with concerts, and saloons, and theatres, and engagements at night, and dissipation, and frivolity, that a young man cannot be too careful, lest he be led astray. The thorns which choke the word sometimes blossom into beauty; but they are thorns, and they choke it all the same.

POLITICS.

3. Shall I be excused if I speak to you, at the present time especially, as to the temptations to be found in Politics? We do not often find a fitting opportunity in which to speak from the pulpit of this subject, though it occupies a very large space in the lives and minds of many. Of course it is in itself a fair and legitimate field for the energies of men; the higher posts in it especially yield noble employment for some of the fines intellects of our day. Those who occupy seats in Parliament have a sphere of the greatest influence which they may use for the good of many and for the glory of God. And how much it is to be desired that there were more in those high places not ashamed of God or of his service, and able to make their voices heard while the cause of God, or of morality, or of truth is at stake. But both they, and those who take sides and engage in battle on a lower platform, are exposed to peculiar and pressing temptations. The spirit of controversy is always dangerous, and even when men are fighting for great and holy principles it needs to be most closely watched lest it lead astray. How men like the reformers were able to spend their lives in fighting others, and yet preserve an unbroken sense of the presence of God, is a great problem. No doubt if God laid such a burden on hearts which did not seek it, the grace would come and would be sufficient.

But men may well be careful and watch unto prayer who take part in public strife. To preserve in their hearts the peace of God, to keep love of the brethren unblemished and undimmed in the midst of opposition, to have that charity which thinketh no evil and imputeth no bad motives, to guard the door of the lips against falsehood, or error, or wrath, or folly; in a word, to come out of an election contest no worse a Christian than he entered it; this, this is a marvel of grace. Many of us are too thankful not to be called to such duties, to take refuge from them in higher, holier, and sacred work. But some there are who cannot escape, some Christian men must be so busied for a time—young as well as old. For them let us pray, for them we do pray, that the thorns may not spring up and choke the seed of the word.

THE DAILY PRESS.

4. Another evil influence acting on young men in the present day is to be found, one regrets to say, in most of the newspapers that are so abundantly scattered on every side. I do not see that there need be anything in a newspaper that ought to make it a deleterious thing in a family. The events of the day, the words of the day, the history of the day (both at home and abroad), the making of the history of the next generation, the unfolding as it is of the providence of God before us—well, it may be confusing, full of detail, too near us to be judged aright, but surely not of necessity something to injure or deteriorate the reader. But that in practice it too often becomes so, I think no one who pauses to think can well deny. Just consider, for a little, what are the things that a newspaper regards as important, as affording matter for the information and instruction of the public, and which are the things that it passes by with the shortest notice, or perhaps none at all. On the one hand, all religious meetings, all spiritual addresses, are either not reported or put off with a very few lines; and where, from some special cause, they do appear, it is the general allusions in them that are selected, the whole spiritual teaching is ignored; that is not matter fit for a newspaper!

Take, for example, what has happened within the last two years at our very door. Last winter there was a series of lectures, under the auspices of what is called the Sunday Society—the object of it was to secularise the Day of Rest, to deliver secular addresses—some of them comic addresses—on the Lord's Day. Every Monday morning there was a full account in the pages of all the Glasgow newspapers, with the marks of "cheers" and "laughter" interspersed throughout! This winter, in the same hall, on the same evenings, there have been a series of addresses, delivered by men just as well known, to audiences just as large; and there is not a word of them reported. What a tale that tells of newspaper influence upon the young! So much for what is omitted! And then you must have remarked the subjects which are deemed worthy of largest space. Do you ever find a newspaper (one in a thousand it must be!) which does not give long accounts of the whole proceedings of the racing world; generally with the report of a special correspondent, with full accounts of the betting of yesterday, and with direction and advice for the readers how to bet successfully for to-day and to-morrow? Are there many parents, are there many thoughtful and respectable men, who will approve of such influences being daily brought to bear on the young?

Then, have you not often remarked what an interest the newspaper takes in all proceedings of the theatre? In the most prominent part of the leading page, in large letters (that the old, I presume, may read), every new actor, and, still more, every new actress, is criticised at length—their appearance, their dress, their manner, their voice. It is no uncommon thing to find the theatre reported more fully than Parliament. I know it may be said that newspapers must print what readers will read, and that the fault is not with them, but with the public. But this is really not so. It is not the desire of the public to read; it is much more the advertisements which the theatres pay for, which put so many columns at their disposal, and which thus presents, day after day, such temptations to deceive and mislead the young.

These are objections to a certain part of the newspaper. But I am bound to add that there is often a most injurious tone of scepticism, and even scoffing in those articles for which editors themselves are directly responsible. It is rare to find a leading article in which there is not a joke taken from the pages of God's Word. It is no uncommon thing to see doctrines of the Church written of in a spirit of ridicule. If a sacred subject is discussed, it is too often done in an irreverent manner. I care not who the writers may be. Were these known, it might only make the matter worse; it is against the thing, and its evil influence on the community, and especially on the young, that I think men ought to protest.

Now, about some of these things as to which I have been speaking, there will no doubt be difference of opinion. I do not claim to be the only man who has a right to judge for himself; but when you come to the question, what influence these things will have on a young Christian, or on a young man in whose heart a solemn impression has just been made, in whom the good seed has been sown, I do not think any will grudge me the admission that in them the things specified will be as thorns, which are likely to spring up and choke them.

GENERAL LITERATURE.

5. These remarks suggest the more general subject of Reading as one which requires much care—I mean, of course, on the part of the man himself—for I take for granted that young men will select their own books and magazines. In the end they always will—it cannot be helped, and it need not be feared, if they themselves are only what they should be. Now I think it is high time that something should be said, openly and plainly, about much of the literature that is current at the present time. There is a department of excellent spiritual books, probably as good and as many as at any previous period of our history. No want of the best food for those who seek it; the pity is it should be so difficult to procure, and so many places at which you ask for it in vain.

There is also a department of poetry, history, and travels, which is thoroughly sound and pure, instructing, informing, and strengthening all who read them. But then there begins the list of those of doubtful character and deleterious tendency. First of all, there are many magazines, the spirit of which is utterly sceptical and opposed to the truth of God. It is not long since one of these was edited by a man well known to glory in the absolute denial of the existence of God. I can imagine the poisonous nature of the material provided by such a man and under his direction for reading to the general public. Then there is the host of books either upon sacred subjects, or incidentally dealing with them, which advocate what is called Broad Church Theology, that is, a theology which takes leave to deny the sole inspiration and to dispute the authority of Holy Scripture, which makes the doctrine of the Atonement the special subject of attack, and gravely questions the individual immortality of the soul. What wonder if, along with such things, you have the nameless iniquities which, after making all allowance for mistake or exaggeration, are to be found in London and all our great cities.

Then you have books of general literature which insist that it is a profanation to say one word of condemnation against men like Byron, Shelley, and Burns, because whatever the evil of their lives and characters, they were men of great genius. And you have biographies of men and of women too, repudiating the sanction of marriage as a worn-out superstition, and living for years in adultery, against whom you dare not speak a syllable without being deemed a bigot and a fanatic. While, beside these, you have, year after year, a class of novels by one or two well-known writers, some translated from the French, some of native manufacture, written by women, and I fear read by women also, which, if I am to believe what I am told, are too shameless to be described.

Now these are things open to every reader who chooses to defile his mind and pollute his heart by reading them. Can you conceive of any greater temptation to the young? Take any class of books that I have been speaking of—not the worst. Suppose that from inattention, or from circumstances not under his control, a young man's reading should be to a large extent composed of these; suppose that even occasionally some of them should fall across a young man's path—a young man who has begun to think solemnly, to turn his thoughts towards Christ and salvation, to yearn after peace and purity—what, think you, is likely to be the result? Is it not that which the text puts so graphically and so shortly, "The thorns sprang up and choked them"?

EVIL COMPANIONS.

6. I should like to say a word or two on the evil influence that is sometimes exercised by the companions of the young. You must have observed that the men who go wrong among us are chiefly those of great social talent, affable, easy, and witty, whose company is coveted, and who, therefore, go much out into society. These men soon get into a life of strain and effort, which unfits them for solid occupation, and calls for some unusual stimulus. And that is generally the secret of their fall. Often they are among the brightest, happiest, handsomest, and dearest of our sons. The result is fatal to themselves and also to many more who so prize their company as to be led away by them. Proud to be noticed by those who are so courted, enjoying the mirth and freedom of their talk, introduced by them to evil company and doubtful scenes, the influence goes, like the contagion of a fever, into many a house. This has a double lesson. For the young man, himself, who has such talents for amusement, that he should be wary from the beginning, and seek to live not in his own strength but only by the grace and blessing of God. It has a lesson for others, not to be dazzled and drawn away by the pleasures of such company, not to be uplifted and proud of the notice of such friends, and not to be ready to purchase such notice and such friendship at the price of conscience. Things like these are not of small moment; on the contrary, they are full of important issues. At the beginning they can be easily resisted; but after a time they are too strong for the soul that has trifled with them.

LUKEWARMNESS.

7. But after all, brethren, the explanation why there are so many thorns growing up in the hearts of the young is that so often they are at the best but half-and-half Christians, for observe, that it is just after the seed has been sown, when it was only beginning to appear, that the thorns sprang up and got the advantage. The cares of this world, the deceitfulness of riches, and (as St. Mark gives it) "the lusts of other things entering in," choke the word. When the heart is only half given to Christ; when certain things are not given up at once, but are dallied with, and spared, as not very bad, then there is a hopeful ground for the thorns. For all men, but especially for the young, it is true that no religion is worth the having, but one which is thorough-going, brave, and real.

My young friends, you will find that a life of gaiety and amusement cannot consist with the life of Christ. You will have to choose between them. You may have just enough religion to make you miserable from the smitings of conscience. That may be kept with your dances and concerts and pleasure seeking. But true peace with God, and true rest of soul mean that you give yourselves up to the Lord, to be his servants, and to confess Him. You think me hard and unsympathetic to say these things. You would rather be left to your own enjoyments. You think my Gospel is a gloomy one. Ah! how much you are mistaken! There is a sting in every pleasure that you seek; a thorn in every careless hour; a deterioration and a darkening process that goes on in the soul day by day in your life. But the way of God is a way of joy unutterable; joy in the soul, joy always, joy that cannot be shaken, joy that cannot perish! Come out for God boldly, unmistakably! Neither be ashamed nor afraid to say that He is your God, and that you are going to live for Him! That is the safe life, where the good seed grows to maturity and brings forth its fruit, where the thorns perish or never appear, where there is no troubled conscience, where there is no remorse laid up for old age; for "godliness hath the promise of the life that now is, as well as of that which is to come."

◆

YOUNG MEN AT EALING.

ON Wednesday evening last week, the Ealing branch of the Y.M.C.A. held, in the Lyric Hall, its third annual meeting. Mr. Geo. Williams presided, and he was supported on the platform by local ministers and friends. Mr. W. C. Gray, hon. secretary, although able to report much attempted, and something done, yet expressed himself as dissatisfied with the record of the past, when compared with that of the former year. Mr. Hedges, hon. treasurer, unfortunately had to report a deficit, but said he looked to the future with confidence and cheerfulness. We trust that his appeal for financial sympathy may be heartily responded to in the neighbourhood.

The Chairman, in an excellent address, maintained that Christianity was "best for commerce and for professional life; best for activity and for leisure; best for life, and infinitely best for death;" and that the Y.M.C. Associations ought to be, and were, the pioneers of the Church in mission work. Several very earnest speeches followed from various gentlemen interested in the work.

WOOD GREEN.—At a meeting in the Gospel Hall last Thursday evening, it was resolved to send an expression of sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. Stead, Mrs. Jarrett, and Mr. Jacques; a petition to the Queen for their pardon and release; and a protest against the action of the Government in passing by real and gross offenders, to punish those who were innocent of any ill intention. It was a small meeting, but several cases were spontaneously mentioned showing how constantly and persistently girls are insulted. Evidently those most in danger are the dressy and forward, and the innocent, whose parents or guardians think that ignorance is bliss. Those who know the peril and go right on their way, not trying to attract notice, are comparatively safe. But only comparatively. On the banks of the Thames, as well as on the banks of the Ganges, it is a misfortune to be born a woman.

MISS GOUGH AND HER FRIENDS.

It is wonderful how much, and in how many ways, we can help one another, if we have the mind to do it. Even at this advanced stage of the world's history we are finding out new methods of fulfilling the royal law of love, in bearing one another's burdens. At various times it has been our privilege to record something of the good work begun not so long ago, and carried on with growing success by Miss C. M. Gough among young women engaged at London railway refreshment bars and restaurants. Some months since Miss Gough was enabled through the generous sympathy of Mr. Samuel Morley to open suitable and well-appointed rooms at 14, John-street, Bedford-row, as a central place of resort for the young women whom she visits. They were most fittingly named Morley Rooms, and the formal opening of them on Wednesday evening last week was an occasion of very deep interest to all concerned in the work. The way in which the young ladies mustered in strong force for the meeting was the best possible proof that they appreciate the boon thus provided for them.

In presiding over the happy gathering, Mr. Morley, of course, was in his right place. If Miss Gough's protegés were glad to see the face and hear the voice of their benefactor, he seemed no less glad to be there. We have heard Mr. Morley speak at religious and philanthropic assemblies many a time and oft, but we certainly never heard him speak with more depth of feeling—a feeling that seemed at times too strong for utterance. As "a partner in the concern," he said he was deeply moved with a desire to strengthen the hands of those who were endeavouring to guard young women from the many perils to which they are exposed in this great city. With true tact and delicacy he touched somewhat lightly on those dangers, though he pressed home the fact of their existence. Probably, however, they were better known to his auditors than to himself. He said he was delighted to know that these rooms had already proved a comfort and a help to many young friends who felt that they were in need of such a harbour of refuge to which they could go at any time. He sincerely trusted the future of the institution would be a very blessed one. Already there were signs that an enlargement of the premises would be desirable. If Miss Gough would only speak a confident word as to the need and the advantage of that, he was sure the matter could soon be arranged.

Canon Leigh, having expressed a hearty interest in the work, which he said was indeed a grand one, Mr. J. H. Tritton gave fitting expression to the feelings of the company when he said he had been greatly touched by Mr. Morley's simple but heartfelt words. It was, indeed, consecrated wealth that had enabled the place to be opened. The young women who came to the Morley rooms might be sure that they would always find there an atmosphere of Christian love and sympathy, and excellent advice. There were many open doors on every side, beckoning these young people to enter—the theatre, the music hall, and so forth. Here was an open door which they could safely enter, and know that they would receive not harm but present and lasting benefit.

After Miss Wilkins had sweetly sung a solo, Rev. M. Washington gave an admirable talk, the two leading thoughts of which were "Christ for me," the source of peace, and "Christ in me," the source of power. Mr. Marshall Lang expatiated in a pleasing and homely way on the duties that young women owe to themselves, to one another, and to God. He pressed home the thought that on the young women themselves it would largely depend whether the benefits to be found in the rooms were taken advantage of by others. We understand that this fact has already been amply verified in the history of the work, as it is a very common thing for those who have visited Morley House to return with some of their friends and companions.

Before the meeting closed, Mr. Morley gave his young "partners in the concern" some excellent advice as to the sort of books they ought to read, and generously offered to add to the library a parcel of suitable volumes. The meeting, at the instance of Miss Gough, expressed in the heartiest way their grateful thanks to Mr. Morley, and everybody went away highly delighted, as well they might. It must have been encouraging to Miss Gough to have the presence and sympathy of a number of friends of the work, besides those whom we have mentioned; among those present were Hon. Arthur F. Kinnaird, and Hon. Emily Kinnaird, Mrs. Washington, Miss Hope, Mrs. Tritton, Mr. Benjamin Clarke, Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher, Miss Erskine, Miss Weitbrecht, and others.

Morley Rooms, we may say, are open to members and friends on Sunday, Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, for conversation, reading, writing, music, and rest. Classes for various branches of study are also arranged, and altogether the place is a bright and busy centre of happy and refreshing influence. Miss Gough has the enviable knack of making her sisters feel perfectly at home, and making them understand that she will do all that can possibly be done to brighten and beautify their lives. Herein lies the secret of her success.

◆

MESSRS. MOODY AND SANKEY.

"The interest manifested in the meetings held by these evangelists at Kingston, New York," says a correspondent of the New York Tribune, "is unprecedented and far beyond the anticipations of the local managers, who find it impossible to give all who come a chance to see and hear them. There is no building in the city large enough to hold the assemblies. Thousands were turned away yesterday, and although an overflow meeting was held in the Fair-street Reformed Church, conducted by Mr. Sankey, still many could not get in. A man last evening, who had driven forty miles, he said, to hear Mr. Moody, failed to get into the building. This afternoon Mr. Moody gave an address on the power of the Holy Spirit for service. At the close he asked all who were hungry and thirsty for the Holy Spirit to rise while he prayed. Nearly the whole audience arose while Mr. Moody offered a most fervent prayer. To-night he addressed men especially."

The evangelists have also conducted, with many tokens of public interest, a short convention, with evangelistic services, at Poughkeepsie.

◆

OBITUARY.

REV. W. NICOLE.

"We regret," says The Nonconformist, "to record the sudden death of Rev. W. E. Nicole, of Dalston, in his 68th year. The deceased was formerly pastor of the Congregational Churches at Enfield Highway and Edmonton, and only lately preached at Maberly Chapel. Though Mr. Nicole had not for some years had a settled pastorate, he frequently filled many of the London Congregational pulpits as an occasional supply. He was also one of the preachers at the Morley Hall, Homerton Evangelical Hall, and Holborn Town Hall in connection with the Special Services Committee; and he was an active member of the Open-Air Mission."

RESCUE SOCIETY.—Dear Sir,—Your valuable summary of our report which appeared in your last issue has already produced good fruit. One kind friend who had before contributed £10 to our funds this year, most generously offers £25, providing twelve other friends will each give a similar amount before the middle of January, in order to clear off the deficiency of over £300 which appears in our last balance-sheet. I sincerely trust your readers will help me to claim this welcome offer. Through the summer our hands have been very full of work, a larger number have been received into our Homes than in recent years, and the winter is now upon us when we may expect a still larger number of applicants. We have much cause for thankfulness to God for the blessing that is manifestly resting on our efforts.

Yours faithfully, C. Stuart Thorpe.

79, Finsbury-pavement, E.C.

EVANGELISTIC NOTES.

METROPOLITAN TABERNACLE.—On November 10 the annual tea and public meeting of the Station-road Mission of the Metropolitan Tabernacle Evangelists' Association was held in the Pastor's College, Newington. Mr. G. E. Elvin, Secretary of the Association, gave a brief outline of the year's work. He stated that altogether over 400 meetings had been held.

BERKSHIRE.—Mr. J. B. Wookey addressed a large meeting of men in the Town Hall, Abingdon, on November 9, Rev. W. H. Cam (Master of the Grammar School) presiding. The address was received with great enthusiasm. On the Tuesday evening following, Mr. Wookey gave an address to a large number of working-men in the Congregational Chapel at the village of Sutton Courtney.

A NINE DAYS' MISSION has been held, conducted in the Faversham Circuit, by Mr. W. H. Thompson, Wesleyan Home Missionary. Some have professed conversion, and the Church has been stirred up. Addresses were delivered by Messrs. Gregory, Harrington, Farman, Maples, Possee, Tysoe, and Marshall. Funds for the association are much needed. The hon. secretary's address is 121, Camberwell New-road, S.E.

HITCHIN, HERTS.—Mr. James Rennie, the colporteur who has been labouring in this district for the last fourteen years, attending markets, fairs, and visiting the villages, has, during that period, been successful in selling and distributing £8000 worth of Bibles and other good books. The sales have consisted of over 120,180 volumes, 251,700 periodicals, and 2,000,000 tracts. Through the agency of this association a large amount of instructive literature finds its way to the homes of the industrial classes.

SHETLAND.—There has been, in connection with the Free Church congregation at Nyasonnd, Unst, Shetland, a series of evangelistic services, conducted by Mr. Pittendrigh, of the Evangelisation Society. The people have attended in large numbers. Several have been brought to a saving knowledge of the truth. As one token of the good done a Young Men's Christian Association has been formed for the study of God's Word, prayer, and song. Over twenty have been enrolled. Prayer is asked for continuance of blessing.

SOUTH SHIELDS.—A most remarkable tidal wave of blessing has passed over this town. The various Established churches in the borough have all (with one exception) held a ten days' Mission, when evangelistic services of the most simple kind have been held nightly, and as many as seven meetings a day, for instruction to Christians, for women, and for working-men. Nearly every church has held open-air meetings, and the Gospel has been faithfully preached, and many have been undoubtedly born again by faith in Christ Jesus, and in these churches where the seed has been sown for very many years without such a direct effort as the present.

OLDHAM.—Mr. E. P. Telford's mission progressed with increased force and blessing to the close. The Gospel has been preached with great power and freshness to crowded and deeply impressed congregations. A large number have professed faith in Christ. Among the converts are some very interesting cases, notably that of a young woman, the daughter of a publican, who, after giving her heart to God, went home and announced to the company in the tap-room that she had found the Saviour. In other instances, the prayers of years for partners, parents, and children, have been graciously answered. The churches of all Evangelical denominations in this town have profited by this movement.

SAILORS' REST, MADEIRA.—An eye-witness of the good work done here writes:—Formerly, the sailor on landing at Madeira for a few hours knew not where to go. He was eagerly watched for, and decoyed into wine-shops and other dens of iniquity, where he was drugged, robbed, stripped, and finally kicked out into the street. Now, in one of the most conspicuous places, and within sight of the beach, Jack and his companions can enjoy themselves in reading the news, writing to their friends at home, or playing a few simple games. They can have refreshments—tea, coffee, lemonade, &c.—but no intoxicating liquors. They can also have beds, if they wish to sleep on shore. Often the earnest sailors' missionary and his wife have a free tea for the crew, and after tea a meeting is held for prayer, singing, Bible-reading, and preaching the Gospel. The secretary and missionary is Mr. W. G. Smart, 183, Rua dos Ferreiros, Funchal, Madeira.

FRENCH COLONISTS AND BERBERS

In obeying the command of our Lord to "Preach the Gospel to every creature," the pressure on the spirit would naturally be with Paul to go "where Christ was not named." So we have had the Kabyles and still have them on our hearts; but in approaching them we pass numberless villages of French colonists in as deplorable a condition spiritually, and most of them perhaps lower morally, than the natives around them. Exceptions there may be, like one aged man we met with lately, who said, "I did know these things once, but we forget them out here." Their death-like indifference is only an additional reason for caring for them, for awakening, for enlightening them.

Under a deep sense of this sad state of things, we turn naturally to those who speak their tongue, to French and Swiss Christians. We have been to Geneva with the view of interesting the "Société Evangélique de Genève" in these 300 villages of French colonists, and they were not indifferent to the appeal. We proposed to them to adopt an instrumentality similar to that employed by the Crystal Palace Bible Stand, whose Bible carriage, under the enterprising and devoted Mons. Pointet, has for sixteen years traversed France throughout. One difficulty, however, lies in their way—their want of means, and, in order to obviate this, I have applied to several friends in England who have responded most liberally to my application for pecuniary help. Thus far have we got in the undertaking, and what is wanting is the suited labourer for so responsible a work; for this need we ask our friends to unite with us and our Geneva friends, and pray that the Lord may be pleased to raise such a one up.

And now to turn to our beloved Kabyles, there are many tribes besides those who are enclosed within the mountain range of the Jur-Jura; amongst others, towards the north-eastern extremity of the province of Algiers. We have lately been pioneering amongst them. On leaving the railway at El Affroun we proceed along an excellent road, having for many a mile, as a very prominent object challenging our attention, on the summit of a hill forming part of the Sahel range, the great sepulchre of the Numidian kings. It is an imposing structure, 137 feet high, its base surrounded by sixty Ionic columns. After passing some of the villages of French colons, we arrived at Cherchel the Jol of the Phœnicians and the Julia Cæsarea of the Romans, the capital of Mauritania under Juba II. Here we are in the midst of ruins, amphitheatre, statues, aqueducts, oil-presses, mosaics, showing very vividly the importance of this city of past ages. But it was the living souls, not the dead ruins, which brought us here. The people are the same, their language still spoken in this place, which, under this said Juba, was the centre of the Numidio-Mauritanian kingdom. This language is the Zenatia, and most of the forms of verbs used in the Kabyle of the Jur-Jura are found in it, but in many respects differing from the various dialects found in North Africa. The knowledge of the Zaouia would doubtless be of great service, but a missionary would have to study the peculiarities of the Zenatia.

THE BENI MENASSER

There are two groups of the Beni Menasser, one not far from Cherchel, the other nearer to Miliana. This Cherchel is a town of 5000 inhabitants on the coast, a small steamer plying weekly between it and Algiers. Miliana is situated on a plateau at an elevation of 2400 feet, on the Zakkar mountain, the highest summit of which is 5000 feet in height. The town has what the French call an "aspect riant;" it seems almost, as it were, suspended in the air.

To see these Berber villagers, speaking their own tongue (for they are surrounded by Arabs, and both Berbers and Arabs speak Arabic) one has to proceed to Gouraya, to the east, on the sea-coast by diligence, from thence by mules through the centre of their mountainous country towards Orleansville, Arbal Zatyma (a large village in this tribe), Tazrout (with 600 inhabitants), two villages, Bou Hammou and Taourirt, Elkern and Alallah (together 500 or 600 inhabitants), Ouled Aissan Brahim (300 or 400), Iril Y'r (150).

In the Beni bou Melek is a solitary European house in the centre of this district where one can find a night's lodging. Zongara, Tachta, Beni ma Oussin, Beni Friah, two fractions, one near Cherchel, the other on the river Cheliff, not forgetting the mountain of Chenoua, and those at that interesting old Roman port, Tipasa. I specify these as they are all Berber-speaking villages, but the knowledge of Arabic would be essential to any one evangelising this district. They are by no means fanatical, and possess the same characteristics as the Kabyles of the Jur-Jura; perhaps, if anything, there is a more haughty sense of independence. A European would be perfectly safe amongst them. There are no French schools, but several Zaouia or Arab colleges: at the Zaouia of Sidi Moussa is found the distinguished family of Sidi Edriss, the same as in Morocco, another Zaouia in the Doua Boumad, and one in the Zakkar of the Beni Menasser.

Are Christians, whether French or others, called on by the parting commission of our Lord to seek to evangelise these tribes? This is a question which is discussed in a letter by Pastor Lassere of Tizi-Ouzou in a letter to the Eglise Libre of Sept. 25. He thinks, in present circumstances, there is nothing like the case of the vision of the man of Macedonia, no invitation from villages to come and evangelise them. He denies the correctness of the statement of the Evangile et Liberté, a Swiss paper, about the "flourishing state of the missions in Kabylia." This may be, for the work is only in its initiatory stage; but we can vouch, from personal acquaintance with individuals in many tribes, that there are aspirations of soul towards a better knowledge of God than their poor Mohamedism can give them. Are we to satisfy these aspirations or shall we leave them in their darkness?

The great want is missionary evangelists. It may not be practicable to hold meetings at first, to sing, preach, and pray, in regular order; but it is never difficult to get groups around you in any village, as we have found in our recent journey. We will take Marengo as a specimen of what may be done. This is a pretty little town of about 800 inhabitants, with its cottages standing in their gardens. We visited its numerous streets, built at right angles with each other, distributing tracts and portions, my wife, with her ready tact, addressing nearly all she met. Their inquiry, "What is it all about?" give the opportunity to set forth the Gospel. We were well received and listened to, one or two old men scoffers being the exception.

Then from house to house in the central streets, French, Spaniards, Maltese, Jews, gave us even a warm welcome. In the large market frequented by Hadjoutes, the Beni Menasser, the Beni Menad, and the Chenoua, Arabs from Bledah, Mzabs, Riffs, Maltese, Spaniards, French, we had many groups to listen to us, and found many who could read our Arab tracts and Gospel portions. Some lordly-looking Kaids took Arab Gospels from the hands of my wife, bowing gracefully whenever they saw us. When our errand amongst them got wind, we were pursued by Arabs running after us for an Arab tract. How we were refreshed in seeing a Spaniard reading to a friend his Spanish Gospel by St. Luke. The man's face literally beamed with joy in hearing its sweet words. How well the Jews received their Hebrew portion, and listened to the Gospel. A Turco entreated for an Arab Gospel, to read it to his comrades in the barracks. At Cherchel, too, we had a good distribution all over the town, to people of various nationalities, and some very promising cases, which led to sending New Testaments by post.—Yours in Christ, Geo. Pearse.

L'agha, Algiers.

DERBY. — Mrs. Ormiston Chant and Mrs. Bradley have addressed largely attended and enthusiastic meetings in Derby on questions relating to purity of life.

TO CHRIST BE GLORY!

To Christ be glory—the glory of Redemption;
He gave his life, his blood, his all for me,
Redeemed me—yes, and gave me full exemption
From all my sins, and tells me I am free!

To Christ be glory—the glory of Salvation: [God,
Saved!—what a word!—from judgment unto
Made heir with Christ, God owning the relation,
Begun in grace, and sealed with precious blood.

To Christ be glory—the glory of the ages;
The harvest of eternity is his! [gages,
His praise, high praise, each soul in heaven en-
His name the centre of all heavenly bliss.

To Christ be glory—rolling on for ever;
A mighty current, swelling, gathering still!
Where nought the host redeemed by blood shall sever,
Praise, praise, eternal praise, all heaven shall fill!

Albert Midlane.

◆

FINSBURY PARK HALL Y.M.C.A.

At the last monthly conference of workers, various interesting reports were submitted. Mr. Bird gave a graphic description of the open-air services held every Sunday morning close by the Manor-house, Finsbury-park, through the summer months. Crowds of working men who have qualified themselves as "bonâ fide travellers" by walking long distances from home, meet there to obtain drink during otherwise prohibited hours. God's blessing has rested on the efforts put forth, and many have been brought to Christ.

Mr. Leigh Holme gave an encouraging account of work amongst the children. Mrs. French followed with a striking account of the work amongst young women. She told of one remarkable case, that of a young girl who had come up to London from the country, friendless and almost penniless. She wandered the streets all night not knowing whither she went until providentially her eyes caught sight of the board at 1, Coleridge-road, "Young Women's Christian Institute." Almost fainting with want and weariness, she knocked at the door, Mrs. French listened to her story, took her in, and cared for her; and had the great joy of leading her to the feet of Jesus. Her friends were communicated with and restoration and forgiveness are likely to result. Mrs. French has now some 150 young women around her, chiefly converts from her own Bible-class and the hall services.

The Young Men's Reception Committee was touched upon by its hon. sec., Mr. Hammond, whilst Mr. Orchard told of the increasing numbers of young men joining the association, and especially of the remarkable number that were being impressed and converted. Mr. Holme gave some gratifying details of the evangelistic services, and especially of the after meetings which have resulted in much blessing to many.

A series of meetings for young men only, conducted by Mr. Farie, are held every Friday night in the hall. A free tea is provided for different sections of young men by any gentleman whom Mr. Farie can induce to become the host of the evening. Much spiritual blessing is crowning the effort.

A number of the Christian ladies of the neighbourhood have formed themselves into a Ladies Council to see if they cannot brighten up and beautify the hall, classrooms, and parlour, by introducing taste and cosy homelike comforts in the shape of pictures, works of art, sofas, musical instruments, &c. God bless them in their work and labour of love.

THE MEETINGS FOR YOUNG MEN last week at Centenary Hall, Bishopsgate-street, arranged for by the Gracechurch-street Y.M.C.A., were most encouraging. The brief addresses by Revs. Dr. Sinclair Paterson, E. P. Hammond, and T. B. Robertson, and Messrs. H. Varley and J. H. Tritton, were to the point and greatly appreciated.

MIDNIGHT MEETING MOVEMENT.—During the past week an effort has been made by a number of Christian friends of various denominations to reach the fallen of Hull, and to rescue all who were inclined to forsake their mode of life. Meetings have been held in various places. Those assembled seemed much impressed by the earnest addresses of Mr. Christien, the London secretary of the Midnight Meeting Movement; Rev. Mr. Hetherington, St. Peter's, Drypool; Mr. T. Haller, Mrs. Harman, and others, including some reformed women of many years' standing.

DESTITUTION IN THE FAR NORTH.

SIR,—There is a lonely island in the Shetland group called Foula, the population of which, numbering 270 souls, are likely to be in great want for bare necessaries during the winter. Their ordinary resources—fishing, and the produce of their patches of land—have both entirely failed this year. There is not enough "grain" left to re-sow the crofts in the spring.

A gentleman, long and intimately connected with the island, says, "the like condition has not been known in this century." I can testify personally that unless help is obtained there will be much suffering during the winter. A committee (of which I am treasurer) has been formed to solicit help, and we earnestly hope to receive a prompt and generous response to our appeal. In the winter season stormy weather sometimes shuts us off for months from communication with the mainland.

Subscriptions may be sent to me or to Messrs. Morgan & Scott.—I am, &c.,

Geo. Morrison, Congregational Minister.

Foula Isle, Shetland, N.B.

GOSPEL WORK IN CUBA.

RELIGIOUS toleration in this island is complete. The American Bible Society have three agents at work. The American Foreign School Association aids Sunday-schools, of which they have already four at work, with over eight hundred children and teachers. A resident American physician (Mr. James Shimmin) says:—"There has been a good opening made in Havana and other places for Church and Sunday-school work; meetings are well attended and full of promise. There is great opposition from the priests. The country is now open for Sunday-school work. A great work ought to be done also among the freed negroes on the sugar estates, teaching them to read, and giving them Sunday-schools, and religious instruction."

The work was commenced in 1882 by Mr. Alberto I. Dïaz, Prado, 115, Havana, a civil engineer, who, aided by his wife, brother, and sister, have organised four undenominational missions with some eight hundred children and the same number of adults, including visitors, at the services. An encouraging and healthy sign is that during four years the expenses have been met by themselves and some friends belonging to their Havana congregation. There seems to be more religious liberty, more desire to hear the Gospel, and a more open door in Cuba than in the mother country.

A BIBLE-SEARCHING UNION.—There is, in connection with the Y.M.C.A. at Derby, what is known as a "Bible-searching Union." The members belong to Mr. Richardson's Bible and Prayer Union. Each member in his private reading selects some one verse, or sentence, or word, in the chapter for the day; thinks over it, prays over it, and diligently searches the Scriptures with a view to its elucidation or illustration. Once a week the members meet in class to compare notes, and to confer and pray together over their searchings. By those who are already members of Bible and Prayer Unions, similar unions can be formed quite readily. A very short trial will show how conducive they are to increased interest and profit in Bible study.

MEDICAL MISSIONARY STUDENTSHIPS.—The Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge has made provision for offering studentships for the training of medical missionaries. The studentships will be tenable for periods not exceeding four years. The amount of them, which will not in any case exceed £150 a year, will be fixed by the standing committee of the Society. The standing committee will nominate to the studentships, and the following classes will be eligible for appointment to them—viz.: (1) medical men who, having completed their professional education, are willing to go through the training needful for ordination, and, after being ordained, to go out to exercise their medical skill and experience as missionaries among the heathen; (2) clergymen who are willing to go through the needful training for the medical profession, and, after obtaining their diploma, to go out as missionaries as those described under class No. 1; (3) medical men who, having completed their medical training, desire to undertake lay mission work among the heathen, and are willing to undergo at least one year's training with that object.—Lancet.

TEMPERANCE NOTES.

The women of Victoria have presented to Parliament a petition one-third of a mile long in favour of Local Option.

Dr. W. B. Carpenter, author of a famous Temperance Prize Essay, died on November 10, at Regent's Park-road.

A "Temperance Drink" called "American Cider" has been proved to contain about 7½ per cent. of proof spirit.

The Queensland Parliament has adopted the Licensing Bill, including complete local option without compensation.

On the London School Board there are five prominent Temperance advocates—viz, Rev. G. M. Murphy, Mr. Lucraft, Rev. A. W. Jephson, M.A., Rev. W. Barker, and Rev. J. R. Diggle.

The London Temperance Hotels Company (Limited) is the title of a new company for carrying on the business of Temperance Hotels in London and elsewhere.

Chief Justice Taney, of the United States Supreme Court, says there is nothing in the Constitution to prevent any State taking its own measures with the drink traffic.

A new coffee-tavern has been opened in Liverpool. It has cost £10,000. The site was formerly occupied by one of the worst of the public-houses near the Sailors' Home.

The Adams Express Company (U.S.) allows no liquor to be used by their employés, and the Chicago, Burlington, and Quincy Railroad forbids its agents to board where liquor is sold.

A Conference of German evangelical Missionary Societies has called the attention of the Imperial Government to the dangers to the German Colonies arising out of the liquor trade.

The Bishop of Ripon preached in Ripon Cathedral, in connection with the eleventh anniversary of the Durham Diocesan Branch of the Church of England Temperance Society.

At Capetown, persons twice convicted of drunkenness are photographed, and copies sent to each publican in their district, with orders that they are not to be supplied with drink.

M. Girard, Chief of the Paris Municipal Laboratory, says genuine brandy is now almost unknown. Vile adulterations are largely sold as brandy, and are a fruitful source of lunacy.

In reply to an inquiry by the Sunday Closing Association a leading resident says the condition of Wrexham is very much better since the Sunday Closing Act came into operation.

Ex-Baillie Selkirk, Glasgow, calls attention to the very vague way in which not a few candidates express themselves on the drink question. This is a real danger to early legislation.

"Temperance and Longevity" is the title of a suggestive article in The Temperance Record, Nov. 12. Numerous facts and testimonies are quoted to show that alcohol shortens life.

At Blandford Workhouse new officials are not to be supplied with beer, or money instead. Present officers are to have money in lieu of beer, and the supply of intoxicants to paupers is to be reduced.

At a recent meeting of the Governors of Newcastle-on-Tyne Infirmary, Mr. W. D. Stephens protested against the expenditure on stimulants, and cited the London Temperance Hospital on his side.

Baron Rothschild, M.P., recently took part at a Wesleyan Temperance meeting at Waddesden. At the close the Baron insisted that some of those in the room should sign the pledge, and all who had not done so did.

The Temperance Committee of the Irish Presbyterian Church have issued a vigorous electoral address. They urge the electors to vote only for men who will go for early and effective Temperance reform.

The twenty-fourth session of the Lambeth Baths winter entertainments was inaugurated on November 7. Services will be held every night, Sunday all day, and on Friday nights religious services.

The Yorkshire Women's Christian Temperance Union held its annual meetings at Selby, Nov. 3 and 4. Fifty-five meetings had been held during the year, including fifteen drawing-room meetings. Much good work has been done.

The annual Conference of the Yorkshire Women's Christian Temperance Union was held last week at Selby. Stirring and powerful addresses were given by various friends, and all the meetings were calculated to renew the energy of the many Temperance workers.

On Thursday last the Seamen's Chapel, St. George-street, E., was well filled with seamen to hear an address from Miss Messer, of Leytonstone, on "Gospel Temperance." At the close of the meeting nineteen sailors signed the pledge, and some, it is believed, made a start for heaven.

The Bishop of London has expressed a wish that the clergy throughout the diocese will support the Church of England Temperance Society by sermons, and, if possible, offertories on Sunday, May 9, 1886. "That Society," says the Bishop, "is doing a much-needed work in a most excellent way." The Church of England Temperance Society's income is £5000 a year. It now appeals to its friends for an income of £10,000 a year for the support and extension of its work.

CONTINENTAL AND FOREIGN NOTES.

BERLIN.—Leading preachers were announced to preside and speak every evening during the Y.M.C.A. week of prayer.

ABSINTHE.—A Neuchâtel lady, possessing some fields of Absinthe that yield her a revenue of about £150 per annum, has had her conscience touched by the evils caused by the extract of absinthe, and has renounced its cultivation.

THE LAUREATE'S NEW POEM.—With true American enterprise the New York Independent had Lord Tennyson's new poem "Vastness" specially cabled on its appearance in Macmillan's Magazine, so that it appears in the issue of The Independent for November 5.

SABBATH OBSERVANCE.—The Bulletin Dominical continues to report progress in Continental nations on this question. In Denmark "The Society for the good use of Sunday" seeks to abolish all forced labour in factories, shops, &c. Though the progress is slow it is sure.

A MISSING LINK.—In Berlin, in connection with one or two churches, Homes have been opened for children whose parents are out at work all day. Here, under the care of a matron, they are protected while at play, helped in the preparation of their school lessons, and initiated in such housework as their age and time permit.

Requests for Prayer.

FOR a mission to be held at Topclyffe Grange, Farnborough, from Nov. 14 to 28.——For rich blessing on a mission to be held at the Gosport Y.W.C.A., by Mrs. W. E. Legg, Nov. 22–29.——For much blessing in connection with a mission at Ramsgate, conducted by Mr. Rayner, of Ipswich.

"EDINBURGH CASTLE," LIMEHOUSE.—Rev. E. P. Hammond will commence a three weeks' mission for children and others here on Sunday next. As Dr. Barnardo will be absent, owing to his recent illness, it is hoped there will be a good muster of Christian workers from various parts to help in the work.

CHRISTMAS CARDS.—Dear Sir,—May I again ask your readers for Christmas cards for the inmates of the workhouse and hospitals of our neighbourhood? Last year we had the pleasure of distributing some thousands of these tokens of goodwill to those who were deprived of all the festivity and much of the gladness of Christmastide. Packets should be sent, before December 14, to Miss Dorey, 6, The Paragon, Blackheath, S.E.—Yours truly,

G. W. B.

BRIXTON Y.W.C.A.—The fifth anniversary of this Association was held on Tuesday, November 10, when a large number of friends came together to hear an account of the work. Rev. N. A. Garland, Vicar of St. Matthews, presided. The report was read, telling of a large increase of members within the last few months, and showing how thoroughly the Institute is appreciated now that it is in a better position. Dr. Concanon, Vicar of St. Paul's, West Brixton, Rev. Cumming Brown, Pastor of Wynne-road, Chapel, Rev. J. Douglas, Pastor of Kenyon Chapel, and Rev. A. E. Foster, Curate of Holy Trinity, Tulse-hill, spoke of the need of such a Society, and the bond of union it was amongst the workers. The members met in large numbers for tea on Wednesday. After games and singing, a short Gospel address closed the evening. On Thursday the members of the Junior Branch had tea. The resident superintendent is Miss New; the hon. sec. (Mrs.) M. E. Garrett.

The Book World.

By a Hair's Breadth, and Other Stories. S. W. Partridge. Not a pleasant book on the whole. Books for the young should elevate to a noble reality. Life is not all dreams, adventures, and marriage.

Mrs. Grimke, Prestwich, Manchester, has issued several new and attractive packets of coloured and illustrated text cards. Friends who distribute these pretty little Gospel missives should send to her for a catalogue.

Songs of Perseverance. By Esther Wiglesworth. Nisbet & Co. This is intended as a manual of devotional verse, and for those who can take the rhymed thoughts of others as infusing a spirit of devotion they may be useful.

In the Depths of the Sea. By "Old Boomerang." Hodder & Stoughton. A stirring tale of the sea, which will fascinate boy readers. It contains graphic and instructive descriptions of foreign cities, and is throughout pervaded by a sound and healthy tone.

The National Temperance Mirror for 1885 is full of telling anecdotes, verses, and pictures; an attractive volume. The National Temperance Reader gives a selection of readings, bright and yet serious. Both are issued from The Temperance Depôt, 337, Strand.

Sunshine for 1885. 1s. 6d. George Stoneman & Co. Another yearly volume of Dr. Whittemore's popular annual for children. It contains nearly two hundred pages of reading suitable for juveniles, and nearly fifty capital illustrations. It will certainly make a very acceptable present to the young folks.

Daisy of "Old Meadow." By Agnes Giberne. Nisbet & Co. 2s. A thoroughly wholesome story, in Miss Giberne's inimitable style. It records the influence of a beautiful young life on one whose god is gold, until at last he finds "the unsearchable riches." Admirable as a Sunday-school reward-book.

Our Own Magazine (Volume for 1885) is one of the very best annuals for children, and cannot but be widely useful. It is full of interesting articles and narratives, beautifully illustrated, and, as we have before remarked, it has the unique distinction of giving its readers facts instead of fiction. It is published at the office of The Children's Special Service Mission, 48, Paternoster-row.

The Expositor. 1s. Hodder & Stoughton. The number for November is a splendid one, a very full shillingsworth to any thoughtful Bible student. Dr. Maclaren's article is an almost perfect specimen of exposition; there are also a very suggestive and well-written article on the Messianic Psalms of the New Testament, and an exceedingly valuable paper by Professor Godet on the Second Epistle to the Corinthians. Other contributions of a high character fill up the number.

Sketches of Scripture Characters. By Rev. Andrew Thomson, D.D. 3s. 6d. Hodder & Stoughton. One of the most valuable aids to exposition is the study of the persons by whom history is made. In the thirteen sketches before us we have men and women, good and bad, from the Old Testament and the New, whose character and actions are analysed with scientific method and spiritual insight, throwing light upon the whole surrounding circumstances. An able book, affording valuable help to personal study of the sacred narrative.

It is well in these days of religious freedom and privilege to be reminded of the epochs of the past, when it cost something to be a faithful follower of the despised Nazarene and when his witnesses had often to seal their testimony with their life-blood. Messrs. Cassell & Co. have published three historical tales, illustrating these persecuting times. No. XIII., or the Story of the Lost Vestal, by Emma Marshall, gives a vivid glimpse into the history of the early Christian Church, under the Romish persecutions, when the spirits of the martyr confessors went up from the amphitheatre, where their bodies were given as a prey to the wild beasts. Adam Hepburn's Vow, by Miss Annie Swan, is a stirring story of the Covenanting days in Scotland, when the faithful had to hide in caves and dens to escape the cruel malice of the Claverhouse tribe, and when many were put to the sword simply because they dared to worship God according to the dictates of conscience. By Fire and Sword, by Thomas Archer, is a tale of the Huguenot persecutions which we have lately been commemorating. The perusal of these narratives may well awaken gratitude that we live in happier times, as well as brace the spirit to more zeal and faithfulness in God's service.

The Owners of Broadlands. By Mrs. H. B. Paull. 5s. Hodder & Stoughton. The writer of this story has displayed considerable skill in the delineation of her characters, and has interwoven their mutual relationships in an able and readable manner. The praiseworthy action of a conscience-stricken youth in one portion is very feelingly described, whilst the temptations afforded by uncontrolled residence in our great cities are shown with great effect.

The Island Queen. By R. M. Ballantyne. 3s. 6d. Nisbet & Co. This talented author is always a favourite with schoolboys, nor will this excellent story diminish his well-earned reputation. The characters are sustained with great clearness throughout, and the stirring incidents and scenes are pourtrayed with vividness and power. Nor is any opportunity lost to impress upon young readers the necessity of remembering their Creator in the days of their youth, and this is done in a timely, agreeable, and unostentatious manner.

Her Saddest Blessing. By Jennie Chappell. S. W. Partridge. A very natural and well-written story. The characters are life-like, though their surroundings are not always so. A good deal of the "fairy-prince" element is infused into the narrative, and many susceptible young readers will find the lover and the legacy which fall to Olive's share the pleasantest part of the book. But there is a better record of God's saving love for the heroine, and if any desire to know what "Her Saddest Blessing" was they will find it in this record.

In the Footsteps of Heroes. 3s. 6d. Hodder & Stoughton. This volume contains sixteen sermons, by the late Enoch Mellor, and will be greatly valued by all who had the privilege of being instructed in the Word by this eminent spiritual teacher. Those who were denied the opportunity of hearing the living voice will find it a welcome and edifying addition to their literary means of grace. The selection of subjects embraces many that but seldom form the subject of a preacher's discourse, and they are dealt with in a very striking and impressive manner.

Pictures and Emblems. By Dr. Alex. Maclaren. 5s. Christian Commonwealth Office. This admirable selection from Dr. Maclaren's discourses, of the "life thoughts" and illustrations of which they are so full, will be welcomed by his many admirers. Every paragraph is a nugget of pure gold. Beautiful in their literary framework, these miniature pictures of speech are rich in inspiring thoughts and comforting suggestions. A frequent dip into this spiritual treasure-trove will help to nourish the heavenly life and keep the soul's affections fresh. A copious index greatly adds to the convenience of the reader.

How to be Happy; Jesus and the Little Ones. By Rev. E. P. Hammond. Drummond's Tract Depôt, Stirling. These two books for children, by Mr. Hammond, are filled with Bible truth, illustrations, and pictures. They exhibit vividly the atoning work of Christ. The last three chapters of "How to be Happy" are addressed specially to young Christians. In simple language the nature of the Lord's Supper is explained; it is made clear that it is the privilege and duty of all who love the Lord to commemorate his dying love. It is well known that many children, all over the world, who sincerely love the Saviour, are yet prevented from confessing Him in this way. We are glad, therefore, that Mr. Hammond has given prominence to this matter. From Mr. Hammond's pen the same publishers have issued a prettily got up series of tracts with coloured illustrations of flowers and birds. Ministers and teachers will find them helpful in seeking to lead the young to Christ.

John Gordon, of Pitlurg and Parkhill. By his Widow. 5s. Nisbet & Co. The subject of this memoir was a familiar figure at the Perth Christian Conference for many years, and an active helper in all good movements in the North of Scotland. At the age of twenty-seven Mr. Gordon was converted to a new life and new views of life, through the instrumentality of his relative Mr. Gordon Forlong; from that time it could be truly said of him that to him to live was Christ. His whole-hearted service of God and man entered into all the relations of life; as one of the "landed gentry" of Aberdeenshire, he was as faithful in life and testimony as in his much-loved evangelistic work among the humbler classes. There is a touch of pathetic interest about this volume, seeing that it has been compiled by his widow in the midst of bodily weakness and suffering. The numerous friends of her late husband will thank her for such a true and simple record of a devoted and eminently useful life. Would that many more in Mr. Gordon's station in life were equally desirous of adorning it by a godly walk and a self-sacrificing service.

Yoked Together. By E. L. Davis. 5s. Nisbet & Co. This is a really excellent book, be it viewed from the standpoint of the Christian, the moralist, or the ardent lover of an interesting tale. Solemn and valuable lessons regarding the Christian life lay quiet but forcible hold on the reader, who is at the same time delighted with the brightness and occasional humour with which the story is told. The main points cluster around 2 Cor. vi. 14, and form an eloquent plea for consistent Christian marriage; but there is graceful ease of style which clothes them in pleasant and attractive garb. It should make a mark amongst the new books of this season.

Almanacks. In point of originality and general freshness of its contents, we must once more give the palm to Mr. Spurgeon's John Ploughman's Almanack (Passmore & Alabaster. 1d.). His supply of sharp, and quaint, and wise, and witty proverbial sayings seems inexhaustible, while the other matter is up to the usual high-water mark. Of course he has his usual plea for orphan girls and boys, which we hope will meet with a wide response. Spurgeon's Illustrated Almanack (1d.) contains articles by the editor and other writers, daily texts, Metropolitan Tabernacle Directory, &c., with a number of striking illustrations.

MESSRS. JOHN F. SHAW & CO.

This firm have again issued a number of attractive books, which deserve a cordial welcome into every family. On the Cliff, by Catherine Shaw (3s. 6d.), is a narrative which the reader will not find it easy to lay aside till it is finished. The same writer gives us another series of Something for Sunday, and a new picture book called Mother's and Mine; (1s. each); both are very charming and useful, and Mr. Pym's pictures in the latter are delightful. The Secret of the Forest, by E. Chapman (1s. 6d.), is a sweet, simple country story full of good teaching. East and West (1s. 6d.) will not only interest the children, but we hope it will stir many hearts to help the sufferers in the East-end of our great city. That Boy Tom (1s. 6d.) is sure to receive favour from the young folks; few could help being the better for it. David Elliott, by E. C. Irving (2s. 6d.), is as good a book as "The Sefton Boys," by the same author, which is saying a great deal. Margaret Casson's Resolve (2s. 6d.) is a tale of earnest effort and hard struggle, and ought to brace the energies of its readers. Us Three (2s. 6d) is a very touching story, showing the sure care of God for the widow and the fatherless. Oughts and Crosses (1s.) is a capital book for boys, showing how "Oughts" faithfully performed and "Crosses" patiently borne, bring strength and peace. Lost Maggie (1s.) is as good for girls as the former is for boys; the two would be capital presents for a brother and sister. Worth the Winning, by Emma E. Hornibrook (3s. 6d.), is a lively tale with several heroines, any of whom might have suggested the title. As we proceed, however, we discover that the one who was "worth the winning" is a rough man, who calls himself "a terrible old fellow," and who yields to the power of the Gospel when tenderly presented to him. Under the experienced guidance of Miss Emily Holt, we are privileged to make another excursion into the region of the bygone in the records of our nation's life; and we return from the mental trip laden with all manner of literary and historical delights. The scene of her latest book, A Tangled Web, is laid in the troublous period that succeeded the Wars of the Roses, when various unsuccessful attempts were made to overturn the Lancastrian dynasty by adherents of the rival house of York. The great and never-failing charms of Miss Holt's historical tales are their substratum of fact, and the vivid light they throw on the social and religious life of the time. It is enough to say that, in these respects, A Tangled Web comes not a whit behind any of its popular predecessors. (5s.)

Heart's Ease, by Mrs. Cronyn (Partridge, 1d.) is a New year wish of blessing sent home to the heart by touching anecdotes of encouragement and warning. To be had from Mrs Higinbotham, Moorside, Bournemouth, at 1s. per doz.

The Children's Scripture Union (48, Paternoster-row, E.C.) have issued some very pretty floral motto cards, giving different passages of Scripture relating to the study of the Word. They may be had in eight varieties, price 10d. per dozen, or 60 for 3s.

Mr. Murray will publish, on the 4th of next month, the Life of Rev. William Carey, D.D., the great Anglo-Indian missionary, who, beginning life as a shoemaker, attained eminence as a professor of Sanskrit and Mahratti, and as one of the most successful propagators of Christianity among the Hindoos. Dr. George Smith, the writer of the Lives of Duff and Wilson, has been long engaged upon this biography.

Three Bridges, Sussex.—A good work is being done at the Worth Mission Hall here. A recent and needed enlargement has cost £200, and as the people are all of the poore class, help will be thankfully received from outside friends b Mr. J. Mowl, Hedley Villa, Three Bridges.

Notes on Daily Readings.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 19.—GEN. XXXV.

1.—"Arise, go up to Bethel."—Jacob seems to have forgotten all about his vow at Bethel, though the Lord reminded him of it when directing him to return to the land of his kindred (xxxi. 13). He is now, after about ten years' delay, commanded to "go up to Bethel and dwell there," which it would have been well for him to have done at first. He recognises the call as one to nearer communion with God, and consequently feels the idolatry which he had weakly tolerated in his family as a hindrance to be put away. "Put away the strange gods that are among you (referring, perhaps, to the 'teraphim' which Rachel stole from her father), and be clean, and change your garments."

4.—"Ear-rings."—"Perhaps talismans or idolatrous symbols worn in the ear."—Sp. Com.

5.—"The terror of God was upon the cities and round about them."—"This decided turning to the Lord was immediately followed by the blessing of God. When they left Shechem, a supernatural terror came 'upon the cities round about,' so that they did not venture to pursue the sons of Jacob on account of the cruelty of Simeon and Levi."—Keil.

11.—"I am God Almighty."—This is the same name, "El Shaddai," as that by which the Lord revealed himself to Abraham (xvii. 1) when He gave him the covenant of circumcision—the rite which Jacob's sons had so lately shockingly profaned; yet the Lord graciously confirms the promises then and afterwards given to Jacob, and blesses him not merely personally, but in his sons, for to them the words "be fruitful and multiply" must be applied.

18.—"She called his name Benoni (son of my sorrow): but his father called him Benjamin" (son of my right hand).—"An interesting example of the difference between the judgment of faith and the judgment of nature. Nature looks at things through the hazy mist with which it is surrounded; faith looks at them in the light of the presence and counsels of God."—C. H. M.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 19.—GEN. XXXVI.

6.—"And Esau . . . . went into the country from the face of his brother Jacob."—This is the counterpart of Jacob's earlier experience, when he fled from the face of his brother Esau (xxxv. 1). But now was being fulfilled the prophecy in at least an initial stage, "the elder shall serve the younger," so as Ishmael the son of the bond servant was cast out from before Isaac, Esau goes out from before Jacob. The language in which this separation is recorded (ver. 7) recalls Lot's separation from Abraham, "for their riches were more than that they might dwell together; and the land wherein they were strangers could not bear them because of their cattle," and no less than in the case of Lot, did Esau choose his portion, and that in "Mount Seir;" nor could he find fault with the decree which "the children being not yet born, neither having done any good or evil, that the purpose of God according to election might stand, not of works, but of Him that calleth," had said, "the elder shall serve the younger," for he had himself said, "What profit shall this birthright do to me?" and had sold it for a mess of pottage: "thus Esau despised his birthright." He had, however, an earthly portion assigned him (xxvii. 39), which this chapter is careful to record, remarking "these are the kings that reigned in the land of Edom before there reigned any king over the children of Israel" (31). Thus Esau typifies those professing Christians who are but "men of the world which have their portion in this life" (Ps. xvii. 14), those of whom the Apostle Paul could speak "even weeping, . . . enemies of the cross of Christ, . . . who mind earthly things" (Phil. iii. 18.) Such have an earthly blessing (for the lot of professing Christians is far beyond that of the heathen), and they reign here (1 Cor. iv. 8; Rev. xviii. 7), long before the reign of Christ and his saints commences; but if they have despised the birthright, or the connection with the Messiah offered to them in the Gospel, afterwards, when they would inherit the blessing, they will be rejected, and be as Esau, who "found no place of repentance, though he sought it carefully with tears."

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 20.—GEN. XXXVII.

v. 2.—"These are the generations of Jacob."—"This, according to the undeviating rule of this expression, is the history of Jacob's descendants, and especially of Joseph. The above heading, therefore, extends to the end of Genesis, and is the history of the removal, through Joseph's instrumentality, of the family of Jacob from Canaan into Egypt, as a step preparatory to its growth into a nation."—Dean Payne Smith.

v. 3.—"A coat of many colours."—R. V. in margin renders this "a long garment with sleeves," and Keil explains it similarly, "a long coat with sleeves such as noblemen wore;" but a drawing from an Egyptian tomb in which appear "robes of rich colouring, apparently formed of separate small pieces or patches sewn together," makes the "Speaker's Commentary" prefer the rendering "coat of many colours," which is that of the LXX. and Vulgate.

24.—"They took him and cast him into a pit."—We learn from xlii. 21 that this was not done without earnest entreaties for mercy on the part of Joseph. "We saw the anguish of his soul, when he besought us, and we would not hear."

26.—"Judah said unto his brethren, What profit is it if we slay our brother? . . . come, let us sell him."—The first appearance of that characteristic trait of love of money which has distinguished the Jewish race to this day. The whole history of Joseph is so typical of Christ that this sale of him by his brethren for twenty pieces of silver is plainly a prophetic anticipation of the sale of Jesus by Judas for thirty pieces of silver. "There is not in Scripture a more perfect and beautiful type of Christ than Joseph. Whether we view Christ as the object of the Father's love—the object of the envy of 'his own'—in his humiliation, sufferings, death, exaltation, and glory—in all, we have Him strikingly typified by Joseph."

SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 21.—GEN. XXXVIII.

"The following sketch from the life of Judah is intended to point out the origin of the three leading families of the future princely tribe in Israel, and at the same time to show in what danger the sons of Jacob would have been of forgetting the sacred vocation of their race, through marriages with Canaanitish women, and of perishing in the sin of Canaan, if the mercy of God had not interposed, and, by leading Joseph into Egypt, prepared the way for the removal of the whole house of Jacob into that land, and thus protected the family, just as it was expanding into a nation, from the corrupting influences of the manners and customs of Canaan."—Keil.

"This chapter is a sad interruption to the affecting and beautiful history of Joseph, but it still deals with 'the generations of Jacob.' The events in it teach us, by the contrast in which the Scripture so delights, the purity and continence of Joseph beside the sin and laxity of Judah."—C. Hargrove.

This chapter "presents one of those remarkable circumstances in which Divine grace is seen gloriously triumphing over man's sin. 'It is evident that our Lord sprang out of Judah' (Heb. vii. 14). But how? 'Judas begat Phares and Zara of Tamar' (Matt. i. 3): this is peculiarly striking. God in his great grace rising above the sin and folly of man, in order to bring about his own purposes of love and mercy."—C. H. M.

The birth of Phares and Zarah, viewed mystically, is deeply significant. The two sons of Judah represent the two dispensations or covenants, which are also represented by Abraham's two wives (Gal. iv. 24). Their names too are significant. "Pharez" means "breaking forth," and the verb occurs Isaiah liv. 3, "Thou shalt break forth on the right and on the left;" while "Zarah" means "rising," and the very word occurs Isaiah lx. 3 ("the brightness of thy rising") in describing the future glory of Israel. Zarah, though the elder, "drew back," and so lost the closer connection with the coming Messiah which Pharez obtained. So "Israel after the flesh," by drawing back (Heb. x. 39), lost that closer connection with Christ which the Church or "Jerusalem which is above" obtains. Nevertheless, Israel is marked for future blessing, and the self-imposed curse, "His blood be on us and on our children," will hereafter be turned by grace into a blessing when "the time to favour Zion, yea, the set time, is come." The somewhat remarkable introduction of the name of Zarah into our Lord's genealogy (Matt. i. 3), to which it does not properly belong, becomes when thus viewed profoundly significant, especially in that Gospel which is Jewish in character.

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 23.—GEN. XXXIX.

"The sufferings of Christ, and the glory that should follow" (1 Pet. i. 11), are strikingly foreshadowed in this part of Joseph's history. Already we have seen Christ's sufferings at the hands of the Jews typified by what Joseph suffered from his brethren. Now we trace his sufferings from the rulers of the Gentile world in what Joseph endured in the house of Potiphar. Temptation successfully resisted, and innocence triumphant, reminds us of how the Lord Jesus resisted the temptations of the prince of this world (Matt. iv.), and afterwards, when before Pilate, the representative of the world power, though innocent of the charges brought against him, was cast into the prison-house of death, from which He was raised to the right hand of the Majesty on high.

"Joseph is brought low among the Gentiles; through false accusations put in prison, and 'his feet made fast in the stocks,' 'the iron enters into his soul; till the time came that his cause was known, the word of the Lord tried him.' Rising out of his humiliation, he is elevated, unknown now of his brethren, to the right hand of the throne, and the administration of all power over the Gentiles committed to him. In his humiliation, interpreter of the thoughts and counsels of God; in his elevation, he administers with power according to this same wisdom, and reduces all under the immediate authority of him who was seated on the throne."—J. N. Darby.

21.—"But the Lord was with Joseph."—"The fact that Joseph was not put to death, and by degrees treated kindly in prison, has given rise to the conjecture that Potiphar did not wholly believe his wife's story, though he to a certain extent acted on it."

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 24.—GENESIS XL.

"At the close of the last chapter we left Joseph in prison 'numbered with the transgressors,' but with that sweet word of assurance, 'the Lord was with Joseph, and showed him mercy,' the great truth which the life of Joseph manifests, and which made him so to differ from his brethren. As with our blessed Lord, the deepest humiliation of Joseph is just before his greatest exaltation, and may it be that here also we have that mysterious preaching to the spirits in prison typified of which Peter writes in his First Epistle. . . . . Whether moreover there may not be a dim foreshadowing here of the last scene of the life of our blessed Lord on earth, on the first of his three dark prison days and before his exaltation as He was placed between the two malefactors of such different destiny—these are questions which the writer will not undertake to determine."—C. Hargrove.

15.—"I was stolen away out of the land of the Hebrews."—"His faith in the promise seems expressed in his adoption of the language 'the land of the Hebrews.' It was yet, and for long after, the land of the Canaanites, but his faith had respect to the promise to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, and so it was with him the land of the Hebrews."—Ibid.

"As to these dreams, they show the fate and end of those two classes into which the slaves of this world may be divided. Thus one class of worldlings in their hour of trouble have the eye opened to behold Christ as the Vine. . . . What can they render to the Lord for all his mercies? They will take the cup of salvation and confess they owe their all to Him. He that sees the Vine, on 'the third day' shall go forth free. Soon shall his bondage cease and in the power of resurrection life he shall live to serve others. How different the scene before the other's eyes. He sees himself, carrying on his head baked meats, the work of his own hands. . . . Work, not for God, but for the world. Ere long evil spirits (Matt. xiii. 4, 19) deprive such of the fruit of all their labour. 'The end of those things is death'" (Rom. vi. 21).—Jukes.

WEDNESDAY NOVEMBER 25.—GEN. XLI.

The contents of this chapter are briefly summed up in the words of Ps. cv. 20—22: "The King sent and loosed him; even the ruler of the people, and let him go free. He made him lord of his house, and ruler of all his substance: to bind his princes at his pleasure; and teach his senators wisdom."

"In chap. xxxix. Satan uses Potiphar's wife, and in chap. xl. he uses Pharaoh's chief butler, the one to put Joseph into the dungeon, the other to keep him there through his ungrateful negligence; but all in vain. God was behind the scenes. His finger was guiding all the springs of the vast machine of circumstances, and when the due time was come, He brought forth the man of his purpose, and set his feet in a large room."—C. H. M.

40.—"Thou shalt be over my house, &c."—How remarkably does this sudden exaltation of Joseph from the dungeon to the throne, typify the exaltation of the Lord Jesus to His father's right hand, "far above all principality and power and might and dominion, ... and gave him to be Head over all things to the Church."

45.—"And Pharaoh called Joseph's name Zaphnath-paaneah."—"The word is Egyptian. Canon Cook shows that it means 'food of life,' or 'food of the living.' The LXX. have a word which Jerome, on the authority of the Jews in Egypt, translates, 'Saviour of the world.' By 'the world' would be meant 'the living,' as in the other explanation, which in the sense of 'he who feeds the world,' or 'the living,' is the best exposition yet given. There is no authority for the supposition that the name means 'revealer of secrets.'"—Dean Payne Smith.

(For Forthcoming Meetings, Donation List, &c., see p. vii.)

HELP WANTED FOR THE ANNUAL SALE

ON BEHALF OF

Dr. Barnardo's Homes for Destitute Children,

Now Sheltering, Educating, and Training over 1,400 Poor Boys and Girls.

Will all who are preparing gifts for the Annual Sale on behalf of the Homes

KINDLY SEND THEM IN AT ONCE,

or as yet but very little has been received? Will those whose busy fingers are at work for the Sale, remember that hirts for boys and men, suits for little boys, aprons and pinafores for girls, and sets of baby-clothing, are articularly valuable additions, being much asked for and readily sold! Well-made woollen shawls are frequently sked for, and, indeed, women's garments of all kinds would be especially useful. Of course, besides these, jewellery, ld coins, old china, curios, musical instruments, and fancy work, trinkets, articles of vertu, books, drawings, bric-a-brac, nd other examples of the thousand-and-one tasteful ornaments which are sought for by purchasers, will be very gratefully eceived and acknowledged.

The SALE will this year be of the SAME CHARACTER as LAST YEAR, that s to say, nstead of holding a Public Bazaar at the West End during the month of December, as formerly, all the Goods received will be made up into adies ordering these Boxes confer a great benefit on the "Homes;" for by this easy method all the articles received may be disposed of without any loss in the way of such expenses as are usually incurred by holding a Bazaar at the West End of London.

£5 and £10 Boxes. These Boxes will each contain a very excellent selection of at least the value of £6 and £12 respectively, and will be sent on receipt of P.O. Order or Cheque to any part of the country.

any kind-hearted sympathisers have repeatedly expressed warm approval of this plan, and promised to purchase boxes with the contents of which they propose to hold in their own houses, to which their personal friends can be invited during the present season.

SMALL LOCAL BAZAARS

f there be many articles left over unsold, they can be disposed of in the last week of January (D.V.), in the New Hall of the "Edinboro' Castle."

r. Barnardo earnestly invites all who love poor children, to co-operate with him in this new plan to increase the funds of the "Homes," by which, too, all the wearying, disappointing, and expensive drawbacks of a public Bazaar may be avoided.

*he Boxes, carefully lined and packed, will be ready for transmission on the 10th of December, and can be despatched on receipt of order to any railway station in the Kingdom. Applications (Prepaid), with full instructions as to conveyance, &c., should be sent in as soon as possible, addressed to* o all who have already in any degree helped by Contributions of Useful or Fancy Articles, Dr. Barnardo desires to offer the expression of his very grateful acknowledgments.

The TRADE MANAGER,
18, Stepney Causeway, London, E.

to 26, Stepney Causeway, London, E.

SELECTION OF WORKS

BY

MORGAN & SCOTT,

12, PATERNOSTER BUILDINGS, LONDON.

And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

RECENTLY PUBLISHED

*

NEW WORK. BY A. L. O. E.

PEARLS OF WISDOM

FROM

The Parables of Christ.

By the Favourite Writer, A.L.O.E.,

Author of "Rescued from Egypt," "Exiles in Babylon," "The Young Pilgrim," &c., &c.

WITH

24 ILLUSTRATIONS
SPECIALLY DESIGNED FOR THIS BOOK.

Handsomely bound, 3s. 6d.;
Gilt edges, 4s.

Extract from the Preface.
The PEARLS FROM THE PARABLES have been written from an Oriental stand-point; and this treatment of the Parables will be new to English readers. From those simple allegories to which Christ gave utterance on the shore of the Sea of Galilee and in the streets of Jerusalem, A.L.O.E. deduces arguments to bring Hindoos and Mohamedans to the faith of the Gospel. And no one can read these pages without being struck with the remarkable manner in which the parables adapt themselves to use as Evangelistic Lessons.

3/6

*

---

*

6d.

JUST PUBLISHED,

WITH A

Striking Portrait

of the late

EARL of SHAFTESBURY.

Beautifully Printed in Eleven Colours, similar to an Oil Painting.

Containing an appropriate and carefully selected Scripture Text for Every Day in the Year. Each of the Twelve Months is surmounted by a Choice Pictorial Illustration, in Colour.
It is believed that the thousands of men and women who loved and honoured the late Earl of Shaftesbury will gladly avail themselves of this striking and beautiful memento.

"The Christian" ALMANACK

FOR 1886.

(SIZE OF SHEET, 17 by $13\frac{1}{2}$ INCHES).

COPY OF LETTER FROM MR. W. J. ORSMAN, THE HON. SUPERINTENDENT OF THE GOLDEN LANE AND HOXTON COSTERMONGERS' CHRISTIAN MISSION (OF WHICH THE LATE RIGHT HON. THE EARL OF SHAFTESBURY WAS THE PRESIDENT.

Milton House, Shacklewell Green,
Hackney, E. October 30, 1885.

MY DEAR SIRS,—Many thanks for the advance copy of THE CHRISTIAN ALMANACK for 1886 It is a beautiful and useful work of art; and the likeness of the late Earl of Shaftesbury is exceedingly good. The coloured pictures surrounding the portrait, and the twelve cartoons of the seasons, add greatly to the value of the Almanack, which, I consider, is worthy of a place in every house and every workshop. I venture to hope that you will be able to supply 500 copies for our Mission.—I am, yours faithfully, W. J. ORSMAN.

A Copy will be forwarded, post free, on receipt of the published price to any address, securely packed (without folding) in a cylinder.

6d.

*

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

TO LEADERS OF SOL-FA CLASSES AND OTHERS.

JUST PUBLISHED,

A NEW AND CHEAPER EDITION
OF
TONIC SOL-FA

SACRED SONGS AND SOLOS

(441 Hymns)

SUNG BY

IRA D. SANKEY.

Tinted covers, 1s. 6d.;
Cloth limp, 2s.;
Cloth boards, 2s. 6d.

1/6

*

INVALUABLE TO BIBLE STUDENTS.

THE BIBLE REMEMBRANCER.

Being A COMPLETE HANDBOOK to the OLD and NEW TESTAMENTS. Specially intended as a Help to the PREACHER; the SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHER; and the BIBLE STUDENT. Consisting of

An Analysis of the whole Bible. (By a reference to this Analysis any passage to which it is needful to refer can be immediately traced.)

A Steel Frontispiece; a Chart, showing the places where Christ's miracles were performed; an Alphabetical Index to the Psalms; a Scripture Atlas, consisting of twelve choice coloured maps; and a Large amount of valuable Biblical Information.

Tinted covers, 1/-; Cloth boards, 1/6; Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 2/-.

1/-

---

*

2/-

A CHOICE
GIFT-BOOK.

BIRDS

OF THE BIBLE.

Chats with the Children about Bible Birds.

By JAMES BOWKER, F.R.G.S.I.

CONTENTS.

The Swallows—"Seeking for Sunshine."	The Pelican—"For those I Love."
The Sea-Gulls—A White Coat.	The Raven—A Miracle every Morning.
The Peacocks—Fine Feathers.	The Eagle and the Eagle's Nest.
The Cuckoo—Singing in Spring-time.	The Ark and the Dove-"Weary."
The Sparrows—"Five for Two Farthings."	"Under His Wings."

"A beautiful little volume, printed in red and black, with numerous engravings. Will be found both interesting and instructive to the young folks who are fortunate enough to obtain a copy. One friend to whom we showed the book at once ordered three dozen copies for Sunday-school rewards. We hope that many others will follow his example."—Christian Treasury, April, 1885.

Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 2s. Beautifully Printed on Toned Paper in Red and Black; with Coloured Frontispiece, and Twenty-nine other Illustrations.

---

*

1/-

New Work
BY
REV. ANDREW
A. BONAR, D.D.

JAMES SCOTT:

A Labourer for God.

By Rev. ANDREW A. BONAR, D.D.,

AUTHOR OF

"Memoir of Rev. R. M. M'Cheyne," &c., &c.

CONTENTS.

Revival Work in Glasgow from 1874 to 1884.	The Work going on.
How a Peculiar Instrument was prepared.	The Labourer called aside.
The Labourer in the Midst of His Work.	The Labourer in the Sunset of His Short Day.
	Appendix.

"The subject of this memoir was early brought to know his Saviour. . . . . Especially among the lower classes was he beloved, but rich and poor alike benefited by his ministry. At the early age of thirty-eight he was called home. . . . . Dr. Bonar has related the life and death of Mr. Scott in his own graphic and touching style."—Monthly Review.

With life-like Portrait. Paper covers, 1s.; Cloth limp, 1s. 6d.; Cloth boards, gilt edges, 2s. 6d.

INVALUABLE TO BIBLE STUDENTS.

THE BIBLE INTERPRETER:

A CONDENSED BIBLE DICTIONARY by the Author of "THE BIBLE REMEMBRANCER."

The present volume contains explanations of MORE THAN EIGHTEEN HUNDRED Scripture Words and Subjects and a List of the Prayers Recorded in the Old and New Testaments; A list of the Miracles Recorded in the Old and New Testaments; A List of the Parables in the Bible; A Table of the Reigns of the Kings of Judah and Israel, in parallel columns; A Table of Scripture Proper Names, with their correct Pronunciation; A Table of the Order and Dates of the Books of the Bible.

WITH TWELVE FULL-PAGE ILLUSTRATIONS, AND NUMEROUS SMALLER ENGRAVINGS.

Tinted covers, 1s.; Cloth boards, 1s. 6d.; Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 2s.

1/-

ON

CONSUMPTION,

CHRONIC BRONCHITIS,

AND ALL OTHER

CHEST DISEASES.

READ

MR. CONGREVE'S NEW WORK,

SIXPENCE, POST FREE,

Or Large Edition (cloth) for 1s. 3d.

FIFTEENTH SERIES

OF WEEKLY CASES.

NOTICE TO THE READERS OF "The Christian," WHO MAY BE personally or elatively INTERESTED IN THIS MATTER.

Mr. Congreve will give ONE RECENT CASE, NOT PUBLISHED BEFORE, in this Journal EVERY WEEK.

CASE FOR THIS WEEK.

CASE of Miss S. C., of ——, near TAUNTON.

This young lady called upon me in June last. She had suffered from a winter Cough for ten years or nore; this was growing upon her—becoming worse each winter; and before commencing my medicine, she had begun to lose flesh and strength fast.

At the time she called she had been taking the Balsam for two months, and was greatly improving, and thought she had better see me.

(I may here remark that it is not necessary that any patient should have an interview with myself or Dr. Brown; and whenever the trouble, and fatigue, and expense of long journeys are an object, they may be spared—especially when a patient is in a weak state. Advice can be given in almost all cases by letter (see the book, page 20). It is more a matter of consolation to the invalid to come than a matter of necessity.)

Her sister writing me, says:—"With thankfulness I can report that since she has used your medicine, with liniment, &c., as prescribed by you, she is decidedly better in every respect. She says she is very well; but your medicine is like food to her. We shall recommend you with pleasure."

I may add that the young lady was married in August.

NOTE.—Days of Consultation.—TUESDAY, THURSDAY, and SATURDAY MORNINGS ONLY, at Coombe Lodge, Peckham. Patients from any long distance should choose either of the two former days. Everyone is expected to have seen the book first.

Tinted Covers, 6d; cloth, 1s.

AMIE; or, Heavenly Wisdom. By Eliza Richardson.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

Just Published. Price One Penny. Crown 8vo., Tinted Paper.

THE SEEKING & FINDING ALMANAC for 1886.

The "Seeking and Finding" Almanack contains a passage of Scripture for every day in the year (arranged in monthly subjects), and a blank space in which the reference is to be written when found. It is intended for use in Sunday and other Schools, Bible Classes, &c.

London: S. W. Partridge & Co., 9, Paternoster-row, E.C.;
And all Booksellers.

Court Envelope Size, 32 pages. In Coloured Wrapper. Price One Penny. Roan, gilt edges, interleaved, One Shilling.

The Ruby Illustrated Almanack

AND TEXT BOOK FOR 1886.

The Ruby Almanack for 1886 contains the following special features:—A Portrait of the late Rev. W. Pennefather; a special Selection of Texts on the subject of the last Mildmay Conference; Two new Poems by the author of "The Watered Lilies," &c., &c.

London: John G. Wheeler, 88, Mildmay-park, N.

EPILEPTIC FITS!

ALL PERSONS SUFFERING FROM EPILEPSY should SEND Name and Address to JAMES OSBORNE, MEDICAL PHARMACY, ASHBOURNE, who will forward, free of charge, full particulars (with Testimonials) of the most successful remedy ever discovered for this distressing malady. Reference permitted to the Rev. J. Baker, M.A., 254, Plymouth-grove, Manchester.

New and Revised Edition. Post Free, Twelve Stamps.

FITS.

EPILEPSY OR FALLING SICKNESS.

With ESSAYS ON GIDDINESS, SENSATIONS, FAINTS, AND HEADACHES. A Practical Treatise explaining the Causes, Treatment and Cure of these Diseases; with Directions for Diet. By S. BERRY NIBLETT, Licentiate of the Royal College of Physicians. Published by Mr. Williams, 10, Oxford Terrace, Hyde Park, London.

AMERICAN BREAKFAST CEREALS
ABC

A B C WHITE WHEAT.

A B C WHITE OATS.

A B C BARLEY FOOD.

A B C YELLOW MAIZE.

The Purest, most Nutritious and Health-giving Foods in the World. Hulled, crushed, steam-cooked and desiccated. Ready for table in ten minutes.

Sold by Grocers, &c.

A Delicious Breakfast at little cost.

Ask for the A B C Brand.

Particulars of B. Lampe, 44, Great Tower-st., E.C.

SPECIAL NOTICE! SPECIAL NOTICE!! CHRISTMAS, 1885.—To be given away, £500 worth of Handsome Silk-fringed Cards, with

OUR GRAND MONSTER
CHRISTMAS PARCEL
MAY CHRISTMAS YIELD YOU ITS TREASURES

1s. SCRAPS, NOVELTIES. CHRISTMAS NOVELTIES. CARDS. 1s.

A Splendid Shillingsworth. See Press Notices.

Our Tenth Year of Publication.

CHRISTMAS & NEW YEAR PRESENTS. The Parcel contains the following splendid assortment of superior goods, and cannot fail to astonish and delight every customer.

ONE SHILLINGSWORTH OF RICHLY COLOURED RELIEF SCRAPS.—Ten very handsome sheets, including the latest Novelties, Beautiful Variety of Flowers, Ferns, very natural Begonia and Autumn Leaves—The Frolics of Mischievous Kittens—A Pennyworth of Polish—Souvenir of the Inventories Exhibition—Church of All Hallows in Old London-street—You Dirty Boy, from the Paris Salon—Father Christmas loaded with presents for the little ones, &c., &c.

THREE CHRISTMAS MOTTOES.—Very pretty designs, with floral borders beautifully embossed, suitable for decorative purposes, &c.

MUSICAL CHRISTMAS CARD.—An original Christmas Carol by G. Anthony. Music by T. B. Dowse. Full pianoforte score. Beautifully chromo-lithographed. Quite a novelty.

Exquisite design, on gold panel, emblems of purity.

CHRISTMAS FLORAL WREATH.—Delicate arrangement of choice flowers and leaves, artistically finished in gold and sixteen colours, with easel back. Forms an attractive ornament for the mantelshelf, sideboard, bracket, or what-not.

Three Shillingsworth of Charming

CHRISTMAS AND NEW YEAR CARDS.—A carefully selected parcel of Thirteen Choice Cards—

Two Sixpenny Cards	TOTAL VALUE IN CARDS, 3/=
Two Fourpenny Cards
Two Threepenny Cards
Three Twopenny Cards
Four Penny Cards

Copyright Verse and Salutations suitable to the season, and, lastly, will be PRESENTED GRATIS to every purchaser a marvel of choice Chromo Printing and a true work of art, the new folding

SILK-FRINGED SCREEN CARD.—Four Designs of Beautiful Roses, after Kate Sadler, with appropriate copyright words by Frances Ridley Havergal, "Ministry of Song."

THE NOVELTY OF THE SEASON.

The whole of the above marvellous Shillingsworth will be sent post free for 14 STAMPS, or two differently assorted, 26 STAMPS. SEND AT ONCE.

SPECIAL NOTICE.—Readers wishing to avail themselves of the above special offer should send at once, as an enormous demand is certain, and we cannot replace at anything like the price now offered. Money returned if not as represented.

Shopkeepers should send for Wholesale Catalogue and Samples of Christmas Novelties, four stamps.

JOHN THRIDGOULD & CO.,

16 & 20, SIDNEY-STREET, COMMERCIAL ROAD,
LONDON, E.

ESTABLISHED 1851.

NON-FLUCTUATING SECURITIES.

Six per Cent. First Mortgage Real Estate Bonds

THE ANGLO-AMERICAN LOAN AND INVESTMENT CO.,

WICHITA, KANSAS, U.S.A.

Capital, 250,000 dols.

Sir Edward S. Hutchinson, Bart, President.
Joseph S. Smithson, Vice-President.

These Bonds are secured by Farm Lands in the best agricultural State in America. The interest, which is guaranteed and collected by the Company, is payable Half-Yearly at

The Bank of Ireland, Dublin, or
The Alliance Bank, Limited, London.

American Bankers—
Metropolitan National Bank, Chicago, and
The Wichita National Bank, Wichita.

Address—HENRY ANDERSON,
Managing Director
(Late Bank of Ireland),
WICHITA, KANSAS.

Intending Emigrants and parties desiring to invest in Real Estate should correspond with us.

Bona-fide Direct Shopping.

Richard Ecroyd

A Plain Statement of Fact

Manufactures at his Mills, Shipley, near Bradford,

Beautiful Dress Fabrics

ALL-WOOL CASHMERES: Brilliant Finish, Superb Dye, Choice Colours, 38 in. to 46 in. wide, All Wool, 1s. 11½d. to 3s. 7d. per yard. FOULE SERGES: 24 in. to 27 in. wide, 9d. to 1s. 7d. MERINOES: Blacks and Colours, 42 in. to 46 in. wide, 2s. 2d. to 6s. per yard. BEIGES: 24 in. to 26 in. wide, 11½d. to 1s. 4d. NUNS' VEILINGS: Printed—lovely Patterns, 22 in. to 25 in. wide, 10d. to 1s. 3d. per yard. ALL-WOOL (Double Width) SERGES, for Hard Wear, for Tourists, Travellers, Seaside, Yachting, 44 in. to 47 in. wide, 1s. 7d. to 2s. 7½d. per yard. OTTOMAN CLOTHS, ESTAMINES, SATEENS, &c.

RICHARD ECROYD SELLS DIRECT

To the PUBLIC through his NEW RETAIL ESTABLISHMENTS:

BIRMINGHAM	135, New-street.	LIVERPOOL	47, Bold-street.	MANCHESTER	104, Deansgate.
LEEDS	9, Bond-street.	SHEFFIELD	29, High-street.	NOTTINGHAM	13, Market-street.
DERBY	18, Wardwick.	EDINBURGH	114, George-street.	GLASGOW	255, Sauchiehall-street.

ANY LENGTH CUT. Carriage Paid on Parcels of 20s. value and upwards.

ADIES ARE INVITED to call and inspect the Goods or to write for Patterns. RICHARD ECROYD'S system of business is based upon straightforward dealing, and the absence of extravagant pretences. Silk Goods shall be all silk—Wool Fabrics shall be all wool. "WEAR IS THE TRUE TEST OF VALUE." If you prefer to send direct to the Mills, do so, and a FULL SET OF PATTERNS and all particulars shall be sent you. The address is, RICHARD ECROYD, Charlestown Mills, SHIPLEY, near Bradford.

C. F. CARPENTER'S HEALTH RESORT, BISHOP'S TEIGNTON, SOUTH DEVON.

ONE OF THE LOVELIEST SPOTS IN SOUTH DEVON.

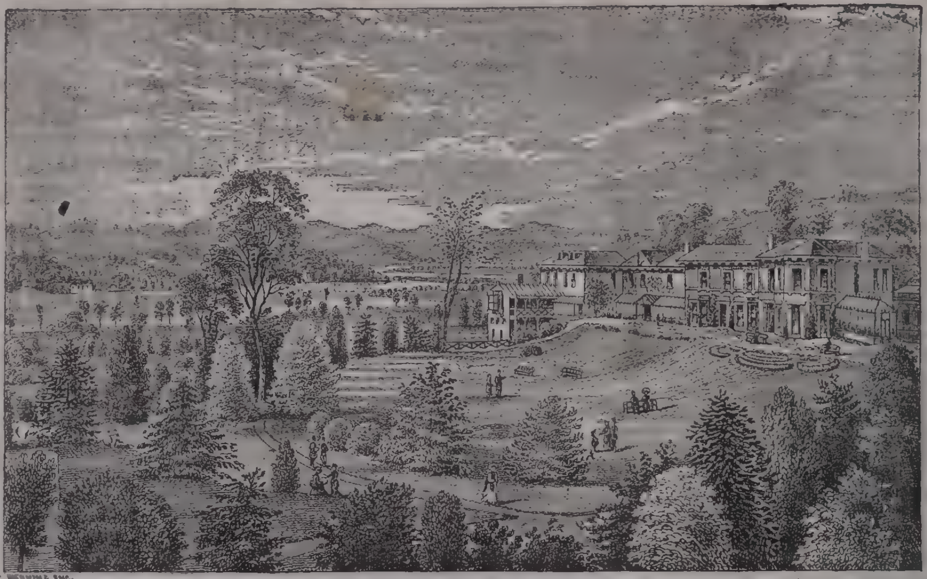
EXTRACT FROM TESTIMONIALS.

Vicarage,
Bishop's Teignton.

"As Vicar of the parish in which Mr. Carpenter's Health Resort is situated, I am able from personal knowledge to bear testimony to the high respectability and Christian character of its proprietor, and to the successful and satisfactory manner in which he has conducted the establishment from its commencement to the present time.

"It gives me, therefore, much pleasure to recommend this establishment to all who are seeking either a pleasant and healthy place of séjour, or a system of careful treatment for the recovery of health."

"W. R. OGLE, M.A."



VIEW FROM THE TERRACE AND GROUNDS, LOOKING SOUTH.

Regent's-park-road,
London.

"During my visit to you in January and February, I was very strongly impressed by the advantages offered by your Health Resort to persons in delicate health, or to those needing rest and change."

"W. B. CARPENTER, C.B., F.R.S., &c."

Sea and Moorland Air.

Extensive Private Grounds.

Lawn Tennis.

Delightful Drives.

Carriage and pair kept for the use of Visitors.

A FIRST-CLASS SUITE OF BATHS (INCLUDING TURKISH) UNDER MEDICAL SUPERVISION.

HOMES OF HOPE,

(Established 1860),

For the Restoration of Fallen and the Protection of Friendless Young Women. Special efforts are made on behalf of young mothers, before and after confinement.

Nos. 4, 5 & 6, Regent-square, Gray's-inn-road, London, W.C.

The applications every day are most distressing, and the Committee anxiously appeal for funds to enable them to utilise to the utmost the room in the Homes.

IMMEDIATE HELP IS NEEDED.

HENRY THOMPSON, Treasurer.
WILLIAM HORNIBROOK, Secretary.

GRAY'S YARD RAGGED CHURCH AND SCHOOL,

James Street, Oxford Street, London, W.

President—F. A. BEVAN, ESQ. | Treasurer—GEORGE HANBURY, ESQ.

Gospel Services, attended by about 500 of the Homeless Poor, are held on Sundays, at 11 a.m. and 3 p.m., after which each person present is supplied with Bread and Coffee. About £2 each Sunday are required for the Food alone, and there are other heavy expenses connected with the Work of the Church and Schools. Funds are Urgently Needed, and will be thankfully received by the TREASURER, 21, Portman-square, W.; Mr. PHILIP GOUGH, 33, Cambridge-street, Hyde-park, W.; or by Mr. A. G. FRASER, 4, Inverness-terrace, W.

NOW READY. WEEKLY, ONE HALFPENNY. MONTHLY PARTS, THREEPENCE.

"Our Darlings."

THE CHILDREN'S TREASURY, EDITED BY DR. BARNARDO.

This admirable Children's Magazine is full of beautiful Pictures as well as of Gospel Stories and Christian instructio suited to the capacities of the young, and is earnestly commended to the heads of Christian Families and Schools.

The NOVEMBER MONTHLY PART, being the first of the New Volume, is now ready, price 3d., with which a beautiful COLOURED CHROMO is given away.

This Part contains many attractions: among others may be mentioned the opening chapters of a Narrative by the EDITOR, recounting the struggles and sorrows of poor Street Children; and several instructive papers upon the history of public benefactors. There are also subjects for Prize Essays, for Biblical, Historical, and Geographical Puzzles, to the successful competitors in which

700 PRIZES WILL BE GIVEN AWAY

during the Twelve Months beginning with these first Numbers.

Hundreds of letters have been received from Christian parents and teachers, expressing surprised thankfulness that sc cheap a Magazine should have been so beautiful in appearance and so useful in results.

"OUR DARLINGS" may be ordered of all Booksellers and Newsagents; or of the Publishers, Messrs. J. F. SHAW & Co., 48, Paternoster-row, E.C.

THE NEWLY BOUND VOLUME FOR CHRISTMAS, 1885, IS NOW READY.

In handsome illustrated Paper Boards, containing 600 Illustrations, and Six Coloured Chromos, 3s.; or, in Cloth with gilt edges, a very elegant gift, 5s., to be had of the same Publishers.

VOLUMES PUBLISHED BY

CASSELL & COMPANY.

The LIFE OF CHRIST. By the Ven. Archdeacon FARRAR, D.D., F.R.S., Chaplain-in Ordinary to the Queen.
Illustrated Edition. 4to., cloth, gilt edges, 21s. ; morocco antique, 42s.
Library Edition. Two Vols. Cloth, 24s. ; morocco, 42s.
Bijou Edition. Five Vols., in box, 10s. 6d. the set.
Popular Edition, in One Vol. 8vo., cloth, 6s. ; cloth, gilt edges, 7s. 6d. ; Persian morocco, gilt edges, 10s. 6d. tree-calf, 15s.

ST. PAUL, The Life and Work of. By the Ven. Archdeacon FARRAR, D.D., F.R.S.
Library Edition. Two Vols. Cloth, 24s. ; morocco, 42s.
Illustrated Edition £1 1s. ; morocco £2 2s
Popular Edition One Vol. 8vo., cloth. 6s. ; cloth, gilt edges, 7s. 6d. ; Persian morocco, 10s. 6d. ; tree-calf, 15s.

EARLY DAYS OF CHRISTIANITY, The. By the Ven. Archdeacon FARRAR, D.D., F.R.S.
Library Edition. Two Vols., 24s. ; morocco, £2 2s.
Popular Edition. Complete in One Vol., cloth, 6s. ; cloth, gilt edges, 7s. 6d ; Persian morocco, 10s. 6d. ; tree-calf, 15s.

COMMENTARY, The Old Testament, for English Readers. Edited by the Rt. Rev. C. J. ELLICOTT, D.D., Lord Bishop of Gloucester and Bristol. Five vols. 21s. each.
Vol. I.—Genesis to Numbers.
Vol. II.—Deuteronomy to Samuel II.
Vol. III.—Kings I. to Esther.
Vol. IV.—Job to Isaiah.
Vol. V.—Jeremiah to Malachi.

COMMENTARY, The New Testament, for English Readers. Edited by the Rt. Rev. C. J. ELLICOTT, D.D., Lord Bishop of Gloucester and Bristol. In three vols., 21s. each.
Vol. I.—The Four Gospels.
Vol. II.—The Acts, Romans, Corinthians, Galatians.
Vol. III.—The remaining Books of the New Testament.

"HEART CHORDS."

A Series of Works by Eminent Divines. Bound in cloth, red edges. One Shilling each.

My Father; My Bible; My Work for God; My Object in Life; My Aspirations; My Emotional Life; My Body; My Soul; My Growth in Divine Life; My Hereafter; My Walk with God; My Aids to the Divine Life; My Sources of Strength.

THE "PROVERBS" SERIES.

Consisting of a New and Original Series of Stories by popular Authors, founded on and illustrating well-known Proverbs. With Tinted Illustrations in each Book. 1s. 6d. each.

Fritters; or, "It's a Long Lane that has no Turning." By SARAH PITT.
Trixy; or, "Those who live in Glass Houses shouldn't throw Stones. By MAGGIE SYMINGTON.
Major Monk's Motto; or, "Look before you Leap." By the Rev. F. LANGBRIDGE.
Tim Thomson's Trial; or, "All is not Gold that Glitters." By GEORGE WEATHERLY.
The Two Hardcastles; or, "A Friend in Need is a Friend Indeed" By MADELINE BONAVIA HUNT.
Ursula's Stumbling-Block; or, "Pride comes before a Fall." By JULIA GODDARD.
Ruth's Life-Work; or, "No Pains, no Gains." By the Rev. JOSEPH JOHNSON.

THE "CROSS AND CROWN" SERIES.

Stories founded on incidents which occurred during the Religious Persecutions of Past Days. Illustrated, 2s. 6d. each.

By Fire and Sword: a Story of the Huguenots. By THOMAS ARCHER.
Adam Hepburn's Vow: a Tale of Kirk and Covenant. By ANNIE S. SWAN.
No XIII.; or, The Story of the Lost Vestal. A Tale of Early Christian Days. By EMMA MARSHALL.

THE "CHIMES" SERIES.

A Series of Miniature Volumes, each containing 64 pages, with Illustrations on every page, and handsomely bound, 1s. each.

Bible Chimes; Daily Chimes; Holy Chimes; Old World Chimes.

THE WORLD'S WORKERS.

A Series of New and Original Volumes by Popular Authors. With Portraits printed on a Tint, as Frontispiece. 1s. each.

General Gordon. By the Rev. S. A. SWAINE.
Charles Dickens By his eldest Daughter.
Sir Titus Salt and George Moore. By J. BURNLEY.
Dr. Guthrie, Father Mathew, Elihu Burritt, Joseph Livesey. By the Rev. J. W. KIRTON.
Sir Henry Havelock and Colin Campbell, Lord Clyde. By E. C. PHILLIPS.
Abraham Lincoln. By ERNEST FORSTER.
David Livingstone. By ROBERT SMILES.
Florence Nightingale, Catherine Marsh, Frances Ridley Havergal, Mrs Ranyard ("L. N. R."). By LIZZIE ALLDRIDGE.
George Muller and Andrew Reed. By E. R. PITMAN.
Richard Cobden. By R. GOWING.
Benjamin Franklin. By E. M. TOMKINSON.
Handel. By ELIZA CLARKE.
Turner, the Artist. By the Rev. S. A. SWAINE.
George and Robert Stephenson. By C. L. MATÉAUX.

NOTICE.

A CLASSIFIED CATALOGUE giving particulars of about ONE THOUSAND VOLUMES published by Messrs. CASSELL & COMPANY, ranging in price from

THREEPENCE TO TWENTY-FIVE GUINEAS.

CASSELL & COMPANY, Limited, Ludgate-hill, London.

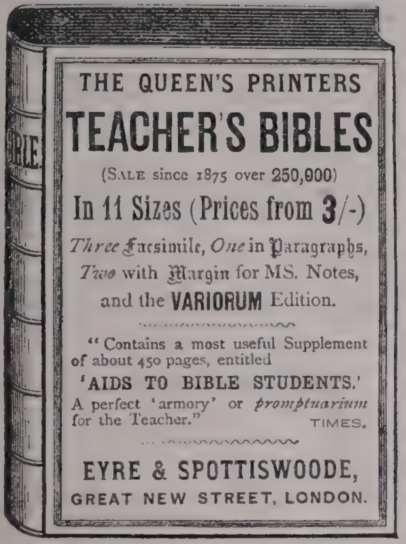
The Book Season,

1885-6.

VISITORS to London and Residents in the Metropolis are invited to visit the Book Saloon at 9, Paternoster-row, where they will find, conveniently arranged for inspection, one of the Largest and Choicest Collections of Evangelical and Temperance Literature.

The SALOON is open from 9 till 6;
SATURDAYS 9 till 2.

S. W. PARTRIDGE & CO., 9, Paternoster-row, London.



THE QUEEN'S PRINTERS

TEACHER'S BIBLES

(SALE since 1875 over 250,000)

In 11 Sizes (Prices from 3/-)

Three Facsimile, One in Paragraphs, Two with Margin for MS. Notes, and the VARIORUM Edition.

"Contains a most useful Supplement of about 450 pages, entitled

'AIDS TO BIBLE STUDENTS.'

A perfect 'armory' or promptuarium for the Teacher." TIMES.

EYRE & SPOTTISWOODE,
GREAT NEW STREET, LONDON.

Hodder & Stoughton's List.

Now Ready, price 3s. 6d., a NEW EDITION of

DR. CUYLER'S Pointed Papers for the Christian Life. A guide for the Christian Life, from the soul's first step towards Jesus Christ, to its final home-coming into heaven.

"His graphic style, evangelical earnestness, and fertility of illustration, make his addresses very attractive."
British Quarterly Review.

By the same Author.

GOD'S LIGHT ON DARK CLOUDS. Words of Sympathy and Cheer for the Despondent and Bereaved. 1s. 6d.

WAYSIDE SPRINGS FROM THE FOUNTAIN OF LIFE. 1s. 6d.

MR. SPURGEON ON DR. CUYLER.—"For sentences that strike and stick, gems that gleam and glow, and thoughts that thrill, commend us to our American friend."
The Sword and Trowel.

For Every Christian Household.

SUNDAY READINGS FOR A YEAR: Comprising Brief Expositions on 280 Scripture Titles and Symbols of Christ. By JAMES LARGE. New Edition, revised and enlarged, 400 pp. Post 8vo., 5s.

MR. THAYER'S New Gift Book for Girls.

THE TRUE WOMAN. Elements of Character drawn from the Life of Mary Lyon and others. By W. M. THAYER, Author of "From Tanyard to White House," "From Log Cabin to White House," &c. Crown 8vo., 5s.

Third Edition, 7s. 6d.

EARTH'S EARLIEST AGES, AND their CONNECTION with MODERN SPIRITUALISM and THEOSOPHY. By G. H. PEMBER, M.A.

"The 220 pages on Spiritualism and the modern movement of an occult theosophy are very remarkable and startling."—The Christian.

By the same Author.

THE GREAT PROPHECIES CONCERNING the GENTILES, the JEWS, and the CHURCH of GOD. 8vo., 7s. 6d.

THE REVISED VERSION.

In order to appreciate the fulness and accuracy of the original Scriptures, especially with regard to the Articles, Numbers, Tenses, Emphatic Pronouns, Divine Titles, &c, the Bible Student should consult

THE ENGLISHMAN'S BIBLE. By THOMAS NEWBERRY, which will be found to supply great facilities for the Examination of the alterations in the New Version. With Maps, price 16s., cloth; morocco, 21s. ; Levant Yapp, 30s.

London: HODDER & STOUGHTON, 27, Paternoster-row.

½d. each, or 4d. per dozen.

PRAYER UNION FOR IRELAND.

REMEMBRANCE CARDS.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings, E.C.

1886.—ALMANACKS—1886.

THE GOLDEN GRAIN ALMANACK, And Christian's Text Book for 1886. Price One Penny. Limp cloth, 4d.; Interleaved, Cloth boards, gilt edges, 6d. Large type edition, 2d.; Cloth, 6d.

"The Golden Grain Almanack is a most valuable little publication, and the price being only a penny, it ought to have, and we trust will have, a sale of myriads."—Christian Standard.

THE GOLDEN GRAIN SHEET ALMANACK. Price One Penny. Containing Woodcut Illustrations, A Text of Scripture for each Day in the Year, Hymns, Gospel Extracts, &c.

THE GRACIOUS WORDS ALMANACK. Price One Penny. Cloth, 6d. 32 pp. Demy 16mo., with cover.

This Almanack will be found most useful for wide circulation amongst the unsaved. It is printed in good type, and contains, besides the Texts arranged under various heads, a number of striking pages of Gospel Truth, with two full-page Scripture Illustrations

THE GOLDEN GRAIN DIARY. Roan tuck, One Shilling and Sixpence.

THE MILDMAY CALENDAR. Price One Shilling.

A very pretty Floral design, printed in 14 colours, and silver; with silvered bevelled edge, and strong support at back, so that it can stand on table or shelf. Size 7¾ by 6in.

BLOCK CALENDAR. Price One Shilling. A very Choice Design of RUSHES and WATER LILIES With tear-off leaves, and bold and suitable Text for each Day in the Year. The Cheapest and Best.

SHINING LIGHT CALENDAR. Price Two Shillings and Sixpence. By E. ST. B. HOLLAND. No. 181c. With Date Tablets.

Twelve Cards, each furnished with support at the back, in box, with postal information. (MILDMAY.)

London: JAMES E. HAWKINS, 17, Paternoster-row, E.C.; and 36, Baker-street, W.

GEORGE YARD RAGGED SCHOOLS, &c., Whitechapel, E.

Received with many thanks, a parcel of clothing from an unknown friend.

The Infant Day Nursery. Free Ragged Day and Sunday Schools. Toy Classes. Meetings and Classes for Young Women and Elder Girls. Industrial Classes for Lads. Rations of Food to Hungry Children. Mission to Inebriate Women Bible Classes, Evangelistic Services, &c.

Friends are invited to visit the Institution any day but Saturday.

Post-office Orders should be made payable at 66, High-street, Whitechapel, E. Letters and parcels should be addressed to George Holland, The Ragged Schools, George-yard, High-street, Whitechapel, London, E.

THE BENEVOLENT OR STRANGERS' FRIEND SOCIETY.

Treasurer, Ald. Sir R. N. Fowler, Bart., M.P.
J. H. Anderson, Esq., Chairman.
Clarence Smith, Esq., J.P., Hon. Secretary.

For one hundred years this Institution has visited and relieved the destitute sick, by an entirely unpaid agency, consisting of over 280 Christian men and women.

Funds are urgently needed.

The Committee will be thankful for the Society being remembered in the testamentary arrangements of the benevolent.—Office of the Society, 52, Finsbury-pavement, E.C.

DESTITUTE CHILDREN'S DINNER SOCIETY.—The season for these Dinners has commenced. Over thirty dining-rooms are at work, and the remaining twenty will shortly be opened. Last season nearly 240,000 Dinners were given. Subscriptions, urgently required, will be thankfully received by the Treasurers, the Honourable Arthur F. Kinnaird, 1, Pall Mall East; and William Fuller, Esq., 111, Piccadilly; or may be paid into their account with Messrs. Ransom, Bouverie & Co., 1, Pall Mall East.—H. Morton Carr, Esq., Secretary, 89, St. George's-square, S.W.

AN URGENT APPEAL.—Christian friends, the Evangelical Mission to Israel for the past 13 years has done a good work. Its supporters are few, and not rich; the claims are many and distressing; the winter work in all the branches of the Mission is carried on with the greatest difficulties. We ask you, therefore, in the name of our blessed Lord, who gave you joy and comfort, to give us your Christian help in this season of your rejoicing.—Your help will be thankfully received by the Rev. John Bullock, M.A., St. Mary's, Torquay, Devon; B. Corson Garratt, Esq., 16, Finsbury-square, London, E.C.; and by yours obediently in Christ, D. C. Joseph, Evangelical Mission to Israel, 394, Hackney-road, London.

LAMB AND FLAG RAGGED SCHOOL AND MISSION, 10, Red Lion-street, Clerkenwell, E.C.

The many calls daily made on Christian benevolence have for some years kept me silent, but the time has now come when I must ask for help.

Larger premises are absolutely required for the increased work of this School and Mission, and I cannot, without making the facts known, continue to turn away from our doors the many boys and girls who are eagerly seeking admission, at the dangerous age of 14 and upwards. Will some of those who are blessed with means help me to raise £1,500? This would provide the accommodation needed to gather in the wanderers.

The Lamb and Flag Ragged School has taken for the sixth year consecutively, the largest number of prizes for long service and good conduct at the hands of the Ragged School Union.

Contributions will be thankfully received by J. C. Sherrard, Hon. Director and Treasurer, 7, Oxford-square, Hyde-park.

THE COMMITTEE of the Ladies' Samaritan Society of the National Hospital for the Paralysed and Epileptic, 25, Queen's-square, Bloomsbury, earnestly plead for contributions in aid of the poorer patients and their families. The smallest gifts in money or clothing will be thankfully acknowledged by the Committee. Old coats and trousers are much needed.

ANXIETY OF SOUL.—Any to whom the way of salvation is not clear, are invited to communicate, either personally or by letter, to W. S., care of Evangelistic Secretary, Exeter Hall, Strand, W.C.

THE WORKING CLASSES AND THE SUNDAY QUESTION.

Electors are earnestly asked to press Parliamentary Candidates for a reply as to whether they will support the following resolution, passed by the Trades Union Congress, representing 600,000 working men, on the 11th September, 1885, at Southport, and to vote for Candidates who will preserve the day of rest:—

"That in the opinion of the Congress it is undesirable to augment Sunday Labour by opening the National Museums and Galleries, but (the Congress) approves of their being opened on three or more days during the week, between the hours of 6 and 10 p.m., to give the working classes facilities for visiting them."

Charles Hill, Secretary.
Working Man's Lord's Day Rest Association,
13, Bedford-row, W.C.

CONVALESCENT AND SEASIDE HOME, Beach Rocks, Sandgate, Kent.—Admission by small weekly payments, with recommendation by subscriber or by arrangement.—For particulars, apply to Henry H. Board, London Samaritan Society, 57 and 59, Ludgate-hill, London, E.C.

FAITH-HEALING and Power for Service.—Meetings conducted by the Rev. John Allen or his workers. Blackheath Hill Greenwich (Auction Rooms, Trinity-street), Tuesdays, 7 p.m. Camberwell Gate (The Hall, Horsley-street), Tuesdays, 7 p.m. Hackney (Trinity Church, Triangle, Mare-street), Sundays, 3 p.m.; Mondays, 7 p.m.; on Fridays, Baptism of the Spirit, 7 p.m.; Ilford Workmen's Hall, Thursdays, 7 p.m.; Mildmay-park (Mission Hall), Wall-street, near Station, Thursdays, 7 p.m.

Postal address, Bal-luthra Lodge, Southgate, N.

PRIVATE MEDICAL HOME, 9, Lupus-street, St. George's-square, South Belgravia, for Ladies and Children (medical, surgical, and confinement cases).—For terms apply to Lady Superintendent. The Trustees earnestly ask further contributions towards the Free Bed Fund for ladies in reduced circumstances.

APPEAL.—A beneficed Clergyman, with two parishes, small income, and no house, population poor, earnestly appeals for help to carry on the Lord's work. The smallest subscriptions thankfully received. Prov. xix. 17.—L. T. H., Vicar, care of Terry, Stoneman & Co., 6, Hatton-garden, E.C.

Educational.

MARLBOROUGH COLLEGE FOR YOUNG LADIES, Larkbeare, Exeter, Devon. For Resident Pupils only. Miss Bamber offers to parents seeking safe Christian training for their daughters the advantages of a University education, without its attendant dangers. Miss Darling, of Newnham College, Cambridge, L.L.A. of St. Andrew's University, is Resident Head English Teacher at Marlborough College. The highest testimonials from Clergymen, Ministers, and Gentlemen whose daughters have been entrusted to Miss Bamber's care. Pupils are always accompanied from London.

BELLE VUE, Ambleside.—Good School for Girls.—Having increased accommodation, Mrs. Fleming can now receive six additional Pupils. House well and healthily situated, with large rooms, garden, tennis ground. Careful Christian training, and thorough teaching. Distinguished success in Cambridge Examinations, which are optional. Resident foreign and English governesses. Visiting masters. 50 to 60 guineas.

SOUTHSEA.—Holland House, Clarence-parade.—School for the daughters of gentlemen. Christian training. Home comforts and care. Preparation for the Oxford Local, College of Preceptors, and South Kensington Examinations.—For prospectus, with references, apply to the Principal.

LONDON.—First-class Education for the Daughters of Gentlemen in an establishment of long standing, conducted by members of the Church of England, occupying a spacious house in a most healthy locality in the West-end. The pupils have the advantage of loving care and safe training while pursuing their studies under first-rate Professors; their health, individual temper, and disposition carefully and tenderly watched over, and the whole system based on Christian principles.—Delta, Boddington's Library, Notting-hill-gate, W.

BAYSWATER.—St. John's College, close to Parks. High-class Boys' School. Large, well-ventilated class-rooms, 55 feet long. School chapel. Good playground. Thorough teaching. Inspection invited.—Rev. C. Baker, 41-43, Moscow-road, Pembridge-square, W.

FRANCE. — HAVRE. — Mdlle. Cournil de Lavergne, 29, Rue d'Epremenil. Protestant Boarding-school for Young Ladies. Comfortable home. First-rate instruction. Highest references (Pasteur Theodore Monod) in France, England, Germany, Holland.

PARIS. — Mdlle. Vienot, 36, Avenue des Princes, Gare d'Auteuil, Paris. Protestant Boarding school for Young Ladies. Careful instruction. Pleasant, comfortable house, with large garden. References and prospectus on application

---

MR. EDWIN ARROWSMITH, of the Children's Special Service Mission, recommends any parents requiring the comforts and privileges of a good Christian home, combined with an excellent education, for their Daughters, to apply to D. C. L., Farley's Library, FitzJohn's-parade, Hampstead. One vacancy in January. Terms 100 to 120 guineas per annum.

MISS WATTS (Evangelist) has vacancies in her quiet country home for two young ladies, who will be educated by her sister. Assisted by a competent governess and masters.

Wetherden, Stowmarket.

A LADY, with select Morning School, solicits Boarders. Christian training. English instruction, languages, music, drawing, painting. Eight guineas per term (inclusive).—Carlyle House, Warkworth-street, Cambridge. Half term, November 3.

CHRISTIAN PARENTS, desiring for their daughters religious influence with an advanced order of mental culture, will find their requirements fully met in this school. Dancing not taught; but daily physical exercises given. References and prospectuses forwarded on application to the Principal, Mrs. Anderson, Duffield House, West Norwood, London, S.E.

TO FILL VACANCIES, a few Resident Pupils can be received on very advantageous terms, in a high-class Ladies' School, in the South of England. Highest references.—Alpha, 24, St. Lawrence-road, N. Kensington, London, W.

PARIS EN FAMILLE.—Madame de Pradel (sister of Lieut. Bellot, who perished in the search for Sir John Franklin) receives a few Boarders wishing to acquire conversational French, or studying at the Sorbonne Collége de France, where free lectures are given by the most eminent professors.—86, Boulevard de Port Royal, Paris. Highest references from late English boarders.

KEMPLEY HOUSE, Coronation road, Bristol.—Principal, Mrs. Prescott. An excellent education for Girls. Ten guineas a term, payable in advance. Accomplishments and all expenses included, except for books. See Prospectus.

TO GODLY PARENTS.—The undermentioned (who is in no way connected with the school) is desirous of recommending an old-established YOUNG GENTLEMEN'S BOARDING SCHOOL, DELIGHTFULLY SITUATED ON HIGH GROUND, WITH VIEWS OF THE SEA on the South Coast, a short run from London, in which a thorough and a first-class Education is given, based upon the teaching of the Holy Scriptures.

It is one of the few remaining schools in which the power of the Gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ influences the hearts and conduct of the pupils.

The success, happiness, and training of the Boys have been so remarkable in this school that a BOOK OF TESTIMONIALS GIVEN BY THE PARENTS, together with the papers of Examinations passed and Honours gained, should be read to appreciate results so unusual. Two Vice-Chancellors have placed their wards as pupils in the school. Reference kindly permitted to Dr. Thorn, Paddington, London.

SEAFORD COLLEGE, SUSSEX.—Finest and healthiest site in England, facing the Channel. Preparation for all Examinations, the professions, public schools, and commerce. The widest intellectual and physical training are added to the greatest possible care and comfort. All learn French and shorthand. University masters. Athletics and good sea bathing. Refined Christian home. All the advantages of the highest class schools, at inclusive and moderate fees.—Address, The Principal.

WANDSWORTH HIGH SCHOOL FOR GIRLS,

EAST HILL HOUSE, S.W.
Lady Principal—Mrs. WINTER
(Widow of the late Rev. C. Winter).

Conducted on modern principles. Preparation for Public Examinations. Professors attend for music, drawing, French, German, singing, dancing, and calisthenics. A large playground, with lawns, swings, &c., is at the service of the pupils, and the extensive commons of Wandsworth and Clapham are within a few minutes' walk. Boarders receive home comforts and careful supervision. References to Rev. Andrew Mearns, Memorial Hall, E.C.; Mr. Robert Rae, National Temperance League, 337, Strand; and to parents of pupils.

THE FERNS, South Hayling, Hants.—Ladies' Collegiate School. Boarders received on moderate terms. Comfortable home. Most healthy locality; recommended by medical profession.—Principal, H. Lewis.

REFINED, CHRISTIAN, COUNTRY HOME is offered to any well-educated Lady or Gentleman interested in Unsectarian Mission Work, who would devote four hours a day (Saturday excepted) to teaching a boy and girl, aged 11 and 9. No cards or advertisements.

Bailiff, West Town, Maidenhead.

A LADY, engaged in teaching, seeks a home in a Christian family. Offers good conversational French, with assistance in housekeeping, in return for partial board. Neighbourhood, Campden-hill or Notting hill, London, W.—Miss Parker, 19, Pevensey-road West, St. Leonards, Sussex.

A CHRISTIAN LADY, aged 32, the daughter of a medical man, desires re-engagement as Governess, Housekeeper, or any position of trust. In last engagement she had the entire management of a gentleman's household, and the education of his daughters. Highest references.

Miss Green, 47, Queen's street, Exeter.

A CHRISTIAN LADY, of great experience in teaching, wishes to meet with a morning or daily engagement in Wimbledon or the neighbourhood. Acquirements: English, French, German, and music. Good references—E., 13, Courthope-villas, Worple-road, Wimbledon.

GOVERNESS. — Re-engagement required, by a Young Lady, aged 26, before or after Christmas. English, French, music, singing, elementary German, needlework. Dissenter. Abstainer. Good salary.

Helen Eales, Enfield, Middlesex.

GOVERNESS.—Lady taking deep interest in her pupils, desires re-engagement in a Christian family. English, French, German (Paris, Hanover), classical music, object drawing, water colours.—Delta, Benham's, Notting-hill-gate, London.

RE-ENGAGEMENT required as Governess in a Christian family to children under twelve. Acquirements: English, music, French, singing, and elementary drawing. Good reference.—L. A., 12, Holland-grove, Brixton.

A HOLIDAY ENGAGEMENT required at Christmas by an experienced Governess, for six weeks or a month. No salary. Locality immaterial.—Miss W., care Rev. R. E. Taylor, Cresswell Vicarage, Morpeth.

EDUCATION, Gratuitous, offered by Principal of a select school, to a gentleman's daughter. Small remuneration for board and laundress required. Strictly confidential.

L. E., May's Advertising Offices, 159, Piccadilly.

TUTORS.—Several French Protestant Gentlemen wish to enter families or schools. Highly recommended.

French Church, Bayswater.

TO PARENTS.—South of France.—An English Lady receives young Ladies. Comfortable home. Terms moderate. Good references.—X. Y. Z., Ancienne Maison, Dantah, Près la Gare, Hyères, Var.

A YOUNG LADY seeks an engagement as Resident Teacher of Music in a good school, after Christmas. Age 18. Good testimonials.—J. P., care of Miss Moffat, 14, Blythe-villas, West Kensington-park, N.W.

Appointments, Situations, &c., Wanted.

EVANGELIST, experienced, abstainer, desires soul-winning work. References to Rev. Arch. G. Brown and others. Excellent testimonials.—Care of Y.M.C.A., Bury, Lancashire

---

MISSION OR BIBLEWOMAN.—A devoted Christian is led to take up Gospel work. Would be glad to hear of a vacancy.

M. H., 8, Rose-view, Stockport-road, Manchester.

AS BIBLEWOMAN, or charge of small Coffee House.—A Lady highly recommends a Widow (38). Decided Christian. Abstainer. Can deal with inquirers. Of business experience.—Miss Greene, Midgham, Reading.

RE-ENGAGEMENT wanted as Missionary or Biblewoman. Church of England, evangelical. Many years' experience in Mission work. For reference, Rev. H. Pelham Stokes, Mr. Gawin Kirkham.

E. S., The Wicker, Walton, Ipswich, Suffolk.

AS COACHMAN, or Groom and Coachman, one or pair, by trustworthy married man, aged 35. Thoroughly understands his duties. Good personal character.

J. C., 140, West-street, Fareham, Hants.

A LADY WISHES to get her son, aged 15, well placed in some suitable business where he will be thoroughly instructed, have a good home, and be under Christian influence.—Apply for particulars to A. R., care of Housekeeper, 2, Gresham-buildings, Basinghall-street, E.C.

INDOOR SERVANT.—Will some Lady take into her service a young man, 27, single, of unblemished character, good ability, and strong? Has been a grocer. Would quickly learn all his work, and would be found to be trustworthy and grateful.—Matron, Lady Pembroke's School, South Newton, Salisbury.

COMPANION or Sewing Maid.—A Lady recommends valued servant. Several years' character. Elderly. Excellent needlewoman, plain dressmaker. Can read and write well. High wages no object; but comfortable Christian home. Country preferred.

Miss B., Broadwaterbury, Tunbridge Wells.

COMPANION. — A Clergyman's Daughter is anxious for engagement to a Lady, or any light post in Christian home. Fond of housekeeping. Could help in studies, or any kind of Christian work. Highest references.

Delta, 50, St. Giles's, Oxford.

AS USEFUL COMPANION, Housekeeper, Under Matron, place of trust. Would engage in any useful work for the Lord. Age 30. Dissenter. London preferred.

A. B., 60, Carlton-road, Kentish Town.

A YOUNG SCOTCHMAN (Christian), who through bodily accident lost last situation, wishes engagement as Light Porter in wholesale warehouse. Age 23. Highly recommended. Good education, &c.

James Nairn, Larbert, Stirlingshire, Scotland.

A LADY would give light services, in return for a comfortable home, in Mission work, as Maid or Companion to a lady.—Miss, Claremont House, Cann Hall-road, Leytonstone, Essex.

MATRON or Superintendent for Girls' training or preventive Home. Can be highly recommended. Varied experience.

A. B., 22, Cloudesley-square, London, N.

CHRISTIAN YOUNG LADY requires a situation as Cook-Housekeeper (good plain), in small family. Four years' character. Wages £20 to £25.

J. E. H., 153, Mayall road, Herne-hill.

RE-ENGAGEMENT, Needlewoman in Boys' School, or Mother's Help where nurse is kept. Children's dressmaker. Domesticated, willing to be useful. Abstainer. Salary £20 to £25.

J., Conway House, Alderbrook-road, Balham.

NATAL. — Educated, healthy Young Lady, wishing to join friends, would make herself useful to lady or children going to Cape or Durban.—Miss Smith, Mr. Cooke, Lewisham-road, Lewisham.

UPPER NURSE and Nursery Governess.—Two Sisters (Lady Helps), accustomed to, and fond of young children. Competent to take absolute charge of nursery. Baby from month. Christian abstainers. Disengaged December 1.—Delta, 12, Shrewsbury-road, Westbourne-park, London.

A LADY WISHES to recommend her Monthly Nurse, who will be open to an engagement after February.

Mrs. G., Mill-street, Nayland, near Colchester.

A LADY RECOMMENDS a Christian servant to attend an Invalid or Elderly Lady. Can do light housework and plain needlework.—Mrs. L. S., Woodcote, Fairlight, Hastings.

YOUNG LADY seeks re-engagement as Nursery Governess and Mother's Help to young children. Domesticated, and very fond of children. Could take entire charge.

M. S., 136, Church-road, Islington, N.

A LADY DESIRES an engagement as Housekeeper, now or Christmas. Educated, domesticated, and will conscientiously manage and value a Christian home.—Rev. [illegible] Featherstonehaugh, Grove-road, Woodford, Essex.

REQUIRED, by a young Lady an engagement as good second-hand or assistant Milliner. Three years' West-end experience. First-class references. Comfortable Christian home.—Miss REYNOLDS, Farningham, near Dartford, Kent.

A VICAR'S DAUGHTER (24) seeks engagement as Companion to elderly or Invalid Lady. Bright disposition, musical, domesticated. Or Governess to children under 12 (entire charge). Comfortable home more object than high salary. Highest references.
L. I., 42, Camberwell-road, S.E.

GARDENER (Head), or good single-handed, aged 25. Total abstainer. Thoroughly understands grapes, cucumbers, melons, and tomatoes. Flower and kitchen gardening. Good references.—S. NORGATE, Lands - End Vineries, St. Levan, near Penzance.

ENGAGEMENT wanted in Mission or Colporteur work in country town or village. Has been engaged for past two years as Colporteur, and conducting Special Services for Adults and Children, and work among navvies in Gravesend district. Can come immediately. Testimonials can be obtained. —W. WHITE, Evangelist, 28, Shrubbery-road, Gravesend.

WANTED BY A YOUNG PERSON who has had a school for young children, a situation in an Orphanage or Institution where she could have her young sister. Church of England preferred. Can be well recommended by Mr. William Cash Scarcroft, Chichester-road, Croydon, to whom application may be made.

A LADY RECOMMENDS as Sewing Maid, a young woman who has not been out before. Has good references
E. D. 23, York-terrace, N.W.

A LADY WISHES to recommend her Under Nurse of 16 years as Under Housemaid.
Mrs. ARCHIBALD, 3, Amersham-road, Putney.

MRS. WALKER wishes to find a situation as House and Parlourmaid for a girl who knows her work, but needs careful supervision in a Christian home, with steady fellow-servant.—Mrs WALKER, Bath Preventive Home, 4, Spencer's Belle Vue, Bath.

AS HOUSEMAID in a truly Christian family (where other servants are kept), by a respectable girl, aged 16. Can be well recommended.—L. K., Christ Church Vicarage, Hoxton, London, N.

GENERAL SERVANT or Under-Housemaid.—Situations wanted for Girls who, for over a twelvemonth, have steadily been trying to regain their character. Ages 20 to 22.
The MATRON, The Home, Chatham-hill, Chatham.

CHRISTIAN GOVERNESSES, Companions, and Lady-Housekeepers, of high principles, are frequently supplied to Ladies seeking such, by application to the LADY SECRETARY of the Governesses' Registry, Soho Bazaar, Soho-square, W. Testimonials never dispensed with. Free of all expense to Parents.

Appointments, Situations, &c., Vacant.

SECRETARIAL APPOINTMENTS, Y.M.C.A.—Gentlemen desirous of engaging in Christian work among young men should apply by letter to the Secretarial Appointment Board, Exeter Hall, London, W.C. Candidates should be under thirty years of age, unless previously engaged in the work.

A TRAVELLING SECRETARY wanted, for Y.M.C.A.'s. With other qualifications, experience in the work of great importance. —Apply, by letter only, giving fullest particulars, to HON. SEC., National Council, Exeter Hall.

WIDOW, OR SINGLE WOMAN, not under 25 years of age, wanted, to assist in training boys to kitchen and other household work, in an orphan home and industrial school, 30 miles from London. Salary £25 per annum, with comfortable board, lodging, and washing. Must be fairly well educated, and understand domestic duties, including cooking.—Apply by letter, stating age, qualifications, previous employment, whether widow or otherwise, and enclosing copies of testimonials, addressed, A. H. C., care of Messrs. Street & Co., 30, Cornhill, E.C.

WANTED, a cheerful Christian Lady, about 30 or 35 years of age, as useful Companion to a married Lady during absence of children at school. Must be musical, and able to take a mothers' meeting occasionally. One preferred who values a comfortable home more than salary.—Apply by letter, stating full particulars, to Miss H., 53, Chesterton-road, North Kensington, W.

WANTED, IMMEDIATELY, a Christian Lady, to superintend a Y.W.C.A. Home. Good servant kept. Experience in similar work preferred. Age 30 to 40 Capable of conducting Bible Class, and other classes occasionally. Moderate musical ability desirable. Must be a total abstainer. Salary £25 to £30, all found.—Apply by letter, with full particulars and testimonials, to SECRETARY, Y.W.C.A., 25, Friar-lane, Leicester.

ACTIVE EDUCATED LADY wanted, to solicit subscriptions on behalf of a well-known charitable society in London. She would have to gather a new list of subscribers. Must possess private means, as only a small salary in addition to commission is paid.—Apply by letter, B. W., Advertisers' Association, 7, Water-lane, Blackfriars, E.C.

RESPECTABLE WIDOW or Woman wanted, about 25, who can cook. Four in family. Housemaid kept. No beer. Economical, clean. Wages £14.
Mrs. A., 2, Woodlands-road, Barnes-common S.W.

CHRISTIAN YOUNG LADY wanted, as Help. Comfortable home. Would be treated as one of family. Must be thoroughly domesticated. One that could teach music and speak French preferred.—Write, stating salary, &c., X., 5, Royal-parade, Catford-bridge, Kent.

EXPERIENCED GROOM wanted, single-handed. Work in garden, and wait table occasionally. Sleep in house; clean boots and knives. Wages £16 and livery.
RECTOR, Mobberley, Cheshire.

SUPERIOR HOME for a Lady in return for a few hours' help with needlework, music to two little girls, and 8s. per week.
Mrs. B., Lyndhurst, Hainault-road, Leytonstone.

A CHRISTIAN PERSON wanted immediately, as good Plain Cook. Strong, active, early riser. Total abstainer. Six in family; no children. Three servants kept.
Mrs. WILKINS, Alstone Lodge, Cheltenham.

GOOD PLAIN COOK wanted, to do part housework with housemaid. Good character indispensable.—Mrs. G. E. ARNOLD, Woodville, Welling, Kent. Widow not objected to.

PLAIN COOK.—Wanted, in a small, quiet family, a trustworthy person as Plain Cook. Must be clean and active, an abstainer. Good character indispensable. A housemaid kept. Good wages given.
A. B., Banksia, St. Albans.

GOOD PLAIN COOK wanted, also House - Parlourmaid, in quiet family. Early risers, and good personal characters. Abstainers. —Apply to L. B., 6, Vanbrugh-park-road, Blackheath.

A GOOD PLAIN COOK wanted, not under 28, for a small, quiet family in the country. Dairy, one cow. No washing. Good character indispensable.
Miss MOORE, Maulden Cottage, Ampthill, Beds.

COOK wanted, for small family in London. Must be steady, and who has thoroughly learnt her business. Age about 25.—D. R., care of May's Advertising Offices, 159, Piccadilly.

A LADY would be glad to know of an efficient, kind, Christian monthly Nurse for February, living in or near London. Terms must be moderate. Also of a good Under Nurse.
Mrs H., 10, Bolton-road, Grove park, Chiswick.

NURSE wanted (single-handed), for three children. Youngest nearly two years old. Must be healthy, good-tempered, and willing. Age from 20 to 28. Wages £14 to £16. A true Christian would be much valued. Can any lady recommend?
Mrs. N., Vermont House, Cliftonville, Margate.

WANTED, IMMEDIATELY, a Nurse or Mother's Help, for five children. Young baby.—PENWITH, Sidcup, Kent.

AN EXPERIENCED, TRUSTWORTHY NURSE wanted (Christian preferred), for one baby, 16 months old. Must have good references. No under nurse kept.
Mrs. S., 24, Wellington-square, Hastings.

TWO GENERAL SERVANTS wanted, who can plain cook, for a family in Kensington. One year's character necessary. Wages £14 to £16. Age 20. Written application.
B., 70, Wimpole-street, Cavendish-square.

THOROUGH GENERAL SERVANT required. Not under 18. Must be able to cook well. Abstainer. Good home for a conscientious Christian girl. No children.
Mrs. WALTERS, 64, Tredegar-square, Bow.

WANTED, FOR THE SUBURBS, General Servant, for a small family. Age about 30. Must be thoroughly trustworthy, active, and cleanly. Some knowledge of needlework necessary. Wages £20, all found but beer. Another servant kept.—Apply, in first instance, Mrs. R., 41, Elgin-crescent, Notting-hill, London.

GENERAL SERVANT wanted (Churchwoman). Age 20 to 24. Early riser. Work regular. Four in family (adults). No washing. Wages £15.—Miss PERRY, 15, Sussex-street, Warwick-square, Pimlico, S.W.

CAN ANY LADY recommend Swiss, French, or German, speaking French, accent good, Christian, Protestant, to take charge of two little girls, 6 and 8? Good sewer, plain dressmaker, and educated. Send photograph and particulars.
Mrs. BARROW, Dalton-square, Lancaster.

A PARLOURMAID wanted in a Christian gentleman's family. Must be a total abstainer, and thoroughly understand her duties. Good character indispensable. Wages £18 and all found.
Mrs. INGRAM, 24, Lewes-crescent, Brighton.

WANTED, in a Christian Gentleman's family, a good Cook, who understands soups, entrees, jellies, &c. Must be a total abstainer. No kitchenmaid kept. Good character indispensable. Wages £25, and all found.
Mrs. INGRAM, 24, Lewes-crescent, Brighton.

To Let, Apartments, &c.

LONDON. — Insull's Temperance Hotel, 20, 21, Burton-crescent, Tavistock-square, W.C.—Five minutes' walk or 1s. cab fare from Euston, St. Pancras, King's Cross Railways; easily reached from other stations. Patronised by readers of THE CHRISTIAN.

PERCY'S HOTEL, LONDON.
40, Bedford-place, Bloomsbury-sq., W.C.

This First-class Private Hotel is highly recommended by readers of THE CHRISTIAN from all parts of the world. The Bishop of Algoma writes: "The comfort, perfect order, and attendance at PERCY'S Hotel, render it all that can be desired as a central place of sojourn in this great city." Beds from 1s. 6d. Tea, 1s. 3d. Tariff on application.

W. TAVERNER, Temperance Hotel, 35 and 36, Hunter-street, Judd-street, Euston-road. Five minutes from G.N., Mid., and N.W. Railways. Beds from 1s. 6d. Plain breakfast or tea, 1s. Tariff and testimonials on application. Patronised by ministers of all denominations.

TYNDALE HOUSE BOARDING ESTABLISHMENT, 17, Tyndale - place, Upper-street, Islington, N. Convenient to all parts. Tram and 'bus pass the door. Bed and breakfast from 2s. 6d.—N. J. NORRIS, Manageress.

ST. LEONARD'S-ON-SEA.—The Widow of the late Rev. FREDERIC WAGSTAFF, and Mrs. LOCKE, offer superior Board and Residence. Replete with every comfort. Close to sea, gardens, &c. Terms moderate.
Meliora House, 21, Carisbrooke-road.

BOURNEMOUTH. — Board and Residence, with home comforts and every attention. House pleasantly situated in one of the healthiest parts.—Terms on application to Miss SEARLE, or Miss HUTTEMAN, Loughtonhurst, West Cliff-gardens.

PARIS.—Board and Residence in French Protestant family. Highly recommended by English doctor who resided there some months. Terms, &c.,
M. D., 14, Maitland-park-villas, N.W.

BOURNEMOUTH.—Weston Hall. First-class Boarding Establishment. HIGHLY RECOMMENDED. Charmingly situated. Every effort made to promote the comfort and pleasure of visitors. Moderate charges.
Mr. E. L. RATCLIFFE, Proprietor.

A HOME IN ITALY.—A Christian family having a large house in a very beautiful and healthy locality, near Naples, would be pleased to receive in their circle a married couple or a widow Lady wishing for a comfortable but quiet home, in a warm climate, with a charming position. Terms 25 guineas per month for two people or 30 guineas with private sitting-room; 15 guineas per month for a single person. References exchanged.—For further particulars, Mon. EUGENE VAGNER, St. Michele, Ana Capri, Isola di Capri.

BOURNEMOUTH. — Mancetter, West Cliff. — Superior Boarding House. Very comfortable winter residence. Best position, close to sea and pines. Liberal table.—For terms, &c., address PROPRIETRESS.

WORTHING HOME OF REST for Christians. — Vacancies for the winter. Every comfort. Terms, one to two guineas.— LADY SUPERINTENDENT, Rutherford Lodge, Worthing.

SOUTHSEA. — Solent House Boarding Establishment, 16 and 17, South Parade. Sunny and cheerful position, directly facing sea and the Isle of Wight. Liberal table, and every home comfort. Winter terms from 30s. to 3 guineas a week.—Miss BAKER.

WESTBOURNE, BOURNEMOUTH. — Comfortable, well furnished Apartments. Pleasant outlook. Bath-room. Every attention. Terms moderate. No other lodgers.—L. V., care of G. D. SHIPLEY, Breachwood-green, Welwyn, Herts.

MARGATE.—Shaftesbury House, the Seaside Home of the Y.M.C.A. — From Oct. 1st until March, married ladies and gentlemen can be received as Boarders. Apply to the Manager.

BAYSWATER.—Lady living alone in pleasant part, near Churches of various denominations, omnibuses, and rail, offers comfortable Board and Lodging on very moderate terms, to Christian lady (not an invalid).—Apply, by letter only, Miss ALLAM, 26, Westmoreland-rd

BOURNEMOUTH. — To Clergymen. Comfortable, cheerful Apartments for the winter, close to church and town. Two sitting-rooms, six or eight bed-rooms. South aspect. Terms moderate. Medical reference
M. A., Ivors, Old Christchurch-road.

CHRISTIAN COMPANIONSHIP desired by a Lady living in her own house. Home comforts. Permanency desired. References exchanged. Trams pass door. Terms £1 per week.—S. B., 46, Queen's-road, Peckham.

SAN REMO, The Home for Invalid Ladies of limited means, re-opened on Nov. 1st. — Applications for admission to be addressed to the SECRETARY, San Remo, Italy.

THE WIDOW of the Rev. S. BORTON BROWN is anxious to make a home for herself and two sons in the neighbourhood either of Stoke Newington or of Streatham, and wishes to meet with one or two Christian gentlewomen, or a mother and son, who will give liberal remuneration for sharing with her a comfortable and refined home.—Apply, by letter only, to Mrs. BORTON BROWN, 9A, Lordship-road, Stoke Newington.

UNFURNISHED APARTMENTS. —Parlours (large), communicating, and kitchen. Extra room if required. Gas and venetians. No children. Close to tram or rail. Terms moderate.—30, Mildmay-road, N.

HASTINGS.—Board and Residence with cheerful family. Liberal table. Large, well-furnished house. 25s. weekly; no extras.—Mr. & Mrs. C., at Mr. Streeter's, Castle-road, Hastings.

TUNBRIDGE WELLS.—House or Apartments, facing the common. A Lady can thoroughly recommend most comfortable Apartments, suitable for the winter. Excellent cooking and attendance.
H., 1, Summerhill-place, London-road.

BUXTON, Derbyshire. — Alpine Boarding House.—Miss PALMER offers a comfortable Home to a few Ladies for 25s. per week, for the winter months. Baths as beneficial as in summer.

LYME REGIS, near Axminster, Dorsetshire. — To Let, for winter months, a pleasant sitting-room or drawing-room, with one or two good bed-rooms. Very near the sea. Terms moderate. — Rev. F. A. WARMINGTON Broad-street, Lyme Regis, Dorset.

TORQUAY.—Home offered to a Lady in a Clergyman's family. Terms moderate. Society cheerful and musical; situation beautiful and healthy. References.
X., care of Mr. Salter, Lucius-street, Torquay.

TO SHARE HOME. — A Lady wishes to meet with another lady to board with view to above. Would not object to change residence, and receive few boarders or pupils. Two in family. References.
BETA, 33, St. James-road, Tunbridge Wells.

A QUIET, COMFORTABLE, Christian Home is offered to a Lady in a small family residing in the suburbs of Birkenhead. Terms very moderate.—A. B., care of Chemist, 81, Woodchurch-road, Oxton, Cheshire.

A QUIET, COMFORTABLE HOME, for the winter or longer, is offered to one or two Ladies willing to share one large bed-room, by a Lady living in a pleasant and healthy part of Hastings.—C., Whiteman's Library, Hastings.

BOARD. — Comfortable Home offered in Lady's house, a few received, for married couple, or City Gentleman or Lady. Late dinner.—M. B., 53, Beresford-road, Highbury New-park, near Canonbury station.

FURNISHED APARTMENTS. — Bed-room and sitting-room, 10s. to 12s. per week, including good cooking, attendance, and kitchen-fire. Near tram and church. Evangelical ministry. Christian work.
BETA, The Octagon, Shirley, Southampton.

Miscellaneous.

ANXIOUS INQUIRERS are again earnestly invited to write to
Titus iii. 4—7. EVANGELIST, Clapham, S.W.

TO PARENTS. — A Dissenting Minister is desirous of taking the entire care of two boys, of parents who for any reason would like to put them out. Every necessary home comfort, Christian culture, and the constant care of one who loves boys. Healthy village, a few miles from Spalding.—For particulars apply to Mr. SIMPSON, Post-office, Spalding.

FLORIDA, the Italy of America. —Orange Groves bought or started and cared for, for non-residents. Money lent, interest 10 per cent. Pupils boarded and instructed.
HUGH MACCALLUM, Solicitor, Winterpark.

PUPIL.—An Architect in good London practice has a vacancy for a gentlemanly youth as Pupil. Premium required. Personal supervision of studies.
R. H. H., 3, Lombard-court, E.C.

AMERICAN ORGANS, Harmoniums, Pianos, of any make, for Church, School, or private purposes, supplied at great reduction through EDE & Co., 177, Upper Thames-street, E.C. Price lists and discounts on application.

IRON MISSION ROOMS, &c., erected on the most reasonable terms, by R. SAUNDERS, 216, Brecknock-road, London, N. Estimates and designs free. 25 years' practical experience. Also Churches and Schools, &c.

LOANS, at 2 per cent. per annum interest, to young tradesmen in the second or third year of their business in the City of London, or within five miles thereof. Loans of £100 to £300 granted upon unquestionable securities being provided.—WILLIAM PAYNE, Clerk of Wilson's Trust, Chamber of London, Guildhall, E.C.

SPECIAL OFFER.—Musical Boxes playing Mr. Sankey's and other sacred airs. Messrs. WALES & McCULLOCH have a limited number of these choice Instruments, by the original Nicole and other eminent makers, which they are offering at greatly reduced prices. Particulars will be sent on application, addressed to 22, Ludgate-hill, London.

NEEDLEWORK FOR LADIES, for Pleasure and Profit. All the New Art Work. Directions for lovely things in knitting and crochet. Useful articles and wearable things, saleable bazaar articles. How to Dispose of Work, and List of Work Societies. Price 1s. 7½d., post free.—Practical Artistic Patchwork. Six lovely patterns, artistically coloured, with full-sized diagrams for cutting out papers, 14 stamps.
Kingrose, Malvern Link.

ASTHMA. — Persons suffering from Asthma, Difficulty of Breathing, &c., are invited to try (free of charge) a remedy for affording immediate relief.
C., Mr. G. A. Keyworth, Hastings.

FURNISH on Norman & Stacy's Hire-Purchase System. No registration. Deposit not necessary. Economical Strictly private. 1, 2, or 3 years. Sixty genuine wholesale firms to select from.—Offices, 79, Queen Victoria-street, E.C., & 121, Pall Mall. S.W Carriage paid.

MAGIC LANTERNS, or Dissolving Views. Buy of the manufacturer, William Catlin, 17, Claremont-square, Pentonville, London. Exhibitions (Gospel), town or country. Slides on hire, 1½d. each. Second-hand catalogue gratis.

A PATIENT SUFFERING from Epilepsy, Hysteria, Paralysis, or otherwise requiring experienced treatment with care and supervision, is offered a loving Christian home at the seaside, where the above has for many years been very successfully treated. Highest references.—Medicus, care of Messrs. C Tayler & Co., Advertising Agents, Fleet-street, London.

INTEMPERANCE. — A Lady, thoroughly experienced in the care of ladies suffering from alcoholic and narcotic indulgence, can receive a few ladies. Terms moderate.—Miss Pudney, Buxton House, Earl's Colne, Essex.

INTEMPERANCE.—A successfully established private Home at the seaside for six, suffering from excess of morphia, chloral, absinthe, stimulants or Nervous Debility. Christian care and influence. Judicious supervision and home comforts.
Medicus, 9, Stokes Croft, Bristol.

MISSION ROOM. — Wanted immediately, a good second-hand Iron Room, to hold 100 to 150 persons. Terms must be moderate.
E. Pelly, Forest Rise, Walthamstow.

MATTHEW VI. 4.—Will some dear Christian brothers or sisters help two Ladies to keep their Home of Industry, which, through rascality, they must otherwise lose?
Gratitude, Whiteman, Stationer, Hastings.

AGENTS WANTED, for Temperance Beverages. Grocers and others sell them largely. Good profits, no risk, small outlay. Best yet introduced. Good testimonials.—Anti-Burton, 178, York-road, King's Cross, London, N.

WASHING WANTED, by an experienced Laundress, with every convenience. Terms moderate. Good drying grounds, and plentiful supply of water.—Mrs. Hunt, 2, Vine cottages, Lower St. James's-road, Notting-hill, W.

ELEGANT COUNTERPANE, Turkey twill and white calico. Coloured illustration, model, and instructions, nine stamps. Twelve fashionable Dinner Napkin Patterns, including three charming German for dishes, 1s. 1d.—Clifford, Newport, Mon.

SPARE TIME WORK, which will pay, may be obtained by Secretaries of Temperance Societies, Bands of Hope, Good Templar Lodges, visitors, and others, by applying to The Blue Ribbon Life, Accident, Mutual, and Industrial Insurance Company, Limited, Colmore Chambers, Newhall-street, Birmingham.

BUNTER'S

Cures Toothache, prevents Decay, saves Extraction, 1s. 1½d.

NERVINE.

READ! READ!! READ!!!
THE "STAR OF ISRAEL"
On the AFFAIRS of BRITISH ISRAEL.
On the AUTOBIOGRAPHY of MRS YARNOLD.

READ "THE STAR OF ISRAEL"
On the Wonderful IMPENDING DELIVERANCE of the BRITISH FROM THEIR ENEMIES.
On the TRUE REMEDY FOR BAD TRADE.

Weekly, One Penny, of all Newsagents, or direct from the offices, 2, Gresham Press Buildings, Little Bridge-street, London.

EPPS'S

GRATEFUL—COMFORTING.

COCOA.

Death.

On the 8th November, 1885, at St. Leonards-on-Sea, Horace William Toomer, the second and dearly loved son of William H. Toomer and the late Caroline Maria Toomer, of Grove Hall, Twyford Berks. Called home to be with Christ, after two years' great suffering from consumption Aged 22.

Publications.

MRS. GRIMKE'S TEXT CARD MISSION.—56 Languages. Precious souls in many lands have been led to Jesus Christ by these cards, and others brought under Christian influence. Records come of great blessing. Millions are asked for by Missionaries and others, who, able wisely to distribute to the nations afar, have no means to buy them. To meet this need, we pray God to send gifts and bequests, also increased sales. For new list send stamped envelope to Mrs Grimke, Prestwich, Manchester: or apply to Elliot Stock, 62, Paternoster-row, London.

THE NEAR RETURN of the Lord Jesus Christ. By Cheyne Brady. 7th Thousand. Price 1d. London: S. W. Partridge & Co., 9, Paternoster-row.

Price 2s., post free.
THE MORAL UNITY OF HUMANITY the Key to The Evangelic Theory; or, The Way to Conscious Union with God through Faith in Christ rationally indicated. By R. Brown.—Elliot Stock, 62, Paternoster-row.

THE "MOUNTAINS OF BREAD" Series of little Books and Leaflets, by the late Georgiana Thompson, are copyright. Profits for poor aged, suffering Christians. Are still supplied by addressing Miss A. Thompson, care of Dr. Cranage, Old Hall, Wellington, Salop.

C. H. SPURGEON'S GREAT WORK ON THE PSALMS is now complete, in seven volumes, cloth, 8s. each, and can be had in whole calf or half calf.—Messrs. Passmore & Alabaster, 4, Paternoster-buildings.

Just published. Stiff covers, 2s.; Cloth, 3s. 6d.
To Missionaries half-price.
SONGS, READINGS, AND RECITATIONS. By John H. L. Christien. For the Mission Hall, Christian and Temperance Assemblies, and the Fireside. Evangelistic, instructive, and entertaining.—Ford & Shapland, Great Turnstile, Holborn; and all booksellers. Author's address, 50, Thornhill-square N.

AMONG THE OLIVES;

OR,

The Allegory of the Bible Readers.

Price Sixpence.

"And to find that from that Book there could be no separation till given into the hands of its great Author."—Extract.

London: Partridge & Co., 9, Paternoster-row.

MONTHLY NOTES. Now ready, Vol. III., issued in connection with the Third Reading of the Bible and Prayer Union. Price 2s. 6d., post free. Can be had of the Rev Thomas Richardson, Vicar of St. Benet's, Mile End-road, London, E.

CHRISTMAS CARDS. — Flowers from Bethlehem, Nazareth, &c. Specimens of these cards 1s. and 6d. each, or a number to select from on receipt of P.O.O or stamps. Proceeds of sale for English Church School at Nazareth —Miss M. Lee, Thame, Oxon.

"A very Practical and Helpful Little Volume."—Evangelical Christendom.

THE ENQUIRY ROOM:

Hints for Dealing with the Anxious.

By GEORGE SOLTAU.

TINTED COVERS, 4d.; CLOTH LIMP, 6d.

"Many Christian workers have felt the need of such a handbook as this; and Mr. Soltau's wide experience makes his advice specially valuable."
Christian Miscellany.

"The 'Enquiry Room' is a very clear and simple, yet thorough and comprehensive, direction for those who undertake to guide the awakened to the Saviour."—The Outlook.

"We heartily commend this little manual to all who would be wise in soul-winning, and also to the earnest perusal of the anxious themselves; and may it be as the good Samaritan to many."
Irish Baptist Magazine.

"This is an excellent little handbook for all Christians who desire to help wisely and well in the great work of winning souls for Christ."
The Watchman.

London: Morgan & Scott, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

EDELWEISS Perpetual Calendars, with dried flowers, from 2s. Floral Lampshades from 10s. 6d. Christmas, &c., Cards, from 3d. Scented Cards, for the blind, from 6d. Profits for charity.—M. S. S., Rozel, Torquay.

REDUCTION IN PRICE.

INVALUABLE TO PREACHERS OF THE GOSPEL.

Used by Mr. MOODY and other Evangelists.

"Beautiful, and containing a fundamental idea."

THE WORDLESS BOOK.

Showing in a manner intelligible to the simplest, the mode of transition from the state of Sin (Black) to that of Glory (Gold).

PRICE ONE PENNY AND TWOPENCE.
Post free, 1½d. and 2½d.

Worcester:
F. S. Mackie, Avenue Printing Works.
London: W. H. Broom, 25, Paternoster-square.

EVANGELISTIC MISSIONS AND SERVICES.—Our attractive Gospel Leaflets (with notices on the back) are well adapted for thoroughly advertising meetings at small cost. Inclusive terms and specimens on application.—Penman & Co., 33, Castle-street, Holborn, London, E.C.

TRUST IN JESUS. — Four-page Floral Tracts for Children, with Chromo-Lithograph on first page. By Rev. E. Payson Hammond, M.A. Packets 1 and 2 (each containing 32 tracts), Sixpence per packet.

JESUS AND THE LITTLE ONES.—By Rev. E. Payson Hammond, M.A. Crown 8vo., 96 pp., with Illustrations. Sewed, 6d.; limp cloth, 1s.

HOW TO BE HAPPY.—By Rev. E. Payson Hammond, M.A. Crown 8vo., 96 pp., with Illustrations. Sewed, 6d.; limp cloth, 1s.

WORDS ABOUT JESUS.—Eight pp. Illustrated Booklets, tinted paper. By William Luff. Packets 1 and 2 (each containing 50 assorted of 8 Nos.), 6d. per packet.

ARDEN SERIES.—Eight pp. Illustrated Booklets, tinted paper. By H. K. Wood ("A Glasgow Merchant"). Packet of 50 (assorted of 8 Nos.), 6d.

GOSPEL LEAVES.—Two pp. Tracts. Illustrated. By Cheyne Brady. Packet 3. 100 assorted of 16 Nos., 6d.

Drummond's Tract Depôt, Stirling, N.B.
London: S. W. Partridge & Co.;
And all Booksellers.

NEW FANCY WORK FOR LADIES.

Registered.] "TOILECROSSE" [Registered.

This beautiful new Work, which is pleasant to handle while working, easy to do, and very effective when worked, is manufactured and supplied to the trade wholesale by ISAAC PICKARD, 4 and 5, Gascoigne-street, LEEDS. Samples on application. Ladies may obtain supplies at Berlin Wool Repositories everywhere. Be sure and ask for Toilecrosse (Registered).

NEW CARDS, TEXTS, AND VERSES.

By WILLIAM LUFF.

Packets of Twelve, SIXPENCE.

1. Heart Cries and Heavenly Answers. Floral Sprays, with gold centre.
2. Ripples on the Shores of Time. Birthday packet, with marine views.
3. Lilies of Life. Book-mark shape. Novel and new.
4. Palms of Victory. Beautiful designs in Palm Trees, with texts on Triumph.
5. Peeps at Palestine. Landscapes of the Holy Land, with precious promises.
6. Views and Verses for my Sunday Scholars. 48 tinted, gold-bordered Cards.

Solomon's Gold. Six gilt Cards, in 1d. packets.
Heavenly Words for Earthly Homes. Texts for the House in floral designs. 13¾ by 6 inches. Set of twelve, 1s.
Wreaths of Favour. Designs by Berth Maguire. 13¼ by 10¼ inches. Set of six, 6s.

MISCH & STOCK, 55, Jewin-street, London, E.C.

BAGSTER'S BIBLES.

Extra flexible, silk sewed, in best Bagster morocco, kid-lined, elastic band. With full helps. Prices from 20s.
In French morocco, projecting edges, elastic band. From 4s.

Samuel Bagster & Sons, Limited, 15, Paternoster-row London.

WHY AM I NOT A CHRISTIAN?

By AN OFFICER.

PRICE SIXPENCE PER DOZEN.

London:
S. W. Partridge & Co., 9, Paternoster-row.

Pocket size. In Neat Wrapper, 2d. In Cloth, 6d.

COMING OF THE LORD.

AN ADDRESS BY

Rev. NEWMAN HALL, LL.B.

"Only a small essay on this most glorious theme, but we welcome it from the pen of our brother, who has kept his thoughts largely to Scripture, letting the Word of God attest its own truth. It might most profitably be circulated."
Footsteps of Truth.

"A little treatise on the Second Advent, showing the mistakes in the popular mind respecting it, and what should be the action of professing Christians in looking and preparing for it."
Christian World.

London: Morgan & Scott, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

Small Books.
By D. L. MOODY.

Small 16mo., 32 pages each. Neatly printed on Tinted Paper. Suitable for enclosing in the modern Square Envelope.

PACKET I. Price 6d., post free.
GOOD NEWS.
"WHERE ART THOU?"
"THERE IS NO DIFFERENCE."
CHRIST SEEKING SINNERS.
"LET THE WICKED FORSAKE HIS WAY."
THE WORK OF THE HOLY SPIRIT.

PACKET II. Price 6d., post free.
"LOVE THAT PASSETH KNOWLEDGE."
CHRIST ALL AND IN ALL.
THE TWO CLASSES.
REPENTANCE AND RESTITUTION.
"DARE TO BE A DANIEL!"
PLAIN WORDS ON CONVERSION.

PACKET III. Price 6d., post free.
WEIGHED IN THE BALANCES.
"WHAT THINK YE OF CHRIST?"
THE DEATH OF CHRIST.
THE TWO ADAMS.
THE RESURRECTION OF CHRIST.
"TRUST!"

London:
Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller

PRICE SIXPENCE.
Suitable for General Distribution; or for enclosing in the modern square envelope.

"A PACKET OF SMALL BOOKS"

Containing one of each of the following:—
HOW TO FEED UPON THE WORD. By Dr. Monro Gibson.
A GLANCE AT THE GREAT WORK. By Lady Hope.
A SHELTER FOR THE LADS. By Mrs. Watts-Hughes.
MY SINGING CLASS. By Mrs. Watts-Hughes.
NUTS TO CRACK. By An Old Deist.
SOUL-WINNING. By D. W. Whittle.

London: Morgan & Scott, Paternoster-buildings
And may be ordered of any bookseller.

AN ATTRACTIVE WEDDING GIFT.

MARRIAGE AND HOME.

A Volume of Kindly Counsels to the Newly-Married. Beautifully bound in White and Gold, 2s. 6d.

"One of the daintiest little volumes we have seen for a long time; done up in white, crimson, and gold, most tastefully printed, and full of wise counsel and Christian teaching."—Freeman.

London: Morgan & Scott, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

Terms for Advertisements.

(PREPAID.)

Miscellaneous Advertisements in small type are charged at the following rates:—

Not exceeding 30 Words	....	3	0
,, 39 ,,	....	3	9
,, 48 ,,	....	4	6

And 9d. for every additional line of nine words or under, the address being in all cases charged for.

Scale for larger Advertisements sent on application.

☞ In order to secure insertion of Advertisements in the following number of The Christian they should reach this office on or before Friday, and at the latest by Saturday Morning's first post.

GOVERNMENT PROSECUTION OF Mr. STEAD and Mr. BRAMWELL BOOTH and their ASSISTANTS.

DEFENCE FUND.

Treasurers.

Alexander McArthur, Esq., M.P.
Professor Stuart, M.P.

THIRD LIST OF SUBSCRIPTIONS.

	£	s.	d.
R. C. Morgan	10	0	0
Benjamin Scott	5	5	0
Mrs. A. Wilson	5	5	0
F. Wheeler	10	0	0
Frank Morrison	100	0	0
Mrs. Thomas R. Tufnell	5	0	0
"A Friend"	5	0	0
Miss Robinson (Portsmouth Soldiers' Institute)	5	0	0
"Matt. v. 8"	5	0	0
Wm. Denny	5	0	0
Dowager Lady Buxton	25	0	0
J. N. Carr	5	0	0
Thomas B. Parke	5	5	0
George Williams	25	0	0
Paddington Vigilance Committee (per Halford L. Mills)	16	0	0
Alfred Milner	10	0	0
Miss Lucy Bligh	5	0	0
G. R. Scott	5	0	0
"J. H. E."	5	0	0
Miss Annie L. Browne	5	0	0
Samuel Gurney Sheppards	5	0	0
"L. M.," London	100	0	0
Mrs. Julia Berndes	10	0	0
Mr. T. F. Berndes, sen.	10	0	0
Wm. Smith, J.P.	5	5	0
Ladies' National Association (Bristol Branch), Meeting at Bristol	13	4	8
Ditto, Meeting at Weston-super-Mare	7	3	2
Samuel Budgett	5	0	0
Mary Wyatt Haycraft	5	0	0
Charles Burls	5	0	0
Mrs. Yates (Liverpool)	20	0	0
Readers of The Christian (per Morgan & Scott)	23	18	1
Robert Scott	10	0	0
S. G. T.	10	0	0
Sherratt & Newth	5	0	0
Arthur Villacan	5	0	0
J. H. Sanders	5	0	0
Henry Carr	5	0	0
R. R. Meade-King	5	0	0
Thomas W. Backhouse	20	0	0
Arthur Backhouse	10	0	0
Mrs. Cr sby	5	0	0
Arthur T. Webb	5	0	0
T. Leman M. Hare	5	0	0
Mrs. Thos. Cooper	5	0	0
Frederick Links	5	0	0
Sir George E. Hodgkinson	5	0	0
Capt. G. Richards, R.N.	5	0	0
Rev. Canon Liddon	5	0	0
D. G. Ritchie	5	0	0
Philip Evans & Sons	5	0	0
John T. Brunner	10	0	0
J. G. Wilson	5	0	0
Miss Leonard	5	0	0
Wm. McComas	25	0	0
Viscountess Harberton	5	0	0
Joseph Lingford	5	0	0
Lord Northbourne	25	0	0
G. G. Butler	5	0	0
Edw. S Heywood	5	5	0
Brian H. Hodgson	5	0	0
J. H. P.	5	0	0
B. B. Trench	5	0	0
Miss H. E. Davis	5	0	0
The Marquis of Ely	5	0	0
Sums under £5	229	12	1
	£941	3	0
Previously advertised	4123	10	5
	£5064	13	5

The great length of the trial involves an expenditure of more than £1.000 beyond the original estimate of £5,000, and the Treasurers earnestly request FURTHER SUBSCRIPTIONS, which may be sent to them, care of P. W. Bunting, Esq., 11, Old-square, Lincoln's-inn.

SCRIPTURE READERS' SOCIETY FOR IRELAND.

President, The Rt. Hon. the Earl of Shaftesbury, K.G.
Established 1822.

For the purpose of employing humble Christian men well versed in the Scriptures to visit and read the Bible from house to house throughout the country. The Scripture Readers are invariably placed under carefully selected Christian Superintendents, and are also employed by the Society in the large towns and cities, such as Dublin, Belfast, Waterford, &c., as City Missionaries, and visit all classes and denominations, where permitted so to do. Irish-speaking Readers are sent to Irish-speaking districts when required, but are now seldom or ever asked for. The work is carried on in a spirit of love, and not of controversy.

The Scripture Readers also visit amongst the Sailors in seaports and hold Bethel Meeting on board Ships, at hours not to interfere with the usual Public Services. The Society is supported by voluntary contributions.

OFFICES:

37, LOWER PEMBROKE STREET, DUBLIN;
AND 9, PATERNOSTER ROW, LONDON.

Full particulars, reports, &c., can be obtained post free on application to the Secretary, Capt. James Kearney White, or by the Proprietors of this paper.

Note.—Subscriptions or Donations may be sent to the above addresses, or will be received by the Proprietors of "The Christian."

Friends will please notice the exact title, "Scripture Readers' Society for Ireland," and not "Irish Scripture Readers' Society."

PREVENTIVE WORK, IRELAND.

GIRLS' TRAINING HOME,

64, LOWER BAGGOT STREET, DUBLIN.

FUNDS URGENTLY NEEDED.

Has received and helped since opening in March, 1883, 120 girls between the ages of 12 and 20, and aided by Free Registry, 140 extern cases.

Furniture, blankets, gifts of clothing, school requisites, much needed. Winter approaching. Constant pressing applications. Bank account overdrawn £70. We earnestly ask help.

(Mrs.) A. M. BURTON, Hon. Treasurer.
(Mrs.) F. M. SIBTHORPE, Hon. Sec.

Mrs. Botting's Children's Home,

23, RIDLEY ROAD, DALSTON, E.

THE protection and culture of the young and helpless is a matter appealing, upon the first principles of Christianity, to the consideration of the benevolent and humane. "Suffer little children to come unto Me" were the touching words of our Saviour, and it is the duty of every follower to endeavour, to the best of his or her ability, to provide for, and guide the steps of, those of tender years who from any cause are bereft of proper parental guardianship. With this view, and under the patronage of many influential Christian ladies, a Home has been established by Mrs. Botting (a lady of great experience) for the reception and maintenance of young children who, from various circumstances, are without a mother's care. They are admitted at any age, and fed, clothed, educated, and trained as servants, until sixteen years old, when they are placed in respectable situations; the relatives of the children, if able, contributing a small weekly sum towards their support.

The value of such an institution, and the necessity for it, are proved by the fact that the applications for admission to Mrs. Botting's Home are vastly in excess of the accommodation at present available; and it has therefore been considered judicious and advisable to appeal urgently to the charity of those who, having the bodily and spiritual welfare of such forlorn little ones at heart, desire to enlarge the sphere of so philanthropic and useful an institution. For this purpose it is suggested to raise a fund sufficient to purchase a Freehold House capable of containing one hundred of these poor little waifs, thus saving a heavy rental.

The estimated amount required for the purpose is £1600, of which £100 are already promised, and it is believed and hoped that in such a cause this appeal to a Christian community will be readily responded to.

Full information will be furnished upon application to Mrs. Botting, Children's Home, 23, Ridley-road, Dalston, London; and Donations will be thankfully received at the Home as above, or by Messrs. Morgan & Scott, Office of The Christian, to the credit of "Mrs. Botting's Children's Home."

EMPTY PUBLIC-HOUSES.

To Mission Superintendents and Others.

"It is a fact that should not be disguised that multitudes of working men have homes in which it is unreasonable to expect them to spend their evenings. The rooms are few and small, and crowded with children. The wife is occupied in getting the screaming baby to sleep, or in some household work of washing, mangling, or ironing; and the presence of a great clumsy lounging man is as inconvenient to her as it is uncomfortable for him. The light, especially in out of town neighbourhoods, is only just sufficient to prevent one falling over the youngster sucking his thumbs on the hearthrug, or the clothes-basket standing in the gangway between the rickety round table and the two broken-bottomed chairs. Even where the Home is different, and the man has room to stretch himself, and has fire and light and quiet, he is usually without resource to occupy his time through the long winter evenings.

"To get out of the way of a busy wife, or out of the misery of a wretched home, and to while away the long and tedious hours, men take themselves off to the public-house. It is true that the occupation they find there is usually of the lowest and poorest description; but, to their minds, it is better than none. The beer is, in the great majority of cases, quite a secondary consideration, and is drunk 'for the good of the house.' At the public-house a man is in constant temptation. He is led to drink when he really has no inclination to do so, and by degrees falls into the habit of taking too much; becoming finally a confirmed drunkard, to the ruin of his own and his family's happiness. We must provide counter attractions, better occupation, if we would keep men from the tap-room.

"The 'British Workman,' a public-house without intoxicating drinks, has proved itself a most valuable institution. But its advantages need to be supplemented. If it were not for the effects of the beer on the brains of the public-house frequenter, the tap-room would soon become as tiresome as the cottage sitting-room. Put a pipe in a man's mouth, and a pot of ale by his side, and it is marvellous how well satisfied he becomes with the poorest wit and the most indifferent companionship. Take away the pipe and the pot, and he is disgusted with what before amused and delighted him. In connection, therefore, with the 'British Workman,' as well as where this institution does not exist, some kind of evening entertainment should be provided for the class of men found in the public-house.

"Considerable experience in conducting such entertainments has proved that they may be made very successful as well as self-supporting. Nothing will be found so continuously attractive as good dissolving views, accompanied by a lively descriptive lecture, and some music. A charge of one penny for admission is readily paid, and the receipts may be augmented by means of a few reserved chairs at a higher figure. The only difficulty in carrying through a series of such entertainments has hitherto been to obtain a succession of capable lecturers, and to pay their fees. But this hindrance is now overcome. A volume of lectures on the most miscellaneous subjects, specially prepared for this purpose, has been published, entitled, 'Lantern Readings.' I have made large use of this happy provision, and can strongly recommend both the book and the pictures to anyone who is anxious to provide successful entertainments for the working classes, or indeed for almost any class of the population.

"The only opposition that these 'Lantern Readings' have to encounter is that is of the professional lecturer, whose occupation will be gone, and of publicans, whose parlours will be emptied. But you cannot make much advance in any useful direction, without treading on somebody or other's toes."

Price of Book, 2s.; by Post, 2s. 3d.

I will gladly forward Prospectus and Catalogues Post Free.

LANTERNS AND SLIDES ON SALE OR HIRE.

Address—Mr. W. CATLIN 17 Claremont Square, Pentonville, N.

SPECIALLY URGENT APPEAL.

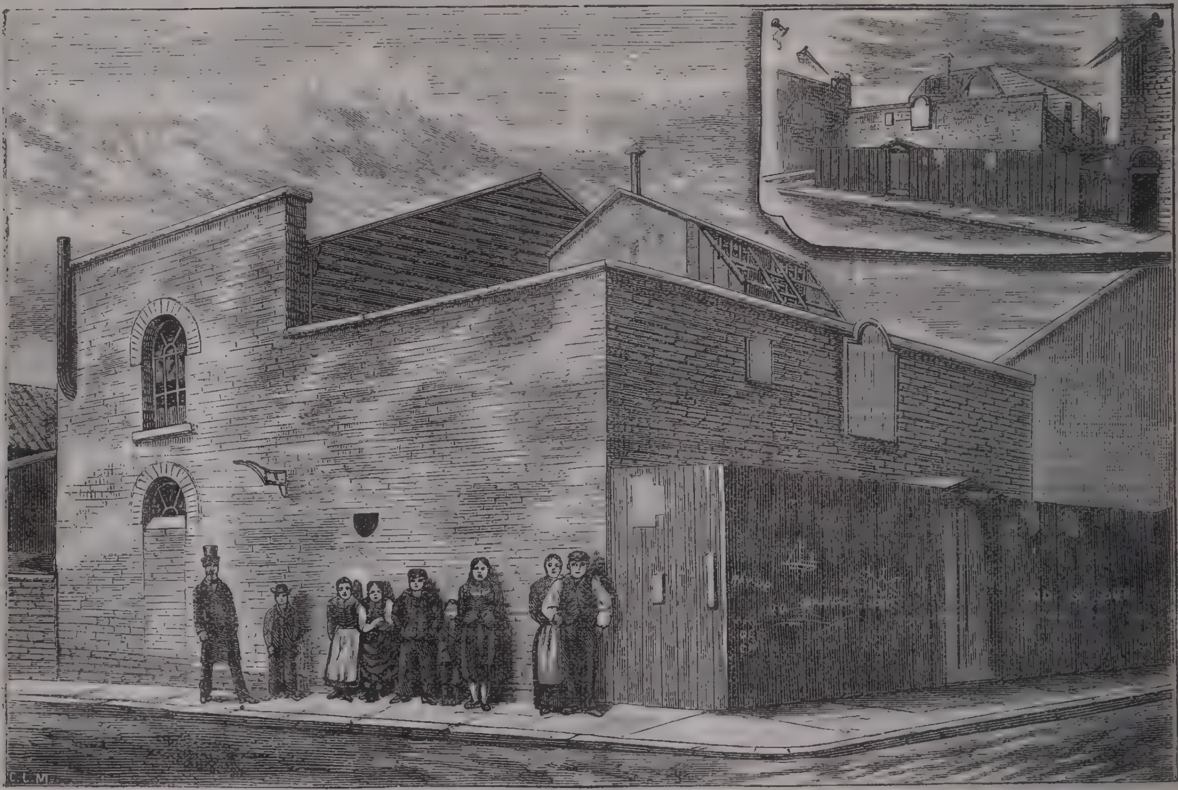
DEPTFORD RAGGED SCHOOL.

Established 1844.

Late President—THE RIGHT HON. THE EARL OF SHAFTESBURY, K.G.

£800 IMMEDIATELY REQUIRED TO PREVENT

Stoppage of the Work of Re-building.



THE OLD BUILDING, OCCUPIED FROM 1855 TO 1885.

THIS School is in the midst of the poorest part of the South-East of London, where the work has been carried on for upwards of 40 years. It has the sympathy and support of the Ministers of all the Christian Denominations. The teaching is unsectarian; and the teachers are drawn from all sections of the Christian Church.

The work comprises Sunday Schools, Bible Classes, Week-night Service, Mothers' Meetings, Girls Sewing Class, Penny Bank, Boot Club, Dispensary, Band of Hope, Working Lads' Institute, &c., &c.

The late revered Earl of Shaftesbury thus wrote of it: "There is no institution in England mor worthy of support than the Deptford Ragged School."

Until completion of the New Building expense of hiring rooms must be incurred, and the work considerably impeded.

Will each Reader of The Christian come forward with the needed help, and thus prevent all further hindrance to the work of this Institution being thoroughly carried out?

Donations of any amount will be gratefully received, and acknowledged by the Editor of Th Christian, or by THOMAS ARNOLD, Hon. Sec., 6, Royal Circus Street, Greenwich, S.E.

W. T. ROLFE, Hon. Sec. (Building Committee), 22, Reservoir Road, Brockley Rise, S.E

Forthcoming Meetings.

EVANGELISTIC.

he Evangelisation Society will send evangelists to any part of England, Scotland, and Wales on due notice. Apply Hon. Sec., 21, Surrey-street, Strand, W.C.

he Irish Evangelisation Society will send evangelists to any part of Ireland on due notice. Apply to Mr. J. Barton, Hon. Sec , Dundalk, Ireland.

he Metropolitan Tabernacle Evangelists' Association will send lay preachers and evangelists to any chapel or hall of any evangelical denomination in London. Apply Hon. Sec., 121, Camberwell New road, S.E.

he Children's Evangelistic Mission will send evangelists to any part of Great Britain to conduct missions for children and young people. No charge. Apply T. Eyres, Hon. Sec., 253, Southampton-street, Camberwell, S.E.

he Church Army will send evangelists (working men) to any clergymen on due notice, for short or long missions. Apply Hon. Sec., 36, Southampton-street, Strand, W.C.

ocial Purity.—The Gospel Purity Association is prepared to send competent lecturers to address meetings of men or women on the above subject. Apply J. B. Wookey, General Secretary, 31, Paternoster-square, London, E.C.

r. Gawin Kirkham.—November 20, Old Cavendish-street; St. James's Hall, 22 and 29; Nettlestead, 23; Bermondsey, 24; Spitalfields, 30; Exeter Hall, 18 and 25.

essrs. Fullerton and Smith.—Abbey-road, St. John's Wood, to November 26; Norwood, 29 to December 20; January 3, and onwards, New Great Assembly Hall, Mile-end-road.

r. F. E. Marsh.—Sheffield, to November 22; Hove; Brighton, December 6 to 20; Peterhead, N.B., January 1 to 24.

r. W. Spencer Walton.—November, Weston-super-Mare, Southsea, and Wandsworth; December, Wandsworth, Barnet.

r. Henry Thorne.—To November 23, Bridgwater; 28 to December 7, Malvern; 12 to 21, Stratford, London.

r. James Neech.—Harby, Lincoln, November 22 to December 3; Swinderby, December 6 to 18.

rs. Reaney every Sunday afternoon at Stepney Meeting House.

r. T. Shuldham Henry.—St. George's Hall, Langham-place, W., during November, Sundays, 11 a.m. and 7 p.m.; Burlington Hall, Savile-row, Wednesdays, 8 p.m.

r. J. M. Scroggie.—November, Hawick, N B.; December and January, N.E. Coast, Banff, Macduff, Portsoy, Buckie, and Fraserburgh

r. E. P. Telford.—Dewsbury, to December 10; Southend, December 13 to 23.

iss Brewster.—Finsbury Park Hall Y.M.C.A., Sundays, 7 p.m., November 22 and 29.

ow and Bromley Institute, Bow-road, E.—Mr. Evans-Hurndall, M.A., Sundays, 8.30 p.m.

ammersmith Baths (near Broadway).—Gospel services, in the Board-room on Sundays during the winter, 7 p.m.

lapton Hall, Upper Clapton.—Mr. J. Denham Smith during November, Sundays, 6.30 p.m.; Fridays, 7.30 p.m.

estminster Chapel, Buckingham Palace-road, S.W.—Mr. Russell Hurditch throughout November; Sundays at 7, Wednesdays at 8.

orth London Evangelistic Choir.—November 21, Conference Hall, Mildmay, 6 p.m.; 27, School-room, Conduit-street, Upper Clapton, 8 p.m.; every Sunday evening, at 7, Conference Hall, Mildmay.

hildren's Special Service Mission.—Mr. E. Pitts, Tooting, to November 20; Mr. W. E. Seagrove, Hemingford-road, Barnsbury, to November 20; Mr. E. Arrowsmith, Cheltenham, to November 29; Mr. J. Spiers, London, assisting Mr. Hammond.

vangelisation of the World.—Annual conference of Christian workers, in connection with the Manchester and Salford Boys and Girls' Refuges, December 8 and 9. Messrs. Leonard K. Shaw, J. Wakefield MacGill, and Gilbert R. Kirlew are the hon. secs, Conference Hall, Strangeways, Manchester, to whom all communications may be addressed.

nion Hall Mission (under the direction of Mr. Robert Bilke).—Services on Sunday next, November 22: Union Hall, Carlisle-street, Edgware-road, N.W., Mr. W. P. Harwood, at 7 p.m.; Kensal Hall, Kensal-road, W., Mr. W. R. Lane, 7 p.m.; Gospel Hall, Green-lane, High-street, Battersea, S.W., Mr. Edwin Cook, 7 p.m.; Queen's-park Hall, Kilburn-lane, Mr. S. E. Angel, 7 p.m.; Gospel Hall, Market-place, Brentford, Mr. S. Stidolph, 7 p.m. 18, Greenhill-park-villas, Harlesden, workers' prayer meeting, Monday, 10.30 to 12 noon.

eligious Services for the People.—Sunday services at Pavilion Theatre, Whitechapel-road, 7 p.m.; Town Hall, Shoreditch, 3.30; Town Hall, Holborn, 3.30 and 7; Town Hall, Bermondsey, 3.30 and 7; Town Hall, Kensington, 7; St. James's Hall, Regent-street, 3.30 and 7; Temple of Varieties, Hammersmith, 3.30 and 7; Croydon Theatre, 7; Good Duke Humphrey Hall, Greenwich, 3.30 and 7; Alexandra Temperance Hall, Southwark-park-road, 6.30; Park Hall, Camden Town, 3.30 and 7; Morley Hall, Hackney, 7 Evangelical Hall, High-street, Homerton, 7.

vangelistic Mission (under the direction of Mr. C. Russell Hurditch).—Bignold Hall, Bignold-road, Station-road, Forest Gate, Mr. Abraham Wallis, Sunday, 7 p.m. Dalston-lane, 103A—Mr. H. W. Davidson, and others, Sunday at 7 p.m.; Tent, on ground behind the (late) Hall of Commerce, near Dalston Junction Railway Station, Mr. H. Osborn, Sunday, 7 p.m. Hammersmith—Upper Mission Room, 180, King-street, various speakers, Sunday, 7 p.m.; Dr. Popham, Thursday, 8 p.m. Kilburn Hall, Kilburn Gate (not Town Hall), Dr. McKilliam, Sunday, at 7 p.m. Malden Hall, Kentish Town, Alexander Carson, M.A., Sunday, at 7, on "Living Water: How to get it;" Mr. John Churchill, Thursday, at 8 p.m. Mortlake, Rest Mission Hall, Mr. R. B Calder, Sunday, 7 p.m. St. John's Wood, N.W., 190, Alexandra-road—Meeting for workers, Wednesday, 10 a.m. West Kensington Hall (known as Cadby Hall), Hammersmith-road, West Kensington—Mr. C. V. T. Onslow and Dr. Popham, Sunday, at 3 and 7 p.m.

MISCELLANEOUS.

lkley, Yorkshire.—Convention for the deepening of spiritual life, December 3.

ity of London Central Noon Prayer Meeting, 186, Aldersgate-street.—Daily, 12 to 1.

.W.C.A., Mall Hall, Notting-hill-gate, W.—Tuesday, November 24, Rev. Nevile Sherbrooke, 3.30 p.m.

pper Norwood, Stafford House, Tudor-road.—Drawing-room meetings every Thursday, at 3 and 8 p.m.

Merchants' Lecture, Finsbury Chapel, Moorfields, City.—Rev. Edward White, Tuesday, November 24, 12 noon.

Conference Hall, Clapham-road, S.W.—November 26, humiliation and prayer for our nation and government, 5 and 8 p.m.

Miss Mittendorff's Annual Meeting, Tuesday, December 15, at the Y.W.C.A., 17, Old Cavendish-street, Cavendish-square, W., 7.30 p.m.

Drawing-room Meeting and address in German to governesses, by Dr Ziemann, on Saturday, November 21, 3.30 p.m., at Mrs. Fry's, 55, Chepstow-place, W.

Church Army.—Consecration service, every Friday, at 8 p.m., at Brunswick Chapel, Upper Berkeley-street, W. (close to Marble Arch). Revs. F. S. Webster, E. W Moore, and others.

Deepening of Spiritual Life—Meetings at Stafford Rooms, Titchborne-street, Edgware-road, Friday, November 20, 3.30 p.m., address by Rev. E. H. Hopkins; 27, Rev. H. Webb-Peploe.

Home of Industry, 60, Commercial-street, Spitalfields, E.—Monthly meeting for Christian workers, Wednesday, November 18, tea at 6, meeting at 7. Rev. Charles A. Fox will give the address.

3, Highbury-place, N.—Each Tuesday, 6.30 p.m., at Rev. W. E Boardman's, a meeting held for advancement in spiritual life. On Thursday, at 11 a.m., Mrs. Boardman's Bible-class for ladies at same place.

House of Rest, 8, Cambridge-gardens, Kilburn-park, N.W.—Friday, November 20, at 7 p.m., subject, "Christ and Family Life," by Miss Mason; tea at 6. Sunday, 22, at 3.30 p.m., "God's Men in the Old Testament," by Miss Mason.

Humiliation and Prayer.—Thursday, November 26, meeting in Room No. 4, Conference Hall, Mildmay-park, N., from 4 to 6 p.m., for humiliation and prayer concerning our country and our people. Mr. R. C. Morgan will preside. Christians from all parts of London are invited to attend. At 7 p.m., in Room No 4, a meeting for mothers; addresses by Mrs. Hind Smith, Miss Mason, and others.

Y.M.C. ASSOCIATIONS.

61, Gracechurch-street.—Daily prayer meeting, 1.15 p.m. (Sat. excepted). Bible study, Tuesdays, 6.15 p.m. Workers' meeting, Monday, 7 p.m. Soldiers, Friday, 7 p.m. Y.M.C.A. Mission-hall, Melior-street, S.E., Sunday 11 a.m. and 3 p.m., children and 6.30 p.m. adults; Thursday, 8 p.m. Lambeth Schools, Friday, 8 p.m.

186, Aldersgate-street.—Thursday, November 19, Bible lecture, by Dr. Anderson, "Foundation Truths, Illustrated by Old Testament Types." 8 p.m.; Friday, 20, 8 p.m., Gospel meeting, address by Mr. Shuldham Henry; Saturday, 21, 7.30 p.m., Bible lecture, by Mr. Robert Brown; Monday, 23, 8 p.m., lecture by Rev. A. F. Muir, M.A., on "A Tricycle Tour up the Rhine and through the Black Forest," illustrated by dissolving views; Tuesday, 24, at 8 p.m., Rev. Alfred Bax, subject, "Hints to Preachers."

31, High-street, Hampstead.—Thursday, November 19, address to young men, by Mr. C. Russell Hurditch, at 8.30 p.m.

172, Queen's-road, Bayswater.—Mr. Henry Varley will give an address on "Social Purity," Saturday, November 28, at 8.30 p.m., to young men only.

The Priory, 188, Upper-street, Islington, N.—Thursday, November 19, 8.30 p.m., address, by Rev. Bevill Allen. Wednesday, 6 to 10, anxious inquirers and strangers.

Burlington Hall, 23, Savile-row, Regent-street, W.—Thursday, November 19, at 8.30, lecture, by Rev. Dr. Oliver, on "Christian Thought in the Second and Third Centuries," Mr. T. Simpson Jay in the chair. Bible class, Sundays, 3.15; prayer meetings and classes as usual.

17, Camden-road, N.W.—Thursday, November 19, 8.30 p.m., young men's meeting, special address by Mr. J. L. Whelen.

Conference Hall, Stratford.—Sunday, November 22, 3 and 7 p.m., Mr. Dudgeon.

◆

WORKING LADS IN THE CITY.—Sir,—May I be allowed to draw the attention of employers to the work carried on by this Institute amongst the working lads of the City of London, in the hope that they will, as opportunity offers, bring it before the notice of those for whose benefit the Institute is established. It provides an excellent reading, dining, and refreshment rooms, a library, a well-appointed gymnasium, a savings bank, Bible and literary classes, weekly lectures on various interesting subjects, and also sleeping accommodation for eighteen lads. The subscription is only sixpence a month to members. A debt of about £100 is resting upon the Institute, which the committee are most anxious to liquidate.—Yours truly,

Henry W. Hart, Secretary.

St. Bride's Youths' Institute, 11, Shoe-lane, E.C.

SUNDAY NEWSPAPERS.—Few modern inventions have had such a disastrous influence upon personal and family religion as these printed Sunday sheets, which, like the Egyptian frogs, "go up and come into thy house, and into thy bed-chamber, and upon thy bed." They are supplanting the reading of the Bible in many a family; they are perverting the taste of those who once enjoyed a religious book; they are unfitting the attendant upon the church for engaging in its solemn services, or for relishing the wine and milk of the Gospel. There can be no spiritual appetite for the meat of God's house when the only appetiser that has been sought is the reading of the worldly gossip and of the evil details served in the Sunday paper. If the sanctuary is visited after a Sunday morning's debauch in the newspaper, how can the preacher hope to interest, when his only theme must be the verities of the message God has given him? These Sunday papers in Christian households are the bane of their religion. They should be ostracized, or they will become the winding-sheets of piety where it once flourished, and where it would still diffuse its beauty, peace, and bliss upon every member.—(New York) Pulpit Treasury.

Notices.

Communications Received with Thanks.—P M N. W.D. J.B. W.H.T. J.E.S. M.A.M. H.M.A. J.W.K. G.W.H. W.C. E.T.L. F.W.K. M.E.D. E.M. E.T. A.R.H. H.W.H. W.T. M.T. C.G.M. E.J.M. A.R. R.R. F.A.S. J.S. H.A. J.M. M.T. C.A. J.E. S.C. H.M. L.B. W.C.O. J.M.S. R.N. C.A.F. T.D. J.F.M. J.W.S. H.E.B. C.S. J.A.A. S.G.W. E.A. A.C.I. J.M. F.E.K. J.F.G. M.L.O. O.R. C.P. G.B. S.F. R.S. H.F. C.H. H.A.S. H.T.B. F.H.H. M.E.G. J.E.C. E.W. W.B.H. J.C.H. E.J.J. W.L. W.P. E.B. W.D.D. S.P.H. W.Q. C.S.T. P.D. M.R. W.W. R.D.F. J.B.A. W.G. A.C.R. H.E.B. R.W. E.B.B. S.J.S. E.H. S.A.F. J.H.L.C. R.W. E.W.M. J.E.B. J.T.W. S.R.G. G.P. G.H. T.J.B. D.W.H. A.L. English Mother. N.R.H. J.W. A.B. H.A.B. D.S. J.E.C. S.C.C.

Applicants for Tracts.—A. Clements, 38, Queen's-buildings, South Side, Borough, S.E.; E. Neighbour, 30, Greenwich-road, S.E.; R. Shears, 18, Milton-court-road, New Cross, S.E.; E. K. Adams, 69, Arlingford-road, Brixton, S.W.; F. Brookes, 9, Hampton-street, Walworth-road, S.; W. Martin, 8, High-street, Plumstead, Kent; W. H. Doggett, Cherryhinton, Cambridge; J. H. Mees, care of T. Mees, Dennis Park, near Stourbridge; G. W. Pockett, 89, Ossulston-street, Euston-road, W.C.

[As it is found that infidels and others send tracts to the persons whose names are inserted here, it is most important that all books and papers received should be carefully read before being given away.]

◆

Subscriptions received by Messrs. Morgan & Scott to Saturday Morning, November 14, 1885.

 Donations should be sent by Cheque or P.O. Orders, not by stamps. Cheques to be drawn in favour of Morgan and Scott, and crossed City Bank; P.O. Orders payable to Morgan and Scott, at G.P.O.

 Will donors oblige us by giving explicitly and fully the titles of the Missions to which they wish their donations to be applied? Mistakes which sometimes arise will thus be obviated. Will they also bear in mind that our Donation List is made up for the Printer on Saturday morning? And amounts received afterwards will be acknowledged in the subsequent week's number.

	£	s.	d.
Friendless and Fallen—B. C. 5s.; Valley of Achor, £2 10s.; J. M. W. £1 1s.; H. P. T. 10s.; A. T. D. N. £2; H. A. T. 5s.; W. H. £5 9s. 3d.; R. N. £3..	15	0	5
Lord's Day Society (Rev. Dr. Gritton)—I. D. A. ..	0	10	0
Midnight Meeting Movement—Mrs. L. M. C.	0	10	0
Miss De Broen's Work, Paris—Amicus, 2s. 6d.; (Belville Medical Mission) M. D. G. £2	2	2	6
Stead, &c., Defence Fund—M. M. 5s.; A. P. C. £5; M. H. 5s; S. P. 10s.; N. Ms. Bible Class, 5s. 6d.; E. M. 10s.; W. H. B. 5s.; A. M. C. 5s.; B. H. 2s.; E. P. 6d.; Mr. and Mrs. J. G. O. £4; J. G. W. 10s. 6d.; W. G. W. 10s. 6d.; M. and J., &c 5s. 7d.; J. and H. H. £5; Rev. W. W. 10s.; Country Rector's Daughter, £1 1; E. F. M and E. T. P. £1; Conscience Money, 10s.; Maiden's Mite, 2s.; Sick Widow, 5s.; S. E. N. 2s.; M. R. £1; Broadstone Mothers, Wimbourne, 10s.; C. P., Clifton, 10s.; Rev. T. M. 10s.; J. S. 10s.	24	4	7
St. Giles' Christian Mission—W. O. 2s.; S. W. F. £3; (Prison Mission) Y. R. £1; R. N. £2 10s. ..	6	12	0
Scripture Readers' Society for Ireland—W. C. 2s. 6d.; M. 5s...	0	7	6
Livingstone Island Mission, Congo—W. O...	0	1	0
Dock Labourers' Mission—Mrs. H. £10; J. W. and K. A. £4; S. W. F. £2; (Free Meals) H. H. 8s.; J. H. 2s. 6d.; B. B 5s..	16	15	6
Thames Church Mission—Boys, Old Hall School, 5s. 6d.; G. T. G. 2s. 6d.	0	8	0
Union Hall Mission—C. S...	0	1	0
Rev. R. W. McAll's Work, Paris—M. D. G. £3; M. 5s...	3	5	0
Homes of Hope, Regent-square—Valley of Achor ..	2	10	0
Dr. Barnardo's Homes—H. P. T. 10s.; H. A. T. £1 2s. 6d.; M. A. R. 10s.; R. N. £5; F. V. M. £1 12s; G. T. G. 2s. 6d..	8	17	0
Sick Children's Dinners (Miss Mayo)—A. T. D. N...	2	0	0
London Medical Mission—A. T. D. N...	1	0
East London Mission—W. A.	0	5	0
Miss Mittendorff's Orphans' Home—J. C. £10; G. T. G. 2s. 6d.	10	2	6
Y.M.C.A., Exeter Hall—J. W. and K. A.	3	0	0
Y.M.C.A., Islington—J. W. and K. A...	3	0	0
Y.M.C.A., Stafford Rooms—J. W. and K. A.	3	0	0
Miss Cole's Orphan Homes—J. W. and K. A.	3	0	0
Lock Hospital, Soho—(Out-patients) J. W. and K. A.	2	0	0
Zenana Medical Mission (Dr. Griffith's)—J. W. and K. A...	3	0	0
Destitute Children's Dinner Society—J. W. & K. A.	4	0	0
Colar Mission (Miss Anstey)—M.	0	5	0
Miss Leigh's Home, Paris—(English Girls) M.	0	5	0
Miss Weston's Work in Royal Navy—M.	0	5	0
Syrian Colonisation Fund—S. W. F. £1; (Shaftesbury Memorial) M. 5s..	1	5	0
Miss E. Hopkins' Work—R. N. £2; (White Cross Crusade) M. 5s..	2	5	0
Homes for Working Girls—M. S.	[illegible]	5	0
Hitchin Colportage Association—M. S...	[illegible]	10	6
Aged Pilgrims' Society—M. S.	1	1	0
Home of Industry—G. T. G. 2s. 6d.; (Widows) H. A. T. 5s.	0	7	6
Rev. Philip Gast's Work, Islington—Mr. and Mrs. S.	4	0	0
Mr. Fegan's Boys' Home—Y. R..	[illegible]	10	0
Mrs. Meredith's Prison Mission—R. N...	2	10	0
Mildmay Mission to the Jews—S. W. F.	3	0	0
National Society for the Protection of Young Girls—S. W. F.	1	0	0
Rescue Work, Whitechapel (Mrs. B. Booth)—A. T. O.	[illegible]	5	0
China Inland Mission—G. T. G.	[illegible]	2	6
Scriptures for the Blind (Dr. Moon)—G. T. G.	0	2	6
Salvation Army—(Rescue Work) Rev. T. M.	0	10	0
	£139	0	10

[Advertisements.]

Friendless and Fallen—L. M. G. (Jer. xxx 12—17, £1.

Bethnal Green Free Library, E.—J. L. B. £1 1s.; Miss C. case of books.

Miss Mayo thankfully acknowledges £1 from a friend at Ilfracombe for the "Invalids' Dinner Table."

MIDNIGHT MEETING MOVEMENT.

MISSION TO YOUNG WOMEN AND GIRLS.

This RESCUE MISSION for GIRLS and YOUNG WOMEN is, by God's blessing, advancing, both in London and the Provinces.

Mr. Christien, aided by many Voluntary Workers, is HOLDING MIDNIGHT MEETINGS at Hull and other Towns in the North.

REPENTANCE TOWARDS GOD and FAITH in OUR LORD JESUS CHRIST is the theme of every exhortation. Penitents are immediately placed in Homes, or otherwise assisted.

£5 will meet the expenses of a Meeting and Mission a district. 50 such Meetings will (D.V.) be held this winter.

WILL FIFTY READERS of The Christian kindly GIVE £5 EACH before Christmas? 8 Donations received.

Christian Friends desirous of co-operating by contributing toward the expenses of a Meeting (or helping by prayer), are invited to communicate with J. H. L. Christien, Organising Secretary, at the Office. Donations may be sent to Messrs. MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings, E.C.; or to

C. WILSON McCREE,
Financial Secretary.

Office—8a, Red Lion Square, W.C.

FRIENDLESS AND FALLEN.

CONTRIBUTIONS NOW MUCH NEEDED.

Since my last appeal in The Christian, several kind friends have sent donations, WITH CHEERING WORDS. One says, "hoping your blessed work will GO FORWARD," encloses £1, and draws attention to JEREMIAH XXX. 12 to 17.

The objects are—1st, to WIN SOULS to CHRIST. 2nd, to FEED, HOUSE, and CLOTHE those who are reclaimed from SIN and SORROW.

More than ELEVEN HUNDRED YOUNG WOMEN and GIRLS have been brought this year, and all suitable applicants have been received.

With regard to the Need of Funds, at the last Committee Meeting it was reported that the Bank Account was overdrawn £375; this deficit, and needs by CHRISTMAS, will require at least £1000, absolutely necessary to meet all claims.

Messrs. Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings, E.C., will receive Donations, or 200, Euston Road, N.W. EDWARD W. THOMAS, Sec.

MISSION to DEEP SEA FISHERMEN.

Five Mission Vessels are cruising amongst the North Sea trawling fleets. 12,000 smacksmen are engaged all the year round in providing our tables with fish. These men, who for us toil through furious blast and sleety storm—who hazard their lives and fall victims, hundreds of them, to the pitiless waves, that markets at home may be well supplied—may rightly claim some small share in the privileges we so richly enjoy and so highly prize.

THIS THEY CAN ONLY HAVE THROUGH THE PRESENCE OF THE MISSION VESSELS

Carrying tothe fisher men the message of Divine mercy and pardoning love, bringing the pleasure of books to while away the weary hours, affording relief in case of sickness and injury, and cheering and brightening dull and monotonous lives by their presence and ministry.

"The Mission smacks are doing in the North Sea a grand work, worthy of the support of a great maritime nation like England; and I believe that the results of their effort, great as they are in the present, will, if only supported liberally by the public, be of untold value in the future."—Edward Birkbeck, Esq., M.P.

FUNDS are greatly NEEDED to enable the Society to place a Mission Vessel with every fleet.

E. J. MATHER, Director.
31, New Bridge-street, E.C.

NEW YEAR MOTTO CARDS.

With Original Verses by GEORGIANA M. TAYLOR,
Author of "Oh, to be Nothing!"

"MY EXPECTATION IS FROM HIM."

A MOTTO FOR 1886.

Neatly printed, with ribbon loop for hanging up, 1s. 2d. per dozen, post free; also on Leaflets, 1s. 1d. per 100. Or with other Motto Hymns by the same author, in assorted packets, same prices. Specially suited for distributions in Bible Classes, Christian Associations, &c.

Also by the same Author, lines entitled,

"CONSIDER!"

A WATCHWORD FOR THE NEW YEAR.

On large cards, printed in extra-sized type (for hanging up), price 1s. 8d. (post free) per packet of Six. Uniform with the above, at same price,

OUR HAPPY HOME.
THINK AND THANK.
"WE WALK BY FAITH, NOT BY SIGHT."

Also on tinted cards, gilt, lines entitled, "My Heart's Desire for Thee," and "Heartfelt Wishes;" both suitable for Christmas. Price 1s. 1d. per packet.

To be had only from G. M. T., Young Women's Christian Association, 14, Regent-street, Leamington.

THE RESCUE SOCIETY.

A gentleman generously offers to give £25 on behalf of our work providing Twelve other Friends will each give a similar amount by the middle of January. He has already given £10 this year, but has been moved to assist us in this way by the concise statement of the Report which appeared in The Christian of November 12.

Will not some readers of The Christian help us to claim this kind offer, or send some smaller contribution?

The Winter is upon us, when more seek our aid than at other times, and we have now to provide daily food for 174 inmates of ou Nine Homes.

Messrs. Morgan & Scott will kindly receive contributions, or they may be sent to

C. STUART THORPE,
79, Finsbury Pavement, E.C. Secretary.

STRANGERS' REST,

163, ST. GEORGE'S STREET, RATCLIFF HIGHWAY, E.

THE EIGHTH ANNUAL MEETING

WILL BE HELD (D.V.)

On FRIDAY, NOV. 20, 1885.

The Chair to be taken at 6.30 p.m. by ROBERT PATON, ESQ.,

Supported by J. E. Mathieson, Esq.; Gurney S. Sheppard, Esq.; Reginald Radcliffe, Esq.; R. C. Morga Esq.; Rev. F. A. C. Lillingston; Geo. Holland, Esq.; Dr. Barnardo; Dr. Ziemann; Geo. Lewis, Esq Rev. C. B. Sawday; and other Friends.

THE LORD'S SUPPER AT 8.30.

THE "REST" IS TEN MINUTES' WALK FROM ALDGATE AND SHADWELL STATIONS.

Tea and Coffee from 5.30 to 6.30.

The Christian:

A WEEKLY RECORD OF CHRISTIAN LIFE, CHRISTIAN TESTIMONY, AND CHRISTIAN WORK.

WITH WHICH IS INCORPORATED "THE REVIVAL."

LONDON: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster Buildings, E.C.] [REGISTERED AT THE G.P.O. AS A NEWSPAPER.

No. 826.] THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 26, 1885. [ONE PENNY. POST FREE, 1½d.

THE EIGHT PAGES OF ADVERTISEMENTS IN THE CENTRE OF THIS NUMBER MAY BE PUT OUTSIDE TO FORM A WRAPPER.

REV. E. A. STUART.

THE portrait which accompanies this sketch is that of one of the most earnest and popular of our metropolitan clergy. Though it is less than six years since Mr. Stuart came to London, there are few men who are better known or whose influence is more widely felt. This is especially true in regard to young people, and many are the houses of business in the City, at the West-end, and in the suburbs where he is a constant visitor. Indeed, his work amongst the young, not only in his own parish of St. James's, Holloway, but in various parts of the metropolis, is one of the marked and happy features of his ministry. Besides an exceedingly pleasant presence and manner, he is gifted with a fine powerful voice, and those who attend his ministry say it is truly soul-refreshing to hear him read the Lessons, to follow him in the prayers of the Church Service, or to listen to him as he gives out some stirring hymn.

The secret of his pulpit power lies, we think, in his intimate knowledge of the Scriptures, and his unfaltering acceptance of the truths therein set forth. It is the Word of God—not man's speculations about it; it is the sufficiency of the plain old Gospel of Christ Jesus—this it is which Mr. Stuart ever proclaims with increasing vigour and beauty of language. On Sunday evenings especially, St. James's, with its two deep galleries running all round the church, with the aisles filled, with persons standing around the communion railings and crowding up the pulpit stairs, is an inspiration, and a sight for which one must earnestly thank God. Yet there are none of those things in the service that are supposed to be so attractive to young people. "I suppose, you have a very fine choir," said a friend to Mr. Stuart recently. "Oh, yes; a very good choir—of 2000 voices." And, indeed, it is as if all the congregation joined in singing the hymns and simple chants, and in the Psalms (which are read) and the responses.

(From a Photograph by MESSRS. RUSSELL.)

Mr. Stuart was born in Calcutta in April, 1853, and was brought to England when he was five years old. He went to Harrow in 1866, and was captain of the cricket eleven in 1872; in which year he entered at St. John's College, Cambridge. Here he gained a foundation scholarship in 1874. It was in 1875, during his first vacation, that the turning-point in his life was reached; in God's providence, a tract, or rather, the refusal of a tract, was made, as he has often declared, the means of his conversion. He very soon engaged in Christian work of various kinds—was secretary of the Church Missionary Union and of the Victoria Asylum. With others, he started a prayer meeting at St. John's College on Saturday evenings, which has been continued ever since, and which, as stated in the College magazine, The Eagle, has been very greatly blessed. Prayer meetings were also held in the private rooms on Sunday evenings, to which the more careless men were invited, and these also were very greatly blessed.

Mr. Stuart was ordained at Trinity College in 1876. His first spheres of labour as a curate were St. Andrew's Church, Thorpe, near Norwich, and St. Giles's Church, Norwich. At the latter place he underwent a training for the larger work that was subsequently given him in London, having to conduct the service and preach to very large congregations on Sunday evenings, and having also a good deal to do with young men. He left Norwich early in January, 1880, and commenced work at St. James's, Holloway, on the 25th of the same month, having been married in the interval.

With regard to his London work, Mr. Stuart has stated that he can trace a very great deal of the blessing God has given, to the expository preaching of His Word, and to getting people to search their Bibles for themselves. We were much interested with a statement he made a few Sundays since, that for three years he made the Epistle to the Hebrews his chief study, and in this way got a complete knowledge, as far as possible, of that most important book. There can be no better way of showing the extent to which the Bible is used as a text-book at St. James's than by giving a list of the Bible-classes. On Sunday afternoon there is a working-men's Bible-class (average attendance 100) conducted by Mr. Walkerdine, and a class for young women conducted by Mrs. Stuart, with an average attendance of 220, 400 being the number on the books. There is also a young men's Bible-class conducted by Rev. F. H. Waller (curate) with an attendance of about fifty. On Tuesday again there is a young men's Bible-class conducted by the vicar and curate alternately, with an attendance of from eighty to ninety. Mr. Stuart also holds a Bible-class for ladies (attendance between 250 and 300) every alternate Tuesday morning; a class for young women in houses of business (120 attendance) on Friday evening; and a class for the children of householders (attendance 150) every Friday evening. But perhaps the most significant of all is the Saturday night prayer meeting, and the way in which it has grown from eight, on the first evening, to 300 and more almost every Saturday evening.

The motto-text, "I love my Master," which Mr. Stuart gave some time since to the members of the Communicant's Union, numbering 800 or 900, well expresses the spirit which animates him, and with which he ever seeks to inspire his congregation, that they, as "a people near unto God," may serve Him with all humility and faithfulness.

The sermon which is given in succeeding columns was preached at his own church some two months ago.

◆

"IT IS I."

By Rev. E. A. STUART.

"He said unto them, It is I, be not afraid. Then they willingly received Him into the ship."—John vi. 21.

THE long, sad, tiring day was over, that on which the mournful news was brought to the Saviour of the murder of his great forerunner by Herod the tetrarch. With that desire for solitude with which we can all sympathise, our Lord Jesus Christ departed to the other side of the Lake of Galilee. But the multitude would not leave Him alone. They had followed Him to the other side of the Lake whither He had come with his disciples, and our Lord—as if to teach us how to deal with interruptions, and to give up our own will for the good of others—though He was thus desiring to be alone with his Father, came down from the mount and fed that great multitude with five barley loaves and two small fishes. But now the shades of evening had begun to gather on these western hills, and, sending away the multitude and his disciples, He ascends to the top of the mountain to spend the night alone in prayer to God.

We cannot fathom the thoughts that filled the Redeemer's soul. Once before He had spent the night in prayer; but then all the circumstances were different. He was about to choose twelve disciples, who should be continually with Him, and whom He should send forth as heralds to proclaim his mission and the lovingkindness of the Father. Then everything was brightening, the multitudes hung on his words, and said, "He hath done great things." Now all this was passing away; the shadow of the cross was beginning to fall upon Him; He could see through the shallow enthusiasm of the multitude, and knew that it would be very short-lived. Already darkness and gloom had begun to gather around Him; the death of his great forerunner foreshadowed the doom in store for Him at the hands of a fanatical multitude. Meanwhile a storm has arisen on the lake among the hills; the waves are lashed into fury by the winds, and the little bark is tossed to and fro; everything is emblematical of the time when men would be lashed into fury against Him. Here, then, it was that in silent communion with God Christ received strength for the conflict that was gathering fast about Him. Let us learn, when dangers thicken, to go to the same source whence Jesus drew his strength, and throw ourselves in perfect confidence on the omnipotent arm of God.

Now let us think of the disciples, tossed about in their little ship on the tempestuous sea. Hour after hour had passed, and still Christ came not. The disciples had been striving might and main to reach the harbour on the other side, but though they had toiled all the night, and the grey streaks of early dawn were beginning to be seen, they had only rowed about five-and-twenty or thirty furlongs. Then, while the tempestuous storm is still at its height, they see what appears to be a phantom walking on the water, and they are afraid, till they hear coming across the troubled waters the reassuring voice of One whom they know so well, "It is I, be not afraid." "Then they willingly received Him into the ship, and immediately the ship was at the land whither they went."

The first question that suggests itself as we read this story is, Why have we this miracle recorded for us in the life of our Lord Jesus Christ? It cannot be merely to show that He is Lord over the powers of nature, because once before He had calmed the storm when He was lying asleep on the deck of the half-wrecked vessel. Then He was with the disciples. Now He is away on the mount. And so by the repetition of this miracle, under different circumstances, He would give his disciples an illustration of how, though absent from them, He could hush the storm—how, at his word, "Peace, be still," the wind and the waves should at once obey. Surely there ought to be a special interest in this for those of us about to gather around the table of our Lord. By each one of the Evangelists this miracle is very closely associated with the feeding of the five thousand with five loaves and five fishes. And miraculous as was that feast, the feast of which we are about to partake to-day is far more so, for we feed on Christ in our hearts by faith, with thanksgiving. Have we not often been wonderfully strengthened as we have taken the bread and drank the wine as from the pierced hand of Christ Himself?—gaining such strength, it may be, that we have been enabled to go in the strength of that meat through some forty days of trial.

But to-day my thoughts have gone forth more especially to those who know nothing about Christ. How many are tossing to and fro; "the wicked are like the troubled sea, that cannot rest." As I read the 21st verse, I could not help breathing the prayer, "O God, make them willing to receive Christ."

Let us think of what made the disciples willing to receive Christ. There was a twofold reason. First, beause of their distress. They were in deep distress, and note that their distress was in the evening time, and there were four reasons for it. First, "The sea arose by reason of a great wind that blew." The wind seems throughout Scripture to be emblematical of the spiritual powers. True, it is sometimes used as a figure of the power of God the Holy Spirit; sometimes it denotes good powers; we have, for instance, He "maketh his angels spirits, and his ministers a flame of fire." But sometimes also the wind brings before us the spiritual agencies of evil, the devil himself being called "the prince of the power of the air." Is there not here one reason for many of our sorrows and trials? Some of us who have long been trying to get to Capernaum well know how real is this opposition of Satan. The name of Capernaum is very suggestive—it means a village of rest. Some of us know there is a village of rest on the other side of the sea, and have been toiling long to get there, but have not got there yet because of the tremendous spiritual powers against us, and which have completely baffled us. Then again the wind represents that strange mysterious power by which we are surrounded. Think of the strange mysteriousness of the power of the wind—we know not whence it cometh or whither it goeth. You cannot make any laws by which to determine whence to expect it; it is so variable, coming from this quarter and from that. Again it comes soft and gentle like a whisper; then again how irresistible its power. And is there not a power in evil spirits? Some people say there are no such things as evil spirits, but I cannot but think that many of the evils of which we have been hearing lately are hell-born, and not man-born. I have not a very good opinion of human nature, but I believe these evils are born in some other sphere—that they spring from hell itself. In Isaiah xxxii. 1, 2, we learn there is only one hiding-place from the wind; there is a promise given, "a Man shall be a hiding-place from the wind, and a covert from the tempest." There is only one hiding-place from this spiritual power—even the Rock of Ages, on which we are safe for ever, kept by the power of the Lord Jesus Christ.

The second reason for their distress was that the sea arose. What a picture is the sea of the fickle world. As we pursue our voyage, how the surges of sorrow come gathering around us as we pass on through the heaving, sobbing ocean. And how strong the currents we meet with—how they bear us on, unconsciously to ourselves. While at the seaside, having gone out for a swim, I was thus caught in a current and swept right away from the place where I had gone in, so that it was with great difficulty I could get back—I could scarcely make my way, and had to get close in shore before I could get back to the place I had left. So there are strong currents of public opinion against which it is very difficult to make headway. In a house of business how difficult to stand against this current. Many come up to London quite resolved that they will follow that which in their country home they have learnt to be the right way, and before they realise it they are carried far out of their proper course.

The third reason was, it was now dark. Do you know what it is to sail along life's voyage, to find some strong tempestuous current sweeping you away? The heavens are black, no stars, no appearance of the sunshine of God's presence. It is as if you were marked for a prey by the wind and the waves.

The fourth reason was their weakness. They had toiled right on through the night till the fourth watch; yet, though they had toiled so hard and so long, they had only gone some twenty or thirty furlongs. Do you know what it is to toil in vain? You have woke up, perhaps, on some New Year's morning, and, kneeling down by the side of your bed, you have determined that the new year shall be so different to the last; you really meant to steer for glory, to persevere in the straight course for heaven. You have toiled hard to resist temptation, but, as you look back, conscience tells you you have gone far from the course you pointed out for yourself; in spite of all your toils and labour you feel as if you had been swept right away. If there should be any here so situated, let him breathe a simple prayer to heaven. No storm can stop that prayer. I have heard of storms that stopped the communication between continents, and of captains shouting themselves hoarse through their speaking trumpets in the effort to make themselves heard, but I never yet heard of the storm which could stop the cry of a little child from ascending to heaven. God will hear the cry of his people; as to Paul, in Acts xxvii., when an angel stood beside him, He will send promises of comfort.

Another reason why they were willing to receive Jesus was that they found out their mistake about the Lord Jesus Christ—that He was no phantom, but a reality. When they first saw Him they thought it was a spirit, and cried out with fear—they were not willing to receive Him then; but when they knew He was no phantom, they were willing to receive Him into the ship.

> "O Jesus, make Thyself to me
>   A living, bright reality;
> More present to faith's vision keen
>   Than any outward object seen;
> More dear, more intimately nigh
>   Than even the sweetest earthly tie."

Is the Lord Jesus Christ such a reality to you? It is in the darkness He makes Himself most visible. But is it not strange that though He is so real as some of us know Him to be, so many think of Him only as a phantom? An unconverted man said he agreed with Christianity in some things, yet he could not realise the Lord Jesus Christ; he could realise the fact of sin, but he could not realise how it could be forgiven. And when we talk of Christ coming again in the clouds of heaven, such objectors will answer, "All things continue as they have been from the foundation of the world; we cannot realise that which you speak of." But there is nothing more true than this, that Jesus died, that He rose from the grave, and that He will come again. These are the great facts on which the Christian rests his faith. Oh, that our ears were open, so that in the midst of the storm, when the winds of doubt and the waves of perplexity arise, when the heavens above are black, even then we might hear these words, "It is I, be not afraid."

It is borne in on my heart to-night to speak to those more advanced in years than myself. The whole of this story brings before me the period of old age. Look at the sixth verse, "When even was now come." The evening has come to you, my brother, my sister. The disciples went down to the sea and entered into a ship, to go towards Capernaum, but Jesus was not yet come. You, too, have been crossing over the sea of life, you have nearly reached the other side, and Jesus is not yet come. Ah, how much better to let Him be at the helm from the commencement of our earthly voyage! Some time since, after a sermon on Christ stilling the waves when He was in the boat, an old man came to me and said, "Sir, I have been praying to God that the young men may take the word home to themselves to-night; but it is too late for me. I have started, and have got nearly to the end of the voyage, but have not yet taken Christ. That thought has been my condemnation—I have started, and have not taken Christ." Quick as thought the Holy Ghost put this passage into my mind, and I said, "Do you remember another occasion when the disciples did start without Christ, and they toiled all through the night without Christ, and in the fourth watch, the very last, Jesus Christ came walking across the waters to them?" My aged brethren, you cannot say this is a word of condemnation—it is a word of promise to you. Will you take it? You have started without Christ? True. But even now, in the fourth watch, He comes to you saying, "It is I, be not afraid."

There is one other occasion mentioned in Scripture, in which we read that God came in the fourth watch, in Exod. xiv., where we read that God came in the pillar of the cloud between the Egyptians and the Israelites, and the Egyptians dashed themselves against that pillar of cloud and they were overwhelmed in the Red Sea. It may be that many have come to the fourth watch, and have not yet taken Christ on board. If you still go on without receiving Him, you will presently dash yourself against that rock, and the result must be that you will be overwhelmed in the waters of condemnation.

◆

LOSS OF LIFE BY SHIPWRECK.

OVER twenty-three thousand persons have been drowned on the coasts of these islands. A Royal Commission has recommended refuge harbours for their protection, but nothing has yet been done, so that we are in danger of adding as many more to the death roll. They are mostly poor fishermen and sailors whose lives have thus been sacrificed, and they are perfectly helpless unless others will come forward and help them. Both parties in the State have hitherto been culpably negligent. Working men now have gained great influence; surely they will come forward to help their fellow-creatures. At the present moment, when candidates for Parliament are calling upon voters, they may impress this subject earnestly upon their attention, as they cannot so well do at other times.

The National Refuge Harbours Society, which undertakes this great work of humanity, has arranged to bring this subject influentially before the House of Lords as soon as it re-assembles. What may be done by the House of Commons depends upon who is elected, and what those who send them to Parliament desire them to do. Our readers may be glad to help the Society in its good and philanthropic work. The office is at 17, Parliament-street, S.W.

HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN has given a donation of £25 to the "Christian" Blind Relief Society.

EDWARD DENISON.*

SOME men, under the influence of high and noble motives, have crowded into short lives, if life has to be measured by years rather than by deeds, so much usefulness to their suffering fellows that it is difficult to think of them as having died young. Edward Denison was one of these, and if he passed away, according to human thought, almost in the middle of his work, his life was a ripened one, powerful in its wide-reaching influence for good, and its lesson will continue to comfort and strengthen those who, in circumstances well calculated to depress and discourage, are labouring to elevate the masses beaten down in that terrible struggle for daily bread which is one of the dark shadows cast by our nineteenth century civilisation. Long ere the bitter cry of outcast London had reached the ears of spasmodic workers, Edward Denison, the son of a bishop, put aside the temptation offered him in the shape of a possibly brilliant political career, and devoted himself to the service of the poor, and became the pioneer of the present University Men's work in the East-end, taking up his abode in a bye-street off the Commercial-road, teaching by day and by night, visiting the fever stricken, worrying incapable, and almost criminal local authorities, into some semblance of activity in sanitary matters, and carrying into the entire district the benefits which necessarily result from the presence of such a volunteer in such a locality.

With very little, if any, leaning towards Socialistic or Democratic opinions, he yet hit upon theories, which, in the twenty-five years since his death, have taken hold of the public mind, and not a few of the remedies which, during the past twelve months, have been suggested for the overcrowding, the poverty and starvation, and for what perhaps may fairly be termed society's daily murder of its helpless units, may be found hinted at in the letters which Edward Denison wrote during the period of his missionary labour in the East-end. And it was just because there was missing from his character that element of sentimentalism which in its full development weakens so greatly the philanthropic efforts of many workers in the same field, that most of his suggested remedies are of the keenly practical kind which seem to have become almost the peculiar property of the Socialist, for whose drastic proposals it is next to impossible not to have some sympathy, if we remember the depth and intensity of the degradation and suffering to which they relate. No one with a human heart could live with unclosed eyes in the slums of London or Dublin or any other of our large cities and fail to perceive that the widening gulf between the rich and the poor, between the Dives and Lazarus of to-day, is as broad and deep, and lurid, as that which the Master pictured, or fail to see that all rose-water and silken-thread efforts to bridge it must necessarily be futile. But there are many who do recognise these things, and yet, unfortunately for themselves and others, have not the honesty and manliness to proclaim the painful facts.

If, however, Edward Denison was free from sentimentality, he had a deep fund of that womanly pity, the possession of which is one of the essential qualifications of the successful worker among the poor: a compassion which softens blame, and tempers reproof, and which enables its possessor to look upon the fallen and sinful, and therefore suffering, in the spirit in which John Bradford gazed upon the unhappy criminal on the way to the scaffold, and said: "There goes John Bradford, but for the grace of God."

The passages quoted by Miss Bayly, in which Denison attacks bitterly "reckless alms-giving," of themselves go far to show how keen was his sympathy with the sorrow around him, for his opposition to the "so-called charity" was based upon a painful experience of the evil result of that substitution of a few coppers for the friendly advice and the personal help which might permanently save; and if to those who have been made familiar with the misery of the slums, not by actual contact with it, but through the pen and pencil of others, some of Edward Denison's opinions seem to resemble too closely those of the Gradgrind school of economists, it must not be overlooked that, if he theorised about the poor, he also laboured day and night in their service, forsaking pleasant surroundings, under which multitudes of men would have become selfish and enervated, and taking up the heavy load of sorrows and trials not his own.

In these days when many eyes, fresh from the perusal of the pathetic literature of the East-end with its burden of hopelessness and premature death, still are wet with unaccustomed tears, it is not altogether pleasing to come upon a passage from one of his letters:—"The people create their destitution and their disease. . . . . Probably there are hardly any of the most needy who, if they had been only moderately frugal and provident, could not have placed themselves in a position to tide over the occasional months of want of work, or of sickness, which there must always be." Such an opinion, in its naked want of limitation, irresistibly calls to mind that portion of the exquisite satire upon Nostrums, which illustrated the views of Professor Fawcett, "women working sixteen hours a day for six shillings a week can help themselves if they try."

But we forget the opinions when we recall what the life was, the "love and tenderness of his personal charity," and the faces of the sick and dying "brightening as he drew near." As Miss Bayly finely says, Denison was "at a disadvantage for want of a fuller experience of human life and love," and doubtless, if his life had been spared, years would have brought to him a deeper knowledge, softening and humanising those of his views which, looked at in the light of recent revelations with regard to the condition of the poor, certainly do seem somewhat harsh and uncharitable. The drawback, however, was but a slight one, and in no serious way did it affect his action or lessen the intensity of his belief that in all work for the amelioration of the condition of the poor the Bible must be given an important position. Real Christianity with Denison meant a Christian life; to teach it meant to live it, believing, as he did, with John Ruskin, that though we must have the poor with us alway, "we may make their poverty such as shall inherit the earth, and their sorrow such as shall be hallowed by the hand of the Comforter with everlasting comfort."

Upon such a foundation Edward Denison's short life could not fail to be a noble one, and to those who wish to know more of it, and to all those, and thank God their number is increasing day by day, who are interested in the solution of the pressing problem of poverty, Miss Bayly's little book may be commended as the work of one who has brought to her task a keen sympathy and close knowledge, and who has written evidently in the assurance that, though for nearly a quarter of a century the daisies have been peeping through the grass on Denison's grave, "he being dead yet speaketh," simply because his life was one of those "not lived unto themselves, but unto Him who died for them and rose again."

JAMES BOWKER.

THE GOSPEL BOOK MISSION to the Army and Navy have received a valuable testimonial from Lord Wolseley, who, in a letter to Mr. Charles Brider, the manager, says: "It is a real pleasure to find an old soldier like yourself devoting his time to the service and benefit of our soldiers." The new Report contains a brief retrospect of work done in the circulation of magazines, sermons, tracts, volumes, &c., a large number of which were sent to the soldiers in Egypt and the Soudan last year. In some cases the literature has been greatly blessed to the readers, especially among the coastguards. Mr. Brider's address is Old Goal Chapel, Salisbury.

---

* EDWARD DENISON: A VOICE FROM THE PAST FOR THE PRESENT NEED. By E. R. BAYLY. London: Kegan, Paul & Co. 6d.

CHRISTIANS AND PUBLIC AFFAIRS.

IN these days, when such conflicting interests are at stake, when momentous issues hang on seemingly trivial events, and we stand on the threshold of mighty upheavals and dissolutions of ancient things, it becomes us to ask, What is our position as Christians towards the world? Have we any active part to take in the conduct of public affairs, or are we, as citizens of a heavenly kingdom, excluded from all earthly citizenship? I am sure hundreds of earnest men and women are honestly desirous of knowing and following the will of the Lord in this matter.

In the Jewish dispensation, God's people were so familiar with the thought of God's government and dealings with nations as such, that it was difficult for them to realise the responsibility of the individual. To be of Abraham's seed was, in their eyes, to be marked for salvation, whatever wrong-doing existed in their life. So we find the Baptist exhorting, "Think not to say within yourselves, We have Abraham to our father," &c. (Matt. iii. 8). While our Lord (John viii.) and Paul (Rom. ii. 25—29) alike sought to turn their hearers from the thought of national to individual dealing with God.

In the Christian dispensation it is the reverse. We have so thoroughly recognised the fact that God deals with us as individuals, and that no man is saved because of his nationality, his church, or his family, that we are in danger of altogether forgetting that God is the "King of nations" as well as of individuals, and still deals with nations as such, just as in the days of old. Most of the men of God spoken of in the Old Testament were statesmen and rulers, and this not only under the Theocracy, but also in heathen kingdoms. A considerable portion of Genesis is occupied with the history of Joseph, and God has not deemed it out of place to give us details of the way in which He prepared and trained a chosen instrument to govern (as unto Him) a mighty heathen nation. As UNTO HIM—here lies the root of the matter. Alas! few statesmen in this day govern as unto God. Few members sit in Parliament as unto God. Party reigns supreme, except in rare instances, and even in those it is more "as unto humanity" than "as unto God."

We have four books of statesmanship written after the fall of Jerusalem, and the carrying into captivity—Daniel, Esther, Ezra, and Nehemiah. Ezra, Zerubbabel, and Nehemiah—especially the latter—while in the court of the Persian king, identified themselves with their lapsed and downtrodden people, and offered themselves to God, to be used as his instruments, in raising them up from their low estate, and turning them back again to the Lord. They met with much opposition from adverse factions within and without their jurisdiction, and the prophecies of Haggai and Zechariah throw a glorious light on the source of Zerubbabel's strength, and the close walk he maintained with the Lord. Both he and Nehemiah sought and obtained very close guidance from God, even in the details of the government, and Nehemiah leaves us a beautiful picture of a spiritual patriot, generous, large-hearted, and yet evenly balanced in mind, firm in putting down abuses, regardless of personal consequences, yet not wanting in caution, where needful. The second chapter gives the keynote of his life—"God first." When the longed-for opportunity was given him, and the king asked, "For what dost thou make request?" Nehemiah "prayed unto the God of heaven," and then he answered the king.

Nor were these godly Jews careful for their own people alone. God's word by Jeremiah, "Seek ye the peace of the city whither I have caused you to be carried away captives, and pray unto the Lord for it; for in the peace thereof shall ye have peace," received no narrow interpretation at the hands of Daniel and his friends. They saw that to "seek its peace and pray for it," implied a throwing of themselves with all their might on God's side, into the questions of the day, and serving the Lord God of their fathers, by helping to govern, to the best of their ability, a nation which knew Him not, amongst whom they dwelt by his providence. Would God that those precious Christian brethren, who so clearly recognise their citizenship as being in heaven, would give as large an interpretation to Paul's exhortation, "that, first of all, supplications, prayers, intercessions, and giving of thanks, be made for all men; for kings, and for all that are in authority; that we may lead a quiet and peaceable life in all godliness and honesty" (1 Tim. ii. 1, 2).

Many fear to enter into the political arena, and serve their country in Parliament, or on the various municipal boards, lest their Christian life should be endangered thereby, and they lose in spirituality. This, is indeed, a grave danger. Nor are there wanting examples which sadly serve as beacon-lights pointing out a fatal rock. It is a danger so great that there is but one way of avoiding it, yet it can be avoided. We see that Daniel lost nothing of spirituality by the weight of business which fell upon him as ruler of the whole province of Babylon, nor by the vitiated atmosphere of the Eastern court which he was compelled to breathe. On the contrary, deeper, clearer views of God, not only in his governmental purposes, but in his redeeming love, were vouchsafed to him, and that right in the midst of all his political work (Dan. viii. 27), whether as a subordinate under Belshazzar, or as prime minister under Darius (vi. 2; ix. 1). What was the secret? He stood in his post for God; no pressure of business was suffered to encroach on his time for communion with his Lord, from whom, first, he took his daily orders, and from the king afterwards. Place and party alike were nothing to him, he was not there to serve himself, but God. Neither honours, nor persecutions, nor dangers, could "lure [his] quiet soul from [God]," so that a long life spent in the country's service only deepened his life in God. He saw Him always before him, on his right hand, therefore he was not moved.

There is as much room to "deny self," and to trust God to work, in the life of the Christian worker in the House of Commons, as in the life of the Christian worker in the Gospel mission-hall. This is evinced by the following incident in Sir Fowell Buxton's Parliamentary career. Writing about a certain division on the Anti-Slavery Question, he says: "What led to that division? If ever there was a subject which occupied our prayers it was this. Do you remember how we desired that God would give me his Spirit in that emergency? How we quoted the promise: 'He that lacketh wisdom, let him ask of God, and it shall be given him;' and how I kept open that passage in the Old Testament in which it is said, 'We have no might against this great company that cometh against us, neither know we what to do, but our eyes are upon Thee,' the Spirit of the Lord replying, 'Be not afraid nor dismayed by reason of this great multitude, for the battle is not yours, but God's?' . . . I sincerely believe that prayer was the cause of that division; and I am confirmed in this, by knowing that we by no means calculated on the effect. The course we took appeared to be right, and we followed it blindly."

It is by the habitual turning over to God of each complication as it arises; waiting on Him for light, instead of acting, in the energy of the flesh, out of human resources; resting in Him to overcome all opposition, overrule all untoward circumstances, and make good all mistakes of our own or others, that the spiritual life in God is deepened, and the soul safeguarded in any and every form of service for our King—evangelistic, social, or political.

This hidden life is beautifully typified and illustrated in the Book of Esther. The Queen was apparently cut off from her national sympathies, and at the same time secured from her nation's doom by her position of nearness to the King. Was she thereby severed in very deed from all responsibility as regarded her people? The word came to her "Think not with thyself that thou shalt escape in the king's house, more than all the Jews. For if thou altogether holdest thy peace at this time, then shall there enlargement and deliverance arise to the Jews from another place; but thou and thy father's house shall be destroyed; and who knoweth whether thou art come to the kingdom for such a time as this?" Was this Scripture written for Esther alone? Is it of "private interpretation"? or is it the voice of the Spirit of God sounding down through the ages to the Bride of Christ, those brought into special relations of nearness to Him, and now tempted, in order that they may preserve those relations intact, to ignore the fate, and refuse participation in the interest, of their "brethren according to the flesh."

Surely all that has been revealed to them of the Father's love, all that they have seen of his heart, all the certainty they have of his care for all his creatures, all the confidence they have in Him that whatsoever they ask in accordance with his will they receive, is not for themselves alone, nor yet for the brethren in Christ alone, but for their encouragement in drawing near to the King, that their people may be given them at their request. "Who knoweth whether ye are come to the kingdom for such a time as this!" Who knows what national revivals, what purifying of our land from all that is unclean, what blessings of all kinds, on basket and store, in the field and in the city, are in the King's heart for England, waiting till his beloved shall enter into the wider circle of his interests and receive them at his hand for her people?

Nor let any heart be discouraged at the thought of the magnitude of the evils to be dealt with and the powerlessness of one or two feeble voices raised against them, as compared with the array of wealth and influence that is interested in their maintenance. The history of John Woolman's work in the cause of the Abolition of Slavery is a striking proof of how God can use any instrument, fully yielded to Him, to the breaking down of strongholds. "At the outset, all about him, in every department of life and human activity, in the State and the Church, he saw evidences of its strength, and of the depth and extent to which its roots had wormed their way among the foundations of society. Yet he seems never to have doubted for a moment the power of simple truth to eradicate it, nor to have hesitated as to his own duty in regard to it. There was no groping like Samson in the gloom; no feeling in blind wrath and impatience for the pillars of the temple of Dagon. 'The candle of the Lord shone about him,' and his path lay clear and unmistakable before him. He believed in the goodness of God that leadeth to repentance; and that love could reach the witness for itself in the hearts of all men, through all entanglements of custom and every barrier of pride and selfishness. No one could have a more humble estimate of himself; but as he went forth on his errand of mercy, he felt the Infinite Power behind him, and the consciousness that he had known a preparation from that Power 'to stand as a trumpet through whom the Lord speaks.' The event justified his confidence."*

Not only did he more than all contribute to the stand taken by the Northern States of America against slavery, but his influence came to be felt in France and Russia, and more or less indirectly, through his friends Grellet, Allen, and Mifflin, the blacks of Hayti and the serfs of Russia owe their emancipation to him. What God worked by one man in America, God can work by another man in England, if only He can find a heart that will trust Him throughout, and rest in Him fully to do whatsoever pleaseth Him. Charlotte C. Murray.

DR. TALMAGE, BROOKLYN.

A PORTRAIT of Dr. Talmage is furnished with the November issue of The Pulpit Treasury. His living face, says the editor of that serial, has been seen by a larger number of persons perhaps than that of any other man of the present age, while his words have thrilled the greatest multitude ever gathered around a speaker. His audiences in his immense Tabernacle correspond every Sabbath with its capacity (5000 seats and standing-room for 1000 more), while thousands are sometimes outside for whom there is not even standing-room within. The great themes of the Gospel applied to the phases of every-day life form the staple of his preaching. These themes are always treated with freshness, beauty and power, with wonderful versatility of talent, and with illustrative resources none but a defamer would caricature. He never ceases to cultivate the awakening and revival spirit, and hence the additions to the membership of his church are large and frequent. The original "nineteen" who signed his call have become over three thousand two hundred—an increase which certainly demonstrates his power under God's Spirit to win the popular heart.

His command of words to illumine his ideas is wonderful, while his imagination weaves a beauty into his sentences that makes each sermon read like a prose-poem. To say that Dr. Talmage is an attractive and effective speaker is only to utter a platitude; and to deny that he has earnestness and simplicity of purpose is to seek to falsify the testimony that is stamped upon his whole demeanour as he delivers one of his whole-souled Gospel sermons, replete with illustrations and thrusts, that show his keen insight into human nature, and his overwhelming desire to break down every barrier raised against the entrance of Christ. Millions who cannot hear him read his sermons, of which ten million copies are printed every week in one hundred and thirty secular papers in several countries, till they encircle the earth. The responsibility of such popularity is immeasurable. To his pulpit labours he adds those of the platform and editorial desk. He is now on the pinnacle of popularity, having just passed the noontide of his years, when congratulations were showered upon him from every quarter, and men of all ranks hastened to bid him "God speed;" and if many years are yet before him and great grace be still accorded him, he has the gifts to do a work for Christ that an archangel might ardently covet.

THE RESPONSIBILITY OF FATHERS.

IN summing up on the Armstrong case, knowing that he spoke then not only to the jury but to all the English-speaking world, Mr. Justice Lopes said, "I tell you most distinctly that if the father is alive, and the child is in his possession, it is the will of the father which must prevail, and his will only."

I think it is Sir Arthur Helps who says that one ounce of responsibility will make more difference to a man's character than cartloads of sermons and tons of good advice. Shall we let slip this opportunity of calling to the great voice of public opinion to own the weight of a responsibility proclaimed by the law of God and man, but hitherto ignored by the daily press, the platform—too often by the pulpit also—and in consequence by millions of fathers almost totally unfelt?

More than twenty years ago, at a time when the condition of the working classes was being much discussed, and working men were eagerly reading what was said about them, Mrs. Bayly, author of "Ragged Homes, and How to Mend Them," wrote: "Except in a few newspapers, and those mostly provincial ones, I scarcely observed any speeches, leading articles, reports of meetings, &c., which could tend to impress upon the minds of working men the thought of their parental responsibility; that the charge of the children committed to them constituted the most sacred duty of their lives, and one for which they must render at last the most solemn account. On the contrary, nearly all that they gathered from public opinion would tend to confirm them in a course dictated by the selfishness of human nature, and to make them more easy than ever in living, as they term it, 'to enjoy themselves.'"

Twelve years later, when the coffee-palace movement was attracting general attention, the same experienced worker lamented that philanthropists, as well as men of the world, were still bending their influence to the wrong side in this matter. Working men were continually advised to frequent coffee-houses because their homes were so wretched, no one suggesting that the head of the household had, at least, his share of responsibility for this wretchedness, and that it was a coward's part for a man habitually to go off and amuse himself in his leisure time, leaving his wife and children, all the twenty-four hours round, in a place too miserable for him to remain there himself for a couple of hours when awake. The friends of the poor concentrated their efforts on rescuing the working man's money for his family, forgetting that, as Mrs. Bayly writes, "The loss of the man—the husband, the father—from his place in the home is a far heavier calamity."

"Though with the best intentions," she continues, "some of us have, perhaps, for years past, been laying ourselves open to the charge of working for one-sided reform only, by often speaking of family life as if everything depended on the mother. It is true that the perpetual presence of the mother in the home gives her the greater influence with the children, and everything which can help to deepen in her mind a sense of responsibility is most important; but it forms no part of the intention of Providence that that great work, the greatest given us to do in this world, of training a family of young children, should be accomplished by the mother, unaided, and alone; or, still worse, in the face of every possible hindrance."

"Not as the chaplain, not as the successful warrior, was Abraham chosen as worthy to be taken into the confidence of his Maker; but as Abraham the father, who would so command his children and his household after him that they should keep the way of the Lord, to do justice and judgment. As if, in the counsels of heaven, it had been decided that a man faithful in this relationship might be entrusted with the secrets of the Almighty."

"In a sense I believe it may be said of many men, 'They know not what they do.' Long years of habitual self-indulgence have so deadened their moral perceptions, that probably few have any distinct idea of the connection between their present deplorable domestic condition and the fact that the chair of household control has by them been left vacant, with the result of inevitable disorder. If our speakers, our leaders of thought, would more frequently remark that England expects not only her soldiers and sailors, but her fathers and mothers to do their duty, they might materially assist in forming a fresh public opinion on this subject."

There are innumerable families where, unblamed by society, the father, except as a wage-earning being, is a cipher, save when he interferes to trouble and oppress; yet of each one of these it may be said, "On the side of their oppressor there is power." Oh! that this nation, which within the last few months has "found its soul" on one great question, may open fresh recesses in that soul, and going deeper into the heart of things, demand that this acknowledged power shall be no longer a danger and a waste. Let the roused soul speak, and with a loud voice repeat the claim: "England this day expects her Fathers to do their Duty." E.

[We learn that a little book by Mrs. Bayly, called "Home Rule: An Old Mother's Letter to Parents," is about to be issued by Messrs. Shaw & Co., price 3d., in ornamental wrapper, suitable for a Christmas gift to working men or women.]

OUR VILLAGES.

THERE are in this so-called Christian country numbers as ignorant of God's plan of salvation as the heathen in foreign and distant lands. When telling a man in Worcestershire that Jesus Christ died for him, he said, with tears in his eyes, "They be the best words I ever heard in my life; nobody never told me that." These poor people are not wilfully ignorant, but they have no one to tell them in words they can easily understand, for many cannot read a letter. In the villages of Wilts, Somerset, Dorset, and Sussex, the people seem longing to hear the Gospel. Where tents have been erected crowds of people have met together, and now when special services have been held in schoolrooms, halls, and barns, it is just the same, the various buildings have been crowded, and the cottagers have gladly brought their own chairs, so that every nook and corner might be occupied. An hour before time the people have met together to get a good seat, the most depraved and outcast have attended regularly as well as the more respectable ones.

It seems to me a great mystery how God's servants can stick to the towns. In a meeting of a hundred people you will often see five or six men who can preach; how much better if they were to go out to some out-of-the-way village where, perhaps, the people have never heard but one man's voice for the last twenty or thirty years. A cottage, shed, or barn could be got in most villages, 100 hymn sheets can be had for 9d., the people would bring their own chairs in many cases, and a bright happy service might be held during the long winter evenings, when the country people hardly know how to pass the time away. Let any who doubt these statements go and try it. John Elliott.

Y.M.C.A, HAMPSTEAD.—A deputation of the Young Men's Foreign Missionary Society visited this branch on Thursday, November 12. It is believed a deep interest in the need of the heathen was aroused, as evidenced by the ready response of the members present to a request to hold a missionary prayer meeting once a month.

---

* The Journal of John Woolman, with Introduction by John G. Whittier, p. xxiv. Glasgow: R. Smeal.

A VIGOROUS PROTEST.

THE great gathering that overflowed both Exeter Halls on Wednesday evening last week, in connection with the imprisonment of Mr. Stead, is likely to have some issues that cannot be particularly agreeable to the powers that be. The proceedings were far more than an impeachment of the action of the authorities in Mr. Stead's case; they were an impeachment of past and present Governments alike, for their gross dereliction of duty regarding the moral evils that have so long flourished in our midst undisturbed, so far at least as official action is concerned. Anything more damaging than the opening statement of the Chairman, Mr. Benjamin Scott, it would be difficult to conceive. As the public already knows, it was Mr. Scott who virtually set in motion The Pall Mall Gazette secret inquiry, the report of which convulsed the world. Having briefly described the circumstances of his visit to Mr. Stead, when this suggestion was pressed upon him, Mr. Scott went on to assert with great emphasis, not only that the half of the black and shameful truth had not been told in The Pall Mall revelations; but, said he, "there has been, on the part of the authorities, a determination, not only to take no part in suppressing the evils of which we complain, but a determination to keep the public in ignorance of what is and has been going on." This is, indeed, a strong and startling accusation, but Mr. Scott amply justified it by his statement of simple facts. One fact alone, admitted by the Government and, indeed, publicly stated by one of themselves, is sufficient to condemn them. In moving for the House of Lords' Committee, after strong and continued pressure from without, Lord Dalhousie said that the authorities had known of at least twenty procurers plying their trade in London since 1865. Yet no semblance of an attempt has been made all those twenty long years to bring to justice, or frame a law that would reach, one of these vile traffickers in human flesh and blood. Mr. Scott made another charge which is as discreditable to officialdom. When the Lords' Committee at length sat to inquire into the matter, a remarkable thing took place. Here are Mr. Scott's own words:—

> "The Lords' Committee sat in 1881, and took evidence, of which I and others of the London Committee for suppressing the traffic were unaware. The Committee was about to rise, and had indeed reached its last meeting, without those who had originated the inquiry, and who knew most about it, being called to give evidence. But for the information privately conveyed to us by one of the members, and but for a letter which I wrote to the chairman, Lord Cairns, we should have been excluded from the inquiry altogether. At the last meeting we were called, and when I was in the witness' chair the reporter was ordered to close his book, so that a great deal of what the public ought to have known, and which would have been beneficial to them had they known it, has been suppressed to this day. But not only so. When the Report was printed and supplied to the Legislature, it was instantly suppressed, so far as the public were concerned. I applied at the Queen's printers for a copy within a week of its publication, and was told that it was out of print; and it was with the utmost difficulty, although I had first suggested the inquiry, that I obtained a copy through Mr. C. Hopwood, M.P., after Parliament had risen. Had this Report been made public, and had the Press of London done its duty, there would have been no need for Mr. Stead's revelations four years afterwards in 1885, for Parliament would have passed 'Stead's Bill' in 1881 or 1882 at the latest."

That, we repeat, is a serious statement, which for the moment overshadows even the outrageous prosecution and punishment of Mr. Stead and his helpers. Is it any wonder that many of the citizens of this realm, who are Christians as well as Englishmen, are beginning to cry, "A plague on all your Governments," or that the demand has gone forth that men shall be sent to St. Stephen's who will not allow the nation to be hoodwinked in the future as it has been in the past; but will move heaven and earth in order that the rulers of the day should discharge one of the most elementary functions of their office—pass laws, and secure their operation, by which notorious offenders shall be rigorously punished, and the innocent and unsuspecting but weak members of the Commonwealth shall be protected? Why, it would almost seem as if the legitimate and primary object of Governments nowadays—Whig and Tory alike—were to secure snug offices and emoluments for the Cabinet and their friends, and to ensure immunity, in the indulgence in vice, to high-placed and aristocratic personages, at whatever cost to the humbler classes or to the moral reputation of the people. As Mrs. Butler well remarked in her powerful address, our rulers used to be called "Ministers" (servants); it is only in recent times that they have been turned into "Governments." The nation, no doubt, owes a debt of gratitude to any body of men who will take up the reins of office and administer justice, even if well paid for it; but that gratitude will be turned into a very different sentiment if rulers and judges and magistrates use their position to screen the lawless and to punish the law-abiding.

There were many strong things said at the Exeter Hall meeting, but none of them too strong, all things considered. In a letter regretting his inability to be present, Mr. Spurgeon said, "We must demand that if the authorities have been hard upon well-intentioned offenders of the letter of the law, they must now be harder still upon the violators both of the letter and its spirit. Wealthy sinners must not be screened. Alas! I fear that we have to deal with a gigantic hypocrisy." Mrs. Butler said the two greatest enemies of morality had been "Scotland Yard" and the conspiracy of silence among the London Press. The meeting showed strong animus at any mention of the Daily Press of the metropolis, and the poor reporters in the box had vicariously, but unfairly, to receive the maledictions of the angry throng. It is certainly a deplorable sign of the times that, with one consent, well nigh, the great London dailies should have arrayed their powerful influence on the side of a wicked reticence; for there is no surer way of abolishing evil deeds than by letting in upon them unstintedly the searching light of day. Rev. Dr. T. B. Stephenson vindicated the right of free-born Britons to criticise the authorities, even the judges on the bench, when they exceed their proper functions.

Rev. Eynon Davies said that there was no need to make a hero and a martyr of Mr. Stead; his own good works had made him the one, and the Government prosecution had made him the other. The legal victory might belong to the Public Prosecutor, but the moral victory belonged to The Pall Mall Gazette. Mrs. H. Fawcett, in a noble, dignified, and telling address, said that, despite her old enthusiasm for Garibaldi, Mazzini, and Abraham Lincoln, she did not remember any public man whose character shone forth with such crystal purity, and such perfect self-forgetfulness, generosity, and chivalrous devotion to the cause of the poor and helpless, as the man who now lies in prison in Holloway Gaol. She felt thankful that her country had the stuff in it to breed such a man. Dr. Clifford described Mr. Stead as having become "the incarnation of the nineteenth century crusade against national impurity." It was not the first time by any means that a prison had been the fruitful soil out of which grew the great moral movements of the world. Our message to the prisoner at Holloway should be that which Thomas Carlyle sent to him years ago: "Let that good man Stead get on with his work." No Government can padlock a soul. Rev. Hugh Price Hughes had a kind word to say for Rebecca Jarrett, but some very stinging words for those who had spoken harshly of her. "Much observation," said he, "has led me to the conclusion that when any man speaks bitterly and savagely of a reclaimed harlot, he either is or has been a fornicator." With a lofty scorn he alluded to the remark made by the Attorney-General during the recent trial, that the Government "must protect the daughters of the poor!" Why, the Government during the last twenty years, instead of protecting, has been grossly neglecting the daughters of the poor. This same Attorney-General last Session successfully opposed in Parliament some of the provisions of the Criminal Law Amendment Act, by which Mr. Stead desired the better to protect poor children; yet he had the audacity to stand up in Court, and make the observation quoted.

Among the other speakers were Mr. Branch, foreman of the jury that convicted Mr. Stead (in obedience to the ruling of the Judge), Rev. W. Talbot, of Wimbledon (Mr. Stead's pastor), and Mr. Henry Varley, who said that the notorious "Minotaur" of London had fled to Spain, with which country we have no extradition treaty. Altogether the feelings of the crowded assemblage were kept throughout the evening at white heat. We do not think any impartial person present could say that they did not well to be angry. The great thing now is to sustain the fervour which has been created. In this, as in so many other matters, we shall only secure righteous action from the authorities at the cost of eternal vigilance.

The numerous letters we receive on this subject, almost exclusively approving of Mr. Stead's general action, and expressing sympathy with him—show the widespread feeling that the trial and sentence have created throughout the country. We append one brief letter, advocating a national movement for his release. The acting editor of The Pall Mall Gazette, we observe, has stated that in agitating for this Mr. Stead's friends are on the wrong tack; that he is comfortable and happy in Holloway Prison, and that efforts should now be directed to the development of the work he has inaugurated. We cannot too earnestly press home that suggestion, but at the same time we think there is great force in the words of our correspondent. It is no doubt true that Mr. Stead's confinement may be overruled for the furtherance of the good cause, but that assurance must not blind us to the injustice of his sentence, or form any excuse for the past action, and present inaction, of the Government.

Sir,—I have been looking in vain for any national movement to procure justice for Mr. Stead. We ought to appeal to the Crown to direct his discharge from prison, on the ground that the verdict of the jury was virtually an acquittal.

His very prosecutor acquitted him of any evil intention, and, therefore, to assume that his punishment is needful to vindicate the sanctity of our hearths and homes is a technicality little honouring to the majesty of English law.

There may be collateral circumstances that demand inquiry, but our appeal should be on this ground, pure and simple, that punishment is inconsistent with the verdict.—Your obedient servant, C. H. Binsteed.

THE CHRISTIAN SERVANT.

THE Lord's bondservant must not strive. A bondservant is "one whose will and capacity are wholly at the service of another." The servant of the Lord, then, must be wholly at the disposal of his Master. The Lord claims this right solely on the ground of Redemption (Rom. v. 21, vi. 17; Tit. ii. 14; 1 Pet. i. 18). The old reign of sin was absolute: the new reign of Christ is to be equally absolute, for "no man can serve two masters." The characteristics of the new service will be the direct opposites of those of the old. No strife, no self-assertion, no defence of one's own rights. "Dearly beloved, avenge not yourselves." It is the Master's duty to protect and avenge the character of his bondservant.

The only way to follow out the directions given for bondservice is to look at the Great Example in the person of the Lord Jesus, as depicted by the prophet Isaiah in chap. xlii. 1—3. Jesus came to do God's will, and left the vindication of his character, and the results of his service, with the Father. Neither applause nor opposition hindered Him. When the people would make Him a king, He dismissed them. When they stoned Him, He quietly withdrew, and pursued his work elsewhere. God upheld Him—hence his quiet indifference to the actions of the people. Then, as a servant, he was blind to all the attractions around Him, his eye being filled with God the Father. He was deaf to all the sounds around, his ear being filled with the Word of God (Isa. xlii. 19, 20). "He wakeneth mine ear morning by morning" (Isa. l. 4). Flattery and scorn never affected his mind, He had heard the voice of God in the morning and He was strong to do his will, whilst He was gentle to all men.

A further light is thrown on this relationship of Christ to God by reference to the Mosaic institution given us in Exod. xxi. 5, 6. A slave, who desired to remain one always, offered himself to his master, and in the presence of the judges had his ear bored with an awl to the doorpost, being thus marked for life as a slave. The motive for this was to be love. Jesus has, as it were, said to God, "I love my master, I love my wife, I love my children, I will not go out free." To prove this, his hands and feet were pierced by the iron spikes, and He was fastened to the cross in the presence of the judges in Jerusalem, Pharisees, high-priests, Roman officers. His side was rent, and his face marred by the crown of thorns. Indelible marks that will be eternally so. He loved the Father, and, as an obedient servant, He said, "I do always those things that are pleasing in his sight." He loved his bride, the Church, and "gave Himself for it." He will say presently, "Behold I and the children whom God hath given Me."

"I have put my Spirit upon Him." When the Lord was about to commence his public ministry, the Holy Spirit descended on Him, and abode upon Him, and in that power He first endured temptation from Satan, and then preached in the synagogue of Nazareth.

"He shall not strive nor cry." Moses was a faithful servant in all his house, but he began by striving with the Egyptian and killing him. At the end of his service, when commanded to speak to the rock, he cried aloud to Israel, "Hear now, ye rebels," and struck the rock. Christ, as a Son over God's house, is a more faithful servant than Moses. When they brought to Him the bruised reed of a downtrodden guilty sinner, He did not break it, but said, "Neither do I condemn thee." When another came and stood behind Him to wash his feet, with a spark of faith that was only like smoking flax, He did not quench it, but said, "Thy faith hath saved thee."

"He shall not fail nor be discouraged." Not like the grand servant Elijah whose courage failed, and he fled to the juniper tree, praying to die. Though He knew Judas Iscariot would betray Him, He stooped to wash that man's feet. No trace of discouragement was ever seen in Him. "He had set his face like a flint." After performing that act of perfect service in washing the disciples' feet, He said to them, "Know ye what I have done to you? . . . I have given you an example. . . . If ye know these things, happy are ye if ye do them." Throughout this scene, in the Lord's conversation with Peter, and in his words to the other disciples, we see the perfect illustration of the directions given to the servant of the Lord in 2 Tim. ii. Such gentleness, such meekness, in instructing Peter who was opposing his best and eternal interests in wishing to decline this service. When He who was the perfect Servant shall appear as the Master to reward his servants, how many will He find possessed of this spirit? Will they appear with shamefacedness and empty hands, or with arms full of sheaves and hands full of talents to lay at his feet?

If any fellow-servants are realising their lack of power for this service, and should ask how can it be obtained, the answer will be found in Ps. cxxiii. 2: "Behold, as the eyes of servants look unto the hand of their masters . . . so our eyes wait upon the Lord our God until that He have mercy upon us."

Mark the perfect Man, the Servant of God, and let the eyes be so filled with His image that they shall be blind to all else; then lips and hands will be so consecrated to Him that He will be able to guide and use them, and by-and-by to say, "Well done, good and faithful servant."

Geo. Soltau.

MR. OPIE RODWAY, writing to us with respect to Gospel meetings he has been conducting in Chelsea, gives the very gratifying information that his health, which was feeble, is very largely restored. This he attributes, through the goodness of God, to the judicious treatment he has undergone at Mr. R. Metcalfe's Hydropathic Establishment, 11, Paddington-green, W. Mr. Metcalfe's long experience in this work enables him, says Mr. Rodway, to adapt the curative properties of the hydropathic system to the varied conditions of sufferers.

Y.M.C.A., BRIGHTON.—The present month has been a very busy and fruitful one, embracing a week's services, in connection with special prayer for young men, from the 8th to the 15th inst. Lectures by Dr. Hamilton (Christian Evidence), Dr. J. Anderson (What is Man?), Dr. Morgan (The Medical Aspect of Social Purity), Rev. James Ferguson (Nebuchadnezzar's Vision), and Mr. Charles Cook (Prisons of Eastern Europe, &c.). Arrangements for the close of the year embrace addresses from Dr. Hawkesley, Dr. J. Anderson, Rev. W. T. Moore, and Rev. Canon Butler. Branches of the Y.M.C.A. are being formed in several of the villages and small towns of Sussex.

A. W.

A TRAINING SCHOOL FOR CHRISTIAN WOMEN has been opened at Addlestone, Surrey, where girls from ten years of age are received and trained in Bible knowledge, practical work, and intellectual study. It already numbers several daughters of ministers among its inmates whose parents desire that they should be trained for mission work. It is established on the family system, and the object is to train up useful Christian women for any sphere of life and work to which they may be called either at home or abroad. Miss Cavendish, who directs the school, visited the American Colleges a few years since and is thus qualified to adopt such portions of their admirable system as can be assimilated with advantage in an English institution. She will be glad to correspond with any friends desiring further information about the school, from The Poplars, Addlestone, Weybridge.

CITY LIFE IN JERUSALEM.

FEW could have anticipated the treat which awaited them at the City Temple on Tuesday evening last week, when, by the kind permission of Dr. Parker, Miss Von Finkelstein undertook to give an English audience an insight into the city life of what is in many respects the most interesting city in the world. Her fair, majestic form, her grace of manner, her simple and natural eloquence, her subtle and playful wit, the light which she shed upon many dark and misunderstood passages of Scripture, and even a slight foreign accent, all combined to produce an indescribable charm which never once lost its hold on the great company, mostly Sunday-school teachers, which crowded the City Temple.

A large platform had been erected in front of the pulpit, which was arranged after the manner of a parlour in one of the houses of Jerusalem. The whole had a truly Oriental appearance. Miss Finkelstein was attired in the garment of a lady at home. Her dress, brilliant in colour, was made of the native silk of the country, woven in the city of Damascus, and the abundance of jewels on her head denoted that she was a married lady, unmarried ladies not being allowed to wear jewellery or flowers. She was accompanied by a native Arab of Jerusalem, whom she had known as a child, and whom, by a curious chance, she had just met in London.

In our last issue we briefly referred to the same lecture as given at Mildmay. One or two further extracts from the excellent report in The Sunday School Chronicle will be interesting:—She said an infidel in America had quoted, in her hearing, the words, "Salute no one by the way," as an argument against Christianity. Jesus, it was urged, did not teach his disciples to be courteous. With something like contempt in her tone, the lady said it only convinced her that the infidel did not know what he was talking about, otherwise he would never have made such an ignorant remark. The Saviour gave that command to his disciples because it took a considerable time to get through the ordinary forms of salutation, and if they stopped to salute everybody by the way-side it would take all their time. By not saluting it implied that they were messengers with a message to deliver.

Towards the close of her lecture, which occupied nearly two hours in delivery, Miss Finkelstein went through the ceremony of washing the Arab's feet, and remarked that to wipe the feet was an act held in the highest estimation. The breaking of bread at supper was also illustrated. It was common, she said, for two to dip in the same dish, as was the case with Jesus and Judas. She also showed how easy and natural it was for John to have reclined on the bosom of Jesus as they sat at table. The lecturer described at some length the degrading position occupied by women in the East, and went through the form of a marriage ceremony, singing a song in Arabic, and chanting the dirge-like music of the women at a marriage festival. The closing of the "oil-rooms" illustrated the parable of the foolish virgins. Why the woman was so anxious to find the piece of silver, as represented by Jesus, was fully explained. It was part of her wedding necklace, without which a married woman in the East would lose caste. Therefore all the neighbours would rejoice at the discovery of the missing link. The lecturer was very heartily cheered from beginning to end by the very large audience.

Miss Von Finkelstein has also lectured at the Sunday School Union, Old Bailey, at Bermondsey, and at New Malden. She lectures next Monday evening at Westminster Chapel, when we advise all who wish to spend a delightful and profitable evening to be present.

HELP FOR THE HELPLESS.—Mrs. Haslam, 403, Mile End-road, E., writes to us to say that she is very anxious to secure a bath chair for several Christian invalids who are unable, by themselves, to take any outdoor exercise; she will be thankful if any kind friend will supply this lack.

RAMBLING ROB'S JOURNAL.—I.

I WAS born with a love for rambling, which, when a boy at home, made me love the woods and meadows far better than the school-room, and which took me from my home, at last, before I had reached my nineteenth year, to set me wandering, as a working-man, about the wide, wide world. Conversion did not altogether remove the restlessness from my spirit, and it was this, I suppose, that led me, last week, though under the blessed control of the guiding Spirit of God, to take a little travelling-bag, and trot away to town to learn how the work of God was going on in the world's big metropolis.

Well, here I am in Chelsea, where I hear singing in the streets. "Salvation Army?" No; for the accordion player bears on his military-looking cap the words, "St. Jude's Mission." Some "Brother Richards" has charge of the gathering. A rough customer, Brother Richards, but for the grace of God, say my own pugilistic instincts; but the grace of God is in both the man's heart and face, and I breathe a hearty "God bless him," as in honest, homely Saxon, he pours forth the old, old story in the ears of those who have stopped to listen. But this cornet-player wears a white tie, and a clerical-looking coat! Has the vicar of the parish taken to this kind of thing? No; he heartily helps it forward, and sympathises with every effort to advance the kingdom of Christ; but this is some friend of his up from the country.

Now, a procession is formed; some modest-looking young lassie bears aloft a red flag, and, together with Brother Richards, the accordion player, the harmoniumist, and the cornet-playing parson, I enter a neat, little mission-hall, at the back of what has been "The Duke of York" public-house, but which, under the good vicar's influence, has been quietly transformed into a capital coffee-palace. The cornet-player gives out, as his text, some rather striking words, "After she had done all these things, I said unto her, return thou unto Me." Very few besides the workers are present, but among the few are two prostitutes, who at first begin to giggle, but at last grow very grave. She, of the blood-red flag, or one of her companions, drops down by the side of one of them, and another of her friends quietly seats herself by the side of the other. Now begins a struggle with Satan for their souls; God's almighty aid is invoked; the four are on their knees, the two Magdalens ask the Lord to save them; and the result of the struggle is that, under the care of one of the workers, both poor lassies start off to a "Refuge."

Shout on, Brother Richards. Wave your blood-red flag, my young sister. Fetch all the music you can out of cornet, harmonium, and accordion, ye bandsmen, with instruments consecrated to the service of the Great King. I have heard the grey-headed vicar, who has lived and laboured in his parish for more than forty years, confess that he has been unable to discover any result from this toil of well nigh a life-time. God has given you to see most blessed results from your humble labours to-night.

I get interested in this mission-hall, and here I am a second night. Much the same as last night! Ah, and in results too; for among the few brought in from the road is a big, bonâ fide working man, who goes down on his knees, and thanks God that his soul has been saved to-night.

But I must now away eastward, to Charrington's. Who is that on the platform? It is some military-looking gentleman. And what a tremendous hubbub!! "I like the Gospel better than this," says some woman at my side; nor do I wonder at her. But the secret soon comes out. Captain Hamilton, whose wide sympathies with the poor have brought him down to "the East" to unfold a plan for the emigration of those who are willing to seek, in other lands, the plenty denied them at home, has been assailed by a band of "Social Democrats." Oh, those faces, and voices! I seem to see and hear them now, and, with an eye to the future, begin to pray more earnestly that those who are near and dear to me may be accounted worthy to escape all those things that are coming upon the earth, and to stand before the Son of Man. Captain Hamilton, however, remains master of the situation; silence is obtained; a short gospel address follows the lecture; prayer follows the address, and all depart—well, I may say, in peace.

"How is the money coming in for the new hall?" I ask one of the workers connected with the institution. "Slowly, very slowly, sir," says he in a somewhat sorrowful voice; "and between you and me," continues he, "I believe Mr. Charrington has had to advance a considerable amount of his own money." Perhaps some who may read these lines will be led to take the hint.

But I must away again; another night has come, and I find myself in Drury-lane. This dear woman, who is so earnestly endeavouring to get people inside what she calls "the Mission-hall," reminds me that many of God's children may, even here, be maintaining a fierce fight with the powers of darkness. Uphill work it must be, though! I have been to Chelsea, and to Charrington's; I have seen Grattan Guinness's work down at Bromley-by-Bow; I have rambled about Bethnal-green, and seen a little of Shadwell and its missions; but to my own mind, I have never wandered into a more unpromising field for labour than Drury-lane and its neighbourhood.

What place is this, my good woman? "The Mission-hall connected with the Whitfield Church, Sir." Who have you got at the Whitfield Church? "Rev. W. Burton-Alexander." Well, let us go in and see what is to be seen and heard. A neat little place, light, clear, and cheery withal! I gather that it is Mr. Burton-Alexander who presides at the meeting, though another minister rises to give the address. It is the old, old story again—"I have redeemed thee." I feel it good to be here, and as, on a week night, I find some sixty people present besides myself, I begin to contrast big town churches I have entered, to find no more than twenty or thirty persons in the congregation, and scarcely a single representative of the poor among these.

After the address comes the prayer-meeting. A stiff young fellow, half as broad as he is long, asks God to save his parents; another person, the voice quavering with emotion, seeks the salvation of a father; a rather tall youth asks strength to walk uprightly himself, and remembers the various branches of Christian work connected with the church; a working-man, of the rough diamond type, who has evidently been converted recently, thanks God for saving his soul. All seem to be dead against the drink traffic; and no wonder, when one has seen its baneful influence on the neighbourhood generally. We finish with hearty singing, and as I go away I make an inward resolve that if ever I have a spare night in London I shall come to this mission-hall again.

But my wife and chickabiddies weary of my absence, and so I hie to the country once more. I want, after all my wanderings, to have a word of prayer in the train, as when I am travelling alone; but there are two more men in the carriage. I am a bigger coward than I like to acknowledge to myself; but I think that by and by I shall want to be among those whom Christ shall confess as having confessed Him before men. Shall I apologise for what I must do? No; this will be harder than to sink on my knees, so on my knees I fall. One of the two ejaculates—I will not say what, and the sense of shame is gone. I rise refreshed; the train stops. Another hour, and my loved ones have welcomed to his home again their husband and father in RAMBLING ROB.

THE READING Y.M.C.A., in their Report for the past year, give the particulars of several cases of blessing, showing the good done through the Bible-classes, Gospel services, and prayer meetings. "Never before," says the Secretary, "was there so much interest taken in the study of the Scriptures." During the year 50,000 Gospel books and tracts have been circulated, and the evangelistic meetings—cottage and open air—have been a blessing to many. Mr. J. L. Forfeit is the secretary.

HOME OF MY HEART.

By Rev. ROBERT GILCHRIST.

HOME of my heart, O Heart of Love,
In glory now enthroned above,
Upon the cross once pierced for me,
When hard beset to Thee I flee.

Home of my heart, a safe retreat,
In crowded mart and busy street,
To which my spirit can repair,
And hold with Thee communion there.

Home of my heart, to Thee I turn,
When round me torrid fervours burn,
And find in Thee a cooling shade,
Like evening in the dewy glade.

Home of my heart, when storms arise,
And mingle ocean with the skies,
In Thee I find a soothing balm,
And on thy bosom blissful calm.

Home of my heart, secure on high,
Where'er I wander Thou art nigh,
With living water, daily bread,
And pillows for my weary head.

Home of my heart, to Thee I cling,
When stripped of every living thing;
And when the stroke of death is near,
Yet will I trust, and will not fear.

Home of my heart, by cloud concealed,
In glory soon to be revealed,
I now embrace Thee, heart to heart,
And long to see Thee as Thou art!

Shotts, N.B.

YOUNG EMIGRANTS IN CANADA.

DEAR SIR,—Your readers may be glad to know something about the labours of Mr. Brace, who represents Mr. Fegan in looking after his boys from the Southwark Boys' Home, London. They number about two hundred, and are scattered through Ontario and Manitoba. They are doing remarkably well, and have good homes, with a fair prospect of having homes and farms of their own, as soon as they are old enough. Many of the boys are really consecrated to God, and are doing a good work in many a home where Gospel privileges are scarce. Mr. Brace had a letter from three of them in Winnipeg, giving an account of the open-air meetings they are holding, several hundreds being present. From the same boys I have a letter asking for a small loan to enable them to open up a coffee tavern in connection with Gospel rooms, in which they hold regular services for those who do not attend the churches. These lads have earned most of the money required, and only want fifty dollars for a few months, which I intend to let them have.

At the suggestion of Mr. Fegan, when he was in Toronto, we engaged a small hall in one of the worst parts of our city, and Mr. Brace conducted special services for a week with very satisfactory results; between thirty and forty took the blue, and from fifteen to twenty professed to have been saved. Mr. Brace fills up his time after looking after the boys, by visiting from house to house, and in the evening, when at liberty, he preaches at the mission-room or takes some other religious service. I have the best reasons to know that the work of rescuing boys from the large cities in the old land, leading them to Jesus, and then sending them out to a new country, like Canada, is a most blessed one. I receive many letters from the boys from the Far West and nearer home, and it delights my soul to hear of their welfare, especially of their spiritual welfare. I think Mr. Brace is well adapted to superintend this work in Canada, and he certainly is most efficient in Christian mission work, and is very acceptable, and God is blessing and owning his labour.

Toronto. Wm. Gooderham.

REBECCA JARRETT.*

THE name of Rebecca Jarrett has been so much before the public of late, in connection with the Armstrong cause célèbre, and such conflicting views are expressed as to her share in the matter, that all fair-minded persons ought to welcome the account of her life just prepared by Mrs. Josephine Butler, and published from the office of this paper. We venture to think that the perusal of this pathetic sketch will modify those bitter and hard feelings towards this woman which some good and sincere people think themselves justified in cherishing. On the other hand, the many who have not lost faith in her general veracity, or the genuineness of her new life, will be amply strengthened in their belief by this plain and unvarnished statement of facts.

Mrs. Butler, at an early stage of her narrative, records her "profound and unshaken conviction" that throughout the recent investigations Rebecca Jarrett's heart was true—"true to the cause which she had learned to love as we do—true to me, and true to Mr. Stead, whom she had heartily desired to help in the work which she had learned to see to be necessary." A sad life she admittedly had led in years past, but that life had not extinguished in her a sense of fidelity towards those who had been her companions in sin, and to whom she had pledged her word that she would divulge nothing of their past. It was when this pledge and her oath in court "to tell the whole truth" came into collision that, under the sudden stress of hostile cross-examination, she gave a false address. On this point Mrs. Butler says :—

"If you ever were between two solemn promises, both of which you desired to keep, but which were opposed the one to the other, you can feel for this weak young convert to truth, and you can pity her weakness. Yes, she told a lie. She looked across the court at me with an expression on her pale face which I shall never forget. That night, on returning to her lodgings, she spent several hours on her knees, weeping as if her heart would break; no word of consolation availed for her. It was in vain to try to comfort her. She cried, and screamed to God, 'O God, I have told a lie; I have perjured myself in the witness-box; I have lied before the world; I have ruined this cause, and I have got all my kind friends into trouble! And yet, O God, Thou knowest why I did it—oh, Thou knowest why I did it. Look into my heart; Thou knowest why I did it!'

"What she ought to have done was, on the first day of cross-examination, to refuse, as she did on the second day, to give any evidence at all concerning years long passed, which had nothing whatever to do with the case of Eliza Armstrong. In the witness-box, on the second day, poor Rebecca, seeing the snare into which she had fallen, in a voice full of pain, said to the Attorney-General, 'You forced that lie out of me; you make people tell lies.' Then she took up the attitude which she ought to have assumed at first, of a distinct refusal to say one other word concerning her past life. 'If you want to know about that,' she said, 'you have got to find it out for yourself.' During the whole of that day she was cross-examined; she suffering in health, her head aching, and her brain reeling. Anyone who has ever been, for only a quarter of an hour, under the ruthless cross-examination of a Government Prosecutor, knows something of what it is. With all the desire in the world to speak the exact truth, one feels one may be any moment tripped up, especially by the repeated demand to answer 'Yes or No;' a demand which sometimes cannot possibly be obeyed consistently with truth."

No part of this little book is more touching than the description of the way in which Jarrett behaved towards some of those partners in her guilt who were persecuting her during her stay at Mrs. Butler's Home in Winchester, and the steps she took to assure them of her changed character and life. We cannot imagine any stronger and clearer proof of her real conversion than is afforded by this episode, which was so strangely distorted in the course of the legal proceedings.

The story of Rebecca's early life, entitled "The History of a Rescued Woman," is given as written by herself before she was ever asked to help in Mr. Stead's investigations. That story, which need not be told here, ought to speak in a loud voice to all heads of households, as the following passage in it will show :—

"Rebecca was brought up in ignorance of her Redeemer and Saviour. At the age of fifteen she entered into service, but only stopped one month in her first place, remaining at home again for seven weeks. Then she was taken into a good family as housemaid, being tall of stature; after living there for five months (she was then a little over fifteen) she came in contact with one of the gentlemen visitors, who by flattery and presents led her to meet him in the evening unknown to her mistress. On a Good Friday she went for a day's holiday to her home. After having tea with her mother and brothers, she left that home, not to enter it again for some years; for that evening, as she was returning home to her master's house, she was met by this deceiver and led away from the path of virtue. By making some excuses for her absence she was taken back to her place, but still carrying on this sin till she could hide her state no longer. She was bound to leave her place."

Once on the downward path (into which she was tempted by the villany of one who is probably at this day holding his head high in respectable society), the further descent was only too easy, and truly the depth to which she fell was awful. But, by and by, light began to spring out of this dense moral darkness, and the latter part of Rebecca's account tells of the marvellous grace and goodness of God, through the instrumentality of Christian women, in restoring this Magdalen to a life of true repentance and faith, and devoted service. Truly it could be said of her that "having been forgiven much, she loved much." To give the reader some idea of what her service was, we may quote the following from Mrs. Butler's own pen :—

"It was from my observation of her, and her influence amongst the most degraded of men and women, that I conceived the idea of a little mission school of reclaimed women, who might be trained to go forth to seek and save the lost of their own sex. So far as we were able to carry out this idea, we found it wonderfully fruitful, and I do not mean to lose sight of it on account of a temporary check. Rebecca's influence here was something extraordinary. Her love and pity for the worst sinners were genuine and unbounded. She shrank from nothing that might have been repulsive or difficult to a more refined or less loving nature. She went straight into the worst and lowest dens of infamy, choosing frequently for her most arduous work the Saturday night, when drunkenness most prevails. She would stand in the midst of a den full of men and women of the lowest type, get them down on their knees, pray with them and for them, and teach them to pray; and when other persuasions failed, she related to them what she herself had been, and what God had done for her.

"The reality of what she thus recorded struck home; many faces turned to her in wonder, and the fact that she had been one of themselves, and now ardently desired their salvation, seemed to have a power to win their hearts and to overcome their incredulity, beyond any power which the words of a more blameless person might have had. Her influence was great with those low drunken men who abound in towns where the Contagious Diseases Acts have been in force; lazy scoundrels who disdain work, and live upon the prostitution of those poor creatures (formerly Government prostitutes), whom they tyrannise over, and often treat most cruelly. One of these, who afterwards attended our meetings like a man 'clothed, and in his right mind,' came lately, on hearing of her visit to Winchester, to express his gratitude to her for what she had done for him.

"A man and his wife, who had kept a notorious house of ill-fame for a great number of years in Winchester, were persuaded by her to give up their house, and induced even to co-operate with her in helping some of the inmates to a better life; and they themselves, yielding to her persuasion, took rooms near her, not far from the Cottage. Their evil house was closed, and remains closed to this day. This place had withstood the repeated efforts of the police and of philanthropists, and at last succumbed to the simple persuasions and strong love of this poor woman, the same who during the last few weeks has been made the object of the fullest vocabulary of scorn, hatred, and contempt. The man and his wife above referred to, hearing that Rebecca was with us for a few days in the interval between the hearing at Bow-street and the trial at the Old Bailey, came to us begging that they might 'just see her here for one moment to say, "God bless you,"' and added, 'for what should we have been but for her?' . . .

"When these things passed before my mind in the Law Court, during the five long hours of summing up, in the course of which the most dishonourable epithets were applied to this 'disgusting and abominable woman,' I again recalled that scene in the Temple, where a sinful woman stood in the midst of a crowd of accusers, and I thought if the Lord Jesus Christ had entered that Court of Law, and standing in the midst, had said to all present, from the highest to the lowest, 'Let him that is without sin among you cast the first stone at her,' would any have moved? How many would have left the Court? How many would have remained? Rebecca Jarrett's vindication has yet to come. But it will come. I wondered if such an act of self-sacrificing love could ever come even within the range of the imagination of many in that Court, and I remembered that there is a God in heaven, who, while man's condemnation was falling so crushingly on her, was not, and will not be unmindful of 'her labour of love.'"

Space fails us, or we should like to quote further from this intensely interesting record, but we have given enough to show its scope and the value it ought to have in reinstating this much misunderstood and much maligned sister in her proper place in the eye of the great public, whose judgment is ever just when the whole evidence is before them. One other extract, however, we must make to clear up a difficulty which may have arisen in the minds of some who followed the evidence as submitted to the jury in the Old Bailey :—

"Much was said in the Court about the letter written by Rebecca to Broughton on the 10th of June. It seems to have perplexed many people; to me it was quite clear. My own friends at least will accept, as worthy of credit, what I have to say concerning this; though I expect nothing but derision from the cynics who posed during the trial in pretended astonishment over the hypocrisy of the woman who professed a desire for the real good of a person who had sold her child. I had followed Rebecca's inmost thoughts and mind during all this period. She felt that in acting the part imposed upon her, she had, perhaps, done an unkind thing. Day after day her yearning after little Eliza became more intense. I said to her on one occasion, 'You seem to have an extraordinary love for that child; how is it?' She replied, 'The child and I have gone through so much together—through such strange scenes—and I do long to have her with me, to act straight towards her and her poor mother, and to show them what I really am, and what I feel towards them.'

"I can attest that, beyond all doubt, poor Rebecca dwelt night and day upon the thought of making the whole story 'end well.' She built a sort of castle in the air, in which she continually dwelt. Her plan—her dream—was as follows: To get the child from Paris; to have her with us here to train and teach her; then a little later to take her herself to Charles-street, London, to present her to her mother and father, and to Mrs. Broughton, and to make use of her own position towards her—as well as the child's well-being—to convince these poor people that she (Rebecca) was indeed a changed character.

---

* REBECCA JARRETT. By Josephine E. Butler. Morgan & Scott. 6d.

We spoke together of a plan of inviting Mrs. Armstrong to come and stay a few days at the Cottage. We would, Rebecca hoped, induce her to give up the drink, and we would show her the happy life of those who had really turned from their sins, and were serving God. Yes, in spite of all that the Judge, the Attorney-General, the London Press, and ten thousand cynics may say, this was the real and true feeling and purpose of Rebecca's heart. There are others beside myself who can testify to it."

Let anyone compare this unvarnished story with the plausible but imaginary and false theory set up by the Prosecution, adopted by the Bench, and accepted by the Jury, and they will perceive that, as in the Poole case, the wrong person is in prison. It augurs badly for England that endeavours to put down vice and crime should in these two instances have resulted in the imposition of penalties upon those who were engaged in letting in the light.

YOUNG MEN IN BAYSWATER.

CHRISTIAN men living in this western district have for some time felt that a branch of the Y.M.C.A. ought to be founded somewhere within its borders. As far back as 1884 a committee was formed for this purpose, but various obstacles combined to prevent definite action. Later on, Mr. Evans, a gentleman forming one of Mr. Moody's committee, conferred with Mr. George Williams who suggested making a start at once. This was done, and the first meetings were held in the French Protestant Church. Soon, however, it became evident that other and more adequate premises were needed. Friends of the movement, including Mr. Allcroft, met in conference, and £650 was there and then promised to meet the expenses of another place. Capital premises were selected at 172, Queen's-road, immediately opposite Mr. Whiteley's. These have been altered to meet the requirements of the work, at a cost which comes within the amount already named, with lecture-room, reading-room, class-room, lavatory, &c., they constitute a branch of the Association which is creditable to all concerned.

On Wednesday, last week, a social gathering was convened, at which about 150 young men were present. Mr. Evans, who presided, said that already the building had been consecrated to its object by the meetings held during the recent week of prayer for young men. The origin and growth of the Association was briefly described, and much thankfulness to God expressed. The brief addresses that followed were exceedingly good. Mr. C. C. M. Baker, one of the Hon. Secretaries, believed that the prayerful element pervading the Y.M.C.A. was the secret of its growing success. Mr. Campbell urged the members to seek spiritual power, through close fellowship with Christ, and urged the cultivation of a loving spirit which would win the unsaved. Dr. Thorne and Mr. W. M. Carruthers also added words of counsel and encouragement. The excellent secretary, Mr. Walter Wild, gave a fervent address, urging decision for Christ, diligence in his service, and dependence on his grace.

A hearty welcome was given to the young men in the form of a capital tea and cordial greeting; and, if the inaugural meeting is a fair specimen of the spiritual and practical tone which the new Secretary and Committee purpose to foster, there is certainly a prosperous future in store for the Bayswater Branch of the Y.M.C.A.

CHRISTIAN WORK IN MADRID.—Mrs. Fenn records in a little book, just issued, the history of the work done in Spain by herself and her husband, and "How we were led to it." Copies may be obtained from Mr. T. Hallett, 2, Cambridge-place, Bath. 1d. Those who read the narrative will be gratified to learn how remarkably God has opened up the way as well as provided the means for these devoted workers. Four growing schools, an orphanage, a Bible-woman, and a hospital are included in the mission, beside Gospel services, through which 170 persons have been received into communion as converts during the past eleven years.

CHRISTMAS LETTER MISSION.

BEGUN at Brighton in the year 1871, this work has developed from year to year, to so wide an extent that, during the Christmas and New-Year season of 1884-5, above 500,000 of these brightly illustrated Gospel letters, in nine or ten languages, found their way to different parts of the world.

Referring our readers to the report for fuller particulars, we here give one or two extracts:—

"In former notices such full accounts have been given of the distributions in hospitals and infirmaries, that it will here suffice to say that the letters have met with as warm a welcome as in preceding years. A sample testimony furnished to the Irish Secretary by a Dublin worker may, however, be inserted:—

"'You will be pleased to hear that the Christmas letters were received with great joy at the Royal Infirmary, the Arbour Hill and Female Hospitals. Many of the men had read them several times, and some asked me for an envelope and stamp, so that they might send them home. Some asked for others, if I had them, for Roman Catholic comrades. Some of these last asked for them themselves. I am sure they were the means of much blessing. One man—an artilleryman—who was dying, said it seemed as if his mother was speaking to him. The orderly on duty in each ward puts the letters on the men's pillows at about four o'clock in the morning, and they told me there was great joy when they were found, some being moved to tears. Each orderly received also one of those for General Use.'

"Mrs. May, in sending her report of the Indian C.L.M. work, writes as follows:—

"'I cannot tell you how eagerly the letters in the different languages are received, and they are welcomed all the year round. I say when giving them, "You were not with us at Christmas, but we have kept your letter for you." In all the hospitals the letters are thus received—sometimes with tears caused by the thoughtful love that gives them such tangible proof of their remembrance; others showing their appreciation by smiles. It is an interesting and touching sight to see every patient eagerly open the letter; and on leaving everyone (no matter how ill) may be seen poring over the contents. I am sure that many are led to Christ by these "silent messengers" of whom we shall not know till we meet them in heaven. I could use as many of the G.U. Letters in Calcutta as you can send; all the year round they are gladly received.'

"By far the largest distribution is of these, known as the 'G.U.' Letters—for general use. Among soldiers, sailors, tram-car, omnibus, and cabmen, navvies, &c., &c., they have been scattered, as well as in parishes and districts.

"It remains to tender warm thanks to those readers of The Christian through whose valued co-operation, whether as contributors or distributors, it has been carried out. Help in every form is gratefully received. In the words of a former report we may add, if those desiring to utilise the Christmas and New-Year season for spreading the Christmas Message, with the added pleasure of a personal greeting, would in and around their homes scatter some of the letters ready to their hands, they would find it in their power to touch many a case of loneliness and ignorance, and to kindle the responsive 'some one cares for me!' which has in so many cases preceded the deeper gratitude to One 'who gave Himself for me,' of whom each missive speaks in simplest language. These servants, these tradesmen with their Christmas boxes, those cabmen on the stand, the workmen whom we have sought to reach, the women toiling in the adjacent laundry, these lodging-house servants who have little of the sunshine of kindness in their lives, the railway porters at the station, the tenantry on the home estate, the 'hands' in the large business house for whose souls we have longed, the people in that lonely hamlet, the sick, not only in hospitals, but in their own chambers—these, and many more, would welcome the kindly greeting of 'A Christmas letter for you,' each letter being sent forth as a 'King's messenger.'"

Full particulars of the Christmas Letter Mission Work, and a paper of "Hints to Workers," may be obtained by application (with addressed postal wrapper), to Miss Bewes, Central Secretary, 67, Ladbroke-grove, London, W.; a "specimen packet," price 3d.; a "letter and card packet," price 1s. 6d., or a "complete sample packet," price 4s., may be obtained, post free, by application to the publishers of the mission, Messrs. Hazel, Watson & Viney, 6, Kirby-street, Hatton-garden, London, E.C. Hon. Treasurer, Miss E. Steele Elliott, 66, Mildmay Park, N.

[We have received from Messrs. Hazel & Co. an assortment of specimen cards, letters, &c.; they are most attractively got up, and each convey some message suitable to the Christmas season.—Ed.]

THE THEATRICAL MISSION.

THE New Institute of the Theatrical Mission, in Henrietta-street, Covent Garden, which has been called "Macready House," was opened on Wednesday, last week. A goodly company assembled. Mr. Courthope Todd called attention to the various departments of the Mission, with its one object and aim, the spiritual good of all who came under its influence; he earnestly appealed for help toward the cost of building.

Dr. Monro Gibson, in a five minutes' address, expressed his unfeigned astonishment at the progress made by the Mission. He thought that the efforts of Mr. and Mrs. Todd to foster personal friendship among its members one great secret of its success. Miss Brodie, a liberal donor, declared the room opened, and the friends were invited to adjourn to another room, where a similar ceremony was performed by Mrs. Hans Hamilton. Another five minutes was occupied by Rev. E. Stuart, who gave as good an address to the juveniles as could well be framed, on the different kinds of children mentioned in the Scriptures. He also spoke an encouraging word to visitors and workers.

The remaining act consisted of the opening of the boys' room by Mrs. Shaw Kennedy, after which the company separated, with a request from Mr. Todd, the director, that they would look in occasionally. The premises appear to be well adapted for the Mission.

ITALIAN SOLDIERS.

THE friend of the Italian soldiers, Cavaliere Luigi Capellini, writes that his work in Rome for the winter has commenced well, there being usually about sixty soldiers present every evening at the meetings. The night school and Y.M.C.A. are again at work. At G—— there is a great movement and awakening through a converted soldier and the religious books sent there by Signor Capellini, and he is also keeping up an influence for good over the young converts who are with the military expedition in Africa, by sending them letters and books from time to time.

A non-commissioned officer in the Artillery, who up to the time of his being obliged by the Conscription to enter the army, was studying for the Roman Catholic priesthood, having now been converted for several years, is about to refuse to become an officer, and thus make the army his profession, in order to carry out his long-cherished desire of studying so as to become an efficient worker for Christ in Italy.

In August and September Sig. Capellini spent a month in very arduous labour with his colporteur among the large bodies of troops in Piedmont and Lombardy who were assembled for the grand military manœuvres. The expenses of this campaign were so heavy that he is now entirely without means for the current expenses of the mission work in Rome. It is hoped that the friends of the work will remember its need at this time, and also that visitors to Rome will go and see the work for themselves. There is a meeting every evening about 6 p.m., in Via Coppille, 28. The address of the treasurer in England is, Miss M. C. Bryce, Gordonston, York-road, Bournemouth.

PASTEUR THEODORE MONOD wishes to introduce to his friends in England, M. Amédée de Resnes, who would give elementary lessons in French and Italian, and would be particularly useful to persons seeking to exercise themselves in conversational French. His address is 10, Alexander-street, Westbourne-park, W.

AMERICAN EXPERIENCES.

WITH MR. MOODY.

OUR lines have fallen to us in pleasant places since we landed in America. Our first fortnight was spent at the pleasant home of Mr. Moody, amid some of the loveliest scenery in New England. But to our eyes, beyond the charm of its situation was the sight of the three splendid and substantial buildings which adorn this now well-known spot, and which comprise the Young Ladies' Seminary. It was our privilege to address these young people again and again during our stay at Northfield, as also the young men in the equally well-ordered school at Mount Hermon, on the opposite side of the Connecticut River. A happier lot of young faces could not be seen all the world over. Many of the students are already won for Christ, and are only waiting a fuller furnishing before they go forth into his great harvest-field as missionaries of the Cross.

We were permitted to spend two Sundays with Mr. Moody; one in Orange, New Jersey, and the other in Lynn, near Boston. Vast and eager crowds gathered at every meeting, while our brother preached with all his wonted power, and many souls seemed to be gathered in. Nowhere are Mr. Moody and Mr. Sankey more honoured than in their own country. Mr. George Needham has done splendid work in Lynn by following up Mr. Moody's services, seeking to lead the converts on to a fuller knowledge of the truth.

BOSTON.

From Northfield, refreshed by the loving hospitality shown us by Mrs. Moody and her friends, we went into Boston, a beautiful city in many respects—clean, and well ordered. It is blessed with some earnest and faithful ministers of Christ, but Unitarianism and Universalism largely prevail. Spiritualism, too, has its chief seat here. We noted no less than twelve different "seances" advertised for one Sunday evening. A magnificent temple devoted to the spiritualistic cult has recently been erected, and stands ready to be opened.

While in the city we were the favoured guests of Dr. and Mrs. Gordon. Dr. Gordon is a rare man, a faithful, single-hearted minister of Christ, sound in the faith, and sweet in spirit. His preaching is quiet but fervent, full both of majesty and tenderness. He presides over a church numbering eight hundred members; is a Baptist and Pre-millenniarian, and withal, a successful soul winner. During Mr. Moody's three months' campaign in Boston his church was used for after-meetings. He, and his gifted and devoted wife, laboured night and day with enquirers, and received their reward; upwards of three hundred were taken into the fellowship of the church as the fruit of their efforts.

Many and many a blessed tale had they to tell of remarkable conversions to God, especially among chief drunkards, some of whom remain with them to this day, blessed trophies of redeeming grace. We were greatly refreshed both by the public ministry and the private conversation of this dear brother, and shall long remember with delight our pleasant sojourn with him. Other ministers in the city showed us no little kindness, especially Mr. Giffard, of the Second Baptist Church, and Mr. Braislin, of Newton Centre. We preached in some of the churches, and at Tremont Temple, a beautiful and capacious hall in the heart of the city, where Joseph Cook's Monday lectures are given. Some 2000 people gathered on the Sunday afternoon, and listened to the word of life from the lips of a stranger.

WELLESLEY COLLEGE.

We also visited Wellesley College, about fifteen miles west of Boston, and were privileged to address 500 students with the professors (also ladies). Its founder, Mr. Durant, was an earnest Christian and an intimate friend of Mr. Moody. The college is undenominational, but distinctly and positively Christian in its influence, discipline, and instruction. The systematic study of the Bible is pursued through all its courses. Worship in the chapel is attended daily by teachers and students. The Sunday services are conducted by ministers of different denominations.

NEW YORK AND BROOKLYN.

Leaving Boston we came to New York by what is called the "Fall River route," in the steamship Pilgrim, a vast floating mansion, elegantly fitted with commodious cabins, so different to the narrow pens into which we had to crawl on board the City of Chester when crossing the Atlantic. Still, a ship is a ship, and though we had to encounter no stormy wind nor swelling wave, we were very glad to get on shore once more.

At New York, or rather at Brooklyn, we met with a hearty welcome from our good friend Dr. Pentecost. He is now so widely known in England that I am tempted to believe a few notes of a well-spent Sunday with him would be acceptable to your readers. The church in which he ministers is a compact and convenient building, seating from ten to eleven hundred people, with a spacious school hall, or rather "parlour" as they prefer to call it here, with other rooms attached, a pastor's study, &c. The morning service commenced at 10.30. The singing, led by Mr. Stebbins, was fairly congregational, very much so compared with many churches where a professional choir does most of the singing while the people sit and listen.

The subject of discourse was

A REVIVAL: WHAT IT IS, AND WHY IT IS NEEDED.

The text was Heb. iii. 2. I will transcribe a few sentences, though I need not say they lose much by passing through pen and ink.

I. What is a Revival?—A revival means a bringing to life that which is dead or seems to be dead, a quickening of the life of the Church, and a bringing into spiritual life those who are not saved. What showers are to the earth so a revival is to the Church and to a thirsty and parched world. It is a mighty coming into the hearts of Christian men of the Spirit of God, making unseen things, which are usually so vague and difficult of apprehension, solid and substantial realities. The work of the Holy Spirit cannot be brought about by anything else but the Holy Spirit. The Spirit of God is the power—the life of God operating on the spiritual nature of men. Three months of drought in summer is enough to destroy a whole harvest, and yet it is nearly thirty years since we have seen in this country a general revival of religion. There have been local revivals, just as we have local showers, but since the years 1857 to 1860 the conscience of the great mass of the people of this country has not been aroused. From observation and present experience, we are, I believe, farther off from a revival than ever, and this, not from the point of God's readiness, but from the condition of the Church. Revivals of religion are God's witnesses. Heaven-sent revivals, energised by the Spirit of God, do more to convince the Atheist than any amount of debate and discussion. Men who have long and successfully resisted every appeal and argument in the direction of Christian evidence, have, through the influence of some mighty work of grace, been brought in an instant to their knees. Fine churches, costly edifices, able, logical, polished, and cultured ministers, with the intensest activity—we may have all this, and yet there may be no conversions to God. We may have churches in which are men representing the greatest wealth and the highest social position, yet no conversions; innumerable religious organisations, magnificent machinery, yet few or no conversions.

II. Why is a revival needed? (1) That we may see our children brought to Christ, and saved from sin, death, and hell. What are a fair education, a good character, and a good position in business, if our sons be not converted to God? What if our daughters be highly educated, accomplished, and well settled in life, if they be not converted to God? (2) To save to God and the Church crowds of backsliders. (3) To vitalise the dormant energies of true Christians. (4) To turn back the awful tide of worldliness and indifference which has set in upon the Church. (5) To strengthen hands and lengthen arms to lay hold of the masses of the unconverted around us.

With many other and like words did the preacher testify and exhort us, to cry with the prophet, "O Lord, revive thy work."

In the afternoon we accompanied our friend to the Academy of Music, a splendid auditorium, where we found between 2000 and 3000 people gathered, a large proportion non-church goers. It was a grand sight to see so many, who but for this special effort would have been unreached. All seats were free, and "no collection," a very rare exception in America. These services cost £20 per Sunday for the rent of the hall alone, Dr. Pentecost and one of his elders taking the entire responsibility. Several remained behind at the close as enquirers. In the evening the large church was filled in every part, and a prayer and testimony meeting followed an earnest and heart-searching discourse on the text, "Except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish." A young Scotchman gave a striking account of his conversion to God after years of dissipation, drawn in by the special services at the Academy of Music.

I trust these notes will serve to stir up some of your readers to pray for the brethren to whom I have referred, and also to give thanks for all the mercy we ourselves have shared since we left home. Journeying from place to place we have seen very much to make us glad as well as much to sadden. Many godly ones whom we have met are sighing and crying for a deep, pure, and widespread revival, but as yet the tokens are faint. In Philadelphia, where we are now staying, special services are going on for young men. Mr. Moody is preaching to great crowds of people in Reading, about 100 miles distant. Earnestly asking your prayers,

I remain, very faithfully yours,

Philadelphia, Nov. 9. FRANK H. WHITE.

REV. W. HASLAM AT TORONTO.

THE mission held in the large and handsome Church of the Ascension has met with much success. The numerous testimonies sent in to the rector, Rev. H. G. Baldwin, of blessings received, prove beyond doubt the fact that the work has been of God. Not only have sinners been convinced of sin, and brought to trust in Jesus, but many believers have been stirred up to greater diligence in service. Those who heard Mr. Haslam will be able to feed upon the word which he so ably divided. The addresses on the "Lord's Coming" were very numerously attended, and evidently had a stirring effect. To various aspects of Christian life and growth, Mr. Haslam has directed the minds and hearts of his hearers, and there is abundant reason to believe that his words were carried home.

Mrs. Haslam's meetings for women were well attended from the beginning. After the first day or two, hundreds of women, of all classes, assembled to listen to the simple message of salvation. Many busy Marthas were wisely directed, and loving Marys taught, while together they sat and heard the "words of life" spoken by this handmaid of the Lord. The visit to Toronto of these two workers will long be remembered, and their return will be hailed with great pleasure. The friends in Toronto follow them with prayer to Whitby, Port Hope, and Coburg, where they are to hold successive missions.

ALDENHAM INSTITUTE.—The last Report says:—"In every department there has been rapid growth; the membership has greatly increased, the attendance at the Bible-class has much improved, and valuable additions have been made to the library." For the winter session there is issued a syllabus of classes. These include a programme similar to those of the Y.M.C.A.s, with many scientific and technical classes in addition. Bible-classes are held on Sundays and Wednesdays, also religious services. The address of the institute is Goldington-crescent, Somers Town.

Notes and Comments.

WE again remind our readers of the meeting for prayer and humiliation at Mildmay from four to six o'clock on Thursday (this day), and of the two evening meetings at the same place. For particulars, see list of Forthcoming Meetings.

Our next portrait and sketch will be those of Mr. W. J. Orsman, superintendent of the Golden-lane and Hoxton Christian Costermongers' Mission.

We much regret having inadvertently omitted to state that the portraits of Rev. H. Webb-Peploe and Miss F. R. Havergal, given in recent issues, were engraved from copyright photographs by Messrs. Elliot and Fry, of Baker-street, Portman-square, W.

One of the worst features of the present political conflict is the too ready use of the weapon of misrepresentation, not merely by the partisans of candidates for electoral favours, but in too many instances by the candidates themselves. Men who, we are willing to believe, would in affairs of business or everyday life scorn to be anything but truthful, seem nevertheless, for the sake of gaining a passing advantage over an opponent, to readily stoop to the despicable meanness of wresting his words to a meaning which no one of ordinary intelligence would put upon them, and putting into his mouth expressions and sentiments which were never uttered.

The worst feature, perhaps, in the matter is that these distortions and misrepresentations are apparently not made in ignorance. Were this the case, while we should deplore the lack of proper inquiry exhibited, we could acquit the utterers of intentional lying; but the reiteration of charges and misstatements, after their falsity has been shown, deserves the reprobation of every honest man, and cannot be too strongly condemned. We are not referring to one party only; our remarks equally apply to all political parties, for all have, more or less, been guilty of the crime.

The noble band of women in the United States who are fighting Intemperance "for God and home and native land," are waking up to the fact that there is a close relation between the drink habit and the other social crimes that disgrace our modern civilisation. At the recent annual Convention of the National Women's Christian Temperance Union, its gifted and eloquent president, Miss Frances Willard, said:—

> Our department for the suppression of the social evil is as yet inoperative, but I trust we are now ready for an advance. Crimes against women seem to be on the increase everywhere. When we remember the unavenged murder of Jennie Cramer, of New Haven; the acquittal of the ravishers of a cultivated Illinois school teacher; when we reflect that The Pall Mall Gazette says the law is framed to allow men to outrage girls with impunity; that in Massachusetts and Vermont it is a greater crime to steal a cow than to ruin a girl; that in Illinois seduction is not recognised as a crime, it is a marvel not to be explained that we go on the even tenor of our way too delicate, too refined, too prudish to make any allusion to these awful facts. We have been the victims of conventional cowardice too long.

At this interesting Convention an address was given by Mr. William Noble, who appears to be kept busy in his advocacy of Total Abstinence among our American cousins.

In the course of her admirable inaugural address to the Convention, Miss Willard called for a new pledge which we commend to the adoption of Temperance and other Christian workers everywhere:—

> I promise, by God's grace, to say nothing discouraging about the work, and nothing disparaging about the workers.

If this pledge were universally taken and faithfully kept, we should expect the millennium to be near at hand.

We have already announced the issue of the seventh and closing volume of Mr. C. H. Spurgeon's noble and invaluable expository work on the Psalms, THE TREASURY OF DAVID (8s. Passmore & Alabaster). To those who are happily familiar with the previous volumes, no words of commendation are needed; it is a veritable mine of spiritual wealth, into which the generations to come may dig and be enriched. In an early issue we hope to give a portrait of Mr. Spurgeon, when we shall make specimen extracts from his notes on the closing Psalms.

It is stated that "considerable excitement" has been caused in America by Rev. Henry Ward Beecher's sermons on "Evolution and Religion." After perusing portions of them we are not surprised at their effect upon the public mind. Full of dogmatic statement, or mis-statement, without any scientific or logical basis, the utterances lack that backbone which distinguishes all sound argument from mere flabby speculation. In these days when our leading scientists admit the accuracy of the order of creation as recorded in the Bible, it would be amusing if it were not painful to find Mr. Ward Beecher speaking of the first chapter of Genesis as "a poem, not a history."

To the man who could make this grave mistake—a mistake possible only to one unfamiliar with recent discovery—any vagary would be possible, and, therefore, it is not surprising to find the preacher alluding to men, in the "primary stages of existence," as developing in themselves "moral elements," and making themselves capable of comprehending and understanding the moral character of God. Therefore, too, Mr. Beecher finds it possible to refer to the Bible as "this Divine book," and yet to speak of it in another as having "defects" and as containing legends and poetic parables, and to allude to the sun as every morning rolling over fields, forests, flowers, and fruits, "which itself has created."

A recent able writer has characterised that once celebrated volume "The Vestiges of Creation" as "Lamarck and water," but it would puzzle that author to discover with what fluid Mr. Beecher's scientific reading has been diluted. If Chambers's theory of creation is, as it has been defined to be, Lamarck's "theologised, and spoilt in the process," Beecher's theory, to use the words which Herbert Spencer made use of with regard to far nobler opinions, is "one of those illegitimate symbolic conceptions which cannot by any mental process be elaborated into a real conception."

To pass from these boneless and sinewless sermons to Mr. Gladstone's article in The Nineteenth Century on "The Dawn of Creation and Worship," is like turning from the feeble and purposeless utterances of an infant to the refined and moving speech of an educated and cultured man in the plenitude of his powers. In that paper there is at any rate something solid to stand upon, and sensible men will not hesitate in their choice between such a foundation, and that of the shifting mists.

Several correspondents have sent communications with reference to the correct rendering of a stanza in Charles Wesley's hymn, "Jesu, Lover of my soul." It appears that in "The Book of Praise," and other collections, the fourth stanza of the original is accurately given:—

"Thou, O Christ, art all I want
More than all in Thee I find.
Raise me, fallen; cheer me, faint;
Heal me, sick; and lead me, blind."

In the first edition of the collected poetical works of Charles Wesley, the hymn in question contains, however, a verse, the third, which does not find a place in more recent renderings. It is possible that Charles Kingsley may have been familiar with it, and that it may have suggested the little but important change to which we alluded, as the verse runs thus:—

"Wilt Thou not regard my call?
Wilt Thou not accept my prayer?
Lo! I sink, I faint, I fall;
Lo! on Thee I cast my care.
Reach me out thy gracious hand,
While I of thy strength receive;
Hoping against hope I stand,
Dying, and behold I live."

Can anyone tell us if the hymn appears without this verse in the volume of "Hymns and Spiritual Songs" to which John Wesley referred in 1779 as being "far too small"? for we should like to know if its excision had the sanction of the author or of his brother. Neither of them had any hesitation in altering the hymns of Watts and others, often, it must be admitted, for the better; but they strongly objected to any interference with their own compositions. In the preface to the collection published in 1779, John Wesley requested borrowers of his and his brother's compositions to "print them just as they are . . . and not to attempt to mend them, for really they are not able." He went on to say that, if alterations were made, the correct reading should be given in the margin, "that we may no longer be accountable, either for the nonsense or the doggerel of other men." This appeal has been only too frequently disregarded; but, in days when a book like Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Progress" is tampered with to make it suit certain creeds, it is, perhaps, too much to expect that our noble hymns will be left unaltered.

At the same time, the Wesleys were not infallible any more than Dr. Watts. And it would be an unreasonable rule which would oblige us to perpetuate a blemish or else to give up an otherwise beautiful hymn. Hymns, and alterations of them, must be judged upon their merits. If altered for the better, they are the better altered; but alteration without sufficient reason is by all means to be condemned.

The figures published by the Swiss Federal Statistical Bureau reveal grave facts respecting the use of alcohol. A population of whom half are women, and which numbers 2,900,000, consume annually twenty-seven million quarts of brandy, 100 million quarts of beer, and 200 million quarts of wine; and during the last thirty years, while the population has only increased one-sixth, the consumption of brandy has increased from seven million to twenty-seven million quarts.

Can nothing be done to stay the wickedess of the African Drink Traffic? The Basutos are among the noblest and bravest f native races, but they are rapidly perishing hrough this iniquity. Says an African aper :—

> The terrible passion for drink which has seized he Basuto nation is almost unparalleled. If othing is done to stop the unrestricted supply of randy, in a few short years there need be little ear of a Basuto invasion of the Free State. Fire vater will have done its work on the only nation in outh Africa which ever beat the whites in fair fight. t would be more merciful to exterminate them at nce than to let them become extinct, like the merican Indians, through the prolonged torture f physical and moral deterioration.

The Archbishop of Canterbury, in his rimary charge recently given at Tunbridge, poke of Evening Communions as tending to familiarity along with diminishing responibility," and said that both Evening Communions and the habit of attending at the ucharist without receiving it "belonged in heir origin to the weak ages of the Church." he utterance gave great pleasure to the itualists, though their journals took excepion to non-communicating attendance being laced "on almost as low a level as evening elebrations."

The Bishop of Rochester has, however, eld a Visitation more recently, and in his harge, Bishop Thorold defended Evening ommunions, and, after advising anyone inuenced by the faintest suspicion that an Evening Communion necessarily implies rreverence to visit the Church of St. Giles' n the evening of the last Sunday of the month, he added: "I am mistaken if they will not be impressed with the pathetic easonableness and the blessed solemnity of hat quiet holy service, as they have seldom een impressed before."

Commenting upon these simple words, the eading Ritualist journal says :—

> It seems it was his Lordship, when at St. Giles, who invented this miserable innovation, and he ustifies it on the plea that otherwise wives of working men, domestics, and many medical men, would be virtually excommunicated.

It is painful to read these words, for we now other churches than that of St. Giles' where the Lord's Supper after evening service s largely attended, not only by the poorer eople but also by large numbers of those who love to finish their day's work for the Master in gathering around the memorials f his death.

A correspondent sends a communication on Religious Luxury," in which he calls attenion to the deadly results of mere pleasureseeking and self-pleasing in things religious. He asks if the multiplication of conferences may not foster this spirit, which leads people o prefer the pleasures of spiritual excitement to the toil of true service. The writer urther suggests that the very first duty of many, who now pass as very spiritual people, s to deny themselves much of the luxury of eligious meetings, that they may go out to oil, to fight, and to endure, in the world's reat battlefield.

We think this warning is not unneeded. We have met with some painful examples of he pernicious effects of religious dissipation. Many become feverish and unsatisfied, restless nd excitable, full of the profession of selfenial, but too weak and selfish to practise it. We would prescribe for such sickly souls a trictly practical regimen, say one pound of uty to every ounce of doctrine. The very spirit of religion is love, and love involves habitual denial of self. The spirit of self-pleasing and luxury is not less selfish because exercised in reference to spiritual things; it is only more subtle and dangerous.

But though we say this, we believe there is danger on the other side. Ours is pre-eminently a bustling age, one in which Christian workers fail more through lack of quiet thought, and reading, and prayer, than through the opposite. For one who is unhealthy through spiritual indigestion, there are two whose complaint is famine fever. We think, therefore, that those conferences, to which people gather, often in their holiday season, and with the set purpose of waiting upon God, are true aids to the life of the Church. We can personally testify to very large and practical results coming from such gatherings. At the last we attended, the spirit of practical consecration to Christ's cause was unmistakable. In proof, more than a dozen of those present, and the conference was not a large one, publicly declared themselves ready to go to the ends of the earth to preach the Gospel. It would be well if more of the Lord's people would hear his voice:—"Come ye yourselves apart, and rest awhile."

Mr. Grant Allen, whose recent book on "Darwin" out-Darwins Darwin, has contributed an article to The Pall Mall Gazette on the late Dr. W. B. Carpenter. Dr. Carpenter, it is said, was unable to follow younger men in their evolutionary doctrines, and the fact is attributed to his Unitarianism. It will astonish Unitarians to be told that their creed fosters an orthodox fixity, and they will probably find another reason why the veterans of science have refused to follow the wandering lights of their scientific juniors.

Entirely contradictory theories between two eminent geologists suggest much. Professor Geikie says the mountains of Scotland are due to denuding and other agencies from above. The Duke of Argyll attributes their formation to earth movements from beneath. Such a remarkable divergence does not say much for the modern dogma respecting the certainties of science.

The Spectator has a passage on "The Strength of a Church," which is very timely and deserves to be pondered :—

> The strength of a Church consists, first and before all, in the higher motives with which she can touch the heart of man, in the faith which she can inspire, in the peace which she can bestow, in the love which she can shed abroad, in her power to unite those within her, in her power to attract those who are outside, in her victories over natural pride, in her successful diffusion of a true humility, in the ease with which she kindles a self-distrustful zeal, in the meekness with which her children bear misfortune and the gladness with which they welcome arduous duties, in the fortitude with which she imbues us towards external catastrophes, and the genius which she fosters for turning seeming calamities into spiritual blessings.

Dr. Moxon's article on "Faith Healing" in the current Contemporary Review is very inadequate as a fair treatment of the subject. He asks, "How can we have faith contrary to what we know?" This question, he contends, is the vital one of Faith Healing. He founds "faith" on reality. "It is realisation on a world of truths." This idea runs through the article, and, according to it, Noah could not have had faith in a flood of waters, nor Abraham that he would receive safe guidance on a way he knew not, and to a country unknown. We have by no means an objection to a lay opinion on these matters, but let Scripture statements be regarded.

The argument of Dr. Moxon and of many others is an old one, and goes in the direction of the impossibility of miraculous interposition, and this shuts us up to the natural. Many of us in our sufferings pray for what we have not realised. We leave methods with God. At the same time, if the Lord's teachings in this age are that Christianity now possesses proofs and evidences which ought to suffice, and ought to convince and impress without miraculous signs, it becomes us to accept this teaching, and to pray in submission to it. We must, however, distinguish between miracles as credentials of the truth of the Gospel, and gifts of healing, or healing in answer to prayer.

A TERRIBLE STORY.

MAY I write a word of caution to parents and guardians of the young, in connection with the season of the year, and the increase there will be in travelling next month?

Young girls and young servants should not be allowed to travel alone, unless it is absolutely imperative, and in any case should be carefully warned not to speak to any strangers, male or female.

Not long since, two little girls, aged nine and twelve years, were invited by an uncle in London to pay him a visit. Arrangements were made for him to meet them by a certain train at the Paddington Station. Their parents accompanied them to the train when they left, and they arrived safely at the London terminus.

Unfortunately the uncle was delayed at the last moment, and did not reach the station until all the passengers had dispersed. The children were nowhere to be found. On making inquiry, it was ascertained that a woman dressed as a lady in black had been overheard speaking to them and inquiring for whom they were waiting. She represented that the uncle had been unable to come himself, and had sent her to meet them. The unsuspecting children were conveyed away, and have not been heard of from that time to this, though every effort has been put forth to trace them.

May I ask the prayers of your readers for the heart-broken parents, distracted with grief? Well may we shudder and weep when we think to what those tender children may have been subjected, and what they are now suffering.

Now that telegrams can be sent for sixpence, let each child or servant sent away on a journey be provided with a telegram written out and stamped, to be handed to one of the porters if the expected friends are not forthcoming, and let the children be instructed to wait until someone comes in reply to the telegram.—Yours,

HENRY SOLTAU.

24, Wellington-square, Hastings.

[Children ought not to travel alone. The recent revelations have added to the difficulty of kidnapping children, and therefore to the boldness and cunning of the kidnappers. Constant watchfulness and care are indispensable, for every child is in incessant danger. Will friends in the provinces secure, as far as possible, the publication of the foregoing incident in local papers, so as to put other parents on their guard?—ED.]

GOSPEL WORK IN DUBLIN.—DEAR SIR,—There is a district in the suburbs of this city, inhabited by a colony of mechanics and such like. It having been reported that many of these were being brought over to Romanism, I, with an assistant, visited the place. This resulted in our opening a mission-house, to reach all creeds and classes. The Lord has so far blessed the effort that the room in which the meetings are held is quite inadequate to hold the numbers who wish to attend. We desire to obtain an iron room to hold about 200, and for this we ask the help of your readers.—Yours very faithfully,

(REV.) HENRY FISHE.

WORKERS at the HOME OF INDUSTRY.

THE monthly meeting, held on Wednesday last week, was a time of much spiritual refreshment to the workers gathered. A small party of bright, happy children were present. Miss Macpherson occupied a short time in giving some interesting facts concerning them. She also read the following portions of a letter from Mrs. Merry, of Stratford, Ontario:—

"We are just parting with Fred Auvache, who is accepted as missionary for a station in India, by the Canadian Baptist Missionary Society. He feels that he is called as a forerunner, and that many more of our young men, now at high schools diligently pursuing their studies, will follow him. May it be so, to the praise of our God, and in answer to our years of prayer and faithful toil. As they have been rescued, who so well fitted to become rescuers of sin-stricken souls? Graham Saunders and others are pressing on.

"The convention of ladies who met at London, Ontario, this autumn, was a season of much refreshment. The whole tone of Christian women's work is being raised in Canada. May the Holy Spirit's infilling for service be more sought for; leaving the brethren the more open fighting and public work, whilst as women we see to the establishing and carrying on of the Bands of Hope, and arousing Christians to their personal duty. Each sister resolved to be more helpful to the others, and as the Lord led them forth, to go farther afield to the rescue of others.

"During the past month, nine of the elder girls have been spending their yearly holiday with us, and each one has returned to her place with a deeper longing in her heart to follow Jesus more closely. We bear you all up daily in prayer. Remember us in visiting the towns around Stratford."

Miss Perks, of the Soldiers' Home, Winchester, gave a few details of the work there. She told how, at one time, she had the privilege of speaking to three hundred soldiers, not one of whom had two arms and two legs. A soldiers' class is held to teach the Christian soldiers how to teach the way of salvation. There is also a weekly meeting for the soldiers' children called "The Pilgrim Band." Much blessing has attended this last effort, and some who have been brought to the Lord through this Band are now working in connection with it.

Rev. Chas. A. Fox gave a most helpful word on the "fulness of blessing" founded on John i. 16. "Of his fulness," &c. He took three points: (1) How to prepare for the fulness of God. (2) How to get it. (3) How to keep it. God gives in detachments—"of his fulness." Every believer has some of the fulness of God. No believer has all. God gives in combination ("all we"). There must be brotherhood, sympathy, union. So many are frost-bitten; do not know how to shake hands. Gethsemane is alone, crucifixion is alone, death and everything about death must be alone; but at Pentecost brethren are in sympathy with one another.

1. How to prepare for the fulness. (a) By being emptied. How can this be done? By prayer and confession. By the exercise of faith. Take a promise and claim it. (b) The way of preparation. The capacity must be enlarged. All that is not of the Lord must be turned out to make room for Him. The little frictions of every-day life are the twisted scourge that He uses. Another thing is necessary. Nearness to the Lord. There may be a full, overflowing fountain of living, bright water, and there may be an empty vessel; but unless that empty vessel be put near to the fountain, it cannot be filled.

2. How to get the fulness. Definite waiting upon God and hanging upon Him in the spirit of Jacob of old: "I will not let Thee go except Thou bless me." Then venture out into the great deep of God's love. Surrender all. Do you know what surrender is? It is leaning over a little too far, so that you cannot get back, and you fall "safe into the arms of Jesus."

3. How to keep the fulness of blessing. By death and faith. Just as we keep in the place of death, we keep the blessing. A dead man does not challenge the will of God. Then, faith. What is it? I do not wonder that men puzzle over it. It is a great empty void for you to fill. Let every concern of our being be opened to the wondrous inflowing of God. Shall we be submerged in the great, deep waves of the Holy Ghost, carrying us whither He would have us go, far out to sea? Then we shall have to answer as the Apostles did of old, "When I sent you forth, lacked ye anything? and they said nothing." That is my Jesus.

The meeting closed with a solemn season of prayer.

MR. AITKEN IN AMERICA.

SIR,—We are having much interesting work here, and feel that we have reason to thank God for the blessing that has already rested upon our efforts. My object in accepting the invitation to America was to further in the Episcopal Church in the States that mission work which has been so useful in the Church of England, and I do think we have reason to hope that this result will be attained.

We commenced our work by holding "a Retreat" for the clergy at a lovely spot on the Hudson, which bears the name of Garrisons. It was attended by about eighty clergymen of all schools of thought, and extended from the Tuesday afternoon to the Friday morning. I delivered four addresses a day, and there was much earnest prayer and heart-searching. A very solemn, earnest tone pervaded the gathering, and the hearty expressions of thankfulness to God at the end of this season of spiritual exercises was such as to leave no shadow of doubt on my mind that God had been indeed giving us a very real blessing. I may say I was kept up till long after midnight on the Thursday night, in private conference with brethren in the ministry who were anxious to get all the spiritual help they could out of the occasion, and from one whose public utterances they had received in such an excellent spirit. It was most profoundly refreshing, and, indeed, I may say quite affecting. I was deeply touched and impressed, both by the earnestness and the candour and humility exhibited by many of these my reverend brethren.

Filled with gratitude to God, we proceeded to commence our work upon the following Saturday, at the little city of Newburgh (population 20,000). Here, at first, strong prejudices had to be encountered, and difficulties had to be faced. We found ourselves swimming against wind and tide the first week, but with the second Sunday all seemed to begin to change. As the second week advanced; we began to find that the little place was stirred to its centre, and that, without much outward demonstration, a deep and extensive work was going forward. Towards the close, testimony came pouring in from all sides of spiritual blessing received. We greatly rejoiced at seeing "reinforcements advancing," as our second week drew to its close, in the persons of our beloved friends, Messrs. Moody and Sankey, as we felt persuaded that they would be able to gather up much fruit that had not fallen to our sickle, but that was by that time ripe for harvesting. We had the joy of attending the first meeting of their campaign, and dear brother Moody, after a very characteristic address from himself upon Bible-reading, sent me to the front with an exhortation to take "a clear hour!"

Here also (at Brooklyn) we began with a day of small things. The Episcopal Church here, as you know, occupies a very different position from that which belongs to it in England, and has not the same means of commanding popular attention. Many Episcopalians are very shy of the movement, and regard it as a most perilous and undignified innovation, while the outside public neither know nor care much about what goes on in any single religious community. However, though the response to the mission was not very prompt and general, a steady quiet work has been going on from the first, and now things are looking very cheering and hopeful Many are receiving a blessing, and my dea brother, the rector, as the sower, and we, a reapers, are rejoicing together. It was encouraging to see Drs. Pentecost, Talmage, Fulton and several other prominent men of differen denominations showing their sympathy by thei presence to-night.

I am much distressed at the turn events hav taken in the Armstrong trial. While I regret that Mr. Stead should have acted indiscreetly I am full of admiration of his courage an determination, and feel we owe him a deep deb of gratitude. As a token of my strong feeling may I ask you to add the enclosed trifle to hi Defence Fund. I have not the honour of Mr Stead's acquaintance, but I should like him t know how much I sympathise with him in hi gallant effort to grapple with a horrible evil.— Yours very faithfully,

Brooklyn, Nov 9. W. Hay M. H. Aitken.

CONTINENTAL AND FOREIGN NOTES.

THE FISKE JUBILEE SINGERS are about t visit Australia.

A RESCUE MISSION to the streets and lane of Melbourne has been started by the Episcopa Church there, with Bishop Moorhouse as a prim mover.

REV. DR. BEARD, of the American Church Rue de Berry, is about to leave Paris, having bee appointed secretary to the Missionary Society i America. His departure will be universally re gretted.

MR. JOHN PAMMENT has removed fro Dawson, Co. Montana, to Washongal, Clark's Co. Washington Territory, U.S.A. This field of labou he writes to us, is more thickly populated, and th work will be harder; he desires fellowship i prayer from old friends in London.

PARIS.—Lord Radstock and Colonel Pashko have inaugurated in one of the McAll Mission Hall a series of meetings, more especially intended fo the employés and tradesmen of the neighbourhoo Those gentlemen go into shops and houses an invite the people to attend the meetings; if possib they enter into a religious conversation with them The meetings are very hopeful.

COREA.—A large part of the New Testamen has been translated into the Corean vernacula while for the educated and learned of the land th Chinese version supplies the want. A nativ Christian acts as colporteur, and during his tw years of service he has brought to the missionar more than seventy men who desired baptism. I the interior of the land the Gospel is spreading i a gratifying manner.

THE SCRIPTURES.—About thirty years ag the translation of the Bible into Arabic was begu by the American Mission in Beyrout; now th work is completed, and by those who know it i pronounced to be a very good and careful transla tion. The Catholic Church, which has considerabl influence in Syria, finding it impossible to withhol the Bible from the people, has obtained forma permission to allow of its use. This is a step unexpected progress.—Anzeiger.

CHILDREN'S SCRIPTURE UNION.—Portions f the ensuing week:—Nov. 29, Exod. xvi. 11—26 Nov. 30, xvi. 27—36; Dec. 1, xvii. 1—16; De 2, xviii. 1—12; Dec. 3, xviii. 13—27; Dec. 4, xi 1—13; Dec. 5, xix. 16—25.

EARLY CLOSING.—Considerable activity ha been displayed by the Early Closing Associatio during the past two months in promoting the move ment in the North of London. We recently calle the attention of our readers to the formation of th Holloway and Finsbury-park branch of the Asso ciation. The committee, consisting of the leadin employers of the district, have worked most ener getically to secure a general 8 o'clock closing, an their efforts have been rewarded with marke success. Branches of the Association have bee formed at Islington, and at Stamford-hill, with view of joining the Holloway and Finsbury-pa tradesmen in the 8 o'clock movement. The youn people are most anxious to make good use of t leisure time afforded them, and it is anticipate that large numbers of them will avail themselves the many advantages for their improvement offere them by the Y.M.C.A.

THE PRESENT MORAL CRISIS.—2.

By ELLICE HOPKINS.

BEFORE we pass out beyond the circle of our own home, one word about our care of ur own servants. Mr. Merrick, the chaplain f Middlesex prison, made a computation, that ut of 3076 outcast and criminal women and irls who came before him, 1539 had been omestic servants—in other words, had passed rom under our hands into the lowest degradaion. Mr. Horsley, the chaplain of Clerkenwell, oes not hesitate to put down the British mistress s one of the chief causes of immorality among irls. There is verily some great fault in us nistresses that it is the servant class that most argely feeds the outcast class in England. Does ot the root of the evil lie in our want of human elations with our servants, that though we are ound up in one household, and ought to be one amily in Christ, we have often no common life? ertainly those who, like myself, have succeeded n establishing thoroughly human relations with heir servants, will agree with me that the most ouching devotion they have ever met with in fe has been from this often decried class.

Now I am not going to indulge in any vague iatribes against either mistresses or servants; have no panacea to offer, but only a great rinciple to urge; and that is, "mother" the oung servant girls under your care as you ould do your own. Do not look on them as a istinct breed to your own girls, but remember hat "one touch of nature makes them kin." If e would bestow one half of the individual hought on them that we bestow on our own irls, the same thought for instance on providing afe and innocent recreation for them and making hem happy, the same thought that they should ot be entirely without the society of young en any more than we should expect our own irls to be content to be, and yet the same loving atchfulness over them, subject of course to the rear conditions of their rank of life; if we llowed no late hours at night in the streets, if e interested them in our Christian work and ade them our beloved fellow-workers in our ork for women and girls, and in return took an terest in their concerns and in their home folk, he little sister who is coming on for service and o whom we could give a little training in our ouse and see that she has a good start in life, he married brother's or sister's little sickly child hat would be the better for our more airy rooms nd better food, the dear mother and father at ome for whom a little gift could be provided on he Christmas tree or among the New Year resents;—would not these deeper and more uman relations with our servants in great easure solve the problem?

Yet I know some calling themselves Christian omen, who, when they go off on their summer oliday with their family, think nothing of eaving their young servant girls, even when here are men servants in the house, with no older erson to look after them. I know families here the young men regularly return to town or part of the week, and are alone in the house ith only young servants, with no mistress to are for them or any older woman to observe the ost ordinary rules of propriety. I know ladies f very mature charms, who will have out the oung servant-girl at night to fetch them from he evening party, though heaven knows the misress is more fit to protect the girl than vice versâ. know houses in Scotland where all the servants, en and women, sleep on the basement floor, ith an empty story between them and their aster and mistress, and where orgies are held hile the heads of this Christian household are eacefully asleep with their brains stuffed full of he foolishest dreams; nor have I ever heard of master and mistress thinking it sufficient cause or changing their house that it is so constructed s to render it impossible to fulfil their responsiilities as the heads of a household. And having hown ourselves thus cruelly careless about the ouls and bodies of the young girls entrusted to our care, then, like that uncomfortable woman in Proverbs, "we wipe our mouth, and say we have done no harm." It is really not our fault, servants are such a hopeless lot now-a-days—there's no doing anything with them.

But beyond our own home—"the place of peace," where we are all-powerful—how can we guide this great current of awakened feeling into fruitful channels? How can we women exercise the divine motherhood within us in saving the children of our land?

I come, therefore, to my fourth practical point. Let us see that the new law for the protection of the young does not remain a dead letter in the place where we live. We have paid a great price for it; let us see that that price is not paid in vain.

I believe myself that these offences against children can be stamped out. They are thoroughly un-English; and now that we have a strong law to deal with them from without, if we can only get a stronger love to grapple with them from within, we can wipe off England's saddest and sorest blot. I am simply amazed at the strength and thoroughness of the Act. Ten years would not have enabled us to get such a law under ordinary circumstances. But a hundred years may never bring us again such a tide of popular feeling for getting the law worked as we have now.

Now here we can each of us take three practical steps.

First, you can get it known. Once known it will act largely as a deterrent. Send for "Summary of the New Law," which I have worded very carefully from an abstract Mr. Stead drew up, and have had published as a leaflet (Hatchards, Piccadilly). Possibly you are not able to do much work outside the house. Then make it your work to get down a lot of these leaflets and send it to the clergy for their district visitors to circulate in their districts; or give them to Scripture readers and mission women. Order from the same firm, some copies of "A Homely Talk about the New Law, addressed to Fathers and Mothers," which I have just published, and read it at your mothers' meetings, and circulate it in your districts. Get the Act for the protection of the young known, and enlist the hearts of the working folk on its side by showing them how it upholds their parental rights and protects their defenceless girls.

Secondly, set to work and get a Vigilance Association formed in the town where you live, if there is not one already. Begin by getting down some of the National Vigilance Association papers (Office, 36, The Strand), in addition to the two papers I have mentioned; if possible get some well-ascertained facts, such as young girls under sixteen harboured in a den of infamy, &c, that come under the new Act. A town missionary or the head of the police, if he is a good man, or sometimes the agent of the Charity Organisation Society, will probably give you useful information. Then, after earnest prayer, go to your clergyman or to any influential layman you think would be likely to stir in it. Do not mind its not being a pleasant subject. Say to yourself, "It is to save the children, and in Christ's name I must stick at nothing." Let us be too absorbed in the thought of saving our young girls to give so much as a thought to ourselves. In forming the Vigilance Association, it may be better that a few older women be appointed to serve on it. I am not particularly fond of mixed committees or mixed meetings on this subject; but, as in this case it concerns the protection of young girls, it is a question whether a topsy-turvy world of fathers and no mothers will work; whether "Flyman Joe," our great Brighton speaker, was not right when he said to me, "Miss, you will do nothing without our female brethren. One female is worth ten men."

But if the feeling is too strong against a mixed Vigilance Committee, then, at least, see that a Ladies' Association for the Care of Young Girls is formed, and that a branch of it works in connection with the Men's Vigilance Association to do the part of the work that only women can do. Above all, see that a paid officer is appointed to the Vigilance Association, a man with some knowledge of detective work, who will ascertain the number of young girls under the protected age harboured in disorderly houses, as well as get evidence in all cases of offences against the young. If the town where you work is a small one, several small neighbouring towns can club together to employ an officer for working the new Act between them, and so very materially lessen the expense. But on an officer being appointed depends all the efficiency of a Vigilance Association.

Thirdly and lastly, we must supplement the law by a dead-lift effort to raise the standard of our dear working mothers on the whole subject, and get them to bestow more care on their girls, and their boys, too, for that matter. We must make the new Law a great educator. We must try and get our people to lead a more human life, and educate from within to a longing for better things, while we hope that legislation will improve the dwellings from without. Once for all, we must get rid of this sky-high Christianity of ours, with its head in the clouds and its feet in the intolerable mud, and come down to them and stand by their side, and enter into their difficulties. For God's sake, don't let us us preach at them. That white-chokered Satan seems to have got into our very bones, and pretty nearly to destroy all sweet human relations between us and the poor. Feel for them in their endless difficulties. Let us remember that we have not succeeded so well with our own sons that we can afford to be hard on them for their failure with their girls. The terrible statements I have quoted from Dr. Duke surely prove that. And I make bold to say that a House of Commons composed of the sons of working women would contrast favourably in moral tone with the House of Commons composed of the sons of upper-class mothers. I question whether a coarse jocular nickname for the men who degrade children would have been bandied about in the lobby of the House of Commons whilst the Criminal Law Amendment Bill was passing, if working-men representatives had been in the majority. I only know that where there is a body of working men in one of my mass meetings I am sure of the subject being received with deep solemnity and earnestness; it is with the upper class that the risk always lies. Let us ask our dear working women to pray for us, that we may bring up our sons to be the natural protectors of the defenceless girls of the poor, and to fight this base and cowardly evil—this wholesale sacrifice of the unprotected daughters of the people, and then, in return, let us try and help them in the care of their girls.

(To be concluded.)

REV. HENRY DENING is taking charge of Christ Church, West Kensington-park, for the next six months. Mr. Denning is kindly occupying the place of Rev. C. B. Foy, the senior curate of St. Matthew's with Christ Church, who through illness is taking a sea voyage. The parishioners, on Monday evening last week, in Christ Church vestry, presented Mr. Foy with a purse of £120 towards his expenses, and the vicar, Rev. William Handcock, commended him in prayer to God.

SEASIDE HOMES AT RAMSGATE AND BROADWATER, in connection with Latymer-road Mission, were established in 1882—4. A short statement has been published setting forth their objects and aims. About 360 children have visited the Homes, "and, under God's blessing, most of them have taken a new lease of life in consequence." The yearly cost of the Homes is £1000, to cover which a number of regular subscribers is desired. The Report, or collecting cards, will be forwarded on application to Mr. Macaulay, hon. sec., Latymer-road Mission, Notting-hill, W.

WEST BRIGHTON.—On Sunday, November 15, at the afternoon Bible-reading in the Lecture hall of the Young Women's Christian Institute, Holland-road, the members of the Young Women's Bible-classes, which number now 220, presented to Mr. G. T. Congreve and Mrs. Congreve, president and secretary, two portraits on porcelain, with an affectionate address, which was read by Miss M. E. Wolfe. One hundred and sixty-seven members were present. Bible-readings are conducted by Mr. Congreve at the Institute on Thursday evenings and on Sunday afternoons, preceded by a prayer meeting of the young women in the library.

Letters to the Editor.

CHRISTIANS AND POLITICS.

DEAR SIR,—Your correspondent "T." can obtain from Fletcher & Son, Norwich, a tract, "The Christian and Politics," "fully setting forth the true doctrine of Scripture" on this very important subject.
S. R.

DEAR SIR,—In the midst of the excitement of political questions there seems to be a danger that Christians should, like Jehoshaphat, "go down to Ahab," and by contact with the world for common objects should lose their communion with God, and consequently be as "salt that has lost its savour, and is trodden under foot of man."

The Apostle said the "weapons of our warfare are not carnal, but mighty through God to the pulling down of strongholds."

If the people of God in Judah had heeded the warning voice of God by Jeremiah, "Cursed is the man that maketh flesh his arm and [as a consequence] whose heart departeth from the Lord," they might have been able to "abide under the shadow of the Almighty," instead of being taken captive to Babylon, where they hung up their harps and wept.—Yours for Christ's sake,

Paris, Nov. 20. RADSTOCK.

ELECTION.

DEAR SIR,—You say truly that "a little attention to the subject of Election, conducted in a brotherly and courteous spirit, will do good and not harm."

As one who was once opposed to the doctrine in question, I should like to state how this opposition was removed, as others may possibly feel the same difficulties that I did.

I used to think that election was a doctrine of exclusion, a hindrance rather than a help to souls coming to Christ; a barrier which stood in the way of those who otherwise might of their own freewill "fly for refuge to lay hold upon the hope set before them."

But a different view of the case was presented in a sermon I heard from an aged minister of Christ, who, in reference to the words, "compel them to come in" (Luke xiv. 23), said something to this effect: "Election does not prevent the Gospel being free to all. What it does prevent is the Gospel being rejected by all. The invitation goes forth to all: 'Come, for all things are now ready,' but none will come; 'Ye will not (do not wish to) come to Me, that ye might have life' (John v. 40). Election is God's provision that his table shall not be empty; that some at least shall come, and have cause hereafter to praise not only the bounty which spread the feast, but also the kindness which drew them in, unwilling as they were to come."

From that time I have been led to see that what lies at the root of the whole question is the truth so well stated in the 10th Article of the Church of England: "The condition of man after the fall of Adam is such that he cannot turn and prepare himself, by his own natural strength and good works, to faith and calling upon God." If man be, indeed, "dead in trespasses and sins," then nothing less than the power of "God who quickeneth the dead" can raise him. If man be blind, "God who commanded the light to shine out of darkness," can alone enable him to see. God's children are "born not of blood, nor of the will of the flesh, nor of the will of man, but of God." If so, God's foreknowledge of who will turn to Him can hardly be separated from his disposal of their hearts, enabling them so to turn. When the Lord said to Jeremiah (i. 5), "Before I formed thee . . . . I knew thee," it surely means more than that before his birth God foresaw that he would become a prophet. Does not the parallel expression, "I sanctified thee," imply God's consecration of him before his birth to be a prophet, which purpose was in due time effectually carried out?[*]

The encouragement which this doctrine, when rightly understood, affords to all who preach the Gospel, is immense. Happily, all spiritually-minded Christians acknowledge this, practically, by praying, before preaching, that God would Himself convert souls. I am sure Dr. Pentecost would attach as much importance to this as I would, however opposed he may be to it when put in the shape of the doctrine of Election. But I own that I would as soon think of going to a cemetery and wasting precious time in the hopeless task of calling upon the dead to rise, as I would in preaching the Gospel to those who are "dead in trespasses and sins," if I did not believe in God's power put forth with his word to raise the dead; a power I need not fear to invoke, as if my doing so interfered with his purpose, for my prayer may be one of the links in the chain of his purpose; a power which opened the heart of Lydia to attend to the things spoken by the Apostle Paul; a power which the Lord Jesus Himself describes thus: "The hour is coming, and now is, when the dead shall hear the voice of the Son of God, and they that hear shall live" (John v. 25).

Earnestly commending to your readers this view of election as an including not an excluding doctrine,

I am, dear Sir, very truly yours,
Dovercourt. HENRY E. BROOKE.

DEAR SIR,—Surely it is looking for arguments in isolated texts, instead of taking the whole Divinely-inspired argument which sometimes runs through whole chapters, which leads to one-sided views.

Romans ix., for instance, was not intended to stand alone; still less can parenthetical verses in it have been designed as weapons for Christians to hurl at one another. The Apostle, in three consecutive chapters, indicates the impartiality of God's mercy towards Jew and Gentile alike, whom He has chosen to save alike by faith, and he uses God's sovereignty as an argument for this. These three thoughts—Divine sovereignty, mercy, and faithfulness—run through the chapters until we reach the magnificent climax—God hath shut them all up together in unbelief. Why? That He might select from them whom He will to save? Nay, "that He might have mercy upon all." No wonder that Paul bursts forth here into one of his irrepressible ascriptions of praise, and uses the "mercies of God" as his plea for surrendered hearts and lives (xii. 1, 2).

Again: there are race election, national election, election to promise and birthright, but no individual election to salvation mentioned in Scripture. Christians are told that they were chosen "to be holy," "predestined to be conformed to the image of his Son;" "elect unto obedience," &c. The fact is, and this I would lay the greatest stress upon, there is only one absolute individual election in Holy Scripture, "The man Christ Jesus, the first-born among many brethren." "Behold mine elect, in whom my soul delighteth," says God the Father, and He says it of no other. When we contemplate our election as no longer an arbitrary selection, but as the natural consequence of union with the only begotten Son, we are able to enjoy the thought without danger of disproportion. The seamless robe of Christ's perfect righteousness is so wide that any soul who creeps under its shelter is safe; that God knew, or (for with the great "I Am" is no division of time) that God knows eternally, every soul sheltered by Christ, is only to say that He is the Omniscient God; to say less than this is to blaspheme His Majesty, as flagrantly as to limit his mercy in Christ is to blaspheme the Sovereignty whose name is Love.
R. E. F.

THE CHURCH ARMY.—MY DEAR SIR,—The opening of our Church Army Training Home in London, and the great increase of the general work oblige me to appeal for help. The success of the movement has been very large, and I believe you will lend us your aid in further reaching the thousands of our countrymen. Testimonials from the Bishops of Durham and Newcastle, and very many others have been given to the value of the work. Our need is great, and we can only extend the work in proportion to the means sent. Our poor working people gave over £4000 during the year, mostly in coppers.—Yours faithfully,

(REV.) W. CARLILE, Hon. Sec.
36, Southampton-street, Strand, W.C.

EDINBURGH MEDICAL MISSIONARY SOCIETY.—This Society sends us their Quarterly Paper, showing that they now enter upon the forty-fifth year of their work. The past year has been "one of real progress and blessing, both at home and abroad." Several students have completed their training, and are going into the foreign field. The mission at Damascus is fairly inaugurated, though there the Jesuits have built and opened a small hospital and dispensary, carrying on their work, says Dr. Mackinnon, upon a scale and in a manner that throws Protestant missions into the shade. Miss Whateley, Miss De Broen, and others contribute to this Quarterly, papers of much interest concerning medical work in their respective missions. Dr. Neve's report of his work at Kashmir, may be obtained on application to the Secretary, Rev. John Lowe, 56, George-square, Edinburgh.

MR. HAMMOND IN LONDON.

DURING the interval between Mr. Hammond's missions at Nottinghill, and at the "Edinboro' Castle," he has been holding meetings with Rev. J. Gossett Tanner, of Emanuel Church, Maida Vale, and with Rev. John Hollway, of the Maynard Congregational Church, Rotherhithe. At the former place crowds of young people and adults assembled every night. Very many professed conversion. Though most of the meetings were more especially for the young, numbers of the adults present were brought under the power of the truth. Mr. Tanner told of a lady of high social position, who, as she sat among the young people, was led to feel her need of a Saviour, and to put her trust in Him humbly and rejoicingly.

On Wednesday afternoon, last week, Mr. Hammond conducted a meeting composed of the pupils and teachers of three young ladies' schools and of seventy-two of the inmates of the Orphanage for Clergymen's Children, connected with Mr. Tanner's church. Much prayer had been offered for the meeting; in a marvellous manner it was to all appearances answered in the case of most of those who were present. Mr. Spiers remarked that it was the "best meeting that had as yet been held."

On Monday week a party of seventy, composed of young converts and grown up people, all of whom had professed the Christian life, connected with the mission at Haddon Hall, Bermondsey, went with Mr. Hammond to Maynard-street Chapel, Rotherhithe. The party was an imposing sight as it passed down the streets to the chapel, and many were induced to enter and remain who had taken no notice of the printed intimations of the services. There were some present who entirely discredited the conversion of young children, and were greatly "exercised," as they termed it, at what they saw before the close of the meeting. They had never seen a service conducted in the same way, or been present at an inquiry-meeting. At the close of the address it was very impressive, to those unacquainted with such procedure, to notice the earnestness with which the Christian people and young converts who came with Mr. William Olney, from Haddon Hall, entered into conversation throughout the inquiry-meeting.

On the following Wednesday evening another meeting was held in connection with Rev. J. Gosset Tanner's congregation. The building was full. Though the service had been announced for adults, as usual the children came in large numbers. So that evening, the boys on one side and the girls on the other, occupied the seats at the sides, while the centre places were filled with grown-up people. There was much good singing by the congregation, for all seem to have become conversant with the hymns in "Gems of Praise." After addresses from Mr. Hammond and Mr. J. Spiers, the inquiry-meeting began, and very many professed to "come to Jesus." That is a formula which is easily apprehended. The simple but momentous language, conveying to the young mind a change of heart, a change of mind—conversion. So far as these children could testify, they gave satisfactory proof of a change of feeling.

Some interesting notes of the work at Maida Vale, from the pen of Mr. Gosset Tanner, reach us too late for insertion.

MR. OPIE RODWAY.—Night after night, at the meetings held in Lower Sloane-street Baptist Chapel, by this evangelist, very many souls have been savingly converted to God. One night as many as twenty-six stood up in response to the question, "Who will start for the kingdom to-night?" Amongst the number brought in are many from our school. Several most interesting cases have come under our notice. One night a man half drunk walked up to the platform and gave two letters to read; one was to the effect he had been brought up under Christian influence, but now was starving and in the devil's clutches, and that he intended to make away with himself that night; the other letter we were asked to send to his wife after his death. He was without coat or waistcoat, having sold them for drink. He has signed the pledge, and appears a changed character.
E. C. COLLINSON.

---

[*] Assuredly it does. We have no desire to minimise the force and significance of foreknowledge. The more enlarged, extended, and deepened are our conceptions of "the depth of the riches both of the wisdom and knowledge of God," the more impossible will it be to make foreknowledge and predestination synonymous terms. The unfathomable and immeasurable knowledge and foreknowledge of God is the infinitely deep and broad foundation of the predestination of those whom He chose in Christ before the foundation of the world.—ED.]

For the Young.

COOPOOSWAMEY.

A CURIOUS but very well written, finely illustrated, and prettily got-up book has just been published by the Religious Tract Society, entitled Every-day Life in South India; or, the Autobiography of Coopooswamey, a converted Hindu. Our young readers will be interested in reading some extracts from it; they will feel thankful that they live in a land where the light of the Gospel shines and chases away the dark superstitions believed in by these Hindus:—

"My earliest recollections are talks that I had with my mother. One that I remember well was about my curious name of Coopooswamey, the meaning of which is 'manure god.' 'Your brother,' my mother told me, 'died in infancy, five years before you were born. The astrologer said that some god or demon was jealous, and when you were born he told us that the only way to save your life would be to avert the envy of the god by giving you an ugly name. You were taken outside the house and laid on the dungheap. Your nose was pierced, and the little silver ring that you now wear was inserted. The astrologer who drew your horoscope told us that you would be exposed to a great danger in your youth, and if you escaped that your life afterwards would be prosperous.

"'Did his words come true?' I asked. 'Yes. Once, when you were about two years old, you gave me a terrible fright. I left you playing by the side of the hedge in front of the house, and when I went to call you, I saw to my horror a large cobra snake winding itself round your body and under your legs. You were laughing, and crowing, and touching its glistening skin with your chubby hands. The serpent seemed pleased with your warmth, and with your gentle childish way of touching it. By a terrible effort I kept from screaming. I knew that if I made a noise or any sudden movement the snake would probably fix its fangs in you, and you would be dead in a few hours. I kept quite still and at length, the cobra observing me, quickly glided into the hedge. Then my screams broke forth as I rushed and caught you in my arms, and pressed you to my bosom. The people came running to know what was the matter. When I told them they raised their hands in wonder.'

"'Did anyone kill the snake?' I asked. 'Kill the snake! We could not do that. It was a god that had come to bless you. Even the shadow of a cobra falling on anyone is a good omen. How lucky then did we consider you, that the god had even embraced and fondled you.'

"'Is that why you so often go to the snake-hole near the house with offerings of eggs, camphor, and other things?' 'Yes, I have not missed a day in visiting the place where I saw the serpent disappear. Sometimes I break some cocoa-nuts there, and sacrifice a fowl in honour of that god that was so gracious to you.' . . . .

"Everywhere in India there are idols; on every high hill and under every green tree. In the temples a light is constantly kept burning in front of the god. By the roadsides, also on the banks of rivers and tanks, there are little earthenware shrines and niches for these saucer lamps. Women nightly replenish, trim and light them, and on festival nights the shrines are ablaze with the twinkling lights.

"'What is the use of lighting the lamps every night? Does the god need the light to see with?' I asked my mother once. 'Little boys should not ask questions,' she replied. 'It is the custom; is not that enough? Our pious ancestors used to do this, and we must do it, too.'

"This reply did not quite satisfy me, so, after thinking the matter over for a long time, I ventured to ask my father. I was a great favourite with him. 'Sir,' said I, 'why do the women light the little lamps in front of the gods every night?' 'In order to get merit,' he replied. 'Do the gods need the lights to see with?' I asked. 'I don't know; it is a custom handed down by our forefathers.' 'That is what my mother told me.' 'Have you been speaking to her about it?' 'Yes, but I was not satisfied with what she said, and I thought you could tell me something more.'

"He took two or three puffs of his green leaf cigar, and then said, 'You must not inquire too much about these things; you will only trouble your mind. But, since you have asked me, I can tell you a little more. There is a verse in one of the Puranas which says: "If anyone goes to the temple of Siva—the bestower of benefits—and, walking round the right side thereof, lights even one lamp, made of clarified cow's butter, and a thread from the stalk of the lotus plant, he will escape the curse of transmigration and obtain heavenly bliss. The god knows those who light the holy lamp, and their sins perish."'

"'Only a few of the women light the holy lamps. Why do they not all do it?' I inquired. 'Many are careless about these things,' said he.

"'Perhaps they do something else to obtain the god's favour. Do you think that if I were to light one of the lamps in the front of the god, He would do me some good?' 'Oh! yes, we ought not to doubt it. I can tell you a story to show you that. In one of the sacred books it is said that, once upon a time, in the middle of the night, the lamp in one of Siva's temples was about to go out, the wick having burnt down to the oil. Just then, a rat that came to drink the oil pulled the wick, so that the lamp burned brightly. Siva, seeing this, was so glad that he appeared to the rat, and transformed it into a mighty emperor, to rule over the three worlds—heaven, earth, and the abyss. In this way the rat was born on the earth as a great king, and ruled the three worlds.'

"'How wonderful,' said I; 'but many people light the lamps, and they never see the god.' 'Now, now, that will do; I cannot talk to you any more on these matters. It is late; go and lie down.' So saying, my father dismissed me, and I went and lay down on my mat in a corner of the hall."

SOLUTION TO DIAMOND PUZZLE.

S	1 Sam. ix. 9.
HEN	Zec. vi. 14.
JONAH	Jon. i. 2—14.
TIMNATH	Judges xiv. 5.
ARIMATHEA	Luke xxiii. 51, 52.
SENNACHERIB	2 Kings xix. 35, 36.
MERCHANTS	Neh. xiii. 20, 21.
PUTEOLI	Acts xxviii. 13, 14.
TARRY	1 Chr. xix. 5.
DIE	Ps. lxxxii. 7.
B	Gen. xi. 9.

P. M. Nairn.

Answers received from A.F.B. E.M.T. T.D. D.W.H.

Additional lists of references to "Bible Pyramid" received from G.M.J. N.K. M.F.L. N.E.L. E.G. C.P. T.H.P. G.H.C. M.L.W. H.Z. I.M.N. C.C.T. E.F.K. A.M.P. E.A.M. M.M.C. R.M'N. M.A.M. A.V. R.W. E.H. H.S.W. D.W.H. J.W.G.P. A.M.W. J.W.S. E.J.M'K. H.W.B.

BELLEVILLE MISSION, PARIS.—Miss de Broen requests us to state that Dr. M. Brockelhurst is in no way connected with the Belleville Mission. He is not authorised to collect money, or to arrange meetings in behalf of the Mission.

FOREIGN GOVERNESSES.—Will you kindly inform your readers that we are ready to receive applications from families requiring foreign governesses for the holidays. I also beg to call their attention to our change of address.

C. F. Ryffel, Directress.
Bienvenue, 3, Colville Houses, Talbot-road, W.

MR. J. W. GODFREY having been appointed to the post of Governor of Dr. Barnardo's Village Home for Girls, at Ilford, has been obliged to relinquish the leadership of the North London Evangelistic Choir, which post he has held from the formation of the choir. At an interesting farewell gathering of friends, held at Mildmay Conference Hall, on Saturday last, Mr. Godfrey was presented with a handsome timepiece, as a token of the esteem in which he is held.

THE CASUALS AT GRAY'S YARD.

By J. DENHAM SMITH.

WILL you allow me a word in the interest of the poor casuals at Gray's Yard? For the matter affecting them just now is most urgent. Does anyone ask what is a casual? A casual is one who is homeless and houseless. If unable to pay fourpence for a lodging, he tramps the streets, sleeps on the bridges or under archways, till forced by the police to move on, or spend the night in the casual ward of the workhouse, which he can do only for one night.

A special meeting for these is held at Gray's Yard. They come from all parts of London, for, as the work has been carried on for years, it is widely known among them. They often walk for miles in order to be present. Sometimes a thousand and more meet. They form a spectacle which once moved the heart of the late Dr. Guthrie, and which has often moved my own. There are always several hundreds, Sunday after Sunday, listening to the word of life spoken by godly men and women, who themselves know the power it has to save. And scarcely ever does a week pass without that power being there manifested. The meeting at Gray's Yard once seen can never be forgotten. It is only to look at the men to know that many have held a far different position—educated in some cases in the Universities.

It is an important feature in the work that each one gets a cup of coffee and some bread. This is received with an avidity which shows their sore need. But now what do we find? And this it is which has impelled me to write these lines. The continuance of this has become difficult, nay, all but impracticable for want of the simple cost! Think of the sufficiency, to say nothing of the opulence, of many Christians in London, and this great work bearing on the interests of these poor men for time and for eternity. The cost is two pounds each week. How easy for fifty-two contributors to supply this need. What a help to the work of God; what a comfort (scant though it be) to the hungry poor, what a satisfaction to their own minds.

Some say these poor sad ones come for the coffee and the bread. And so should we, if we had their hunger. Supposing they did come for the bread, in many instances they find the bread which is everlasting. Let us learn from the Lord. Let us imitate his compassions. He knew what was in man, yet he gave the loaves and fishes, notwithstanding. He would have the hungry sit down at ease. "He commanded them to sit down on the ground, saying, 'I will not send them away fasting.'" The consternation of these poor ones at Gray's Yard, when told of the partial and probably entire cessation of bread, can scarcely be described. If the value of the work were only known, this could not be. I cannot but believe that fifty-two persons may be found who, amidst their own abounding comforts, would have the satisfaction of at least once a year feeding these poor with bread, and so affording them an opportunity of hearing words whereby they may be saved. The bread must be given up unless paid for, and the giving up of the bread would be, to a large extent, the giving up of the work.

On the first Sunday of the year an annual and more substantial breakfast is given; when, as last year, 1500 to 2000 assembled. Such a spectacle, for the most part no money, no home, no bread! Special donations have been given for this breakfast, which causes Gray's Yard to be far more widely known than otherwise it would be, and is found to be an important adjunct to the work. Besides this there are the main expenses of a large Sunday-school, evening ragged-schools, week-night classes, and services of various kinds, together with the rent of the buildings. There are many instances of the Divine blessing on the work.

WORK AMONG YOUNG WOMEN.

YOUNG WOMEN IN BRISTOL.

FOR several years the many branches of the Y.W.C.A. in this city have held a united meeting in the autumn. This year the committee felt it would be well to follow this meeting with a week's mission in which all might join and to which all young women might be invited. Mrs. Dunn, the secretary of the Y.W.C.A. at Kinsale, co. Cork, gave a ready and kind response to their invitation and has been holding a series of meetings.

It has pleased God to own this effort by making it a time of blessing to very many. The attendance was good, and the numbers and interest increased as the days went on. At each meeting many have expressed their deep gratitude to God for sending his servant here, and for the messages she has brought. To some life has become a new thing, now that it is brightened by the consciousness of a Saviour's love and of his abiding presence. We felt that our friend had especial qualifications for the work to which she was called. Her warm, quick sympathies at once drew hearts to her and prepared the way for the message of redeeming love. She seemed intuitively to know the peculiar difficulties and temptations of the young, and, drawing from her own living experience, was able to tell the way in which deliverance surely comes to those who trust in Jesus.

Besides the large evening gatherings, Mrs. Dunn held brief meetings in the dinner hour in several of the factories, when she was begged by the groups of eager listeners who gathered round her, to "come again." On one Saturday afternoon she addressed a large meeting of young ladies in a drawing-room, at which the marked attention was a pledge that the words sank into prepared hearts. We ask your readers to join us in our song of thanksgiving for the goodness of the Lord to us, and in prayer that the results may be abiding.

EDITH SAVILL,
Secretary of No. 1 Bristol Branch.
Cotham, Bristol, Nov. 19.

THE Y.W.C.A. IN DUBLIN.

DEAR SIR,—We heartily thank the very many kind friends who have contributed to the sum needed to start the Central Young Women's Christian Institute in Dublin. We have received the amount required to commence our work. We shall want £400 or £500 more for the furniture and other expenses, and I shall be very happy to receive any contributions which friends may be disposed to give.

Let me give two instances of blessing from the work of the Y.W.C.A. as an encouragement to sisters working for Christ in England.

In the North one of our ladies has a large Bible-class of from 40 to 50 members, with scarcely the same girls for more than a fortnight, such is the coming and going. A short time ago there was a ring at the door-bell, and the lady answered it herself. "What do you want?" "I want to speak to you." "Well, what about?" A long pause. "Come in and tell me all about it." They went in, and this girl was under deep conviction of sin. "Where do you come from?" "From ——" "What distance is that?" "Twenty-six miles."

"How have you come?" "I walked the whole way." "Walked twenty-six miles to see me?" "Yes, I want to know how to get peace and forgiveness." Before that afternoon passed that girl was a saved sinner rejoicing in her Saviour, and she is now preparing to go out as a Zenana medical missionary.

One of our ladies went on a missionary tour in Ulster. After one of her meetings she was told that a member of the Y.W.C.A., who was dying, wished to see her. On standing by her bedside, the girl said, "I am so glad to see you before I go home, I wanted to tell you that two years ago, when you and Mrs. —— opened the branch here I gave my heart to Jesus that night, and I am dying so happy."

Our lady members have this year made evangelistic tours in the northern, western, and southern counties, the result of which eternity alone will show.—Yours faithfully,

GRACE HATT NOBLE.
Ardmore, Bray, Co. Dublin.

THEATRE MISSION, CAMBRIDGE.

A REAL and effective work of God has been going on in Barnwell ever since the old Theatre Royal was taken from the enemy eight years ago. At the annual meeting last week Mr. Vawser, the energetic honorary secretary, presented a most encouraging report. A variety of meetings are held during the week, and two large evangelistic services on Sundays, conducted in term time chiefly by ministers and University men. The help of the Evangelisation Society is also greatly valued, especially during the vacations, and a cheque of £25 from the funds was accordingly remitted to that worthy institution. Every Christian denomination was represented either in the person of its minister or in a warm letter of sympathy regretting his unavoidable absence, on the evening in question.

After the opening prayer by Rev. WALTER BRADBURY, who has been conducting a mission at Trinity Church, the Chairman, Rev. T. G. TARN, said that he thought the work of the year might be characterised as "Patient continuance in well-doing." There had been men of every section of the Christian Church on that platform; Churchmen and Dissenters had stood side by side during the year, and members of the University had been delighted to declare the Story of the Cross within those walls. Our motto should be "None of self, and all of Thee," in Christian service, in daily work, in politics, and, indeed, in every department of life.

Mr. A. IBBERSON, a staunch friend of the mission from its commencement, gave a very solemn and searching address from the word of God to Adam, "Where art thou?" applying the question to the spiritual condition of those present. There is no standing still in Christian life; it is either advance or retreat. They were either nearer heaven or more closely bound to earth, than when they celebrated the last anniversary.

Mr. G. E. MORGAN urged the importance of establishing spiritual relationship in every branch of home life, without which it was devoid of the only element which could produce real happiness.

After a few practical hints from Rev. H. F. GRIFFIN, as to the privilege of giving to support this useful work, Rev. W. R. MOWLL, of All Souls', Langham-place, followed with a powerful address, in which he related some interesting reminiscences of his personal acquaintance with three great and good men who had passed away since he had last appeared upon that platform—General Gordon, Earl Cairns, and Lord Shaftesbury.

Mr. Mowll was studying at Cambridge when the theatre work began, and his open heart and genial manner have won the hearts of hundreds to whom he dispensed the bread of life. As each anniversary recurs he receives an enthusiastic welcome, and his weighty and pointed remarks are always a leading feature at these happy gatherings.

During the evening solos were very effectively rendered by Mrs. Brownlow and Mrs. Payne. Mr. Vawser, Petty Cury, Cambridge, will be happy to communicate with any friends willing to co-operate in this good work.

THE LAW'S DEFECTS.—Mr. Justice Hawkins, in dealing with a case of depravity at York on Saturday, expressed his deep regret that the law did not give him power to punish adequately offences against women and girls. As the law stood it looked as if property was considered very much more than the person.

THE RATCLIFF STRANGERS' REST.

LAST Friday the eighth anniversary meeting in connection with this work was held at the Rest. Mr. Robert Paton was chairman. The largest room was filled to its utmost capacity by workers and friends.

Mr. ISAACS, hon. sec., said it was impossible to calculate the extent or the influence of the work. Sailors leaving the Port of London take with them books and tracts, and above all a personal testimony of their own conversion, to every habitable part of the globe. Of this he gave several striking instances. Mr. Isaacs stated they were in need of bags to hold the tracts and books with which the men were furnished upon leaving the Rest; a pattern can be sent by post, upon application. The children in the Highway are being taken in hand vigorously, having now eight classes on Thursday evenings. Cuffs, socks, and mufflers, would be welcome as gifts to some of the needy men at Christmas. The children will also come in for a share of the good things on Boxing Day.

Mr. Paton knew of nothing that commended itself more than the simple telling of the way of salvation that was the fashion in the Rest. Mr. J. E. Mathieson was glad to see so much done at the Rest by ladies. Referring to the wonderful work medical missions were doing, he would like to see one-third of the churches turned into medical missions. Dr. Ziemann spoke warmly of the work among Germans at the Rest.

Mr. R. Radcliffe, who had come purposely from Liverpool to be present, spoke burning, earnest words to those present, stating that even the blessed work of the "Strangers' Rest," must not be an excuse for staying at home while the heathen are perishing. Christ shed his blood not for Ratcliff Highway only, but for Africa, China, Asia, and we are only hindering the work by disobedience to the direct call—"Go out." Rev. F. A. C. Lillingston was delighted to hear that open-air work was a strong feature of the work. What is wanted is a heart burning for souls. Mr. Gurney Sheppard spoke some words of cheer to the workers. Then followed several testimonies from as many sailors converted at the Rest, whose plain and direct evidence of the change of heart was most warmly appreciated by the visitors, and from many a friend came the ejaculation "God bless his testimony." Miss Hendenström told, in her own simple manner, the need there was for the bodies as well as the souls of the sailors to be looked after, and mentioned how useful had been the Scandinavian Home in Leman-street, where her countrymen could board and lodge and hear the Gospel, too. Before the close, the Chairman said the Rest wanted help; the workers are all voluntary, but money is required to carry on the work. As usual, the workers afterwards sat down together at the Lord's Supper.

STOCKWELL ORPHANAGE.—A new steam laundry was recently opened here by Mr. Spurgeon in the presence of a number of visitors. He said that owing to the commercial depression the income of the Orphanage was just now below the outgoings.

THE RAILWAY MISSION.—Mr. D. Spencer has been appointed Secretary of the Railway Mission, in place of Mr. G. Clarke, resigned. The work of the mission has grown so extensively that Mr. Clarke feels called to devote himself to direct evangelistic work. He has lately had very successful meetings in Scotland, and is due at Plymouth for three weeks in December. Mr. H. E. Walton continues also to evangelise among railway men.

ILKLEY, YORKSHIRE.—As recently announced, a Convention for the Deepening of Spiritual Life is to be held in the hall of Craigland's Hydrophatic Establishment, Ilkey, on December 1 to 3 inclusive. A preliminary prayer meeting will be held on Monday, November 30, at 7.30 p.m. Any friends who purpose attending the meeting may communicate with Mr. G. Brumfitt, 3, Wells-road, Ilkley, as to accommodation. The conveners of the Conference are Mr. H. F. Bowker and Rev. A. C. Downer, Vicarage, Ilkley, the latter of whom will gladly furnish any further particulars desired.

EVANGELISTIC NOTES.

MR. W. FORBES has during the past week given addresses at Tynemouth, Newcastle-on-Tyne, and Kirby Stephen. He is now at Leicester.

MESSRS. MOODY AND SANKEY have been doing a blessed work in Reading, one of the leading towns in the interior of the State of Pennsylvania.

MRS. HORTON AND MISS PARKER are now conducting an eight weeks' mission in the Acle Circuit, Norfolk. Much blessing has attended their labours.

MR. AND MRS. HENRY WIGGAN have closed a two days' mission at Talbot-street Chapel, Batley, Yorkshire. The services increased in power, and a goodly number professed to have found the Saviour.

GUILDFORD. — Mr. George King recently conducted Gospel services here, at which not a few professed to receive spiritual blessing. Rev. A. E. Green, of Stoke-next-Guildford, speaks in high terms of Mr. King's work.

MR. AND MRS. MOUNTAIN have been labouring with much acceptance in Gospel Temperance work at Maryborough, New South Wales. One evening the rain was so heavy that only two persons turned out to a popular entertainment in the place, yet there were 150 present at Mr. Mountain's meeting.

SPILSBY, LINCOLNSHIRE.—Mr. W. Sampson has concluded a very successful twelve days' mission here. Many were led to seek Christ. Besides this there was a great work amongst Christians. Pray that such a work may be done at Boston, where Mr. Sampson begins a mission on Sunday, November 22.

HANWELL.—Mr. J. Burnham has concluded a week of special services here. Notwithstanding the unpropitious weather the attendance was very good. There has been, we trust, a real blessing, for several souls have expressed great spiritual anxiety. It has been a time of intense reality. Our brother knew nothing among us save "Jesus Christ, and Him crucified." L,

MR. AND MRS. KING have conducted a two days' evangelistic mission in the Bethnal Green-road Baptist Chapel, with great acceptance. The audiences were very large. Mr. and Mrs. King have also been holding a mission at the villages of Flackwell Heath and Loudwater during the last week. The fire and earnestness of Mr. King, and the quiet, unassuming, but effectual pleading of his wife, have produced a marked effect upon the villagers.

MR. GEORGE CLIFFORD has concluded a sixteen days' mission at Debenham, Suffolk The meetings, which were held in the Congregational lecture-room, were well attended, and the interest was maintained to the close. The special effort was brought to a close by a tea-meeting, at which Mr. Clifford and the Pastor (Rev. J. G. Murray) delivered earnest addresses. The Church has been quickened, and many have professed faith in Christ. A weekly meeting for young Christians has been formed, which is conducted by the Pastor.

MR. C. H. SPURGEON announced to his congregation last Sunday that the state of his health was such as to necessitate his leaving London for some time.

LORD'S DAY OBSERVANCE. — A motion in the Salford Town Council from the opening of the Local Museum and Library on the Lord's Day has been rejected by two to one.

REQUESTS FOR PRAYER.—For special services at Independent Chapel, Nailsea, by Mr. Opie Rodway, 25th to end of Nov.——For blessing on a young women's Bible-class, that the one conducting it may be "filled with the Spirit," and the unsaved converted.

AN EVENING WITH MISS HAVERGAL was a recent attraction at the Stratford Y.M.C.A. in connection with the Mizpah Band. Mr. Boardman writes that the selections from the songs and writings of our revered sister made a delightful evening. The idea is a good one, and might be profitably imitated during the winter months.

A Village Coffee-room.—Sir,—We want £60 before we can begin to build the reading-room and coffee-house I pleaded for in your columns in the summer. May I beg your readers to help with their contributions in providing this most-needed boon for the village of Combe.—Miss Adela Brooke, Combe, Woodstock, Oxfordshire.

The Book World.

Bernard, the Little Guide. 9d. T. Woolmer. Whoever has written these three beautiful little stories has no common gift. They are sweetly and wisely told. We want more of the same good kind.

Thoughts on Union with Christ. By Rev. H. C. G. Moule. Seeley & Co. An unpretentious, but eminently spiritual little work on the relationship of the believer with the Saviour. It is to be commended for its practical, thoughtful teaching on the subject.

A Course of Teaching for a Country Sunday-School. By J. C. Whistle. 1s. 6d. 67, Paternoster-row. It must, indeed, be a sorry place that could do with this outline, "compiled and adapted to the Prayer-Book Seasons." What true teacher could use it?

Songs of the Soul. By Isabella Nicholson. 2s. Nisbet & Co. These are really "Songs," with some of the true poet's music in them. As Mrs. Grimké says in her preface, they are outpourings of soul, and we echo her prayer that this volume "may go forth as a messenger of light and comfort to many."

The Martyrs of Kent, and the Principles for which they Suffered. Compiled by J. H. Wood. Marlborough & Co. Surely, "The Noble Army of Martyrs," whose names are here given, should stimulate all Protestant Christians in their efforts to proclaim the truth. The author's intention is a praiseworthy one.

Life in a Parsonage; or, Lights and Shadows of the Itinerancy. By W. H. Withrow, D.D. T. Woolmer. A racy, charming account of the lives and doings of some very interesting people on the other side of the Atlantic. The pictures of life are so cheery and real, and the Christianity of so happy an order, that we recommend the book to all who want some rousing reading.

The Pride of the Family. By Annie E. Keeling. T. Woolmer. A thoroughly wholesome story from beginning to end. The beautiful character of Ruth, her trials and triumphs, stands out in sweet contrast with the baleful influence of the one bad piece of humanity in the book. She is the real heroine—the authoress has made a mistake in apportioning Di that honour.

Ellen Manners; or, The Recollections of a Governess. By E. W. 3s. 6d. Hodder & Stoughton. Sensible, refreshing pages, containing the history of a life beautifully spent for others. The "Governess" leaves her mark wherever she goes. It will do girls good to read of her difficulties, her joys, her cares, her hopes, and how they all found an end in the Saviour, and many bright, happy, useful years of life.

Sunday Readings for a Year, on two hundred and eighty Scripture Titles and Symbols of Christ. By James Large. 5s. Hodder & Stoughton. New edition. The possessor of this book owns a storehouse of Gospel divinity. There is no pretence to deep learning, but there is evidence of careful thought; the Sundays that are enriched, and the hearts that are fed by such teaching, must be productive of true blessing.

The River Waif, by Constance Cross (3s. 6d. Shaw & Co.), is a tragical story of Old Gravesend, where the fisher-folk are depicted as living in as dense heathenism as if in the wilds of Africa, till the rays of the Sun of Righteousness arise and penetrate this darkness. The heroine of the story, found in the river as a babe, meets her death in the same spot in trying to save her enemy and would-be murderer from a watery grave.

A Christian Mother, Mrs. Thornley Smith. By Her Husband. 3s. 6d. Hodder & Stoughton. The records of obscure lives are getting to be nearly as common as books of verse. The subject of the present memoir affords an encouraging example of the faithful steward, the good wife, the devoted mother; but beyond this we see no reason why these details of a very ordinary life should have been published out of the immediate circle of her friends.

The True Woman. By William Thayer. 5s. Hodder & Stoughton. The popular author of "Log Cabin to White House," and other biographies for boys, caters for girls in this book with equal success. Founding his very practical and comprehensive chapters on the life of Mary Lyon and other devoted Christian ladies, he has produced one of the best books for young women that has lately been issued from the English press. Every phase of character and of life seems to be dealt with and all are handled well. No thoughtful young woman could read the work without being prompted to pursue the noblest and worthiest aims in life.

My Little Bird. By the Author of "The White Feather." 1s. 6d. Elliot Stock. A simple record of loss and gain, suited to quite a young child. But why such a price for thirty-two pages of such matter?

The Christmas number of The Christian Million is full of attractive features, artistic, literary, and otherwise.

◆

TEMPERANCE NOTES.

The Times says the death rate amongst public-house servants is about double that of the medical profession.

A public meeting of the inhabitants of Govan has protested against the recent increase of licences in the district.

The lowest hospital expenditure on stimulants is, Leeds, 7½d. per head; the highest, St. George's, London, 56s. 6d.

Seventeen members of the Church of England Temperance Society have been elected on the London School Board.

The South Hants District Good Templars' Lodge has petitioned against the granting of local post-offices to persons licensed to sell drink.

Mr. J. B. Gough has had a severe attack of neuralgia, and been prevented from appearing at several places where he had been announced.

Mr. Henry Broadhurst thinks hard-working artisans should not be compelled to compensate an interest so injurious to the public good as the drink-traffic.

M. Saint-Hilaire, famous both as scholar and politician, is one of the few distinguished French total abstainers. He is seventy-eight, and in vigorous health.

In The Lancet complaint is made of the cost of intoxicants at Epsom Benevolent College. The amount per annum is £221 4s. 3d., and for healthy boys is held to be unwarrantable.

Dr. Ridge has found by experiment that half an ounce of pure alcohol in water will reduce the power of sight, even where the visual organs are sound, by a distance of at least three feet.

Sir Charles Warren recently said: "Fortunately, in Bechuanaland, the Bible had been presented before the brandy bottle, and the natives had learnt that brandy meant their destruction."

The Social Science Congress has arranged to hold a Conference on Temperance legislation, in January. It is to last two days, and both friends and foes of Temperance reform are to be heard.

The Countess Cowper has been working amongst the poor in the East-end for the past fifteen years. She spends fixed days every week amongst the girls, and has done much to further Temperance.

At Glasgow objection was recently taken to the election of a publican as one of the city magistrates. It was held his trade unfitted him for dealing fairly with many of the cases he would have to decide.

In Paris persons are occasionally employed to take drunken persons home, and are called "guardian angels." One of them recently charged with being drunk replied "All guardian angels are water-drinkers."

The King of the Maoris in New Zealand has kept the promise he made while in England to work for the Temperance reform among his people, more than 11,000 of whom have become teetotalers and wear the blue ribbon.

Dr. Danford Thomas, Dr. Kerr, Dr. Morton, Dr. Richardson, and others have arrived at the conclusion that 50,000 deaths occur in England and Wales annually through drink, and, including cases of accelerated death, 120,000.

At South Wales Assizes Mr. Justice Manisty described the state of society at Cardiff as "shocking." He believed the heavy calendar before him was mainly due to those "terrible dens," the drinking clubs.

A licence was lately granted at Armagh, much against the will of the residents. One of the magistrates said, "But for that —— circular, sent to tell them what to do, the license would not have been granted." Another scouted the idea of mechanics settling such questions. These magistrates sorely need to be educated on the point.

Speaking at his great reception meeting in Chickering Hall, New York, Archdeacon Farrar said that the field of history, from the disgraceful scene of the patriarch in his tent down to the newspaper annals of to-day, proves alcohol to be a curse interminable in its malignity. Addresses were delivered by Dr. Cuyler, Judge Noah Davis, John B. Gough, and others.

Notes on Daily Readings.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 26.—GEN. XLII.

THE purpose of God, as revealed in Joseph's dreams, is now about to be fulfilled. Famine forces the sons of Jacob to go down into Egypt to buy food, and as "Joseph was the governor over the land," so it came to pass that "Joseph's brethren came, and bowed down themselves before him with their faces to the earth."

9.—"To see the nakedness of the land are ye come."—The expression denotes the exposure to attack from without of the weak and defenceless points of the country.

17.—"And he put them all together into ward three days."—These three days "in ward," followed as they are by their confession (v. 21), "we are verily guilty concerning our brother," resemble "the three days" during which Saul of Tarsus was "without sight, and neither did eat nor drink," and during which conviction of sin (probably that referred to in Rom. vii. 9) was wrought within him. Both, doubtless, point onward typically to Israel's repentance in the future, when possibly may be literally fulfilled in the nation what has already been fulfilled in their Messiah. "After two days will He revive us: in the third day He will raise us up, and we shall live in his sight" (Hosea vi. 2). These words follow a passage descriptive of Israel's future repentance and turning to the Lord.

21.—"We are verily guilty concerning our brother."—The word here used for "guilty" implies guilt calling for reparation or restitution, and is the word used in connection with the trespass offering. Their language, therefore, implies that they regarded their present distress as sent to them in retribution of their cruelty to their brother: "therefore is this distress come upon us."

25.—"Then Joseph commanded to (1) fill their sacks with corn, (2) and to restore every man's money into his sack, (3) and to give them provision for the way."—These three favours bestowed by Joseph on his brethren foreshadow three leading characteristics of the salvation bestowed by the Lord Jesus Christ on all who come unto Him: 1. Full salvation; 2. Free salvation; 3. Everlasting salvation.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 27.—GEN. XLIII.

9.—"I will be surety for him; of my hand shalt thou require him: if I bring him not unto thee, and set him before thee, then let me bear the blame for ever."—Judah conveys in these words a striking lesson as to the responsibility involved in the discharge of the office of a surety; and this is the more interesting as our Lord, who "sprang out of Judah," was "made a surety of a better covenant" (Heb. vii. 22).

"He did 'bear the blame,' not, indeed, because of failure to bring again his loved ones, but in their ransom from their lost estate. He bare the blame, He 'was made sin for us who knew no sin,' and one after another as the ransomed of the Lord are called, of his hand are they required, as anything is laid to their charge. He is the Surety for them, and He it is that brings them and sets them before the Father in the glory, evermore beyond the reach of hurt or harm—all, all is his own blessed work. How like are those sweet words of Paul to Philemon, and how inviting of a similar application. 'If he hath wronged thee, or oweth thee ought, put that on mine account. I Paul have written it with my own hand, I will repay it' (Philemon 18). Blessed Jesus! our debt was indeed put to thine account, and Thou didst pay to the uttermost farthing for the poor slaves of sin."—C. Hargrove.

14.—"God Almighty give you mercy before the man."—"El Shaddai: Jacob here uses that name of the Most High by which He made Himself known to Abraham, and afterwards renewed his covenant with Jacob himself (xvii. 1, xxxv. 11). Hereby he calls to mind the promise of protection to himself and his house, as well as the power of Him who had promised."—Sp. Com.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 28.—GEN. XLIV.

5.—"Is not this it in which my lord drinketh, and whereby indeed he divineth?"—Many commentators apologise for Joseph's using divination, on the ground that he was not wholly free from the superstitions of the age, but it is quite unnecessary to do so, as there is no reason to suppose that Joseph was doing more than act a part in his dealing with his brethren. Bishop Harold Browne remarks: "Joseph here adapts himself and his language to his character as it would naturally appear in the eyes of his brethren. We are not to assume that he actually used magical arts. This would be quite inconsistent with what he said to Pharaoh (xli. 16), disclaiming all knowledge of the future, save as revealed by God."

18.—"Then Judah came near unto him, and said."—"The power of Judah's speech lies in the facts themselves, which gain in pathos from being simply told; but the ending is grand, because of the speaker's magnanimity. He offers to give up all that a man holds dearest in order that his father may be spared a grief too heavy to bear. There is, however, very considerable skill in the manner in which Judah shows that it was at Joseph's repeated urgency that they had brought Benjamin with them, while omitting all mention of the fact that they had been falsely charged by him with being spies."—Dean Payne Smith.

33.—"Now, therefore, I pray thee let thy servant abide instead of the lad, a bondman to my lord."—Judah thus nobly discharged the obligation of surety which he had undertaken; and this, combined with his touching appeal that the grey hairs of their common father should not be brought down with sorrow to the grave, so touched the heart of Joseph that "he could not contain himself," but at once "made himself known unto his brethren." Both Judah and Joseph are here types of Christ, who, when He comes again, will both manifest his faithfulness as "Surety of the better covenant," by bringing all his saints with Him (Zech. xiv. 5), and at the same time will make Himself known unto his brethren, amidst the scene of mourning described in Zech. xii. 11.

SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 29.—GEN. XLV.

1.—"And there stood no man with him, while Joseph made himself known unto his brethren."—"No stranger was allowed to witness this sacred scene. What stranger could understand or appreciate it? We are here called to witness, as it were, definitely wrought conviction in the presence of divine grace; and, we may say, when these two come together there is an easy settlement of every question."—C. H. M.

5.—"God did send me before you to preserve life" . . . . "So now it was not you sent me hither, but God."—"This is grace, indeed, setting the convicted conscience perfectly at rest. The brethren had, already, most thoroughly condemned themselves, and hence Joseph had only to pour in balm into their broken hearts. This is all typical of God's dealings with Israel in the latter day, when 'they shall look upon Him whom they have pierced, and mourn.'"—Ibid.

Very parallel to this address of Joseph to his brethren is that of the Apostle Peter to the Jews, in Acts iii. He first charges them with their guilt in killing "the Prince of life," but then adds, "and now, brethren, I wot that through ignorance ye did it, as did also your rulers. But those things which God before had showed by the mouth of all his prophets, that Christ should suffer, He hath so fulfilled." Had Israel repented then, they would have anticipated the reconciliation which awaits repentant Israel at the latter day, of which this reconciliation of Joseph to his brethren is so striking a type.

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 30.—GEN. XLVI.

3.—"I am God, the God of thy father."—"This is the last revelation given to Jacob, nor is any other supernatural event recorded until the vision of the burning bush (Exod. iii. 4); . . . and no place could be more suitable than Beersheba, as both Abraham and Isaac had built altars there for Jehovah's worship."—Dean Payne Smith.

4.—"I will go down with thee into Egypt; and I will also bring thee up again."—These words spoken at Beersheba, whither Abraham and Isaac returned, and where they dwelt after the memorable resurrection scene of Moriah (Gen. xxii.), must have have recalled to Jacob the recollection of God's power to "raise up even from the dead," and thus he could entrust to Him himself, his sons, and their descendants about to go down into Egypt, with the certainty that God would bring them up again, and could charge them that he should be buried, not in Egypt, but with his fathers in the cave of Machpelah.

34.—"Every shepherd is an abomination unto the Egyptians."—"This last remark forms part of Joseph's words, and contains the reason why his brethren should describe themselves to Pharoah as shepherds from of old, namely, that they might receive Goshen as their dwelling-place, and that their national and religious independence might not be endangered by too close an intercourse with the Egyptians."—Keil.

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 1.—GEN. XLVII.

7.—"Jacob blessed Pharaoh."—"Without all contradiction the less is blessed of the better" (Heb. vii. 7). It is a strange sight to see the proud monarch of the greatest kingdom (at that time) of the world receiving blessing from a shepherd—an abomination unto the Egyptians—one of whom he had but lately said (ver. 6), "Make thy father and brethren to dwell in the land of Goschen; and if thou knowest any men of activity among them, then make them rulers over my cattle." There must have been given to Pharaoh, and no doubt through his intercourse with Joseph, a sense of the Divine blessing which rested on Jacob, and was connected with him. That this blessing was heavenly, not earthly, appeared from Jacob's confession before him, "few and evil have the days of the years of my life been."

9.—"Few and evil," &c.—"Evil, certainly; for from the time when he deceived his father, Jacob's life had been one of great anxiety and care, in addition to his many sorrows." From Laban, from Esau, and most of all from his own sons, he had been a constant sufferer.

20.—"So the land became Pharaoh's."—"Joseph has been accused of reducing a free people to slavery by his policy. Undoubtedly he did vastly increase the royal power; but from what we read of the vassalage under which the Egyptians lived to a multitude of petty sovereigns, and also to their wives, their priests, and their embalmers, an increase in the power of the king, so as to make it predominant, would be to their advantage. The people were more than satisfied with Joseph's regulations. 'They said, Thou hast saved our lives: let us find grace in the sight of my lord, and we will be Pharaoh's servants.'"—Dean Payne Smith.

31.—"Israel bowed himself upon the bed's head."—The word in the original, without vowels, may either mean "bed" or "staff." The Syriac and LXX. (followed by the Epistle to the Hebrews) read "on the top of his staff." This recalls the staff—though the Hebrew word is not the same—with which he left his father's house: "With my staff I passed over this Jordan:" and so would recall his expression of gratitude to God for his preservation, "I am not worthy of the least of all the mercies and of all the truth which Thou hast showed unto thy servant." It is a touching picture, to see the aged pilgrim bowing in worship upon the top of that staff with which he had begun his pilgrimage.

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 2.—GEN. XLVIII.

The subject of this chapter is the blessing bestowed by Jacob upon the two sons of Joseph, thereby, as it were, recognising the fact which we find asserted in 1 Chron. v. 2, that "the birthright was Joseph's." "The legal right of the firstborn was a double share of the father's goods. This was bestowed upon Joseph in giving him two tribes, and to the other sons but one." As to why Joseph, who was but Jacob's eleventh son, should possess the birthright, we must remember that he was the eldest son of Rachel, the beloved wife. "As Joseph was the son of the chief and best-beloved wife he had a sort of claim to the birthright; but in agreement with the law afterwards specially enacted (Deut. xxi. 15—17), Jacob acknowledges that the right had belonged to Reuben, but excludes him from the possession of it as the penalty of his great and terrible sin." — Dean Payne Smith. Judah, though not possessing the birthright, "prevailed above his brethren, and of him came the chief ruler" (1 Chron. v. 2).

16.—"The Angel which redeemed me from all evil."—The words "which redeemed me" are represented in Hebrew by the word "goel," which is used here for the first time. "It subsequently became the term for the nearest blood relative, whose duty it was to avenge a murder; but it is here used in its wider sense of a saviour or deliverer." The word "Angel" points to that mysterious "messenger of the covenant" (Mal. iii. 1), or, in other words, the Son of God in his pre-incarnate manifestation of Himself. Our Lord explains this title "Angel" in relation to Himself when He says (John viii. 42), "Neither came I of myself, but He sent me;" and the same thought appears in the title "Apostle" given to Him (Heb. iii. 1), "the Apostle and High Priest of our profession."

ROYAL SYMPATHY WITH EAST-END BABIES.—On the receipt of the fourteenth annual report of Mrs. Hilton's institutions, Stepney Causeway, Princess Christian desired Lieut.-Colonel Geo. Grant Gordon to assure Mrs. Hilton of the great interes her Royal Highness continues to take in her Crèche Her Royal Highness also expressed special interest in a child placed in the Home by her request. Mrs Hilton is issuing a new series of neat "Crèche Leaflets," descriptive of her work. The first gives some quotations from utterances of the late Earl of Shaftesbury respecting the institution.

(For Forthcoming Meetings, Donation List, &c., see p. vii.)

JUST PUBLISHED. PRICE SIXPENCE.

REBECCA JARRETT.

By JOSEPHINE BUTLER.

"What I have to do is to speak of REBECCA JARRETT. I am prompted to do so by my love and pity for her, and also in response to multitudes of letters pouring in upon me, from men and women alike, expressing an opinion of her differing very much from that given in all the leaders of the London Press on the morning after the verdict."—EXTRACT.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings, E.C.; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

PREVENTIVE WORK, IRELAND.

GIRLS' TRAINING HOME,

64, LOWER BAGGOT STREET, DUBLIN.

FUNDS URGENTLY NEEDED.

Has received and helped since opening in March, 1883, 120 girls between the ages of 12 and 20, and aided by Free Registry, 140 extern cases.

Furniture, blankets, gifts of clothing, school requisites, much needed. Winter approaching. Constant pressing applications. Bank account overdrawn £70. We earnestly ask help.

(MRS.) A. M. BURTON, Hon. Treasurer.
(MRS.) F. M. SIBTHORPE Hon. Sec.

The Anchorage.

HEBREWS vi. 19.

To Shelter Young Women (otherwise respectable) lately Fallen into Sin.

FOR rules of admission to the Anchorage House, and for the particulars of its work, and for trained servants, apply (by letter only) to Mrs. H. STUART-WORTLEY (President of the Ladies' Committee), Rosslyn House, Grove End-road, N.W., London, and to whom, or to any member of Committee, subscriptions may be sent, or to Messrs. Morgan & Scott.

THE RESCUE SOCIETY.

A gentleman generously offers to give £25 on behalf of our work providing Twelve other Friends will each give a similar amount by the middle of January. He has already given £10 this year, but has been moved to assist us in this way by the concise statement of the Report which appeared in THE CHRISTIAN of November 12.

Will not some readers of THE CHRISTIAN help us to claim this kind offer, or send some smaller contribution?

The Winter is upon us, when more seek our aid than at other times, and we have now to provide daily food for 174 inmates of our Nine Homes.

Messrs. MORGAN & SCOTT will kindly receive contributions, or they may be sent to

C. STUART THORPE,
79, Finsbury Pavement, E.C. Secretary.

NOW READY. WEEKLY, ONE HALFPENNY. MONTHLY PARTS, THREEPENCE.

"Our Darlings."

THE CHILDREN'S TREASURY, EDITED BY DR. BARNARDO.

This admirable Children's Magazine is full of beautiful Pictures as well as of Gospel Stories and Christian instruction suited to the capacities of the young, and is earnestly commended to the heads of Christian Families and Schools.

The NOVEMBER MONTHLY PART, being the first of the New Volume, is now ready, price 3d., with which a beautiful COLOURED CHROMO is given away.

This Part contains many attractions: among others may be mentioned the opening chapters of a Narrative by the EDITOR, recounting the struggles and sorrows of poor Street Children; and several instructive papers upon the history of public benefactors. There are also subjects for Prize Essays, for Biblical, Historical, and Geographical Puzzles, to the successful competitors in which

700 PRIZES WILL BE GIVEN AWAY

during the Twelve Months beginning with these first Numbers.

Hundreds of letters have been received from Christian parents and teachers, expressing surprised thankfulness that so cheap a Magazine should have been so beautiful in appearance and so useful in results.

"OUR DARLINGS" may be ordered of all Booksellers and Newsagents; or of the Publishers, Messrs. J. F. SHAW & Co., 48, Paternoster-row, E.C.

THE NEWLY BOUND VOLUME FOR CHRISTMAS, 1885, IS NOW READY.

In handsome illustrated Paper Boards, containing 600 Illustrations, and Six Coloured Chromos, 3s.; or, in Cloth with gilt edges, a very elegant gift, 5s., to be had of the same Publishers.

PUBLISHED BY MORGAN & SCOTT,

12, PATERNOSTER BUILDINGS, LONDON, E.C.

"The Christian" ALMANACK.

NOW READY,
PRICE SIXPENCE.

WITH A

Striking Portrait of the late EARL OF SHAFTESBURY.

Beautifully Printed in Eleven Colours, similar to an Oil Painting.

Containing an appropriate and carefully-selected Scripture Text for Every Day in the Year. Each of the Twelve Months is surmounted by a Choice Pictorial Illustration, in Colour.

(Size of Sheet, 17 × 13½ inches.)

Copy of letter from Mr. W. J. Orsman, the Hon. Superintendent of the Golden Lane and Hoxton Costermongers' Christian Mission (of which the late Right Hon. the Earl of Shaftesbury was the President) :—

Milton House, Shacklewell Green, Hackney, E.,
October 30, 1885.

My Dear Sirs,

Many thanks for the advance copy of The Christian Almanack for 1886. It is a beautiful and useful work of art; and the likeness of the late Earl of Shaftesbury is exceedingly good. The coloured pictures surrounding the portrait, and the twelve cartoons of the season, add greatly to the value of the Almanack, which, I consider, is worthy of a place in every house and every workshop. I venture to hope that you will be able to supply 500 copies for our Mission.

I am, yours faithfully,

W. J. ORSMAN.

"Messrs. Morgan & Scott forward us a copy of 'The Christian' Almanack for 1886, the prominent feature of which is a striking and beautifully-executed portrait of the late Earl of Shaftesbury. It is decidedly the best portrait of his Lordship we have seen. There are also representations of the Costermongers' Hall, Hoxton; the Field-lane Ragged School; St. Giles' House, Cranborne; and of 'Coster Jack,' the donkey presented to his lordship by the costermongers of London."—Bournemouth Directory.

"Messrs. Morgan & Scott have brought out in their Almanack for the coming year a striking and beautifully executed portrait of the late Earl of Shaftesbury, which we feel sure will be heartily welcomed. In addition to the portrait, there are pictures of the different homes and ragged schools in which Lord Shaftesbury took so much interest. The printing and illuminating are remarkably good. Price sixpence. Can be had of Simson & Co., Hertford."—Hertford Record.

"Messrs. Morgan & Scott have sent us a copy of 'The Christian' Almanack for 1886, exceedingly well printed in colours. Its centre contains a capitally executed portrait of the late Earl of Shaftesbury, surrounded by illustrations depicting scenes in connection with the philanthropic labours of his life; under which is a tabulated record of some of the more important of his actions, and an extract from his speech on the 'Ten Hours' Bill,' made May 10, 1841. Each month is headed with a chaste illustration, and each day has a scriptural text put against it."

County of Middlesex Independent.

"'The Christian' Almanack, published by Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings, is an artistically coloured sheet, the central figure being a strikingly life-like portrait of the late Earl of Shaftesbury, surrounding which are views of the public buildings to assist the poor in whom he took so great an interest."

Folkestone Witness.

"We have just received from Messrs. Morgan & Scott a very beautiful Almanack with the portrait of the late Earl of Shaftesbury, which we feel sure will be appreciated by all our readers. It is already well known that the Earl of Shaftesbury's career as a philanthropist is, perhaps, the most noteworthy on record. For eleven years—from 1833 to 1844—he fought the battle of the people in connection with the Ten Hours' Bill and the Factory Acts, until he had achieved victory all along the line. Besides these he took a deep interest in the moral and spiritual welfare of the English poor, and also in mission work in China and British India. The Almanack is well finished, and cannot fail but meet with the approval of our readers."

Denton and Haughton Advertiser.

"Messrs. Morgan & Scott have issued one of the most beautiful sheet almanacks produced this season. It is a splendid specimen of colour printing, and is adorned with a large and striking likeness of the late Earl of Shaftesbury."—Dewsbury Reporter.

"The Christian Almanack for 1886, amidst the almost endless number of Almanacks, will certainly take a favourite place. The whole get-up of the sheet is really handsome, and the great charm in tens of thousands of households will be the really excellent likeness of the late Lord Shaftesbury. The portrait is in colours, and is a very perfect specimen of the art of printing in colours."—Isle of Wight Advertiser.

"Messrs. Morgan & Scott's Almanack for 1886 is beautifully printed in colours, and embellished with a striking and artistically excellent portrait of the late Earl of Shaftesbury, which is accompanied by a concise and interesting memoir of the deceased philanthropist, and will doubtless attract many thousands of purchasers. It is worthy of framing, and of a place in any office, place of business, or residence."—Deal Telegraph.

"Messrs. Morgan & Scott have issued a beautiful sheet Almanack for 1886, which may well be called the 'Shaftesbury' Almanack. In the centre is a striking and beautifully executed portrait of the noble philanthropist, surrounded with flowers. There are also miniature views of the various institutions and incidents with which the late Earl was associated. In the calendar portion each month has an emblematical picture nicely designed and executed. Altogether the Almanack is a work of art and is cheap at sixpence."

Weald of Kent News.

"The Christian Almanack for 1886 contains an excellent coloured portrait of the late Earl of Shaftesbury. Not only is the portrait a striking likeness of the great philanthropist, but the Almanack as a whole is a work of art, and reflects credit on the eminent firm by whom it has been issued."—Jarrow Guardian.

"The Christian Almanack for 1886 is a fine production. It is a convenient size for framing, and apart from the fact that the general design of the Almanack is pleasing to the eye, the coloured portrait of the late Lord Shaftesbury, which occupies the centre of the sheet, will ensure it a place in many homes."

Wanstead Express.

"The Christian Almanack for 1886 contains a beautifully executed and striking portrait of the late and good Earl of Shaftesbury, and scenes from his life, which will be highly prized by all who have read and heard of the good work done by this true Christian man, who 'lived for the nation and for God.' The Christian Almanack is a perfect gem of artistic finish."—Alloa Circular.

"The Christian Almanack for 1886 is one of the brightest and most interesting we have seen. Colour prevails; but it is harmonius and in good taste. The centre is an admirable likeness of the good Lord Shaftesbury, and the oval frame in which it is set is surrounded by some of the best known practical results of his philanthropy. The headings to each month are pretty. Need we add that the daily texts are suitable and easily remembered? We congratulate Messrs. Morgan and Scott on their Almanack."—Cornishman.

CHOICE GIFT BOOKS
For Christmas and the New Year.

CRUDEN'S (UNABRIDGED) CONCORDANCE.

A Complete Concordance to the Old and New Testaments. Unabridged. Imperial 8vo., 757 pages, 2,270 closely-printed columns, about 250,000 references. With the Proper Names newly translated by a competent Scholar. (This portion of the work is strictly COPYRIGHT, and can only appear in this Edition.)

POPULAR EDITION. Strongly bound in Cloth Boards.

5/-

"This is a noble book, 4to. size, consisting of 757 pages. In addition to the valuable definitions as introductory to each important word, it contains a carefully-revised and much extended list of the Scripture Proper Names, with their meaning in the original languages. This is a most important feature of the work, and renders it so much the more valuable to the Biblical student as well as the Sunday-school teacher and Scripture-reader. The low price at which the work is published, namely, 5s., must secure for it a speedy and extensive demand."—Gospel Magazine.

"What a boon to poor preachers of the Gospel! This large and most useful book for FIVE SHILLINGS. . . . We need not say a word to commend Cruden's priceless work. Young men can now for a crown purchase a new copy of the best Concordance, whereas not long ago we thought ourselves fortunate if we could pick up a second-hand copy at that rate."
Rev. C. H. SPURGEON, in The Sword and Trowel.

PRESENTATION EDITION — Superior cloth binding, 7s. 6d. LIBRARY EDITION — Half-bound in leather, 10s. 6d. ILLUSTRATED EDITION — Containing twelve exquisite steel plate Engravings, and six beautiful coloured Maps, 10s. 6d.

THE TABERNACLE, THE PRIESTHOOD, AND THE OFFERINGS.

By HENRY W. SOLTAU,

Author of "The Holy Vessels of the Tabernacle;" "The Scarlet Line;" "The Soul and its Difficulties;" etc., etc.

NEW AND IMPROVED EDITION.

Handsomely bound in Cloth.

5/-

"The work is full of teaching — spiritual and far-reaching — and we have much enjoyed reading it."
Sword and Trowel.

"It is certainly the most complete treatise on the subject we have seen. A number of choice illustrations, grandly printed in gold and colours, add to the value of the book, which strongly merits perusal by all who wish to trace the connection between Old Testament types, symbols, and services, and the Christ of the New Covenant."
Methodist New Connexion Magazine.

"We do not know a more instructive volume than this for those who wish to understand the subjects it treats on. We have read the book through with the greatest delight and profit. Its spirituality, simplicity of language, and positive Gospel teaching, are excellent. After perusing such a volume as this, no one will say again that the Books of Exodus, Leviticus, &c., are dry reading."—Railway Signal.

PRESENTATION EDITION—Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 6s. CHEAP EDITION, with the numerous Woodcuts, but without the Coloured Illustrations, tinted covers, 3s.
Also issued in 12 Monthly Parts, 4d. each.

MORGAN & SCOTT'S EDITION.

A Complete and Authentic Account of the lives, sufferings, and triumphant deaths of the early Christian and Protestant Martyrs in all parts of the world.

NEW EDITION.

Foxe's Book of Martyrs.

By John Foxe.

With Twelve Full-Page Illustrations.

"Let Romanists and Ritualists say what they may, this book still continues a power for principle and faithfulness unto death. The book is handsomely bound and sells for half a guinea. A cheap and excellent book for a present."—Freeman.

Complete in One Volume, 1083 pages.
Handsomely bound in Cloth, 10/6.
Also in 16 parts at 6d.

SEARCHING THE SCRIPTURES

In order to abiding Communion with God, also, Suggestions for Bible Reading and Study, and a Plan for consecutive Daily Reading.

By Dr. J. ANDERSON,

Graduate of King's College, Aberdeen, and M.R.C.S. London.

Cloth, bevelled boards,

3/6

"A very valuable work, in which attention is drawn to the necessity for quiet, thoughtful Bible reading as a means of promoting abiding communion with God. The subject is one that, though of immense importance, is too often overlooked. Dr. ANDERSON has done well in thus taking it in hand. The tone of the work is excellent throughout, and the suggestions offered are of a very practical character."—The Rock.

"This is a very valuable manual for Bible Students. Its compilation must have cost its author an immensity of labour. The Bible is here mapped out like a country to be explored. By following this guide it may be read through intelligently in the year."
Literary World.

"Dr. Anderson's counsels and suggestions are most valuable; and the design of his work is one which will meet with ready acceptance from those who have learned that God's Word is a lamp to their feet and a light to their path."
The Christian Week.

"It is impossible to speak too highly of this volume, which is the result of immense labour and consecrated talent. To the Bible Student, the Sunday-school Teacher, or Local Preacher, its aid is indispensable."—Christian Age.

"In a compact form, the work contains more valuable and varied information as to the Word of God, and its connected teaching, than we have yet seen in any volume of a like size. We would earnestly urge every lover of the Word to procure and carefully read the book."—Word and Work.

NOTES FOR BIBLE READINGS.

A Collection of over SIX HUNDRED Subjects carefully compiled and arranged.

Suitable for Bible Readings, Cottage Lectures, Sermons, Addresses, Sabbath Schools, etc.

EDITED BY
S. R. BRIGGS & JOHN H. ELLIOTT.

Introductory Matter by D. L. MOODY, Consisting of Useful Hints on "How to Study the Bible," and "How to Read the Bible."

Cloth, Bevelled Boards,

3/6

"This is a book which every Bible Student should possess. It will be of special value to the Class Teacher, and an assistance also to the Preacher. It brings together an immense number of subjects, with groupings of Scripture Texts on each. It is a compilation gathered from many sources, representing the thought and research of many of God's people. It supplies valuable matter for private meditation, and those who conduct Bible-readings will find it most suggestive. Those who can afford to buy it should distribute it to those who cannot."
Christian Progress.

"Messrs. Briggs & Elliott have done good service by the publication of these notes. The book is popular in America, and will be popular wherever men are found to delight in the things which make for their peace. It proves useful to the Christian in retirement, in teaching, in preaching, and in all the details of duty. The publishers have produced a volume which, for its 'get-up' as well as its letterpress, does them credit."—Star in the East.

EXTRACT FROM PREFACE.

"The object of the present publication is to stimulate to a more diligent and systematic study of God's Word.

"In compiling and preparing the collection of NOTES FOR BIBLE READINGS, no attempt has been made at an elaborate arrangement of subjects, or to give exhaustive explanatory Notes in connection with any subject; but the aim has been rather to collect such matter as would prove suggestive, and awaken further study and research into the golden depths of the Word."

MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, PATERNOSTER BUILDINGS, LONDON, E.C.

And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

HUTCHINGS & CROWSLEY, LIMITED,

PRINTERS AND PUBLISHERS.

Chief Office and Works—35 to 41, HENRY STREET; ST. JOHN'S WOOD, N.W.
Branch Works—123, FULHAM ROAD, SOUTH KENSINGTON, S.W.
City Office—IMPERIAL BUILDINGS, LUDGATE CIRCUS, E.C.

CAPITAL . . . . . . £50,000, of which £23,280 has been subscribed.

Applications are invited for 15,000 Seven per Cent. Preference Shares of £1 each, payable 10s. on application and 10s. on allotment.

The Company has allotted 23,280 shares among 36 persons, who are the Directors, Management, and their friends.

The Net Profits divisible for the past year amounted to £2,122, so that it will be seen that if the 15,000 shares now to be issued should not increase the profits, there is a large margin after providing for the due payment of the dividend on the Preference Shares. Dividends will be paid on these shares half-yearly.

No promotion money has ever been paid. Not a pound spent in advertising until now.

The reason for issuing the 15,000 seven per cent. preference shares is that new workshops have been built (covering 6,000 square feet of ground) and new plant and machinery laid down, and for the issue of additional local directories, of which the Company are now the proprietors and printers of 22.

There is enough business, without canvassing, to engage the entire resources of the new premises.

Intending investors are invited to inspect the new premises. For full prospectus and particulars apply to

THE SECRETARY, at Henry-street, St. John's-wood, N.W.

ON

CONSUMPTION,

CHRONIC BRONCHITIS,

AND ALL OTHER

CHEST DISEASES.

READ

MR. CONGREVE'S NEW WORK,

SIXPENCE, POST FREE,
Or LARGE EDITION (cloth) for 1s. 3d.

FIFTEENTH SERIES

OF WEEKLY CASES.

NOTICE TO THE READERS OF "The Christian," WHO MAY BE personally or relatively INTERESTED IN THIS MATTER.

Mr. Congreve will give ONE RECENT CASE, NOT PUBLISHED BEFORE, in this Journal EVERY WEEK.

CASE FOR THIS WEEK.

CASE of Mrs. S. A. COOMBES, BURFORD, OXON.

This patient was under my treatment the whole of last year and through the Spring of this. When first writing me she says:—"I had a very severe cold seven years ago, and had several of the smallest bottles of your medicine—it quite cured me; a friend, also, of ours about that time was quite cured;—that is why I wish to take it again."

Her illness had commenced twelve months before this with general weakness; Cough had come on four months, and was now very bad at night; expectoration thick and green, or sometimes yellow, and very much; pains in the left side, flushes, palpitation, night sweats. Loss of flesh all over the body had been gradually going on for twelve months. All the secretions were faulty. The doctor's report was—"Left lung diseased, a most delicate person, requiring the greatest care."

All that had been done had failed to relieve or check the progress of disease until she applied to me.

But after commencing the medicine, every letter, month by month, reported some little improvement:—"I am very much better, and gaining strength daily. I am recommending you to all I can," &c. Leaving it off, however, too early in the latter part of last year, a slight relapse took place, and in January last she wisely resumed it again.

The last medicine she had was forwarded in April last, when she writes:—"I am most thankful to say that I have found such wonderful relief from your treatment. I was indeed very ill when I first applied to you, and all along, with six little children, unable to get the quiet and rest, as well as the proper nourishment that I needed. I must say that, under God, your medicine has done me this good."

I heard again from this patient on 11th August:—"It is my duty to let you know how thankful I am to you for the great good done me. I am glad now to leave off medicine; if in the winter I have any return of symptoms I will write you again."

NOTE.—Days of Consultation.—TUESDAY, THURSDAY, and SATURDAY MORNINGS ONLY, at Coombe Lodge, Peckham. Patients from any long distance should choose either of the two former days. Everyone is expected to have seen the book first.

THE CHILDREN.

WHY do children grow up so indifferent to GOD, their own FATHER and MOTHER, and true BIBLE Religion? What answer will many Parents give to this momentous question?

We all know life begins at home, and the strongest impressions are made between the ages of four and ten. For many years Parents had no proper system of Bible Catechisms to enable them to teach their children the great things of God and Religion, and it is impossible for Parents to teach and train them right without.

The Systematic Bible Teacher and Bible Voices for the Young, post free, 2s. 6d., contain a complete system of Standard Catechism and Scripture Lessons, by good Dr. Watts, the Westminster Assembly, and the late R. Mimpriss, graduated to suit all ages from infancy to maturity, and which enables PARENTS to teach one child or a family of twelve children, TEACHERS to teach a class of twenty or a school of five hundred, EDUCATED LADIES to teach all ages, or MINISTERS without study to conduct a quarterly examination so that all can answer, and also carry home the lessons for parents to both train and profit by all the week. Here is the one hope for Parents in the training of their dear children. VISITORS TO LONDON should call and learn about the system at the

SYSTEMATIC BIBLE TEACHING MISSION, 67, Paternoster-row, London, E.C.

BIBLE VOICES can be had—Part I., 1d., or 7s. per 100; cloth, 2d. or 12s. Parts I. and II., 3d., or 18s. per 100.

AMERICAN BREAKFAST CEREALS
ABC

A B C
WHITE WHEAT.
A B C
WHITE OATS.
A B C
BARLEY FOOD.
A B C
YELLOW MAIZE.

The Purest, most Nutritious and Health-giving Foods in the World. Hulled, crushed, steam-cooked and desiccated. Ready for table in ten minutes.

Sold by Grocers, &c.

A Delicious Breakfast at little cost.

Ask for the A B C Brand.

Particulars of B. LAMPE, 44, Great Tower-st., E.C.

EPILEPTIC FITS!

ALL PERSONS SUFFERING FROM EPILEPSY should SEND Name and Address to JAMES OSBORNE, MEDICAL PHARMACY, ASHBOURNE, who will forward, free of charge, full particulars (with Testimonials) of the most successful remedy ever discovered for this distressing malady. Reference permitted to the Rev. J. BAKER, M.A., 254, Plymouth-grove, Manchester.

"Manna Cake"

Children take it readily. Truly termed by an Agent, "The Children's Friend." A First Class Family Medicine for every household. Highly approved by Adults. Manna Cake is the mildest and yet the most certain in action of all aperients; it does not gripe, and leaves no after constipation. A singularly mild, pleasant, and efficacious substitute for Castor Oil.

From W. H. HAYWARD, Chemist, Trowbridge:—"A Physician in the West of England says he gave Calomel and Jalap in repeated doses without effect, but a Manna Cake acted almost immediately."

Ask for Manna Cake, price 1s. 3d. per packet of one doz., of any chemist or medicine vendor. Wholesale of BARCLAY'S; EDWARDS; HOVENDEN'S; NEWBERY'S MAY ROBERTS; SANGER & SONS; SUTTON & CO.; &c., &c.

TWENTY-TWO PRIZE MEDALS AWARDED TO THE FIRM.

FRY'S

Pure Concentrated

COCOA

J. S. FRY & SONS
FRY'S
PURE
COCOA

Prepared by a new and special scientific process securing extreme solubility, and developing the finest flavour of the Cocoa.—"It is especially adapted to those whose digestive organs are weak, and I strongly recommend it as a substitute for tea for young persons."—Sir Chas. A. Cameron, President Royal College of Surgeons, Ireland, &c.

"The Christian" will be sent by the Publishers post-free to any address in the United Kingdom, for 12 months, for 6s. 10d., including Double Numbers.
"The Christian" (weekly) and the HERALD OF MERCY (monthly) will be sent to the United States or Canada, for 12 months, for $2, which may be remitted by a Two-Dollar Bill.

THE Religious Tract Society's List.

JUST PUBLISHED. Price 8s. in handsome cloth, gilt edges.

NORWEGIAN PICTURES. Drawn with Pen and Pencil. With a glance at Sweden and the Gotha Canal. By RICHARD LOVETT, M.A. With a Map and one hundred and twenty-seven Illustrations, engraved by E. WHYMPER, R. TAYLOR, PEARSON, and others.

"One of the most charming books on Norway that has appeared for a long time. It is thoroughly creditable to all concerned in its production, and well deserves to be one of the successes of the season."—Academy.

"An extremely well got up, handsome, and useful book for a present."—Scotsman.

THE HISTORY OF ISRAEL AND JUDAH, from the Sacrifice in Carmel to the Death of Jehu. By ALFRED EDERSHEIM, M.A., D.D., author of "The Temple: Its Ministry and Services," &c. Forming Vol. VI. of The Bible History. Crown 8vo. 2s. 6d., cloth boards.

THE LIFE OF LIVES; or, The Story of Jesus of Nazareth in its Earliest Form. By Rev. W. S. LEWIS, M.A., author of "The Great Problem; or, Christianity as it is," &c. 2s. 6d., cloth.

FOR YOUNG PEOPLE.

THE LIFE OF JESUS CHRIST THE SAVIOUR. By Mrs. WATSON. Specially designed for thoughtful young men and women. With many Fine Engravings. Crown 8vo., 5s., cloth, bevelled boards.

BIBLE TALES FOR INFANT MINDS. With forty full page Illustrations. Small 4to., 3s. 6d., cloth boards, gilt edges.

EVERYDAY LIFE IN CHINA; or, Scenes along River and Road in the Celestial Empire. By EDWIN J. DUKES. With a map and Illustrations from the author's sketches, engraved by E. WHYMPER. Crown 8vo., 5s., cloth boards.

HINDUISM PAST AND PRESENT. By J. MURRAY MITCHELL, M.A., LL.D. With an account of Recent Hindu Reformers, and a brief comparison between Hinduism and Christianity. Crown 8vo., 4s., cloth boards.

JOTTINGS FROM THE PACIFIC. By the Rev. W. WYATT GILL, B.A., author of "Life in the Southern Isles," and joint author of "Work and Adventure in New Guinea." Illustrated. 5s., cloth.

IN SOUTHERN INDIA. A Visit to some of the chief Mission Stations in the Madras Presidency. By Mrs. MURRAY MITCHELL, author of "In India, a Missionary's Wife among the Wild Tribes of South Bengal," &c. Illustrations. 6s., cloth.

EVERYDAY LIFE IN SOUTH INDIA; or, The Story of Coopooswamey. An Autobiography for Boys and Girls. With many fine Engravings. Imperial 16mo., 3s. 6d., cloth boards, gilt edges.

BY-PATHS OF BIBLE KNOWLEDGE.

EGYPT AND SYRIA. Their Physical Features in Relation to Bible History. By Sir J. W. DAWSON, Principal of McGill College, Montreal, F.G.S., F.R.S. With many Illustrations. Crown 8vo., 3s., cloth boards.

ASSYRIA: ITS PRINCES, PRIESTS, AND PEOPLE. By A. H. SAYCE, LL.D., M.A., Deputy Professor of Comparative Philology, Oxford. Illustrated. 3s., cloth boards.

THE DWELLERS OF THE NILE. Chapters on the Life, Literature, History, and Customs of Ancient Egypt. By E. A. WALLIS BUDGE, M.A., Assistant in Department of Oriental Antiquities, British Museum. With many Illustrations. Crown 8vo., 3s., cloth boards.

COMPANIONS FOR A QUIET HOUR.

SONGS OF SPIRITUAL THOUGHT. By GEORGE RAWSON. 1s. 6d., cloth boards.

"Mr. Rawson is one of the most accomplished of our modern hymn writers. There are few who have contributed hymns of such exquisite beauty and such rare sweetness as are to be found in this collection."—Congregationalist

HYMNS OF THE PRESENT CENTURY. Translated from the German by Rev. JOHN KELLY, Editor of the "Present Day Tracts," &c. 1s. 6d., cloth.

"The translations are good, and several of them are truly excellent."—Ecclesiastical Gazette. "A well-printed little volume, giving a good selection from modern German Hymnology."—Christian Chronicle.

NEW ANNUALS.

THE LEISURE HOUR ANNUAL VOL. The Family Journal of Instruction and Recreation, contains 830 pages of interesting reading, with a Coloured Frontispiece, and 282 Illustrations. It forms a handsome Illustrated Book for a Present. Price 7s. cloth; 8s. 6d. gilt edges; 10s. 6d. half calf.

THE SUNDAY at HOME ANNUAL VOL. The Family Magazine for Sabbath Reading, contains 828 pages with Illustrations in Colours and 213 Wood Engravings. A very suitable book for presentation. Price 7s. cloth; 8s. 6d. extra, gilt edges; 10s. 6d. half calf.

THE GIRL'S OWN ANNUAL. The Sixth Volume of the "Girl's Own Paper." Containing 832 pages of interesting and useful reading. Stories; music; practical papers; medical papers; needlework, plain and fancy; helpful papers; reasonable and seasonable dress, &c., &c. Profusely illustrated. Price 8s. in handsome cloth; 9s. 6d. with gilt edges.

THE BOY'S OWN ANNUAL. The Seventh Volume of the "Boy's Own Paper." Containing 832 pages of Tales, Adventure, Games for every Season, and Instructive Papers written so as to be read by boys and youths. With many Coloured and Wood Engravings. Price 8s. handsome cloth; 9s. 6d. gilt edges.

BOOKS FOR EVERYBODY.

Please write for the Society's ILLUSTRATED LIST OF BOOKS FOR PRESENTATION and the SELECTED AND DESCRIPTIVE LIST OF BOOKS.

LONDON: 56, PATERNOSTER-ROW.

Published by Messrs. HATCHARD.

By BISHOP OXENDEN.

- SHORT COMMENTS ON S. MATTHEW AND S. MARK. For Family Worship. Crown 8vo., 3s. 6d.
- TOUCHSTONES; or, Christian Graces and Characters Tested. Fcap. 8vo., 2s. 6d.
- THE PARABLES OF OUR LORD. 35th Thousand. Fcap. 8vo., large type, 3s.
- THE PATHWAY OF SAFETY; or, Counsel to the Awakened. 291st Thousand. Fcap. 8vo., large type, 2s. 6d. Cheap Edition, small type, 1s.
- THE CHRISTIAN LIFE. 53rd Thousand. Fcap. 8vo., cloth, large type, 2s. 6d. Cheap Edition, small type, limp, 1s.
- PORTRAITS FROM THE BIBLE. Old Testament. 37th Thousand. Fcap. 8vo., cloth, 2s. 6d. New Testament. 25th Thousand. Fcap. 8vo., cloth, 2s. 6d.
- PRAYERS FOR PRIVATE USE. 118th Thousand. 18mo., cloth, 1s.; roan, 2s.; morocco or calf, 3s.
- WORDS OF PEACE; or, The Blessings and Trials of Sickness. 71st Thousand. Fcap. 8vo., cloth, 1s.
- THE HOME BEYOND; or, A Happy Old Age. 163rd Thousand. Fcap. 8vo., cloth, 1s. 6d.

Over 2,000,000 Copies of this Author's Works have been sold.

By the Author of the "PEEP OF DAY."

- STREAKS OF LIGHT. 54th Thousand. 52 Illustrations. 1s. 6d., 2s. 6d., and 3s.
- LINE UPON LINE. Two Parts. Part I. 312th Thousand. 30 Illustrations. 9d., 1s. 4d., 2s. 6d., and 3s. Part II. 246th Thousand. 30 Illustrations. 9d., 1s. 4d., 2s. 6d., and 3s.
- PRECEPT UPON PRECEPT. 48th Thousand. 68 Illustrations. 1s. 6d., 2s. 6d., and 3s.
- APOSTLES PREACHING TO JEWS AND GENTILES. 17th Thousand. 27 Illustrations. 1s. 4d., 2s. 6d., and 3s.
- LINES LEFT OUT. 56th Thousand. 28 Illustrations. 1s. 6d., 2s. 6d., 3s.
- KINGS OF ISRAEL AND JUDAH. 27th Thousand. 27 Illustrations. 1s. 6d., 2s. 6d., and 3s.
- THE CAPTIVITY OF JUDAH. 13th Thousand. 27 Illustrations. 1s. 6d., 2s. 6d., and 3s.
- MORE ABOUT JESUS. 62nd Thousand. 26 Illustrations. 1s. 4d., 2s. 6d., and 3s.

Over 1,500,000 Copies of this Author's Works have been sold.

HATCHARDS, 187, PICCADILLY, LONDON.

THE EASTERN CRISIS IN AFFGHANISTAN AND ROUMELIA

The March of Spiritualism, Theosophy, Pyramidism, Sun-Worship, Astrology, and Palmistry, and the Political and Social Moves in the Direction of the Apocalyptic Babylon during the present year.

READ

THE EXPECTED RAPTURE OF THE CHURCH,

OR,

The Analogy of Prophecy and Established Fact.

(PUBLISHED IN DECEMBER, 1884.)

Price Six Shillings.

By G. WARRAND HOUGHTON.

"We commend the book to the thoughtful attention of our readers as an honest and impartial attempt to elucidate the teaching of Scripture on one of the most important doctrines of revelation."—The Christian.

ELLIOT STOCK, 62, Paternoster-row, E.C.

PARISH OR LOCAL SHEET ALMANACK.—Beautifully illustrated, and compiled with a view to its usefulness in Cottage Homes, Working Men's Clubs, Reading Rooms, &c. The Illustrations are particularly attractive, and in appearance and value this Almanack is one of the best published. It contains Daily Readings of the Bible, and valuable information as to Management of the Greenhouse, Post Office Savings Bank, Licences, &c. Specimen and terms from W. H. & L. COLLINGRIDGE, 149, Aldersgate-street, London, E.C.

THE SAVIOUR'S WATCHWORD. "His Triple Reply to Satan." "It is written," Matthew iv. 6, 7, 10. "Are we on our Watchtowers." "A Week of Prayer." "Signs of the Times." "Reflections on the Past." Warning words to England at the close of the XIXth century. Strange predictions in France, 1783, &c. For private circulation, price Twopence, or 1s. 3d. per dozen for distribution. Apply to Mrs. GOODE, Holme Lea, Abbey-road, Llandudno.

Miss Hack's New Book.
This day, handsomely bound, 5s.

FAITHFUL SERVICE.

Sketches of Christian Women.

BY MARY PRIOR HACK.

By the same Author,

CHRISTIAN WOMANHOOD.

Elegantly bound, 5s.

CONSECRATED WOMEN.

Handsomely bound, 5s.

SELF-SURRENDER.

Cloth elegant, 5s.

"A most delightful book, written by a woman about women, and for women, though it may be read by men with equal pleasure and profit. Each of the eleven chapters contains in brief the life, history, and work of some sister who was made perfect through service or suffering."—Christian.

London: HODDER & STOUGHTON, 27, Paternoster-row.

DR. PARKER'S PEOPLE'S BIBLE.

Now Ready, the Second Volume, price 8s.

LEVITICUS — NUMBERS.

By JOSEPH PARKER, D.D.,
Minister of the City Temple, London.

Recently Published.

VOL. I. THE BOOK OF GENESIS. 8vo., 8s.

"This is a worthy commencement of what Dr. Parker intends to be the literary and devotional masterpiece of his life. In this work the force, the originality, the effective style, the intensely practical teaching of the famous pastor of the City Temple are exhibited at their best."—Methodist Times.

VOL. II. THE BOOK OF EXODUS. 8vo., 8s.

"This second volume on Exodus is a worthy successor of the volume of Genesis. There is the same masterly sure handling of thought and word—the same inevitable clearness and courage of intellect—the same unspent wealth of every-day detail and of spiritual insight—the same touches of heartfelt pathos—the same strokes of compacted power. We only add, that to make the old Divine Book a new Divine Book is indeed a great gift and grace, and Dr. Parker has received both; and to make many hearts feel afresh its unspeakable help and healing, is surely the highest reward any man can have."—Rev. Dr. Graham.

London: HAZELL, WATSON & VINEY, Lim., Long Acre,
Sold also by
HODDER & STOUGHTON, 27, Paternoster-row, E.C.

NEW YEAR MOTTO CARDS.

With Original Verses by GEORGIANA M. TAYLOR,
Author of "Oh, to be Nothing!"

"MY EXPECTATION IS FROM HIM."

A MOTTO FOR 1886.

Neatly printed, with ribbon loop for hanging up, 1s. 2d. per dozen, post free; also on Leaflets 1s. 1d. per 100. Or with other Motto Hymns by the same author, in assorted packets, same prices. Specially suited for distributions in Bible Classes, Christian Associations, &c.

Also by the same Author, lines entitled,

"CONSIDER!"

A WATCHWORD FOR THE NEW YEAR.

On large cards, printed in extra-sized type (for hanging up), price 1s. 8d. (post free) per packet of Six. Uniform with the above, at same price,

OUR HAPPY HOME.
THINK AND THANK.
"WE WALK BY FAITH, NOT BY SIGHT."

Also on tinted cards, gilt, lines entitled, "My Heart's Desire for Thee," and "Heartfelt Wishes;" both suitable for Christmas. Price 1s. 1d. per packet.

To be had only from G. M. T., Young Women's Christian Association, 14, Regent-street, Leamington.

The Book Season,

1885-6.

VISITORS to London and Residents in the Metropolis are invited to visit the Book Saloon at 9, Paternoster-row, where they will find, conveniently arranged for inspection, one of the Largest and Choicest Collections of Evangelical and Temperance Literature.

The SALOON is open from 9 till 6;
SATURDAYS 9 till 2.

S. W. PARTRIDGE & CO., 9, Paternoster-row, London.

GEORGE YARD RAGGED SCHOOLS, &c., Whitechapel, E.

George Holland thankfully acknowledges receiving from G. & L., 10s.; Anonymous, £1.

The Infant Day Nursery. Free Ragged Day Schools. Work amongst Little Girls. Toy Classes. Rations of Food to Hungry Children. Clothing lent to Destitute Scholars. Room to room Visitation. Classes and Meetings for Elder Girls and Young Women. Mutual Industrial Classes for Lads. Mission to Inebriate Women. Lodging House Services. Poor Women's Sewing Class. Evangelistic Services, Bible Classes, &c.

Friends are invited to visit the Institution any day but Saturday.

Post-office Orders should be made payable at 66, High-street, Whitechapel, E. Letters and parcels should be addressed to George Holland, The Ragged Schools, George-yard, High-street, Whitechapel, London, E.

THE BENEVOLENT OR STRANGERS' FRIEND SOCIETY.

Treasurer, Ald Sir R. N. Fowler, Bart, M.P.
J. H. Anderson, Esq., Chairman.
Clarence Smith, Esq., J.P., Hon. Secretary.

For one hundred years this Institution has visited and relieved the destitute sick, by an entirely unpaid agency, consisting of over 280 Christian men and women.

Funds are urgently needed.

The Committee will be thankful for the Society being remembered in the testamentary arrangements of the benevolent.—Office of the Society, 82, Finsbury-pavement, E.C.

THE COMMITTEE of the Ladies' Samaritan Society of the National Hospital for the Paralysed and Epileptic, 25, Queen's-square, Bloomsbury, earnestly plead for contributions in aid of the poorer patients and their families. The smallest gifts in money or clothing will be thankfully acknowledged by the Committee. Old coats and trousers are much needed.

ANXIETY OF SOUL.—Any to whom the way of salvation is not clear, are invited to communicate, either personally or by letter, to W. S., care of Evangelistic Secretary, Exeter Hall, Strand, W.C.

LATYMER ROAD MISSION.—Infant Day Nursery. Boys' and Girls' Evening Shelters.—An earnest cry for help from the West.—The funds of this Mission are so low that the Committee are compelled to ask for Help. Sunday Schools, Night Schools, Gospel Preaching, Youths' Institute. Bands of Hope, Mothers' Meetings, are a few of the various agencies.—Aulay Macaulay, Hon. Sec., Blechynden-street, Notting-hill, W. Gifts in kind are always welcome.

THE GENERAL ELECTION AND THE LORD'S DAY.—The Committee of the Lord's Day Society appeal for Funds. The crisis is great. The work is great. Help the Committee to enlighten public opinion, and to influence the Elections in favour of the holy Rest Day. Help may be sent to the Treasurer, F. A. Bevan, Esq., 54, Lombard-street, E.C.; or to the undersigned at 20, Bedford-street, Strand, W.C. John Gritton, D.D., Secretary.

A HUNDRED GUINEAS has been given by W. C. G. for training a Lady at the Zenana and Medical Mission School, 58, St. George's-road, S.W. Application to be made to Hon. Sec. Next term commences Jan. 7, 1886.

LONDON FEMALE PENITENTIARY, 191, High-street, Stoke Newington, N. (Founded at Pentonville.)—This Institution has been for 78 years sheltering the unfortunate, mitigating their sorrows, and by means of religious instruction and industrial training, fitting them to occupy positions of usefulness. Never was such a charity more needed. Present number of inmates, 68. The Committee being in want of funds, earnestly plead for help. Contributions, however small, will be thankfully received by Barclay, Bevan & Co., Bankers, 54, Lombard-street; the office of The Christian; and at the above Institution.—W. E. Page, Secretary.

PRIVATE MEDICAL HOME, 9, Lupus-street, St. George's-square, South Belgravia, for Ladies and Children (medical, surgical, and confinement cases).—For terms apply to Lady Superintendent. The Trustees earnestly ask further contributions towards the Free Bed Fund for ladies in reduced circumstances.

CHRISTMAS PRESENTS. — On Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, December 1, 2, and 3, from 12 o'clock to 5, the Ladies of the Society for Promoting Female Welfare (President, Lady Gertrude Foljambe), propose holding, at 47, Weymouth street, Portland-place, a Special Sale of Industrial Work, from the affiliated Institutions, of Winter Garments suitable for gifts to the Poor, and useful and ornamental articles for Christmas trees, &c., made by ladies in reduced circumstances, the cripples, and the blind.

CONVALESCENT AND SEASIDE HOME, Beach Rocks, Sandgate, Kent.—Admission by small weekly payments, with recommendation by subscriber or by arrangement.—For particulars, apply to Henry H. Board, London Samaritan Society, 57 and 59, Ludgate-hill, London, E.C.

FAITH-HEALING and Power for Service.—Meetings conducted by the Rev. John Allen or his workers. Blackheath Hill Greenwich (Auction Rooms, Trinity-street), Tuesdays, 7 p.m. Camberwell Gate (The Hall, Horsley-street), Tuesdays, 7 p.m. Hackney (Trinity Church, Triangle, Mare-street), Sundays, 8 p.m.; Mondays, 7 p.m.; on Fridays, Baptism of the Spirit, 7 p.m.; Ilford Workmen's Hall, Thursdays, 7 p.m.; Mildmay-park (Mission Hall), Wall-street, near Station, Thursdays, 7 p.m.

Postal address, Balclutha Lodge, Southgate, N.

Educational.

MRS. NORWOOD EARLE is anxious to obtain a few more Boarders and day Scholars. Home comforts. Mother's care. High testimonials. Healthy part of Ealing.
Gowbusk Villa, Richmond-road, South Ealing.

MARLBOROUGH COLLEGE FOR YOUNG LADIES, Larkbeare, Exeter, Devon. For Resident Pupils only. Miss Bamber offers to parents seeking safe Christian training for their daughters the advantages of a University education, without its attendant dangers. Miss Darling, of Newnham College, Cambridge, L.L.A. of St. Andrew's University, is Resident Head English Teacher at Marlborough College. The highest testimonials from Clergymen, Ministers, and Gentlemen whose daughters have been entrusted to Miss Bamber's care. Pupils are always accompanied from London.

BELLE VUE, Ambleside.—Good School for Girls.—Having increased accommodation, Mrs. Fleming can now receive six additional pupils. House well and healthily situated, with large rooms, garden, tennis ground. Careful Christian training, and thorough teaching. Distinguished success in Cambridge Examinations, which are optional. Resident foreign and English governesses. Visiting masters. 50 to 60 guineas.

SOUTHSEA.—Holland House, Clarence-parade.—School for the daughters of gentlemen. Christian training. Home comforts and care. Preparation for the Oxford Local, College of Preceptors, and South Kensington Examinations.—For prospectus, with references, apply to the Principal.

LONDON.—First-class Education for the Daughters of Gentlemen in an establishment of long standing, conducted by members of the Church of England, occupying a spacious house in a most healthy locality in the West-end. The pupils have the advantage of loving care and safe training while pursuing their studies under first-rate Professors; their health, individual temper, and disposition carefully and tenderly watched over, and the whole system based on Christian principles. — Delta, Boddington's Library, Notting-hill-gate, W.

BAYSWATER.—St. John's College, close to Parks. High-class Boys' School. Large, well-ventilated class-rooms, 55 feet long. School chapel. Good playground. Thorough teaching. Inspection invited.—Rev. C. Baker, 41-43, Moscow-road, Pembridge-square, W.

FRANCE. — HAVRE. — Mdlle. Cournil de Lavergne, 29, Rue d'Epremenil. Protestant Boarding-school for Young Ladies. Comfortable home. First-rate instruction. Highest references (Pasteur Theodore Monod) in France, England, Germany, Holland.

PARIS. — Mdlle. Vienot, 36, Avenue des Princes, Gare d'Auteuil, Paris. Protestant Boarding school for Young Ladies. Careful instruction. Pleasant, comfortable house, with large garden. References and prospectus on application

MR. EDWIN ARROWSMITH, of the Children's Special Service Mission, recommends any parents requiring the comforts and privileges of a good Christian home, combined with an excellent education, for their Daughters, to apply to D. C. L., Farley's Library, FitzJohn's-parade, Hampstead. One vacancy in January. Terms 100 to 120 guineas per annum.

MISS WATTS (Evangelist) has vacancies in her quiet country home for two young ladies, who will be educated by her sister. Assisted by a competent governess and masters.
Wetherden, Stowmarket.

A LADY, with select Morning School, solicits Boarders. Christian training. English instruction, languages, music, drawing, painting. Eight guineas per term (inclusive).—Carlyle House, Warkworth-street, Cambridge. Half term, November 3.

TO FILL VACANCIES, a few Resident Pupils can be received on very advantageous terms, in a high-class Ladies' School, in the South of England. Highest references.—Alpha, 24, St. Lawrence-road, N. Kensington, London, W.

PARIS EN FAMILLE.—Madame de Pradel (sister of Lieut. Bellot, who perished in the search for Sir John Franklin) receives a few Boarders wishing to acquire conversational French, or studying at the Sorbonne Collége de France, where free lectures are given by the most eminent professors. — 86, Boulevard de Port Royal, Paris. Highest references from late English boarders.

KEMPLEY HOUSE, Coronation-road, Bristol.—Principal, Mrs. Prescott. An excellent education for Girls. Ten guineas a term, payable in advance. Accomplishments and all expenses included, except for books. See Prospectus.

LONGTON COLLEGE, Longton Grove, Sydenham, S.E.—High-class School for Girls, based on Scripture principles. Pupils very successful in public examinations. Moderate terms. Principal, Mrs. Kent, assisted by her daughters, certificated Oxford and London Universities, College of Preceptors, South Kensington, &c. References to parents.

BEDFORD.—Melrose House.—Principals, the Misses Ray, daughters of the late Rev. R. Ray. Pupils received for high-class education and board. Personal supervision, with Christian training and home comforts. Preparation for Cambridge and other Local Examinations when desired.

SCHOOL WANTED.—Could anyone recommend an opening for a Widow Lady and her Daughter, who are in urgent need of employment for a livelihood?
H., Mr. Boxall, The Polygon, Southsea.

RESIDENT ENGLISH GOVERNESS required; small old-established Ladies' School, London. Decided Christian; thorough disciplinarian; teaching good English and advanced Arithmetic for Locals. Capitation fee if introducing pupils.—Write full particulars, Bonâ Fide, 45, Downs-park road, Clapton.

TO GODLY PARENTS.—The undermentioned (who is in no way connected with the school) is desirous of recommending an old-established YOUNG GENTLEMEN'S BOARDING SCHOOL, DELIGHTFULLY SITUATED ON HIGH GROUND, WITH VIEWS OF THE SEA on the South Coast, a short run from London, in which a thorough and a first-class Education is given, based upon the teaching of the Holy Scriptures.

It is one of the few remaining schools in which the power of the Gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ influences the hearts and conduct of the pupils.

The success, happiness, and training of the Boys have been so remarkable in this school that a BOOK OF TESTIMONIALS GIVEN BY THE PARENTS, together with the papers of Examinations passed and Honours gained, should be read to appreciate results so unusual. Two Vice-Chancellors have placed their wards as pupils in the school. Reference kindly permitted to Dr. Thorn, Paddington, London.

BEDFORD.—Howard College.—Principal, Mrs. J. Compton Burnett.—A Boarding School for Girls. Modern methods. A very superior Education and careful Christian training. During past year pupils have passed the Cambridge Local Examination, College of Preceptors, Royal Academy Local, and Trinity College. Sixty-six passes in last two years. Eighteen distinctions. Vacancy for Governess-Pupil at Christmas; premium.

EDUCATION.—High-class School for Young Ladies.—Finishing Masters, Certificated Governesses, and personal supervision, with home comforts. Pupils prepared for any examination. Instruction made pleasant, and no overworking countenanced. Terms moderate and inclusive. Highly recommended by parents of pupils and Rev. C. H. Spurgeon.—Prospectus on application to Mrs. Hale, A.C.P., 1, Carlton-mansions, Clapham-rise, London, S.W.

Balham, May 29, 1880.

I am very reluctant to recommend schools, because I am not always able to judge of the interior arrangements; but in this case I have the utmost pleasure in standing as reference. I can highly commend Mrs Hale, and have the greatest confidence in her capacity, management, and character, having known her for several years. C. H. Spurgeon.

SEAFORD COLLEGE, SUSSEX.—Finest and healthiest site in England, facing the Channel. Preparation for all Examinations, the professions, public schools, and commerce. The widest intellectual and physical training are added to the greatest possible care and comfort. All learn French and shorthand. University masters. Athletics and good sea bathing. Refined Christian home. All the advantages of the highest class schools, at inclusive and moderate fees.—Address, The Principal.

WANDSWORTH HIGH SCHOOL FOR GIRLS,

EAST HILL HOUSE, S.W.
Lady Principal—Mrs. WINTER
(Widow of the late Rev. C. Winter).

Conducted on modern principles. Preparation for Public Examinations. Professors attend for music, drawing, French, German, singing, dancing, and calisthenics. A large playground, with lawns, swings, &c., is at the service of the pupils, and the extensive commons of Wandsworth and Clapham are within a few minutes' walk. Boarders receive home comforts and careful supervision. References to Rev. Andrew Mearns, Memorial Hall, E.C.; Mr. Robert Rae, National Temperance League, 337, Strand; and to parents of pupils.

THE FERNS, South Hayling, Hants.—Ladies' Collegiate School. Boarders received on moderate terms. Comfortable home. Most healthy locality; recommended by medical profession.—Principal, H. Lewis.

HOME SCHOOL for Sons of Gentlemen, kept by experienced Tutor, in healthy neighbourhood, near Brighton. Thorough grounding in liberal English, Latin, French, &c. Christian training.
Principal, Athelstan Lodge, Hassocks, Sussex.

BOYS receive thorough Christian Training and sound Education with Mr. and Mrs. Dixon, Middle-class school, Kingston-on-Thames. Number limited. Very happy home. Beautiful locality. 20 to 25 guineas.

MISS BROWN seeks a Holiday engagement for a Christian German Governess. French, drawing, music. Speaks English fluently. Can be well recommended.
Fair View, 89, Cazenove-road, Stamford-hill.

A LADY HIGHLY recommends an experienced North German Finishing Governess. Fluent French, German, English, botany, music, painting. Salary, £80 to £100.
Asna, Crambe Vicarage, York.

HOLIDAY ENGAGEMENT. — German Christian Governess, thorough gentlewoman, wanted, for Christmas. Please send photograph and particulars to
Mrs. Morris, Ramsey, Isle of Man.

A GOVERNESS desires to give French or German lessons once or twice a week in the afternoon. Good references.—Mlle. Landolt, 3, Kent-terrace, Regent's-park, N.W.

AS GOVERNESS or Companion.—A Hanoverian Lady (25) desires holiday engagement from December 21 to January 21. German, French, English, good music. Highest references.—Fräulein, Pentland House, Wandsworth-common, S.W.

YOUNG LADY (25) desires a re-engagement, either as Governess in a Christian family to children under 12, or as Companion. She would greatly value a Christian Home. Acquirements, English, French, German, music, and singing.
Miss J. Ray, St. Finnock, Liskeard, Cornwall.

EDUCATION, Gratuitous, offered by Principal of a select school, to a gentleman's daughter. Small remuneration for board and laundress required. Strictly confidential.
L. E., May's Advertising Offices, 159, Piccadilly.

THE POPLARS' SCHOOL, Addlestone, Weybridge (in connection with the Christian Women's Education Union). Director: Miss Cavendish. Pupils prepared for the Cambridge Local and College of Preceptors' examinations. Terms from twenty to thirty guineas per annum.—For particulars apply to Miss Scott, Principal, The Poplars, Addlestone, Weybridge.

A LADY DESIRES re-engagement as Music Governess. Certificated, and many years' experience. Good testimonials. Or as Companion.
Miss Lawson, Sandal road, Wakefield.

A LADY in North Devon wishes to find a little Girl, about 13, to educate with her daughter of that age. A competent resident governess. Every home comfort and care. References given and required.—Mrs. E. Rawson, Stoneleigh, Northam, Bideford, N. Devon.

ADVERTISER, experienced Governess, would be grateful for information of opening in healthy place for Girls' School; or, Re-engagement, offering home to daughter (eleven).
V., 7, Randolph square, Ethelbert road, Margate.

Appointments, Situations, &c., Wanted.

TO TEMPERANCE HOMES, or Societies, Charitable Institutions, &c. — The friends of an educated middle class man, aged 65, in good health and able-bodied, and who has relapsed into habits of intemperance, seek for him a Home and employment (combined). They are willing to pay or subscribe a reasonable sum per annum. He has been accustomed to, and took in past years, great interest in Temperance work, and would, it is believed, do so again.—R. S., care of R. A. Knight & Co., 12, Abchurch-lane, London, E.C.

EMPLOYMENT WANTED, at once, by good decorator, painter, glazier, &c. Has lately been jobbing on own account. Married. At present superintending Mission work; three years' experience in same, and is anxious to get daily labour, where he could either commence or carry on Gospel meetings amongst working classes. Good references.—W. A. Chant, 16, Vicarage-terrace, Walham-green, S.W.

AS FOOTMAN, single-handed, or under a butler. Age 19. Understands carriage work. Height 5 ft. 7 in. Good references. Town or country.
J. D., Wilnecote House, near Tamworth.

A CLERGYMAN WISHES to obtain a situation for a youth, aged 16, as Page, under a butler, in a Christian family.—Rev. J. G. Gregory, Lansdowne House, Hove, Brighton.

CHRISTIAN MILLINERS, Dressmakers, Drapers, Confectioners, Bookmakers, &c. wanting assistants or book-keepers are invited to apply to Miss Hall, Y.W.C.A. Business Agency, 101, Mortimer-street, W.

RE-ENGAGEMENT desired, as Useful Companion, or Lady Help, by young lady. Cheerful, and of Christian principles. South of England preferred. References exchanged.
E., care of Rev. N. McGrath, Brompton, York.

A LADY SEEKS an engagement as Companion-Help to a lady engaged in Mission work. French and German acquired on the Continent.
W., Clinton Villa, Oakfield grove, Clifton, Bristol.

A SWISS LADY requires a situation as Companion to an invalid Lady. Or Governess: French and German, musical, kind, helpful in illness, attractive in person and manner. Very capable.
Mrs. Alfred Keep, Lamorna, St. Leonards-on-Sea.

ENGAGEMENT REQUIRED, as Lady Companion, Lady Housekeeper, or to assist the Principal in the house management of a school. Invalid not objected to.—H., Miss Morcom, Bookseller, Liskeard, Cornwall.

RE-ENGAGEMENT required after Christmas by a Lady, as Superintendent in a Home, Institution, or a widower's family. Experienced; good references. Church of England (Evangelical).
Matron, 203, North Hill-street, Liverpool.

YOUNG LADY desires engagement as Assistant-Matron, or Wardrobe-keeper. Good references.—Lucy Ashton, Oddingley Cottage, Witton, Droitwich.

WANTED in a private Asylum, a situation, by an experienced Attendant
F. G., 175, Earl's-court-road, South Kensington.

A LADY WISHES to recommend a Christian widow, aged [illegible], abstainer, to assist in a cottage hospital, small Home for children, or any situation where the work is not heavy.—Miss Woodfall, 9, Mount Ephraim-road, Tunbridge Wells.

EDWARD W. THOMAS, 200, Euston-road, N.W., is anxious to place a House and Parlour Maid in the service of a Christian lady. Salary nominal for the first six months.

HOUSE OR PARLOURMAID.—A Lady wants to find a place in Christian household for a good servant. No mixed place. £18. Mrs. Ward, Pishill Vicarage, Henley-on-Thames.

A LADY WISHES to recommend an experienced Coachman, who is seeking a re-engagement. Married. Good character.—K. F., care of M. Bushell, Cornfield road, Eastbourne.

CHILDREN'S SERVICES.—During his stay in England, Mr. GEORGE SINGER is conducting meetings in schoolrooms and halls, and will gladly speak anywhere; in town or country.—5, Talbot-road, Bayswater, W.

A CHRISTIAN MAN seeks employment in Mission work, or place of trust. Good references.
1, Warner-street, Barnsbury, N.

COACHMAN; thorough; married; no family. One or a pair. Total abstainer. Age 34. Can have satisfactory reference from present employer.—F. H., care of Dr. Chambers, 43, Carlisle street, Edgware road, W.

ATTENDANT, or Useful Maid, to elderly or invalid lady. Good needlewoman; can do dressmaking; no objection to light housework. Well recommended. Middle age.—F. E. C., Chesnut Cottage, Hanworth-road, Hounslow.

A LADY wishing for a refined home, on mutual terms, offers in return Companionship. Late dinner. Details will oblige.
C. D., 4, Somerset-villas, Selkirk-road, Tooting.

COMPANION. — A Clergyman's Daughter is anxious for engagement to a Lady, or any light post in Christian home. Fond of housekeeping. Could help in studies, or any kind of Christian work. Highest references.
DELTA, 50, St. Giles's, Oxford.

A LADY WISHES to recommend a respectable, middle-aged woman, who was 30 years in her own service, as Nurse to invalid Lady or Gentleman, or as Working Housekeeper. Three years' good character from last situation.
Mrs. L., Summerfield, Forest Hill, S.E.

NURSE.—A Lady wishes to recommend thoroughly trustworthy and experienced Nurse for young baby. First preferred. Near London or other large town. Wages £22.
11, Heathville-road, Gloucester.

AS HOUSEMAID, where a Parlourmaid is kept. Thoroughly respectable young woman, age 21. Tall and strong. Church of England, and Communicant. Good personal character of 1½ years.—E. H, Ridge's Library, 43, Craven-road, Hyde-park.

SERVANTS' AGENCY, SOHO BAZAAR.—Unexceptionable references required. Testimonials of religious character fully appreciated. Male and female servants are in daily attendance from 11 to 2; on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday the number is very large. Entrances, Soho-square, and 77, Oxford-street.

Appointments, Situations, &c., Vacant.

SECRETARY WANTED, for Young Men's Christian Association. Present prospective salary £80.
Apply to ARTHUR C. SADD, Lowestoft.

SECRETARY wanted, for Youths' Institute, London. Married man without family. Duties: evenings, superintend the lads; by day, attend office, collect subscriptions, &c. Christian character indispensable; teetotaller, non-smoker. Security required. Moderate salary, with unfurnished apartments, coals, and gas.—Apply by letter only, with copies of testimonials, stating previous employment, salary required, &c..
T. U. P., 261, Brockley-road, London, S.E.

AN ACTIVE CHRISTIAN WOMAN, with knowledge of cooking, required, to manage Coffee House in country town.—State Church, age, &c., E. A., Culzean, Maybole, N.B.

BIBLEWOMAN-NURSE wanted, for district work in Guildford. An earnest Christian, one who has received hospital training. Active, total abstainer. Age not under 30.
Mrs. FILMER, Stoke House, Guildford.

WANTED, AFTER CHRISTMAS, in a high-class Ladies' School, a Lady as Matron. Must be strong, active, experienced, and a good needlewoman.
PRINCIPAL, 9, Waterloo-road, Birkdale, Southport.

MATRON wanted, for an institution in Brighton. Must understand plain needlework. A member of the Church of England. A total abstainer. Not under 30.—LADY SUPERINTENDENT, Albion Hill Home, Brighton.

MARRIED COUPLE wanted, without children, for management of a well established Coffee Palace in London. Must be abstainers, and have had experience in similar business. Unexceptionable references required.—Address, with full particulars,
C. P., Belton's Library, Knightsbridge.

MAN SERVANT wanted, single-handed, middle-aged, willing to be useful. Abstainer. Must have a good character. A very quiet, easy place.—Call or write to
Mr. M. M., 6, Manson-place, Queen's-gate

AN EXPERIENCED NURSE wanted, age from 25 to 30. Capable of taking charge of an infant. Good needlewoman. Five children in nursery. Under-nurse kept. No beer. Quiet Christian family.—Mrs. AUSTIN, 7, Aubert-park, Highbury, London, N.

NURSES (hospital trained) age 25 to 30, wanted, at the Hastings and St Leonard's Nursing Institute.—Address, enclosing testimonials and photo, The SUPERINTENDENT, 17, Kenilworth-road, St. Leonard's-on-Sea.

NURSE wanted, to take charge of a lady's first baby. The Advertiser would be much obliged to any lady who would kindly recommend a thorough trustworthy, pleasant person.
D., Howard's Printing Office, Sydenham, S.E.

MOTHER'S HELP wanted. True Christian. Fond of children. Needlework.—Mrs. VELLACOTT, Tunnel House, West Thurrock, Essex.

REQUIRED, DEC. 20, for ladies' superior school (small), thoroughly good Cook-Housekeeper, £22, rising £1 yearly to £28. Experienced Children's Maid; must be good needlewoman, take charge of wardrobes, &c., £18; House Parlourmaid, £16; Schoolroom-Maid, £15; useful General Servant to help in bed-rooms in morning, afterwards in kitchen do knives (machine) and boots, &c., £8. All found. Must be abstainers and Christians. Church of England preferred.—E. M. C., Farley's Library, Fitzjohn's-parade, Hampstead.

A CHRISTIAN LADY wanted, to undertake charge of three boys, aged 7, 9, and 11, who attend school. Must be good needlewoman.—Apply by letter, stating salary expected, to Mrs. BISS, 65, Harley-street, W.

WANTED, in quiet family, good plain Cook. Also, kind, cheerful Nurse. Good needlewoman. Under-nurse kept. Ages from 25 Wages £19 and £16.
Mrs. H., 10, Bolton-road, Grove-park, Chiswick

A GOOD PLAIN COOK wanted, as early as possible, for the country. A good character indispensable. Wages £18 to £20, all found.—Mrs. GEO EDWARDS, Beauclerc, Riding Mill, Northumberland.

COOK (good plain) wanted, gentleman's small family. Country. Small dairy. No baking. Good kitchenmaid might suit. Wages £20, all found, fare paid. Abstainer preferred.—Apply, with particulars and references, to Mrs. MURRAY ROGERS, Place Cottage, Fowey, Cornwall.

GOOD COOK wanetd, for Christian family of two. Five servants. Assistance from a girl, after twelve. Wages from £25 to £28 (previously). No beer, all found. Age about 36.
X., Thompson's Library, Malvern.

AN EXPERIENCED COOK wanted, for a small family with three servants. She must be one who values Christian privileges. Total abstainer. Good bread-maker. Economical and cleanly. Wages, all found, £21 per annum.—Mrs. M., 143, Clapham-road, S.W. Before 12, or after 5 p.m.

CAN ANY LADY thoroughly recommend a good Plain Cook? Also a Housemaid. Liberal wages given. Two in family. Four servants. Good personal character indispensable.—Mrs. BOILEAU, Castelnau House, Barnes, S.W.

GOOD COOK wanted, who would assist in management of superior Lodging House.—Address, first instance, C. M., Directory Office, Bournemouth.

GOOD PARLOURMAID wanted, for Christian family of two. Age 27. Thoroughly good, and not short character. State wages. Active. Early riser.
X., Thompson's Library, Malvern.

WANTED, a Christian young Woman, with good character, as House-Parlourmaid, in clergyman's family in country. £12, and all found.
Mrs. WARD, Pishill Vicarage, Henley-on-Thames.

GENERAL SERVANT wanted in small family. Comfortable home. Good wages for a competent servant.
A., 23, The Avenue, Kew Gardens.

CAN ANY LADY recommend Christian General Servant (abstainer), who would value quiet little home? Two Ladies. Widow not objected to. Plain cooking. Own washing. £8 to £10.—BETA, 7, Carlton terrace, Portslade.

WANTED, IN HAMPSHIRE, by a Gentleman, two in family, a truly Christian Woman as General Servant. Healthy, clean in person and work. Little cooking. Wages £18, and raised if deserved.—Address, by letter, S. N., Mr. Williams, 14, Ascupart street, Southampton.

COOK AND HOUSEMAID-WAITRESS, two sisters preferred, for small family. Must be total abstainers.—Apply, by letter only, to Miss FROST, Hamerlaund, Broughton park, Manchester.

A THOROUGHLY TRUSTWORTHY superior General Servant wanted. Able to clean well, and early riser. Able cook comfortably and do a little washing for one lady. Also a useful Parlourmaid. Good plain needlewoman. Wages £18 and £16. No beer.
M., care of Neal, 5, Edgware-road.

WILL ANY LADY recommend strong, active Girl of 16, with good character? Willing to help in house and kitchen.
X., Thompson's Library, Malvern.

GENERAL SERVANT wanted. Superior young Woman who would value comfortable home. Three ladies. No washing. Weekly help given. Must be fair cook. Suburbs.
A. B., 15, Paternoster-row, London.

GENERAL SERVANT WANTED (age 30 to 40). Quiet Christian family of three.—Apply Thursday or Saturday between ten and one, or write. Mrs RUSSELL, 172, Iverson-road, West Hampstead, London.

CHRISTIAN GIRL wanted, or middle aged person, to assist Lady with four children, eldest 6. State wages. Also General Servant. Wages £16. House small.
H., 4, South View Villas, Whitton-rd., Hounslow.

To Let, Apartments, &c.

PERCY'S HOTEL, LONDON.
40, Bedford-place, Bloomsbury-sq., W.C.

This First-class Private Hotel is highly recommended by readers of THE CHRISTIAN from all parts of the world. The Bishop of Algoma writes: "The comfort, perfect order, and attendance at PERCY'S Hotel, render it all that can be desired as a central place of sojourn in this great city." Beds from 1s. 6d. Tea, 1s. 3d. Tariff on application.

W. TAVERNER, Temperance Hotel, 35 and 36, Hunter-street, Judd-street, Euston-road. Five minutes from G.N., Mid., and N.W. Railways. Beds from 1s. 6d. Plain breakfast or tea, 1s. Tariff and testimonials on application. Patronised by ministers of all denominations.

HUTCHINSON'S PRIVATE HOTEL, 24, Guilford-street, Russell-square, the most central position for all parts of London. Extensively patronised and strongly recommended. Home comforts. Terms moderate.

LONDON. — Insull's Temperance Hotel, 20, 21, Burton-crescent, Tavistock-square, W.C.—Five minutes' walk or 1s. cab fare from Euston, St. Pancras, King's Cross Railways; easily reached from other stations. Patronised by readers of THE CHRISTIAN.

ST. LEONARD'S-ON-SEA.—The Widow of the late Rev. FREDERIC WAGSTAFF, and Mrs. LOCKE, offer superior Board and Residence. Replete with every comfort. Close to sea, gardens, &c. Terms moderate.
Meliora House, 21, Carisbrooke-road.

BOURNEMOUTH. — Board and Residence, with home comforts and every attention. House pleasantly situated in one of the healthiest parts.—Terms on application to Miss SEARLE, or Miss HUTTEMAN, Loughtonhurst, West Cliff-gardens.

BRIGHTON.—Sussex House Boarding Establishment, pleasantly situated in the Old Steine having a sea view, and the beautiful Steine Gardens in front. Near to Pavilion, Aquarium and piers. Liberal table, with every home comfort.—Mr & Mrs. Box, 58, Old Steine.

A HOME IN ITALY.—A Christian family having a large house in a very beautiful and healthy locality, near Naples, would be pleased to receive in their circle a married couple or a widow Lady wishing for a comfortable but quiet home, in a warm climate, with a charming position. Terms 25 guineas per month for two people or 30 guineas with private sitting-room; 15 guineas per month for a single person. References exchanged.—For further particulars, Mon. EUGENE VAGNER, St. Michele, Ana Capri, Isola di Capri.

BOURNEMOUTH. — Mancetter, West Cliff.—Superior Boarding House. Very comfortable winter residence. Best position, close to sea and pines. Liberal table.—For terms, &c., address PROPRIETRESS.

WORTHING HOME OF REST for Christians.—Vacancies for the winter. Every comfort. Terms, one to two guineas.—LADY SUPERINTENDENT, Rutherford Lodge, Worthing.

SOUTHSEA. — Solent House Boarding Establishment, 16 and 17, South Parade. Sunny and cheerful position, directly facing sea and the Isle of Wight. Liberal table, and every home comfort. Winter terms from 30s, to 3 guineas a week.—Miss BAKER.

INTEMPERANCE.

COLEMAN HILL HOUSE RETREAT, Halesowen, Worcestershire. For Ladies only.—For terms and all particulars apply to the Proprietors, Townsend House, Halesowen, Worcestershire.

VENTNOR. — A Lady can thoroughly recommend most comfortable furnished Apartments, suitable for winter season. One sitting and three bed-rooms. Good cooking and attendance.
H., 2, Hambrough-road, Ventnor, I. W.

TAUNTON.—A Lady having larger house than required wishes to receive married couple, or two ladies, to board with her. Every comfort; private sitting room.
M., Mr. Hammet, Stationer, North-street.

BOURNEMOUTH.—A Lady confidently recommends two sisters wishing the charge of two quite little children. Loving Christian care and education.
Mrs. Y., Chaddesley, Bournemouth.

FOLKESTONE. — Y.W.C.A. Seaside Home. Comfortable home for ladies during the winter months. Very moderate terms. Reduced fare from London
LADY SUPERINTENDENT, 6, Alexandra-gardens.

THE PRIORY, Bournemouth.—Board and Residence, with every comfort for winter months. House beautifully situated in its own grounds. South aspect. Two minutes' walk from the pier, gardens, and libraries.

SAN REMO, The Home for Invalid Ladies of limited means, re-opened on Nov. 1st.—Applications for admission to be addressed to the SECRETARY, San Remo, Italy.

A LADY WISHES to recommend good Christian Home for child with respectable widow, whose ward she has had the care of for eight years; or would take charge of an aged lady.
M., 2, Doris-street, Kennington-road, London.

HASTINGS.—Board and Residence in a Christian family; or Apartments. Three minutes from sea. Central; home comforts. Highly recommended. Terms moderate.
A. C., 22, Cambridge gardens, Hastings.

BOARD AND RESIDENCE, Tunbridge Wells, offered on most advantageous terms for the winter months. Large commodious rooms, suitable for two. House replete with comfort.
Mrs. HART, Collingdon House

MARGATE.

SHAFTESBURY HOUSE,

The Seaside Home of the Y.M.C.A.

Until March, married ladies and gentlemen with their daughters are received as Boarders. A comfortable Home for invalids. Terms moderate.

A CHRISTIAN Young Lady desires to meet with another, having a small income, to join her in apartments, or as boarder. Companionship desirable.
B. A., 5, Lenthall-road, Dalston.

WILL ANY QUIET LADIES care to occupy a small country house for three months? Terms 15s. a week. Milk, butter, vegetables included
Miss MOORE, Maulden Cottage, Ampthill, Beds.

A DOCTOR'S DAUGHTER desires a Christian Gentlewoman to reside with her. Companionable young lady who would enjoy meetings and lectures preferred. Low terms.
E., 1, Woodhill, Manor-road, Weston-super-Mare.

A LADY WISHES to recommend most comfortable Apartments at very moderate terms
Mrs. STEVENS, 86, Ramsden-road, Balham, S.W.

MENTAL.—A vacancy occurs in a Home, where a small number of Ladies of the upper and middle class is received. The services of an experienced resident physician are supplemented by Christian kindness and care. One hour by Midland from London.
Dr. CRAIG, Bishopstow House, Bedford.

BOARD AND RESIDENCE. — A comfortable home is offered in a quiet family. Liberal table. Terms moderate. Or the care of an invalid lady.—M. M., 46, High-street, Folkestone.

BRIGHTON.—Two ladies wish to meet with Boarders (sisters or friends) to share comfortable, quiet home. Private sitting-room. Pleasant, airy situation. Near church and chapel.
L., Housekeeper, 30, Finsbury pavement.

HASTINGS.—Board and Residence with cheerful family. Liberal table. Large, well-furnished house. 25s. weekly; no extras.—Mr & Mrs. C., at Mr. Streeter's, Castle-road, Hastings.

TO SHARE HOME. — A Lady wishes to meet with another lady to board with view to above. Would not object to change residence, and receive few boarders or pupils. Two in family. References.
BETA, 33, St. James-road, Tunbridge Wells.

LYME REGIS, near Axminster, Dorsetshire.—To Let, for winter months, a pleasant sitting-room or drawing-room, with one or two good bed-rooms. Very near the sea. Terms moderate.—Rev. F. A. WARMINGTON Broad-street, Lyme Regis, Dorset.

APARTMENTS, or Board and Residence offered to a Gentleman, or two friends, with use of an empty room for Mission work. Close to the heath and station
8, Wemyss-road, Blackheath.

WILL A LADY join another in Rooms, 8s. 6d. per week, with attendance? House large and healthy; no children. Those wishing work for the Master would find plenty here.—BERTHA, Housekeeper, 13, Rose-street, Newgate-street.

NORTH LONDON.—Four rooms, 9s. 6d.; or three, 8s. Remarkably cheap.—Write, Mr. WATT, care of Housekeeper, 13, Rose-street, Newgate-street, E.C.

Miscellaneous.

ANXIOUS INQUIRERS are again earnestly invited to write to
Titus iii. 4–7. EVANGELIST, Clapham, S.W.

FLORIDA, the Italy of America.—Orange Groves bought or started and cared for, for non-residents. Money lent, interest 10 per cent. Pupils boarded and instructed.
HUGH MACCALLUM, Solicitor, Winterpark.

PARTNERSHIP. — Drapery or Cloth Trade.—A Christian Gentleman of most thorough business ability and experience, with £1,000 (personally saved), desires a working Partnership in large concern.
S., Box 466, Bradford, Yorks.

AMERICAN ORGANS, Harmoniums, Pianos, of any make, for Church, School, or private purposes, supplied at great reduction through EDE & Co., 177, Upper Thames-street, E.C. Price lists and discounts on application.

LOANS, at 2 per cent. per annum interest, to young tradesmen in the second or third year of their business in the City of London, or within five miles thereof. Loans of £100 to £300 granted upon unquestionable securities being provided.—WILLIAM PAYNE, Clerk of Wilson's Trust, Chamber of London, Guildhall, E.C.

PARTNERSHIP.—A gentleman with capital (about £2,000) wishes to join a Christian in some manufacturing or wholesale business.—Ford, care of Chaplin, 47, North-street, Guildford.

IRON MISSION ROOMS, &c., erected on the most reasonable terms, by R. Saunders, 216, Brecknock-road, London, N. Estimates and designs free. 25 years' practical experience. Also Churches and Schools. &c.

SPECIAL OFFER.—Musical Boxes playing Mr. Sankey's and other sacred airs Messrs. Wales & McCulloch have a limited number of these choice Instruments, by the original Nicole and other eminent makers, which they are offering at greatly reduced prices. Particulars will be sent on application, addressed to 22, Ludgate-hill, London.

ASTHMA.—Persons suffering from Asthma, Difficulty of Breathing, &c., are invited to try (free of charge) a remedy for affording immediate relief.
C., Mr. G. A. Kevworth Hastings

PIANOFORTE, full compass, 36 guinea trichord, prize medal, cottage, by Steinman; short time in use; warranted 10 years. Price 14 guineas. Will pack and send on approval.—Trustee, 9, St. Thomas-road, Finsbury-park, London, N.

AMERICAN ORGAN, £8 15s., carriage paid. Five stops; knee swell. Sweet tone. Solid walnutwood case. Early English design; beautifully polished, and richly panelled.—Approval.
J. Hayes, 23, Anatola-road, London, N.

MATTHEW VI. 4.—Will some dear Christian brothers or sisters help two Ladies to keep their Home of Industry, which, through rascality, they must otherwise lose?
Gratitude, Whiteman, Stationer, Hastings.

SAVE IN YOUR HOUSEKEEPING.—Potatoes, fruits, and vegetables at wholesale prices. 70 lb. potatoes (cook like balls of flour), 14 lb carrots, 14 lb onions, 14 lb turnips; the lot only 5s. 9d. Also 112 lb. floury potatoes, 5s 6d. Choice American dessert, or cooking apples, per bushel, 5s. 9d.; per ½-barrel, 10s.; per barrel, 18s. Fruit price list post free. All carriage paid. Cash on delivery. Will keep four months.—The Direct Supply Company, 21, Customs Chambers, St. Dunstan's-hill, London, E.C.

FURNISH on Norman & Stacy's Hire-Purchase System. No registration. Deposit not necessary. Economical. Strictly private. 1, 2, or 3 years. Sixty genuine wholesale firms to select from.—Offices, 79, Queen Victoria-street, E.C., & 121, Pall Mall, S.W. Carriage paid.

MAGIC LANTERNS, or Dissolving Views. Buy of the manufacturer, William Catlin, 17, Claremont-square, Pentonville, London. Exhibitions (Gospel), town or country. Slides on hire, 1½d. each. Second-hand catalogue gratis.

A PATIENT SUFFERING from Epilepsy, Hysteria, Paralysis, or otherwise requiring experienced treatment with care and supervision, is offered a loving Christian home at the seaside, where the above has for many years been very successfully treated. Highest references.—Medicus, care of Messrs. C Tayler & Co., Advertising Agents, Fleet-street, London.

INTEMPERANCE.—A Lady, thoroughly experienced in the care of ladies suffering from alcoholic and narcotic indulgence, can receive a few ladies. Terms moderate.—Miss Pudney, Buxton House, Earl's Colne, Essex.

INTEMPERANCE.—A successfully established private Home at the seaside for six, suffering from excess of morphia, chloral, absinthe, stimulants, or Nervous Debility. Christian care and influence. Judicious supervision and home comforts.
Medicus, 9, Stokes Croft, Bristol.

EPPS'S
GRATEFUL—COMFORTING.
COCOA.

SPARE TIME WORK, which will pay, may be obtained by Secretaries of Temperance Societies, Bands of Hope, Good Templar Lodges, visitors, and others, by applying to The Blue Ribbon Life, Accident, Mutual, and Industrial Insurance Company, Limited, Colmore Chambers, Newhall-street, Birmingham.

BUNTER'S
Cures Toothache, prevents Decay, saves Extraction, 1s. 1½d.
NERVINE.

DR. G. H. JONES, Surgeon Dentist, 57, Great Russell-street, facing the entrance to the British Museum, London. Pamphlet, with list of diplomas, gold medals, and other awards, sent free by post. Consultation gratis.

Publications.

"SEVEN RULES FOR DAILY LIVING." By Rev. F. B. Meyer, B.A., Leicester. Also "Warning Words—The Perils of Young Girls." By same Author. ½d. each, 3s. 6d. per 100.—Published by Marshall & Co., Amen-corner, London, E.C., and J. & J. H. Vice, Leicester.

NEW FANCY WORK FOR LADIES.
Registered.] "TOILECROSSE" [Registered.

This beautiful new Work, which is pleasant to handle while working, easy to do, and very effective when worked, is manufactured and supplied to the trade wholesale by ISAAC PICKARD, 4 and 5, Gascoigne-street, LEEDS. Samples on application. Ladies may obtain supplies at Berlin Wool Repositories everywhere. Be sure and ask for Toilecrosse (Registered).

GIFT BOOKS
Published by MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster Buildings, E.C.;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

Birds of the Bible.
Chats with the Children about Bible Birds.

By JAMES BOWKER, F.R.G.S.I.

An Attractive Gift Book. Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 2s.

With very attractive Coloured Frontispiece, and 29 other Illustrations.

Beautifully printed on toned paper, with carmine borders.

"The 'Chats' here given will be found both interesting and instructive to the young folks who are fortunate enough to obtain a copy of the work. . . . One friend to whom we showed the book at once ordered three dozen copies for Sunday School Rewards. We hope that many others will follow his example."—The Christian Treasury.

The King's Palace.
A SERIES OF READINGS FOR EACH DAY OF THE MONTH.

By REV. J. H. ROGERS, M.A.,
Incumbent of Christ Church, Pau.

Cloth limp, 1s.; Cloth boards, 1s. 6d.; Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 2s.; Leather binding, gilt edges, 3s. 6d.

Attractively printed, with Carmine Borders; and Beautifully Bound.

Very suitable for a Gift Book.

"Its counsels are wise, loving, and direct. Its aim is to lead the reader to have a clean heart and a clean life, to consecrate all to Christ. . . . All that art, taste, and skill can do to make the theme attractive has been done by the well-known publishers. The result is that, within and without, The King's Palace is simply perfect."
Irish Congregational Magazine.

Christ Lifted Up.
Meditation on the Death, Resurrection, and Ascension of Our Lord Jesus Christ.

By ROBERT GILCHRIST.

Cloth boards, 2s. 6d.

"Mr. Gilchrist preaches a full gospel. The fulness of Christ for every need of fallen humanity is set forth in a clear, convincing, and attractive manner."—Christian Week.

"Old-fashioned divinity presented in an attractive form. May its readers be many."—Sword and Trowel.

The Gospel in Leviticus.
Types and Foreshadowings of the Great Redemption.

By REV. JAMES FLEMING, D.D.

Cloth, bevelled boards, 2s. 6d.

"There is much wholesome spiritual food in this book; and no Christian can read it without being greatly refreshed in soul."
Christian Chronicle.

"The book contains much profitable reading for the matured Christian; whilst it is calculated to excite amongst all classes of Christians a deeper interest in the typology of the Old Testament."
Church of England Sunday School Magazine.

Christ and The Scriptures.
The Living Word and the Written Word.

By REV. ADOLPH SAPHIR, D.D., B.A.

Cloth extra, 3s.; with gilt edges, 3s. 6d.

Cheap Edition—

Tinted covers, 1s.; Cloth, neat, 1s. 6d.

"It is the old truths to which we listen; but the old truths clothed in a living language, set in new lights, and drawn out in fresh applications."—Weekly Review.

BAGSTER'S BIBLES.

Extra flexible, silk sewed, in best Bagster morocco, kid-lined, elastic band. With full helps. Prices from 20s.

In French morocco, projecting edges, elastic band. From 4s.

Samuel Bagster & Sons, Limited, 15, Paternoster-row London.

MRS. GRIMKE'S TEXT CARD MISSION.—56 Languages. Precious souls in many lands have been led to Jesus Christ by these cards, and others brought under Christian influence. Records come of great blessing. Millions are asked for by Missionaries and others, who, able wisely to distribute to the nations afar, have no means to buy them. To meet this need, we pray God to send gifts and bequests, also increased sales. For new list send stamped envelope to Mrs Grimke, Prestwich, Manchester; or apply to Elliot Stock, 62, Paternoster-row, London.

WILL THE CHURCH ESCAPE THE GREAT TRIBULATION? By Edmund Shackleton. Price 3d. An examination of the doctrine of a Pre-tribulation Rapture.
J. F. Shaw & Co., 48, Paternoster-row, E.C.

THE NEAR RETURN of the Lord Jesus Christ. By Cheyne Brady. 7th Thousand. Price 1d. London: S. W. Partridge & Co., 9, Paternoster-row.

C. H. SPURGEON'S GREAT WORK ON THE PSALMS is now complete, in seven volumes, cloth, 8s. each, and can be had in whole calf or half calf.—Messrs. Passmore & Alabaster, 4, Paternoster-buildings.

EVANGELISTIC MISSIONS AND SERVICES.—Our attractive Gospel Leaflets (with notices on the back) are well adapted for thoroughly advertising meetings at small cost. Inclusive terms and specimens on application.—Penman & Co., 33, Castle-street, Holborn, London, E.C.

BIBLE LIGHT,
For Truth Seekers and Christian Workers.

MONTHLY, 1d. Enlarged to 14 Pages.
John F. Shaw & Co., 48, Paternoster-row, and of all Booksellers. A specimen copy sent free on application to the Editor.

KINDNESS TO ANIMALS.—Card Pictures, with suitable anecdotes. Very attractive. Eight varieties in English, French, German, Italian. Score, 1s. 1d.; hundred, 4s. 9d., carriage free.
Mrs. Barrow, 11, Ampton-road, Birmingham.

Cloth, 3s. 6d.

"WHAT SAITH THE SCRIPTURES?"

An Exposition and Analysis of the Pentateuch and earlier Historical Books of the Old Testament, with explanatory and practical Notes.

By Dr. J. ANDERSON,
Author of "Searching The Scriptures."

"Embodying the results of wide reading, as well as earnest personal reflection."
Christian Leader.

"Its careful scholarship and suggestive hints will make it useful to ministers."
Methodist Recorder.

"Local preachers and others will find Dr. Anderson's pages both informing and stimulative."—Home Evangelical Magazine.

"Though not professing to be a commentary, it really one of the best kind."
Edinburgh Courant.

"A happy combination of spiritual suggestion with critical comment."—Christian.

"Warmly commended to teachers and students of Scripture"—London Quarterly Review.

"The exposition of Genesis is very carefully and completely considered."—Church Times.

"For Sunday-school teachers and Bible Classes would be of great service."
Homiletic Magazine.

London: Messrs. Hodder & Stoughton, 27, Paternoster-row, E.C.

"A very Practical and Helpful Little Volume."—Evangelical Christendom.

THE ENQUIRY ROOM:
Hints for Dealing with the Anxious.
By GEORGE SOLTAU.

TINTED COVERS, 4d.; CLOTH LIMP, 6d.

"Many Christian workers have felt the need of such a handbook as this; and Mr. Soltau's wide experience makes his advice specially valuable."
Christian Miscellany.

"The 'Enquiry Room' is a very clear and simple, yet thorough and comprehensive, direction for those who undertake to guide the awakened to the Saviour."—The Outlook.

"We heartily commend this little manual to all who would be wise in soul-winning, and also to the earnest perusal of the anxious themselves; and may it be as the good Samaritan to many."
Irish Baptist Magazine.

"This is an excellent little handbook for all Christians who desire to help wisely and well in the great work of winning souls for Christ."
The Watchman.

London: Morgan & Scott, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

Terms for Advertisements.
(PREPAID.)

Miscellaneous Advertisements in small type are charged at the following rates:—

Not exceeding 30 Words	....	3	0
"	39 "	....	3	9
"	48 "	....	4	6

And 9d. for every additional line of nine words or under, the address being in all cases charged for.

Scale for larger Advertisements sent on application.

"TRUTH IS STRANGER THAN FICTION,"

AND well-proven facts are more stubborn than mere statistics. However much sceptics may sneer, or modern Thomases doubt, we think the subjoined reports should convince anyone that our system is in no wise an experiment, but one of the most reliable and powerful agencies for the relief and cure of mental and nervous affections.

From Mr. ROBERT ALLEN, The Ferns, Sleaford.

November 19, 1885.—"When I consulted you last March I was suffering from the after-effects of a very severe attack of blood-poisoning three years previously, which had so unstrung the nervous system, and taken away muscular power, that I was quite incapacitated for business or pleasure. I could not sleep, and the least excitement or worry appeared unendurable. Your treatment has indeed done wonders in my case. The result was manifest at once; for the first night I slept more than I had done for years before, and, by God's blessing on the means used, the improvement has gone on steadily but surely ever since; and now nine months have elapsed, I am thankful to say I never felt so well in my life before; never slept so well, nor was able to do so much, or bear fatigue or worry, of which I have had a good share lately, but can now throw it off, forget it, and look on the brightest side of things. I have also had great pleasure and confidence in recommending your treatment to numerous friends and acquaintances, several of whom have already derived benefit, although in some instances only a short time has elapsed. I shall always be pleased to give any further encouragement I can at any time to any seeking your advice, for I have indeed cause for gratitude that I ever adopted it myself. Friends and neighbours are continually expressing astonishment at the marked improvement, when I always tell them I owe it, under Divine blessing, to Mr. B. COPSON GARRATT's Treatment."

From Mr. CHARLES ROBINSON, Old Bank House, Peterboro'.

November 19, 1885.—"Before placing myself under your Treatment I had tried everything that was recommended to me, besides being under one, two, and sometimes three doctors; and I took all kinds of patent medicines, but all to no purpose. As a last resource, after reading one of your books, lent by a friend, I at once consulted you, and adopted your advice. I am thankful that by God's blessing, and your Treatment, in a few months I was restored to my wonted health and strength, and passed a strict medical examination for a Life Assurance policy at fifty-eight years of age. My symptoms were grievous to express; for me the world had no pleasure; every thing and every person appeared to be against me, even those of my own family. I could not bear anyone to look at me. I was always troubled with coldness in my body and feet, with pains in my shoulders, weakness in my legs and knees, and was subject to sudden hot flushes, followed by cold perspiration. I was affected in the same manner in bed; I could not sleep—my mind always wandering. When once in bed, I did not desire to get up again, and had no desire for walking. When I had little to do I thought I should be better if I had plenty of work. When this came on I could not do it, but appeared to lack all energy, and in this state I continued for months. I did not care to be alone. When by myself I always wanted company; yet when in company I derived no pleasure therefrom. My life was a complete burden to me, but now I am a living witness to the efficacy of your Treatment, and am a wonder to all my friends. To God be all the praise. I can now take up my mission services and sick visiting, which I had not been able to do for two years. I thank you for your kindness in writing to me so often respecting my case."

There is manifestly in the present day a great demand for a sustainer of brain force. What, then, is the best element of support for the brain? Is it phosphorus, to be obtained from fish? or essence of life, from beef-tea or tonic drinks? These are good in their way; but the brain needs the power to appropriate, as well as the body to assimilate, and multitudes have found the Magnetic element to be the most effective stimulus towards restoring the harmony which should exist between the physical and mental powers. This is abundantly evidenced by the foregoing statements.

Letters commendatory of Mr. Garratt's treatment by Magneto-Electricity have been received from hundreds of persons in all classes of society. A private list of 1000 names as referees can be had on application. Consultation free, personally, or by letter. B. COPSON GARRATT, Medical Electrician, 16, Finsbury-square, London, E.C.

SUITABLE PRESENT FOR CHRISTMAS AND THE NEW YEAR.

In Crown 8vo., cloth, price 3s. 6d., post free.

AUNT FRANK'S BIBLE STUDIES:

Being THOUGHTS AND REFLECTIONS ON EVENTS AND CHARACTERS IN THE OLD TESTAMENT, FROM THE CREATION DOWN TO SOLOMON.

DEDICATED TO HER NEPHEWS AND NIECES IN EUROPE, ASIA, AMERICA, AND AUSTRALIA.

By CAROLINE AMELIA ELIZABETH COLE.

"A bright, cheerful, profitable book."—Methodist Recorder.
"Suitable as an alternative reading book in families."—Clergyman's Magazine.
"Calculated to be useful by its many valuable lessons."—Christian Age.
"The reading of this volume has given real pleasure and much profit."—The Christian.
"The lessons are healthful and helpful, and the book ought to be largely circulated."
Christian Commonwealth.

London: ELLIOT STOCK, 62, Paternoster-row, E.C.

The Christian Treasury FOR DECEMBER, PRICE 6D.

Contains, besides numerous other Articles, Sketches, &c., TWO COMPLETE CHRISTMAS STORIES, entitled, "JESSIE'S CHRISTMAS GUEST," and "THE STORY OF A HOLLY BRANCH;" also a CHRISTMAS HYMN in Old Notation and Tonic Sol-fa. "A truly splendid sixpennyworth."—The Christian.

London: E. W. ALLEN, 4, Ave Maria Lane. As of all Booksellers.

ARTICLES and ADDRESSES on IMPORTANT SUBJECTS.

In Small Books. Suitable for enclosing in Letters.

BY JAMES VAN SOMMER.

Price 6d. per Dozen; 3s. 6d. per 100.

REDEMPTION TWOFOLD.
EXTEMPORE PRAYER.
FAMILY PRAYERS.
THE SCRIPTURE READING MEETING.
CHRISTIAN VISITATION.
PUBLIC ADDRESSES.
SUNDAY.
THE JUDGMENT-SEAT OF CHRIST.

Price 1s. per Dozen; 7s. per 100.

PREACHING "THE KINGDOM OF GOD."
PRAYER MEETINGS. Practical Suggestions.
CATHOLIC CHRISTIANITY distinguished from Roman Catholic Christianity.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

INTERNATIONAL INVENTIONS EXHIBITION, 1885.

EASY PROFITS.

APPLY to RIDDLE & COUCHMAN for Special Terms for their Popular Exhibition Series of SHILLING PORTRAITS OF POLITICAL AND OTHER CELEBRITIES, Lithographed in the style of Steel Engravings, Size, 18 by 24 ins., by which large Profits may be made.

22, SOUTHWARK BRIDGE ROAD, LONDON, S.E.

JACKSON WRAY'S MAGAZINE,

"Good Company,"

PRICE TWOPENCE.

"Decidedly interesting."—Christian World. "Wise and witty, not a dull line in it."—Sheffield Independent.

The First Volume of

GOOD COMPANY.

Elegantly bound in Cloth, price Three Shillings.
AN ADMIRABLE GIFT BOOK.

"Will be welcome to every member of the family."—Literary World. "Pithy and practical. Sound and wholesome."—Nonconformist.

CHRISTMAS COMPANY.

Containing a Budget of Timely Talks, Stories, Poems, &c.
PRICE THREEPENCE.

J. NISBET & Co., 21, Berners-street; and all Booksellers.

NON-FLUCTUATING SECURITIES.
Six per Cent. First Mortgage Real Estate Bonds

THE ANGLO-AMERICAN LOAN AND INVESTMENT CO.,

WICHITA, KANSAS, U.S.A.
Capital, 250,000 dols.

Sir Edward S. Hutchinson, Bart, President.
Joseph S. Smithson, Vice-President.

These Bonds are secured by Farm Lands in the best agricultural State in America. The interest, which is guaranteed and collected by the Company, is payable Half-Yearly at

The Bank of Ireland, Dublin, or
The Alliance Bank, Limited, London.

American Bankers—
Metropolitan National Bank, Chicago, and
The Wichita National Bank, Wichita.

Address—HENRY ANDERSON,
Managing Director
(Late Bank of Ireland),
WICHITA, KANSAS.

Intending Emigrants and parties desiring to invest in Real Estate should correspond with us.

NEW WORK by the Well-known and Favourite Writer,

A.L.O.E.

PEARLS OF WISDOM FROM The Parables of Christ.

Twenty-four Chapters of Exposition and Meditation on the Parables of the New Testament. By A.L.O.E., Author of "Rescued from Egypt," "Exiles in Babylon," "The Young Pilgrim," &c., &c. With TWENTY-FOUR ILLUSTRATIONS, specially designed for this Book. 256 Pages. Handsomely bound in cloth, bevelled boards, 3s. 6d.; with gilt edges, 4s.

CONTENTS.

The Pharisee and the Publican.
The Wedding Feast.
The Ten Virgins.
The Guest at Midnight.
The Two Houses.
The Good Samaritan.
The Lost Sheep.
The Excuses.
The Sower,
The Tares and the Wheat.
The Talents.
The Rich Man and the Beggar.
The Prodigal Son.
The Rich Fool.
The Unmerciful Servant.
The Strong Man Armed.
The Barren Fig-tree.
The Door Shut.
The Hidden Treasure.
The Corn Growing.
The Vineyard Labourers.
The Mustard-Seed.
The Wicked Husbandmen.
The Empty House.

THE PEARLS FROM THE PARABLES have been written from an Oriental standpoint; and this treatment of the Parables will be new to English readers. From those simple allegories to which Christ gave utterance on the shore of the Sea of Galilee and in the streets of Jerusalem, A.L.O.E. deduces arguments to bring Hindoos and Mohamedans to the faith of the Gospel.—EXTRACT FROM PREFACE.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

Dear Friends,

I have refrained from making a public appeal for means to carry on our winter operations as long as possible, and now only take up my pen to disclose our pressing needs, and entreat your speedy sympathy, with much reluctance, because we are

IN ACTUAL STRAITS.

Our position is this: through the kindness of a friend, who has offered to lend us the necessary amount, we are preparing to build, for occupation as soon as possible, our

CANADIAN DISTRIBUTING HOME, to be erected at a cost of £2500, upon an acre of land (given by a generous friend), in the Western District of the flourishing and beautiful city of Toronto.

We hope to send out in the Spring, to fill places already carefully selected by our resident Representative in the houses of kind, well-to-do Canadian farmers, another party of 100 EMIGRANT BOYS.

We feel it is of the utmost importance that the lads sent out under our auspices should have at least six months' careful training here, that they may leave us not only with habits of obedience, industry, and cleanliness, that will make them helpful and desirable inmates of the families into which they will be absorbed, but with a clear knowledge of the teaching of the Holy Scriptures as to man's depravity, the atonement by the blood of Jesus, regeneration by the Holy Spirit, &c., and some instruction as to the privileges and responsibilities of God's children, the enjoyment and exercise of which go to make up the "newness of life" in which such are called to walk.

Hitherto their efforts to lead the boys to Christ have been richly blessed, and we have had cause to rejoice that a large majority of the boys who have left our Homes during the last few years, have professedly been the children of God through faith in our Lord Jesus Christ.

We have now a few vacancies, which I am anxious to fill immediately with friendless boys rescued from our London streets, but my hands are tied, as we need money to get the daily necessaries of life for our three large families of Nobody's Boys.

OUR SALE

is fixed for Tuesday and Wednesday, December 15 and 16, in the large Schoolroom here, each day from 12 till 7. We have scarcely anything in hand yet to sell, but hope that our friends will help us with kind contributions of work, produce, &c., by Saturday, December 12, and that many will take advantage of this Sale to visit our Home here and see its inner life—the boys at work, school, play, &c.

Cheques may be crossed London and County Bank, and Post Office Orders made payable at G.P.O.

I remain, dear Friends,

Yours faithfully,

The Boys' Home,
95, Southwark-street,
London, S.E.

J. W. C. Fegan

Forthcoming Meetings.

EVANGELISTIC.

THE EVANGELISATION SOCIETY will send evangelists to any part of England, Scotland, and Wales on due notice. Apply Hon. Sec., 21, Surrey-street, Strand, W.C.

THE IRISH EVANGELISATION SOCIETY will send evangelists to any part of Ireland on due notice. Apply to Mr. J. Barton, Hon. Sec., Dundalk, Ireland.

THE METROPOLITAN TABERNACLE EVANGELISTS' ASSOCIATION will send lay preachers and evangelists to any chapel or hall of any evangelical denomination in London. Apply Hon Sec., 121, Camberwell New-road, S.E.

THE CHILDREN'S EVANGELISTIC MISSION will send evangelists to any part of Great Britain to conduct missions for children and young people. No charge. Apply T. Eyres, Hon. Sec., 253, Southampton-street, Camberwell, S.E.

THE CHURCH ARMY will send evangelists (working men) to any clergymen on due notice, for short or long missions. Apply Hon. Sec., 36, Southampton-street, Strand, W.C.

SOCIAL PURITY.—The Gospel Purity Association is prepared to send competent lecturers to address meetings of men or women on the above subject. Apply J. B. Wookey, General Secretary, 31, Paternoster-square, London, E.C.

MESSRS. FULLERTON AND SMITH.—November 29 to December 20, Norwood; January 3, and onwards, New Great Assembly Hall, Mile-end-road.

MR. F. E. MARSH.—Metropolitan Music Hall, November 29; Brighton, December 6 to 20; Peterhead, N.B., January 1 to 24; Darvel, N.B., February 14 to March 7.

MR. W. SPENCER WALTON.—December: Wandsworth, Barnet.

MR. HENRY THORNE.—November 28 to December 7, Malvern; 12 to 21, Stratford, London.

MR. JAMES NEECH.—To December 3, Harby, Lincoln; 6 to 18, Swinderby.

MRS. REANEY every Sunday afternoon at Stepney Meeting House.

MR. J. M. SCROGGIE.—December and January, N.E. Coast, Banff, Macduff, Portsoy, Buckie, and Fraserburgh.

MR. E. P. TELFORD.—Dewsbury, to December 10; Southend, December 13 to 23.

MISS BREWSTER.—Finsbury Park Hall Y.M.C.A., Sunday, November 29, 7 p.m.

CONFERENCE HALL, Mildmay-park, N.—November 29, 3.30 p.m., Mr. P. S. Badenoch; 7 p.m., Rev. Thomas Graham.

BOW AND BROMLEY INSTITUTE, Bow-road, E.—Mr. Evans Hurndall, M.A., Sundays, 8.30 p.m.

HAMMERSMITH BATHS (near Broadway).—Gospel services, in the Board-room on Sundays during the winter, 7 p.m.

TALBOT TABERNACLE, Powis-square, W.—Sunday, November 29, at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m., and December 3, at 7.30 p.m., Mr. G. Soltau.

AGRICULTURAL HALL, Islington, N.—Sunday, November 29, 3.30 p.m., Rev. Nigel McNiell; Mr. G. E. Elvin and a soloist, 7 p.m.

DRAWING-ROOM MEETING and address in German for German and Swiss ladies, at Mrs. Gurney's, 11, Ladbroke-terrace, Notting-hill, on Saturday, November 28, 3.30 p.m.

GERMAN MISSION.—Evangelistic meetings, November 30, December 1, 2, and 4, at 28, Finsbury-square; Thursday, December 3, at Mildmay Conference Hall, at 7.30 p.m. Addresses in German by Dr. F. W. Baedeker, Dr. Laseron, and Dr. H. P. Ziemann. Friends are desired to make these meetings known to Germans in London.

CHILDREN'S SPECIAL SERVICE MISSION.—Mr. E. Arrowsmith, Cheltenham, to November 29; Mr. J. Spiers, London, assisting Mr. Hammond: Mr. H. M. Trickett, Godalming, November 26; Mr. Seyler, Walthamstow, December 1; Walker-street, Bermondsey, December 7 to 11; Mr. W. F. Seagrove and Mr. F. Pitts, Toulon-street, Camberwell, November 30 to December 4.

EVANGELISATION OF THE WORLD.—Annual conference of Christian workers, in connection with the Manchester and Salford Boys and Girls' Refuges, December 8 and 9. Messrs. Leonard K. Shaw, J. Wakefield MacGill, and Gilbert R. Kirlew are the hon. secs., Conference Hall, Strangeways, Manchester, to whom all communications may be addressed.

UNION HALL MISSION (under the direction of Mr. Robert Bilke).—Services on Sunday next, November 29: Union Hall, Carlisle-street, Edgware-road, N.W., Mr. W. P. Harwood, at 7 p.m.; Sunday-school anniversary, special address, at 3 p.m. Kensal Hall, Kensal-road, W., Mr. Wm. R. Lane, 7 p.m.; Queen's-park Hall, Kilburn-lane, N.W., Mr. S. E. Angel, 7 p.m.; Gospel Hall, Green-lane, High-street, Battersea, S.W., Mr. Edwin Cook, 7 p.m.; Gospel Hall, Market-place, Brentford, Mr. Fredk. Land, 7 p.m. 18, Greenhill-park-villas, Harlesden, workers' prayer meeting, Monday, 10.30 to 12 noon.

RELIGIOUS SERVICES FOR THE PEOPLE.—Sunday services at Pavilion Theatre, Whitechapel-road, 7 p.m.; Town Hall, Shoreditch, 3.30; Town Hall, Holborn, 3.30 and 7; Town Hall, Bermondsey, 3.30 and 7; Town Hall, Kensington, 7; St. James's Hall, Regent-street, 3.30 and 7; Temple of Varieties, Hammersmith, 3.30 and 7; Croydon Theatre, 7; Good Duke Humphrey Hall, Greenwich, 3.30 and 7; Alexandra Temperance Hall, Southwark-park-road, 6.30; Park Hall, Camden Town, 3.30 and 7; Morley Hall, Hackney, 7 Evangelical Hall, High-street, Homerton, 7.

EVANGELISTIC MISSION (under the direction of Mr. C. Russell Hurditch).—Bignold Hall, Bignold-road, Station-road, Forest Gate, Mr. Abraham Wallis, Sunday, 7 p.m.; Mr. Geo. Hucklesby, Wednesday, 8 p.m. Dalston-lane, 163A—Mr. H. W. Davidson, and others, Sunday at 7 p.m.; Mr. Geo. Hucklesby, Thursday, 8 p.m. Hammersmith—Upper Mission Room, 180, King-street, Dr. Popham, Thursday, 8 p.m. Kilburn Hall, Kilburn Gate (not Town Hall), Dr McKilliam, Sunday, at 7 p.m.: Mr. W. R. Lane, Wednesday, 7.30 p.m. Malden Hall, Kentish Town. Alex. Carson, M.A., Sunday, at 7 p.m., on "The Three Crosses on Calvary: Under which of them do you stand?" Mr. Abraham Wallis, Thursday, at 8 p.m. Mortlake, Rest Mission Hall, Mr. R. Jackman, Sunday, 7 p.m. St. John's Wood, N.W., 150, Alexandra-road—Meeting for workers, Wednesday, 10 a.m. West Kensington Hall (known as Cadby Hall), Hammersmith-road, West Kensington—Mr. C. V. T. Ollsow and Dr. Popham, Sunday, at 3 and 7 p.m.

MISCELLANEOUS.

ILKLEY, Yorkshire.—Convention for the deepening of spiritual life, December 1—3. See paragraph on p. 18.

CITY OF LONDON CENTRAL NOON PRAYER MEETING, 186, Aldersgate-street.—Daily, 12 to 1.

UPPER NORWOOD, Stafford House, Tudor-road.—Drawing-room meetings every Thursday, at 3 and 8 p.m.

MERCHANTS' LECTURE, Finsbury Chapel, Moorfields, City.—Rev. Edward White, Tuesday, December 1, 12 noon.

MONTHLY JEWS' PRAYER MEETING, in Ladies' Waiting-room, Conference Hall, Mildmay-park, Friday, 27th inst., 7 p.m.

SOUTH LONDON EVANGELISTIC CHOIR.—Annual meeting, Conference Hall, Clapham-road, S.W., 7.30 p.m., Mr. Reader Harris in the chair.

CONFERENCE HALL, Clapham-road, S.W.—November 26, humiliation and prayer for our nation and government, 5 and 8 p.m. December 19, mothers' sale, 6 to 8 p.m., admission by ticket only.

MISS MITTENDORFF'S ANNUAL MEETING, Tuesday, December 15, at the Y.W.C.A., 17, Old Cavendish-street, Cavendish-square, W., 7.30 p.m.

DEEPENING OF SPIRITUAL LIFE—Meetings at Stafford Rooms, Titchborne-street, Edgware-road, Friday, November 27, 3.30 p.m., address by Rev. H. Webb-Peploe; December 4, Rev. E. W. Moore.

3, HIGHBURY-PLACE, N.—Each Tuesday, 6.30 p.m., at Rev. W. E. Boardman's, a meeting held for advancement in spiritual life. On Thursday, at 11 a.m., Mrs. Boardman's Bible-class for ladies at same place.

HOUSE OF REST, 8, Cambridge-gardens, Kilburn-park, N.W.—Friday, November 27, at 7 p.m., subject, "What is a Clean Heart," by Miss Mason; tea at 6. Sunday, 29, at 3.30 p.m., "God's Men in the Old Testament," by Miss Mason.

HUMILIATION AND PRAYER.—Thursday, November 26, meeting in Room No. 4, Conference Hall, Mildmay-park, N., from 4 to 6 p.m., for humiliation and prayer concerning our country and our people. Mr. R. C. Morgan will preside. Christians from all parts of London are invited to attend. At 7 p.m., in Room No. 4, a meeting for mothers; addresses by Mrs. Hind Smith, Miss Mason, and others; and at 8 p.m., in the Large Hall, a meeting for men only, Mr. S. A. Blackwood, C.B., in the chair, addresses by Rev. H. W. Webb-Peploe and Mr. J. B. Wookey.

◆

Y.M.C. ASSOCIATIONS.

61, GRACECHURCH-STREET.—Mission services at Melior-street Mission-hall, commencing November 30, at 7 p.m., with workers' meeting, with Gospel addresses each evening by converted policemen. Prayer meeting, 1.30 to 2.15 p.m. (Sat. excepted). Bible study, Tuesdays, 6.15 p.m. Workers, Mondays, 6.30 p.m.

186, ALDERSGATE-STREET.—Thursday, November 26, Bible lecture, by Dr. Robert Anderson, "The Aspect of the Death of Christ, Illustrated by the Passover," 8 p.m.; Friday, 27, 8 p.m., Gospel meeting, address by Mr. T. Shuldham Henry; Saturday, 28, 7.30 p.m., Bible lecture, by Mr. Robert Brown, subject, "The History of Satan; Monday, 30, 8 p.m., address on "Medical Emergencies," by Dr Alder Smith; Tuesday, December 1, 8 p.m., workers' training class, subject, "The Hope of Salvation," by Rev. J. R. Wood.

EXETER HALL.—This day (Thursday, November 26), a conversazione will be held of members, associates, and friends by the invitation of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. B. Bruce and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. B. Galbraith; tea and coffee from 6.45; chair to be taken at 7.30; addresses by the Revs. J. Monro Gibson, D.D., and A. C. Murphy, D.D. The Chairman will be supported by Hon. A. F. Kinnaird, Hon. Granville Waldegrave, Lieut.-Colonel Macgregor, Dr. J. H. Gladstone, F.R.S., Mr. Geo. Williams, Mr. J. H. Tritton, and others. On December 1, at 8 p.m., popular lecture, "A Trip to the Remotest Stars," by Rev. J. Thain Davidson, D.D. Gymnasium open every evening. Musical exercises in Large Hall, 8.15. Gospel address to gymnasts every Wednesday evening by the General Secretary.

172, QUEEN'S-ROAD, Bayswater.—Mr. Henry Varley will give an address on "Social Purity," Saturday, November 28, at 8.30 p.m., to young men only.

THE PRIORY, 198, Upper-street, Islington, N.—Thursday, November 26, 8.30 p.m., address, by Rev. E. A. Stuart, M.A.; 3.15 p.m., Bible class. Wednesday, 6 to 10, anxious inquirers and strangers.

CONFERENCE HALL, Stratford.—Sunday, November 29, 3 and 7 p.m., Mr. Dudgeon.

17, CAMDEN-ROAD, N.W.—Thursday, November 26, 8.30 p.m., address to young men.

◆

Notices.

COMMUNICATIONS RECEIVED WITH THANKS.—J.C.A. Y.R. J.L.F. T.C. E.J.W. A.J.B. A.H. L.M. T.J C.H. S.R. E.L. J.G.P. D.C.R. F.J.D. J.H.S. T.D. H.W. J.B. G.B.W. E.J. D.C. W.S.V. J.L.D. A.N. E.A. J.J. A.N.M. A.M. K.E. S.A.P. T.P. G.H.M. J.H. R.P.G. E.M. H.J.P. J.O. R.W.W. M.H. H.W. R.G. J.S.M. D.W. J.H.G. E.C.C. A.M. W.H. G.F. A.W. M.L. E.B. J.K.W. G.W.B. G.H.S. F.J.S. E.L.R. S.C.C. E.S. S.F. S.B. G.C. J.S. M.C W.E.L. W.McG. R.D.F. E.L.D. M.B. J.B.F. J.McC. C.T. W.T. C.J.C. E.V.I. E.R. P. R.A.E. G.A.J. J.G.M. English Citizen. R. A.C. M.S.W. G.R. F.A.W. M.S. C.N. C.C.M. A.B. T.R. E.C.R. S.A.H. J.F.G. H.E.W. J.P.W. W.H.R. R.E.F. T.E.L. M.G. J.W.F. J.G.T. J.W. G.C.B. A.M.F. R.W.C.

APPLICANTS FOR TRACTS.—Miss Kelland, 14, Panmure-place, Edinburgh; Mrs. Barre, 23, Grovedale-road, Upper Holloway, N.; Miss F. Barre, 23, Grovedale-road, Upper Holloway, N.; C. Boniface, 38, Cheltenham place, North-road, Brighton; C. Worton, High-street, Cradley, near Brierley-hill, Worcestershire; A. Hearn, 51, Defoe-road, Stoke Newington, N.; J. Daddow, evangelist, St. Agnes, Cornwall; W. Mortlock, 18, Hargwyne-street, Landor-road, Stockwell; R. C. Vesey, 22, Wellington-street, Newington-causeway, S.E.; J. Davidson, 7, Cottages, Addiewell, Scotland; Rev. G. H. Malins, Baptist Church, Bouverie road, Stoke Newington, N.; A. H. Stephens, 14, Meeting House-lane, Peckham, S.E.; J. Bain, Seamen's Evangelistic Mission, Morrison-street, Glasgow; D. Forbes, 25, Smith-street, Kinning-park, Glasgow; W. Pitt, Aston-sub-Edge, near Campden, Gloucestershire; Mrs. L. Smith, Beulah Cottage, Ascott, Enstone, Oxon; H. J. Hadfield, 29, Hanover gardens, Kennington, S.E.; W. E. Letts, 2, Lansdown terrace, Great Malvern; G. B Taylor, 51, Sandringham-buildings, Soho, W.C.; E. K. Adams, 69, Arlingford-road, Brixton, S.W. (for children); A. Balfour, 176, Ditchling-rise Brighton; Miss M. Vickers 18, Balfour-road, Highbury New-park, N.

Subscriptions received by Messrs. Morgan & Scott to Saturday Morning, November 21, 1885.

◆

 Donations should be sent by Cheque or P.O. Orders, not by stamps. Cheques to be drawn in favour of Morgan and Scott, and crossed City Bank; P.O. Orders payable to Morgan and Scott, at G.P.O.

◆

	£	s.	d.
Dock Labourers' Mission—(Free Meals) B. B.	0	10	0
Gospel All-Night Mission—Mrs. B...	0	5	0
Spitalfields Gospel Mission—Mrs. B.	1	0	0
Stead, &c., Defence Fund—Major W. 4s. 5d.; S. D. £1 1s.; E. C. 15s. 6d.; A Servant, 2s. 6d.; N. H. B. £1; Three Friends, 4s.; S. M. E. 5s.; W. H. M. H. A. £2 10s.; Sympathy, 2s.; penny collection by G. O. £1 2s.; M. A. G. 10s.	7	16	5
Zenana Medical Mission—I. R. C.	0	10	0
Moravian Missions, Genadendal, South Africa—I. R. C.	0	10	0
Mildmay Mission to the Jews—I. R. C. 10s.; G. E. 10s.	1	0	0
Homes for Working Girls—E. H. C..	1	0	0
Gratuitous Circulation of THE CHRISTIAN—Y.W. C.A., Bayswater, 7s. 10d.; J. D. 2s. 4d.; Z. Y. X. £2; Isa. liv. 17, £2; A. M. £2 7s...	6	17	2
Home of Industry—F. F. 5s.; Mrs. T. £1; (Widows) G. E. 10s.; A. and E. F. £5; Z. Y. X. £5; S. L. R. 5s...	12	0	0
Free Distribution of Scriptures—W. C. L. 10s.; Mrs. T. £5..	5	10	0
Bible in France (Mr. Prinsep)—W. C. L.	0	10	0
Mission to Seamen—R. A. C.	1	0	0
Rescue Society—Anon.	0	10	0
St. Giles' Christian Mission—Anon. 10s.; (Prison Mission) Z. Y. X. £10; S. S. S. £3; Anerley-road, 2s. 6d.	13	12	6
Friendless and Fallen—R. A. C. £7; A Servant, 2s. 6d.; Z. Y. X. £10; J. R. £1	18	2	6
Mission to Deep Sea Fishermen—R. A. C. £1; Z. Y. X. £5	6	0	0
Miss Leigh's Home, Paris—R. A. C. £1; Mrs. T. £5	6	0	0
Miss De Broen's Work, Paris—F. P. £1 1s.; Mrs. T. £5; (Medical Mission) W. K. £5	11	1	0
Miss Sharman's Orphans' Home—F. P...	1	1	0
Distressed Jews in Jerusalem (Mrs. Finn)—G. E. ..	2	0	0
Field-lane Ragged Schools—G. E.	0	10	0
Scripture Readers' Society for Ireland—G. E.	0	10	0
London Samaritan Society and Homerton Mission—G. E. £1; Z. Y. X. £10	11	0	0
Christian Union Hall, Cawnpore—Mrs. B. J., per G. C. F. B. £2 2s.; Mr. G. Kendal, per G. C. F. B. £1; Edward S., per G. C. F. B. £2	5	2	0
Soldiers' Institute, Portsmouth—A. W. £1; Z. Y. X. £5	6	0	0
Dr. Barnardo's Homes—Miss D. 10s.; P. A. T. £1; C. P., Clifton, 7s.; Mrs. T. £1 10s.; S. S. S. £2; J. B. 5s.; W. K. £2; (Rescue Work) Isa. liv. 17, £10	17	12	0
Mr. Fegan's Boys' Home—P. A. T. £1; Z. Y. X. £10; S. S. S. £2	13	0	0
Thames Church Mission—(Free Meals) X.	0	2	0
Cloudesley Institute Y.W.C.A., Islington—M. S. ..	3	3	0
Theatrical Mission—Z. Y. X.	5	0	0
Destitution in the Far North (Foula)—Miss L... ..	0	10	0
Mrs. Wilkes' Rescue Work, Poplar—Z. Y. X.	5	0	0
Sick Children's Dinners (Miss Mayo)—Z. Y. X. £5; C. W. 5s.	5	5	0
Church of England Zenana Mission—Z. Y. X..	3	0	0
Cow Cross Mission—C. P., Clifton, 2s. 6d.; (Dinners for Poor Children) Z. Y. X. £5	5	2	6
Irish Church Missions—Z. Y. X.	2	0	0
Miss Weston's Work in Royal Navy—Z. Y. X..	5	0	0
Breakfasts to Poor Children (Rev. W. E. Hurndall) Foley	0	2	6
Mr. Mabille's Mission in Basutoland—M. C.	0	5	0
Miss Mittendorff's Orphans' Home—Z. Y. X. £3; Mrs. T. £1; Isa. liv. 17, £10	14	0	0
George-yard Ragged Schools—Z. Y. X. £10; C. W. 5s.	10	5	0
Evangelistic Mission—Mrs. H. S..	1	0	0
North-East London Gospel Mission—Mrs. H. S. ..	1	0	0
Soldiers' Home, Dorchester—Mrs. H. S.	1	0	0
Mr. Alfred Dyer's Derby Election Expenses—E. R.	1	1	0
Working Lads' Institute—C. P., Clifton	0	2	0
Children's Medical Mission—M.	0	5	0
Seamen's Christians' Friend Society—C. P., Clifton	0	2	0
Cabmen's Shelter, Finsbury Park—C. P., Clifton ..	0	2	0
Magic Lantern, Ceylon (Rev. J. A. Spaar)—C. P., Clifton	0	2	0
Soldiers' Home, Dover—C. P., Clifton	0	2	6
Gray's-yard Ragged Church and Schools—C. W. ..	0	5	0
Destitute Children's Dinner Society—A. L. and E. L.	0	5	0
London Society for Promoting Christianity among the Jews—Thine, 10s.; M. J. 10s...	1	0	0
Gordon Day Nursery, Shadwell—J. B...	0	10	0
China Inland Mission—Thine, 10s.; Thine, 7s.; Mrs. T. £10	10	17	0
Mr. Rosenzweigh, Disabled Evangelist—Thine, 18s. 10d.; C. and H. 13s.; Friends, 13s.	2	4	10
East London Training Institute—Mrs. T. £5; (Congo Mission) Mrs. T £5	10	0	0
Rev. R. W. McAll's Work, Paris—Mrs. T. £5; (France) W. K. £5	10	0	0
Pastor Rodriguez' Mission—(Destitute Orphans) Mrs. T.	5	0	0
London Missionary Society—(Madagascar) Mrs. T..	5	0	0
Mrs. Ludwig, Old Calabar Mission—Mrs. T.	5	0	0
City Young Women (Miss Kate Reynolds)—Mrs. T..	1	0	0
Sailors' Welcome Home (Miss Child)—Mrs. T... ..	1	0	0
Rebuilding Deptford Ragged Schools—S. S. S. £2; T. B. W. 4s. 6d.	2	4	6
Mrs. Hilton's Crèche and Orphan Home—S. S. S. £1; Isa. liv. 17, £5..	6	0	0
Christian Workers' Mission (Mr. E. Wright)—S. S. S.	1	0	0
Night Shelter for Homeless Men (Mr. J. Jackson)—G. W. P. £1; E. P. 5s.; M. 5s.; Isa. liv. 17, £3 ..	4	10	0
Mr. Arch. Brown's Work—A. T. O.	0	10	0
Salvation Army—A. T. O.	0	10	0
Working Men's Mission, Collingwood-street—A. T. O.	0	10	0
Gospel Purity Association—Isa. liv. 17..	30	0	0
London Committee for Suppression of Traffic in Girls—Isa. liv. 17..	10	0	0
Working Men's League for Suppression of C.D. Acts—Isa. liv. 17	10	0	0
Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children—Isa. liv. 17..	10	0	0
Bridge of Hope, Ratcliff—Isa. liv. 17	5	0	0
Mrs. Fisher's Work among Shopwomen—Isa. liv. 17	5	0	0
	£351	7	5

◆

[ADVERTISEMENTS.]

Bethnal Green Free Library, E.—A. B. £1 1s.

Mission to Deep Sea Fishermen—M. R. H. nine pairs of muffetees; A. J. K. 5s.; Hexham-on-Tyne, seven comforters and twenty-three pairs of cuffs.

FRIENDLESS AND FALLEN.

CONTRIBUTIONS NOW MUCH NEEDED.

Since my last appeal in THE CHRISTIAN, several kind friends have sent donations, WITH CHEERING WORDS. One says, "hoping your blessed work will GO FORWARD," encloses £1, and draws attention to JEREMIAH XXX. 12 to 17.

The objects are—1st, to WIN SOULS to CHRIST. 2nd, to FEED, HOUSE, and CLOTHE those who are reclaimed from SIN and SORROW.

More than ELEVEN HUNDRED YOUNG WOMEN and GIRLS have been brought this year, and all suitable applicants have been received.

With regard to the Need of Funds, at the last Committee Meeting it was reported that the Bank Account was overdrawn £375; this deficit, and needs by CHRISTMAS, will require at least £1000, absolutely necessary to meet all claims.

Messrs. Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings, E.C., will receive Donations, or 200, EUSTON ROAD, N.W. EDWARD W. THOMAS, Sec.

MIDNIGHT MEETING MOVEMENT.

MISSION TO YOUNG WOMEN AND GIRLS.

This RESCUE MISSION for GIRLS and YOUNG WOMEN is, by God's blessing, advancing, both in London and the Provinces.

Mr. Christien, aided by many Voluntary Workers, is HOLDING A SERIES OF MIDNIGHT MEETINGS at Ashton-under-Lyne and other Towns in the North.

REPENTANCE TOWARDS GOD and FAITH in OUR LORD JESUS CHRIST is the theme of every exhortation. Penitents are immediately placed in Homes, or otherwise assisted.

£5 will meet the expenses of a Meeting and Mission a district. 50 such Meetings will (D.V.) be held this winter.

WILL FIFTY READERS of THE CHRISTIAN kindly GIVE £5 EACH before Christmas? 9 Donations received.

Christian Friends desirous of co-operating by contributing toward the expenses of a Meeting (or helping by prayer), are invited to communicate with J. H. L. CHRISTIEN, Organising Secretary, at the Office. Donations may be sent to MESSRS. MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings, E.C.; or to

C. WILSON McCREE,
Financial Secretary.

Office—8A, Red Lion Square, W.C.

Marylebone Medical Mission and Dispensary,

43, CARLISLE STREET, EDGWARE ROAD, N.W.

Preaching the Gospel and Healing the Sick Poor. Bible Classes, Gospel Addresses, Mothers' Meetings, Clothing Clubs, &c. Funds to carry on the work will be thankfully received by Dr. R. CHAMBERS, 43, Carlisle-street, Edgware-road; or by the Treasurer, E. PARKER YOUNG, Esq., 30, Westbourne-square, W.; also by Messrs. MORGAN & SCOTT, Office of THE CHRISTIAN.

Blankets for the Poor are much needed.

SCRIPTURE READERS' SOCIETY FOR IRELAND.

President, The Rt. Hon. the Earl of SHAFTESBURY, K.G.
ESTABLISHED 1822.

For the purpose of employing humble Christian men well versed in the Scriptures to visit and read the Bible from house to house throughout the country. The Scripture Readers are invariably placed under carefully selected Christian Superintendents, and are also employed by the Society in the large towns and cities, such as Dublin, Belfast, Waterford, &c., as City Missionaries, and visit all classes and denominations, where permitted so to do. Irish-speaking Readers are sent to Irish-speaking districts when required, but are now seldom or ever asked for. The work is carried on in a spirit of love, and not of controversy.

The Scripture Readers also visit amongst the Sailors in seaports and hold Bethel Meeting on board Ships, at hours not to interfere with the usual Public Services. The Society is supported by voluntary contributions.

OFFICES:

27, LOWER PEMBROKE STREET, DUBLIN;
AND 9, PATERNOSTER ROW, LONDON.

Full particulars, reports, &c., can be obtained post free on application to the Secretary, Capt. JAMES KEARNEY WHITE, or by the Proprietors of this paper.

NOTE.—Subscriptions or Donations may be sent to the above addresses, or will be received by the Proprietors of "THE CHRISTIAN."

Friends will please notice the exact title, "Scripture Readers' Society for Ireland," and not "Irish Scripture Readers' Society."

GRAY'S YARD RAGGED CHURCH AND SCHOOL,

James Street, Oxford Street, London, W.

President—F. A. BEVAN, ESQ. | Treasurer—GEORGE HANBURY, ESQ.

Gospel Services, attended by about 500 of the Homeless Poor, are held on Sundays, at 11 a.m. and 3 p.m., after which each person present is supplied with Bread and Coffee. About £2 each Sunday are required for the Food alone, and there are other heavy expenses connected with the Work of the Church and Schools. Funds are Urgently Needed, and will be thankfully received by the TREASURER, 21, Portman-square, W.; Mr. PHILIP GOUGH, 33, Cambridge-street, Hyde-park, W.; or by Mr. A. G. FRASER, 4, Inverness-terrace, W.

Court Envelope Size, 32 pages. In Coloured Wrapper. Price One Penny. Roan, gilt edges, interleaved, One Shilling.

The Ruby Illustrated Almanack

AND TEXT BOOK FOR 1886.

THE RUBY ALMANACK for 1886 contains the following special features:—A Portrait of the late Rev. W. Pennefather; a special Selection of Texts on the subject of the last Mildmay Conference; Two new Poems by the author of "The Watered Lilies," &c., &c.

London: JOHN G. WHEELER, 88, Mildmay-park, N.

MISSION to DEEP SEA FISHERMEN.

Five Mission Vessels are cruising amongst the North Sea trawling fleets. 12,000 smacksmen are engaged all the year round in providing our tables with fish. These men, who for us toil through furious blast and sleety storm—who hazard their lives and fall victims, hundreds of them, to the pitiless waves, that markets at home may be well supplied—may rightly claim some small share in the privileges we so richly enjoy and so highly prize.

THIS THEY CAN ONLY HAVE THROUGH THE PRESENCE OF THE
MISSION VESSELS

Carrying tothe fisher men the message of Divine mercy and pardonin g love, bringing the pleasure of books to while away the weary hours, affording relief in case of sickness and injury, and cheering and brightening dull and monotonous lives by their presence and ministry.

"The Mission smacks are doing in the North Sea a grand work, worthy of the support of a great maritime nation like England; and I believe that the results of their effort, great as they are in the present, will, if only supported liberally by the public, be of untold value in the future."—Edward Birkbeck, Esq., M.P.

FUNDS are greatly NEEDED to enable the Society to place a Mission Vessel with every fleet.

E. J. MATHER, Director.

31, New Bridge-street, E.C.

HOMES OF HOPE,

(Established 1860),

For the Restoration of Fallen and the Protection of Friendless Young Women. Special efforts are made on behalf of young mothers, before and after confinement.

Nos. 4, 5 & 6, Regent-square, Gray's-inn-road, London, W.C.

The applications every day are most distressing, and the Committee anxiously appeal for funds to enable them to utilise to the utmost the room in the Homes.

IMMEDIATE HELP IS NEEDED.

HENRY THOMPSON, Treasurer.
WILLIAM HORNIBROOK, Secretary.

CHRISTIAN COMMUNITY.

INSTITUTED 1772.
President: G. WILLIAMS, ESQ.
Vice-Presidents: A. PEASE, ESQ., M.P., S. D. WADDY, ESQ., M.P., Q.C., and J. H. GLADSTONE, ESQ., Ph.D., F.R.S., &c.
Treasurer: F. A. BEVAN, ESQ.
Honorary Secretary: THE REV. W. TYLER.

This, the oldest of all the Evangelistic Societies in London, is largely engaged in taking the Gospel to two classes, viz., those who cannot, and those who will not, attend ordinary places of worship. The former are met with in workhouses, infirmaries, and suchlike places; the latter in the open air, common lodging-houses, &c., besides in rooms and mission halls, where every sort of religious, social, and benevolent efforts are in daily operation, by 150 volunteer workers and a large contingent of lady helpers, who visit 12 workhouses and infirmaries, with 12,000 or more inmates.

During the winter, an earnest and most successful effort has been made to reach the "Outcast" from whom the "Bitter Cry" has come. Thousands of them have been sheltered all night and fed in the Mission Hall, Thrawl-street, Spitalfields. Many have been secured work, and assisted in other ways. To sustain this and the general work, Funds are urgently needed.

Subscriptions and Donations will be most gratefully received by the Treasurer, F. A. Bevan, Esq., at the Bank; by the Secretary, Mr. James Atkinson, 10, Enfield-road South, Kingsland, N.; by the Bankers, Messrs. Barclay, Bevan & Co., 54, Lombard-street, E.C.; or the Editors of THE CHRISTIAN.

JAMES ATKINSON, Secretary

The Christian:

A WEEKLY RECORD OF CHRISTIAN LIFE, CHRISTIAN TESTIMONY, AND CHRISTIAN WORK.

WITH WHICH IS INCORPORATED "THE REVIVAL."

LONDON: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster Buildings, E.C.]

[REGISTERED AT THE G.P.O. AS A NEWSPAPER.

No. 827.] THURSDAY, DECEMBER 3, 1885. [ONE PENNY. POST FREE, 1½d.

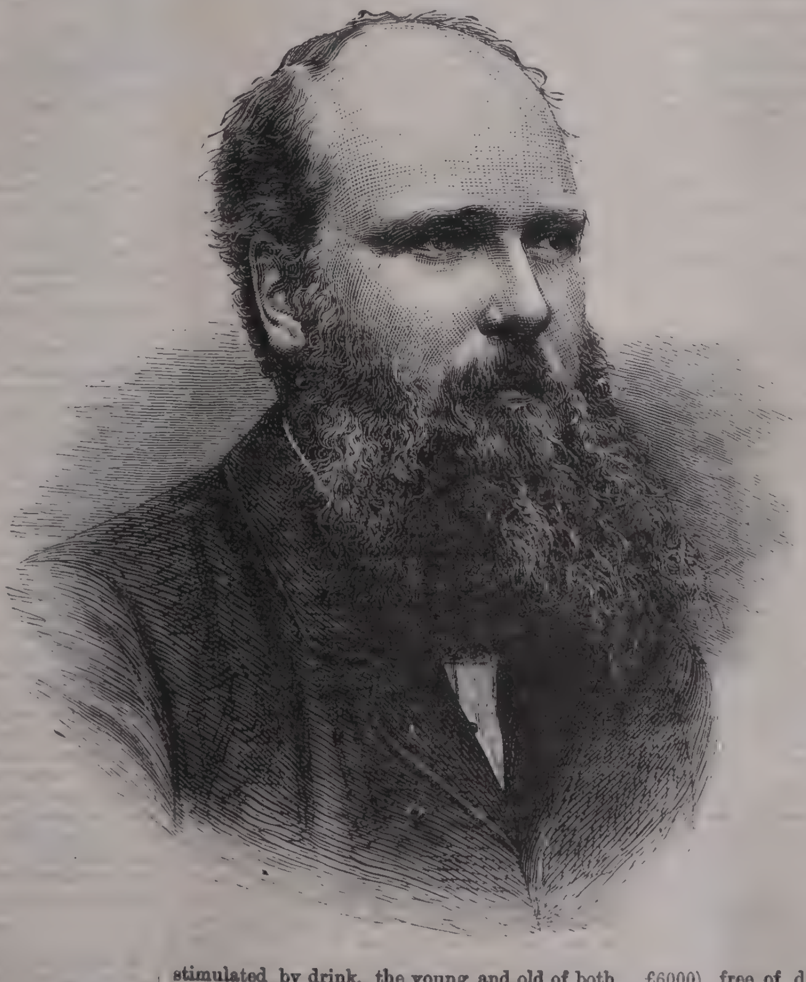
THE EIGHT PAGES OF ADVERTISEMENTS IN THE CENTRE OF THIS NUMBER MAY BE PUT OUTSIDE TO FORM A WRAPPER.

MR. W. J. ORSMAN.

THE subject of our portrait and sketch, Mr. William J. Orsman, was born at Cambridge 1838, and enjoyed the advantages of a re- gious training under Bishop Perry, D.D. oon after he left school, the Crimean War roke out. Although but a youth, Mr. Orsman roceeded to Constantinople and Scutari, where e served in the Army Commissariat Depart- ent, and was frequently rought into contact with iss Florence Nightingale. t the conclusion of the ampaign in 1856, he ob- ined an appointment, hich he still holds, in the eneral Post-office, London. the same year he was d to attend the ministry C. H. Spurgeon, at the urrey Music Hall, and the oung Post-office official as one of the popular eacher's earliest converts. Having experienced the wer of Divine grace in s own soul, Mr. Orsman once became desirous of mmunicating the good ws to others; for some ne he engaged in volun- ry Christian work in South ndon, particularly in the en air and the common lging - houses. By his ergy a large Bible-class d Evangelists' Associa- n were established at the tropolitan Tabernacle. honorary secretary of t earnest band of workers, rendered important ser- e; a goodly number of nisters and evangelists look back to those early s as among the most asant and helpful in their s, when Mr. Orsman ouraged them to exercise r new-found gifts for lic speaking.

s one of this band of workers, he was led to a visit to Golden-lane in 1861. Various rts had been made to evangelise this dark ghbourhood, and a city philanthropist had e some good by erecting model lodging- ses. In one of these places a room on the und floor was devoted to Ragged-school work the ministry of the Gospel, and it was here Mr. Orsman began his well-known Costers' Mission. The ignorance and moral degradation of the people were simply awful, but Mr. Orsman and his friends invaded the notorious citadel with no other weapons than the Word of God and a bundle of Christian literature. There were the "Great Hell" and "Little Hell" common lodging-houses, "Hot-water" houses, and "Twopenny hopping-cribs," in which, stimulated by drink, the young and old of both sexes joined. Gross immoralities, drunken fights, and robberies with violence, were of constant occurrence. The insanitary condition of the district was beyond description. In a few years a great change came over the people, chiefly through the influence of the Golden-lane Mission.

The late Earl of Shaftesbury was a frequent visitor in the district, and manifested a hearty interest in Mr. Orsman and the Costers.



The Costers—or street traders—are a very difficult set of people to manage, but they soon discovered their true friends, and by means of sick and burial clubs, loan clubs, donkey shows, &c., their position has been raised in the social scale. Reference has frequently been made to the Costers' presentation of a donkey to the Earl. At Mr. Spurgeon's jubilee last year, Lord Shaftesbury said:—"Talking of the men who were raised up by our friend Spurgeon, I should be sorry to omit the founder of the Golden-lane Costermongers' Mission, my friend, Mr. Orsman. This institution civilises and Christianises. I derive benefit from it, for I am a Costermonger. I am proud to add that to my address. People sometimes write to me, 'The Earl of Shaftesbury, K.G.' When I write my name in full, I add, 'and C.' That means, 'and Costermonger.'"

The Earl was delighted with the donkey given to him, and, writing from his country home shortly before his death, he said, "Coster Jack is a very useful animal; he draws me about in a chair every day to visit my people."

In 1879 the Metropolitan Board of Works cleared away many of the courts and alleys, and Mr. Orsman continued his numerous operations in five different places, until a suitable building could be erected in Hoxton - street, whither most of his people had removed. He has now capital mission premises (erected at a cost of £6000), free of debt, and herein are carried on no less than thirty-four distinct branches of work very successfully. In the past year, 1452 meetings were held, of which number 1140 were decidedly Christian efforts; the other meetings were for benevolent, social, and educational purposes. 100,000 dinners to destitute children have been given from 1865.

As Mr. Orsman divides his whole time between his important duties at Her Majesty's Post-office and his not less important service for the King of kings, he has little leisure for other pursuits. We know that he rejoices in his voluntary service for nearly twenty-five years, and that the spiritual prosperity of the mission was never greater than at this moment. We were present in June last when 300 members of the mission church presented him with a valuable illuminated testimonial on vellum, full of the expressions of thanksgiving and affection. The Earl of Shaftesbury signed the memorial, but at the last moment was prevented by illness from presenting it. Mr. Orsman, in common with many others, mourns the loss of his beloved chief; and it was a touching sight to witness hundreds of costers reverently following the body of the late Earl to Westminster Abbey, Mr. Orsman himself acting as one of the pall-bearers.

Reference having been made to Mr. Spurgeon, we cannot do better than close with his opinion of Mr. Orsman and his work:—"We know of no evangelistic work in London more wisely conducted and permanently useful than that which was inaugurated by Mr. Orsman, and has been carried on by him for so many years. Our beloved friend has always rejoiced in being connected with the Tabernacle, though he has not been dependent in any degree upon us for funds. Our heart rejoices at every remembrance of him. He is one of that honourable body of men who are not chargeable unto the churches, but abide in their callings and preach the Gospel freely. Only by labourers of this class can our back slums be reached. Hard by the very centre of infidelity our brother exhibits a practical Christianity, and he ought to have the sympathy of all believers in so doing—a sympathy not of words only, but shown in pecuniary help." To which we most heartily say, Amen!

Mr. Orsman's address is, Milton House, Shacklewell-green, Hackney, E.

◆

WINTER'S CRY IN EAST LONDON.

THE winter is now upon us once more, and we are realising the terrible need of the poor around us. Last winter we were enabled, through the gifts of the readers of this paper, to help numbers of hungry ones by means of soup suppers, and the Lord blessed those efforts both spiritually and temporally. We are most anxious to commence again if the Lord's stewards will supply us with the means. Many precious lives may be saved through a little timely aid.

About three months ago a young sailor crawled into the house in a terrible state; he had been four weeks suffering, often in the streets all night, and half starved; his face was swollen with erysipelas, and he was in a most exhausted state. We gave him food and lodging, and the next morning got him into an hospital; the doctor said that if he had remained one more night exposed and neglected his life must have been forfeited. He passed through a long and critical illness and he has just come out full of gratitude for the help afforded him. The Lord has blessed the time of sickness to him spiritually, and we believe he is trusting in Christ as his Saviour. He has come from the hospital quite destitute, without money or clothes, and requires a helping hand until he can get a ship and start once more as he hopes now speedily to do.

This is but a typical case; we have, night after night, men coming who require sympathy and care. There is also great need of pamphlets and tracts for distribution. R. Child.

Welcome Home, Ratcliff-highway, E.

PROTESTANTISM IN SYRIA.—In an article published in the Nouvelle Revue, a French traveller declares that there is scarcely a village in Syria without a Protestant Church; more than one may be found even in the gorges of Mount Hermon. At Beyrout there is a German Hospital, and an American University, where the most practical sciences are taught, especially that of medicine.

BURMAH.—I.

By Mr. HENRY SOLTAU.

THE rapidity with which new countries are being opened up for the Gospel is extraordinary, and should be a great stimulus to all Christians at home as rapidly to enter in and take advantage of these open doors on behalf of the Master. For many years Christians in England, America, and Asia have been praying to the Lord that He would open Upper Burmah to the Gospel. Our prayers are now being answered, and, before we are ready for it, a province containing an area of about 67,000 square miles, provided with excellent water communication, and shortly to be supplied with railways, is placed in our hands, prepared for good works.

In six weeks from leaving London, missionaries can be placed in Upper Burmah, and in another fortnight can be transported on luxurious steamers to the frontier of China. Burmah will soon be one State under British rule. Wherever the Union Jack flies, there is liberty for servants of the Cross of all denominations to labour, and also liberty of conscience for natives of all tribes and languages to worship in whatsoever way they please.

In Lower Burmah there are now two railways—both starting from Rangoon, the port of arrival for the majority of vessels from England and India. One line leads to Prome, a large city on the Irawaddy, half a day's journey by steamer from the frontier of Upper Burmah. The other to Toungoo, along the valley of the Sittang River close to the south-eastern frontier of Upper Burmah. Up the Irawaddy river steamers ply between Rangoon and Mandalay, and between Mandalay and Bhamo, and towns of large and small population can be thus reached with ease and comfort. Towns and villages situated on the tributaries of this river can be reached by boat. The Burmese are good boatmen, and almost as much at home in the water as out of it.

The effects of English annexation of Upper Burmah will be manifold and highly beneficial. In the first place, the inhabitants of the country itself will be released from a tyrannical and repressive government, for it must be remembered that "like king like rulers." The smallest official is a miniature of his sovereign in that land. The people will now be able to till their lands in peace, to keep the money they have earned, to live at home, without being impressed for war, and to worship as they wish. The country will in time become quiet internally. The hordes of dacoits will be exterminated, the majority of them, doubtless, returning again to their peaceable modes of life. The surrounding independent tribes will cease making raids on defenceless towns and villages, and will, therefore, themselves be compelled to lead peaceable and industrious lives.

Immense numbers of immigrants will pour into the country. Chinese from Western and Southern China, natives of India from Madras and Bengâl, Shans from the Independent States, and from Western China, and probably not a few merchants and manufacturers and engineers from England and other Western lands. New lines of communication will be made. Already we find railways are being talked of. Calcutta is to be connected with Mandalay, and Mandalay with Ta-li-foo in China. A highway will now be permanently opened, by which missionaries and travellers will be able to reach China from the West, and the immense distance that has had to be traversed by those wanting to evangelise Western China and Eastern Tibet, hitherto, will be reduced by nearly one half, while the fatigue and danger will be lessened far more.

The mission field will be enormously enlarged; for, in addition to the Burmese and Burmese Shans of Upper Burmah itself, the neighbouring tribes will be accessible as never before—Shans, Paloungs, Khyins, Ka-Khyens, Chinese, and all the various tribes of each of these races will now be easily reached; and many of these will be wanting instruction. You will at once have a demand for knowledge of English, and of Burmese, and hence an opening for mission-schools. As another result, trade will revive and flourish.

Merchants in China have only been waiting for a strong government in Burmah to send their goods in much larger quantities into that country, and to receive in return Western goods from our own country. There is not the least doubt that when the border tribes of North-east Burmah, who have been the great hinderers of trade, see that the English Government are in power beside them, they will cease their raiding, and let the trade flow through their hills and villages. And there is no doubt that it will flow through; for, in spite of the enormous obstacles in their way, the persevering Chinese have annually endeavoured to push their caravans, of one to four thousand animals, through to Bhamo every dry season. We shall all be thankful for any little prospect of increased trade with Burmah and China, and the lessening, in however small a degree, of the distress that prevails at the present time in our own land, and the depression that has for so long existed in Lower Burmah.

The population of Upper Burmah cannot be correctly ascertained, as no census has ever been taken. The land is fruitful, but the population comparatively small. A poor person is a very rare sight in Upper Burmah, in ordinary times, and the country is capable of sustaining a very heavy population. An estimate has been made of twenty-five persons to the square mile, which would give a population of about one and three-quarter millions. This does not include the independent, or semi-dependent, Shan States.

The religion of the country is Buddhism of a remarkably pure character. There is no doubt that the deposing of the king and advent of the English will produce a decided effect upon this religion. The visible head of the religion disappears, and the halo of sanctity that surrounded the palace, in the eyes especially of the inhabitants of Lower Burmah, will be dispelled. Moreover, their priests will no longer be able to oppress the people as heretofore, and as they could still continue to do were Burmah merely a protected State. We have known them flog people for not offering food and other things to them; and they always take the place of officials and use the power of the civil officials for their own ends. All officials in Upper Burmah are under the eye of the priests who communicate through the superior abbot or bishop direct with the court at Mandalay. This makes all the civil officials anxious to keep on good terms with the priests, and therefore places great power in the hands of the priesthood.

TEMPERANCE HALL, HONGKONG.—Dear Sir,—Will you kindly allow me to appeal to your readers for books, illustrated papers, tracts, or magazines, from time to time, for the use of our soldiers and sailors in the far East? Public-houses stand open to catch the blue-jacket as he comes on leave. Much blessing has followed the Lord's workers in Hongkong. The regiment now leaving for home has many whole-hearted Christians. The same may be said of the fleet; I do not know of one ship on this station on which the Lord has not someone as a light to testify for Him.—Yours in the truth, T. Carpenter, Manager.

EXETER HALL.

THE gentlemen who a few years ago purchased Exeter Hall in order to make it the London headquarters of the Y.M.C.A., could scarcely have anticipated so rapid a development of its organisation or so complete a success in its beneficial workings as that which is manifest at the present time. The object of the Association, as all the world knows, is to promote the welfare of young men spiritually, intellectually, socially, and physically, by its varied agencies. The extent to which these benevolent aims are appreciated is discoverable in some measure by the fact that the classes and lectures at Exeter Hall, conducted by competent masters, are regularly attended by upward of 3000 students.

The original cost of the building, including the expenses entailed in adaptation, &c., amounted to the gigantic sum of £60,000, the greater part of which has been raised. The Committee are naturally anxious to see the remaining debt of £8750 cleared off, so as to be freed from a burden which they feel greatly hinders the work. In spite, however, of this drawback, the Divine blessing is attending the efforts made to reach young men, and there is abundant cause for thankfulness in relation to each department. The spiritual part of the work is kept well to the front, and the salvation of those who are brought into contact with the Association is held to be the first and foremost object for which it exists. A Gospel service is held every evening at eight, conducted by the young men themselves. They go forth in bands to invite others in from the Strand. After two or three brief addresses, they have personal dealing with the anxious.

EVANGELISTIC AND OTHER RELIGIOUS WORK.

The daily prayer meeting from one to two is well sustained, and is acknowledged by many to be a source of constant blessing. At the Strangers' Meeting every Monday evening, young men fresh from country homes are warmly welcomed and kindly counselled. Tuesday and Wednesday evenings are devoted to evangelistic meetings, to which all are invited. On Thursdays there is held a Bible lecture at eight. This is conducted, as a rule, by some well-known minister, and is specially helpful to Christian workers. A training class for converts and workers meets each Friday at eight, conducted by Mr. Kennedy, General Secretary, and is followed by a prayer meeting. The Saturday evening meeting is a Bible-reading, conducted by Colonel Paget.

The afternoon of Sunday is devoted to prayer and conversational Bible-reading for men only, and is conducted by Mr. A. Burson, the Evangelistic Secretary. Meanwhile four Christian bands go forth to visit the lodging-houses in the neighbourhood, in some of which as many as a hundred persons are found. At eight a Gospel service is held, and when the weather is fine, there is also out-door preaching. At Stanhope-street, Clare-market, a regular evangelistic mission is carried on by the young men, who hold meetings every Sunday, and on four evenings in the week. This is supplemented by a Sunday-school, and week-day services on two afternoons in the week, followed up by house to house visitation. It is a very interesting fact that many of the most zealous of these workers have been brought to God through the Association.

THE LITERARY AND EDUCATIONAL

advantages provided are seen to be of a high order. Young men are prepared for the Civil Service and other professions; many of the students attending the lectures were successful at the last examinations. The programme of educational classes is a long one, but can be obtained at the headquarters. Most of the modern sciences and languages are included. Lectures on a great variety of topics are arranged for during the winter session and are now in full swing. One of these was delivered on Monday evening, November 23, on "Gambling," by Rev. F. Hastings. The audience was treated to a rapid survey of the general subject, showing that the recent increase of this vice is something fearful. Not only men but women of high rank have been known to gamble away a fortune in one evening. The lottery element in bazaars was greatly deprecated. The lecturer proceeded to describe thimble-rigging, card-sharping, &c., and created some amusement by his description of them. In New York gambling exists to a terrible degree and is a perfect organisation. Advertisements offering immense advantages for a trifle are often a species of gambling: neither was the Art Union quite free from the taint. Among the evils of the gambling habit are waste of time, the sapping of the strength of industry, the undermining of health through prolonged and injurious strain, the fostering of a miserable suspiciousness and heartlessness destroying all feeling for others. The lecturer said he had seen its dire results even in his own family, and several of his acquaintances had been ruined by it. Why should there not be an Anti-gambling Society?

The lecturing arrangements for the winter session include courses on the "Science of Construction and Applied Mechanics," on "Elocution and Public Speaking," in connection with the Open-air Missions, on "First Aid to the Injured," and on "Hygiene and Animal Physiology." For ladies there is a lecture on "Practical Cookery," by Mrs. C. J. Lambe Evans, every Saturday evening at 6.30; and another at 7.30, on "First Aid to the Injured," by Mr. James Cantlie, M.B. This department of the work is under the efficient management of Mr. C. Hooper, Clerical Secretary.

The evening classes, which comprise such subjects as the sciences, languages, music, shorthand, &c., number nearly fifty weekly. London University matriculation and first B.A. classes, are conducted by Dr. Theo. Hellen, assisted by graduates in honours. Other classes include preparation for examinations to be held next year by the Law Society, the College of Preceptors, and the Society of Apothecaries. The ladies are furthermore instructed in matters relating to the Civil Service, by Mr. Henry White, B.A., of London University, and trained for clerkships in the Post-office, telegraph learnerships, and sorterships.

THE DEBATING SOCIETY,

holding its meetings every Thursday evening at eight o'clock in the Council-room, is eagerly anticipated by its members, and generally witnesses a lively and well-sustained discussion. The Gymnasium, under the directorship of Mr. E. Sulley, is fitted with superior apparatus. Classes (day and evening) are organised for gentlemen, ladies, and juveniles, while special arrangements are made for schools, families, and institutions. None are admitted as members, however, without undergoing a medical examination. The members find an excellent supply of current literature in the central reading-room, where no less than one hundred and sixty daily and weekly papers and periodicals are subscribed for. Below is the library, containing several hundred volumes, with every convenience for letter-writing, &c. Foreign missions are not forgotten: A monthly meeting, preceded by a friendly tea, is held with a view to bring the claims of missions before the young men, and addresses are given by various ministers. We must also note, as an instance of the extent to which the Christian element permeates all departments of the institution, that in a perfectly informal way a ten minutes' Gospel address is given to the members of the weekly gymnasium practice; thus the athletes are reminded of the need of "keeping under the body," while seeking its development by healthy exercise.

THE FAR-REACHING BENEFITS

of this institution, with its ever-multiplying ramifications, cannot be estimated. In addition to good done within its walls, there is a vast deal accomplished beside. Young men are not lost sight of when leaving the metropolis, but are furnished with letters of introduction and recommendation to Christian ministers and kindred societies in whatever part of the country or the world they may be bound for. Those for whom situations have been obtained, after being "out" for some time, can tell of its value in such times of need. Parents, too, including widowed mothers far away, bear grateful testimony to the relief they feel in knowing that their sons are connected with the Y.M.C.A., where they have the loving sympathy and counsel of secretaries who labour early and late for their spiritual and temporal welfare. Should the young men find their way in time of sickness to the hospital, even there they are not forgotten, but are sought out by kindly visitors who are able to speak a word in season. The sea-side homes for rest and recreation, at Margate, Hazelwood (Isle of Wight), and other places, where young men can spend a healthful summer holiday at a reduced tariff, are of course available for all the London branches of the Association.

In order to the development and cementing of a friendly and Christian feeling, arrangements are made for frequent meetings of a social character. One of these was held last Thursday evening. At the invitation of Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Bruce and Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Galbraith, the members of the Association gathered for a conversazione; a most happy and profitable evening was spent. The young men, numbering about five hundred, were instructed and stimulated by stirring addresses. Mr. Bruce, the chairman, said he was glad to get an insight into the work done at Exeter Hall. Mr. Kennedy, the active and much-esteemed General Secretary, referred to a few facts which showed how truly the Association fosters and maintains the most practical sympathy with evangelical churches of all denominations; it urges all members and associates to attach themselves to some church, while giving what spare time they can to the special work of the Association. Mr. Kennedy read a letter received from Mr. Stanley Smith, now labouring in the north of China, speaking of the great and blessed work being done there, and urging the members to close communion with Christ. Two excellent addresses were given by Drs. A. C. Murphy and J. Monro Gibson. Most hearty and helpful were the words spoken. By the former the young men were reminded that although the fires of martyrdom are not now kindled, yet the good soldiers of Jesus Christ must endure hardness. The need of confessing Christ, of exercising self-control, and of active service in the cause, was ably enforced. Dr. Gibson's address was a friendly talk on "How do you do?" and "How are you getting on?" Nothing could have been better. If we follow Christ we shall do well, shall get on in the highest sense, and shall know "where we are going." Mr. George Williams, Mr. Herbert Tritton, and Mr. W. H. Seagram, each offered some remarks that went to make up a delightful evening.

It should be noted, in addition, that twice a week there are meetings for Frenchmen, conducted by Frenchmen, who find one another out and render mutual help and counsel. All that we have said in this notice refers to the more public efforts of the Association. There is much done at Exeter Hall, however, as at all other Young Men's Christian Associations, in the way of affording personal and private counsel and direction to young men who seek for them. That part of the work cannot be reported in a newspaper, but its value is not to be over-estimated.

FRANCE.—A new journal, Le Jour du Repos, whose object is to advocate among French-speaking people of the Continent the perpetual observance of the fourth commandment, is published at Vevey.

SOLDIERS' HOME, WINCHESTER.—Dear Sir,—I praise God that he has permitted me not only to see with my eyes, but to ascertain the breadth and solidity of the glorious work carried on by his servants, the Misses Perks, at the Soldiers' Home, in the ancient city of Winchester. The mighty leverage from this centre and fulcrum of their mission, has reached over an immense area, and ten stations are blessed with Gospel ministry, from the lips of God's honoured servants and evangelists. The Soldiers' Home, with its multiform ramifications commends itself to every one who desires to promote the only true and perfect way of life, and health, and vigour, among our soldiers, our railway men and artizans.—Faithfully yours,

The Priory, Abergavenny. E. H. Fielder.

THE BLESSED LIFE.*

By Rev. MARK GUY PEARSE.

"He that dwelleth in the secret place of the Most High shall abide under the shadow of the Almighty."—Ps. xci. 1.

OUR gracious God has many visitors, and has a kindly welcome for all who come to Him. Some come as his poor dependents, knocking at the back door and seeking to get their baskets filled with the scraps they need. Well, these shall not be sent empty away. But, alas, how much they lose! They have his gifts, but they never see his face, they never hear his voice, they never know his heart.

Some are his servants—they dwell with Him. They seek to know his will, and set themselves to do it earnestly. They commune with Him, and yet they do not dwell in the innermost circle. Having done his work, they turn to their own. There are limits and divisions of interest.

Some are his children. They are always with Him. They live in his presence: they are ever at home with Him. They know his heart. Unto them He saith, "Son, thou art ever with Me, and all that I have is thine."

Pauper, servant, son—which are we? This psalm is the song of one who dwells with God. The psalm of the Son, from which the Tempter fetched the quotation with which he feathered his arrow: "If Thou be the Son of God; . . . for it is written . . ." He whose heart can sing this song has found in God a rest, a satisfaction, a delight, a home.

It is supposed by many that this psalm was written by Moses. Certainly there are in it allusions that would come most naturally from one in his circumstances. This first verse gathers a fulness of new meaning as we think of it coming from his lips. We think of Him in the wilderness, wearied with a people who seemed incapable of entering into any worthy thought of their high calling; vexed at the delays and wanderings; wearied, too, by the unchanging dreariness of the desert. He, a whole heaven above the people in the nobility of his spirit, turns from all this to find comfort in God, and prays, "I beseech Thee, show me Thy glory." There is given the gracious answer, "Behold, there is a place by Me, and thou shalt stand upon a rock. . . . I will put thee in a cleft of the rock. I will make all My goodness pass before thee, and I will proclaim the name of the Lord before thee." We think of him going up into the secret place of the Most High—away from the multitude into the unbroken calm and stillness, up from the dreary monotony of the desert into the Mount of the Lord, with new beauties opening before him at every step; up from the languid heat into the fresh wind of the early morning; on to where God Himself waits with all-gracious welcome, and then into the cave. And there the Lord, the Lord God, passed by and proclaimed Himself. And there Moses finds God as his own —"my God"—and puts Israel into his keeping, and prays Him to come and make his abode amongst them.

That mountain height, that secret place, is within our reach. It is Calvary. There are the clefts of the rock wherein we hide while God comes down to make his goodness pass before us. Then may we draw near to say of Him, "My God," and to find in Him our dwelling-place and home.

Our home in God. Let the thought sink down into the heart and become a desire, a purpose, a possession. It is for us, for each one of us, to know it if we will; to go up out of the way of the wilderness, and to find our rest and dwelling-place in Him. Outside are biting winds and bitter rains; outside are stony ways and stony faces too; outside are the fleeting hopes that find no place to light upon, wishes that are swiftly swept away by fear; outside all that suggests hurry, and toil, and want, and uncertainty; a hungry world, not knowing what it seeks, but believing that its satisfaction lies ever a little further on. To step out of this into the secret place of the Most High—what is it? To find oneself no more a bubble flung on lawless seas; no more a fallen leaf, the sport of wintry winds; but round and about us are the everlasting arms, and we rest against the very heart of our Father God. To be known through and through us—all the weakness and the want, the wasted past, the dreadful possibilities of evil within us—and yet to be loved infinitely. To be known in all our dull thought of things, our clumsy failure, our quick forgetfulness, our shallowness and cowardice, and yet to hold as our own such exceeding precious promises of blessedness. To pass out of the din and grinding wheels of earth, with its mystery of want and pain and sorrow, and to rest in a great assurance of pity and help for every one; that behind all things and running through and through all things is the love of the Father; and that all things are set to this one end—to help men up to a higher life. No more the uncertain but a very terra firma; lying down in the shadow of the Eternal, feeling that waves may toss far down below us, and tides may come and go, but this sure Rock of our resting-place abideth for ever and ever. To have the hallowing hush of God's own presence, the soothing, strengthening touch of his own hand, the heaven of his smile and favour—this is to dwell in the secret place of the Most High. To let ourselves and ours go with a glad abandonment right into the keeping of his love; to live with a child-like freedom from care, or fear, or want, knowing that He careth for us; to be loosed from ambition, to have no fierce and jealous eagerness, and yet to be stirred with a great desire and a fixed endeavour to know his will and to please Him perfectly—this is to dwell in his secret place. And there, hidden in the clefts of the Rock, it is ours to look out on all things, finding everywhere the revelation of his goodness, and hearing evermore that voice proclaiming the Lord, the Lord God, merciful and gracious.

He that dwelleth shall abide. These words denote the settled and unchanging. This is no occasional privilege, as when the high priests once a year went into the Holiest of all. It is no exceptional thing—the festival of some rare day. No vision is it, shortlived. Not a rift in the clouds, a passing glimpse of a glory that is to be hereafter. We dwell—and He abides. God is to us what we will let Him be. He changeth not. Where we are bold to come, there may we be bold to stay. He will not go away; nor need we. If we will dwell there, there will He abide.

A secret place. He only that seeketh shall find it. A blessedness of which any man may say, "It shall be mine, and I will search diligently until I find it." But they shall never know it who think they can drift to heaven with languid desires and lofty longings that come to nothing. Nor is it for those who can put heart and soul into everything else, sticking at it until they do succeed, but in religion are content with theories and notions, with mere creeds and services. Yet every one that seeketh findeth. It is an open secret to the searcher. These further heights of blessedness are not a kind of Alpine climbing, requiring great endurance, and much skill, and resolute courage. Seek—never mind how clumsily, if only the heart be in it. Seek—God sends forth his light and truth; they wait for us at the foot of the holy hill. Seek and ye shall find. Men lose these things not because they do not understand them, and not because they do not desire them, but because they do not seek them.

And then, seeking and finding the secret place, its full blessedness is for those only who will make themselves at home in it. Custom and blessed familiarity are needful to home. "Is this our home?" said my little one to me, as we drove up to the door of a new abode. "No," said I, "not yet. It is our house—it will be our home, I hope, when we get used to it."

Soul, the secret of finding thy home in God is to be much at home with Him.

GOSPEL WORK IN KENTUCKY.

DEAR SIR,—At this place, situated in the western part of Kentucky, a town of about 3000 inhabitants, a remarkable work is in progress just at present. Evangelistic meetings are being conducted by Rev. R. G. Pearson, an evangelist, who has within the past two years become quite prominent in that special line of Gospel work in the South. As a regular minister (Cumberland Presbyterian) and for several years a pastor, he had great success in soul-winning; but, longing for a larger field, and feeling especially called to evangelistic work, he has for the past three years devoted himself to that work entirely.

Three years ago Dr. Brookes, of St. Louis, whom so many of your English readers have learned to love, with three other pastors of the city, secured Mr. Pearson's services for a series of union meetings in his (Dr. Brookes's) church. Whilst there, and enjoying the hospitality of Dr. Brookes's home, an attachment sprang up between these servants of the Master, akin to that of Paul and Timothy, the young preacher having been greatly profited, as have Moody, Needham, and other evangelists now in the field, by contact with this highly honoured pastor. Having had his attention called to the prominence in the Word concerning the blessed hope of our Lord's coming, and eagerly grasping it, Mr. Pearson has since given that glorious truth its due prominence in his preaching.

God has owned his preaching in a marked degree; hundreds in many cities and towns in the South have been made to rejoice not only in a free and full pardon through faith in the Crucified One, but many looking for that blessed hope and longing for his coming. For nearly four weeks, now, the interest in the meetings has been increasing daily. The surrounding country for a distance of eight and ten miles furnishes attendants upon the meetings, many of whom return rejoicing in the knowledge of sins forgiven through faith in Jesus Christ. There was quite a number of additions to the various churches on last Lord's day, and at each proclamation of the Gospel message many are born into the kingdom of God's dear Son.

Princeton, Kentucky. Robt. U. Garrett.

THE NATIONAL HOSPITAL FOR CONSUMPTION, Ventnor.—On Monday, November 16, a party of friends of this institution, under the presidency of Mr. Herbert C. Saunders, Q.C., Chairman of the Board of Management, visited Ventnor for the purpose of inaugurating a new block for eighteen more patients, which has been built to meet the great pressure of applicants. The cost of this new block has been partly met by special gifts, but the general funds of the institution have borne the principal charges, and voluntary gifts are now much needed. It is anticipated that the results of treatment in this new block will be even more encouraging than in the older buildings.

---

* From Some Aspects of the Blessed Life. By Mark Guy Pearse. 2s. 6d. T. Woolmer.

HUMILIATION AND PRAYER.

LAST Thursday was observed at the Conference Hall, Mildmay, and other places, as a time of confession of national sins and shortcomings, and prayer for God's blessing at this crisis of the nation's history. In the afternoon the proceedings commenced with the singing of the prayer-hymn—

> "Great King of nations, hear our prayer,
> While at thy feet we fall,
> And, humbly, with united cry,
> To Thee for mercy call."

Mr. R. C. Morgan, who presided, read Joel ii., and said: Many hearts have been sorely exercised during the past months. There are things in the land which appal us, and make us feel God's hand is upon us, and that Satan is going to and fro in the earth. The Lord calls us to humiliation and confession of sin. He has not forsaken us; his Spirit abides with us; let us so come, and He will of a truth cause his face to shine upon us, upon the Church, and upon the nation. We feel very much the Church of God needs to be prayed for. It is indeed dishonouring to God, and saddening to those who know, how much coldness and deadness and worldliness there is amongst us. Neither can we forget the horrible and fearful things of which we have lately heard. May God deliver our land and our people from them!

Amongst those who led in the prayer that followed were Mr. James E. Mathieson, who specially confessed the sins of the Church in indifference and practical unbelief, tending towards scepticism. Another was chiefly burdened by reason of the gross and flagrant immorality existing in the nation—hidden, yet all known of God.

Rev. J. Gosset Tanner, in the course of a brief address, said: There is one thing we must pray and strive after—that fathers and mothers should be more loving and more wise than ever in dealing plainly with their children on the question of purity. I believe it is the duty of every Christian man and woman to be very diligent in this matter. Those of us who are in the habit of visiting in the homes of the poor, should seek to press upon them the importance of watching over their children in this respect, and seeking for them places in which God is honoured. I rejoice greatly in the tokens that God's Spirit has been poured out on many young men in the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge, and also at Edinburgh. Many of these are consecrating themselves to the service of God, and one of their desires is they should be blessed to the boys in the public schools. I am sure that many will pray for these boys; also that fathers and mothers should receive wisdom in speaking to their children and warning them of the dangers around them. Mr. Tanner closed with prayer, particularly for parents and children and young servants; also that godly senators might be raised up to guide the affairs of the State.

Rev. D. B. Hankin said, that in looking around there was much to humble us. How far short have we come of what the Lord intends us to be! How feebly we reflect the glory of the blessed Lord, whose name we bear! How very feebly we have grasped the purpose for which we have been created new creatures in Christ Jesus! There is something to awe us. He referred to the revelations which have caused us to weep tears of agony before the Lord. It has seemed as if Society were nothing better than a cesspool, that it has been emptied out, that the pavement has been splashed, and some delicate senses offended by the odour. The law must repress crime, the Church of God must attack sin with the spiritual weapons the Lord has placed at our disposal. There is a tremendous responsibility upon our legislators in meeting the hydra-headed monster of vice; therefore will we pray that men of God, men of holy courage like Daniel, who will bear the obloquy and scorn heaped upon those who do God's work in the world, may be raised to power. There is much to perplex us. We see unrest of nations, we see the fratricidal and unnecessary struggle between two little nations, which may be but the commencement of a greater struggle. We are perplexed by events occurring, yet we look with joyful hope to the nearing future. We must not forget there never was a time when the Lord was so manifestly working in all parts of the earth. The spiritual energy of the Church is being developed. We should pray earnestly for our public schools, that on the rising generation may be brought to bear lessons of righteousness, and purity, and the Gospel of the grace of God.

Short addresses were also given by Earl Cavan and Rev. J. Wilkinson. Amongst those who led in prayer, one was burdened greatly with regard to the present election, that God would overrule all the devices of men for his glory; another for the boys in the public schools, that they might in early life be led to Christ; yet another for Mr. Hammond's missions, that many in their childhood might find the Lord Jesus Christ as Saviour and Keeper. Another cried to God very specially on account of the floodtide of immoral and vile literature, debauching and destroying youth. The Chairman closed with prayer for righteous rulers and legislators.

EVENING MEETINGS.

Two meetings were held in the evening for women and men respectively. The very unfavourable weather, no doubt, restricted the attendances to a large extent. The women met in one of the basement rooms, and were addressed by Miss Mason and others.

The men's meeting in the large hall was presided over by Mr. S. A. Blackwood, who said, in the course of an excellent address: We are met in the midst of a political crisis, when the air is full of the strife of parties, and the sounds of party war are very high. But we do not come here to advance the interests of either political party; we are met solemnly and quietly to confess our sins—our national sins—and to protest with all the earnestness of which we are capable, and with the sincerity of a deep-rooted conviction, that purity of heart and of conduct in the individual, in family, social, and political life is paramount to all party interests whatsoever. We are met to stir up one another to do all that lies in our power and that God shows us to be right, to deepen and extend on every side that righteousness which alone exalteth a nation. What is the cause of our thus meeting together? There has been what some have called an apocalypse or revelation of evil; the term I think is a very happy and correct one. It is right that evil should be exposed and made manifest; for we know that whether it be moral or physical evil, the first step towards its cure and its remedy is that we should know all about it. It is far better that the evil seeds and germs of disease in the human body should be recognised and discerned in their real character than that the disease should continue latent, and at length prove fatal. So with the body politic; evils in the nation should be exposed and made known rather than that they should remain unobserved and be all the while eating out the heart and life of the nation. The first step, I repeat, towards the cure is a knowledge of the disease, and I can conceive of no means so likely to have revealed the evils which we are met to consider to-night, and the declaration of which has so stirred the hearts of the people throughout the country, as the means which, as I believe, God in his wise and overruling providence permitted to be used in this matter. These evils were existent, but to a very great extent unknown. Whether it be owing to the omissions, and, therefore, to the shame of those who preach the Gospel, or whether it be due to the conspiracy of silence that has obtained, with a few noble exceptions, throughout the Press; these evils, though known to and deplored by many, were comparatively unchecked. The efforts which had been made on the right hand and on the left for years had utterly failed to touch the hearts of the people generally, or to rouse them into anything like collective and national action. It was, therefore, in my belief, an interposition of Providence that permitted the columns of a secular newspaper to reveal, in all their startling horror, the crimes that were being (and are still being) perpetrated in our midst; that were bringing misery and ruin into thousands of homes, and sending vast numbers of souls to destruction in this life and that which is to come. We know what was the probable fate of the only measure before the legislature that in any feeble way attempted to cope with the evils to which I allude. Everything had failed, when, as with the blast of a trumpet, England was startled from one end to the other by the revelations contained in, and written by the hand of the editor of, The Pall Mall Gazette. I suppose none of us would be prepared—I certainly am not—to justify every step that was taken and every word used, and every statement made; but I am glad here to record my honest belief that the motive which prompted the writer of these articles was the grandest motive that could move the heart of man. [At this, as at many other points in Mr. Blackwood's address, there was a hearty expression of assent and applause from the audience.] That motive was the desire to rescue the oppressed, the defenceless and the downtrodden. If he has made mistakes—and who is free from them?—he has been the instrument, in the hand of God of arousing the national conscience in a way it has never been aroused, so far as I know, since the horrors of the slave trade—the black slave trade, not so bad as the white—moved the heart of England, some eighty or a hundred years ago.

Mr. Blackwood proceeded to describe how the movement thus inaugurated was endorsed by ministers of the Gospel and Christians of every denomination, and how the improved Criminal Law Amendment Act was passed by an apathetic and reluctant legislature in deference to the strong public opinion that had been created. That Act, he said, does not accomplish all that we desire, but it marks a great advance in the standard of legislation on the subject, and we ought to avail ourselves of its provisions in every way that we can. There is a great deal more to be done. Those who have carefully studied the question know that only the verge of the evils has been touched. Mr. Blackwood referred to a recent deliverance by Mr. Justice Hawkins at the York Assizes, which he himself had heard, in which that Judge commented strongly on the great disparity in the punitive provisions of the law that affect crimes against the male and the female sex respectively. His lordship said that the law did not give him anything like adequate power of punishment in the latter case. For an indecent assault upon a boy he might inflict a sentence of ten years' penal servitude; for the most filthy indecency towards a girl, he had no power to inflict anything beyond a sentence of imprisonment—a very inadequate sentence, in his judgment, in many cases. For knocking down a person and stealing a shilling he could order a man to be whipped; for cruelty in an outrage upon a woman he had no power to inflict such a punishment at all. It looked as if property was considered very much more than persons. We therefore need, continued Mr. Blackwood, not only that the age of protection should be raised, but that the law generally relating to this matter should be strengthened. We must put our shoulders to the wheel. When we see the prevalence of these evils, it is right that those of us who feel that the honour of God is at stake, that the interests of the rising generation are in danger, and the very life of the Church is in peril, should thus meet together and speak our minds. If the demand for a higher tone of legislation is to be strongly uttered and firmly enforced it can only be done by the standard of purity in our own hearts being raised as high as it can be. We must feel more deeply on these subjects. We must not be afraid to look them in the face, as parents, as Christian men, and as citizens of a nation which God has so greatly blessed.

Stirring addresses followed from Rev. H. W. Webb-Peploe and Mr. J. B. Wookey. The former referred in the strongest terms to the widespread ramifications of the evil, to the baleful influence of the degrading literature of the day, of many of the stage representations, of the indecorous modes of dress in vogue in the higher circles of society, and of the facilities with which divorces are obtained, often through the collusion of the parties. Mr. Peploe earnestly appealed to his brethren that if they would help in this cause they must cultivate personal purity, and cherish a strong sense of tender reverence for the other sex. The law must be altered so as to make it bear with equal weight upon men and women in the matter of solicitation to vice, and those who can in any way further or put in operation the provisions of the recent Act, must not shrink from any odium or unpleasantness that would result from their doing so. Mr. Wookey cited many startling facts that had come under his observation, and made a strenuous plea that those who are older should do all they possibly can to protect our lads from the contaminations to which they are exposed in workshops and other places where large numbers are gathered for daily occupation.

Several brethren offered earnest prayer during the evening, and altogether a deep impression was created by the addresses—an impression which we trust may long abide on all who were present.

◆

PASTORAL WORK IN CHINA.

THE following extracts from a letter of a China Inland Missionary to a friend gives an interesting account of Church work in China:—

Mr. Taylor asked myself and wife to come to Ganking, owing to the severe illness of Mr. Tomalin, the pastor. After we had come, he asked me to take the pastorate for six months. Next year we intend, God willing, to return to our work in the far North-West; meanwhile it is well that we can be of service here.

Work is here the order of the day, and I am kept going. I was fully so when I had seven out-stations to look after, in addition to Ganking; and now that the superintendence of these has been transferred to Mr. Macarthy, Ganking, and the one out-station of Ku-Cheng, which has some fifty church members, bid fair to be quite sufficient to keep me fully occupied. A good deal of the church work here I can delegate to the elders, four of whom were ordained some time ago. I let them do as much as they can, as it is well for them to feel their own legs, and be presently prepared to stand alone.

During the last three months we have had thirty-eight baptisms, twenty-two in July, nine in August, and seven in September. Of these, seventeen are men, six are women, and fifteen are girls from the boarding-school. The smallest of the school-children have all asked for baptism, their ages varying from eight to eleven, but it is not at all easy to decide about a number of girls brought up in so unnatural surroundings as a girls' boarding-school. Of course they believe that Christianity is true, probably do really believe in God and in his Son; but how far their affections go with their belief there is not much test. I myself never baptize, but leave it all to the elders, simply seeing that all is done decently and in order.

We hold Sunday-school for an hour or an hour and a half previous to morning service. We have about fifteen teachers, and quite enough work for them to do. Many of the Christians come—we would like them all to—and large numbers of strangers, perhaps about eighty. It is but the "day of small things," compared with the crowds at an evangelistic service at home, but we are very thankful for the "small things," if small, indeed, they be. I hold a Sunday-school teachers' preparation class on Friday evenings, giving them written abstracts of the lesson. They often teach vigorously. After, perhaps, forty-five minutes' teaching, I go over the lesson briefly, recapitulating the chief points of interest, and endeavouring to fix home the central truth.

After a short interval all gather for morning service. I make out the day before an order of service for each Sunday, and each of the elders takes what part he prefers, leaving the expositions and sermon to me.

On Sunday afternoons many of the members go out evangelising. Some help in the chapel. On Sunday, Monday, and Tuesday evenings evangelistic meetings are held for perhaps nearly three hours in the chapel. One of the elders has charge of these meetings, and often numbers have come in and listened most respectfully. Wednesday evening is our singing class; I teach them from a Chinese modulator, and they bid fair to get on. Thursday evening there is the weekly Chinese prayer meeting, at which I give an address. Friday evening, Sunday-school teachers' class; Saturday evening, English prayer meeting. The chapel is regularly opened every afternoon for evangelistic preaching by our preacher.

Each Communion Sunday every member is expected to be present, and to hand in his or her Communion envelope, with the subscription he or she promised. It is not at all so much the amount gained as the establishment of the principle of regular and methodical giving that I aim at. The collections, however, do help towards the running expenses, and the fact of the congregation bearing the latter helps them to feel their united existence. September we had about fifty communicants, besides the missionaries. The collection came to about 7s. 9d., nearly six shillings of which were from members themselves. It may seem but a small sum; but it enhances its value when we remember that about three-halfpence to twopence is sufficient for a man for food daily. Besides this, they give to those in need: they raised some shillings towards helping an evangelist whose wife had died, and a good sum to help an old Christian couple, formerly employed, on returning to their home.

My wife has large classes of women on Thursdays—nearly twenty women. She is teaching the Christian women to read. We had about eighty women and girls at the morning service on Sept. 5. Last Sunday we had some fifty men strangers, among them two Mohammedans. The Mohammedans stayed to see the Communion Service, and afterwards for a talk, and one of them came again to-day to talk with our elder Ts'ü Sien Sing.—Yours, &c.,

Ganking. GEORGE KING.

◆

MEDICAL PRAYER UNION.

THE twelfth annual meeting of this Union was held on Tuesday, November 17, in the Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street. The chair was taken by Mr. John Langton, F.R.C.S., and there were present about 150 medical students.

The annual report, read by the hon. sec., gave brief accounts of the Christian Associations in the various Metropolitan hospitals affiliated with the Union, and showed very satisfactory results of the work done during the past year. The report stated that a Christian association had been commenced at the Bristol Hospital School of Medicine, and referred to the existence of a flourishing branch at the Newcastle-on-Tyne College of Medicine. The names of three prominent members of the Union were mentioned as having determined on giving their lives to foreign medical mission work.

An address was given by Rev. E. A. Stuart (Vicar of St. James's, Holloway), on the words, "Talking with Jesus" (Mark ix. 4). After showing very clearly that the human soul, to be satisfied, needs that which is infinite and permanent, Mr. Stuart drew some practical lessons from the life of Joseph, and dwelt on the necessity of constantly "talking with Jesus" if we would lead Christ-like lives. Mr. Pearce Gould spoke on the Word of God being a Book of the Infinite Being, and the necessity of living for that which is eternal and not temporal. Dr. Thorne Thorne, also spoke briefly, and, before the meeting closed, a gentleman in the body of the hall who had come up from the country, testified to the blessing he had received at a similar meeting held several years ago in the same room.

CITY POLICE.—An interesting meeting of the City Police, their wives and families, in connection with the London City Mission, took place on November 17, in the Lecture Hall of the Y.M.C.A., 186, Aldersgate-street. Among the speakers was Dr. Gordon Brown, the recently appointed Surgeon of the Force; he has the spiritual and temporal needs of the men at heart, and expressed his determination to assist Mr. Russell, the missionary, as far as possible, in his work at the City Police Hospital. An abundant supply of fruit of various descriptions was provided by Mr. John Deacon and other friends.

SPIRITUAL FAMINE IN INDIA.

DEAR SIR,—During the past three years THE CHRISTIAN has been a very welcome visitor. I wish all its readers could take the 250 millions of that portion of the British Empire comprised in India as a real burden on their hearts to be prayed for. There are large portions of country in India, nearly or quite as large as the whole of Scotland, and as utterly destitute of the Gospel as any portion of Western China or Central Africa.

I have no statement of the population and area of the counties of Great Britain by me, and so I refer to the United States. The Upper Godavery District of the Central Provinces is about twice as large as the State of Massachusetts. In this district there is no missionary—no Christian labourer of any description. The Sumbulpore District of the Central Provinces is more than half as large as the State of Maine, and has a population greater than both Maine and New Hampshire; and in this district there is not one missionary, not one native catechist, not one mission-labourer for Christ of any description. The other districts of the Central Provinces and Berar, in which there is residing no missionary, nor any Christian labourer of any description, have a population of more than 3,000,000 souls. The native states of the Central India Agency contain about 8,000,000 souls; and in the territory of these native princes mission work is being carried on at only five stations, as far as known.

In many other provinces and parts of India, there is not one native catechist nor missionary to every 500,000 souls. The missionary force of this country is unevenly distributed.

To the north of India lie Beloochistan, Afghanistan, Turkestan and Tibet. India is the key to these countries. Beloochistan is larger than New York, Pennsylvania, Virginia, and Maryland. These other countries are much larger, having an area greater than half of the whole of the United States. They have a population of tens of millions. There is a mission on the border of Afghanistan, and two mission stations on the border of Tibet, and another to be established at Quetta. Aside from the workers of these missions, there are no Protestant missionaries in these central Asian countries.

Who will count the cost and come to labour for life in these fields so white for the harvest? Labourers are needed, who will come trusting God for the supply of their bread and all their needs, without any promise from man. There is no romance about this business. It is a hard fight with all the powers of hell. Satan will not give an inch of ground here to any servant of Christ, unless it is fought for. Let no one come expecting an easy time, nor thinking that temptations will be less here than at home, because on mission ground. Let all those on whose hearts God lays a burden for these millions, plead with God that the Holy Spirit may choose the right labourers for these fields, as of old He chose Paul and Barnabas to go forth to the Gentiles.

Above all, pray much for us missionaries, who are already in the field, that we may be mightily endued with the Holy Spirit, and scattered abroad among India's millions, as were the early disciples, going everywhere preaching the Word (Acts viii. 1, 4). There is too great a tendency among us to settle down comfortably at pretty civil and military stations, and spend time hob-nobbing with officers of Government, that ought to be spent on our knees and in the bazaars, crying forth to the masses the word of life.

ALBERT NORTON.

Bhaisdehi, Central Provinces, India, Oct. 26.

LECTURES ON ELOCUTION.—The series of four lectures on "Public Reading and Speaking," arranged for by the Open-air Mission, and delivered by Rev. Alex. J. D. D'Orsey, in Exeter Hall, was brought to a close on Wednesday week. The subjects included "Composition and Delivery of Sermons," "Common Faults in Reading and Speaking," and kindred topics.

For the Young.

TO ENGLISH BOYS AND GIRLS.

MY DEAR YOUNG FRIENDS,—

WE have been glad to see in THE CHRISTIAN that so many have been thinking about the Revocation of the Edict of Nantes. It was a sad day for France; for in one way it was only the beginning of sorrows, in another it was only one of a long series of terrible oppressions of which France still suffers the effects.

And now I want to tell you how the anniversary of the Revocation was celebrated here, some months before it really occurred. How I wish some of you could have been with us in the "Clossond" when the celebration took place. The Clossond is a vast deep hollow in a wooded plateau just below the cliffs of Gigors, near Beaufort. It is so large it might hold 10,000 people, so hidden that you might pass within ten yards of it, and not notice it. How lovely it was on the day of which I am writing. It was the middle of August; the harvest was gathered in, and the peasant proprietors spared one day from their threshing-floors to come and hear the story of the sufferings and heroism of their ancestors.

For the great thought with all was not the beauty of the Clossond, its steep, oak-shaded sides, and grey-looking rocks, but the remembrance of a meeting held in the same place 140 years ago. At that time every Protestant pastor lived and laboured under sentence of death; every one who attended one of his meetings was liable to forfeit all he had, and to be sent for life to the galleys; every woman taken at these "Assemblées du Désert," as they were called, might have her head shaved by the executioner, and be sent for life to a prison or a convent. And yet, knowing all this, October 18, 1745, the Clossond was filled by a solemn and deeply-interested crowd of 12,000 French Protestants. Their synod had met to consecrate to the perilous and glorious office of Pasteur du Désert, three young "proposants." The president of the synod, was the noble veteran, Jacques Roger, who was hung at Grenoble a few months later. Of the young pastors I am only going to speak of one, whose name is indeeda household word in these mountain hamlets. Louis Ranc was only sixteen when he devoted himself to the Lord's service. He studied as he was to preach, "au désert." Jacques Roger was his professor, and together the two faced many a peril; hunted, with a price on their heads, hiding in hollow trees, caves, ruined granges, studying! (can you boys imagine such a college?) with the all but certain gibbet in prospect.

At the time of his consecration Louis Ranc was twenty-five. Of good family, with bright prospects, he, like Moses, "esteemed the reproach of Christ greater riches" than the treasures of this world. Two months after his consecration he was seized near Livron, hurried to Valence, sentenced to death, and conducted to Die, where he was hanged. His head was carried back to Livron, and set up on a lance at the door of the house where he was taken. The old "complainte," still sung in the country, tells the story so simply that, I have roughly translated it for you, if the Editor can find space for it.*

Well, I think nearly every one who came to the Clossond came for the sake of Louis Ranc, and under the glorious sky of August, we thought of the dark October day, when, in spite of heavy rain, ten thousand had met to wish God speed to the brave young soldiers of Christ. There were nearly twenty pastors present; a table with a huge and very old Bible on it, was placed under a young oak tree, and around were grouped the speakers; three of whom were to speak on the verses which had been the texts of the three "proposants," 140 years ago. But before the sermons Pasteur Arnaud told, and told well, the story of the old persecutions, thrilling us as we heard the name of each village near, given as the birthplace of some martyr. The story of Beaufort is almost too sad for you. But I have stood at the door where a young mother, Catherine Monhir, was led out to die. Standing under the gallows, erected at her own door, she saw her baby in the arms of a relative, and asked leave to let it suck once more. The favour was granted; she held her darling to her breast, and then gave it calmly back to its grandmother, and gave herself up to the executioner. I am sure you would have listened eagerly to Pasteur Arnaud, every one listened and heard, for the Clossond is a wonderful place for speaking in. One of the pasteurs said he could hear every word where he was, a hundred yards behind the speaker. The boys, perched overhead in the oak trees, seemed to listen as eagerly as their fathers and mothers.

You would have liked, too, to see the groups gathered round the "cabas," or provision basket, after the first meeting—such greetings, such visitations, and such astonishments to find so many there; for, as some one said, if we were not 10,000, we were nearly 2000, and that was a large number for the year 1885. The afternoon gathering looked less numerous, but was not really so, the sun shining right into the hollow drove the audience back among the trees, and some, finding they could hear as well under the great oaks above the Clossond, preferred staying there to descending the steep slippery pathway to the bottom of the hollow. Only too early Pasteur Arnaud gave the signal to conclude the meeting. Great black cloud masses were gathering over the heights of Gigors, and threatening a tempest. Hurried parting words, and in a few minutes the Clossond was again a lonely hollow among the hills, and the throng was scattered in all directions over the plateau, returning to their homes. The threatening clouds soon disappeared, and we who had hurriedly climbed the steep ascent to the little village of Gigors, were glad, indeed, for the sake of others, that not even a shower had interfered with the success of the meeting.

Another year it is intended to have a similar gathering in the Clossond, and if any of you are within reach, you certainly would find it a great privilege to be present at it, especially if you read the true and marvellous history of the Church in the desert. English and Scotch persecutions seem nothing beside the long-continued persecutions under which the French Reformed Church groaned for centuries. There were Protestants in the galleys at the close of the last century. An old, very old lady, who was present at the Clossond meeting, had been baptized "au désert," that is when all Protestant worship was unlawful. I fear this letter is too long, but I want you to love your fellow-Protestants, and to do something for them when you can I do not say "if," but when.—Your sincere friend,

SARAH R. GELDARD.

Maison Jossand, Montclar, P ar Aouste, Drôme.

MY CHRISTMAS GIFT.

CHILD.

"Mother, I do love Christmas Day,"
Said a bright happy child one day;
"And 'tis my Saviour's birthday, too:
Oh, what can I for Jesus do?

"'Tis Jesus' birthday, let us bring
Some humble offering to our King;
You give us presents, mother dear,
Oh, is there none for Jesus here?"

MOTHER.

"My little boy* a gift shall bring,
To keep the birthday of her King:
'Give Me thy heart,' you hear Him say;
Make Him this present, child, to-day!

"In all you do, and think, and say,
Oh, live for Jesus every day:
No better offering can you give:
Then try each day like Christ to live!"

A. C. B.

[To be had in leaflet form at 6d. per doz., or 3s. per 100; also on cards—tinted and gold—at 2d. each. Published by Jarrold & Sons, Norwich.]

SCRIPTURAL DIAMOND PUZZLE.

1. The first and simplest sound
In speech, the world around.

2. The first words of an angry cry
Of one who made a good man die.

3. See how the villain expiates his crime!
Uplifted lesson to the end of time!

4. Chosen and called to duty high,
Its laws they followed cheerfully.

5. A covenant here 'twixt twain was sealed;
Thus growing strife and feud were healed.

6. His son the captain of a valiant band,
Marching with joy to win the promised land.

7. He strove to work a good man's ill,
But God was with his servant still.

8. While famine wasted all the land,
Many were fed by this man's hand.

9. Their laws august no change might know,
Thus poisoned streams of justice flow.

10. Galling sign of servitude,
To Jews whom Romans had subdued.

11. First standing on the sacred page,
In record of the world's first age.

D. M.

Additional solutions of "Scriptural Diamond Puzzle," SENNACHERIB, received from E K. A.M.W. A.D.M. N.K.T. S.T.T. T.W.S. L.B. L E.H.

◆

THE SEA AND ITS SAILORS.

UNDER the above title Miss Agnes E. Weston has forwarded to us an account of her work for the past year, reporting increase on every hand. At the five Sailors' Rests no less than £12,599 has been taken over the counter from seamen and the public, while the number of sleepers has been nearly 65,000. This does not include the thousands "who have found shelter for the night under our roof, lying down anywhere—on couches, on the floor, on tables, or on bagatelle boards." One great event of the year was the opening of the new hall at Portsmouth, seating 1000 persons, and which has been crowded ever since it was opened. The Thursday evening Gospel Temperance Meetings have been packed, and the Saturday Temperance Entertainments largely attended, while over a thousand pledges have been taken as a fruit of these meetings.

The following extract is of deep interest: "Our Gospel meetings are so crowded that an hour before the time the hall begins to fill, and it is difficult, often impossible, to get a seat, long before the meeting commences. Meanwhile an earnest band of Christian seamen are praying for God's presence and blessing. And when one gives out a hymn, and another prays, and another reads, and another gives a glowing and forcible Gospel address, I feel that in such a naval brigade we may well rejoice." The Purity Society does well, the numbers having greatly increased; powerful addresses have been given by Mr. Varley, and many men are giving up evil lives. The Flower Mission has done great service; in many cases the text-cards have been blest by God's Spirit to the salvation of a soul. The "Blue Backs" are more widely circulated than ever. Of these, says Miss Weston, "I can only thank God reverently, as I hear the testimony from all sides of souls led to Christ." The donations and subscriptions for the year have amounted to £5,560. Any who are interested in reading of the work are requested to forward a donation, or write for a collecting card, to Miss Weston, Sailors' Rest, Portsmouth.

"FREE FROM THE LAW."—This record of the Prison-gate Mission, Cambridge-street, Manchester, is made up of extracts taken from daily notes of work at the Mission House. Says the writer:—"Never so much have we felt the need of an open door as during the past year, so many and various have been the applications for help. One case is recorded where a mother says, 'Drink has a greater hold on me than love for my child.' Two of the women have been married, and several have been sent home to their friends. The work has greatly increased among the female discharged prisoners. Further accommodation has been secured through which, when furnished, the work can be more than doubled." Miss Watson and Miss Macgregor are the hon superintendents.

---

* This ballad will be given in a future issue.

* Can also be had, "My little girl."

AN AMERICAN EVANGELIST.

THE well-known evangelist, Ferdinand Schiverea, was born in New York. His father was a Roman Catholic, and his mother a Protestant. Ferdinand, though christened by Bishop McCloskey, saw the fallacy of the Romish faith at a very early age. He was sent to a Protestant Sunday-school until he was about nine years old; and at that age he was taken from the public school and obliged to work on account of his father falling into drinking habits, and reducing the family to poverty.

Withdrawn from the religious influences which might have been brought to bear upon him by his mother, he grew up reckless and with little desire for spiritual things. Taking a liking for the stage, he made up his mind to prepare for it in the Negro minstrel line. Naturally gifted as a dancer and mimic, he bade fair to attain popularity as a performer; but soon he drifted into a tramp life. After a brief experience in that direction, he resumed his steps toward the stage, working at whatever he could get to do, and embracing every opportunity for better preparation. Spiritually he continued to decline until at the time of his conversion, when twenty-two years of age, he had no hope in God, and no care for salvation. It was just one week before his conversion that he appeared before the footlights, with every evidence of coming success.

One evening, he, with others, was handed a ticket to Mr. Moody's meetings, then being held in the Brooklyn Rink. Out of curiosity, he entered the Rink; it was then and there that God met him and told him He had something better in store for him than the career of a buffoon. He attended the meetings a few nights, and after a great struggle he was converted. From the very moment of his conversion he commenced to tell others what God had done for him. His brother George was converted about the same time. The two engaged a small house, and fitted it up for prayer meetings, and they would stand at the alley entrance, hailing all persons who passed by, and inviting them to the meetings in the upper room in the rear.

This was the commencement in earnest of Ferdinand Schiverea's preaching. He worked at anything to make a living, and at night held meetings in his little upper room or elsewhere. In this way he went on until four years ago, when, after five years of struggle to leave all and go and preach the Gospel to the non-church-going masses, he gave up all secular employment. Without a dollar promised, with hardly a friend to stand by him, and in the middle of one of the severest winters, he commenced telling the masses of neglected people about the great love of God.

While he was holding these meetings, Dr. Geo. F. Pentecost heard of him. He took him at once into one of the worst parts of the city of Brooklyn, and set him preaching upon the streets. Dr. Pentecost then engaged premises which had been built for a bar-room dance-house. Into this place Mr. Schiverea's street congregations were invited, but very soon it was found to be too small to hold the multitudes of people hungering for the good news they had heard in the streets. Dr. Pentecost stood with Mr. Schiverea night after night, and with him proclaimed the glad tidings of redemption in Christ. Their message was accepted by so large a number that Dr. Pentecost felt the need of a building, and at once made arrangements to meet this want. In a few months a chapel was erected for the masses, large enough to hold a great number of them; and the place that was marked on the missionary map as one of the dark spots of Brooklyn, was changed almost beyond recognition.

After holding meetings with Dr. Pentecost fourteen months—labouring for at least a year every night upon the streets and indoors—Mr. Schiverea went into new fields. He has been in Philadelphia, Cincinnati, Chicago, New York, and Canada. In all those places God has signally blessed his efforts, especially among the neglected classes. Lately the authorities in some cities have prevented him from preaching upon the streets; and, not willing to abandon his street work, he is now arranging to be licensed as a Bible peddler. He intends to have a Bible carriage, properly equipped and stocked, going from place to place, working in the North in summer, and in the South in winter—offering his Bibles for sale, and preaching the Gospel to the masses as an inducement to buy.—Sabbath Reading.

MR. HAMMOND IN LONDON.

MAIDA VALE.

IN the letter by Rev. J. Gosset Tanner, of Emanuel Church, received too late for insertion last week, he says:—

"We have been much encouraged and refreshed by the visit of our American friend. He is so bright and genial that he wins his way into the hearts of old and young. By alternate singing and anecdote, by rapid questioning or earnest appeal, he keeps up the attention of those who would be restless or unruly. Groups of children remained behind every night to talk to their teachers or other Christian friends about salvation. The names of quite 400, professing conversion, have been sent in. We trust that many of these have been led to accept Christ as their Saviour. Two devoted teachers think that every member of their class has been converted.

"Mr. Spiers, who gave valuable aid all through the mission, conducted the meeting entirely one evening. He is a great favourite with many of the children. Mr. Murch, on very short notice, addressed the closing gathering of children. His method of making the children spell sustained the attention of the young.

"We praise God for the spirit of believing prayer granted to His servants, and for the persevering energy with which they carried out the work to which God called them."

EDINBURGH CASTLE, LIMEHOUSE.

The fears of the doubting few have been disappointed, and the faith of the believing many greatly confirmed by the results which have followed from the labours of Mr. Hammond and of his co-workers among the boys and girls of the East-end. The audiences at the Edinburgh Castle have been numbered by thousands; indeed, admission has had to be limited time and again, so as to allow of personal dealing. Captain Dale, and Mr. Josiah Spiers, are, as usual, co-operating under Mr. Hammond's directions, with a large band of workers who have been organised at the Castle itself, including the ladies of the Deaconness House in connection with Dr. Barnardo's Homes. Night after night the work has grown in effectiveness and spiritual power; the rough boys and girls who nightly throng the meetings have not, after the first evening, prompted the slightest attempt at disturbance. There is a hush of awakened interest and subdued feeling which, even to an outsider, tells its tale of hearts touched and new possibilities grasped.

As usual, the service is designedly informal. There is plenty of singing, in which Mrs. Captain Dale and Mrs. Hammond render much assistance, and the instrumental part is supplied by a cornet and a harmonium. A brief and simply worded prayer is usually repeated, sentence for sentence, after Mr. Hammond, by the children, whose reverent demeanour is beyond all praise. Then follows a brief address, based upon a single short Gospel text, illustrated by numerous anecdotes and object lessons, and repeating and re-repeating a leading thought till the children have completely mastered it. Then comes in the task of Mr. Hammond's co-workers. Each boy and girl is quietly singled out, and affectionately questioned with a view to deepen or create a spiritual impression that may result in lasting blessing.

The results that come under the cognisance of the workers in this personal dealing with the children are often remarkable, and show to demonstration the spiritual power which is really at work. One deaconess tells of having spoken with sixteen boys and one girl who have intelligently and sincerely, she believes, testified to having given their hearts to Christ. Some of these have knelt down during the meeting, and in earnest and artless words have thanked the Lord Jesus for all his love to them, and have prayed to be kept from falling under the power of temptation. Case after case has come to light in which parents and guardians have testified to the wonderfully altered demeanour of their children after attendance at the mission. It is no mere transitory emotion that has stirred the hearts of many of these little ones, but a deep and powerful spiritual impulse.

In the course of one of his addresses, Mr. Hammond read a letter, received that day from a girl in London, who had attended his meetings. "After the first meeting," she wrote, "I longed for the second. A lady came and spoke to me, and helped me to trust in Jesus. I had never been able to grasp hold of salvation before, though I have had many a wish to be a true follower of our Lord. I had tried again and again, but it was very hard at first, because I tried in my own strength. I have four reasons for thinking I am a Christian. (1) Because I feel much happier. (2) Things have gone easier. (3) I have been kinder to my companions. (4) I have been trying to bring others to Christ. If I did not love my Saviour, I should not have spoken to anyone about Him. I feel as if my heart was changed, and I have wholly given my heart to Jesus."

During the week the boys from Dr. Barnardo's Homes have more than once been in attendance at the Castle. Mr. Hammond will visit, during his stay in the East-end, the principal institutions in connection with Dr. Barnardo's Homes.

Dear Sir,—The mission is to last three weeks. Eight days of blessing have now passed away, and, indeed, they have been days of rich blessing to young and old. Those who had the privilege of attending the Saturday evening prayer-meeting, where some thirty prayers were offered in quick succession, will not easily forget the many testimonies given by parents and workers as to the souls that had been brought to Christ during the previous six days. Last Sunday there were grand meetings afternoon and evening, with between 2000 and 3000 present at each. The evening meeting was one of special power, and the Holy Spirit's presence was very manifest.

We shall be most thankful for more workers during the remainder of the mission, and especially need ladies to assist in the choir at seven o'clock each evening. A train leaves Fenchurch-street every few minutes for Burdett-road, which is close to the Edinburgh Castle.—Faithfully yours, Josiah Spiers.

UNITED CHRISTIAN SOCIETY (343, Edgware-road, W).—The mission work of this Society was removed from Providence Hall, Church-street, to the present address, in 1882. Gospel services have been carried on under the direction of the Committee on Sunday mornings and evenings, and on four evenings of the week. To these services numbers of men and women of the working classes have been brought in by workers in their own position in life, and from these a great many have been brought to repentance and to faith in the Lord Jesus Christ. Children have been gathered into a school; class-meetings have been held; Temperance meetings also; and upon each of these agencies the Divine blessing has rested, so that the workers have been greatly encouraged; men have been saved and God glorified. It has become necessary to seek larger premises for carrying on the work. The garden in the rear of a house in the Edgware-road (No. 349) can be obtained on a long lease for a rental of £35 per annum. It is ascertained that a hall, capable of holding 200 persons can be erected with an outlay of £300. The workers are, without exception, men and women who work hard for their daily bread, and out of their scanty earnings contribute sufficient to meet the working expenses. They appeal to other Christians to help them in this special effort. Dr. Gladstone, of 17, Pembridge-square, W., knows the work and cordially recommends it. Mr. W. H. Mills, Secretary Y.M.C.A., Stafford-rooms, Tichbourne-street, Edgware-road, W., has consented to receive donations towards the building.

☞ Pages 9, 10, 15, 16, form one sheet, mainly occupied with "Social Purity;" it can be removed, if desired, for distribution or otherwise.

PHILANTHROPIC ABDUCTION:

IS IT EVER JUSTIFIABLE?

By Dr. T. J. BARNARDO.

> Mr. Waddy: Did he tell you that his only object was to rescue the child from a life of infamy?
>
> Witness: Yes.
>
> Judge Lopes: I shall tell the jury very firmly that nothing of that kind (i.e., philantnropic motive) would be a justification for taking the child away from its parents.

SO said Judge Lopes during the progress of a case which on several grounds has recently attracted much attention. Is the learned Judge strictly in the right? We may say at once that Judge Lopes does not stand alone in laying down this principle. Many eminent lawyers have from time to time supported the same reading of the law (?) and there is, perhaps, therefore, little doubt but that the dictum expresses the authoritative outcome of our statute-book, despite the apparent exceptions which might be gathered from its codeless wilderness of precedent. It may be true, then, that "nothing of that kind" could be a legal justification for taking a child away from its parents.

But there is law and law. Are we, as Christian men, always, under all circumstances, to be governed by English law? Is judicial law always co-extensive with moral law? Does a period never arise when a higher law may compel a man to take a step which the law of the land would possibly condemn? History is full of incidents, in other spheres of action, in which the universal conscience has emphatically declared that there are periods when "we ought to obey God rather than men."

Again we ask, therefore, does the dictum of Judge Lopes invariably and universally apply? or are there not conceivably cases in which a lower law is abrogated in the presence of a higher one? For us, and indeed for all "who love their fellow-men," these questions are of supreme importance. They touch the domain of large and deep-rooted principles; but principles are always best illustrated by particular instances; so I prefer to put the suggestive problem in the form of the question which heads this column. Is PHILANTHROPIC ABDUCTION EVER JUSTIFIABLE?

For my own part, I have no manner of doubt as to what that answer must be. I emphatically answer YES; and I am not afraid to make the avowal here, even though thereby I should be placed in a position similar to that of the defendants in the recent trial in question. During the whole history of the Homes for Destitute and Homeless Children under my care this problem has been ever and anon occurring, not as a matter of moral theory only, but with an insistent demand for practical action. I have examined my registers of children admitted to the Homes, and I find that in no fewer than forty-seven well-marked cases I have myself done that which the law of the land would neither do for me, nor knowingly permit me to do—i.e, ABDUCTED CHILDREN IN ORDER TO SAVE THEM. I have in all these cases invaded the legal domain of parental control, and, in direct opposition to the principle of Judge Lopes' dictum, rescued (or abducted, if you will) little girls and boys from the custody of parents and guardians who were to my knowledge leading infamous or immoral lives, or were, by their conduct, about to inflict upon unfortunate children in their care grievous wrong. In some of these instances my agency was hardly suspected; in others, active resistance at the time, and strenuous efforts subsequently, were made for the retention or recovery of the children. I have myself frequently bought little children, and that, too, for a mere trifle. I have also smuggled children quietly away, or I have abducted them almost by force in the face of angry opposition.

Such statements as these will naturally awaken questioning in many hearts, and not a few à priori objections may well be taken. It will be asked, Is not the English law ready at all times to aid in the protection of children by the operation of certain clauses in the Industrial Act, the Vagrant Act, the Amendment Act to the Industrial Schools Act, and more recently the Criminal Law Amendment Act? So it would naturally seem to the average Englishman, who is presumed to know so much of the law, but who in reality knows so little. But how is the law interpreted by its officials? This at once introduces the personal element into the matter, and may prepare us for varying or antagonistic deliverance as to what the law really is. And so it is found to be. Some judges and stipendiary magistrates entertain such strong convictions on the province of law, that their decisions involve a curious anomaly—viz., that children may not even be removed from the custody of parents who are admittedly evil, to institutions which are provided just for such cases by the law itself! So that there is a lamentable lacuna between the letter of the law and the outcome of its administration. Indeed, the laissez faire which pervades all the legal machinery concerning the persons of helpless and innocent little children is so marked, that I never dare, unless in the clearest possible cases, to seek the assistance of a court of law.

Let me give but two instances:—

Some few years ago, there came under my guardianship, in the usual course, and after the customary formalities, a sweet little girl, nine years of age, named Ellen. She obtained admission through the efforts of a woman who represented herself as the child's only living guardian, and as too poor to continue to maintain her. Her story stood the test of our investigation, and the little girl passed into our Village Home. To my astonishment, however, in a few months a writ of habeas corpus was issued to produce the child before the Court of Queen's Bench—and only then did the whole of her past history come out. It appears she was the daughter of a woman living in splendour on the proceeds of immorality in one of those notorious private houses which are screened from public criticism and are the scandal of our metropolis, and actually not far from the house where the notorious Mrs. Jeffries lived. The woman from whose custody the girl had passed into mine was a relative of the mother, and she had obtained possession of her little charge under some pretence or other, and then refused to restore her. The father, a man of good position, not married to the mother, missed the little girl, and set inquiries on foot, traced out the child, and forthwith assisted the mother, while concealing his own personality, to institute legal proceedings. I had had no direct relations with the mother at all, but I soon found what her character was, and was prepared to offer evidence in regard to her infamous manner of life. But the presiding judge ruled all such evidence as absolutely inadmissible, and laid down the legal dictum that no such fact connected with the mother was competent to alienate her interest in her own child, and he more than hinted his suspicion of the philanthropic busybodies who had interfered with the maternal bond. I did not formally appear in the case at all; the child having been produced in court by the woman who brought her to me, she was given over to the mother, and seen by my agents to frequent a house of ill-fame for twenty months after; when, the Jeffries case occurring, the house was closed in a panic, and mother and child disappeared!

Another striking illustration of the state of the law has been afforded by a recent case, which came before the courts since the passing of the Criminal Law Amendment Act. Under that Act, the agents of a certain society went before the stipendiary magistrate of one of our large London suburbs, with evidence that four or five little girls were living in houses of ill-fame in the vicinity. They were fortified in proper form with the evidence of householders. What happened? One or two of the mothers of the girls mentioned in the depositions attended at the court, and indignantly declared that they were not living immoral lives, but were perfectly respectable in their conduct. On the other hand, overwhelming evidence was ready to prove that they were notorious evil-doers, and that these houses were a scandal to the neighbourhood. But the magistrate absolutely refused to accept, or even to hear, such evidence, or to appear to sanction such "inquisitorial proceedings" as that the agents of a society should enter the "houses of poor women and deprive them of their children!" The assumption in this judicial dictum was entirely negatived by the absolutely known fact that these very women were not poor respectable folk, but were living on the proceeds of their profligacy, in houses actually known as places of evil resort!

Thus the cuckoo cry of "Liberty of the subject!" has been raised over and over again in defence of immorality, cruelty, and turpitude of every kind, and the child ogre, half sheltered by the ægis of the law, snaps his fingers in the face of the would-be rescuer. Hence, in nearly all my saddest cases—which, in bare recital, are enough to make Pity weep tears of blood—I have had to proceed, not under the shelter of the law, but, hiding myself from the daylight, to steal to the rescue of the little ones by means of what may be called philanthropic abduction pursued as a fine art—an art painfully acquired by years of laborious effort.

Let my readers remember that I do not speak of isolated instances, nor of circumstances peculiar, or almost unique, in their character. I say, as the Founder and Director of Homes in East London and elsewhere for Destitute Children, and with the experience of nearly twenty years to look back upon, that the rescue of hundreds of children, at the present day, and in the streets of London, can only be accomplished in defiance of the law of the land, and by modes which, legally, are indefensible. At the present moment, for instance, I have children under my charge whom I have rescued from circumstances the most dangerous, morally, that it is possible to conceive; and yet my method of securing these little waifs has been as distinctly illegal as if I had kidnapped them to sell as slaves. As I write, I have four children in hiding from their unnatural guardians, and efforts are constantly being made by these people to trace their whereabouts. I am watched, and followed sometimes, on leaving the offices of these institutions, in order that some clue may be gained to their hiding-place. I am doubtful if in one of these cases the law of the land would sustain my action. And yet I am as convinced that the moral law is on my side in thus interfering on behalf of these poor children, as I am that the law of the land is below the level of what should be its ideal. It is a large responsibility that I have taken upon my shoulders thus to step in between parent and child; but I assert that there is no other way of saving these, our future fathers and mothers, from becoming moral wrecks; and both on purely moral and on national grounds I say that it is a necessary interference. If a parent looks solely to what the law regards as his rights or vested interests in his children, and forgets the responsibilities and duties which attach to him—if he not only abdicates, but perverts his functions, and makes his child the minister of his passions—he, by the very fact, nullifies his right to the disposal of his offspring; and, in the interests of society and of morality, the loving heart is constrained to interpose and arrest the cruelly wronged family from sliding down the slope to ruin and perdition. The whole question is too much encumbered by the discussion about rights to the exclusion of that other and vastly more important question about duties. The law recognises that rights have their limits in all spheres of action; what about the forfeiture of rights when duties are neglected?

It is difficult to reason calmly in the face of the obvious wrongs of childhood, for the circumstances usually demand prompt practical action rather than laboured arguments. It is easy to condemn the man who, in his short cut to moral ends, breaks through the conventional hedges of the statute-book. But to the man who has the love of God warm in his heart the higher dictates of duty will always overleap the human, and therefore arbitrary, line drawn by legislators, when the cry of perishing children enters his ears.

I may be asked, How have you thus far avoided being brought within the grasp of the law which you have thus admittedly violated? The answer mainly must be, Because of the cumbrousness of the legal machinery itself. Hitherto, the only mode by which a parent could proceed against an abductor of his or her children was by an appearance before a judge in chambers—a costly process which such people as I dealt with were not likely to initiate. Moreover, as most of these people were themselves concerned in some actions that were illegal or unjustifiable, they were naturally unwilling to place themselves in the full glare of that publicity which legal proceedings would involve, and thus to expose themselves to obloquy and probably to criminal charges. Further, none of them had at their back the motive influence which obviously actuated the prosecution in the case which forms the text of this article.

For these reasons only am I now at large, instead of expiating my offences in a felon's cell, or standing to answer for them at the bar of justice. Of course I am perfectly willing to accept to the full the consequences of any such acts of mine as I have embodied in this "confession." They were deliberately performed, and from the responsibilities attaching to them I would not recede. But it remains a lamentable fact that only by a distinctly illegal process have I, during the whole history of the Homes under my care, been able to bring my influence to bear upon certain unhappy children whom I found under the care of persons utterly disqualified to hold such a position. I hope, however, that at no distant date the law of the land will be brought up to the level which the conscience of every moral and Christian man in this nation must recognise as its ideal, and when the happy day will arrive when parents who are habitual drunkards, who are known to pursue immorality for a livelihood, who are vicious or criminal, or who subject their children to influences which must certainly result in these children becoming criminal or immoral —when such shall be no longer regarded by the law as legal guardians, but shall be deprived forthwith, upon proper representations made before a stipendiary magistrate, of their hitherto inalienable right in their children, body and soul.

A broad and well considered act of legislation which would deal with the flagrant abuses of the present system would go further even than the Education Act in cutting off the entail of crime; it would disendow much immorality, by disestablishing those parents' rights which are their children's cruellest wrongs. These children are the children of the State, and surely not even Lord Brabourne would deny that it is the duty of the State to protect as well as to punish; or, at least, if it will only punish, and if the policeman is still to be the sole symbol of law with which the juvenile population of the streets is acquainted, then let the bolt fall on the real offenders—those guardians who are no guardians, and who, even where they do not deliberately corrupt their children, give them every opportunity, unchecked, of becoming criminal, vicious, or immoral. Were such a principle to find its rightful place in the statute-book, it is not too much to say that a sigh of relief would go up throughout the length and breadth of the land. It would bring such unwilling offenders as myself at once upon the side of the law, and convert not a few who are law-breakers for the sake of the children into orderly and staid workers in the great social field. At present it is my profession to break the law almost systematically, and to do so in the interest of morality and of duty.

The only remedy is to be found in a wholesale change of front on the part of the constituted order. The fact that I speak in the name of my own sense of morality introduces the old question of private judgment and of individual motive into the discussion. Such an alteration in the law of the land as I contend is necessary means the reopening of several thorny questions as to the limitations of State interference, and it will certainly require stringent safe-guarding. But shall we see the children perish before our eyes while we argue as to our right to save them? It is, after all, not around the principle but around the limits of interference that the dust of controversy will thicken, and if law is to be what a late eminent lawyer defined it, "the perfection of common sense," broad definitions can at least be settled, and particular cases can be left to look after themselves.—Night and Day.

THE RATCLIFF "BRIDGE OF HOPE."

IT has become an urgent necessity to make more widely known the pressing need which the largely increased interest in rescue work has brought upon us. We think few can have any clear idea of what our daily endeavour to help and raise the women and children in Ratcliff-highway involves, or the burden of gathering in means to carry on the work, which takes up so much time and strength, would be shared by many others. We go out to seek to alleviate the sorrow, and we come home, with hearts aching, only to begin again the greater fight with evil within our own doors. To live day by day in the midst of miserable poverty, to see hungry men, starving women, and the pitiful faces of shivering little children, whenever we cross the threshold, is only what we have in common with all East-end workers.

But, beyond this sad and all too common experience, there lies for us a sadder experience still. From out of this vortex of misery there come to us despairing cries for help from the very wrecks of womanhood in whose souls and bodies sin has made its worst havoc; piteous appeals to our love and motherhood, from young girls, and even children, of whom, sometimes, we can only say they seem possessed of the devil. It appears as if we were set to gather the very ripest fruit of sin; but it helps us wonderfully to love and be patient with the individual, when we remember the pressure of society, which has crushed down the poor fallen woman, and made her the "miserable sinner" who, to-day, craves our pity.

A great deal has been said lately about rescue work, and how very much better it ought to be done. I think that I, too, shall soon have something to say; but just now the pressure of work is so great, there is scarcely time to propound or to criticise any new theories. I know, meanwhile, we are doing our utmost, if by any means we can save some; making mistakes, no doubt, but trying to learn as we go along that we may do better by and by.

We are inclined at the present time to look at the dark side; but the clouds will pass, a brighter time will come—brighter for the past darkness. We pray only that we may be found faithful. But even now our Father gives us at times such wondrous encouragement that we feel to rescue even one of the many who are saved out of these depths of evil is worth a whole lifetime of work among them.

I am asked for "histories" with painful frequency. It is more than distressing to me to drag out cases of poor, shrinking, outraged girls who have come to me for refuge and for healing. Have we not lately had enough of this sort of thing brought to light? I can most truly say with Mr. Merrick, the Chaplain of Westminster, and Mr. Waugh, the hon. sec. of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, "A tithe has not been told."

I hope the true and strong letter which Mr. Horsley sent to The Church Times will be widely circulated; I can endorse every word of it. Surely Christians will not go on believing that the concurrent testimony of earnest and experienced workers is exaggerated. We cannot need the reiteration of the most painful revelations to keep us up to our duty towards young girls. It will, indeed, be a triumph of the evil one should he succeed in throwing dust in the eyes of good people by side issues, and thus divert their energies from fighting the very real enemy in our midst.

We are a band of twelve women, working in Ratcliff-highway, striving with all the strength God gives us to stem the tide of evil, with the standard of God and of Purity. All the recent agitation has added greatly to the numbers who are brought to us by other workers, and who come of their own accord for shelter and a fresh start. We bless God for this fact, but meanwhile supplies have been for a time directed into fresh channels, and the struggle to keep up in any way, with the demands made upon us, is very great. I am, therefore, impelled to ask those who have been for so long faithful friends to make known among large circles that we are in sore need, at the present time, of sympathy and help. MARY H. STEER.

Ratcliff-highway Refuge,
26, Prince's-square, St. George's, E.

REV. J. W. HORSLEY'S LETTER.

Sir,—I have been asked by some, whose request I cannot ignore—I will mention Rev. F. H. Murray, of Chislehurst, and Canon Scott Holland—to say a word or two about the danger there is if men adopt the miserable leading of nearly the whole of the London Press that one effect of the condemnation of Mr. Stead may be to discredit the whole of the revelations, and thus to lead people to imagine that there is no special need of watchfulness and determination in the application of Mr. Stead's Act, and the general discouragement of immorality.

Nine years of such work as I have had among the abandoned of all classes makes me able to speak with a knowledge of the subject that few can claim, and I would point out that—

1. I am certain, of personal knowledge, that whatever may be said as to Mr. Stead's methods of action or manner of writing (which I have never approved), his motives were entirely righteous, and the legislative effect of his action absolutely needed and beneficial.

2. That the trial has elicited from judge and jury alike a testimony as to his rightness of purpose, which should shame, had they any moral sense, the utterers of innuendoes and sneers in the leaders of the London papers.

3. That the partial failure of proof in the Armstrong case cannot, with any fairness, or even honesty, be taken to prove the untruth of the rest of his revelations.

4. That the revelations caused no surprise or doubt in the mind of any worker experienced in prison or penitentiary work. They simply said, "This is what we have had to know; this is what we have tried in vain to get people to realise; this is largely due to the miserable state of the law which a Parliament that cares only for mere politics, in spite of our evidence and indignant protests, has repeatedly omitted and even refused to amend."

5. That the revelations by no means covered the whole phenomena of vice in London. Mr. Stead consulted me before I knew who he was, and repeatedly put aside lines of evidence as not bearing on the sole point he attacked—i.e., that vice which was also crime. If he had wanted simply to make a sensation, he could have said more, and described worse things.

6. That though it would be absurd to assert that the richer classes are responsible for most of the evil, yet few have any idea of the extent of evil among the men, young and old, of our upper classes, and that it is commonly forgotten that recruits for the sisterhood of shame are largely brought in by the knowledge of the number of prizes of the profession that the dirty rich afford.

7. That little sympathy or co-operation in putting down these shames and crimes has ever come, or will come, from the Press, or the Police, or Parliament, until forced into a semblance of rightness by the enlightened action of the People, arising from the establishment and energetic action of Purity Societies and Vigilance Committees in all districts and towns.

8. That to the absence of clear teaching on points of morals on the part of parents, schoolmasters, and clergy, in the home, in day and Sunday-schools, in Bible and Confirmation classes, and from the pulpit, is due much of the evil and of the ignorance of the way to prevent, avoid, cure, or repress it.

You know, sir, how I feel and speak strongly about the need of Temperance. Many thousands can bear witness how I have declared for years that drunkenness was as Saul, impurity as David, in the matter of the numbers that each slew. Prudery and vice have always combined to create and foster the ignorance of the real state of affairs by which alone the evil as undetected can escape the condemnation and punishment it deserves.

Let me add a word of warning to some. The recent exposé has been in rem. If the London Press continues its policy and its tone, there must be another—and it will be in personam; and then a storm will be aroused compared with which the recent wrath will seem but a passing frown. J. W. HORSLEY.

Her Majesty's Prison, Clerkenwell, London, W.C.

CLIFTON.—The recent anniversary here of the Local Branch of the National Ladies' Association for Abolishing State-regulated Vice, was largely attended, and earnest addresses were delivered in support of the Society.

CANADA.—Mary Ann Atkins wishes to acknowledge her gratitude to the friends who have so kindly responded, through the post, to Miss Annie Macpherson's appeal for little books, tracts, illustrated papers, &c. for her work. She is afresh encouraged to persevere, the need being great, and the time short for service.

Fonthill, Ontario.

ANSWERED PRAYER.

OFTEN has our little praying band sent up the petition, "Lord, send into our meetings those who are sorely tempted by Satan, that they may obtain help and deliverance." Many have been the answers to that prayer; the following account is one of them.

Just about dusk, a young girl of fifteen years knocked at our door asking if I could give her advice or help.

"Tell me about yourself, and I will try to do so."

"I ran away from my situation yesterday."

"And what have you been doing since then?"

"Walking about the streets; during the night I sat on the doorstep of an empty house."

Her agitation was intense, and she refused to give me any address until I promised not to return her to her situation. The first thing to do was to get her fed and warmed; and then by degrees her story was told. She stated she had become very angry, and left her situation intending to go to her mother, but—why she could not tell—instead of doing so, she went to the railway station, a London train was waiting, she took a ticket and came away. In her letter to her mother she says: "It seems so foolish of me to come away as I did, I think I was not in my right mind. I scarcely knew what I was doing until I was in the train, and then I could not tell you how and what I felt when I found myself alone in London. But I asked the dear Father, who was watching over me, even though I was sinning against Him, to let some one take care of me, and He sent me to dear Mrs. ———, who has taken such care of me. I often spoke angrily, but I have found now, no one can do anything well without the help of the Lord Jesus."

During the afternoon of the day she came here, she had sat in Finsbury-park and taken out a little Testament, and written on the blank leaf, "If ye shall ask anything in my name, I will do it." "Ask and ye shall receive, that your joy may be full." When she reached Charing-cross Station (she had come from the South coast) twopence was all she possessed, and this she gave to two poor little fellows sitting crying on a doorstep. Now, indeed, was the time to plead the promises, which she did; and then continued her weary walk till her eye lighted on the board placed outside our house. Half an hour later it would have been too dark for her to have seen it.

The next evening the praying ones met together again. I asked prayer for one who had been sorely tempted by Satan, and had yielded to his temptation. Prayers rose to the mercy-seat that the tempted one might be brought into the fold. Little did those kneeling think the very one was amongst them. In tones of deep emotion, the strange voice of the girl was heard thanking God that the wanderer was brought into the fold, and pleading that her poor mother might be comforted and saved. When the mercy of the Lord to her was told, tears of gratitude spoke the feelings of those present, more than words could have done. Great has been our joy to be able (after nearly a fortnight's stay with us) to return her to her sorrowing mother. A lady, writing since her return, on behalf of her mother says, "If you have no other reward, you have the satisfaction of knowing God has used you to rescue one almost perishing."

Y.W.C. Institute, S. A. F.
1A, Coleridge-road, Seven Sisters'-road, N.

NEWRY SAILORS' HOME.—A missionary visiting a hospital, noticing one of the inmates, said: "How is it that you, who seem so ill, can look so happy?" "Because I know God loves me," said the man. "How do you know that?" asked the missionary. "I learned to know it in the Sailors' Home in Newry." A crew lately come from San Francisco said: "We heard of this little Home very far from here, and it is even better than we heard." Will some kind Christians help to keep this shelter open for our poor tempted lads?

Newry, Ireland. N. Thomson, Secretary.

A TESTIMONY.

By the late MADAME VALÉS.

A correspondent, in sending the following, writes: The late Madame Valés, of Cannes has left behind her a work in which the power of the Holy Ghost in her and her husband were manifested in the conversion and sanctification of a large number of poor rough, working people, many of whom are now engaged in bearing witness for Christ under circumstances of great trial and difficulty. I have just met with a testimony written by Madame Valés several years before her death, and think it may be helpful to many sorrowing ones:—

WHAT a long life spent to please self and the world! What a loss! I had a little child for four short, bright, happy years. Everything down here smiled upon me, but my soul was getting farther from God. Suddenly my child was taken to heaven. For three years my grief knew no assuaging. Every prayer was chiefly full of entreaties to God to give me another child. And now, the sorrow it is to me that such precious time was lost!

God gave me no child, made no change in outward things, but one day, two years ago, He sent me a message and said, "Let Me lead my life in you." No one had ever spoken to me clearly in a comprehensible way of the "Higher Life;" and I did not know what this message meant. But the Holy Spirit fixed it fast in my heart and thoughts. For four days it rung in my ears, when at last I knelt down and asked the Lord whatever it was that this message meant, I was willing, I would let Him live his life in me, if only He would. From that minute all was changed. He did begin to live his life in me. Old things had passed away, all things were made new. A peace passing all understanding came over me; such a joy filled me. The Lord Jesus became intensely dear and precious to me, I seemed to be bound up with Him and to hear only his voice. I could hardly believe it. It was no longer myself that lived, but Jesus. A wonderful calm filled my spirit. It was no more difficult to be good, because Jesus lived in me. Things that formerly would have troubled me now had no effect on me.

I remember that first morning after the blessing came to me; my servant broke a valuable lamp, and when he showed it me I said, "Well, never mind, it doesn't matter; put it aside in that closet." He looked at me stupefied and could not understand what had happened. But I knew, and was so touched that I went away alone and wept, and adored my Jesus for such grace, such blessed life.

I felt in a new world, hardly touching this earth, and, of course, so satisfied in my whole being with Jesus I have never thought again of a child. My only yearning is to be more like Him, to make Him happier, and to make Him more understood and loved.

◆

MISSIONARIES IN NEW GUINEA.

IN The Pall Mall Gazette of Wednesday last week there was an interesting paper on New Guinea, by "A Member of the High Commissioner's Staff," in which the following striking testimony to the meritorious labours of the missionaries of the London Society is borne:—"Mr Lawes and Mr. Chalmers, known respectively among the natives as 'Misi Lao' and 'Tamate,' are the pioneers of civilisation in New Guinea. Their influence extends over several hundred miles of coast, and has brought peace amongst a people formerly waging continuous war. Mr. Lawes generally remains at Port Moresby, and has occupied himself by translating the Gospels into the Motu language and writing a dictionary and a grammar. His house has been a centre of hospitality to all visitors, and the respect shown to him by the natives is a token of the kindly nature of his relations with them. Mr. Chalmers, on the contrary, journeys everywhere, and is always on the move, visiting teachers and entering new fields of work. From the moment of his landing he has never carried arms, but boldly faced the most savage tribes, of whom many had sworn to kill every white man they met, with nothing but a walking-stick. His knowledge of the country is unsurpassed by any man."

SAILORS' RESTS.—A list of Sailors' Rests in different parts of the world has been prepared, and copies may be had for free distribution from the Strangers' Rest, 163, St. George's-street, E.

A NEW YEAR'S WISH.

WHAT shall I wish for thee? Friend of my journey
Standing with me on this land-mark of time,
Watching the ebb of a wave that returns not,
Past beyond ken, with the voice of yon chime.

What shall I wish for thee? Life has been dreary,
Hands have waxed feeble, and hearts have grown sore
White sails are fading afar in the distance,
Freighted with vain hopes, they come back no more.

Once, from my heart, happy wishes were springing—
Riches, and gladness, and health, and long life,
Friends to be near thee, and dear ones to cheer thee,
Sleep without sadness and home without strife.

Ah! life some lessons has taught me since then,
Turning light wishes and hopes into prayer;
How can I choose for thee? How can I wish for thee
Best of my wishes may bring thee a snare.

Now, as the ocean of time heaves around us,
Think I. How perished such treasures as these?
Too rich the bark to want Christ at the helm,
Therefore it sank in the depths of the seas.

Better, the fishing-boat tossed on the billow!
Better, the storm that the Lord bids it brave!
Safe shall the harbour be gained ere the nightfall
Safe shall He pilot it over each wave.

Therefore I wish—not for calm, or for sunshine—
God choose our lot in this year and in all
Only that Christ be in sorrow or gladness—
Only to trust Him, whatever befall.

Christ for the wintry days, Christ for the summer,
Christ for the bright hours, Christ for the dark;
Brave be our hearts as we launch on the New Year
Never to perish, with Christ in the bark M. G.

[This poem, with others by the same author, can be had in leaflets from Charles Caswell, 2[illegible]0, Broad-street, Birmingham, 25 copies, post-free, 4d.]

◆

AMERICAN NOTES.

Messrs. Mateer and Parker have been evangelising at Kingston, N.Y., with much acceptance.

We regret to see an announcement of the illness of Dr. A. J. Gordon, of Boston; we trust it is not serious.

Rev. G. H. Hepworth, Congregational minister at Newark, N.J., having been appointed one of the principal editors of The New York Herald, has resigned his charge.

Dr. Meredith's famous class for Sunday-school teachers draws more than 2000 Bostonians to Tremont Temple on Saturday afternoons, at one of the busiest hours of the week.

Mr. George C. Needham held a week's Gospel services last month at the Reformed Catholic Church in New York, of which Mr. J. A. O'Connor is pastor. Bible-readings were conducted by Mrs. Needham at the New York Medical Missionary Institute in East 45th street.

Messrs. Moody and Sankey have conducted a Convention in York, Pa., which was marked by the large attendances and deep spiritual interest usual at such gatherings. They are expected to visit Harvard University this month, in response to an invitation signed by 500 students.

Mr. J. E K. Studd is visiting the leading colleges in the States, with the view of awaking a deeper spiritual interest among the students. At Princeton College he spent three days. Dr. McCosh, the Principal, gave Mr. Studd a warm introduction, and he was able to create a strong impression both among Christians and non-Christians.

The Christian Giving Society is the name of a new organisation started in New York city. The purposes of the Society are "to call the attention of individual believers and of churches to the Divine system of beneficence as set forth in God's Word, and to press upon individuals the practical adoption of proportionate giving as enjoined in the Scriptures."

We are told, says the (New York) Independent, that in New York, Brooklyn, Philadelphia, and Boston, there are four magnificent buildings, erected at great expense for the Young Men's Christian Associations of these cities, having each a splendid hall, but all closed tightly on the Sabbath Day, because the pastors do not wish any preaching in such a public hall, for fear it will draw people away from their church services. It looks as if there were something wrong there.

WORK AMONG CABMEN.—If any of our readers have any periodicals suitable for giving to cabmen and others on Sunday, such will be very thankfully received and distributed by Mrs. L. Maxwell, Manor House, Clapham, S.W.

Notes and Comments.

NEXT week we shall give a portrait of Mr. George Hatton, of the St. Giles's Christian Mission, with a sketch of his work and report of his supper to thieves on Tuesday evening last.

The other day at the Synod of the Church of Ireland a clergyman moved a remarkable amendment to the effect "that Purity Guilds are in reality detrimental to morality and religion." It is perhaps unnecessary to record that the original motion proposed by Canon Wynne and supported by the Dean of the Chapel Royal, and others, was carried by a large majority.

An "Anti-Teetotal Magazine" has been started, apparently upon the basis that Total Abstinence is not the best means of fighting drunkenness. Some men are fond of a paradox, and surely it is somewhat paradoxical to urge that to increase purity is not to lessen vice, and that to increase sobriety is not to reduce intemperance. If, as has been stated to be the case, the new and retrograde paper "vigorously expresses the thoughts of many Christian people," we can only regret that so much vigour should be wasted in an attempt to prove that two and two make one; and that so many Christian people should be living so far below the blessed privilege of self-denial for the Master's sake and for the sake of the weaker brethren.

It has been said that the very simplicity of the Gospel of Jesus Christ is a stumbling-block in the way of those who are not willing to enter into the kingdom as little children. Such a difficulty, however, must be almost microscopic, compared with the mountains before those who are wandering in the gloomy valleys of invertebrate speculation. In the list of subjects dealt with in a recent number of the monthly magazine published for the benefit of the sect of "Theosophists," we find "Nadigranthams," "Zoroastrianism," and "Cromopathy." To these, as if these were not sufficient for one month, even for a Theosophist, the editor has, perhaps in unconscious irony, added another paper headed "Hunting Shadows," and, if it is not the biography or autobiography of one of the sect, it certainly ought to be, for that is a mathematically exact definition of the result of their pursuits.

A Roman Catholic newspaper, which from time to time expounds theology, and is very severe upon "heretics," announces the fact that a certain "thoroughly go-ahead society made another step in the right direction when it commenced its first series of Cinderella dances on last Sunday evening," in the hall of a London suburb. It adds that "the committee of management deserve great credit for the admirable manner in which they worked up the matter," &c. The "thoroughly go-ahead society" apparently desires to treat the fourth commandment as its exemplars treated the second; but, in any case, we cannot believe that Cardinal Manning would give his sanction to such utter disregard of a commandment which has not yet been expunged from the Roman Catholic version of the Decalogue.

It has recently been authoritatively stated that, during the last thirty years, war has caused in Christian nations the loss of two million men, and has cost three thousand millions in money, the yearly expenditure of these nations upon standing armies being five hundred millions sterling. It is not difficult to imagine what would have been the blessed results had this wealth and these lives been expended in fruitful strifes and rivalries of peace, in saving life instead of destroying it. Well might Mr. Cooke, from whose noble address before the Trinity College Historical Society, Dublin, we have taken these figures, ask in impassioned tones, "Shall the sword devour for ever?" And well may every Christian pray earnestly for the speedy coming of the blessed time when nations shall "beat their swords into ploughshares, and their spears into pruning hooks," and shall not "learn war any more."

The Bishop of Gloucester and Bristol, in his recent Visitation Address, expresses a fear that the drift of modern thought is towards what is called "the larger hope." It is Scripture, however, that must be taken by Christian men into the argument. Neither must interpretations be unwatched. Rev. Samuel Cox, in his last volume of "Expository Treatises" says that "Children of wrath," in Eph. ii. 3, "simply means wrathful men; men who give way to wrath." The reviewer in The Guardian properly calls this an evasion of the plain teaching of Scripture; that Dr. Cox might as well argue that "children of grace" and "children of light" meant lightsome and graceful children; and that the wrath spoken of is as surely the wrath of God unto condemnation, as the grace of God is the exemption from condemnation of those who believe.

Bishop Ellicott has some weighty words in the Address on "The Teaching of Modern Science as to the Future of Men." Scientific ethics, he argues, present sterner aspects in some respects than do even the ethics of Christianity of the unflinching maintenance of the inexorable law of consequences. Science yields no countenance to the conception of tares ever becoming wheat, or of a progress whereby evil becomes good. It steadily points to stern and final separations, to those issues which are disclosed to us by Revelation, and yields no support whatever to the perilous theories of modern Universalism.

An interesting contrast was brought out at the late General Assembly of the Free Evangelical Church of France. One of the deputies to the meetings shared the proffered hospitality of a Roman Catholic family. Thirty years before, around the church where the Synod met, Roman Catholics gathered with threats and yells and burnt a Bible. Is this striking contrast due to greater candour on the part of Romanists, or to the manner in which an atheistic hostility is driving them into a closer union with Protestants? Probably both. Meanwhile, let all our readers lift up prayer for Lord Radstock and Colonel Pashkoff in their meetings in Paris for employés and tradesmen. If there are French people who dread another reign of atheism, let us help them to find the religion of the Bible.

In a recent number of The Bibliotheca Sacra there is an article on social morality. It maintains that while "drunkenness" is diminishing in Britain and America, those who do drink are getting worse. Self-murder is growing in Continental cities, and comes out of despair. In Saxony, at a former census suicide per million was 338, in the last census it rose to 408. In relation to the sacredness of marriage the educated classes stand the lowest. Artists and literary men in Massachusetts form 2 per cent. of the marriages, and 3 per cent. of the divorces. In France, where the marriages of men in the liberal professions make 2·4 per cent., their divorces exceed 23 per cent.

In our recent article on "Prosecution by Government" we ought to have stated that the authorities had refrained from bringing Mrs. Jeffries to justice; our remark that they had refused to do so was not strictly accurate, as we are reminded that no formal application was made to that effect by the London Committee which initiated the prosecution.

With reference to the desire of some that we should be silent about the terrible things which have lately been pressed upon the public attention, a lady refers us to Nehemiah iv. 14, and vi. 9: "Be not ye afraid of them: remember the Lord, which is great and terrible, and fight for your brethren, your sons, and your daughters, your wives, and your houses. . . For they all would have made us afraid, saying, Their hands shall be weakened from the work, that it be not done. But now, O God, strengthen Thou my hands."

Another friend finds a passage no less apposite to the case of Mr. Stead and Dr. Heywood Smith in Isa. xxix. 21, and lix. 14, 15 . . . "that make a man an offender for a word; and lay a snare for him that reproveth in the gate; and turn aside the just for a thing of nought." "And judgment is turned away backwards; and justice standeth afar off; for truth is fallen in the street, and equity cannot enter. Yea, truth faileth, and he that departeth from evil maketh himself a prey." It looks as if there were in Israel cases of the same kind as the Poole, Jeffries, and Armstrong cases.

Perhaps the hardest and most unjust proceeding of all is that of a portion of the medical profession towards Dr. Heywood Smith. With all the circumstances before us, we feel it very difficult to come to the conclusion that he ought to have acted differently. Dr. Heywood Smith understood that Mr. Stead was de facto Eliza Armstrong's guardian, and only did what he deemed desirable for the child's good, to enable her to be rescued, and to vindicate Mr. Stead's character; and this in such a way that the child was wholly ignorant of it, and so suffered no harm, actual or moral.

From any point of view, what he did was done with the kindest intentions towards all parties concerned, and that any body of Englishmen, not to say English gentlemen, should have demeaned themselves as is described in the following notes taken from The Methodist Times, is to us humiliating in the extreme:—

> Perhaps the most repulsive result of the recent miscarriage of justice is the ferocious attack which is now being made upon Dr. Heywood Smith. The British Lying-in Hospital has expelled him after many years of valuable service, without giving him any notice of the meeting, nor any opportunity either of resigning, or of saying a word in defence. Great efforts are being made to secure Dr. Smith's expulsion from all the medical societies and institutions with which he is connected. Now, Dr. Heywood Smith is one of the most pure-minded and sincere Christians in the medical profession. Through many years of public service his blameless character and his great ability have secured him the high regard and confidence of all who know him. Once in the course of his life he has reluctantly consented to make a momentary examination of a child, in order to shield a friend from the fearful possibility of being some day charged with the ruin of that child; and at once the medical journals and too many of his medical confrères turn upon him like so many tigers. They deliberately scheme to ruin him, to blast his reputation, to take the very bread out of his mouth.

Let us hear no more of Irish outrages. The worst cases of boycotting in Ireland are mild in comparison with this merciless and dastardly attack upon Dr. Heywood Smith. To complete the repulsive picture, the element of hypocrisy forms the background. For the last seventeen years the medical journals and the medical men who are now so shocked and so hysterical that they are dead to both justice and mercy, have been the vehement and chief advocates of the Contagious Diseases Acts, which exist for the purpose of compelling women to submit to a dreadful medical examination, an examination forced upon terrified and screaming women by police violence, under threat of long terms of imprisonment, and undertaken, not for any good or pure motive, but for the purpose of providing vicious men with healthy victims. Many poor women have spent months in prison rather than submit to this medical outrage. But the threats of policemen and magistrates have so far prevailed over their terrified victims that no less than 504,607 such enforced and indescribable examinations of women have taken place between 1864 and 1880. These outrages have been justified with passionate enthusiasm, but the one harmless act of Dr. Heywood Smith is treated as an unpardonable sin.

It is to be feared that nothing can be done to protect Dr. Heywood Smith from his destroyers. The Medical Trades Union is more powerful, despotic, and irresistible even than the engine of terror invented by Mr. Parnell. Dr. Heywood Smith is celebrated for his skill in dealing with all the diseases and maladies to which women are subject. If the Christian public were disposed to open a small Woman's Hospital, Dr. Heywood Smith's special gifts might still be utilised for the relief and healing of those who suffer.

It is no doubt a trial of faith to the friends of Social Purity throughout the country to find so many of the ardent supporters of the movement ousted at the polls. The defeat of such men as Mr. Wm. Fowler, Mr. G. W. Russell, Mr. J. P. Thomasson, Mr. Alfred S. Dyer, and others, is a serious loss to the cause. That cause, however, is the cause of God and the right, and if Christians are unweariedly faithful in the education and enlightenment of public opinion during the next year or two, more complete success may be expected at the next election, which may not be so very far distant. Mr. Dyer's gallant effort at Derby was, under the circumstances, somewhat of a forlorn hope, but we trust it may yet be crowned with success. He has addressed the following letter to the electors of Derby:—

"GENTLEMEN,—To the twelve hundred and fifty-one electors who, after I had been before the constituency but twelve days, recorded their votes in my favour, I tender my warmest thanks. If I had been permitted a fair hearing, I believe the result would have been different, notwithstanding the shortness of my candidature. My opponents can congratulate themselves on having won the election by a policy of violence. I have been pressed by my Election Committee to come forward again at the next vacancy. That request I shall take into earnest consideration. Meanwhile I regard myself as repulsed, but not defeated. I have initiated an electoral revolt against criminal trifling with great moral questions. Whatever may be my personal experience, that revolt, although unsuccessful at the outset, cannot be otherwise than victorious in the ending.—Your faithful servant,

ALFRED S DYER.

Office of "The Sentinel," Paternoster-square, E.C.

A census of attendance at all the churches, chapels, and mission-rooms in the Registrar's district of Shoreditch, taken on three Sundays in October, gives no less than 115,116 persons out of 126,591 who were not present at any service of God during the day. According to The Nonconformist and Independent, supposing two-thirds of them attended two services, there would be nearly 89 per cent. absent. Familiarity with such a state of things ought not to hide the gravity of it.

Many of our readers will be glad to know that Mr. George Soltau is open to engagements to conduct evangelistic or children's missions in any part of the country. Address, 69, Beresford-road, Highbury Newpark, N.

Father C. Chiniquy writes to us from St. Anne, Kankakee, co. Illinois, U.S.A., that a great calamity has befallen him through the incendiary burning of his stock of copies of his recently published book, "Fifty years in the Church of Rome." He says it is the work of his Romish adversaries, and earnestly appeals to British Christians for help to make good the serious loss.

We are asked to correct a misapprehension about the Jewish settlement at Artouf, between Jerusalem and Jaffa, a report being prevalent that the work has come to an end. This is far from being the case. There are now nine families settled on the land, and a new and vigorous manager is overlooking and pushing forward the enterprise. Money is much needed for the general expenses, but enough is in hand on the building fund to erect ten or twelve houses, so soon as permission is granted by the Turkish authorities.

A new sect called Jezreelites has sprung up in Kent. We learn from a statement of the Assistant-Chaplain of H.M. Prison at Chatham, that their founder was a James White, who gave himself out to be a messenger of God, and took the name of Jezreel. He died last March; his followers style themselves, "The New and Latter House of Israel," and teach that for them a higher state of bliss is reserved than for other Christians. Their creed is a strange combination of the Law and Gospel, and they have bought at Gillingham twenty acres of ground on which they have begun the erection of an Assembly hall and other buildings which will cost £100,000.

The CHRISTIAN ALMANACK, containing the portrait of the Earl of Shaftesbury, has been quite sold out for some days. Our publishers will, however, be in receipt of the last 20,000 immediately. For these we should recommend early application to be made, as it will be quite impossible to reproduce any further copies.

◆

MR. W. NOBLE IN AMERICA.

OUR good friend, Mr. Noble, is actively pursuing his Gospel-Temperance campaign in the United States. At Chelsea, Mass., he conducted a mission which seems from the report in a local paper to have been most successful in advancing the cause. He had a packed audience in the First Baptist Church at the farewell meeting when he exhorted the Chelsea friends to foster the Temperance sentiment in every possible way.

His next sphere of labour was Watertown, New York, where he held meetings for eight days, in the middle of November. The ministers of the city gave their hearty support, and the Christians were roused to take a deeper interest in those around them who are slaves to the drink. After leaving Watertown, Mr. Noble addressed several meetings in New York city, one of them being in Dr. Cuyler's church, where a hearty public reception was accorded to him at a large and enthusiastic gathering. We learn from the American papers received, that he was to enter on a considerable mission at Louisville, Kentucky, and would spend several months in the Western States.

EVANGELISTIC NOTES.

BOURNEMOUTH.—Capt. Dawson has recommenced his evangelistic meetings on Sunday afternoons. They are vigorously conducted, crowded, and the results are most encouraging.

OAKENSHAW, CO. DURHAM.—A fortnight's Gospel services have been held at the Methodist New Connexion Chapel, by Miss Coates, of London. There has been a large ingathering to the Church.

TACKLEY, OXON.—Mr. John Harris, of the Evangelisation Society, has concluded a fortnight's services here. They were well attended throughout, and there is good hope that much blessing will result.

MRS LUCAS PORTER, of Sheffield, concluded a fortnight's mission at the Salem Methodist New Connexion Church, Etruria, Stoke-on-Trent, on Friday, November 27. The Church has been quickened, and many have been saved of the Lord.

OLD FORD, E.—Rev. W. Adamson, vicar of Old Ford, writes to us that he has arranged for the holding of a Special Advent Mission from December 4 to 22 at his church. He asks for help in meeting the needful expenses, for prayer, and for the personal assistance of workers in visitation, &c.

PONTYMOILE, PONTYPOOL.—In a recent letter to a friend, Mr. T. M. Wintle, hon. superintendent of the Undenominational Mission here, states that the Lord is greatly blessing the efforts put forth. On a recent Sunday evening the hall was so crowded that a partition had to be removed to give more accommodation.

MANOR CHAPEL, BERMONDSEY, has been favoured with a visit from Mrs. Stirling, of Scotland. The services have been most cheering, congregations large, fervour great, and enquirers numerous. At the last service the chapel was crowded in every part, and many sought the Saviour. The services for women only have been much appreciated, and the mission made a blessing to many.

ST. DUNSTAN'S, CANTERBURY.—A most successful three weeks' mission has been held by Mr. Healey, of the Church Army. God has set his seal on the work. There have been many professed conversions, and the blessing has extended over the whole parish. Mr. Frame is stationed here for the winter months to carry on the work, dividing his time between this parish and St. Mary Bredin's.

MAJOR WHITTLE writes to us dated, Lawrence, Kansas, November 5: "Our work in Kansas commenced here last Sunday most auspiciously. Large audiences gather to hear, and God is blessing his Word. We expect to spend the winter in Kansas. Mr. and Mrs. McGranahan are with me. Ask friends in Great Britain to pray for Kansas. We meet many here who have come from England."

REV. H. WEBB-PEPLOE spent Sunday week in Cambridge, and spoke or preached four times. Quite 300 men were at his last meeting, and "the word was with power." A large part of Monday morning was spent by Mr. Webb-Peploe in receiving a steady stream of University men at his lodging for spiritual council, as the sequel of the evening's address. The eager welcome with which the men greet and apprehend such teaching is a very bright and blessed sign of the time.—Record.

RAMSGATE AND ST. LAWRENCE Y.M.C.A.—A week's Evangelistic Mission, conducted by Mr. F. J. Rayner, has been concluded here. Each evening earnest and stirring addresses were given, resulting in great blessing to many young people, who remained to the after-meetings for consultation and prayer. On Wednesday a meeting was held for men only, which was attended by about 400. As one of the results of this mission the Y.M.C.A. has been quickened to new life and vigour, and received a considerable accession of members.

SOUTH LONDON EVANGELISTIC CHOIR.—The tenth annual meeting of this choir was held at the Conference Hall, Clapham-road, on Friday evening last, Mr. Reader Harris chairman. The secretary read an interesting and lengthy report, which stated that 153 meetings had been held during the year. The total number of members on the roll is 65. It is hoped they will be augmented during the present season. Mr. Harris gave a very encouraging address to the members, and Mr. Rowe, the leader of the choir, a general review of the work. All communications as to membership and choir assistance should be made to the hon. sec., Mr. S. Burrow, 17, Linnell-road, Camberwell, E.

TWICKENHAM.—The annual social meeting of the members of the Y.M.C.A. was held on Thursday week, in the Baptist schoolroom. The branch numbers 121 members and associates.

THE BIBLE IN FOREIGN PRISONS.

BAVARIA.

After visiting Stuttgart, the capital of Würtemberg, and distributing some New Testaments both to prisoners and officials, we passed on to one of the cities of Bavaria, where we visited three prisons. In one the discipline seemed so lax, and the gaol so little like a prison, that some of our London cracksmen would have laughed at the idea of keeping them confined in such a place. The convict establishment here is an awful place; the prisoners rise at 4.30 A.M., and work on till 6.30 P.M. They are not allowed (as in some prisons) to smoke, and some of them prefer to spend all their time in solitary confinement rather than associate with other prisoners in work.

AUSTRIA.

Here there is little real religious liberty. The wife of the chaplain to an ambassador told me that her husband cannot have a public prayer meeting even in their own house. You are hindered on every hand in your endeavours to do good. We have managed, however, to give away 450 Testaments and portions in four days. In country carts as they were journeying empty home, in the baskets hanging on the backs of the women returning from the markets, and in all sorts of places have we dropped and left them. Among the labourers on the river-side; in the fruit and other markets, we have given them to the people, who were all delighted with them; and as we had so often to ask our way, we always felt ourselves obliged to offer the friend who had directed us a New Testament for his trouble. I made bold on one occasion to even offer one to a fine tall police sergeant who had kindly directed me the way I wished to go. He accepted the gift, bowed most graciously, and with the usual "Danke schön" (thank you beautiful) raised his hat, and I mine, and we parted.

HUNGARY.

Here we felt we were breathing another air. The country and its history speak of liberty and chivalry. Though still under the rule of Austria, the Hungarians are a liberty-loving people. To-day in one large city we went over a prison, and had the extreme pleasure of being permitted to give every prisoner a copy of the New Testament. Servians, Hungarians, Croatians, and Germans all received the Word in their own language. Very nearly all could read, and the few who could not were attending school. Not a single prisoner had any portion of the Bible in his possession. We took care that 100 of the copies should be in large type for those who were aged.

Crossing the Danube we visited Ofer, where we found two large houses of detention. Here we gave 200 Testaments to the inmates, and 100 to the soldiers. The ventilation of the cells was very bad, the stench was dreadful. Whilst here we were pleased to make the acquaintance of Rev. Andrew Moody, of the Scotch Church, whose labours are abundant in this city.

Having succeeded beyond our expectations, we "thanked God and took courage," and started again for Austria. Yesterday was the best day's work we ever had, we had left 690 Testaments in one city. The journey from Hungary to Austria is through a picturesque country, dotted here and there with clean and pretty villages, the vines burdened with grapes, and the trees laden with fruit. All along the journey we distributed Hungarian Testaments and German portions.

By the aid of our credentials we were soon in possession of the needful authority for visiting the prisons of Austria. It would not be wise to speak in detail, lest our purpose may be frustrated; it is enough to say that Catholics, Protestants, and Jews alike share in the blessing of having the Word in their own language, we having received a written acknowledgment, signed and stamped by the prison authorities, to the effect that they had been received for the use of the prisoners.

We next visited Gräz, the capital of STYRIA.

Here there were many sick by reason of the poor food supplied. The stamped receipt mentioned above was a great help to us here, and again we met with success. We were sorry to find an Englishman here under a sentence of eighteen years, of which he had completed nine. We were thankful to be able to supply him with an English Testament. This is the only fellow-countryman we have come across in the prisons. From Gräz we next came to Trieste, scattering portions all along the route, among the villagers and the employés on the railway; the greatest astonishment was shown when they found they were only asked to accept the books.

As my companion's health was failing, and time and means were limited, we were shut up to return by way of ITALY.

From Trieste to Venice is a long journey by rail, but when reached we were soon busy among the prisons, some of which we found to be very dirty. When leaving Venice, we gave away 100 portions to the gondoliers, and supplied nearly every one in the station. Milan was next reached, and here we left not only Testaments but Bibles in both of the large prisons. Mr. Clark was too unwell to accompany me, and his place was taken by Captain Watson, an Irish gentleman, whom we had met in Venice. We were much encouraged in our work, and left praising God for his mercies to us. Resting at Baveno on Lago Maggiore, we enjoyed a day's fellowship with our brother, Mr. Cheyne Brady and his family. Then homeward bound through the St. Gothard to Lucerne in Switzerland. In Strasburg we had many opportunities of distributing portions as we came along.

We have been through ten countries, and have given away some thousands of portions of God's truth. Many countries yet remain to be visited, and, if health be given, and our Lord tarry, many are the prisoners I hope yet to reach.

Hyde-park Hall, W. Charles Cook.

◆

THE WAR IN BULGARIA.

On the strength of the long-continued service which the Turkish Missions' Aid Society has rendered to the American missionaries in European Turkey, one of their number, Rev. J. F. Clarke, of Samokool, writes to the secretary as follows:—

"The sudden war finds the Bulgarians unprepared in many ways. Thousands of families are in great need. There must be much starvation and suffering, even if peace were now declared. If the war continues, the need will be overwhelming. The sufferings of the wounded are very great, amd the help yet furnished wholly inadequate. Please get help for us. We shall do what we can. Dr. Kingsbury will take care of fifty wounded. Do what you can for suffering humanity, and God will bless the givers."

Miss Ellen Stone, also a devoted missionary, telegraphs from Sophia:—"Have opened hospital for wounded. Will your society, or other sympathisers with Bulgaria, help immediately?"

Our readers are earnestly invited to assist the efforts of the American missionaries. Contributions may be sent to the Hon. A. F. Kinnaird, 1, Pall-Mall East, S.W., treasurer of the society, or to the secretary, Rev. T. W. Brown, at 7, Adam-street, Strand.

A NOTE OF THANKS.—Dear Sir,—For ten years I have been engaged in frontier mission work in Manitoba and Northern Dakota, U S, and for ten years I have enjoyed the weekly visits of The Christian, kindly sent to me by some friend unknown to me, but well known to the Lord. I now return my sincere thanks for the great favour conferred upon me. In all my missionary wanderings I have been followed by The Christian, sent from the land of my birth. Through it I have been interested greatly in the Lord's work in all parts of the world. I heartily return thanks for the continued favour.

John Scott, Presbyterian Missionary.
Walhalla, Dakota Territory, U.S.

TEMPERANCE NOTES.

The liquor traffic in Maine is not more than 1-20th of the amount before Prohibition.

In Madagascar lately seventeen men were each fined seven oxen and 28s. for drunkenness.

A number of the Connaught Rangers stationed at Tipperary have joined the local Blue Ribbon brigade.

The Pictorial World hints that clubs may ere long have to pay for drink licences in the same way as hotels.

At Toronto, "Blue Ribbon Beer," a "Temperance drink," has been found to contain 2 to 3 per cent. of alcohol.

The Philadelphia County Women's Christian Temperance Union have agreed not to deal with any grocer who sells intoxicants.

Recent elections in New York State were unfavourable to Temperance. The Comptroller elect is president of an immense brewery concern.

More than 200 Temperance sermons were preached in churches in Manchester and neighbourhood on Nov. 15, the Diocesan Temperance Sunday.

At Gibraltar, 246 of the Royal Artillerymen are members of the Temperance Society. During the late threat of cholera many broke their pledges, but have joined again.

In one straight line of thoroughfare in Edinburgh, Castlehill to Holyrood, one and a half miles, there are 77 houses licensed to sell drink, viz., 45 public-houses and 32 grocers.

The soldiers at Hounslow have lost a true friend in the late Miss Wesley. Many in the army, both at home and abroad, remember her godly counsels and sympathy, and will hear with sorrow of her death.

The Christmas number of The Naval Brigade News is intended to reach the war-ships by Dec. 25, in all parts of the world. It will doubtless help many to a sober Christmas. It contains a portrait of Miss Weston.

A medical writer in The Temperance Record deprecates alcoholic drinks as Christmas presents to the poor. It tends to neutralise the Temperance teaching of the year, and may lead many back into evil habits.

Rev. J. G. Gregson, of India, is now on a visit to this country, in the interests of his Temperance work among the soldiers of our Indian Empire. We understand that he will deliver some lectures in London on the subject.

The King of Sweden has been presented with a finely illuminated address of thanks for the use of Parliament House for the late International Session of Good Templars. His Majesty warmly commended total abstinence.

The Christmas story published by the Scottish Temperance League this year is by Mr. Lacy, author of the hundred pounds' prize tale, "Through Storm to Sunshine." The title is, "A Boy's Victory, and How he Won it."

The Senate Restaurant, Washington, has been placed under new management, and will now be conducted on Temperance principles. Previously, the law prohibiting the sale of intoxicants at the Capitol had been systematically ignored.

Speaking at an election meeting at Newcastle-on-Tyne, Mr. W. D. Stephens, J P., the noted Temperance worker in the North, said if "compensation" would enable them to sweep away the evils of drink, he was willing to put his hand in his pocket.

At Bergen, Norway, the liquor trade is in the hands of a legally-recognised public company. The profits over 5 per cent. are applied to various beneficent public objects. There are only twelve public-houses to 40,000 inhabitants, and the town is remarkably temperate.

Mr. Seldon, Board of Customs, and Mr. A West, C.B., Board of Inland Revenue, were witnesses before the Royal Commission on Trade Depression. Both believed, apart from bad trade, the Temperance movement had largely affected the consumption of exciseable liquors.

SIGNOR GAVAZZI is giving a series of discourses at his church in Rome, to confute the Pope's Encyclical. At the close of this his first lecture, he told his hearers that it was the thirty-eighth anniversary of his imprisonment at Bologna, where he was arrested for having saved Garibaldi, then hotly pursued and hunted down in Tuscany. By order of Pius IX. Signor Gavazzi was sent to Corneto, but, recognised at Viterbo, the population rose up and obtained his liberty.—Record.

THE PRESENT MORAL CRISIS.—3.

By ELLICE HOPKINS.

(Concluded.)

WHAT I would suggest is that we should together form a Mothers' Union in connection with all our mothers' meetings, even though only a few might join it at first. It would form a sort of inner band to the mothers' meeting. I think I have at last got out the right obligations, at once simple and practical.* They are the following :—

(1) To pray for the children once every day.
(2) Never to allow coarse jests, bad words, or low talk before the children.
(3) Never to send the girls to public-houses or to work at houses of bad character.
(4) To keep the boys and girls apart at night.
(5) To try and get the children early to bed, and not to allow our girls to keep late hours in the streets.
(6) Never to speak of sin as a misfortune.
(7) To try and train the children to be truthful, honest, obedient, and pure.

Name of member——————

Date—————188 .

The card has for its motto the inspiring words from Ezra: "Arise, for this matter belongeth unto thee: we also will be with thee; be of good courage and do it." It is made to hang up in their bedrooms, and will prove a useful remembrancer. The card should never be given till simple talks have been held on each of the obligations, and I should say one meeting at least held, at which the fathers should be asked to be present as well. The little paper I have already mentioned, "A Homely Talk," can be used in substance, or read out. The members of the Union should be set to work to circulate the leaflet Summary, and such papers as "Early Training," and "A Word to Mothers," "How to Manage a Baby," &c.

By refusing to burke this subject any longer, by making them realise the extent of the anguish and the misery and the curse brought on their own class by this evil, how it all falls on their girls, how it is their girls who are dying in torture in what are called the foul wards of our workhouses, their girls who are bought, and sold, and exported, and drugged, and trapped, I feel certain that our working women may be roused to set themselves earnestly against the first beginnings of the evil, and look on all impurity with a wonderfully deepened feeling, which will make itself felt in an altogether higher standard of action. Already there is a quickened feeling to work on, and I believe by that "patience and perseverance by which the mulberry leaf becomes satin," we may work wonders in raising the moral tone of our people.

I have said so much elsewhere about forming Associations for the Care of young Girls in all our towns, and by means of the free registry office, the clothing club to advance the outfit, careful visitation, and the training home for failures, to see that our girls have a good start in life, that I need say nothing more on this practical point. The details of the work of such an association can be found in a little pamphlet, "How to start Preventive Work" (8th thousand, Hatchards). I would, however, urge the extreme importance of getting hold of our young girls as soon as they have passed their standards and left school, as I am more and more sure that the chief evil happens in that unlucky gap between the discipline of school and the discipline of settled employment, when the child has too often the run of the streets. This is easily accomplished by sending round to the mistresses of the elementary schools in poor neighbourhoods, and asking them for a list of the children who are leaving, generally at the end of the summer quarter. The parents can be then visited, and the children formed into classes for cutting out and making their own clothes, as well as cooking classes.† Some adventurous children, who are either orphans or who have step-parents or parents that are no good to them, may perhaps be induced to emigrate, should they be girls of good character.

But in connection with all these Associations—and where there is no Association, my words equally apply to any other existing agency—let us see that there is a Refuge, a house or room where a young girl can at once find a place of safety, and a loving helping hand. The more vigorously the new Act is put in force the more likely that it will soon be considered dangerous to harbour or have anything to do with young girls under sixteen. In London the police compute them at several thousands. My own conviction is that a large number of these young girls live at home with their wretched parents, who make a gain out of their own child's shame, and connive at it if they do not actually encourage it. But there are a certain number who have strayed far away from home, and these, unless we are prepared for the emergency, may be reduced to the greatest distress. Many will doubtless go to the workhouse rather than die of hunger in our streets; but for these mere children to be mixed with the vicious adults of our casual wards is a solution of the problem which I trust will satisfy no one, even if it were not a mere temporary one. See, therefore, that there is some kind of Refuge, even if it be only a room at some respectable person's house, to which the police or any Christian soul can take a girl; and see that the address of it is stuck up at the police-station, or at least known to the force.

As soon as we can get all the young girls under sixteen cleared out, and can prove that the law has worked so far, we mean to get the age of protection against the trade of vice raised to eighteen, and then set to work to clear out all girls under eighteen, till we hope to work our way up to the continental age of protection, the full age of legal responsibility, one-and-twenty.

One word more, a word of touched and grateful thanks to the readers of The Christian for the generous help they have given me in raising the fund for the White Cross secretary. About £1000 of the sum has been collected, and we only want £200 more. My generous subscribers will be glad to know that we have got what is far harder to find than the money, the right man, I believe—a young Oxonian, a leading speaker in the Oxford Union, to whom the work is an enthusiasm. He is to have the guidance of the Dean of Gloucester, late Head Master of Harrow, in the fulfilment of his responsible post. At present he is a layman and unmarried, and his power of influencing young men is very great, so that we may hope great things from his work among them when he is fairly launched, which will be at the end of the Oxford term.

Before long I hope we shall feel our way to a National League of women to move on by the side of the White Cross movement, and embody some of the deeper and wider aspects of this great national question that I have touched on.

Only let women realise that the fate of England is given into their hands; the purity of the home, the sanctity of the family, the salvation of your sons, the innocence of our English children, the life-springs of the nation depend, under God, on your action, and on the part you elect to take. If you are untrue to these great trusts of your womanhood, if the old martyr spirt has indeed died out of us, if you shrink back from the shame and the offence of the Cross in all its naked reality, seeing no Divine Presence in the midst, hearing no Divine voice crying to you out of the depths of human pain in the awful thirst of redeeming Love for what only you can give, then England's doom is sure. Her history will be that of the nations who have sunk into slow but sure moral decay, and in becoming impure in heart have become incapable of seeing God, incapable of all divine vision, all high seeing of duty and self-sacrifice and lofty endeavour.

But if, as I believe, women are true to themselves and their God, if at any cost to ourselves we take our stand by the Cross of Jesus, then indeed shall we be accounted worthy to be, like the faithful women of old, the bearers of a higher, risen life to the world, a purer manhood, and a more self-reverencing womanhood.

The whole of this great movement, which is making men band themselves together in all parts of the world to reverence womanhood and to keep themselves pure for our sake as well as for the sake of their God, had its roots in the hearts of a few women who suffered and loved and prayed. Behold your own power.

For to you, as to a woman of old, it is given to save your own nation; and to each one of us, as unto her, the words are said: "If thou altogether hold thy peace at this time, then shall relief and deliverance come from another quarter; but thou and thy father's house shall be destroyed. And who knoweth whether thou art not come to the kingdom for such time as this?"

Note.—I have received a very thoughtful letter from a schoolmaster on Dr. Duke's statements with regard to boarding schools. As I am anxious not to seem to commit Dr. Duke to a hard and fast statement, which from the nature of the case would be absurd, I had better quote his own words :—"I believe why it is so widespread an evil—amounting, I gather, although from the nature of the case no complete evidence can ever be accurately obtained, to somewhere about 90 to 95 per cent. of all boys at boarding schools —is because the boy leaves his home in the first instance without one word of warning from his parents that he will meet bad boys, ... and thus he falls into evil ways from his innocence and ignorance alone." The lowest medical estimate that Dr. Duke gives is 80 per cent. Again I say that I am in no way responsible for these statements. They are the statements of medical men of great experience, and must go for what they are worth.

---

* Hatchards, Piccadilly. Price, 1s. per dozen.

† See Three Courses for Three Pence (Hatchards, price 6d.) Mrs. Richmond, Floriston, Torquay, will supply information how a cooking class can be made self-supporting. The Honourable Mrs. Joyce, St. John's Croft, Winchester, will give information about emigration.

RESCUE WORK.

DEAR SIR,—Many thanks for your kind help. It will enable me to send another poor girl to her friends in the country. Oh that we could get men and women, yes, and ministers (although, thank God, my dear vicar, Rev. M. Washington, is heart and purse in the work) to understand the crying need there is for more effort, and how that men must learn to be more unselfish, if they bear the name of Christ. The class of girls so neglected are the better class of the fallen—daughters of clergy, doctors, farmers, shop-keepers, dressmakers, &c.

The means which I adopt are these :—

(1) To find them: with care and discretion this is very easily done. An inspector remarked to me the other day, "It is not hard to find them, Mr. Rainsford, there has been a regular flush of them lately." If this is true in the North of London, what must it be in the West?

(2) Having found them, to bring them to a private house, such a house we have now, where a Christian lady has consecrated two rooms to this work; I hope soon to find others who will follow her example. How many a Christian without a family might glorify God in this way.

(3) Since the above house (or houses) is only a temporary shelter, I communicate at once with parents or friends and get the girl back to her own home. If this cannot be arranged, we try to get her into service. This is generally a test of the reality of a case, for if a young woman truly wishes to abandon a bad life, she will be only too willing to begin low, and regard service as a stepping-stone to higher things.

There are three things necessary for this much, neglected work:—(1) Those who are willing, able and fitted to find these girls (2) Money. (3) A list of persons who would be willing to give a hopeful girl a chance, by taking her into service. I find much difficulty here; the world makes it so hard for those who have fallen to rise again. Thank God it is otherwise with Him. When we are fallen, He lifts us up; but when we are exalted He has often to bring us down, before He can raise us.—Yours sincerely,

Marcus Rainsford, Jun.

9, Fairmead-road, Holloway, N.

Correspondence.

THE MORAL CRISIS.

Dear Sir,—As your readers may be interested to know the feeling which exists in different parts of the country with reference to the Stead prosecution, I write to inform you that a protest against the policy of the Government in prosecuting Mr. Stead, signed by about fifty residents here, has been forwarded to London. The list of signatures contains representatives from all classes of society, and includes the ministers of three denominations, two medical men, a barrister, a solicitor, a writer to the Signet, one or two landed proprietors, and numerous tradesmen.

I find a general consensus of opinion in this neighbourhood in favour of Mr. Stead. Indeed, with two exceptions, every man asked to sign did so with the utmost readiness. From what I have heard in the course of my canvass, I am convinced that the feelings of the people are aroused, and that the opportunity is only wanted to give them expression.—Yours faithfully,

Arthur M. Fraser, Barrister-at-law.
Larchwood, Pitlochry, N.B.

Dear Sir,—As a constant reader, I perused with great interest Miss Ellice Hopkins's article on the present Moral Crisis. I have further observed with pleasure and indeed with admiration the firm and continued support your journal has given to the movement for social purity, which is so much required. Widespread as the circulation of The Christian is, I wish it were increased fourfold, and would here take the opportunity of begging your readers to extend it as much as can be done among their friends.

However, in regard to Miss Hopkins's article, allow me to point out one or two ideas conveyed in the paper which I think are calculated to mislead. I have heard that excellent Christian lady address meetings and have wished that more of our sex were gifted with her devoted spirit; but is it possible she thinks of doing work without the Gospel of Jesus Christ? She says in one of her paragraphs that just now to promote the cause of social purity our leading efforts should not be on behalf of Y.W.C.A.'s, &c. &c., but for educating women in general society as to the need of virtue in man. Very good. But just now nothing should be more encouraged than Y.W.C.A.'s. Prevention is better than cure. And, by gathering young girls together and educating them on the subject of their own virtue, only the best results can follow.

Further on in the article Miss Hopkins speaks of fashionable ladies who give their daughters in marriage to fashionable rakes. Should not these ladies have the truths of the Gospel set before them. "Without Me," said Christ, "ye can do nothing." Women who do not believe that men can be pure, or do not care, perhaps never will till the eyes of their understanding are opened by the grace of God, whom only the pure in heart can see.

Every other word in her article, however, is helpful and full of truth. The idea of giving little books and tracts on this subject, as a means of the education of really well-meaning Christian men and women who cannot see clearly just now things as they stand, is good. A week or two ago I was terribly perplexed by some elderly Christian mothers, who were falling foul of Mr. Stead, and seeing nothing but the utmost indiscretion in all he had done; yet these women had sons of their own, who might fall into the very sin he was exposing as a beacon light to them. These mothers were utterly in the dark as to the good that might accrue.

As to schoolboy immorality, may I say one word? Four years ago I stayed for a few weeks with a wealthy family in the West-end of our own city. There were six children in that house, and I was a great part of my time with them. What a revelation it was! Two boys, one ten and one eight, were perfect little débauchés in word and act. Almost in my presence they offered to commit an outrage upon one of the maid-servants, who wished at once to leave her place. I asked where and when they learned to do such things, and they said at school, going on to add that other boys were worse. What that worse meant, I did not care to ask.

Lastly, I noticed in your last week's issue that Mrs. Jeffries still pursues her horrible trade. Could that woman not be closely watched and brought to justice? Four years ago I lived in Brompton, and to reach a little mission-hall, whose services I sometimes attended, I had to cross through the west end of Chelsea. I was surprised at the number of hansom cabs met, containing young and pretty girls, showily dressed. "Where are they going?" I asked a lady friend who was one day with me. "Are they actresses on their way to rehearsal?" "No," said my friend. "These young girls are ruined creatures, off to secure their prey."

Glasgow. Elizabeth May.

Dear Sir,—I am the mother of little daughters, carefully brought up and sheltered from the bare thought of evil. I want to ask this one question of the mothers of England who have been utterly shocked at Mr. Stead's conduct in publishing, through the length and breadth of the land, the hideous facts—but too true, as those engaged in Rescue work can testify—which have made the ears of this people to tingle.

I want to ask them whether, if my little girls had been taken from me, dragged into brothels, desecrated, smuggled into foreign lands, lost to me, body and soul, and, as far as I could see, to God also, would they condemn me if I did not stop to think of the delicate ears of the refined ladies of England, or of the possible, probable, or even certain injury to the thoughts of the boys and girls of England while I raised a hue and cry, if I could get the papers to publish (no doubt most of them would be too "pure" to do it!) the story of the actual injury which had been done, and was being done, to the innocent bodies and souls of my children, if so be I could force the authorities to save them?

The alternative, a fearful one I grant, lay between the injury possible, or probable to the imaginations of some of the children of England and the actual, present and unprevented destruction of the bodies and souls of other of the children of England, of equal value in the sight of God, whether they are so or not in ours. Mr. Stead's heart is a father's heart; he has suffered for these lost children; he has given up all a man could give up—worldly reputation, wealth, even liberty to deliver them. The hearts of many of their own parents had become cruel to them. His heart was tender enough and large enough to take them in, and I for one say, thank God for the man who has dared to put forth a father's love and a father's strength to snatch the children of the poor from the monsters who devoured them.—Yours faithfully,

An English Mother.

HEAR THE OTHER SIDE.

Sir,—In common with many readers of The Christian, I had fondly hoped that when the "Armstrong case" had been disposed of by a British Judge and Jury, and the trial had been commented on by the Press, your readers would have been spared the infliction of hearing any more about it.

I must, therefore, express my disappointment on finding many columns of last week's number taken up with various matters bearing on the same subject, and, saddest of all, very severe remarks on the conduct of the Judge, the Attorney-General, the late Home Secretary, and the whole of the London Press.

I forbear adding fuel to the fire by any comments on these criticisms, but must express my fear that the line you have taken may damage The Christian, just as Mr. Stead's mistaken, but (no doubt) well-intended course of action has seriously damaged the cause which he and all Christians must have at heart, viz., the prevention of vice and the reclamation of the offenders.

I ask you now most earnestly so to conduct your valuable journal that fathers of families and heads of households may not be obliged as at present to prevent their young children and servants from reading it. Some whom I know have felt so strongly as even to discontinue taking it in.

I hope you will publish this letter, as the sentiments of one of your constant readers, and as showing that all Christians do not take your view of the case.—Yours faithfully, F. A. Bevan.

59, Princes-gate, S.W., Nov. 23.

WORK AMONG THE KORKOOS.—This work, among an Aboriginal tribe inhabiting the Central Provinces and Berar, is described in a little report by Mr. Albert Norton, who has for several years laboured among the Korkoos. The pamphlet is in diary form, and shows how wonderfully God has supplied the needs of the mission. Says the writer: "One Korkoo woman, whose face beamed with interest while I told her of Christ and his salvation, received the good news with great joy, and at once exclaimed, 'I am going home to tell the people in my village what you have been telling me.'" The address of Mr. Norton is Bhaisdehi, Betul District, C. P., India.

MRS. JEFFRIES and the HOME OFFICE.

THIS notorious woman was sentenced in May last to pay a fine, and to find a surety or sureties in £400 for her good behaviour. A few weeks afterwards her surety died, and some five months afterwards she had not found fresh bail. It is believed that at this date she is still at liberty without bail. She has, however, continued her trade, and, in consequence of the annoyance caused thereby, the clergyman of the parish, who resides in the immediate neighbourhood of some of her numerous houses, has given his landlord notice to quit. This fact has been brought by the landlord before the notice of the Home Secretary. The Committee for Suppressing the Traffic in Girls have also brought before the same authority the fact of Jeffries being at large without bail, and carrying on her trade in defiance of her sentence. It will be interesting to notice the effect of these representations as to the career of this purveyor of high-class immorality, on the authorities who were so active in prosecuting those who exposed criminal vice.

LIFE IN PALESTINE.

THE most interesting and instructive descriptions of life in the Holy Land, being given by Miss Von Finkelstein, are meeting with great acceptance wherever she goes. On Saturday evening at New Malden she lectured on "The Bedouins of Arabia," describing the nomad life of those desert tribes, whose descendants have lately been so prominent in the Soudan. The fair lecturer was attired in the garb of a nomad woman, and the male friend who assisted her was dressed as a Sheik or Arab chieftain. The large audience were greatly delighted, and Miss Finkelstein returns to Malden soon to give her lecture on City life.

On Sunday evening at the Congregational Church Bermondsey, Miss Finkelstein spoke to an overflowing congregation, on "The Homes and Haunts of Jesus," creating a deep impression by her vivid and picturesque recital, which helps so much to illuminate the pages of the Gospel story. In our list of forthcoming engagements, we notify the engagements of this able expositor of Oriental life and customs, and advise all who wish to spend a happy evening to be present at one or more of the lectures.

OBITUARY.

MRS. GOODERHAM, TORONTO.

A CABLEGRAM from Toronto has been received intimating the departure to be with the Lord of Margaret, the beloved wife of Wm. Gooderham, of that city. Mrs. Gooderham, although a complete invalid and intense sufferer for nearly ten years, heartily sympathised with Mr. Gooderham in the abounding Christian philanthropy which has made his name a household word in the Dominion. In all her wearying pains her gracious spirit constantly thought for the comfort and happiness of others. She was always carried from her room to greet Mr. Fegan's emigrant boys, and share her husband's joy in welcoming the young voyagers from "the Old Country," and wishing them God speed in the land of their adoption. Many Christian workers on this side of the Atlantic, and in the United States, will, in his bereavement, sympathise deeply with Mr. Gooderham from whom many of them have received never-to-be-forgotten kindness when sojourning in Canada.

J. W. C. Fegan.

Requests for Praise and Prayer.

PRAISE.—For great blessing received during the mission at Beckenham.

PRAYER.—For much blessing on the Gospel meetings held weekly at Shaftesbury House, Margate.——For an Advent mission in St. Matthew's and St. James's churches, Cambridge, by Rev. Walter Bradbury, assisted by the Church Army.——For meetings being held in Oxford by Mr. George Hefford.

THE GOLDSMITHS' COMPANY have just given a donation of £100 to the missionary work of the Religious Tract Society.

General Letters to the Editor.

CYPRUS.

SIR,—I observe that a correspondent desires to know if anything is being done to spread the Gospel message in Cyprus. I passed a few weeks in the island this summer, and heard that very little is being done among the natives in this direction, owing to the opposition from the Greek Church. I also heard that there was a great desire among the people for instruction, and it would seem a grand opening field for Christian work. Some slight knowledge of modern Greek would be necessary. I enclose my address in case anyone should wish for further information on the subject, and I could give an introduction to an English officer stationed there who takes a deep interest in such work.—Yours faithfully,

G. C. B.

SOLDIERS AT GIBRALTAR.

DEAR SIR,—As the extract from a letter of a soldier stationed at Gibraltar, which appeared in your paper of Nov. 18, is, I think, misleading, it might be well to let your readers know that great efforts have been made of late years, both by the Government and by the Christian public, to counteract the evils referred to. For instance, the "Gibraltar Soldiers' Institute" has now been established for nine years, and was started with a view to supply soldiers and sailors with a "home," a place of recreation and resort when out of barracks, away from the wine-shops and other temptations in the town, and to bring them within reach of Christian influence and instruction.

A similar Institute was started in another part of the Rock by a Christian lady about three years ago. A large Temperance Recreation building has recently been opened by the governor (Sir John Adye) in a central part of the town. The above Institutions are open daily, and well frequented by the men.—Faithfully yours,

H. S. CLARKE, Colonel,
Hon. Sec. Gibraltar Soldiers' Institute.
Wimbledon, S.W.

PROFESSOR DRUMMOND AT OXFORD.

DEAR SIR,—A faithful friend has written to me concerning the very brief, condensed report in THE CHRISTIAN of the substance of Professor Drummond's address to more than an hundred undergraduates in my Rectory room. The following note from my excellent brother, the Rector of St. Clement's, Oxford, will prevent the Professor being misunderstood on one point:—

"MY DEAR MR. CHRISTOPHER,—I was present at the address which Professor Drummond gave in your Rectory room. I am persuaded that the sentence in THE CHRISTIAN, which runs thus: 'What is the most common need of men now,' &c., should have read thus: 'What is the most common felt need of men now? Theology might say deliverance from the guilt of sin, experience will say deliverance from its power.' I am persuaded, both from this address, and another which I had the pleasure of hearing, that Professor Drummond holds, with regard to these two needs of the human soul, that both are universal needs, though some men at first feel only one of them, some men at first feel only the other.—Believe me, very sincerely, yours, FRANCIS PILCHER."

"St. Clement's Rectory, Oxford."

Let me add, with respect to another sentence in the report, that I have often observed that speakers who desire to urge a truth which they think to be too much neglected, sometimes give occasion for misunderstanding by their use of negatives. They say, "not this, but that," when they should have said "not only this, but also that." Prof. Drummond, who worked so long and diligently with Mr. Moody in his after-meetings, would, I am sure, entirely acknowledge that the believer has need to be looking every hour to Christ as his Sin-bearer, bearing the iniquity even of his holy things. We have Scriptural authority for approaching sinners on different sides according as they seem to be more accessible on this side or on that. To the Corinthians St. Paul wrote, "I determined not to know anything among you, save Jesus Christ and Him crucified." Yet he did not begin his address in the midst of Mars Hill by preaching the Atonement, but he approached the Athenians on the side of their felt need. "As I passed by and beheld your devotions, I found an altar with this inscription—To the Unknown God. Whom, therefore, ye ignorantly worship, Him declare I unto you."

In the brief report of Professor Drummond's address to exactly six hundred and fifty undergraduates in the great hall of Christ Church it is not mentioned that, besides pressing on the men the texts "Without holiness no man shall see the Lord," and "If any man love the world, the love of the Father is not in him," Professor Drummond also pressed the truth, "Except a man be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God."

To omit to press this most solemn saying of our Lord on a mixed congregation of baptized persons is, perhaps, one of the most cruel omissions of which a preacher can be habitually guilty. But Professor Drummond was not guilty of this omission in the hall of Christ Church. He evidently kept in mind the words of the Holy Ghost, by St. Peter, "Having been begotten again, not of corruptible seed, but of incorruptible, through the Word of God, which liveth and abideth." In almost his last sentences addressed to that great and attentive audience of University men, he implored them to seek on their knees, in their own rooms, with their Bibles open before them, the teaching of the Holy Ghost.

Christians who can by no means agree with all Professor Drummond has written or said may well be thankful that 650 young Oxford men should be attracted to hear an address in which much truth, which many urgently need, was eloquently pressed upon their consciences.—Faithfully yours,

ALFRED M. W. CHRISTOPHER.
St. Aldate's Rectory, Oxford.

[We submitted Mr. Christopher's letter to Professor Drummond, who says that it expresses his real views; the necessary condensation of the report is no doubt responsible for the imperfect statement of his utterances on the occasion.—ED.]

CHRISTIANS AND POLITICS.

DEAR SIR,—In response to a remark in your issue of November 12, I send a statement of a few Scriptures on which I rest as the authority why, as a disciple of the Lord Jesus Christ, I abstain from all political action.

Two points I shall take for granted. (1) That the New Testament is the statute-book for a Christian, and its teachings sufficient for guidance. (2) That the social evils, and misgovernment, of New Testament times were as bad as now.

"And one of the multitude said unto Jesus, Master, bid my brother divide the inheritance with me. But He said unto him, Man, who made Me a judge or divider over you?" (Luke xii. 13, 14). "Jesus therefore perceiving that they were about to come by force to make Him a king, He departed again into a mountain Himself alone" (John vi. 15). "And John's disciples took up his body and buried it, and they went and told Jesus. Now when Jesus heard it He withdrew from thence in a boat to a desert place apart, and when the multitudes heard thereof they followed Him on foot from the cities, and He came forth and saw a great multitude, and He had compassion on them and healed their sick" (Matt. xiv. 12—14).

These Scriptures represent our Lord as declining to exercise governmental authority, and remaining silent when his attention was called to one of the grossest acts of crime ever committed, and by one of the worst of men.

Was our Lord in these things showing his disciples how they should act in like circumstances? He and his Apostles shall answer:—Jesus says (see John xii. 26; and viii. 12): "If any man serve Me let him follow Me." "Again, therefore, Jesus spake unto them, saying, I am the Light of the world, he that followeth Me shall not walk in the darkness, but shall have the light of life." Paul says (1 Cor. xi. 1): "Be ye imitators of me, even as I also am of Christ." John says (1 John ii. 6): "He that saith he abideth in Christ ought himself also so to walk, even as He walked." Peter says (1 Peter ii. 20—23): "But if, when you do well, and suffer for it, ye shall take it patiently, this is acceptable with God. For hereunto were ye called: because Christ also suffered for you, leaving you an example, that ye should follow his steps: who did no sin, neither was guile found in his mouth: who, when He was reviled, reviled not again; when He suffered, He threatened not; but committed Himself to Him that judgeth righteously."

I leave these words to speak for themselves, adding only a few words of caution. Some will say, Yes, you make out a very fair case; but, then, it cannot be the right thing, because we can see such terrible evil consequences will result if Christians should withdraw from this world's politics. My answer to this is, Are these our marching orders? If so, it is ours to obey; the General is responsible for the consequences; and our General can be depended upon to meet them as they arise.

Others will say, the thing is impracticable, such principles cannot be carried out in our day. To such my reply is a question: Brother, have you honestly endeavoured to carry them out? If not, let me beg of such never to make that statement until they have put these things to a practical test themselves. I do not write as a novice. For upwards of thirty-five years, during all which time I have been actively engaged in commercial business life, I have (with many a slip) endeavoured, by the help of God, to act on the lines indicated by the Scriptures before quoted, and to-day am more firmly convinced than ever of their soundness.

In common with others taking the same course, I have been charged with folly, cowardice, and indolence, by Christian brethren. I am very sorry to lose their good opinion; but Paul has supplied me with a reply, with which I close: "Judge nothing before the time, until the Lord come, who both will bring to light the hidden things of darkness, and make manifest the counsels of the hearts: and then shall each man have his praise from God" (1 Cor. iv. 5.)

S. C. C.

DEAR SIR,—The letter signed "T," in THE CHRISTIAN of the 12th inst., has interested me much, as I am personally acquainted with many excellent persons who maintain that believers, as such, ought wholly to abstain from politics, and that it is inconsistent with their "high calling" to take any share in the government of the world in any capacity. I am sorry to differ from them, but feel bound to express, however imperfectly, my deep and long-considered contrary convictions.

The principal arguments I have seen adduced (in print) for their views on this subject are:—

(1) The heavenly calling and heavenly citizenship of all believers.

(2) The silence of Scripture upon the duties of rulers and governors as children of God, while those of parents and children, masters and servants, are clearly defined.

To the first objection I would reply that believers, though called with a heavenly calling, are still on earth, and are not less men; and, as such, all the natural ability of mind and body are called into exercise in the fulfilment of whatever position, or in the exercise of whatever calling (earthly and natural) they are called to—whether as parents or children, masters or servants, rulers or ruled.

Grace supplies, from the one living Head, all spiritual needs to every member of the one spiritual body. This grace of God, and the love of Christ in our hearts, with the word written thereon by the Holy Spirit, enables the child of God to act in each and all such positions from purer and higher motives, and with nobler ends, than those which influence the merely natural man, and this is the great and only difference.

But what saith the Scripture to help us in coming to any definite conclusion? We should all agree that the facts recorded are equally intended for our instruction with the doctrines and precepts. Hence, then, we find, leaving the Gospel narrative aside (though in full harmony with the Acts of the Apostles) that the first Gentile convert was a Roman soldier; and that when Paul and Barnabas were separated by the Holy Ghost for special service, the first convert was a Roman Proconsul. Subsequently many of Cæsar's household (the Prætorian Guard) were brought to Christ through Paul's ministry, not to speak of the gaoler of Philippi; yet there is not the faintest hint given that either Peter or Paul instructed these early converts that the positions they occupied were inconsistent with their "heavenly calling."

Further, Paul himself asserted strongly his Roman citizenship though by birth a Hebrew of the Hebrews, and was everywhere treated with marked respect and courtesy by his Roman judges and their officers, partly, no doubt, on account of his own stainless character, but also, we may believe, on account of his Roman citizenship.

The second argument used by those who deny the duty of Christians in regard to the affairs of the world appear to me already answered in the above-mentioned recorded facts of Scripture, where there is silence in the very instances which would seem to have been the most appropriate for directing the child of God to give up all earthly plans and callings which were in any way inconsistent for him to hold.

The times in which we live are so entirely different to those of the Apostolic age in regard to the government of the world, that I do not think it anything to be wondered at, that, in giving special instructions as to family duties, nothing beyond subjection to the powers that be is said in respect to our relation to the State. The Apostles and their friends lived under an iron despotism, we in a time of democratic government. But the same natural abilities of mind and body which are called into action in all our earthly callings are those which may be exercised in State affairs, and the same all-sufficient grace can alone really fit us rightly, for the glory of God, to fulfil any calling.

But I cannot close this letter without asking those who differ from me if they have ever considered the consequences, if all Christians were to act upon their principles. It must involve the handing over of all authority to the ungodly, and the renunciation of such authority by each and every one, from the highest to the lowest, who became the subject of the grace of God, and embraced the truth as it is in Jesus—a more terrible social revolution than any proposed by the wildest political schemer.

On the other hand, what have we seen in ages past, down to our own times, but the brightest examples of real spiritual life and walk, given by many who have conscientiously fulfilled the duties of the ruler, the judge, the soldier, and many other more humble occupiers of subordinate positions in the government of the world.—Yours truly,

31, Market-place, Devizes. E. B. Anstie.

ELECTION.

Dear Sir,—Your correspondent "R. E. F." would have done well to consult a concordance before saying that "there is no individual election to salvation mentioned in Scripture." See 2 Thess. ii. 13. But besides this, it may be asked how men can be elected to holiness—as your correspondent admits—without being also elected to salvation, seeing that every holy man is also a saved man.

It is wrong, certainly, to isolate a text from its context when seeking to ascertain its meaning; but, supposing the meaning to be clearly ascertained, a single text of God's Word is quite sufficient basis for a doctrine: and thus we find our Lord and the Apostles making use of solitary sentences of Scripture as proof sufficient of what they say.—Truly yours, Horace Noel.

Woking, Nov. 26.

◆

The Book World.

Crowned. By Miss E. S. Elliott. 1s. 6d. Partridge. An elegant little book in velvet and gold. Sets forth in chaste language the beauty and blessing of the coronal of pardon and peace.

Stories of Wild Beasts. By Ascot R. Hope. 3s. 6d. Gall & Inglis. From this collection of anecdotes and hunting adventures much knowledge may be gained of the habits of wild animals. The volume is handsomely bound, and contains eighteen excellent illustrations.

Seven True Stories. By Frances Bevan. 2s. 6d. Holness. The authoress is well known for her true stories, and in these seven delightfully told tales, with their high spiritual tone, and their real interest, she writes even better than usual. There is no shallow sentiment; it is a book with a backbone. The get-up, too, is luxurious, so that it will make a charming gift-book.

Christ our Life. By Rev. F. Whitfield. Nisbet & Co. Another precious book from a full heart and a sanctified pen. Mr. Whitfield sits very near the fountain of living waters, and, as he drinks, he loves to pass on the life-giving draught. The present volume contains short but full meditations on Scripture, either for devotional use or reading at the sick-bed. At the close of each meditation is an appropriate hymn, or piece of sacred verse, often original. We hope this Christian treasury will enrich many a home.

Our High Priest in Heaven. By Rev. T. T. Perowne, D.D., Archdeacon of Norwich. 1s. Elliot Stock. This little book is worthy of its title. Its design is to expose and refute erroneous views of our Lord's present office in heaven and the office of his ministers on earth. The opinion expressed that our Lord's glorified body no longer bears any marks of his passion is not, we think, in agreement with John xx 27, and Rev. v. 6; but Dr. Perowne does not dwell upon it. We welcome the book as an able and exhaustive refutation of many sacerdotal errors.

The Mother's Crown Jewels. By Mrs. C. Bickersteth Wheeler. 2s. Jarrold & Son. We have read many books on the training of children, but none that have more to commend them than this. Commencing with some wise words upon the subject of marriage, sound advice from the rich depths of experience is given on all that appertains to the little lives given to be trained for time and eternity. Although written for mothers who are able to keep a nursery, mothers of the poorer sort will find much helpful to their own needs; in fact, it would be a useful book for mothers' meetings.

Five Years in Ludhiana; or, Work amongst our Indian Sisters. By M. Rose Greenfield. Partridge & Co. Concisely, kindly, and interestingly, we are told of the work done for Christ in the town of Ludhiana, with its native population of over 40,000 souls, and a large trade in wheat and grain. India, with her crying needs, stretches out her hands to the women of England, thousands of whom, we fear, do not realise what openings exist there for their Christian labours.

Sonnets addressed to Christ, and other Poems. By Frederick Linstead Dormham. Nisbet & Co. Certainly original, both as to theme and treatment. "A Hangman or a Judge," "Penal Servitude for Life," and kindred subjects, are unique in our experiences of sonnet-writing. There seems no possible excuse for addressing them, in their present form, to the Lord Jesus Christ; but perhaps the author despairs of any good to be achieved by addressing them to his fellow-men. The book is clumsily got up.

An Edelweiss Perpetual Calendar is a novelty which we are sure will be much admired. The days of the week and the months are printed on white satin attached to a card which can be adjusted according to date. On one side is a bunch of pressed Edelweiss and dried flowers. A text in gold, and full postal information combine to produce a useful and highly ornamental calendar. 3s. M. S. S., Rozel, Torquay. From the same source emanates a very choice gothic-shaped card, with Matt. i. 21 lithographed and a prettily arranged bunch of dried flowers and ferns. 9d.

Mr. J. E. Hawkins has issued a very charming souvenir of the late Frances Ridley Havergal, entitled, Songs of the Master's Love (6s.). Selected portions of Miss Havergal's poems are given, while on every page are floral designs, splendidly lithographed in colours, with initials and appropriate passages of Scripture printed in gold. The volume has a handsome floral frontispiece and cover, and makes one of the prettiest Christmas book presents that we have seen.

The Quiver, for December (Cassell & Co., 6d.), has an admirable portrait of Dr. Cuyler, of Brooklyn, with sketch of his work by Rev. Newman Hall. A feature of the new volume of this most excellent magazine for the household is the profuse illustration of the "Short Arrows" at the close of each number. Last month portraits were given of Baroness Burdett-Coutts, Mr. George Hatton, and Mr. Samuel Morley; this month of Bishop Temple and Lord Aberdeen.

ANNUAL VOLUMES.

The British Messenger. 1s. Partridge. A marvellous shillingsworth of good things. Truly "a treasury of Gospel truth."

Faithful Words for Old and Young (Holness) maintains its high standard. The handsome yearly volume contains much valuable teaching, and is a storehouse of anecdote.

The Day of Days and Home Words make two attractive and most useful volumes. They contain a store of present-day facts, and out-of-the-way knowledge that is unique and invaluable.

From the Office of Hand and Heart comes the yearly volume of that monthly. Well illustrated, full of good reading, it is just the very thing for a Christmas present in the cottage and the kitchen.

"Little Folks" Annual for 1886 (3s. 6d., Cassell & Co) is one of those dainty volumes for which Messrs. Cassell & Co. are so deservedly famous. It is brimful of the kind of reading in which the young folks delight, and contains above a hundred first-class pictures.

The Herald of Mercy (Morgan & Scott) contains articles and incidents suited to old and young, rich and poor, saint and sinner. Theologically, there is no uncertain sound, but the ring of Scripture doctrine and Gospel truth is heralded on almost every page. The choice and plentiful illustrations continue to be a very attractive feature of this useful monthly. Teachers and evangelists may find in it many good anecdotes with which to illustrate their addresses, and to Christian workers generally who distribute Gospel literature it will be of great service.

CHRISTMAS CARDS.

Mr. J. G. Wheeler (of Mildmay) has brought out several novel and very attractive packets of Christmas and New-Year's cards. Foremost amongst them we must place Christmas Sunshine, a 2s. packet of six double cards, illustrated by choice views of Italian scenery, with texts and original verses. They are very chaste and will be much appreciated. The Rock of my Refuge (1s.) contains twelve highly-finished cards with texts indicative of the loving protection and strength of the Lord to his people. The colouring of the little scenes is very natural and tasteful. Wild Flowers is a very pretty little sixpenny packet of twelve cards with a spray of a favourite flower on each. They are bright and pleasing to the eye, while the texts are wisely selected. Our Little Ones (same price and number of cards) show parties of children at play in the meadow, by the sea-side, &c., with suitable texts. Waters of Quietness are two well-executed chromos, the one of water-lilies with quotations from Is. xxx. 15, and Heb. iv. 3; the other of convolvuli, with the words of Ps. xxiii. 2 and lxxviii. 53. They will make very handsome framed wall texts. 1s. Joy Bells is a series of daintily-illuminated wall texts on coloured card, selected from Is. xii. 2, Ps. ix. 14, Neh. viii. 10, Is. lxvi. 5, Ps. xl. 3, Rom. vi. 23. They are well worth their very moderate price of 1d. each.

Some very choice specimens of these popular souvenirs come from Marcus Ward & Co., combining landscapes, floral designs, figure and animal groups, &c., produced in the finest colourings, and with appropriate mottos, poetical and otherwise. The latest novelty of this firm are "Christmas Greeting Cards" in book form, covered with "white repp padded silkeen." The cards are in the highest style of art, and each of these dainty books is enclosed in a separate box. The prices range from 3s to 5s, the latter being the figure for "Kate Greenaway's Little Folk," a most exquisite production, and not likely to share the fate of the more ephemeral cards. Yet another attraction from the same enterprising house, is a series of sketches prepared in neat portfolio covers—three coloured views of Thames scenery, two sets of humorous "hunting sketches," by Miss G. Bowers, and a set of four "Yachting sketches." in colours, by Barlow Moore, which are beautiful beyond description.

Messrs. Philipp Bros. have some pretty designs in their Christmas and New Year Cards. A varied selection comes to us from Mr. Bernhard Ollendorff, comprising some very choice specimens, representing animals and landscape views.

CHRISTMAS ANNUALS.

Of these popular issues we have received the following:—Good Cheer (6d.), "Christmas number of Good Words," a story of life in Shetland; Little Snow Flakes (6d.), a collection of seasonable tales for the young; Where two ways meet (6d), an interesting narrative by Sarah Doudney—the Sunday Magazine Christmas story; Snow Drops, the extra number of the "Girls' Own" paper, a very attractive production; Yule Tide, the marvellous shillingsworth, published by Letts & Co., and comprising six finely executed plates, a large coloured picture, and the usual collection of stories; the Graphic Christmas Number, a still more wonderful shillingsworth, which includes two coloured pictures, "Down" and "Up," representing a child as invalid and convalescent, besides the usual plentiful supply of pictures and letterpress; Christmas Company (3d.), the extra number of Mr. Jackson Wray's magazine, "Good Company;" Beware, being "Home Words" for Christmas, and containing a collecting form for the famous Robin Dinners, instituted by Mr. Bullock; Red Berries, the Christmas supplement of "Sunshine."

Cassells Illustrated Almanack (6d.) provides a perfect picture-gallery, in addition to much useful and interesting information respecting the events of the past year, and a calendar for the year to come.

We have received the following Sheet Almanacks for 1886—"Fireside" Almanack—"Friend of Missions" Almanack—Church Missionary Almanack. The price of each is 1d., and all are strong in telling illustrations.

A new illustrated magazine for Sunday-school teachers is to be issued shortly by Mr. Elliot Stock, at 1d.

The Pilgrim's Progress. By John Bunyan. 1d. Marlborough & Co. A new edition, with 100 illustrations. Post free for 1½d. A perfect marvel.

Naval Brigade News: Christmas Number, 1885. 2d. Partridge. Just the right thing for the sailor; full of wise counsel, and with it a strong vein of innocent and harmless humour.

I Did Try: The Life of Robert Raikes. By Rev. C. Bullock. 1d. 7, Paternoster-square In six brief chapters the great work of the founder of Sunday-schools is narrated, and valuable lessons are suggested.

A Letter to the Parents of our Sunday Scholars. By a Teacher. 2d. S. W. Partridge. An earnest word of counsel to parents, designed to stir up in them a greater sense of their responsibilities and privileges in relation to the Sabbath School.

Mr. S. J Saunders, 45, St. Mary-axe, E.C., has issued and will supply copies free, of a pamphlet on the Stead prosecution. Mr Stead's memorable speech to the jury at the trial in the Old Bailey is republished in pamphlet form by the Moral Reform Union, price 1d.

The Children's Service Handbook By Thos Davies, M.A, P.H.D 6d. Elliot Stock. The order of service, with hymns, Scripture lesson, and prayer are all arranged, as well as responses, and outlines of address. A short synopsis of Gospel truths is appended.

The Sabbath Question: From an American Point of View. By Rev Wilbur F. Crafts, A.M. Macniven. This pamphlet is made up of extracts from a well-known work, entitled "The Sabbath for Man," forming an admirable protest against the growing desecration and secularisation of the Sabbath.

Messrs. Riddle & Couchman, of Southwark-bridge-road, are publishing a series of splendidly-engraved portraits of public personages, 2 ft. by 1½, and well worthy of framing. We have received those of Mr. Gladstone, the late Earl Beaconsfield Lord Wolseley, and General Gordon, all excellent likenesses.

Messrs. Marcus Ward & Co. are becoming admirable caterers for the budding intellects of the nursery. They have lately published three coloured picture books, on which have been expended all the resources of artistic and typographical skill. The never-failing story of Punch and Judy is retold by F. E Weatherley with much graphic wit and Patty Townsend's pictures will be a feast indeed for young eyes. Three Fairy Princesses, illustrated by Caroline Paterson, and Slate Pencilvania deciphered with infinite humour by Walter Crane, will beguile many an hour during the winter evenings.

RECENTLY PUBLISHED.

SONGS OF PERSEVERANCE. A Manual of Devotional Verse. By Esther Wiglesworth. 16mo, 1s.

"Has a special interest as the effort of a lady engaged in Church Penitentiary work."—Christian World.

"They are devout, and evidently come from the writer's heart."—Ecclesiastical Gazette.

SONGS OF THE SOUL. By Miss Nicholson. 16mo, 2s.

"A charming little volume. We can honestly recommend these poems as likely to be of valuable help to many."—Nonconformist.

SONGS FOR LABOUR OR LEISURE. By Clara Thwaites. 16mo, 2s.

"They will afford gracious resting-places by the way to many busy and weary men and women."

British Messenger.

POEMS. By Mrs. Prentiss, Author of "Stepping Heavenward." Crown 8vo, 1s. 6d.

SPIRIT FOOTPRINTS. By Mrs. John Foster. Square 16mo, 3s. 6d.

"These poems of reflection are singularly free from what is affected and commonplace. The writer has evidently studied to good purpose in Christ's school of suffering, and will touch a responsive string in many hearts."—London Quarterly Review.

FOURSQUARE; or, The City of our King. By M. M. Small. Crown 8vo, 2s. 6d.

"The opening poem, which gives its name to the volume, is a charming reverie."—Literary World.

DRIFT LEAVES. By Mrs. Haycraft. 16mo, 1s.

"Full of beautiful, fresh, and suggestive thoughts, expressed with an unusual wealth of glowing language."

The Christian.

"Some of these poems are very sweet, and will give peace, comfort, and rest to many a tired and troubled spirit."—Christian World.

SONGS OF PEACE. By Mrs. Haycraft. 16mo, 1s.

"Graceful and charming verse."—Christian Globe.

"A choice collection of poems that will sweetly speak soothing and cheering words to the Lord's pilgrims."

Woman's Work.

SONGS IN MANY KEYS. By the Rev. Canon C. D. Bell, D.D., Rector of Cheltenham. Crown 8vo, 5s.

BY THE SAME AUTHOR.

VOICES FROM THE LAKES, and other Poems. Crown 8vo, 5s.

SONGS IN THE TWILIGHT. Crown 8vo, 3s. 6d.

HYMNS FOR CHURCH AND CHAMBER. Crown 8vo, 3s. 6d.

LAYS AND BALLADS OF HEROISM. By H. J. Barker. Small crown 8vo, 1s.

VANISHED FACES, and other Poems. By Miss Jane Besemeres. 16mo, 1s.

"We warmly recommend to all lovers of genuine sacred poetry 'Vanished Faces.'"—Graphic.

BY THE SAME AUTHOR.

COMFORT: A Book for the Cottage. 16mo, 1s.

"Excellent, both in its prose and in its verse. 'The author's verses have particularly charmed us.'"

Church Bells.

HYMNS OF FAITH AND HOPE. By Horatius Bonar, D.D. First, Second, and Third Series. Crown 8vo, 3s. 6d. each. Also Pocket Editions. 32mo, 1s. 6d. each. The three series in a case, 6s.

BY THE SAME AUTHOR.

HYMNS OF FAITH AND HOPE. Royal Edition, containing most of the Hymns in the Three Series. With Antique Borders. Printed at the Chiswick Press. Royal 8vo, 7s. 6d.

THE SONG OF THE NEW CREATION, and other Pieces. Small crown 8vo, 5s.; 32mo, 1s. 6d. gilt edges.

HYMNS OF THE NATIVITY, and other Pieces. 16mo, 2s. 6d.

MY OLD LETTERS. Post 8vo, 7s. 6d.; 2 vols., 32mo, 3s.

WAYFARING HYMNS, Original and Selected. By Anna Warner. Royal 32mo, 6d.

THE BORDER LAND, and other Poems. By the author of "The Brook and its Story," &c. 32mo, 1s. 6d.

THE DOVE ON THE CROSS, and other Thoughts in Verse. Fcap. 8vo, 2s. 6d.

MEMORY'S PICTURES. By Miss Marsh, Author of "English Hearts and English Hands," &c. Crown 8vo, 2s. 6d.

KNOCKING. The Words of Jesus at the Door of the Heart. By the Rev. J. R. Macduff, D.D. 16mo, 1s. 6d.

"A poetic gem of great literary beauty and spiritual power."—The Christian.

HYMNS OF THE CHURCH MILITANT, edited by the Author of "The Wide, Wide World," "Daisy Plains," &c. Crown 8vo, 3s. 6d.

James Nisbet & Co., 21, Berners Street, W.

The Religious Tract Society's Books for Christmas Presents.

ILLUSTRATED TABLE-BOOKS.

Just published, handsome cloth, gilt edges, 8s.

NORWEGIAN PICTURES. Drawn with Pen and Pencil. With a glance at Sweden and the Gotha Canal. By Richard Lovett, M.A. With a Map and one hundred and twenty-seven Illustrations, engraved by E. Whymper, R. Taylor, Pearson, and others.

"One of the most charming books on Norway that has appeared for a long time. It is thoroughly creditable to all concerned in its production, and well deserves to be one of the successes of the season."—Academy.

"An extremely well got up, handsome, and useful book for a present."—Scotsman.

BY THE MARQUIS OF LORNE.

CANADIAN PICTURES. Drawn with Pen and Pencil. With numerous fine Engravings by E. Whymper, from Sketches by the Marquis of Lorne, Sydney Hall, and others, forming a Handsome Volume for the Drawing-room table. Imperial 8vo., extra cloth boards, gilt, 8s.; or bound in morocco, elegant, 25s.

New Edition, profusely Illustrated.

SEA PICTURES. Drawn with Pen and Pencil. By Dr. Macaulay, Editor of the "Leisure Hour," &c. Containing the Sea in Poetry, Physical Geography of the Sea, the Sea in History, and the Harvest of the Sea. Handsome cloth, 8s.; morocco, elegant, 25s.

SCOTTISH PICTURES. By Dr. S. G. Green, Author of "German Pictures," "French Pictures," &c. Profusely Illustrated. Handsome cloth, 8s; or morocco, elegant, 25s. [Recently Published.

WINTER PICTURES. By Poet and Artist. An elegant book, most appropriate for a Christmas or New Year's Gift. Profusely Illustrated in the finest style of wood engraving. By Edward Whymper. 4to. cloth boards, gilt edges, 6s.

PAST and PRESENT in the EAST. By the Rev. Harry Jones, M.A., Prebendary of St. Paul's Cathedral. With fine engravings by Edward Whymper. Cloth, gilt edges, 5s.

A CROWN of FLOWERS: Poems and Pictures. Edited by Charles Peters. With Illustrations by M. E. Edwards, Davidson, Knowles, Frank Dicksee, A.R.A., R. Catterton Smith, Barnes, Green, John C. Staples, G. H. Edwards, O'Kelly, Ralston, Small, Dadd, and other eminent Artists. Handsome cloth gilt, 6s.

THE KING'S WINDOWS; or Glimpses of the Wonderful Works of God. By Rev. E. Paxton Hood. With 44 Illustrations. Uniform with "The Harvest of a Quiet Eye." Imperial 16mo. cloth, beveled boards, price 6s.

NEW ANNUALS FOR PRESENTATION.

THE LEISURE HOUR ANNUAL VOL. The Family Journal of Instruction and Recreation, contains 860 pages of interesting reading, with a Coloured Frontispiece, and numerous Illustrations by Eminent Artists. It forms a handsome Illustrated Book for a Present, and a most appropriate and instructive volume for a School, Family, Institution, Ship, or Parish Library. Cloth, 7s.; gilt edges, 8s. 6d.; half calf, 10s. 6d.

THE SUNDAY AT HOME ANNUAL VOLUME. The Family Magazine for Sabbath Reading, contains 828 pages with Illustrations in Colours and numerous superior Wood Engravings. A very suitable book for presentation. It contains a great variety of Interesting and Instructive Sabbath Reading for every member of the Family, and is profusely Illustrated. Cloth, 7s.; extra gilt edges, 8s. 6d.; half calf, 10s. 6d.

THE GIRL'S OWN ANNUAL. The Sixth Volume of the "Girl's Own Paper." Containing 832 pages of interesting and useful reading. Stories by Popular Writers; Music by Eminent Composers; Practical Papers for Young Housekeepers; Medical Papers by a well-known Practitioner; Needlework, plain and fancy; helpful Papers for Christian Girls; Papers on Reasonable and Seasonable Dress, &c. Profusely Illustrated. Handsome cloth, 8s.; with gilt edges 9s. 6d.

THE BOY'S OWN ANNUAL. The Seventh Volume of the "Boy's Own Paper." Containing 832 pages of Tales of Schoolboy Life and of Adventure, on Land and Sea; Outdoor and Indoor Games for every Season; Perilous Adventures at Home and Abroad; Amusement for Summer and Winter: Instructive Papers written so as to be read by Boys and Youths. With many Coloured and Wood Engravings, handsome cloth, 8s; gilt edges, price 9s. 6d.

NEW ILLUSTRATED STORY BOOKS.

THE SUNFLOWER SERIES FOR YOUNG LADIES.

THE MISTRESS of LYDGATE PRIORY; or, the Story of a Long Life. By Miss E. Everett Green, Author of "Lenore Annandale's Story," "Paul Harvard's Campaign," &c. Crown 8vo., Illustrated, cloth boards, 5s.

ONE DAY AT A TIME. By Blanche E. M. Grene. Crown 8vo., Illustrated by E. Whymper, cloth boards, 3s 6d.

BOOKS FOR BOYS

UNCLE ROGER; or, a Summer of Surprises. By Miss E. Everett Green, Author of "The Mistress of Lydgate Priory," "Paul Harvard's Campaign." Imperial 16mo., with Illustrations, cloth boards, 2s. 6d

THE MASTER'S LIKENESS. By Joseph Johnson, Author of "Uncle Ben's Stories." Imperial 16mo, Illustrated, cloth boards, 2s 6d.

THE DOCTOR'S EXPERIMENT. By the Author of "Under Fire." 16mo., with Illustrations, cloth boards, gilt edges, 5s.

MAX VICTOR'S SCHOOLDAYS: the Friends he Made, and the Foes he Conquered. By the Author of "My Schoolfellow, Val Bowser." Imperial 16mo. with Illustrations, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 3s. 6d

BOOKS FOR EVERYBODY.

Please write for the Society's Illustrated List of Books for Presentation and the Selected and Descriptive List of Books.

London: 56, Paternoster-row.

The Ruby Illuminations.

"These Cards are not only exceedingly rich in colour, but chaste and artistic in design. The Scripture Texts also are admirably chosen."—Fireside News.

"Really exquisite."—Belfast Witness.

Waters of Quietness.—Two Artistic Illuminations, with Texts. Suitable for framing. Price 1s. 6d. (51)

Christmas Sunshine.—Six folding Cards. Choice views of Italian scenery, with Texts and Original Copyright Verses. Price 2s. (52)

New Year Sunshine.—As above. (53)

The Rock of My Refuge.—Twelve highly-finished Cards, with Texts. Price 1s. Christmas (54). New Year (55). Birthday (56). Texts only (66).

Our Little Ones.—Twelve Choice Designs of Children, with Texts. Price 1s. Christmas (57). New Year (58).

Wildflowers.—Twelve Text Cards, beautifully illuminated. Price 6d. Christmas (59). New Year (60). Texts only (61).

The Ruby Mottoes for 1886.

No. 5.—Fear thou not, for I am with thee. —With lines by N. E. R., and part of Ps. xxiii. 4.

No. 6.—The Christian's Motto.—2 Cor. ix. 8.

No. 7.—Gospel Text Motto.—John iii. 16. Or any Text. Send for particulars.

The Choice Selection.—On receipt of One Shilling in Stamps or Postal Order, a choice selection from various Series will be sent—SPECIALLY GOOD VALUE. These packets in previous years have given great satisfaction.

Christian Workers' Parcel.

"The Watchtower," "Golden Treasure," "Rubies," "Silver," "Little Folks," "Blossoms." Sixty-six Cards, value 5s., for 2s. post free.

N.B.—Conductors of Missions requiring a large number of Cards for special purposes, are invited to write to J. G. W., who is prepared to supply on exceptionally favourable terms.

London: John G. Wheeler, 88, Mildmay-park, N.

NEW WEEKLY PERIODICAL.

"THE BELIEVER'S TREASURY." Eight pages, One Halfpenny. One Copy, post free, for 1s. 1d. per quarter. Election Poem, "Our Man's Rejected," appears in First Number. We would like as many as possible of the Lord's people to see this.

NEW GOSPEL PAPER (Monthly).

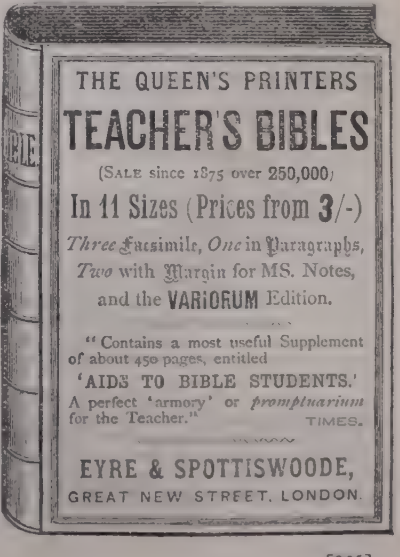
"THE SOWER." (Four pages, 10d. per 100), for broadcast Distribution. First Number contains New Year's Address for 1886 (in verse), to which we respectfully call the attention of all interested in the unsaved.

CHILDREN'S NEW YEAR POEM,

9d. per 100. Commended to all interested in the young.

We shall have pleasure in sending a Copy of each of above FREE to any address on hearing from you by post card.

Office of "THE TREASURY," Maybole, Scotland.



THE QUEEN'S PRINTERS

TEACHER'S BIBLES

(Sale since 1875 over 250,000)

In 11 Sizes (Prices from 3/-)

Three Facsimile, One in Paragraphs, Two with Margin for MS. Notes, and the VARIORUM Edition.

"Contains a most useful Supplement of about 450 pages, entitled 'AIDS TO BIBLE STUDENTS.' A perfect 'armory' or promptuarium for the Teacher." TIMES.

EYRE & SPOTTISWOODE,
GREAT NEW STREET, LONDON.

Notes on Daily Readings.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 3.—GEN. XLIX.

THIS chapter contains the announcement by Jacob of what should befall his sons "in the last days." It is distinctly prophetic, and, as the expression "the last days" would seem to denote, points onwards to the days of the Messiah. This is the case undoubtedly with regard to Judah, and it may be so with some of the others also.

9.—"Judah is a lion's whelp: from the prey, my son, thou art gone up."—"The image is from the lion returning to the mountains after having devoured his prey. The standard of Judah was a lion, very probably derived from these words of Jacob." —Sp. Com. The spiritual meaning is best conveyed in the words of two texts: "That through death He might destroy him that had the power of death, that is, the devil" (Heb. ii. 14); "Thou art gone up on high: Thou hast led captivity captive" (Ps. lxviii. 18, P.B.V.)

10.—"Until Shiloh come; and unto him shall the gathering of the peoples be."—"All Jewish antiquity referred the prophecy to the Messiah. With the Jewish interpreters agree the whole body of Christian Fathers." The "Speaker's Commentary," which states this, discusses very fully the meaning of the word Shiloh, and condemning as utterly impossible one of the views in the margin of the R.V., that Shiloh stands for the name of a place, "till he come to Shiloh," regards as "far more probable" the rendering which regards Shiloh as a proper name, "signifying 'peace,' or 'the peacemaker;'" but between this and the view that it means "He to whom it belongs," or "He whose right it is," "in favour of which the authority of the Ancient Versions is all but overwhelming," it will not decide. Either sense would make "Shiloh" a most appropriate designation of the Messiah. In the concluding words of the verse, "Unto Him shall the gathering of the peoples be," "obedience" is now generally read instead of "gathering." The root of the word, according to Gesenius, denotes "veneration."

11.—"He washed his garments in wine, and his clothes in the blood of grapes."—Justin Martyr, in the second century, gives the following mystical meaning to these words. It "signified that He would wash those that believe in Him with his own blood. For the Holy Spirit called those who receive remission of sins through Him his garments; amongst whom He is always present in power, but will be manifestly present at his second coming."

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 4.—GEN. L.

2.—"The physicians embalmed Israel."—"It is interesting to notice the way in which the titles 'Jacob' and 'Israel' are introduced in the close of the Book of Genesis; as for example, 'One told Jacob, and said, Behold, thy son Joseph cometh unto thee: and Israel strengthened himself, and sat upon the bed' (xlviii. 2)."—C. H. M. The above instance of the introduction of the name "Israel" is, therefore, worthy of note. The physicans embalmed what to them was nothing more or less than a dead body, but it was the body of one who "as a prince had had power with God," and whose dying command, "bury me with my fathers," implied a sure and certain hope of resurrection.

4.—"Speak, I pray you, in the ears of Pharaoh, saying."—"It may seem at first sight strange that Joseph should make his request through mediators, but probably no one in the attire of mourning might enter the royal presence. (Comp. Esther iv. 2.) The dress of a mourner was squalid, his beard unshorn, his hair in disorder; and while these outward signs of grief were maintained, he was also expected to confine himself to his own house." —Dean Payne Smith.

15.—"Joseph will peradventure hate us."—"Their seventeen years in Egypt, and so long experience of Joseph's kindly conduct, have not been able to quiet their guilty conscience, and now it wakens up afresh on the occasion of their father's death; they knew what their cruel and unfeeling conduct to him had been, and they knew what it deserved, and they judge of Joseph by themselves. A harsh judgment! How hard for a selfish man to give another credit for generosity!" —C. Hargrove.

19.—"Fear not: for am I in the place of God?"—Commentators generally explain this as meaning, "Am I to act as judge and punish?" as judges are in Scripture called by the name of God as exercising his authority. It may, however, mean no more than a rebuke to their "falling down before his face," and if so is parallel to Rev. xix. 10, xxii. 8, or Acts x. 25, 26.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 5.—EXODUS I.

"In the Book of Exodus we have as the general and characteristic subject, the deliverance and redemption of the people of God and their establishment as a people before Him, whether under the law, or under the government of God, in long-suffering, of a God who provided for his unfaithful people a way of access to Himself, although they had failed."—J. N. Darby.

5.—"And all the souls that came out of the loins of Jacob were seventy souls."—"This number included Joseph, his two sons, and, by a mode of reckoning not uncommon, Jacob himself. See Gen. xlv. 11, xlvi. 27; Deut. x. 22. The object of the writer in this introductory statement is to give a complete list of the heads of separate families at the time of their settlement in Egypt."—Canon Cook.

12.—"The more they afflicted them, the more they multiplied and grew."—This principle, illustrated thus in the history of "Israel after the flesh," finds its highest fulfilment in the history of the Israel of God, as the New Testament, and, indeed, Church history, abundantly testify.

21.—"He made them houses."—"i.e., they married Hebrews, and became mothers in Israel. The expression is proverbial. See 2 Sam. vii. 11, 27." —Canon Cook.

22.—"Every son that is born ye shall cast into the river."—"The extreme cruelty of the measure does not involve improbability. Hatred of strangers was always a characteristic of the Egyptians (see Gen. xliii. 32), and was likely to be stronger than ever after the expulsion of an alien race. . . . The Spartans were even more guilty; they systematically murdered their Helots when their increased numbers excited alarm. On one occasion they slew 2000 who had offered themselves as volunteers at the invitation of the State."—Canon Cook.

SUNDAY, DECEMBER 6.—EXODUS II.

2.—"When she saw him that he was a goodly child, she hid him three months."—The motive which sustained her in this dangerous defiance of the king's commandment is stated in Heb. xi. 23: "By faith Moses, when he was born, was hid three months by his parents, because they saw he was a goodly child; and they were not afraid of the king's commandment."

3.—"An ark of bulrushes."—"The ark was made of the papyrus which was commonly used by the Egyptians for light and swift boats. It is a strong rush, like the bamboo, about the thickness of a finger."—Canon Cook.

10.—"He became her son."—"This expression leaves no doubt as to the formal adoption of Moses. He became a member of the royal household, where the training and education which he received would be such as described Acts vii. 22: he became 'learned in all the wisdom of the Egyptians.' There may be substantial grounds for the tradition in Josephus that he was engaged in a campaign against the Ethiopians, thus showing himself 'mighty in word and deed.'"—Ibid.

11.—"When Moses was grown, he went out unto his brethren, and looked upon their burdens."—The narrative here gives us the human side of Moses' conduct, and that not unmixed with evil. "The slaying of the Egyptians is not to be justified, or attributed to a Divine inspiration, which Moses would not have omitted to mention."—Sp. Com. Nevertheless there is another aspect of his conduct at this time presented to us in Heb. xi. 24, which shows what he gave up in thus identifying himself with "the people of God." "By faith Moses, when he was come to years, refused to be called the son of Pharaoh's daughter; choosing rather to suffer affliction with the people of God, than to enjoy the pleasures of sin for a season."

MONDAY, DECEMBER 7.—EXODUS III.

1.—"The mountain of God, even Horeb."—"Moses may naturally have given this name by anticipation, with reference to the manifestation of God (after the Exodus)."

2.—"The bush burned with fire, and the bush was not consumed."—The bush may represent Israel considered in itself, a sinful people, a prey to the consuming fire of Divine justice. The "flame of fire out of the midst of the bush" denotes God dwelling in their midst, as He was now about to do. The whole history of Israel is the fulfilment of the type thus set forth, and the voice of the last prophet records "the goodwill of Him that dwelt in the bush" (Deut. xxxiii. 16): "I am the Lord, I change not; therefore ye sons of Jacob are not consumed" (Mal. iii. 6). The key to this "great sight, why the bush is not burnt," is to be found in Heb. xii. 28, 29: "Let us have (margin, hold fast) grace whereby &c. . . . for our God is a consuming fire." Grace (or undeserved favour), secured in Christ Jesus, is the means whereby a holy God and sinful worms of the dust can be brought into close contact without destruction to the sinner. Others think the burning bush is a type of the incarnation—the Divine nature in the likeness of sinful flesh, and the flesh not consumed. The same command is given to Moses as was given to Joshua in the presence of the Captain of the Lord's host—"Take off thy shoes from off thy feet; for the place whereon thou standest is holy."

10.—"That thou mayest bring forth my people the children of Israel out of Egypt."—Moses is frightened by the "thou," and forgets the "my" which ensures success. This is the first time that the Lord uses these words "my people," which afterwards occur so frequently. Such an expression should have set all Moses' doubts and fears at rest.

14.—"I am that I am."—"That is, 'I am what I am.' The words express absolute and therefore unchanging and eternal Being. So they are understood by ancient and modern interpreters. To Moses and the Israelites this was an explanation of the name Jehovah which had been known from the beginning, but of which probably the meaning, certainly the full import, was not comprehended. The word 'I am' in Hebrew is equivalent in meaning to Jehovah, and differs from it very slightly in form."—Canon Cook.

22.—"Shall borrow."—The word is simply "shall ask," as in R.V., and does not imply any promise to restore.

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 8.—EXODUS IV.

3.—"It became a serpent."—"This miracle had a meaning which Moses could not mistake. This was the symbol of royal and Divine power on the diadem of every Pharaoh (the basilisk or cobra). The conversion of the rod was not merely a portent; it was a "sign," at once a pledge and representation of victory over the king and gods of Egypt."—Sp. Com.

6.—"His hand was leprous as snow."—A tacit rebuke was conveyed by this sign to Moses' want of faith. The rod in his hand had already been shown to be God's power engaged against the power of Egypt. Now, the hand of Moses, which wields this rod, is shown to be in itself (when put into the bosom and identified with himself) a poor leprous thing, incapable of any independent action. Thus the Lord both rebukes his servant's fear, and at the same time strengthens his faith, by taking him wholly out of self, and showing him that he is but an instrument in God's hands to accomplish his purposes.

14.—"And the anger of the Lord was kindled against Moses."—We may learn hereby how doubts and fears in face of the clear revelation of God's grace and power justly provoke his anger. It is not under such circumstances humility, but rather self-conceit which dwells on what self is: "O my Lord, I am not eloquent." Faith leaves self out of the reckoning altogether, and rests on "I will be with thy mouth."

20.—"The rod of God."—"The staff of Moses was consecrated by the miracle, and became the rod of God."—Sp. Com.

23.—"I will slay thy son, even thy firstborn."—The last and decisive stroke in God's controversy with Egypt is thus revealed at the very first.

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 9.—EXODUS V.

This chapter brings the history of Israel's misery in Egypt to the lowest possible depth, but it is only the extreme darkness of night before the coming dawn. The mission of Moses and Aaron asking for Israel's release but stirs up the pride and independence of Pharaoh's heart to assert itself in such fearful blasphemy as (ver. 2), "Who is the Lord, that I should obey his voice, to let Israel go? I know not the Lord, neither will I let Israel go."

10.—"I will not give you straw, ... yet not aught of your work shall be diminished."—The soul which is taught of God to know its own misery, has an experience akin to this when it sees the law demanding an obedience which it cannot yield, and yet affording not the slightest help or assistance "to fulfil the daily task." At such a time there is much temptation to use such language as Moses did in the very depth of despair. "Lord, wherefore hast thou so evil entreated this people? . . . . neither hast thou delivered thy people at all." This misery was, however, but a prelude to the glorious deliverance about to be effected, as it is in the case of every soul brought to know itself. "Weeping may endure for a night, but joy cometh in the morning." Of this the rich cluster of promises with which the next chapter opens gives a sure foretaste.

[For Forthcoming Meetings, Donation Lists, &c., see p. vii.]

JACKSON WRAY'S MAGAZINE.

"Good Company,"

PRICE TWOPENCE.

"Decidedly interesting."—Christian World.
"Wise and witty, not a dull line in it."—Sheffield Independent.

The First Volume of

GOOD COMPANY.

Elegantly bound in Cloth, price Three Shillings.
AN ADMIRABLE GIFT BOOK.
"Pithy and practical. Sound and wholesome."—Nonconformist.
"Will be welcome to every member of the family."
Literary World.

CHRISTMAS COMPANY.

Containing a Budget of Timely Talks, Stories, Poems, &c.
PRICE THREEPENCE.
J. Nisbet & Co., 21, Berners-street; and all Booksellers.

WANTED—A REST! Jackson's Wray's New Year's Message. Price Twopence. And THE GOOD COMPANY ALMANAC. Price One Penny. May be had at The Whitefield Book Depot, 37, Grafton-street, Tottenham Court-road, W.; and of Woodford Fawcett & Co., 8, New Bridge-street, E.C.

ARTICLES and ADDRESSES on IMPORTANT SUBJECTS.

In Small Books. Suitable for enclosing in Letters.

BY JAMES VAN SOMMER.

Price 6d. per Dozen; 3s. 6d. per 100.

REDEMPTION TWOFOLD.	6d. per Doz.
EXTEMPORE PRAYER.	6d. per Doz.
FAMILY PRAYERS.	6d. per Doz.
THE SCRIPTURE READING MEETING.	6d. per Doz.
CHRISTIAN VISITATION.	6d. per Doz.
PUBLIC ADDRESSES.	6d. per Doz.
SUNDAY.	6d. per Doz.
THE JUDGMENT-SEAT OF CHRIST.	6d. per Doz.

Price 1s. per Dozen; 7s. per 100.

PREACHING "THE KINGDOM OF GOD."	1s. per Doz.
PRAYER MEETINGS. Practical Suggestions.	1s. per Doz.
CATHOLIC CHRISTIANITY distinguished from Roman Catholic Christianity.	1s. per Doz.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

The Book Season,

1885-6.

VISITORS to London and Residents in the Metropolis are invited to visit the Book Saloon at 9, Paternoster-row, where they will find, conveniently arranged for inspection, one of the Largest and Choicest Collections of Evangelical and Temperance Literature.

The SALOON is open from 9 till 6;
SATURDAYS 9 till 2.

S. W. PARTRIDGE & CO., 9, Paternoster-row, London.

GEMS OF PRAISE.

THE HYMN-BOOK USED AT MR. HAMMOND'S MEETINGS.

A Choice Collection of HYMNS and TUNES, suitable for Gospel Services, Prayer Meetings, Christian Associations, Sabbath Schools, and Family Worship. Edited and Compiled by Rev. E. Payson Hammond, M.A.

MUSIC AND WORDS.

OLD NOTATION.	s. d.	TONIC SOLFA.	s. d.
Tinted Covers	1 0	Tinted Covers	1 0
Limp Cloth...	1 6
Toned Paper, Bevlld. Bds.	2 6	Limp Cloth	1 6

WORDS ONLY. Sewn, 1d.; Printed Cloth, 2d.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

By CAPTAIN DAWSON.

New Gift Book for Christmas and the New Year.

Communion and Conflict.
Thoughts on Life and Service. Very attractively bound in Vegetable Vellum, with Illustration. Price One Shilling. Post free.

Living and Working:
Or, Thoughts by the Way. A Packet of Six different small books, with picture covers. Price Sixpence. Post free.

Light and Life.
A packet of six different small Gospel books, with picture covers. Price Sixpence. Post free. These Packets are suitable for Distribution and Letters.

"These packets will be found useful and helpful to all who are living and working for Christ."—The Christian.

List of Other Books on Application.

NEW BOOK BY MISS MARSH.

A Child of the Morning.
Memorials of Little Emily. By the Author of "Memorials of Hedley Vicars," &c. Price 1s. post free.

APPROPRIATE PRESENT.

Songs of the Pilgrim Land.
By C. Pennefather, Author of "Follow Thou, Me," &c. Small 4to., cloth extra, 5s.

The Revealer Revealed.
The Manifestations of Christ to and in His Disciples. By Rev. W. H. M. H. Aitken, M.A. Crown 8vo., cloth extra, 3s.

Every-day Life;
or, The Uneventful Journey. By Rev. C. H. Waller, M.A., Author of "When Ye Pray," &c. Crown 8vo., 3s. 6d.

Faith and Unfaith:
Their Claims and Conflicts. By H. Sinclair Paterson, M.D., Author of "The Fourfold Life," &c. Crown 8vo., 3s. 6d.

CHOICE VOLUMES FOR SPARE MOMENTS.
(UNIFORM WITH THE PARCHMENT LIBRARY.)

In the Shadow of God.
Thoughts for Lonely Hours. By Rose Porter. 1s.

My Morning Word.
Counsel and Comfort for daily need. 1s.

Crosses and Crowns.
By H. Sinclair Paterson, M.D.

Between Times,
By Lady Hope. 1s.
"Beautiful without and within."—Daily Review.

The Guest-Chamber.
By Lady Hope. 1s.
"This delightful little book."—The Christian.

JUVENILE BOOKS.

"Messrs. John F. Shaw & Co., have issued a number of attractive books, which deserve a cordial welcome into every family."—The Christian, November 26th.

A Tangled Web.
A Tale of the Fifteenth Century. By Emily S. Holt. Large crown 8vo., gilt tops, 5s.

Oldham:
or, SOW BESIDE ALL WATERS. A quiet Story. By L. E. Guernsey, Author of "The Foster Sisters," &c. Large crown 8vo., gilt tops, 5s.

Her Husband's Home;
or, THE DURLEYS OF LINLEY CASTLE. By Evelyn Everett-Green, Author of "His Mother's Book," &c. Large crown 8vo., gilt tops, 5s.

Five Little Partridges; or, THE PILOT'S HOUSE. By Brenda, Author of "Froggy's Little Brother," "Nothing to Nobody," &c. With Illustrations by M. Irwin. Large crown 8vo., cloth extra, 3s. 6d.

On the Cliff;
or, ALICK'S NEIGHBOURS. By C. Shaw, Author of "Alick's Hero," &c. Large crown 8vo., gilt tops, 3s. 6d.

Five Minutes Too Late;
or, LESLIE HARCOURT'S RESOLVE. By Emily Brodie, Author of "Norman and Elsie," &c. Large crown 8vo., gilt tops, 3s. 6d.

The River Waif;
or, THE LUCK OF GODFREY'S WHARF. By Constance Cross, Author of "After Twenty Years" Large crown 8vo., gilt tops, 3s. 6d.

Worth the Winning.
By Emma E. Hornbrook, Author of "Judith the Slave," &c. Large crown 8vo., gilt tops, 3s. 6d.

Afloat.
By Mrs. Stanley Leathes, Author of "Inglenook Stories," "Jack and Jill," &c. Large crown 8vo., gilt tops, 3s. 6d.

Sent to Coventry;
or, THE BOYS OF HIGHBEECH. By M. L. Ridley, Author of "The Three Chums," &c. Large crown 8vo., gilt tops, 3s. 6d.

NEW DELIGHTS FOR THE CHILDREN.

Mother's and Mine;
or, HER STORIES WHILE I PAINT. Pictures by T. Pym, Stories by C. Shaw, Author of "Pretty Pictures," &c. Price 1s. Post free.

Busy Fingers and Listening Ears.
Sketches and Stories for Little Painters. Stories by C. Shaw, Pictures by T. Pym. Price 1s. Post free.

Something for Sunday.
New Series (the Fifth). Messages from Heaven. Smaller Outline Texts for Painting. Price 1s. Post free.

The Roll Text Almanack.
This unique Almanack has been welcomed each new year with increased appreciation of its special advantages. Price 1½d. each. Post free 2d. Quantities at reduced prices.

London: JOHN F. SHAW & CO., 48, Paternoster-row, E.C.

The Best and most suitable Present of the Season.

SONGS of the MASTER'S LOVE.

By FRANCES RIDLEY HAVERGAL.

Price Six Shillings.

A book of Poems on the Love of Jesus, with beautiful illuminated initial letters and choice sprays of flowers. Printed in twenty-two colours and gold. Size 8½ by 6½, with extra cloth cover, handsomely printed in five colours and gold and silver, gilt edges.

The Stationery Trade Journal says: "This is one of the prettiest and most charming of books we have ever seen. The printing is perfection."

James E. Hawkins, 17, Paternoster-row; and 36, Baker-street, W.

IN A FEW DAYS. PRICE 2s. 6d.

JOYFULLY READY. A Brief Memoir of Harry MacInnes.

BY HIS MOTHER.

WITH PORTRAIT AND ILLUSTRATIONS.

London: Seeley & Co., Essex-street, Strand, W.C.

"The Christian" ALMANACK.

NOW READY,
PRICE SIXPENCE.

WITH A

Striking Portrait of the late EARL OF SHAFTESBURY.

Beautifully Printed in Eleven Colours, similar to an Oil Painting.

Containing an appropriate and carefully-selected Scripture Text for Every Day in the Year. Each of the Twelve Months is surmounted by a Choice Pictorial Illustration, in Colour.

(Size of Sheet, 17 × 13½ inches.)

Copy of Letter from Mr. W. J. ORSMAN, Hon. Superintendent of the Golden Lane and Hoxton Costermongers' Christian Mission (of which the late Right Hon. the EARL OF SHAFTESBURY was the President):—

Milton House, Shacklewell Green, Hackney, E.,
October 30, 1885.

My Dear Sirs,

Many thanks for the advance copy of THE CHRISTIAN ALMANACK FOR 1886. It is a beautiful and useful work of art; and the likeness of the late Earl of Shaftesbury is EXCEEDINGLY GOOD. The coloured pictures surrounding the portrait, and the twelve cartoons of the season, add greatly to the value of the Almanack, which, I consider, is worthy of a place in every house and every workshop. I venture to hope that you will be able to supply 500 copies for our Mission.

I am, yours faithfully,
W. J. ORSMAN.

"Messrs. Morgan & Scott forward us a copy of 'The Christian' Almanack for 1886, the prominent feature of which is a striking and beautifully-executed portrait of the late Earl of Shaftesbury. IT IS DECIDEDLY THE BEST PORTRAIT OF HIS LORDSHIP WE HAVE SEEN. There are also representations of the Costermongers' Hall, Hoxton; the Field-lane Ragged School; St. Giles' House, Cranborne; and of 'Coster Jack,' the donkey presented to his lordship by the costermongers of London."—Bournemouth Directory.

"Messrs. Morgan & Scott have brought out in their Almanack for the coming year a STRIKING AND BEAUTIFULLY EXECUTED PORTRAIT OF THE LATE EARL OF SHAFTESBURY, which we feel sure will be heartily welcomed. In addition to the portrait, there are pictures of the different homes and ragged schools in which Lord Shaftesbury took so much interest. The printing and illuminating are remarkably good. Price sixpence. Can be had of Simson & Co., Hertford."—Hertford Record.

"Messrs. Morgan & Scott have sent us a copy of 'The Christian' Almanack for 1886, exceedingly well printed in colours. Its centre contains A CAPITALLY EXECUTED PORTRAIT OF THE LATE EARL OF SHAFTESBURY, surrounded by illustrations depicting scenes in connection with the philanthropic labours of his life; under which is a tabulated record of some of the more important of his actions, and an extract from his speech on the 'Ten Hours' Bill,' made May 10, 1841. Each month is headed with a chaste illustration, and each day has a scriptural text put against it."

County of Middlesex Independent.

"'The Christian' Almanack, published by Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings, is an artistically coloured sheet, the central figure being a strikingly lifelike portrait of the late Earl of Shaftesbury, surrounding which are views of the public buildings to assist the poor in whom he took so great an interest."

Folkestone Witness.

"We have just received from Messrs. Morgan & Scott a VERY BEAUTIFUL ALMANACK with the portrait of the late Earl of Shaftesbury, which we feel sure will be appreciated by all our readers. It is already well known that the Earl of Shaftesbury's career as a philanthropist is, perhaps, the most noteworthy on record. For eleven years—from 1833 to 1844—he fought the battle of the people in connection with the Ten Hours' Bill and the Factory Acts, until he had achieved victory all along the line. Besides these he took a deep interest in the moral and spiritual welfare of the English poor, and also in mission work in China and British India. THE ALMANACK IS WELL FINISHED, AND CANNOT FAIL BUT MEET WITH THE APPROVAL OF OUR READERS."

Denton and Haughton Advertiser.

"Messrs. Morgan & Scott have issued one of the most beautiful sheet almanacks produced this season. It is a splendid specimen of colour printing, and is adorned with a LARGE AND STRIKING LIKENESS OF THE LATE EARL OF SHAFTESBURY."—Dewsbury Reporter.

"THE CHRISTIAN ALMANACK for 1886, amidst the almost endless number of Almanacks, will certainly take a favourite place. The whole get-up of the sheet is really handsome, and the great charm in tens of thousands of households will be the really excellent likeness of the late Lord Shaftesbury. The portrait is in colours, and is a VERY PERFECT SPECIMEN OF THE ART OF PRINTING IN COLOURS."—Isle of Wight Advertiser.

"Messrs. Morgan & Scott's Almanack for 1886 is beautifully printed in colours, and embellished with a striking and artistically excellent portrait of the late Earl of Shaftesbury, which is accompanied by a concise and interesting memoir of the deceased philanthropist, and will doubtless attract many thousands of purchasers. It is worthy of framing, and of a place in any office, place of business, or residence."—Deal Telegraph.

"Messrs. Morgan & Scott have issued a beautiful sheet Almanack for 1886, which may well be called the 'Shaftesbury' Almanack. In the centre is a STRIKING AND BEAUTIFULLY EXECUTED portrait of the noble philanthropist, surrounded with flowers. There are also miniature views of the various institutions and incidents with which the late Earl was associated. In the calendar portion each month has an emblematical picture nicely designed and executed. Altogether the Almanack is a work of art and is cheap at sixpence."

Weald of Kent News.

"The Christian Almanack for 1886 contains an excellent coloured portrait of the late Earl of Shaftesbury. Not only is the portrait A STRIKING LIKENESS of the great philanthropist, but THE ALMANACK AS A WHOLE IS A WORK OF ART, and reflects credit on the eminent firm by whom it has been issued."—Jarrow Guardian.

"The Christian Almanack for 1886 is a fine production. It is a convenient size for framing, and apart from the fact that THE GENERAL DESIGN OF THE ALMANACK IS PLEASING TO THE EYE, the coloured portrait of the late Lord Shaftesbury, which occupies the centre of the sheet, will ensure it a place in many homes."

Wanstead Express.

"The Christian Almanack for 1886 contains a beautifully executed and striking portrait of the late and good Earl of Shaftesbury, and scenes from his life, which will be highly prized by all who have read and heard of the good work done by this true Christian man, who 'lived for the nation and for God.' THE CHRISTIAN ALMANACK IS A PERFECT GEM OF ARTISTIC FINISH."—Alloa Circular.

"The Christian Almanack for 1886 is one of the brightest and most interesting we have seen. Colour prevails; but it is harmonious and in good taste. The centre is an ADMIRABLE LIKENESS OF THE GOOD LORD SHAFTESBURY, and the oval frame in which it is set is surrounded by some of the best known practical results of his philanthropy. The headings to each month are pretty. Need we add that the daily texts are suitable and easily remembered? We congratulate Messrs. Morgan and Scott on their Almanack."—Cornishman.

PUBLISHED BY MORGAN & SCOTT,
12, PATERNOSTER BUILDINGS, LONDON, E.C.

AMERICAN APPLES.

AND OTHER FRUITS AT

WHOLESALE PRICES.

DIRECT IMPORTATION. — THE FAMOUS AMERICAN BALDWINS, NEW TOWN PIPPINS, OR RUSSETS, the finest Apples in the world, both for dessert and cooking purposes. Barrels containing four bushels, sent, carriage paid, for 18s. 6d. (about 1d. per lb.), a'so Two Bushel Barrels, 10s. 6d., and One Bushel Baskets. 5s. 9d. Cash on Delivery. Will keep These Apples are retailed at 4d and 6d. per lb. Oranges, Grapes, Pineapples, Nuts, Bananas, Melons, and all other fruits, equally low prices. Price List post free —THE DIRECT SUPPLY COMPANY, 21, Customs Chambers, St Dunstan's-hill, London, E.C. Prices of Turkeys and Geese, post free on application.

AMERICAN BREAKFAST CEREALS
ABC

A B C WHITE WHEAT.
A B C WHITE OATS.
A B C BARLEY FOOD.
A B C YELLOW MAIZE.

The Purest, most Nutritious and Health-giving Foods in the World. Hulled, crushed, steam-cooked and desiccated. Ready for table in ten minutes.

Sold by Grocers, &c.

A Delicious Breakfast at little cost.

Ask for the A B C Brand.

Particulars of B. LAMPE, 44, Great Tower-st., E.C.

NON-FLUCTUATING SECURITIES.
Six per Cent. First Mortgage Real Estate Bonds

THE ANGLO-AMERICAN LOAN AND INVESTMENT CO.,

WICHITA, KANSAS, U.S.A.
Capital, 250,000 dols.

Sir Edward S. Hutchinson, Bart, President.
Joseph S. Smithson, Vice-President.

These Bonds are secured by Farm Lands in the best agricultural State in America. The interest, which is guaranteed and collected by the Company, is payable Half-Yearly at

The Bank of Ireland, Dublin, or
The Alliance Bank, Limited, London.

American Bankers—
Metropolitan National Bank, Chicago, and
The Wichita National Bank, Wichita.

Address—HENRY ANDERSON,
Managing Director
(Late Bank of Ireland),
WICHITA, KANSAS.

Intending Emigrants and parties desiring to invest in Real Estate should correspond with us.

WORKS by D. L. MOODY.

BIBLE CHARACTERS.

Tinted Covers, 1s. Cloth Limp, 1s. 6d.
Cloth Boards, 2s. 6d.

CONTENTS.

Daniel the Prophet.
Enoch.
Lot.
Jacob.
John the Baptist.
The Blind Man,
AND
Joseph of Arimathea.

"Many valuable lessons are here drawn from the old-time stories of the Bible, and urged in plain and vigorous language upon the men and women of to-day."—Primitive Methodist.

POWER FROM ON HIGH;

Or, The Secret of Success in Christian Life and Christian Work.

Tinted Covers, 1s. Limp Cloth, 1s. 6d.

Cloth Boards, 2s. 6d.

"We urge every reader to forthwith possess the book, and diligently study its contents; which, we believe, will contribute, under God, to an increase of power in their souls and in their service."
Footsteps of Truth.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

PRICE SIXPENCE. FIFTY-NINE PAGES.

REBECCA JARRETT.

By JOSEPHINE BUTLER.

British Women's Temperance Journal, December, says:—"This little book has been sent us for review. It is one which should be read by all who desire to know the truth about the recent trial at the Old Bailey. Feelings of respect and sympathy cannot fail to be called forth towards one so earnest-hearted and devoted as the writer."

Methodist Times, November 26, says:—"We beg our readers to purchase, at once, the little book which Mrs. Josephine Butler has just issued, entitled 'Rebecca Jarrett.' It places Rebecca Jarrett in quite a new light, and brings out the real character of the recent trial more clearly and fully than it has ever been brought out by anybody else."

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings, E.C.; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

BOOK OF 441 HYMNS FOR ONE PENNY.

SACRED * SONGS * AND * SOLOS.

Sung by IRA D. SANKEY.

SUITABLE FOR

CONGREGATIONS, MISSION SERVICES, | SABBATH SCHOOLS, EVANGELISTIC MEETINGS, | OPEN-AIR SERVICES, ANNIVERSARY SERVICES, &c.

A Specimen Copy of either Edition will be forwarded post free on receipt of published price.

MUSIC AND WORDS.

			s.	d.
1 F.	OLD NOTATION	Tinted Covers	2	6
2 F.	Ditto	Limp Cloth	3	6
3 F.	Ditto	Cloth Boards	4	6
4 F.	Ditto	Do. Gilt Edges	5	0
5 F.	Ditto	Morocco do.	8	6
6 F.	Ditto	Do. flexible, kid-lined, Gilt Edges	12	6
7 F.	Ditto	Seal yapped, kid-lined, silk sewn	21	0
1 G.	TONIC SOL-FA	Tinted Covers	2	6
2 G.	Ditto	Limp Cloth	3	6
3 G.	Ditto	Cloth Boards	4	6
4 G.	Ditto	Do. Gilt Edges	5	0
5 G.	Ditto	Morocco do.	8	6

CHEAPER EDITIONS.

			s.	d.
1 H.	OLD NOTATION	Tinted Covers	1	6
2 H.	Ditto	Limp Cloth	2	0
3 H.	Ditto	Cloth Boards	2	6
4 H.	Ditto	Morocco, Gilt Edges	5	6
5 H.	Ditto	Do. flexible, kid-lined, Gilt Edges	8	6
1 R.	TONIC SOL-FA	Tinted Covers	1	6
2 R.	Ditto	Limp Cloth	2	0
3 R.	Ditto	Cloth Boards	2	6

WORDS ONLY.

			s.	d.
1 A.	RUBY ED.	Sewed	0	1½
1½ A.	Ditto	Paste-down Covers	0	1
2 A.	Ditto	Printed Cloth	0	2
1 B.	NONPAREIL ED.	Tinted Covers	0	3
2 B.	Ditto	Printed Cloth	0	4
1 C.	MEDIUM TYPE	Limp Cloth	0	6
2 C.	Ditto	Cloth Boards	1	0
3 C.	Ditto	Morocco, Gilt Edges	2	6
4 C.	Ditto	Do. flexible, kid-lined	4	6
1 D.	FOOLSCAP 8vo ED.	Tinted Covers	1	0
2 D.	Ditto	Cloth Limp	1	6
3 D.	Ditto	Cloth Boards	2	0
4 D.	Ditto	Morocco, Gilt Edges	4	6
7 D.	Special Cheap Ed.	(Reduced size) Blocked Cloth	0	9
1 E.	EX. LARGE TYPE	Tinted Covers	1	6
2 E.	Ditto	Limp Cloth	2	0
3 E.	Ditto	Cloth Boards	2	6
4 E.	Ditto	Morocco, Gilt Edges	5	6
5 E.	Ditto	Morocco, flexible, kid-lined	8	6
7 E.	Special Cheap Ed.	(Reduced size) Tinted Covers	1	0
8 E.	Ditto	Do. Blocked Cloth	1	6
9 E.	Ditto	Do. Morocco, Gilt Edges	4	6
10 E.	Ditto	Do. Morocco, flexible, kid-lined	6	6

QUARTO EDITION (FOR PIANO, HARMONIUM, OR ORGAN).

	s.	d.
Handsomely Bound in Cloth Extra, Bevelled Boards, Gilt Edges	16	6
Elegantly Bound in Morocco, Gilt Edges	30	0

A detailed Price List of "SACRED SONGS AND SOLOS," giving Specimens of the Types of all the various Editions, may be had on application.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings; and may be ordered of any Bookseller or Musicseller.

RIPPINGILLE'S

PATENT PRIZE MEDAL

OIL WARMING STOVES.

The cheapest and most effective means known for warming Greenhouses, Offices, Shops, Bedrooms, Studies, Halls, Landings, &c., and for keeping out frost and damp from apartments of every description.

Odourless, Smokeless, Portable, Safe, and Cleanly.

They require no pipes or fittings, give off no injurious vapour to either vegetable or animal life, will burn from twelve to twenty-four hours without alteration, and for comfort, efficiency, economy, and utility are unsurpassed.

They have received the Highest Awards wherever exhibited, proving them

THE BEST OIL STOVES IN THE WORLD.

Prices from a few shillings Sold by all Ironmongers and Lamp Dealers. Ask for RIPPINGILLE'S PATENT, and take no other. Full Illustrated List, and name of nearest Agent, forwarded free on application to the Sole Manufacturers—

The ALBION LAMP CO., Aston Brook, BIRMINGHAM.

C. F. CARPENTER'S HEALTH RESORT, BISHOP'S TEIGNTON, SOUTH DEVON.

ONE OF THE LOVELIEST SPOTS IN SOUTH DEVON.

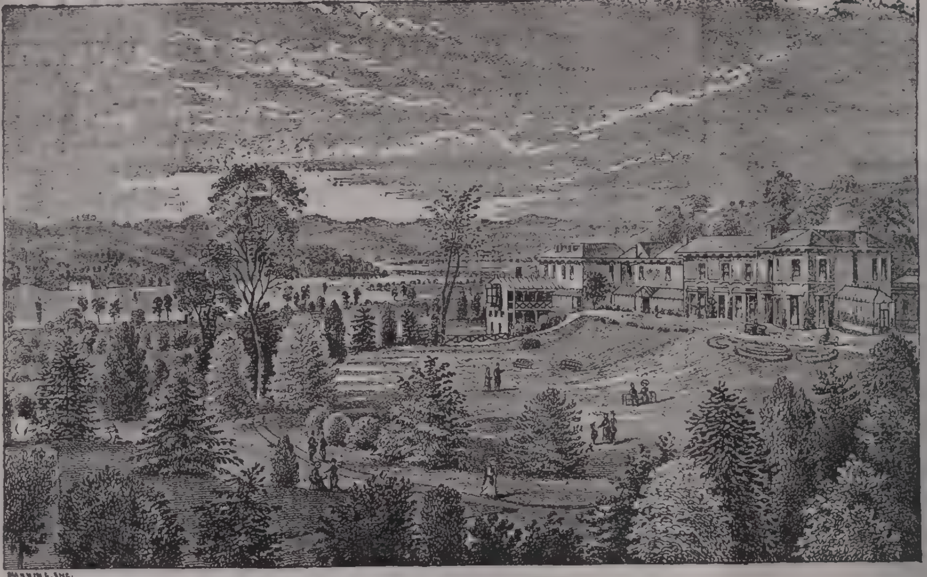
EXTRACT FROM TESTIMONIALS.

Vicarage,
Bishop's Teignton.

"As Vicar of the parish in which Mr. Carpenter's Health Resort is situated, I am able from personal knowledge to bear testimony to the high respectability and Christian character of its proprietor, and to the successful and satisfactory manner in which he has conducted the establishment from its commencement to the present time.

"It gives me, therefore, much pleasure to recommend this establishment to all who are seeking either a pleasant and healthy place of séjour, or a system of careful treatment for the recovery of health."

"W. R. OGLE, M.A."



VIEW FROM THE TERRACE AND GROUNDS, LOOKING SOUTH.

Regent's-park-road,
London.

"During my visit to you in January and February, I was very strongly impressed by the advantages offered by your Health Resort to persons in delicate health, or to those needing rest and change."

"W. B. CARPENTER, C.B., F.R.S., &c."

Sea and Moorland Air.

Extensive Private Grounds.

Lawn Tennis.

Delightful Drives.

Carriage and pair kept for the use of Visitors.

A FIRST-CLASS SUITE OF BATHS (INCLUDING TURKISH) UNDER MEDICAL SUPERVISION.

ON

CONSUMPTION,

CHRONIC BRONCHITIS,

AND ALL OTHER

CHEST DISEASES.

READ

MR. CONGREVE'S NEW WORK,

SIXPENCE, POST FREE,
Or LARGE EDITION (cloth) for 1s. 3d.

FIFTEENTH SERIES

OF WEEKLY CASES.

NOTICE TO THE READERS OF "The Christian," WHO MAY BE personally or relatively INTERESTED IN THIS MATTER.

Mr. Congreve will give ONE RECENT CASE, NOT PUBLISHED BEFORE, in this Journal EVERY WEEK.

CASE FOR THIS WEEK.

PHTHISIS.

CASE of Mr. GEO. BOURNE.

This patient, formerly a grocer, residing now at Hanwell, came to Coombe Lodge in July of last year. On examination, "Incipient phthisis, the upper lobe of right lung affected." His father had died of the disease.

The health of this patient had broken down six months before coming to me. He had taken a small quantity of my medicine in March, and derived some benefit; was now exhorted to persevere, also to use a liniment freely where pains were felt (over the apex of the right lung).

In June last I received a letter from him, from which the following is an extract: "It is some months since I took the last of your excellent balsam, and I think it my duty to tell you how thankful I am to my Maker and yourself for the healing of my disease. Your medicine arrested the dreadful work in my right lung. A doctor down here has thoroughly examined my lungs, and pronounced me perfectly sound. May you receive an exceeding great reward from Him who has said, 'Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of these, ye have done it unto Me.' Make what use you like of this letter."—G. BOURNE, Hastings Villa, St. Mark's-road, HANWELL.

NOTE.—Days of Consultation.—TUESDAY, THURSDAY, and SATURDAY MORNINGS ONLY, at Coombe Lodge, Peckham. Patients from any long distance should choose either of the two former days. Everyone is expected to have seen the book first.

Bona-fide Direct Shopping.

Richard Ecroyd

A Plain Statement of Fact

Manufactures at his Mills, Shipley, near Bradford,

Beautiful Dress Fabrics

ALL-WOOL CASHMERES: Brilliant Finish, Superb Dye, Choice Colours, 38 in. to 46 in. wide, All Wool, 1s. 11½d. to 3s. 7d. per yard. FOULE SERGES: 24 in. to 27 in. wide, 9d. to 1s. 7d. MERINOES: Blacks and Colours, 42 in. to 46 in. wide, 2s. 2d. to 6s. per yard. BEIGES: 24 in. to 26 in. wide, 11½d. to 1s. 4d. NUNS' VEILINGS: Printed—lovely Patterns, 22 in. to 25 in. wide, 10d. to 1s. 3d. per yard. ALL-WOOL (Double Width) SERGES, for Hard Wear, for Tourists, Travellers, Seaside, Yachting, 44 in. to 47 in. wide, 1s. 7d. to 2s. 7½d. per yard. OTTOMAN CLOTHS, ESTAMINES, SATEENS, &c

RICHARD ECROYD SELLS DIRECT

To the PUBLIC through his NEW RETAIL ESTABLISHMENTS:

BIRMINGHAM ...... 135, New-street.
LEEDS .... 9, Bond-street.
DERBY .... 18, Wardwick.
LIVERPOOL .... 47, Bold-street.
SHEFFIELD .... 29, High-street.
EDINBURGH ...... 114, George-street.
MANCHESTER ...... 104, Deansgate.
NOTTINGHAM .... 13, Market-street.
GLASGOW ...... 255, Sauchiehall-street.

ANY LENGTH CUT. Carriage Paid on Parcels of 20s. value and upwards.

LADIES ARE INVITED to call and inspect the Goods or to write for Patterns. RICHARD ECROYD'S system of business is based upon straightforward dealing, and the absence of extravagant pretences. Silk Goods shall be all silk—Wool Fabrics shall be all wool. "WEAR IS THE TRUE TEST OF VALUE." If you prefer to send direct to the Mills, do so, and a FULL SET OF PATTERNS and all particulars shall be sent you. The address is, RICHARD ECROYD, Charlestown Mills, SHIPLEY, near Bradford.

EPILEPTIC FITS!

ALL PERSONS SUFFERING FROM EPILEPSY should SEND Name and Address to JAMES OSBORNE, MEDICAL PHARMACY, ASHBOURNE, who will forward, free of charge, full particulars (with Testimonials) of the most successful remedy ever discovered for this distressing malady. Reference permitted to the Rev. J. BAKER, M.A., 254, Plymouth-grove, Manchester.

INTERNATIONAL INVENTIONS EXHIBITION, 1885.

EASY PROFITS.

APPLY to RIDDLE & COUCHMAN for Special Terms for their Popular Exhibition Series of SHILLING PORTRAITS OF POLITICAL AND OTHER CELEBRITIES, Lithographed in the style of Steel Engravings, Size, 18 by 24 ins., by which large Profits may be made.

22, SOUTHWARK BRIDGE ROAD, LONDON, S.E.

TWENTY-TWO PRIZE MEDALS AWARDED TO THE FIRM.

FRY'S

Pure Concentrated

COCOA

FRY'S
PURE
COCOA

Prepared by a new and special scientific process securing extreme solubility, and developing the finest flavour of the Cocoa.—"It is especially adapted to those whose digestive organs are weak, and I strongly recommend it as a substitute for tea for young persons."—Sir Chas. A. Cameron, President Royal College of Surgeons, Ireland, &c.

"The Christian" will be sent by the Publishers post-free to any address in the United Kingdom, for 12 months, for 6s. 10d., including Double Numbers.
"The Christian" (weekly) and the HERALD OF MERCY (monthly) will be sent to the United States or Canada, for 12 months, for $2, which may be remitted by a Two-Dollar Bill.

The Christian.

December 3, 1885.

CONTENTS.

Mr. W. J. Orsman (With Portrait). 1
Winter's Cry in East London 2
Burmah.—1.
Mr. Henry Soltau 2
Exeter Hall 3
The Blessed Life.
Rev. Mark Guy Pearse 4
Gospel Work in Kentucky 4
Humiliation and Prayer 5
Pastoral Work in China 6
Medical Prayer Union 6
Spiritual Famine in India 6
For the Young 7
The Sea and its Sailors 7
An American Evangelist 8
Mr. Hammond in London 8
Philanthropic Abduction.
Dr. Barnardo 9
The Ratcliff "Bridge of Hope" ..10
Answered Prayer 11
A Testimony 11
Poetry—A New Year's Wish 11
American Notes 11
Notes and Comments 12
Evangelistic Notes 13
The Bible in Foreign Prisons.
Mr. Charles Cook 14
Temperance Notes 14
The Present Moral Crisis.—3.
Miss Ellice Hopkins 15
Rescue Work 15
Letters on the Moral Crisis 16
Mrs. Jeffries and the Home Office ..16
Life in Palestine 16
Letters to the Editor 17
Notes on Daily Readings 20

MILDMAY AND OTHER CHRISTMAS & NEW YEAR CARDS

PUBLISHED BY

JAMES E. HAWKINS, 17, Paternoster Row, & 36, Baker St.

"For richness of colouring, beauty of design, and general artistic merit, it would be hard to excel them."—The Christian.

SELECTION FROM CATALOGUE.

Price 2s. Packet No. 129.

TREASURES OF THE SNOW. Six Cards, by E. St. B. Holland, being a New Series of Alpine Flowers, with botanical names, on Ivory-grained card (Mildmay).

Price 2s. Packet No. 130.

SONGS OF TRIUMPH. Four Cards, about 6 in. square, by A. Schlienz, with designs of berries on grained card, octagonal borders in grey and gold; very novel and bright (Mildmay).

Price 2s. Packet No. 137.

THE GOODNESS OF THE LORD. A Series of Six pretty four-fold Screens, in ornamental wrapper.

Price 3s. Packet No. 143.

UNCHANGING LOVE. A Series of Six beautifully printed floral wreaths.

Price 3s. Packet No. 151.

THE FATHER'S LOVE. A Series of Six Chromos, illustrating Swiss scenery.

Price 2s. Packet No. 156.

THE LORD OUR KING. A Series of Six Waterfall scenes, in ornamental wrapper.

Price 2s. Packet No. 128.

PEACE IN BELIEVING. A pretty Series of Eight Cards, with choice designs of Primroses and early Spring Flowers. In ornamental wrapper.

Price 1s. Packet No. 132.

MY STRENGTH AND MY SONG. A Series of Twelve Cards, in ornamental wrapper, designs of birds and landscape, by E. St. B. Holland (Mildmay).

FULL LIST SENT FREE ON APPLICATION.

London: James E. Hawkins, 36, Baker-street, W.; and 17, Paternoster-row, E C.

LONDON BIBLE AND BOOK SALOON,

14, PATERNOSTER ROW, LONDON, E.C.

New Publications, Almanacks, &c., Season 1885-6.

MR. ALFRED HOLNESS is pleased to announce that he has now on sale a Choice Selection of Cards and Beautifully Executed Hand-painted Designs for the present Season. The assortment of Christmas and New Year Cards comprises fully 2000 different subjects, the productions of the best Publishers and Artists, and includes the "Mildmay" and "Peniel" Series, New Designs by the Baroness Elga von Cramm, E. St. B. Holland, Miss Schlienz, and many others. An early inspection is respectfully invited.

A Special Selection of Framed Texts and Hand-painted Designs. Discount allowed off Bibles, Books, and Cards. Illustrated List upon application. The Trade supplied on Liberal Terms.

THE "SEARCH AND SEE" ALMANAC AND TEXT BOOK FOR OLD AND YOUNG for 1886 (Illustrated). Price One Halfpenny; 2 dozen, post free, for 1s.; or 3s. 6d. per 100, post free. Prizes are offered to the young readers of this Almanack, to encourage Bible Study.

THE BELIEVER'S ALMANAC: Christian Remembrancer for 1886. Price 1d., 5 copies post free; cloth, interleaved, gilt edges, price 6d. post free.

"FAITHFUL WORDS" ALMANACK FOR 1886. First Edition of eighty-five thousand. Price One Penny. This Almanack is issued in an enlarged form, so as to admit of the texts for each day being in much bolder type. The sheet contains various illustrations, the centre one being a large and very striking engraving of an Eastern Shepherd. There are also nine other beautiful illustrations.

THE "GOLDEN TEXT CALENDAR" FOR 1886. For Home, Office, or Workshop. Price 1s. post free. With Daily Scriptures specially and carefully selected.

"We have all this year been using a "Golden Text Calendar," and have been much struck by the very choice selection of Texts; they have often been 'a word in season.'"—Extract from Letter.

SELECT PACKETS OF CARDS FOR THE SEASON.

1. HOLY MEMORIES. Six Chaste Designs, with original verses by Y. E. T. Price 1s. Packet A.—Christmas. Packet B.—New Year.
2. MIZPAH MESSAGES. Six Designs of White Roses, with original verses by Y. E. T. Price 1s. Packet A.—Christmas. Packet B.—New Year.
3. CHRISTIAN WARFARE. A Packet of Twelve Text Cards, with banners, very beautiful. Price 1s. Packet A.—Christmas. Packet B.—New Year.
4. 'NEATH EASTERN SKIES. Six Designs of Celebrated Places in the East, with original verses and greetings by Y. E. T. Price 1s. 6d. Packet A.—Christmas. Packet B.—New Year.
5. ECHOES FROM BETHLEHEM. Six Designs of White Flowers, with original verses by Y. E. T. Price 1s. 6d. Packet A.—Christmas. Packet B.—New Year.
6. THE DAWN OF LIGHT. Six Floral Designs, with original verses. Price 1s. 6d. Packet A.—Christmas. Packet B.—New Year.
7. A CARILLON. Six Designs of Wild Flowers with Landscapes, with original verses. Price 1s. 6d. Packet A.—Christmas. Packet B.—New Year.

One each of the above—14 Packets in all, value 18s.—for 13s. 6d., post free, from "The London Bible and Book Saloon only.

London: Alfred Holness, 14, Paternoster-row; Glasgow: R. L. Allan, 143, Sauchiehall-street.

And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

Hodder & Stoughton's List

This Day, handsomely bound, 3s. 6d.

BIBLE CONQUESTS.

IN MANY LANDS.

Striking Experiences of Distributors and Pioneers.

Now Ready, price 3s. 6d., a New Edition of

DR. CUYLER'S POINTED PAPERS for the Christian Life. A Guide for the Christian Life, from the Soul's first step towards Jesus Christ, to its final home-coming into heaven.

By the same Author.

GOD'S LIGHT on DARK CLOUDS. Words of Sympathy and Cheer for the Despondent and Bereaved. 1s. 6d.

Miss Hack's New Book.

This day, handsomely bound, 5s.

FAITHFUL SERVICE.

Sketches of Christian Women.

By MARY PRIOR HACK,

Author of "Consecrated Women," &c.

A Book for Every Christian Household.

New Edition, revised and enlarged, 400 pp., 5s.

SUNDAY READINGS FOR A YEAR: Comprising Brief Expositions on 280 Scripture Titles and Symbols of Christ. By James Large.

Dr. Macleod's Addresses to Children.

"As a preacher to children Dr. Macleod has perhaps no living equal."—Christian.

I.

The Children's Portion. By Alex. Macleod, D.D. Price 5s., handsomely bound.

II.

Talking to the Children. Tenth Edition. Handsomely bound, 3s. 6d.

III.

The Gentle Heart. A Second Series of "Talking to the Children." Handsomely bound, 3s. 6d.

London: Hodder & Stoughton, 27, Paternoster-row.

NEW YEAR MOTTO CARDS.

With Original Verses by GEORGIANA M. TAYLOR,
Author of "Oh, to be Nothing!"

"MY EXPECTATION IS FROM HIM."

A MOTTO FOR 1886.

Neatly printed, with ribbon loop for hanging up, 1s. 2d. per dozen, post free; also on Leaflets 1s. 1d. per 100. Or with other Motto Hymns by the same author, in assorted packets, same prices. Specially suited for distributions in Bible Classes, Christian Associations, &c.

Also by the same Author, lines entitled,

"CONSIDER!"

A WATCHWORD FOR THE NEW YEAR.

On large cards, printed in extra-sized type (for hanging up), price 1s. 8d. (post free) per packet of Six. Uniform with the above, at same price,

OUR HAPPY HOME.
THINK AND THANK.
"WE WALK BY FAITH, NOT BY SIGHT."

Also on tinted cards, gilt, lines entitled, "My Heart's Desire for Thee," and "Heartfelt Wishes;" both suitable for Christmas. Price 1s. 1d. per packet.

To be had only from G. M. T., Young Women's Christian Association, 14, Regent-street, Leamington.

Just published, Crown 8vo., cloth extra, 5s.; gilt edges, 6s.

The Prophet of Glory;

Or, Zechariah's Visions of the Coming and Kingdom of Christ.

By J. DENHAM SMITH.

James E. Hawkins,
36, Baker-street, W.; and 17, Paternoster row, E.C.

GEORGE YARD RAGGED SCHOOLS, &c., Whitechapel, E.

Received with many thanks from L. E. W. 2s. 6d. and Clothing.

A. K.—"Parcels of food" will be acceptable. No really hungry child is allowed to go without a meal, and when possible the destitute are clothed.

The Infant Day Nursery. Free Ragged Day Schools. Week Evening and Sunday Classes for Rough Boys. Toy Classes. Work amongst Little Girls. Meetings and Classes for Elder Girls and Young Women. Bible Classes for Lads. Mission to Inebriate Women. Mothers' Meetings. Bible Classes for Men. Gospel Temperance Meetings. Sewing Class for Poor Women. Evangelistic Services, &c.

Friends are invited to visit the Institution any day but Saturday.

Post-office Orders should be made payable at 66, High-street, Whitechapel, E. Letters and parcels should be addressed to George Holland, The Ragged Schools, George-yard, High-street, Whitechapel, London, E.

LAMB AND FLAG RAGGED SCHOOL AND MISSION,

10, Red Lion-street, Clerkenwell, E.C.

The many calls daily made on Christian benevolence have for some years kept me silent, but the time has now come when I must ask for help.

Larger premises are absolutely required for the increased work of this School and Mission, and I cannot, without making the facts known, continue to turn away from our doors the many boys and girls who are eagerly seeking admission, at the dangerous age of 14 and upwards. Will some of those who are blessed with means help me to raise £1,500? This would provide the accommodation needed to gather in the wanderers.

The Lamb and Flag Ragged School has taken for the sixth year consecutively, the largest number of prizes for long service and good conduct at the hands of the Ragged School Union.

Contributions will be thankfully received by J. C. Sherrard, Hon. Director and Treasurer, 7, Oxf[illegible] Hyde-[illegible]

THE BENEVOLENT OR STRANGERS' FRIEND SOCIETY.

Treasurer, Ald Sir R. N. Fowler, Bart., M.P.
J. H. Anderson, Esq., Chairman.
Clarence Smith, Esq., J.P., Hon. Secretary.

For one hundred years this Institution has visited and relieved the destitute sick, by an entirely unpaid agency, consisting of over 280 Christian men and women.

Funds are urgently needed.

The Committee will be thankful for the Society being remembered in the testamentary arrangements of the benevolent.—Office of the Society, 52, Finsbury-pavement, E.C.

THE COMMITTEE of the Ladies' Samaritan Society of the National Hospital for the Paralysed and Epileptic, 25, Queen's-square, Bloomsbury, earnestly plead for contributions in aid of the poorer patients and their families. The smallest gifts in money or clothing will be thankfully acknowledged by the Committee. Old coats and [illegible] much needed.

LATIMER ROAD MISSION.—Infant Day Nursery. Boys' and Girls' Evening Shelters.—An earnest cry for help from the West.—The funds of this Mission are so low that the Committee are compelled to ask for Help. Sunday Schools, Night Schools, Gospel Preaching, Youths' Institute, Bands of Hope, Mothers' Meetings, are a few of the various agencies.—Aulay Macaulay, Hon. Sec., Blechynden-street, Notting-hill, W. Gifts in kind are always welcome.

THE GENERAL ELECTION AND THE LORD'S DAY.—The Committee of the Lord's Day Society appeal for Funds. The crisis is great. The work is great. Help the Committee to enlighten public opinion, and to influence the Elections in favour of the holy Rest Day. Help may be sent to the Treasurer, F. A. Bevan, Esq., 54, Lombard-street, E.C.; or to the undersigned at 20, Bedford street, Strand, W.C. John Gritton, D.D., Secretary.

PRIVATE MEDICAL HOME, 9, Lupus-street, St. George's-square, South Belgravia, for Ladies and Children (medical, surgical, and confinement cases).—For terms apply to Lady Superintendent. The Trustees earnestly ask further contributions towards the Free Bed Fund for ladies in reduced circumstances.

CONVALESCENT AND SEASIDE HOME, Beach Rocks, Sandgate, Kent.—Admission by small weekly payments, with recommendation by subscriber or by arrangement.—For particulars, apply to Henry H. Board, London Samaritan Society, 57 and 59, Ludgate-hill, London, E.C.

ANXIETY OF SOUL.—Any to whom the way of salvation is not clear, are invited to communicate, either personally or by letter, to W. S., care of Evangelistic Secretary, Exeter Hall, Strand, W.C.

ASSOCIATION OF GERMAN GOVERNESSES for mutual help, without the medium of Agents. Under patronage of Their Royal Highnesses the Duchess of Connaught, the Grand Duchess of Mecklenburg-Strelitz, the Princess Mary Adelaide, Duchess of Teck, &c., &c. Ladies wishing to engage Governesses resident or daily, are invited to communicate with the Lady Principal, 16, Wyndham place, Bryanston-square, W. Private lessons arranged. Good schools and private pensions in Germany recommended. Office hours and interviews every day from 11 to 1, and from 3 to 5 o'clock.

FAITH-HEALING and Power for Service.—Meetings conducted by the Rev. John Allen or his workers. Blackheath Hill Greenwich (Auction Rooms, Trinity-street), Tuesdays, 7 p.m. Camberwell Gate (The Hall, Horsley-street), Tuesdays, 7 p.m. Hackney (Trinity Church, Triangle, Mare-street), Sundays, 3 p.m.; Mondays, 7 p.m.; on Fridays, Baptism of the Spirit, 7 p.m.; Ilford Workmen's Hall, Thursdays, 7 p.m.; Mildmay-park (Mission Hall), Wall-street, near Station, Thursdays, 7 p.m.

Postal address, Balclutha Lodge, Southgate, N.

KÖNIGSHEIM, Weston-super-Mare.—This Home, which affords a temporary change and rest to Governesses and Lady Christian Workers, is re-opened. For particulars, address the Lady Superintendent.

ORPHANAGE, WALTHAMSTOW.—We still have some pretty and useful things on sale. Will friends help the orphans by ordering parcels, either large or small, which we will do our best to make satisfactory.—Mrs. Parsons, Cumberland House, Walthamstow, Essex.

GEE STREET Christian Mission, Goswell road, St. Luke's.—Funds urgently needed to carry on the Lord's work in this neighbourhood. Clothing or food for poor also thankfully received by Honorary Superintendent, H. Rudgley, 82, Wood-street, Cheapside; Treasurer, Robt. Baxter, Esq., Victoria-street, Westminster; Bankers, Barclay, Lombard-street.

Educational.

MARLBOROUGH COLLEGE FOR YOUNG LADIES, Larkbeare, Exeter, Devon. For Resident Pupils only. Miss Bamber offers to parents seeking safe Christian training for their daughters the advantages of a University education, without its attendant dangers. Miss Darling, of Newnham College, Cambridge, L.L.A. of St. Andrew's University, is Resident Head English Teacher at Marlborough College. The highest testimonials from Clergymen, Ministers, and Gentlemen whose daughters have been entrusted to Miss Bamber's care. Pupils are always accompanied from London.

ERDSLEIGH HOUSE, Jeffreys-road, Clapham, London.—High School for Young Ladies, in association with, and under the same supervision as Marlborough College, Larkbeare, Exeter. Residents only received.

BELLE VUE, Ambleside.—Good School for Girls.—Having increased accommodation, Mrs. Fleming can now receive six additional Pupils. House well and healthily situated, with large rooms, garden, tennis ground. Careful Christian training, and thorough teaching. Distinguished success in Cambridge Examinations, which are optional. Resident foreign and English governesses. Visiting masters. 50 to 60 guineas.

SOUTHSEA.—Holland House, Clarence-parade.—School for the daughters of gentlemen. Christian training. Home comforts and care. Preparation for the Oxford Local, College of Preceptors, and South Kensington Examinations.—For prospectus, with references, apply to the Principal.

LONDON.—First-class Education for the Daughters of Gentlemen in an establishment of long standing, conducted by members of the Church of England, occupying a spacious house in a most healthy locality in the West-end. The pupils have the advantage of loving care and safe training while pursuing their studies under first-rate Professors; their health, individual temper, and disposition carefully and tenderly watched over, and the whole system based on Christian principles.—Delta, Boddington's Library, Notting-hill-gate, W.

EDUCATIONAL HOME for the Daughters of Gentlemen, Fair View, Cazenove-road, Stamford-hill, N.—Miss Brown and Miss Good receive a few Resident Pupils. First class education, with careful Christian training and home comforts. Children from India received and lovingly cared for. Terms moderate. References kindly permitted to Mrs. Pennefather; J. E. Mathieson, Esq., Mildmay; and parents.

MISS WATTS (Evangelist) has vacancies in her quiet country home for two young ladies, who will be educated by her sister. Assisted by a competent governess and masters.
Wetherden, Stowmarket.

A LADY, with select Morning School, solicits Boarders. Christian training. English instruction, languages, music, drawing, painting. Eight guineas per term (inclusive).—Carlyle House, Warkworth-street, Cambridge. Half term, November 3.

TO FILL VACANCIES, a few Resident Pupils can be received on very advantageous terms, in a high-class Ladies' School, in the South of England. Highest references.—Alpha, 24, St. Lawrence-road, N. Kensington, London, W.

PARIS EN FAMILLE.—Madame de Pradel (sister of Lieut. Bellot, who perished in the search for Sir John Franklin) receives a few Boarders wishing to acquire conversational French, or studying at the Sorbonne Collége de France, where free lectures are given by the most eminent professors.—86, Boulevard de Port Royal, Paris. Highest references from late English boarders.

KEMPLEY HOUSE, Coronation-road, Bristol.—Principal, Mrs. Prescott. An excellent education for Girls. Ten guineas a term, payable in advance. Accomplishments and all expenses included, except for books. See Prospectus.

LONGTON COLLEGE, Longton Grove, Sydenham, S.E.—High-class School for Girls, based on Scripture principles. Pupils very successful in public examinations. Moderate terms. Principal, Mrs. Kent, assisted by her daughters, certificated Oxford and London Universities, College of Preceptors, South Kensington, &c. References to parents.

MR. EDWIN ARROWSMITH, of the Children's Special Service Mission, recommends any parents requiring the comforts and privileges of a good Christian home, combined with an excellent education, for their Daughters, to apply to D. C. L., Farley's Library, FitzJohn's-parade, Hampstead. One vacancy in January. Terms 100 to 120 guineas per annum inclusive.

BEDFORD.—Melrose House.—Principals, the Misses Ray, daughters of the late Rev. R. Ray. Pupils received for high-class education and board. Personal supervision, with Christian training and home comforts. Preparation for Cambridge and other Local Examinations when desired.

EDUCATION.—High-class School for Young Ladies.—Finishing Masters, Certificated Governesses, and personal supervision, with home comforts. Pupils prepared for any examination. Instruction made pleasant, and no overworking countenanced. Terms moderate and inclusive. Highly recommended by parents of pupils and Rev. C. H. Spurgeon.—Prospectus on application to Mrs. Hale, A.C.P., 1, Carlton-mansions, Clapham-rise, London, S.W.

Balham, May 29, 1880.

I am very reluctant to recommend schools, because I am not always able to judge of the interior arrangements; but in this case I have the utmost pleasure in standing as reference. I can highly commend Mrs. Hale, and have the greatest confidence in her capacity, management, and character, having known her for several years. C. H. SPURGEON.

WANDSWORTH HIGH SCHOOL FOR GIRLS,

EAST HILL HOUSE, S.W.
Lady Principal—Mrs. WINTER
(Widow of the late Rev. O. Winter).

Conducted on modern principles. Preparation for Public Examinations. Professors attend for music, drawing, French, German, singing, dancing, and calisthenics. A large playground, with lawns, swings, &c., is at the service of the pupils, and the extensive commons of Wandsworth and Clapham are within a few minutes' walk. Boarders receive home comforts and careful supervision. References to Rev. Andrew Mearns, Memorial Hall, E.C.; Mr. Robert Rae, National Temperance League, 337, Strand; and to parents of pupils.

FRANCE.—HAVRE.—Mdlle. Cournil de Lavergne, 29, Rue d'Epremenil. Protestant Boarding-school for Young Ladies. Comfortable home. First-rate instruction. Highest references (Pasteur Theodore Monod) in France, England, Germany, Holland.

PARIS.—Mdlle. Vienot, 36, Avenue des Princes, Gare d'Auteuil, Paris. Protestant Boarding school for Young Ladies. Careful instruction. Pleasant, comfortable house, with large garden. References and prospectus on application.

MONTREUX, Lake of Geneva.—Ladies' College directed by Miss Bonjour (of the Waldensian Valleys) and Miss Frey (from Lausanne). Good instruction in all the principal branches. Comfortable boarding. Christian education. Excellent references. Moderate terms.

PARIS.—Protestant Boarding School for Young Ladies (founded 1866), offering thorough instruction in all branches. Masters for music, painting, &c. With a private bedroom, £5 per month. References: Rev. Baron Hart, 3, Lordship-terrace, Stoke Newington, London; W. F. Lockie, Secretary Paris City Mission, 71, rue des Batignolles, Paris.

Mme. Flamant, 43, rue Trézel.

THE FERNS, South Hayling, Hants.—Ladies' Collegiate School. Boarders received on moderate terms. Comfortable home. Most healthy locality; recommended by medical profession.—Principal, H. Lewis.

THE POPLARS' SCHOOL, Addlestone, Weybridge (in connection with the Christian Women's Education Union). Director: Miss Cavendish. Pupils prepared for the Cambridge Local and College of Preceptors' examinations. Terms from twenty to thirty guineas per annum.—For particulars apply to Miss Scott, Principal, The Poplars, Addlestone, Weybridge.

FRIENDS' SCHOOL, Mountmellish, Queen's County, Ireland.—Wanted, after the Christmas vacation, a competent Teacher of Music and Harmony, and who could assist with painting and drawing if required.—Applications to be made to E. Brown, Superintendent.

TUTOR.—Mr. H. Grattan Guinness requires for Christmas, a bright, energetic young man, as Tutor in his College. Must be a godly earnest Christian worker, with good teaching power, and some experience. Comfortable home. Many advantages, and a moderate salary.—Apply immediately, personally, or by letter, Harley House, Bow, London, E.

WANTED TO PLACE a young Lady, aged 13, as Pupil-teacher in a Ladies' School, where she can continue her own studies, especially music, giving some help with junior pupils in return. References given and required.—Apply, stating particulars, to A. F. T., care of Mr. Barrett, The Cross, Chichester.

AS MORNING GOVERNESS.—A Lady wanted, with good teaching ability, to instruct foreigners in English.—Apply by letter,
W. P. K., 51, Bow-road, E.

TWO YOUNG LADIES can be received into a High class School (where only a few are taken) on half terms. Seven accomplishments from eminent professors. Board and laundress. 25 guineas per annum. For prospectus, &c.,
Principal, 2, Church street, Westminster.

RESIDENT GOVERNESS.—Christian Lady (25) seeks re-engagement in December. Holiday or permanent. English, music, French, German, drawing. Good references.—Miss B., 10, Claremont crescent, Weston-super-Mare.

A YOUNG LADY desires a re-engagement as Governess. Thorough English, conversational French, good music, drawing, and the rudiments of German.
Miss Evans, Sarratt, near Rickmansworth, Herts.

TO GODLY PARENTS.—The undermentioned (who is in no way connected with the school) is desirous of recommending an old-established YOUNG GENTLEMEN'S BOARDING SCHOOL, DELIGHTFULLY SITUATED ON HIGH GROUND, WITH VIEWS OF THE SEA on the South Coast, a short run from London, in which a thorough and a first-class Education is given, based upon the teaching of the Holy Scriptures.

It is one of the few remaining schools in which the power of the Gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ influences the hearts and conduct of the pupils.

The success, happiness, and training of the Boys have been so remarkable in this school that a BOOK OF TESTIMONIALS GIVEN BY THE PARENTS, together with the papers of Examinations passed and Honours gained, should be read to appreciate results so unusual. Two Vice-Chancellors have placed their wards as pupils in the school. Reference kindly permitted to Dr. Thorn, Paddington, London.

SEAFORD COLLEGE, SUSSEX.—Finest and healthiest site in England, facing the Channel. Preparation for all Examinations, the professions, public schools, and commerce. The widest intellectual and physical training are added to the greatest possible care and comfort. All learn French and shorthand. University masters. Athletics and good sea bathing. Refined Christian home. All the advantages of the highest class schools, at inclusive and moderate fees.—Address, The Principal.

BAYSWATER.—St. John's College, close to Parks. High-class Boys' School. Large, well-ventilated class-rooms, 55 feet long. School chapel. Good playground. Thorough teaching. Inspection invited.—Rev. C. Baker, 41-43, Moscow-road, Pembridge-square, W.

BOYS receive thorough Christian Training and sound Education with Mr. and Mrs. Dixon, Middle-class School, Kingston-on-Thames. Number limited. Very happy home. Beautiful locality. 20 to 25 guineas.

EDUCATION FOR THE DAUGHTERS of Gentlemen, Glen Lyon, West Hill, Sydenham.—Principal, Miss Sykes.—English and foreign resident governesses. Pupils prepared for the Cambridge Local Examinations.

GOVERNESS.—Re-engagement, in Christian family, required, by young Lady (27). English, French, music. Eight years in present situation. Abstainer. Moderate salary. Highest references.
M., 138, Crofton-road, Camberwell, London, S.E.

WANTED, AFTER CHRISTMAS, a Christian Young Lady as Nursery Governess. Total abstainer. English, French, music.—Mrs. Charles Courtenay, Upper Armley Vicarage, Leeds.

LADY WISHES to receive little boy or girl to board and educate. Superior home. Refined training. Low terms.—1, Leswin-road, West Hackney Church, Stoke Newington, London.

A LADY IS ANXIOUS to hear of a decided Christian Nursery Governess for three children. Good English and music only required. Moderate salary.
H., 11, Hartfield-road, Eastbourne.

NURSERY GOVERNESS.—A superior, helpful, Christian person wanted, for three children, ages from five to eight. Must be able to teach music, and play hymns well. Also good at needlework and knitting. Abstainer.
Mrs. Walkey, Fort Rowner, Gosport.

GOVERNESSES' HOME, 6, Lower Fitzwilliam-street, Dublin.—This Institution provides a comfortable Christian home for ladies seeking engagements, and for daily governesses.—Applications for admission, enclosing copies of last two testimonials or references, should be addressed to Ladies' Committee.

A LADY (27), of German birth and education, desires re-engagement for January. English, German, French (Paris), music, and some drawing. Good references. £60.—Miss Pfund, 48, Prince's-gardens, South Kensington.

NURSERY GOVERNESS.—A young Lady desires re-engagement to young children. English, French, drawing, music, and needlework. Fond of children. Good recommendations. Disengaged in December.—Violet, M. Bushell, Cornfield-road, Eastbourne.

NURSERY GOVERNESS.—Well-educated young lady wanted, about 25. Must be a decided Christian (Church of England). Total abstainer; good needlewoman. Able to teach English, French, music, drawing, and painting. Experienced, and fond of children. No menial duties.—Mrs. McComas, The Grange, Monkstown, co. Dublin.

ORPHANS' HOME, Austral-street, West-square.—An Assistant-Governess wanted. Must know something of institution work. Salary £20, all found.—Apply by letter, with testimonials, to Miss Sharman, 20, West-square, Southwark.

AN ENGLISH LADY can recommend a comfortable German home, in Dresden, where Lady Boarders can be received. Lessons given in German, painting, and French if desired. Terms moderate and inclusive.—A., care of Housekeeper, 13, Rose-street, Newgate street, E.C.

REQUIRED, AFTER CHRISTMAS, re-engagement as Governess. Acquirements, good English and arithmetic, music, harmony, drawing, French, elementary Euclid. Firm disciplinarian. Oral teaching if preferred.
Beta, 1, Wellington-road, Uxbridge.

A YOUNG LADY requires position as Governess Student in a thorough good boarding school, on reciprocal terms.—E. S., care of Mrs. Edward Smith, Clarendon-road, Edgbaston.

WANTED, AFTER CHRISTMAS, two Pupil Teachers, in a Ladies' Boarding School by the seaside. Accomplishments and some English classes. Small premium.
B. S. B., 1, Queen's-road, Harrogate.

SCHOOLMASTER, EVANGELIST.—Certificated Master (married), 2nd class parchment. Experienced in conducting Gospel services, &c. Requires Boys' or mixed School. Good testimonials, both as master and Christian worker (Calvinist).—W. ELLIOT, Withiel, Bodmin.

Appointments, Situations, &c., Wanted.

LAW. — Situation required by Christian conveyancing and general clerk (24). Over 11 years' country experience Competent to advise clients, and manage under direction of Principal. Good reference. Abstainer. — F. FEATHERSTONE, Chandos-road, Tunbridge Wells.

AS BUTLER, country or suburbs, single-handed, in quiet family. A respectable, steady man. Married, no children. Age 38 years. Height 5 ft 7 in. Good references —J. B., care of Mr. Dixon, Phipps bridge, Merton, Surrey.

COACHMAN. — A Lady recommends a man aged forty, who has lived with her 20 years, and is only leaving because his services are no longer required Sober, honest, steady, industrious. Clean in work and person. Thoroughly understands his business. Country preferred.—F. P., 7, Bruce-grove, Tottenham.

MISSION WOMAN, or care of small Coffee-house. (38.) A Lady highly recommends a Christian Widow. Decided Christian. Abstainer. Can deal with inquirers Of business habits.—Miss GREENE, Midgham, Reading.

EMPLOYMENT WANTED, by a Christian Man. Total abstainer. Was for seventeen years in a brewery. Good references.
E. C., 113, Keeton's-road, Bermondsey.

RE-ENGAGEMENT as Sub-Matron of large Working Girls' Home. Superintendent of smaller one. Matron or Housekeeper in high class school Disengaged Now, or after Christmas.—K. D., care of Miss Gough, 17, Old Cavendish-street, London, W.

EMPLOYMENT wanted by Christian young Lady in London, capable of teaching French and music; good writer Would not object to office work. Strongly recommended by Mr. CHARLES COOK. of Hyde park-hall, W, to whom application can be made.

AS SUPERIOR USEFUL HELP, or in any light capacity (not menial). Good knowledge of dressmaking. London preferred.
G. H., 74, Great Portland-street, W.

AS LINEN - KEEPER, Needlewoman, or Wardrobe-keeper. Excellent needlewoman, five years' experience.—E. S., care of Miss Gough, 17, Old Cavendish-street, W.

A LADY DESIRES to recommend her late Wardrobe-keeper, in a boys' school, for a similar position; or as Governess to children under ten years. Age 23. Salary £24.—Mrs. ALFRED CLARK, Taunton House School, 85, Buckingham-road, Brighton.

WORK IN THE EAST END wanted, by a Lady (aged 34) Hospital trained. Twelve years' experience in charge of Hospital. Capable dispenser. Salary essential.
B., 8, Cambridge-gardens, Kilburn.

MIDDLE-AGED person seeks a comfortable home, with small salary, as Nurse to an invalid. Excellent reference from a doctor's wife. Good needlewoman. Quiet and kind.
M., 19, Bolton street, Mayfair.

A LADY WISHES to find places in or near Kent for village Girls, ages 13 to 16. Decided Christian influence earnestly desired.—Full particulars requested.
Miss BANNISTER, Wrotham Heath, Kent.

REQUIRED, by a Lady, re-engagement as Companion to a nervous invalid Lady (mental). Excellent references to several medical men.
M. S., Thuringia, Manor-road, Stamford hill, N.

LADY WISHES to find situation for a Girl who is a good servant, but inclined to be unsteady. Country preferred. Wages not an object.
Mrs. M., 8, Durham-place, Campden-hill, W.

A LADY WISHES to recommend a thorough good plain Cook, where Kitchenmaid is kept), age 38. Has good personal character.—S. D, 57, Marlee-terrace, Landor-road, Stockwell, S.W.

AS THOROUGHLY GOOD PLAIN COOK in a small, quiet Christian family Age 30. Country preferred; no housework undertaken.—E. F., 293, Seaside-road, Eastbourne.

GENERAL SERVANT, small family. Can cook and wash. ERRAND BOY (15), to board in the house Can drive a cart. UNDER-HOUSEMAIDS (16), first place; and 20. Abstainers.
Miss GREENE, Midgham, Reading.

ATTENDANT, or Useful Maid, to elderly or invalid lady. Good needlewoman; can do dressmaking; no objection to light housework. Well recommended. Middle-age.—E. E. C., Chestnut Cottage, Hanworth-road, Hounslow.

WIDOW LADY, 50, seeks situation as Housekeeper to Christian gentleman., is an excellent correspondent, and good systematic manager. Life abstainer.
C, C, Bartlett's, 25, High-road, Kilburn, N.W.

CHRISTIAN GOVERNESSES, Companions, and Lady-Housekeepers, of high principles, are frequently supplied to Ladies seeking such, by application to the LADY SECRETARY of the Governesses' Registry, Soho Bazaar, Soho-square. W. Testimonials never dispensed with. Free of all expense to Parents.

Appointments, Situations, &c., Vacant.

EARNEST EVANGELICAL CURATE wanted, for Christ Church, Burton-on Trent. One whose only object is the salvation of the people. Stipend £150.
Rev. CHARLES GUEST, Christ Church Vicarage.

AN EDUCATED LAY EVANGELIST, thoroughly qualified, is required by a leading Presbyterian Church in London.—Apply, by letter only, to
J. WHITFIELD JACKSON, 129, Brecknock-road, N.

CHRISTIAN MAN wanted, to attend upon a Gentleman, partially paralysed. Must be experienced, gentle, and kind, but firm. Able to read aloud, and do gardening during leisure hours.
Mrs. D., 12, Argyll-terrace, Weymouth.

HENSHAW'S BLIND ASYLUM.—Assistant Matron wanted, to superintend and instruct the female inmates in needle, wool, and fancy work, and generally to assist in the efficient management of the Institution. For further particulars address as below. Salary £30 per annum, with board and residence in the Asylum. —Applications, with testimonials or references, stating age and experience, to be addressed on or before Monday, December 14, to the Secretary, at his offices, Bloom-street, Salford.—By order,
JAMES W. RATTRAY, Secretary.
Manchester, November 25, 1885.

LAUNDRY MATRON.—Wanted, about Jan 13, a Christian person, abstainer, as Laundry Matron in a small Rescue Home near Manchester. Salary £25.
Mrs H. KNOTT, Gillmoor, Stalybridge.

BIBLEWOMAN-NURSE wanted, for district work in Guildford. An earnest Christian. Total abstainer. Active. Must have received hospital training. Age not under 30.
Mrs. FILMER, Stoke House, Guildford.

SICK-NURSE wanted, widow or single woman, between 24 and 40 years of age, in an Orphan Home and Industrial School for Boys, close to a good town 30 miles from London. 150 Boys, and 12 Resident Officers. Duties will be to take charge of sick boys when there are any; when not so engaged will assist the Housekeeper or Matrons in training boys to household work. Must be fairly well educated. — Apply in own handwriting, stating salary required, in addition to comfortable board, lodging, and washing, age, whether trained, and where, previous employment, whether widow or otherwise, and enclosing copies of testimonials, addressed A. H. C, care of Messrs. Street & Co., 30, Cornhill, E.C.

HEAD NURSE WANTED, for country vicarage. Must be thoroughly experienced. Under nurse kept. Wages up to £25. One in superior position would be greatly valued. —F. L. B., care of Mr. Simpson, Market place, Hertford.

LADY WANTED, to act as Nurse and Companion to invalid Lady. Good salary.—Apply, between 2 and 3 on Saturday, December 5, C., 47, Albion-road, Stoke Newington, London, W.

AN EXPERIENCED NURSE wanted, age from 25 to 30. Capable of taking charge of an infant. Good needlewoman. Five children in nursery. Under-nurse kept. No beer. Quiet Christian family.—Mrs. AUSTIN, 7, Aubert-park, Highbury, London, N.

CHRISTIAN YOUNG LADY wanted, as Mother's Help, to teach young children, and superintend nursery with help of nursemaid. Good needlewoman. Church of England. Abstainer.—Mrs. NOEL, Trinity Vicarage, Trowbridge, Wilts.

MOTHER'S HELP and Nursery Governess wanted, for quiet, Christian home. A North German Young Lady preferred. Particulars on application.—Mrs. GROSER, North Hill Villa, Plymouth

NEEDLEWOMAN to help with children. One fond of them, and willing to be really useful. Comfortable home. Christian privileges. Nursery to be kept. State salary.
Mrs. PLUMMER, Highclere, Hastings.

A COOK and a HOUSE-PARLOUR-MAID wanted; both under the housekeeper. Small house. Boy cleans shoes and knives; fills coal-scuttles. Wages according to age and experience.—Miss NOEL, Woking.

GOOD PLAIN COOK wanted, not under 30, for a small family in the country. Must be a total abstainer. Widow not objected to. Wages £20.—M. W., Pembroke Lodge, New Hampton, Middlesex.

WANTED, GOOD PLAIN COOK. Active and clean. Early riser. Clean basement and hall. Thoroughly good character and trustworthy. One Lady, three maids. Wages £18. No beer.—12, Connaught-square, before 12 o'clock.

HOUSEMAID WANTED, in Clergyman's family. Churchwoman and abstainer. Must not object to children. Three servants kept.—K., 9, Cromartie-road, Hornsey-rise.

A COMFORTABLE HOME offered to a thoroughly domesticated Lady, who would undertake the supervision of two young servants in a small household. Must be a good needlewoman. Small remuneration offered.—Apply by letter to M. W., 24, Homefield-road, Wimbledon.

WANTED, IN HAMPSHIRE, by a Gentleman, two in family, a truly Christian Woman as General Servant. Healthy, clean in person and work. Little cooking. Wages £18, and raised if deserved.—Address, by letter, S. N., Mr Williams, 14, Ascupart street, Southampton.

COOK AND HOUSEMAID-WAITRESS. two sisters preferred, for small family. Must be total abstainers.—Apply, by letter only, to Miss FROST, Hamerlaund, Broughton-park, Manchester.

HEAD HOUSEMAID wanted for a large country house. A Christian (Church of England preferred. Very efficient. Tall, and a good needlewoman. Age from 35. Good wages.—Miss FREEMAN, 162, Warwick-street, Pimlico, London.

GENERAL SERVANT wanted, as good Plain Cook in a Christian family (abstainers). Age about 23. Housemaid kept Wages £16.
Mrs. B., Stambourne, Sutton, Surrey.

GOOD GENERAL SERVANT, also young girl as NURSEMAID to one child, wanted immediately by a Christian Lady. Two in family.—Mrs. M., 20, Kildare-terrace, Bayswater.

CAN ANY LADY recommend respectable person, aged 35 or older, as General Servant, in a family consisting of a lady, her married daughter, infant, and nurse (house small). A knowledge of good plain cooking required, and an abstainer.—Mrs. WAPSHARE, Villa Remo, Eny's-road, Eastbourne.

A GOOD PLAIN COOK wanted, as early as possible, for the country. A good character indispensable. Wages £18 to £20, all found.—Mrs. GEO EDWARDS, Beauclerc, Riding Mill, Northumberland.

To Let, Apartments, &c.

PERCY'S HOTEL, LONDON.
40, Bedford-place, Bloomsbury-sq., W.C.

This First-class Private Hotel is highly recommended by readers of THE CHRISTIAN from all parts of the world. The Bishop of Algoma writes: "The comfort, perfect order, and attendance at PERCY'S Hotel, render it all that can be desired as a central place of sojourn in this great city." Beds from 1s. 6d. Tea, 1s. 3d. Tariff on application.

W. TAVERNER, Temperance Hotel, 35 and 36, Hunter-street, Judd-street, Euston-road. Five minutes from G.N., Mid., and N.W. Railways. Beds from 1s. 6d. Plain breakfast or tea, 1s. Tariff and testimonials on application. Patronised by ministers of all denominations.

HUTCHINSON'S PRIVATE HOTEL, 24, Guilford-street. Russell-square, the most central position for all parts of London. Extensively patronised and strongly recommended. Home comforts. Terms moderate.

LONDON. — Insull's Temperance Hotel, 20, 21, Burton-crescent, Tavistock-square, W.C.—Five minutes' walk or 1s. cab fare from Euston, St. Pancras, King's Cross Railways; easily reached from other stations. Patronised by readers of THE CHRISTIAN.

ST. LEONARD'S-ON-SEA.—The Widow of the late Rev. FREDERIC WAGSTAFF, and Mrs. LOCKE, offer superior Board and Residence. Replete with every comfort. Close to sea, gardens, &c. Terms moderate.
Meliora House, 21, Carisbrooke-road.

TYNDALE HOUSE BOARDING ESTABLISHMENT, 17, Tyndale-place, Upper street, Islington, N. Convenient to all parts. Tram and 'bus pass the door. Bed and breakfast from 2s. 6d.—N. J. NORRIS, Manageress.

BLACKHEATH. — A comfortable Home for a Lady or two Sisters in a quiet family. The house faces the Heath. References exchanged.—The Rev CHARLES BULLOCK, B.D., 7, The Paragon, Blackheath, will gladly answer inquiries.

ISLE OF WIGHT.—Comfortable Home offered to Lady willing to pay 16s. per week, and render assistance in needlework, &c.
J. B., 5, Trinity-villas Ryde

HASTINGS. – Furnished Apartments in quiet, comfortable home, near sea. Pleasant and healthy situation. From 17s. 6d. weekly; or one or two boarders can be taken from 18s. 6d.
F., 6, Trinity-place, Cambridge-road.

BOURNEMOUTH.—A Lady wishes to Let her well-furnished detached House. Three sitting, seven bed and dressing-rooms. South and west aspect. Close to town, sea, and Pines. Five guineas a week.—W. L., care of Mr. Hodges, Grocer, Southcote-road.

MARGATE.
SHAFTESBURY HOUSE,
The Seaside Home of the Y.M.C.A.

Until March, married ladies and gentlemen with their daughters are received as Boarders. A comfortable Home for invalids. Terms moderate.

VENTNOR, I. W. — Esplanade Boarding Establishment.—This house is charmingly situated, fully facing the sea, and the most sheltered part of the Esplanade Liberal table, with home comforts. Terms from 35s. per week.

SOUTHPORT—Charming winter resort. Superior apartments, with every home comfort. Good cooking and attendance.
Miss MORTON, 19, Saunders-street.

TUNBRIDGE WELLS.—House or Apartments, facing the Common. A Lady can thoroughly recommend most comfortable Apartments, suitable for the winter. Excellent cooking and attendance.
H., 1, Summerhill-place, London-road.

EASTBOURNE.—Comfortable apartments vacant December 19, drawing and bed-rooms, on very moderate terms, with attendance. Pleasantly situated close to Parade, overlooking Downs. Arrangements made for the winter months. Excellent references.
E. H. A., Handel House, Compton-street.

SMALL SEMI-DETACHED HOUSE to Let. Rural situation. Extensive views. Close to church, rail, market Fifteen miles from London, on Great Western line. Seven rooms; good garden Rent £23.—Letters to H., Little Prestwicks, Gerrards Cross, Bucks.

A PARALYTIC or Infirm Patient is offered a comfortable Home, with a Clergyman's Daughter. She has had hospital training and experience in private nursing.
A., Fielding's Library, Crouch Hill, N.

A WIDOW LADY offers comfortable Home to one or two Children. Would have motherly care and Christian training. Thoroughly good references given. Terms moderate. —R. H. O., 48, Norcott-road, Stoke Newington, London, N.

A LADY, LIVING in a comfortably furnished House, in an open part of Wimbledon, wishes to meet with a Lady, or Gentleman and Wife, to reside with her. References exchanged.—M. L. R., care of Housekeeper, 13, Rose street, Newgate-street, E.C.

DRAWING-ROOM FLOOR and back kitchen to Let in Chelsea, facing St. Luke's Church. No other lodgers Quiet family. Terms moderate.—R. A., care of Housekeeper, 13, Rose-street, Newgate-street, E.C.

NORTH LONDON. — Drawing-room floor (unfurnished), containing two rooms, kitchen, bath-room, w.c, coal cellar, and use of scullery, 10s 6d weekly. Also Ground floor (unfurnished), containing two rooms, kitchen, w.c, coal-cellar, and use of scullery, 8s. 6d. weekly. Bed-room on second floor, 1s. 6d. extra. Lofty rooms; excellent drainage; every convenience. Near rail, tram and 'bus Remarkably cheap.—Write, Mr. WATT, care of Housekeeper, 13, Rose-street, Newgate-street, E.C.

BOURNEMOUTH. — Mancetter, West Cliff.—Superior Boarding House. Very comfortable winter residence. Best position, close to sea and pines. Liberal table.—For terms, &c., address PROPRIETRESS.

WORTHING HOME OF REST for Christians.—Vacancies for the winter. Every comfort. Terms, one to two guineas.—LADY SUPERINTENDENT, Rutherford Lodge, Worthing.

SOUTHSEA. — Solent House Boarding Establishment, 16 and 17, South Parade. Sunny and cheerful position, directly facing sea and the Isle of Wight. Liberal table. and every home comfort. Winter terms from 30s, to 3 guineas a week.—Miss BAKER.

BRIGHTON.—Sussex House Boarding Establishment, pleasantly situated in the Old Steine having a sea view, and the beautiful Steine Gardens in front. Near to Pavilion, Aquarium, and piers Liberal table, with every home comfort.—Mr & Mrs. Box, 58, Old Steine.

MENTAL.—A vacancy occurs in a Home, where a small number of Ladies of the upper and middle class is received. The services of an experienced resident physician are supplemented by Christian kindness and care. One hour by Midland from London.
Dr. CRAIG, Bishopstow House, Bedford.

TO SHARE HOME. — A Lady wishes to meet with another lady to board with view to above. Would not object to change residence, and receive few boarders or pupils. Two in family. References.
BETA, 33, St. James-road, Tunbridge Wells.

WILL A LADY join another in Rooms, 8s. 6d. per week, with attendance? House large and healthy; no children These wishing work for the Master would find plenty here.—BERTHA, Housekeeper, 13, Rose-street, Newgate-street.

A COMFORTABLE HOME is offered to a little Girl, not under ten years of age, by a tradesman's wife.
A. B., 12, King's road, Chelsea, S W.

A MINISTER wishes to recommend Bed-rooms for Gentlemen. Good situation. References required
Miss PIKE 7, King-street, Covent-garden, W.C.

A RESPECTABLE married Woman without family wants care of a Child not under twelve months. Reference to friends of child just removed.
S., 1, Bank-buildings, Merton Bridge, Surrey.

BOURNEMOUTH—Weston Hall First-class Boarding Establishment. HIGHLY RECOMMENDED. Charmingly situated. Every effort made to promote the comfort and pleasure of visitors. Moderate charges.
Mr. E. L. RATCLIFFE, Proprietor.

Miscellaneous.

ANXIOUS INQUIRERS are again earnestly invited to write to Titus iii. 4—7. EVANGELIST, Clapham, S.W.

FLORIDA, the Italy of America. —Orange Groves bought or started and cared for, for non-residents. Money lent, interest 10 per cent. Pupils boarded and instructed.
HUGH MACCALLUM, Solicitor, Winterpark.

PARTNERSHIP. — Drapery or Cloth Trade.—A Christian Gentleman of most thorough business ability and experience, with £1,000 (personally saved), desires a working Partnership in large concern.
S., Box 466, Bradford, Yorks.

AMERICAN ORGANS, Harmoniums, Pianos, of any make, for Church, School, or private purposes, supplied at great reduction through EDE & Co., 177, Upper Thames-street, E.C. Price lists and discounts on application.

POPULAR LECTURES for Sunday-schools and Religious Societies in the Metropolitan District. Illustrated with Oriental costumes, scientific apparatus, or dissolving views. Exhibitions of Dissolving Views undertaken in London or the Provinces. The views are exhibited with superior Triple Apparatus, illuminated with the Oxy hydrogen Limelight. First-class Lantern Slides and Sciopticon Lanterns lent on hire.—Apply, for list of subjects and terms, to Sunday School Union, 56, Old Bailey, London, E.C.

FOUR LECTURES on THE LORD'S DEALINGS WITH HIS PEOPLE.—Large Diagram. Advertiser is open to deliver the above course, where efforts would be made to ensure a good audience.—G. R. GILL, Keston House, Lady Margaret-road, N W.

COTTAGE PIANO.— Genuine £66 Instrument. By Neumeyer, Berlin. Patent Quadruplex, double overstrung iron frame, check repeater action, grand tone. Professional inspection invited Maker's warranty transferred. Scarcely been used. Immediate cash £31. On approval.
FAIREY, 96 Wynford-road, Islington, London.

AMERICAN ORGAN, £8 15s., carriage paid. Five stops, knee swell, sweet tone, solid walnut case. Early English design, beautifully polished and richly panelled. Approval.
J HAYES, 23, Anatola-road, London, N.

IRON MISSION ROOMS, &c., erected on the most reasonable terms, by R. SAUNDERS, 216, Brecknock-road, London, N. Estimates and designs free. 25 years' practical experience. Also Churches and Schools, &c.

SPECIAL OFFER.—Musical Boxes playing Mr. Sankey's and other sacred airs Messrs. WALES & MCCULLOCH have a limited number of these choice Instruments, by the original Nicole and other eminent makers, which they are offering at greatly reduced prices. Particulars will be sent on application, addressed to 22, Ludgate-hill, London.

ASTHMA. — Persons suffering from Asthma, Difficulty of Breathing, &c., are invited to try (free of charge) a remedy for affording immediate relief.
C., Mr. G. A. Kevworth Hastings

FURNISH on NORMAN & STACY'S Hire-Purchase System No registration. Deposit not necessary. Economical Strictly private. 1, 2, or 3 years. Sixty genuine wholesale firms to select from.—Offices, 79, Queen Victoria-street, E.C., & 121, Pall Mall, S W Carriage paid.

MAGIC LANTERNS, or Dissolving Views. Buy of the manufacturer, WILLIAM CATLIN, 17, Claremont-square, Pentonville, London. Exhibitions (Gospel), town or country. Slides on hire, 1½d. each. Second-hand catalogue gratis.

A PATIENT SUFFERING from Epilepsy, Hysteria, Paralysis, or otherwise requiring experienced treatment with care and supervision, is offered a loving Christian home at the seaside, where the above has for many years been very successfully treated. Highest references.—MEDICUS, care of Messrs. C Tayler & Co., Advertising Agents, Fleet-street, London.

EPPS'S

GRATEFUL—COMFORTING.

COCOA.

SPARE TIME WORK, which will pay, may be obtained by Secretaries of Temperance Societies, Bands of Hope, Good Templar Lodges, visitors, and others, by applying to The Blue Ribbon Life, Accident, Mutual, and Industrial Insurance Company, Limited, Colmore Chambers, Newhall street, Birmingham.

BUNTER'S

Cures Toothache, prevents Decay, saves Extraction, 1s. 1½d.

NERVINE.

DR. G. H. JONES, Surgeon Dentist, 57, Great Russell street, facing the entrance to the British Museum, London. Pamphlet, with list of diplomas, gold medals, and other awards, sent free by post. Consultation gratis.

GIFT BOOKS

Published by MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster Buildings, E.C.;

And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

Birds of the Bible.

CHATS WITH THE CHILDREN ABOUT BIBLE BIRDS.

By JAMES BOWKER, F.R.G.S.I.

An Attractive Gift Book. Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 2s.

With very attractive Coloured Frontispiece, and 29 other Illustrations.

Beautifully printed on toned paper, with carmine borders.

"The 'Chats' here given will be found both interesting and instructive to the young folks who are fortunate enough to obtain a copy of the work. . . . One friend to whom we showed the book at once ordered three dozen copies for Sunday School Rewards. We hope that many others will follow his example."—The Christian Treasury.

The King's Palace.

A SERIES OF READINGS FOR EACH DAY OF THE MONTH.

By REV. J. H. ROGERS, M.A.,

Incumbent of Christ Church, Pau.

Cloth limp, 1s.; Cloth boards, 1s. 6d.; Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 2s.; Leather binding, gilt edges, 3s. 6d.

Attractively printed, with Carmine Borders; and Beautifully Bound.

Very suitable for a Gift Book.

"Its counsels are wise, loving, and direct. Its aim is to lead the reader to have a clean heart and a clean life, to consecrate all to Christ. . . . All that art, taste, and skill can do to make the theme attractive has been done by the well-known publishers. The result is that, within and without, THE KING'S PALACE is simply perfect."
Irish Congregational Magazine.

Christ Lifted Up.

MEDITATION ON THE DEATH, RESURRECTION, AND ASCENSION OF OUR LORD JESUS CHRIST.

By ROBERT GILCHRIST.

Cloth boards, 2s. 6d.

"Mr. Gilchrist preaches a full gospel. The fulness of Christ for every need of fallen humanity is set forth in a clear, convincing, and attractive manner."—Christian Week.

"Old-fashioned divinity presented in an attractive form. May its readers be many."—Sword and Trowel.

Illustrated Tracts for General Distribution

THE DEACON'S WEEK; or, A Week of Prayer turned into a Week of Practice. By ROSE TERRY COOKE. With full-page Illustration and five smaller Engravings. Eight quarto pages. Price 3s. 6d. per 100; or 500 for 17s. 6d.

READING THE APPOINTMENTS. A Poem suggested by the Appointments of Ministers to the various Circuits during the Methodist Episcopal Conference. By Rev. ALFRED J. HOUGH. With full-page Illustration. Four quarto pages. Price 2s. per 100; 17s. 6d. per 1000.

BROTHER HARKLISS; or, CHANGING PLACES. A Lesson for Pulpit or Pew. By Mrs. JAMES D. CHAPLIN. With full-page Illustration. Four quarto pages. Price 2s. per 100; 17s. 6d. per 1000.

THANKSGIVING ANN. A Story of Systematic Giving. By KATE W. HAMILTON. With full-page Illustration. Eight quarto pages. Price 3s. 6d. per 100; or 500 for 17s. 6d.

A SHILLING SAMPLE PACKET MAY BE ORDERED OF ANY BOOKSELLER,

Or will be sent, on receipt of Postal Order for One Shilling, direct by the Publishers—

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings.

BAGSTER'S BIBLES.

Extra flexible, silk sewed, in best Bagster morocco, kid-lined, elastic band. With full helps. Prices from 20s.

In French morocco, projecting edges, elastic band. From 4s.

SAMUEL BAGSTER & SONS, LIMITED, 15, Paternoster-row London

MRS. GRIMKE'S TEXT CARD MISSION.—56 Languages. Precious souls in many lands have been led to Jesus Christ by these cards, and others brought under Christian influence. Records come of great blessing. Millions are asked for by Missionaries and others, who, able wisely to distribute to the nations afar, have no means to buy them. To meet this need, we pray God to send gifts and bequests, also increased sales. For new list send stamped envelope to MRS GRIMKE, Prestwich, Manchester: or apply to ELLIOT STOCK, 62, Paternoster-row, London.

WILL THE CHURCH ESCAPE THE GREAT TRIBULATION? By EDMUND SHACKLETON. Price 3d. An examination of the doctrine of a Pre-tribulation Rapture.
J. F. SHAW & Co., 48, Paternoster-row, E.C.

Terms for Advertisements.

(PREPAID.)

Miscellaneous Advertisements in small type are charged at the following rates:—

Not exceeding 30 Words	....	3	0
,, 39 ,,	....	3	9
,, 48 ,,	....	4	6

And 9d. for every additional line of nine words or under, the address being in all cases charged for.

Scale for larger Advertisements sent on application

☞ To prevent delay, all business letters should be directed to the firm. Private communications should be so marked.

INTEMPERANCE. — A Lady, thoroughly experienced in the care of ladies suffering from alcoholic and narcotic indulgence, can receive a few ladies. Terms moderate.—Miss PUDNEY, Buxton House, Earl's Colne, Essex.

INTEMPERANCE.—A successfully established private Home at the seaside for six, suffering from excess of morphia, chloral, absinthe, stimulants, or Nervous Debility. Christian care and influence. Judicious supervision and home comforts.
MEDICUS, 9, Stokes Croft, Bristol.

MILK, PURE AND RICH.

Letter received by the Aylesbury Dairy Company, Limited, from the late President of the Society of Public Analysts

Laboratory, Plough court,
37, Lombard-street, London, E.C.
January 25, 1884.

To the Directors of

The Aylesbury Dairy Company, Limited.

GENTLEMEN,—

Referring to my Paper read before the Society of Public Analysts on the 25th November last, on Milk Adulteration in London, and to my subsequent communication to The Times and Pall Mall Gazette on the same subject, I state, in answer to your inquiry, that as the result of 300 Analyses of Milk purchased in one month, in London, I found:—

(1) That, averaging the 300 samples, 13 per cent. of the Cream had been taken off, and that, in addition, nearly 13 per cent. of water had been added.

(2) That, estimating this in money on the calculated Milk supply of London, it shows that Londoners are mulcted £356,000 per year, or considerably more than one-third of a million, and about one-fifth of the water rates, by fraudulent milk dealers.

You ask me specifically as to your Milk. I think it is my duty to answer your questions.

(1) I purchased a number (large) of samples from The Aylesbury Dairy Company's carts, in course of their ordinary rounds, and they were all genuine, not skimmed or watered.

(2) On averaging the results of the analyses of these samples, I find that they stand at the top of my list for richness or high quality.

Such a result as this ought to be satisfactory to you.
Yours very truly,
(Signed) G. W. WIGNER, F.I.C., F.C.S.
London and America.

Price lists and full particulars can be obtained on application to the Secretary,
THE AYLESBURY DAIRY COMPANY, LIMITED,
31, St. Petersburgh place, Bayswater, London, W.

Publications.

"SEVEN RULES FOR DAILY LIVING." By Rev. F. B. MEYER, B.A., Leicester. Also "Warning Words—The Perils of Young Girls." By same Author. ½d. each, 3s. 6d. per 100.—Published by MARSHALL & Co., Amen-corner, London, E.C., and J. & J. H. VICE, Leicester.

TRUST IN JESUS.

Four-page Floral Tracts for Children, with Chromo-Lithograph on first page. By Rev. E. PAYSON HAMMOND, M.A. Packets 1 and 2 (each containing 12 tracts), Sixpence per packet.

JESUS AND THE LITTLE ONES.

By Rev. E. PAYSON HAMMOND, M.A. Crown 8vo., 96 pp., with Illustrations. Sewed, 6d.; limp cloth, 1s.

HOW TO BE HAPPY.

By Rev. E. PAYSON HAMMOND, M.A. Crown 8vo., 96 pp., with Illustrations. Sewed, 6d.; limp cloth, 1s.

WORDS ABOUT JESUS.

Eight pp. Illustrated Booklets, tinted paper. By WILLIAM LUFF. Packets 1 and 2 (each containing 50 assorted of 8 Nos.), 6d. per packet.

ARDEN SERIES.

Eight pp. Illustrated Booklets, tinted paper. By H. K. WOOD ("A Glasgow Merchant"). Packet of 50 (assorted of 8 Nos.), 6d.

GOSPEL LEAVES.

Two pp. Tracts. Illustrated. By CHEYNE BRADY. Packet 3. 100 assorted of 16 Nos., 6d.

DRUMMOND'S TRACT DEPÔT, Stirling, N.B.
London: S. W. PARTRIDGE & Co.;
And all Booksellers.

AMONG THE OLIVES;

OR,

The Allegory of the Bible Readers.

Price Sixpence.

"And to find that from that Book there could be no separation till given into the hands of its great Author."—Extract.

London: PARTRIDGE & Co., 9, Paternoster-row.

THE NEAR RETURN of the Lord Jesus Christ. By CHEYNE BRADY. 7th Thousand. Price 1d. London: S. W. PARTRIDGE & Co., 9, Paternoster-row.

C. H. SPURGEON'S GREAT WORK ON THE PSALMS is now complete, in seven volumes, cloth, 8s. each, and can be had in whole calf or half calf.—Messrs. PASSMORE & ALABASTER, 4, Paternoster buildings.

HOMES OF HOPE,

(Established 1860),

For the Restoration of Fallen and the Protection of Friendless Young Women. Special efforts are made on behalf of young mothers, before and after confinement.

Nos. 4, 5 & 6, Regent-square, Gray's-inn-road, London, W.C.

The applications every day are most distressing, and the Committee anxiously appeal for funds to enable them to utilise to the utmost the room in the Homes.

IMMEDIATE HELP IS NEEDED.

Henry Thompson, Treasurer.
William Hornibrook, Secretary.

MISSION to DEEP SEA FISHERMEN.

Five Mission Vessels are cruising amongst the North Sea trawling fleets. 12,000 smacksmen are engaged all the year round in providing our tables with fish. These men, who for us toil through furious blast and sleety storm—who hazard their lives and fall victims, hundreds of them, to the pitiless waves, that markets at home may be well supplied—may rightly claim some small share in the privileges we so richly enjoy and so highly prize.

THIS THEY CAN ONLY HAVE THROUGH THE PRESENCE OF THE
MISSION VESSELS

Carrying to the fishermen the message of Divine mercy and pardoning love, bringing the pleasure of books to while away the weary hours, affording relief in case of sickness and injury, and cheering and brightening dull and monotonous lives by their presence and ministry.

"The Mission smacks are doing in the North Sea a grand work, worthy of the support of a great maritime nation like England; and I believe that the results of their effort, great as they are in the present, will, if only supported liberally by the public, be of untold value in the future."—Edward Birkbeck, Esq., M.P.

FUNDS are greatly NEEDED to enable the Society to place a Mission Vessel with every fleet.

E. J. MATHER, Director.
31, New Bridge-street, E.C.

Ham Yard Soup Kitchen & Hospice,

Established 1846.

President—H.R.H. THE DUKE OF CAMBRIDGE, K.G.
Treasurer—WILLIAM ASH, Esq.; Tower House, 119, Camden-road, N.W.

The Committee, relying on the success of former efforts, purpose giving a CHRISTMAS DINNER to 1,000 POOR FAMILIES, each to receive 4 lbs. Beef, 3 lbs. Plum Pudding, a Loaf of Bread, with Tea, Sugar, &c.

Additional Funds are needed to maintain the efficiency of the Institution, which is OPEN ALL THE YEAR. Last year 119,351 meals of Soup and Bread, and 3,181 Night's Lodgings in the Hospice, were gratuitously provided.

Bankers—Union Bank, Charing-cross; Messrs. Lloyds, Barnetts, & Bosanquets, Lombard-street, E.C.; Messrs. Hatchards, 187, Piccadilly, W.

W. STEVENS, Supt. and Sec.
Ham Yard, Great Windmill-street, W.

The Whitechapel Working Lads' Institute

ESTABLISHED 1876.

Patron—Her Most Gracious Majesty THE QUEEN.

The Ninth Annual Meeting

Will be held at the INSTITUTE (opposite the London Hospital),

On MONDAY, DECEMBER 7, 1885.

F. A. BEVAN, Esq., Treasurer, will take the Chair, at 7 o'clock. Sir Robt. W. Carden, Alderman, Mr. Alderman Cowan, Rev. Wm. Tyler, D.D., Cooke Baines, Esq., and others, may be expected to address the Meeting. Between the hours of 6 and 7 an opportunity will be afforded for Visitors to inspect the Building.

Tickets may be had of Henry Hill, Hon. Sec., 38, Bow-lane, E.C., at the Institute, Whitechapel, or of any Member of the Committee.

SUITABLE FOR CHRISTMAS PRESENTS.

THE 5s. EDITION OF

Cruden's Concordance

to the Old and New Testaments. The special feature of this Edition, in addition to its extreme cheapness, is the New Translation of the Proper Names in the Old and New Testaments, with their meanings in the Original Languages. By A Competent Scholar. This portion is strictly copyright, and confined to Morgan & Scott's Edition.

PRESENTATION EDITION, handsomely bound in cloth, 7/6.

LIBRARY EDITION, half bound in leather, 10/6.

ILLUSTRATED EDITION, with Twelve Exquisite Steel-plate Engravings, and Six Beautiful Coloured Maps, 10/6.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

MORLEY HOUSE.

FOR WORN-OUT, AGED, & DESTITUTE GOVERNESSES, NEEDLEWOMEN, & SERVANTS.

25, CHATHAM-PLACE, PARAGON-ROAD, HACKNEY, E.

Dear Friends, November 24, 1885.

With very deep thankfulness I am at last able to present to you fuller particulars of the extended sphere of work to which I have on several occasions referred in the columns of The Christian, and on which I intimated that I hoped shortly to enter.

Since the last notice to this effect appeared, very many obstacles have arisen, but I neither gave up effort nor let go of hope, and now the way has been made plain, and my motto must be "Go forward!"

Dear Friends, I am earnestly endeavouring to raise a sufficient sum of money to erect an Institution that will accommodate fifty inmates, twenty-five aged and destitute governesses, needlewomen, and servants, and twenty-five aged and destitute tutors, clerks, and menservants. It would be impossible in this brief "appeal" to fully explain the plans and arrangements necessary for such an undertaking, but every particular, which will, I am sure, inspire confidence, will be forwarded on application.

In addition to the free Home, already established, I have long felt (judging from the many letters constantly being received) that a Home for aged governesses, needlewomen, and servants, of small means, or for others of the same class, for whom families, either separately or unitedly, would be glad to pay in recognition of valued services in the past, would be a great boon. And it is my privilege now to announce that through the kindness of S. Morley, Esq., M.P., a second Home (for persons of this description) has been established, and will be ready to receive inmates (D.V.) in January, 1886. The charge will be, 5s. board, 3s. for lodging, coals, and gas, and 6d. laundress, total 8s. 6d. per week. Confirmed invalids cannot be received, and no intoxicants will be allowed. Application in the first instance by letter, and soon after the receipt of an application (if suitable) an interview will be arranged for.

And now, beloved Friends, my whole work and service is briefly laid before you, and I ask your aid, not for unthankful and unworthy ones, but for those who have been true to trust, and who are the Lord's own children, brought into positions of trial through circumstances over which they had no control, and who are now too old to earn the bread that perisheth.

Dear Friends, kindly enable such to rest awhile until the Master calls them to their Eternal Home.

Believe me, in His name, Yours, very faithfully,
Elizabeth Coales.
Ps. lxiii. 7.

Messrs. Morgan & Scott have kindly consented to receive contributions. Will dear friends kindly state whether their gifts are for the Building Fund or for the General Expenses of the Homes?

GRAY'S YARD RAGGED CHURCH AND SCHOOL,

James Street, Oxford Street, London, W.

President—F. A. BEVAN, ESQ. | Treasurer—GEORGE HANBURY, ESQ.

Gospel Services, attended by about 500 of the Homeless Poor, are held on Sundays, at 11 a.m. and 3 p.m., after which each person present is supplied with Bread and Coffee. About £2 each Sunday are required for the Food alone, and there are other heavy expenses connected with the Work of the Church and Schools. Funds are Urgently Needed, and will be thankfully received by the Treasurer, 21, Portman-square, W.; Mr. Philip Gough, 33, Cambridge-street, Hyde-park, W.; or by Mr. A. G. Fraser, 4, Inverness-terrace, W.

Dinners to Poor Children in Clerkenwell.

(Address Letters and Parcels 17, Claremont Square, Pentonville.)

THE COW CROSS MISSION.

WILLIAM CATLIN, Gen. Supt.

FUNDS URGENTLY NEEDED. COLLECTING CARDS ON APPLICATION.

HELP WANTED FOR THE ANNUAL SALE

ON BEHALF OF

Dr. Barnardo's Homes for Destitute Children,

Now Sheltering, Educating, and Training over 1,400 Poor Boys and Girls.

Will all who are preparing gifts for the Annual Sale on behalf of the Homes

KINDLY SEND THEM IN AT ONCE,

for as yet but very little has been received? Will those whose busy fingers are at work for the Sale, remember that shirts for boys and men, suits for little boys, aprons and pinafores for girls, and sets of baby-clothing, are particularly valuable additions, being much asked for and readily sold? Well-made woollen shawls are frequently asked for, and, indeed, women's garments of all kinds would be especially useful. Of course, besides these, jewellery, old coins, old china, curios, musical instruments, and fancy work, trinkets, articles of vertu, books, drawings, bric-a-brac, and other examples of the thousand-and-one tasteful ornaments which are sought for by purchasers, will be very gratefully received and acknowledged.

The SALE will this year be of the SAME CHARACTER as LAST YEAR, that is to say,

Instead of holding a Public Bazaar at the West End during the month of December, as formerly, all the Goods received will be made up into

£5 and £10 Boxes. These Boxes will each contain a very excellent selection of at least the value of £6 and £12 respectively, and will be sent on receipt of P.O. Order or Cheque to any part of the country.

Ladies ordering these Boxes confer a great benefit on the "Homes;" for by this easy method all the articles received may be disposed of without any loss in the way of such expenses as are usually incurred by holding a Bazaar at the West End of London.

Many kind-hearted sympathisers have repeatedly expressed warm approval of this plan, and promised to purchase boxes with the contents of which they propose to hold in their own houses, to which their personal friends can be invited during the present season.

SMALL LOCAL BAZAARS

If there be many articles left over unsold, they can be disposed of in the last week of January (D.V.), in the New Hall of the "Edinboro' Castle."

Dr. Barnardo earnestly invites all who love poor children, to co-operate with him in this new plan to increase the funds of the "Homes," by which, too, all the wearying, disappointing, and expensive drawbacks of a public Bazaar may be avoided.

The Boxes, carefully lined and packed, will be ready for transmission on the 10th of December, and can be despatched on receipt of order to any railway station in the Kingdom. Applications (PREPAID), with full instructions as to conveyance, &c., should be sent in as soon as possible, addressed to

The TRADE MANAGER,
18, Stepney Causeway, London, E.

To all who have already in any degree helped by Contributions of Useful or Fancy Articles, Dr. Barnardo desires to offer the expression of his very grateful acknowledgments.

18 TO 26, STEPNEY CAUSEWAY, LONDON, E.

Forthcoming Meetings.

EVANGELISTIC.

The Evangelisation Society will send evangelists to any part of England, Scotland, and Wales on due notice. Apply Hon. Sec., 21, Surrey-street, Strand, W.C.

The Irish Evangelisation Society will send evangelists to any part of Ireland on due notice. Apply to Mr. J. Barton, Hon. Sec. , Dundalk, Ireland.

The Metropolitan Tabernacle Evangelists' Association will send lay preachers and evangelists to any chapel or hall of any evangelical denomination in London. Apply Hon Sec., 121. Camberwell New road, S.E.

The Children's Evangelistic Mission will send evangelists to any part of Great Britain to conduct missions for children and young people. No charge. Apply T. Eyres, Hon. Sec., 253, Southampton-street. Camberwell, S.E.

The Church Army will send evangelists (working men) to any clergymen on due notice, for short or long missions. Apply Hon. Sec., 36, Southampton-street, Strand, W.C.

Social Purity.—The Gospel Purity Association is prepared to send competent lecturers to address meetings of men or women on the above subject. Apply J. B. Wookey, General Secretary, 31, Paternoster-square. London, E.C.

Messrs. Fullerton and Smith.—To December 20, Norwood; January 3, and onwards, New Great Assembly Hall, Mile-end-road.

Mr. F. E. Marsh.—Brighton, December 6 to 20; Peterhead, N.B., January 1 to 24; Darvel, N.B, February 14 to March 7.

Mr. Gawin Kirkham.—December 2, Kilburn; 3, Lower Chorlton; 6, Ball's Pond; 7, Vauxhall; 8, Bermondsey; 9, Hoxton; 10, Somers Town; 11, Chelsea; 12 and 13, Margate; 14, Barking; 15, Willesden; 16, Edgware-road; 17, Great Marlow; 26, Norwood; 28, Exeter Hall; 30 and 31, Mildmay-park.

Rev. E. P. Hammond.—Edinburgh Castle, Rhodeswell-road, Limehouse, E., until December 11; Upper Norwood, December 25 to January 1; Camden-road Presbyterian Church, 2 to 8; Kingston-on-Thames, 9 to 22; Mrs. Meredith's Conference Hall, Clapham, 23 to February 5; Finsbury Park Y.M.C.A., 6 to 19, Presbyterian Church, Hampstead, 20 to March 5; Richmond, 6 to 19 In each place commencing with united meeting for prayer and conference with ministers, parents, Sunday-school teachers, and other Christian workers, on the Saturday evenings, at 7.30.

Mr. W. Spencer Walton.—December: Wandsworth, Barnet.

Mr. Henry Thorne.—To December 7, Malvern; 12 to 21, Stratford, London.

Mr. James Neech.—December 6 to 18, Swinderby; Carlton-le-Moorland, Lincolnshire, January 3 to 17.

Mr. G. Clarke (The Railway Mission).—Kelvinside Free Church, Glasgow, to December 7; St. Andrew's Hall, Plymouth, 9 to 23.

Mrs. Reaney every Sunday afternoon at Stepney Meeting House.

Mr. J. M. Scroggie.—December and January, N.E. Coast, Banff, Macduff, Portsoy, Buckie, and Fraserburgh.

Mr. Denham Smith.—St George's Hall, Langham-place, W., during December, Sundays, 11 a.m. and 7 p.m.; Burlington Hall, Savile-row, Wednesdays, 8 p.m.

Mr. E. P. Telford.—Dewsbury, to December 10; Southend, December 13 to 23.

Gospel Hall, Paragon-road, Hackney.—Mr. G. E. Morgan, on Sunday, December 6, 7 p m.

Bow and Bromley Institute. Bow-road, E.—Mr. Evans Hurndall, M.A., Sundays, 8.30 p m.

Hammersmith Baths (near Broadway).—Gospel services, in the Board-room on Sundays during the winter. 7 p.m.

Metropolitan Music Hall, Edgware-road.—Every Sunday in December, Mr. Chas. Cook and Male and United Choirs.

Westminster Chapel, Buckingham Palace-road, S.W.—Mr. Russell Hurditch throughout December, Sundays, at 7 p.m.

Conference Hall, Mildmay-park, N.—December 6, 3.30 p m., Mr. P. S. Badenoch; 7 p.m., Rev. James Stephens (of Highgate).

Drawing-room Meeting and address in German, by Dr. Baedeker, at Mrs Dashwood's, 39, Bryanston-square, Saturday, December 5, 3.30 p.m.

South London Evangelistic Choir.—Friday, December 4, 8 p.m, Lambeth Ragged School, Lambeth-walk; Tuesday, 8, Buckingham Hall, Palace-street, Westminster, 8 p.m.

Gospel Purity Association.—Mr. Wookey will preach in Foresters' Music Hall, Cambridge-road, E., on Sundays, December 6, 13, and 27. On Sunday morning next Mr. Wookey will preach in the large tent, Chatsworth-road, Lower Clapton.

Evangelisation of the World.—Annual conference of Christian workers, in connection with the Manchester and Salford Boys and Girls' Refuges, December 8 and 9. Messrs. Leonard K. Shaw, J. Wakefield MacGill, and Gilbert R. Kirlew are the hon. secs, Conference Hall, Strangeways, Manchester, to whom all communications may be addressed.

North London Evangelistic Choir.—Friday, December 4, Mission Hall, Bingfield-street, King's cross, 8 p m.; 7, School-room, Arundel-square Chapel, Liverpool-road; 9, School-room, Morton road, New North-road 10, Mission Hall, Lennox-road, Finsbury Park: 15. Cambridge-heath Congregational Church, 8 p m; 19, Conference Hall, Mildmay, 7 p.m.; 31, Conference Hall Mildmay, Watch Night Service, 10.30. Christian workers with good voices glady welcomed.

Union Hall Mission (under the direction of Mr. Robert Bilke).—Services on Sunday next, December 6: Union Hall, Carlisle-street, Edgware-road, N.W., Mr Jas. E. Hawkins (editor of "The Gospel Waterbearer," &c), at 7 p.m. Kensal Hall, Kensal-road W, Major Michael, at 7 p.m. Queen's-park Hall, Kilburn-lane N W., Mr. S. Stidolph, at 7 p.m. Gospel Hall, Green-lane, High-street, Battersea, S.W., Mr S. E. Angel, at 7 p m Gospel Hall, Market place, Brentford, Mr. Walter B. Strutt, at 7 p.m. 18, Greenhill-park-villas, Harlesden, N.W., workers' prayer meeting, Monday, 10.30 to 12 noon

Religious Services for the People.—Sunday services at Pavilion Theatre, Whitechapel-road, 7 p m; Town Hall, Shoreditch, 3.30; Town Hall, Holborn, 3.30 and 7; Town Hall, Bermondsey, 3 30 and 7; Town Hall, Kensington, 7; St. James's Hall, Regent-street, 3.30 and 7; Temple of Varieties, Hammersmith 3.30 and 7; Croydon Theatre, 7; Good Duke Humphrey Hall, Greenwich 3.30 and 7; Alexandra Temperance Hall, Southwark-park-road, 6 30; Park Hall, Camden Town, 3.30 and 7; Morley Hall, Hackney, 7 Evangelical Hall, High-street, Homerton, 7.

Evangelistic Mission (under the direction of Mr. C. Russell Hurditch).—Bignold Hall, Bignold-road, Station-road, Forest Gate, Mr Geo Hucklesby, Sunday, 7 p.m.; Dalston-lane, 103A—Mr H W. Davidson, and others, Sunday at 7 p m.; Mr Geo. Hucklesby, Thursday 8 p.m, on "Balaam's Seven Parables.' Hammersmith—Upper Mission Room, 18, King-street, Dr Popham, Thursday, 8 p m. Kilburn Hall, Kilburn Gate (not Town Hall), Mr. W. R. Lane, Sunday, at 7 p m. Malden Hall, Kentish Town—Mr. Abraham Wallis Sunday, at 7 p.m. Mortlake, Rest Mission Hall—Mr R Calder, Sunday 7 p.m. St. John's Wood, N.W., 190 Alexandra-road—Meeting for workers, Wednesday, 10.30 a.m. West Kensington Hall (known as Cadby Hall), Hammersmith-road, West Kensington—Mr. C. V. T. Onslow and Dr. Popham, Sunday, at 3 and 7 p.m.

◆

MISCELLANEOUS.

City of London Central Noon Prayer Meeting, 186, Aldersgate-street.—Daily, 12 to 1.

Holiness Meeting, at 29, Park-lane-terrace, Albion-road, Mildmay-park station, every Monday, 7.30 p m.

Upper Norwood, Stafford House, Tudor-road.—Drawing-room meetings every Thursday, at 3 and 8 p.m.

Merchants' Lecture, Finsbury Chapel, Moorfields, City.—Dr. Allon, Tuesday, December 8, 12 noon.

Conference Hall, Clapham-road, S.W.—December 19, mothers' sale, 6 to 8 p m., admission by ticket only.

Rev. J. Wilkinson's Bible-readings in Ezekiel every Wednesday evening, at 7 30, in the Ladies' Waiting-room, Conference Hall, Mildmay, N.

Miss Mittendorff's Annual Meeting, Tuesday, December 15, at the Y.W.C.A., 17, Old Cavendish-street, Cavendish-square, W., 7.30 p.m.

Church Army.—Consecration service, every Friday, in Brunswick Chapel, Upper Berkeley-street, at 8 p.m., Rev. F. S. Webster and Rev. E. W. Moore.

Deepening of Spiritual Life—Meetings at Stafford Rooms, Titchborne-street, Edgware-road, Friday, December 4, 3 30 p.m., address by Rev. E. W. Moore; 11, Rev. E. H. Hopkins.

Christmas Letter Mission.—Central annual prayer meeting, Wednesday, December 9, at 3 p m, in Ladies' Waiting-room, Mildmay Conference Hall. All interested in the work are invited.

3, Highbury-place, N.—Each Tuesday, 6.30 p.m., at Rev. W. E. Boardman's, a meeting held for advancement in spiritual life. On Thursday, at 11 a.m., Mrs. Boardman's Bible-class for ladies at same place.

Commercial Travellers' Christian Association.—Thirteenth annual meeting, Cannon-street Hotel, December 29, 6.30 p m., Mr. George Williams (president) in the chair. Devotional meeting, 4 p.m., speaker, Rev. H. Webb-Peploe.

Conference Hall, Mildmay park, N.—Tuesday, December 8. lecture, "The Prisons of the World," with Oriental costumes and Eastern dresses, illustrative of the different nations, by Mr. Chas. Cook, at 8 p.m. Mr. Stevenson A. Blackwood will preside.

Hornton-street Chapel, Kensington.—Mr. Warrand Houghton (author of "Expected Rapture of the Church") will give a lecture on Thursday, December 3, at 8 p.m, on "Gog and Magog, and Modern Russia" Captain Hon. C. E. Hobart-Hampden, R.N., in the chair.

Y.M.C.A., 186, Aldersgate-street.—Friday, December 4, meeting of Young Men's Foreign Missionary Society, in Lecture Hall. Addresses by Rev. Edmund Rigg, missionary from Ceylon; Rev. Westmore S. Smith, missionary from the West Indies; and Mr. J. P. Donovan, Chinese Customs Service. Sir William McArthur will preside, at 8 p m.

House of Rest, 8, Cambridge-gardens, Kilburn-park, N.W.—Friday, December 4, all-day meetings, at 10.30 a.m., 2 and 6 p m, intervals at 1 and 5 for refreshments Rev. Frank G. Webster, of the Church Army, will give an address at 3 p m on "God's Way of Holiness;" he and his cadets will take part in the morning also. Sunday, 6, at 3.30 p.m., "God's Men in the Old Testament," by Miss Mason.

Life in the Holy Land.—Miss L. M. von Finkelstein, who is a native of Jerusalem, and has resided there eighteen years, will deliver, in costume, her popular lectures as below: December 2. Regent's-square Presbyterian Church, "Homes and Haunts of Jesus;" 3, Lewisham (Rev. J Morlais Jones), "City Life in Jerusalem;" 4 and 5, Leicester; 7, Stratford Congregational Chapel, "Homes and Haunts of Jesus;" 8, Commercial-street Baptist Chapel, "City Life in Jerusalem;" 9, Wandsworth, East hill Congregational Chapel, "Homes and Haunts of Jesus;" 10, New Malden; 16, Anerley Congregational Chapel.

◆

Y.M.C. ASSOCIATIONS.

61, Gracechurch-street.—Daily prayer meeting, 1.30 to 2.15 p.m (Sat excepted). Bible study, Tuesdays, 6.15 p.m. Workers, Mondays, 6 30 p.m. Youths, Wednesdays, 7 p m. Soldiers Fridays, 7 p.m. Mission work in poor districts each evening, 8 p.m.

Burlington Hall, 23, Savile-row, Regent-street, W.—Thursday, December 3, at 8.30 p.m., Mr. C. C Underwood on "The Living Power." Mr T. A. Bevan will address the meeting and preside. Sunday, 6, 3.15 p.m. Classes and prayer meetings as usual.

The Priory, 198, Upper-street, Islington, N.—Thursday, December 3, members social meeting, refreshments at 7.30 p.m.; Sunday, 6, 3.15 p.m., special address, by Rev. P. Carmichael; Wednesday, 6 to 10, anxious inquirers and strangers.

17, Camden-road, N W.—Thursday, December 3, 8 30 p.m., social meeting, Mr. W. Castle Smith presiding. Speakers: Rev. M. Washington, M A, and Rev J. Ossian Davies. Sunday, December 6, special address, Mr. H. F. Bowker.

Shaftesbury House, Margate.—Noon-day prayer meeting, daily, to which all friends visiting the town are invited.

Applicants for Tracts.—A. Poole, 7, Pitfield-street, Kate's-hill, Dudley; A. Mace, 100, Stockbrook-lane. Derby; M. Coates, Gloucester, Westbourne, near Bournemouth: B. Middleton 42, Kimberley-street, Muthanks-road, Norwich; Lucy Shrive, 6, Vestry-road, Camberwell; Jessie Clack, 21, Roupell-street, Blackfriars-road, S E; Miss E. G Webster, Grimston Lodge, Mount-park-road, Ealing, W.: R Dingle, 29, Blackfriars-road. Oxford: J Johnson, 12. Merton-bank-road, St. Helen's, Lancashire; J. Martindale, 11 Broad-street, Bloomsbury: T. Rees, Register Office, Norton, East Canock, Staffordshire; J. Smith, Bible Depôt, Aylesbury, Bucks.

Mission and other Appeals.

Miss M. B. Gerds, Chertsey House, Redhill, Surrey, would be glad if our readers could send her any books suitable for a Y.W.C.A. they may be weeding from their libraries. She would gladly pay carriage.

The Irish Society, which seeks to carry the Gospel to Roman Catholics in Ireland, is at present in great need of funds owing to the failure of the Munster Bank, which formerly advanced them temporary assistance Full particulars will be furnished, and help received, by Mrs. Bleasdale, Mount-villas, York.

Christian Mission and Ragged School, Pontymoile.—The work carried on here is being greatly blessed in a spiritual sense, but there is great need of pecuniary help. Trade is in a depressed condition, and many of the people are out of work. The Mission is undenominational, and worthy of hearty support. The hon. secretary is Mr. T. M. Wintle, Pontymoile, near Pontypool.

Old Ford Mission, E.—A special appeal is being made to those who can give of their abundance to help the poor and needy of this district. It is proposed to feed the hungry, clothe the naked, help the sick, and in other ways to relieve their bodily wants Cast-off clothing, hospital letters, flowers for the sick, &c., would be most acceptable, as would also the necessary funds, without which, though the institution is to some extent self-supporting, these beneficent projects cannot be carried out. Subscriptions will be thankfully received by the hon. superintendent, Mr. A. Farnan, the Old Ford Mission Hall, E.

◆

Subscriptions received by Messrs. Morgan & Scott to Saturday Morning, November 28, 1885.

⁂ Donations should be sent by Cheque or P.O. Orders, not by stamps. Cheques to be drawn in favour of Morgan and Scott, and crossed City Bank; P.O. Orders payable to Morgan and Scott, at G.P.O.

⁂ Will donors oblige us by giving explicitly and fully the titles of the Missions to which they wish their donations to be applied? Mistakes which sometimes arise will thus be obviated. Will they also bear in mind that our Donation List is made up for the Printer on Saturday morning? And amounts received afterwards will be acknowledged in the subsequent week's number.

	£	s.	d.
Dock Labourers' Mission—(Christmas Dinners to Poor)—A. W. £1; (Free Meals) H. H. 2s. 6d.; J. H. 8s.; W. W. 10s.; Lay Ess, 10s.; Sympathy, £3	5	10	6
St. Giles' Christian Mission—A. B. P. £2; H. H. S. £1	3	0	0
Irish Church Missions—A. W. D. 10s.; Mrs. H. S. £2	2	10	0
Church Pastoral Aid Society—A. W. D.	0	10	0
Friendless and Fallen—E. G. 5s.; Miss M. B. G. £4; A. D. R. 5s.; Miriam, 2s. 6d.; R. G. 5s.	4	17	6
Destitution in Foula Isle—Reader of, in the New Hebrides, 10s.; E R. 5s.	0	15	0
Deptford Ragged Schools—W. G. C. 2s. 6d.; S. G. £1 15s.	1	17	6
Thames Church Mission—Miss M. B. G. £4; (Free Meals) Lay Ess, 5s.	4	5	0
Stead, &c., Defence Fund—Mrs. C. 2s.; J. E. 5s. 3d.; R. F. 10s. 6d.; A Family, Kilcraggan, 6s; I. B. G. 2s. 6d.; Miss L. £1; A. T. 2s.; E. M. C. 5s.; Miss E T., Devonshire, £20; M. W. 5s; Miss A. G. £1 15s 4d; Friends per W. A. B. 3s.; R. N. O. £1; S. P. 5s.; Sympathiser, £1	27	1	7
Dr. Barnardo's Homes—R. F £1 1s.; M. W. 5s. ..	1	6	0
Old Couple, v. Christian, July 23, p. 18—Sympathy	1	0	0
Children's Free Meals—Sympathy	2	0	0
Distressed Jews in Jerusalem (Mrs. Finn)—Mrs. and Miss P.	1	2	0
Floods in Bengal (Mr J. W Hall)—Mrs. and Miss P.	1	2	0
Famine in South Africa—Mrs and Miss P..	1	0	0
Scripture Readers' Society for Ireland—Mrs. and Miss P.	0	12	0
Sufferers from Cholera in Spain (Mr. Palmer)—Mrs. and Miss P.	0	10	0
Golden-lane Mission (Mr. Orsman)—W. £7; V. £10	17	0	0
Mildmay Mission—W.	4	0	0
Mildmay Mission to the Jews—W.	2	0	0
London City Mission—W. £5; H. H. S £1	6	0	0
Lovedale Mission (Free Church of Scotland)—W. ..	7	0	0
Home of Industry—(Widows) V.	2	0	0
Zenana Medical Mission—V.	2	0	0
Destitute Children's Dinner Society—V.	1	0	0
Evangelistic Village Mission (Mr. G. D. Shipley)—Miss E T., Devonshire	20	0	0
Rev. R. W. McAll's Work, Paris—M. W.	0	5	0
Miss E. Hopkins' Work—M. W. 5s.; (White Cross Crusade) R. H. B S. £1	1	5	0
Mrs. Wilkes' Rescue Work, Poplar—C. M. K., Gosport	0	5	0
Rescue Society—T. N. J..	0	10	0
Theatrical Mission—T. N. J.	0	10	0
Work among Sailors in Glasgow—T. N. J.	0	10	0
China Inland Mission—T. N. J.	0	10	0
Gratuitous Circulation of The Christian—T. N. J.	0	0	6
Midnight Meeting Movement—R. G..	0	5	0
Evangelisation Society—H. H S.	1	0	0
East London Training Institute (Rev. H. G. Guinness)—H. H. S.	1	0	0
Tower Hamlets Mission—H. H S.	1	0	0
Miss Whately's Work, Cairo—H. H. S..	1	0	0
Bristol Orphan Houses—H. H. S.	1	0	0
London Samaritan Society and Homerton Mission—M. S. W. and M. H. W.	1	0	0
	£129	19	7

◆

[Advertisements.]

Home of Industry—(for Widows) T. O. 5s.

Mission to Deep Sea Fishermen—E B. B. 5s.

Bethnal Green Free Library, E.—In memory of Samuel Hanson, £1.

Communications Received with Thanks.—W H.W. M J.L H.P. D.C. J.W.J. N McG. S S. F.J.L. C B. C.R. M.E.B A.M.H. H.S. L.T. D R J H. H.A. A J.B. E.S. W A H C. E C R. S.G. H S C. T G. W.S.S. A F. A B C. McW. F. E.B. W.D.A. A.C.B. H B. D.M. R C. J L.T. J.W.C.F R.J.S. E.C. H.B Constant Reader. J.D S. E M. L.T. F. T. J.J. R U. D C. W.K. E J. S.O. F J. N.T. A.R.B. R.D.F. E W M. R.U.G. G.C. I.S.A G.H. W.L. I M J.W. A S D C J L E S.G. P.P. S.B L.M. M.F. L.T. S G S. J.B. S C J C.B F H.P. Mrs. W. W.S. T.W.B. E.A. M.L. A.H. M.A.S. F.E.M. J.S. E.S. W.D.P.

FRIENDLESS AND FALLEN.

CONTRIBUTIONS BY THE END OF THE YEAR.

Every year since 1851 the Lord has GRACIOUSLY SUSTAINED in labours for the PROTECTION OF YOUNG GIRLS and the RESCUE OF THE FALLEN; and supplied means to maintain the Homes and Open-All-Night Refuge. Now I am anticipating that He will both enable and dispose the hearts of his stewards to supply all that is needful before the 31st inst. At least £1000 will be required.

The Committee, on the occasion of their first meeting in January last, unanimously adopted the following Resolution :—

> "That all suitable cases be admitted to the Homes and Open-All-Night Refuge during the year 1885, irrespective of any fluctuations of income which may arise ; believing such a course to be in perfect harmony with the mercy of God in Christ Jesus, and also in exact unison with the benevolent desires of all who co-operate with this Mission of Mercy."

Messrs. Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings, E.C., will receive Donations, or 200, Euston Road, N.W. EDWARD W. THOMAS, Sec.

MIDNIGHT MEETING MOVEMENT.

MISSION TO YOUNG WOMEN AND GIRLS.

This MISSION, by God's blessing, is RESCUING YOUNG WOMEN and GIRLS both in London and the Provinces. PENITENTS are immediately PLACED in HOMES, or otherwise assisted.

The earnestness that is manifested at this time in the rescue of JUVENILE OUTCASTS has LONG OCCUPIED the attention of the Committee. MERE CHILDREN have been gathered in to MIDNIGHT MEETINGS. To ACHIEVE MORE in this direction greater co-operation is necessary.

Christians who have NEVER SUBSCRIBED to this Mission of Mercy are URGENTLY APPEALED to, to help by donations and prayerful sympathy.

£5 will meet the expenses of a Meeting and Mission a district. 50 such Meetings will (D.V.) be held this winter. WILL FIFTY READERS of The Christian kindly GIVE £5 EACH before Christmas? 12 Donations received.

Christian Friends desirous of co-operating by contributing toward the expenses of a Meeting (or helping by prayer), are invited to communicate with J. H. L. Christien, Organising Secretary, at the Office. Donations may be sent to Messrs. MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings, E.C. ; or to

C. WILSON McCREE,
Financial Secretary.

Office—8A, Red Lion Square, W.C.

Marylebone Medical Mission and Dispensary,

43 CARLISLE STREET, EDGWARE ROAD, N.W.

Preaching the Gospel and Healing the Sick Poor. Bible Classes, Gospel Addresses, Mothers' Meetings, Clothing Clubs, &c. Funds to carry on the work will be thankfully received by Dr. R. Chambers, 43, Carlisle-street, Edgware-road ; or by the Treasurer, E. Parker Young, Esq., 30, Westbourne-square, W. ; also by Messrs. Morgan & Scott, Office of The Christian.

Blankets for the Poor are much needed.

SCRIPTURE READERS' SOCIETY FOR IRELAND.

President, The Rt. Hon. the Earl of Shaftesbury, K.G.
Established 1822.

For the purpose of employing humble Christian men well versed in the Scriptures to visit and read the Bible from house to house throughout the country. The Scripture Readers are invariably placed under carefully selected Christian Superintendents, and are also employed by the Society in the large towns and cities, such as Dublin, Belfast, Waterford, &c., as City Missionaries, and visit all classes and denominations, where permitted so to do. Irish-speaking Readers are sent to Irish-speaking districts when required, but are now seldom or ever asked for. The work is carried on in a spirit of love, and not of controversy.

The Scripture Readers also visit amongst the Sailors in seaports and hold Bethel Meeting on board Ships, at hours not to interfere with the usual Public Services. The Society is supported by voluntary contributions.

OFFICES :

27, LOWER PEMBROKE STREET, DUBLIN;
AND 9, PATERNOSTER ROW, LONDON.

Full particulars, reports, &c., can be obtained post free on application to the Secretary, Capt. James Kearney White, or by the Proprietors of this paper.

Note.—Subscriptions or Donations may be sent to the above addresses, or will be received by the Proprietors of "The Christian."

Friends will please notice the exact title, "Scripture Readers' Society for Ireland," and not "Irish Scripture Readers Society."

IRISH SOCIETY.

For Promoting the Scriptural Education and Religious Instruction of the Irish-speaking population, chiefly through the medium of their own language.

IMPORTANT AND URGENT.

In consequence of the suspension of the Munster Bank, in which the Society has hitherto kept all current accounts, there will be an immediate demand on the Society to pay to the Bank the amount overdrawn, namely, £1,800. In view of efforts and arrangements recently made, it is confidently hoped, that if this debt be wiped out, the work of the Society will be sustained in future by current receipts. Meantime the distress is urgent, as it is the season when bank accommodation is needed—receipts falling below expenditure. Will not Christian friends come promptly to the help of a Society which, for sixty-seven years, has been doing the work of God in Ireland in a way that has drawn forth the formal sanction of the Irish Church, and must commend itself to all denominations of Protestant Christians? The Society has now under its charge the Old Achill Mission, for which the Founder, the Rev. Edward Mangle, appropriately called "The Apostle of Achill," wrote the following touching appeal shortly before his death, in 1883: "The Lord has enabled his poor old servant to leave 'footprints on the sands of time' in Achill. Who will take up the work, and follow the well-worn Gospel plough when this poor ploughman has sunk to his rest? The work will and must go on. I am depending on, and praying to, a Covenant God."

Contributions may be forwarded to Miss Bleasdale, Mount Villas, York, Hon. Secretary of the Irish Society.

THE RESCUE SOCIETY.

A gentleman generously offers to give £25 on behalf of our work providing Twelve other Friends will each give a similar amount by the middle of January. He has already given £10 this year, but has been moved to assist us in this way by the concise statement of the Report which appeared in The Christian of November 12.

Will not some readers of The Christian help us to claim this kind offer, or send some smaller contribution?

The Winter is upon us, when more seek our aid than at other times, and we have now to provide daily food for 174 inmates of our Nine Homes.

Messrs. Morgan & Scott will kindly receive contributions, or they may be sent to

C. STUART THORPE,
Secretary.

79, Finsbury Pavement, E.C.

The Christian:

A WEEKLY RECORD OF CHRISTIAN LIFE, CHRISTIAN TESTIMONY, AND CHRISTIAN WORK.

WITH WHICH IS INCORPORATED "THE REVIVAL."

No. 828.] LONDON: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, PATERNOSTER BUILDINGS, E.C. THURSDAY, DECEMBER 10, 1885. REGISTERED AT THE G.P.O. AS A NEWSPAPER. [ONE PENNY. POST FREE, 1½d.

MR. GEORGE HATTON.

SOME eight years since we gave in these columns a brief sketch of the blessed work Gospel preaching and Christian philanthropy ustained by Mr. George Hatton and his fellow-bourers in the unsavoury region of St. Giles's, tuated in the very centre of London. The ketch was accompanied by ur engravings, representg different phases of the ork; to-day we give a ortrait of Mr. Hatton himlf. Our readers are pretty miliar with the general ope of the operations of e St. Giles's Mission, but few particulars relating to e most useful career of s devoted founder will be cceptable and appropriate.

(From Photograph by Reed, Tottenham Court-road.)

The Christian worker who ad to choose his own sphere f special service and wanted have an easy, comfortable me of it, would scarcely rn his eyes in the direction f St. Giles's, the very ame of which has been eemed "synonymous with rime of the worst type and ice of the deepest dye." It as within a gunshot of is locality that Mr. George Hatton first saw the light, aving been born in Chanery-lane, where his father onducted the business of a w stationer. In this callng he himself has remained, hilst devoting all the time nd energy that are not bsolutely necessary for the onduct of his business, to e Christian work with hich his name has been so losely connected. Blessed ith Christian parents, he arned in early life to know nd love the Lord. It appears to have been e faithful ministry of the late Dr. Brock, of Bloomsbury Chapel, that first incited the young Christian to work of an active and aggressive ind.

The field was ready to his hand, and at his oor, and our friend did not shirk the responsiility he felt, in order to find a more agreeable fe-work farther off. Accordingly, we find that, n the year 1860, when he was just twenty years f age, he and several other zealous young men met at his father's residence in Chancery-lane nd laid the foundation of the St. Giles's Christian Mission. They began in a very humble and unpretentious way, and for three years were permited to see little fruit of their unwearied labours.

By and by, however, the reaping time began to appear, and four years after the work commenced, it was found necessary to move the place of meeting from the room which, up to that time, had done duty as the mission headquarters, to larger premises in King-street. The work continued to develop, and in 1867 the mission, which hitherto had been under the fostering care and support of Bloomsbury Chapel, became an irresponsible effort, Mr. Hatton being appointed pastor of the congregation that had been gathered as the result of the seven years' evangelising. After the lapse of another seven years, the mission, which had far outgrown the limits of the King-street hall, moved to the more spacious building in Little Wild-street, where it has remained since, and which we trust will be a centre of successful Christian work for many a year to come.

In the interval, a fresh departure had been made, by the acquisition of a well and unfavourably known public-house in Great Earl-street, and its conversion into a branch of the mission. It was here that the "Home for Destitute Girls" was founded by Miss Lee, an active helper in the work. She afterwards removed to Plaistow, and later still to Eastbourne, where she continued to labour for the good of these waifs and strays on the great seething ocean of London life. The Earl-street premises are still devoted to mission work among the poor of the neighbourhood, and doubtless there is ample room for it and many more. The activities of Mr. Hatton and his helpers found vent in other directions, and before the removal to Little Wild-street, there were in operation all the varied agencies that are usually to be found in connection with a working church in a poor neighbourhood — Sunday-school, Band of Hope, visitation of homes and lodging-houses, soup-kitchen, clothing and other clubs, &c. Since 1867, when Mr. Hatton assumed the pastorate of the church, over a thousand persons have been received into Christian fellowship, most, if not all of them, presumably being the direct results of the Gospel ministry; while the Christian public have endorsed the good work to the extent of more than £30,000 during the same period. As the members of the church are, as a rule, of the poorest class, they are not in a position to pay for the aggressive and philanthropic effort so greatly needed in the district, so that outside friends of the Lord's work have nobly seconded Mr. Hatton's endeavours by their freewill offerings.

Though taking the chief spiritual charge and oversight of the congregation, Mr. Hatton fully understands the advantage of having a fresh voice heard within the walls of the church. It has been his frequent custom to have special Gospel services, conducted by some experienced and accredited evangelist. Among those who have thus visited St. Giles's, special mention may be made of Joshua Poole and Richard Weaver. These flaming heralds of salvation have often, and to good purpose, lifted up the banner of the cross at Little Wild-street. All the golden sheaves which they and others have gathered in that dark corner of the great harvest field, no man may know till the great day of manifestation and reward; but they have amply proved, over and over again, that even sinners of St. Giles's can be saved—ay, more easily, perhaps, than sinners of St. James's or Mayfair. As in the days of old, the thieves and the harlots press into the kingdom more readily than the supercilious and the self-righteous.

Among its other doubtful distinctions St. Giles's has long been known as the resort of thieves, of the lowest strata of that gruesome profession. In 1877, when Joshua Poole was conducting a Gospel mission at the Little Wild-street Chapel, several of these light-fingered gentry attended the meetings. Whether they went to scoff or to pick pockets, we know not; but at any rate they remained to pray. More than any other class of the unregenerate community, unless it be those unhappy women who have lapsed from the paths of virtue, repentant thieves find it difficult to reinstate themselves with an exacting and uncharitable public. Knowing and feeling this, the practical sympathy of Mr. Hatton and his helpers was drawn out towards the converts, who greatly desired, but found it exceedingly difficult, to open a fresh page in their sin-stained lives. An effort was made to give them honest employment at wood-chopping and other occupations of a humble order. The effort proved successful beyond anticipation. This most Christlike endeavour to "raise the fallen, cheer the faint," inaugurated in such a casual and accidental fashion, as some might say, has grown within the last eight years to be a work of national interest and importance. Its progress is noted year by year, at the "Thieves' Suppers" that are annually held in Little Wild-street; a report of the festival held last week is given in succeeding columns. In that report the name of Mr. William Wheatley appears, and any notice of this latest and most remarkable outcome of the St. Giles's Christian Mission, would be very incomplete without a more or less detailed reference to Mr. Wheatley's share in it, as the able lieutenant of Mr. Hatton and the practical organiser of the reclamatory methods employed. But that will demand a separate notice, which we hope to furnish in a future issue, with a portrait of Mr. Wheatley. Meantime we take the opportunity of commending the work among discharged prisoners to the warmest and most sympathetic regard of the British Christian public. It is, as we have said, a movement of national importance, as tending materially to thin the ranks of the criminal class, and therefore it has a special claim on the support of all true patriots and lovers of their kind.

Mr. Hatton's physical health, of recent years, has not, unfortunately, been on a par with his zeal in the good cause. It has often been a marvel to us that he did not utterly break down under the constant wear and tear of mind and body. This result has at last come to pass, we grieve to say, and, though he was present at the meeting last week, we think it very likely that he ought rather to have been on a sick-bed. We trust he may be enabled to have such a season of rest as shall bring speedy convalescence; St. Giles's cannot well spare him. Some of the facts embodied in this notice we have culled from Mr. Holden Pike's interesting book, SAVING TO THE UTTERMOST (2s. 6d. Hodder & Stoughton), in which the story of twenty-five years' labour in St. Giles's is amply and ably set forth. In this book is given a photograph of Mr. Hatton from which our portrait is engraved.

SUPPING WITH THIEVES.

In considering the sad condition of the criminal classes, it is well sometimes to imagine what their thoughts must be towards the society upon which they prey. Through circumstances which in some degree they cannot regulate, they find themselves in the antipodes to nearly all our conditions of life. With the guardian of the peace, the policeman, we are seldom brought into contact, but we look upon him as our friend and protector. To these unfortunates, what is he but a continual terror? We regard the legislative authority as a beneficent power existing only for the public weal, while to them it appears a standing menace against their freedom of action. The executive we are accustomed to regard as the administrator of even-handed justice, while they can see nothing in it but the far-reaching and retributive sword of judgment. If it were possible to bring before the Christian Church as a fresh fact that in London alone there exists an army of 40,000 men and youths living in these conditions of thought and existence, an army all out of step and time with social order, without the means of honest livelihood, or that much-to-be-prized essential towards its attainment—an honest name—would it be anything very wonderful if another army of relief and rescue should speedily go forth in God's name to the unfortunate, the perishing host? Would there not be a sudden laying down of sectarian barriers, and a loud call to united action? We would have committees to aid in every congregation, that the soldiers of hope should lack for nothing. The army of despair we have, but the soldiers of hope are few and far between. Here and there they struggle on in the field of action, each filled with the faith, and doing the work, of many. They send news from the front of continuous success, but their requests for needed supplies often fall upon dull ears. There are even those who dwell by the stuff that say they depend upon the prison discipline to produce the needed reform, unmindful that the officials who administer the same lay no such pretensions to its efficacy.

One of the leading regiments in the campaign is that called the St. Giles's Christian Mission. It would be difficult to say what branch of rescue work is not carried on at their head-quarters, appropriately situated in Little Wild-street, Drury-lane, under the superintendence of Mr. Hatton; but we would specially refer at present to the criminal classes and discharged prisoners department, so effectively carried on by Mr. William Wheatley. In such a work as this statistics entirely fail to show either the quality or the quantity of the work, but they must serve for those who have not the opportunity of spending a day in Mr. Wheatley's company. And here we would gladly testify to the kindly co-operation of the prison authorities. They appear to consider Mr. Wheatley as their most valuable coadjutor. The Common Serjeant, Sir W. T. Charley, always communicates with him regarding lads who are brought before him for first offences, and, if possible, they are put in the way of an honest career instead of being sent to prison. The authorities at Scotland Yard testify in the most liberal manner to the efficacy and value of the Mission, and to it they apportion a large share of the credit for the decrease of serious crime shown by the yearly returns. The number of male prisoners discharged from Coldbath Fields, Holloway, and Wandsworth prisons for the last twelve months was 18,385, and 14,552 of this number accepted the invitation to breakfast, which was given to them all. More than a fourth of these signed the Temperance pledge, and an equal number were assisted with clothes, tools, employment, &c., while over one hundred were sent to the Colonies to make a new start in life.

On Tuesday evening, last week, we gladly took the opportunity of being present at a great annual event, the supper for the criminal classes, given at the Mission Chapel, Little Wild-street, Drury-lane. On approaching the place, it was reassuring to note how numerous were the policemen on duty, for the quality of the surging crowd around the door did not make one anxious to meet them under less favourable circumstances. But regarding those we found gathered together for the special occasion, we cannot write a single word of criticism. They had not come thither to court it. But there was more than sufficient to fill the heart with sorrow and sympathy towards them, and to energise the brave workers who have chosen to give themselves for their material and spiritual advancement.

It was pleasing to note how many had come to show their hearty sympathy with the work. It was the Lord Chief Justice of England, Lord Coleridge, who presided at the meeting held in the chapel after supper. He was supported by Captains Colville and Helby, the governors of Coldbath Fields and Wandsworth gaols, no fewer than five London magistrates, also Sir Wm. McArthur; Mr. Howard Vincent, M.P., the late, and Mr. Munro, the present, Director of Criminal Investigation; Dr. Donald Fraser, Rev. Andrew Mearns, &c., &c. The report submitted by Mr. HATTON sparkled with promise; case after case he described where the helping hand at the needed moment had turned the whole course of the after life. The great feature of the past year was the opening of the new home in Brooke-street, Holborn, where men may be sheltered till employment is found for them, and where a large number are engaged in various departments of work.

The welcome Mr. WHEATLEY received showed how he is regarded by the men. He wished to convey his thanks to employers of labour, and shipping-agents, for the great help he had received from them during a time of great depression in trade.

The sympathy of Lord COLERIDGE was abundantly shown in his address. He said if a large familiarity with criminals made one know something of the extent and variety of crime, it also made one acquainted with the deadly strength, the unbending pertinacity, the infinite variety, of the temptations which produce it. They had too often had to punish men for being what society had made them, and had to act as engines of a system which sometimes crushed with pitiless severity the creatures it had produced. There were few sadder things in a judge's life than the conviction that was slowly formed in his mind—he spoke, of course, for himself only—of the very little good he could do by any punishment he inflicted. In his judgment, there should be a very much greater leniency introduced into the scale of our punishments. Next, it was most important that there should be some such system as he saw there, and he was thankful to see it flourishing, to help prisoners when they came out of prison. Punishment there must be when the law is transgressed, but that society is wise that will strain every nerve to prevent crime being repeated, to prevent relapse into crime, or, what is better, to prevent persons growing into criminals. In concluding, he assured the company of his heartiest sympathy. As a fitting pendant to his lordship's speech, Mr. Hatton announced that he had made a donation to the society of twenty guineas.

Then followed short addresses from many speakers, filled with kindly counsel and hopeful encouragement. After the meeting had been formally dismissed, the men remained to receive 1s. each. Mr. B. Perry, of Bristol, who was present, gave a very interesting account of a convict who had been in his employ, and who had passed through the hands of Mr. Hatton's mission. He also dwelt strongly upon the religious aspect of reform. We rejoice that so many came to encourage Mr. Hatton in carrying hope to the forlorn, and we gladly advise the Christian public, that though the funds expended last year amounted to £7875, the sum of £1200 is needed during the current month to meet pressing demands. The annual report, entitled "One Year's Rescue Work," Mr. Hatton will forward to all who wish for further particulars; his address is 4, Ampton-street, Regent-square, W.C.

◆

IS THERE NOT A CAUSE?

THE WRONGS OF THE POOR.

FEW prettier villages than Swanstow do I remember ever to have seen. Embowered in woods, plantations, and orchards, with vines, fruit trees, and rose-bushes growing in front of its old-fashioned cottages, it was not altogether unnatural on my part that, when I first saw it, I allowed the idea of rude plenty to connect itself with this appearance of rural comfort, and believed that I must have found in the rustic inhabitants of this picturesque little hamlet a happy and contented people.

But too soon, alas! was I disturbed in my day-dream, by being brought into collision with such stern facts that I almost wished I had never seen the village, nor, indeed, was I sorry when I could leave it again. I had to wait some hours before continuing my journey, and, to utilise the time on hand, I determined to visit some few of the cottagers. The humble home of Seth Lillingstone—it is as if I could see it now, with its little garden gate, and its narrow, but well-trodden footpath, leading up to its tree-shaded door. Often, I should suppose, had the eye of the passing tourist rested on this abode of poverty and pain, he, like myself, never dreaming of their connection with the pretty little cottage. But true it is, as people often tell us, that one half of the world knows nothing of the way in which the other half lives.

My knock at the door was answered by a woman advanced in years, whose wan and sorrow-stricken face partly prepared me for the sorrowful tale that remained to be told.

"I suppose you have come to see my husband, sir?"

"Yes, if you will allow me," said I; and following her up some ancient stairs, the steps of which had been worn and strained by the feet of successive generations of cottagers, I found myself in a sick man's room.

"This is very hard, sir," he said, as he raised himself up in the bed. "Would you like to look at my poor legs?" he continued, and, before I could persuade him that I lacked the inclination to do so, he had thrown off the bed-clothes, and revealed a sight that made me almost shudder to see it. Wounds, bruises, and putrefying sores!!! But I had yet to learn the worst. No longer able to work, nor, consequently, to pay a doctor, he had been compelled to seek, through the relieving officer, a refuge in the Union Workhouse, and was then awaiting the vehicle that was to take him thither. It would have required but little exhortation to have made me obedient to the Scriptural precept, "Weep with those that weep," when I saw him raise his horny hand, after telling me his story, and wipe away the tears that were trickling down his cheeks. And I afterwards learnt from his neighbours that his story was perfectly true. He had been a hard-working man, who had reared a family respectably; but exposure and poor living had brought him to his present sad condition, and at last he had been compelled to cease from work. He had then made an application to the parish for relief, but this had been refused, and the only response he received from a renewed appeal was an offer of "The House."

I thought of "Socialism," and other revolutionary agencies that had begun to threaten society, and I asked myself the question—"Is there not a cause?" After I had prayed with him, and striven in some degree to comfort him, I slipped a florin into his hand, and was about to turn to another cottage, when "a four-wheeler" was pulled up at the garden gate, and inquiry was made by the driver as to where Seth Lillingstone was to be found. The news was communicated to the old woman, and in a little while the poor man had dressed himself, and was staggering down the garden path to the cab that was awaiting him in the road. "I shall never come back alive," he sobbed, and in another minute he had gone. I tried to imagine his thoughts as he felt himself driven away from wife, neighbours, and native village, to end his days among strangers in a place from which his soul had ever shrunk; and then I wished again, as I have said before, that I had never seen Swanstow, and, despite its natural prettiness, I was impatient to be gone from it.

Yet the same kind of thing would be found connected with the history of every English village. Three shillings weekly, and no more, to the honest, worn-out labourer favoured by the guardians; three shillings to pay rent, buy coal, and find food, to make no mention of clothes; and to the poor, not favoured by the guardians, "The House," or absolute starvation.

A sturdy waggoner was standing by when Seth came down the garden path, waiting to tender assistance. In his neighbour's case he saw what was awaiting him, when years should have stolen away his strength. Before him, and before others who were looking on, was the workhouse as life's goal. Who can wonder if the poor, as they are said to be, are ripe for revolution? What would have been my own feelings at leaving my wife, and going from the freedom of home to don the badge of helpless bondage in the well-known garb of the workhouse? And what, again, would have been yours, dear friend?

I have no sympathy with those political agitators who only stir up strife to further their own ambitious ends, nor can I regard, with other feeling than contempt, those from among the educated classes who make the wrongs of the poor a means to obtain popularity; but both cruel and crying are these wrongs, and terrible will be the reckoning when the Lord shall enter into judgment with those who have either wrought them, or perpetuated them when wrought by others. It is the second great commandment, "Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself," and if, by means of its rulers, the nation refuses to legislate on behalf of its poor, individuals must still obey the great law of God, and believers must lead others in works of charity. These must study James as well as Paul, though Paul again is fully as practical as James. A desire to accumulate wealth has become quite a passion with many, even among the children of God, though God Himself has said, "He that hasteth to be rich shall not be innocent."

It is as true now as in the days of the Apostles that "They that will be rich fall into temptation and a snare, and into many foolish and hurtful lusts, which drown men in destruction and perdition," and greater need than ever is there for the Scriptural exhortation, "Charge them that are rich in this world, ... that they be rich in good works, ready to distribute, and willing to communicate."

Every kind of property is seriously threatened, and many will soon be the eyes turned heavenward with the prayer for God to defend it; but He will never charge Himself with the defence of hoards that have been wrung out of, and kept from, the poor. It was advice once given to a pagan monarch that might be usefully regiven to many a possessor of property in the present day, "Let my counsel be acceptable unto thee, and break off thy sins by righteousness, and thine iniquities by showing mercy to the poor, if it may be a lengthening of thy tranquillity." That this true story of poor old Seth Lillingstone may have its due effect on the minds of all my readers is the earnest prayer of their humble servant in the service of Christ Jesus,

JOHN E. LINNELL.

Pavenham Vicarage, Bedford.

◆

A SONG OF DEGREES.

I HAVE mounted on eagle's wings
In the blaze of the noonday light,
Till fleeting and earthly things
Seemed lost in the upward flight;
I have risen o'er mist and cloud,
And bidden them all depart,
Nor gather again to shroud
The sun from my joyous heart.

I have fought in the Christian fight,
Determined to win the day,
Keeping my armour bright,
Ready the foe to slay;
Pressing where hotly raged
The battle with deadly sin;
In conflict ever engaged,
The warrior's crown to win.

I have run in the Christian race,
With the Christian's goal in view;
The might of the Master's grace
Would ever my strength renew.
Forgetting the things behind,
And reaching for those before,
I pressed to the mark assigned—
The prize on the distant shore.

I have toiled in my harvest-field,
And gathered the choicest sheaves,
While many could only yield
Nothing but withered leaves;
And the harvest song was sweet
That welcomed the garnered grain,
And the seed of the finest wheat
Bore a hundredfold again.

. . . . .

But these triumph-notes of song
Must melt in a minor key,
We cannot the praise prolong,
Or always the glory see:
From the summit of Tabor's hill
We descend to the level plain,
And the soaring soul must still
Return through the cloud again.

Not always the warrior bold
In the foremost rank is found,
He must watch in the midnight cold,
He must wake to the bugle sound;
Though faint, he must still pursue,
Though weak, must possess the land;
Must fight with the faithful few,
And, "having done all, must stand."

And the steps of the runner tire
As he strains with faltering feet
T'ward the goal of his heart's desire,
Mid the glare of the noonday heat;
But never the racer turns
From the contest once begun,
Though weary and faint, he learns
With patience the race to run.

The reaper has other toil
Than gathering golden grain,
For oft, in unfruitful soil,
The seed is bestowed in vain:
But nought must his heart dismay,
Though in sowing he oft may weep,
For all who will watch and pray,
At last shall rejoice and reap.

The Lord of the mountain height
Is found in the valley dim;
The Captain who leads the fight
Will strengthen the weary limb.
And the runner shall persevere,
Finding the path made straight;
And the Lord of the harvest cheer
The sower to watch and wait.

LUCY TAYLOR.

THE IRON LAW OF WAGES.

SOME weeks ago an article appeared in Justice, the organ of the Social Democratic Federation, in which the following statements were made :—

> I had the good fortune lately to get the following facts at first hand from a girl who has worked four years at one of the best-known Bible binding houses in London. All the work is paid by results, and my informant declared that she was one of the quickest hands in the place, and that none could earn more money. She had been paid during the previous week seven shillings. During the time that the Revised Bible was being bound she had been working from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. (including one hour and a half for meals); yet, notwithstanding the extra hours worked, the highest wage she gained in one week was thirteen shillings. During the whole of the last twelve months, the average wage of a quick hand would be under ten shillings. Those who were slower, and would consequently not make so much money, and also be the first to be dismissed when work was slack, could not have averaged more than five shillings a week the year through. She thought that a single woman, with no parents or relatives to support her, might get a decent room for three shillings a week.
>
> These figures it must be remembered are not those paid at some low sweating den, but are probably the highest paid in the trade by the most respectable firms engaged.

Sending this to a Christian friend, we have received the following reply :—"The above statements, although too near the truth, are not quite correct. I have been at some pains to investigate the matter, not from an isolated instance, and a girl's own word as to her ability for speedy work, but from a reference to the wages books of several firms, and I find that, while the Revised Bible was in hand, many earned nearly, and some over, 20s., and that not working so long as from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. In another house the figures stood at an average of 15s., and in another at 13s. During the busy time, the wages book of one firm showed earnings from 15s. to 20s., some over 20s., and one as high as 24s. 7d.

"I have taken out from one house twelve women of ordinary ability, and find that, for the year ending November 7, they average £28 16s. 4d., or 11s. 1d. per week, some of them making an average of 13s., while one earned only 8s. 8d. In this, as in all other departments of labour, there are many who are naturally slow, one forewoman telling us that you could not get them to hurry; and these, of course, had to suffer for it.

"It must, however, be borne in mind that this year has been one of exceeding dullness in the bookbinding line; many say it is the dullest they have ever known, and not nearly brought up to the average by the additional work of the Revised Bible.

"While the above earnings might be sufficient to keep a girl living at home with her parents, it must be remembered that many are not so situated, and have not only to keep themselves entirely but have even others dependent on them, and with these it must be hard indeed. With the twelve above mentioned, taken out quite at random, the domestic circumstances are as follows: seven live with their parents at home, two have to keep their mothers entirely, and one partially; one is married, and one is a widow with two children to support."

The writer in Justice goes on to say :—

> Behind the dry statement of facts we can see the rest of the horrible story—how, when there is plenty of work, it is just possible for a girl to make enough to keep body and soul together by standing at a board to fold for twelve hours a day—how "good times" such as these are succeeded by "bad times," and, instead of overwork for a bare living, she is permitted to work half-time and to suffer privation until the slackening wheels of the mighty machine of capitalism come to a standstill, when no work is to be had on any terms and the alternative of sheer starvation or the streets stares the poor child in the face.

Upon which our friend remarks :—"There are a large number out of work, even during this the busiest part of the year, and the sewing machines which are coming into use now are displacing many more, and, even if these obtain work now for a month or two, it is certainly a marvel what they do during the remainder of the year. But the regular hands employed by respectable binders are a very respectable class of girls, many of them attendants at some place of worship, and a large number total abstainers. That among the irregular or occasional hands there are some bad characters is pretty certain, but one forewoman told us that in twenty years' experience in one house she had only discharged three or four from that cause, and no respectable house would knowingly keep them.

"On the whole, the question seems to be this: Upon what sum can a single young woman keep herself, one who is entirely dependent on her own hands, and is there any way, in these days of fearful competition, of affording that sum, not to the slowest and most careless, but to hands of ordinary ability?"

Justice quotes the following statement made by Rev. Nehemiah Curnock :—

> It has been declared by Social-Democrats that the starvation wages paid to girls and women are a shame and a curse to our civilisation. I endorse that statement, and thank God that the Social-Democrats have been moved to make it. But this is only half the truth. The other half is this; that young men by thousands are being starved out of all possibility of marrying and caring for those whom God has made to be their companions and helpmeets.

On which Justice remarks :—

> This gentleman is a leading light among the Methodists, and we should like to hear further what he and his friends propose to do to alter the evils they professedly deplore.

Now that is a very pertinent question, and among the burning questions of the day there is none which burns more deeply into the very heart of our national and social life, and none on which the fullest information, the most searching inquiry, and the best-considered proposals of the ablest men, are more urgently needed.

MR. HENRY COOK'S GOSPEL SHIPS.

DEAR SIR,—The Gospel ship Mystery has been here about five weeks, and will, we hope, remain another six or eight weeks. Large congregations, composed of labourers, seamen, mechanics, and others have met on board every evening, and three times on the Sabbath, to hear the blessed word of truth. The Mystery is fitted up in a very convenient manner, and in both cabins can accommodate about 190 persons. The cabins have often been crammed. During the time the vessel has been in this port about thirty persons, old and young, have professed conversion. Some who were low down in sin are now glad with the knowledge of sins forgiven.

Mr. Cook has been expected to visit the island, and his visit will be most acceptable. Mr. John Laurence, himself a miracle of grace, is in command of the boat, and humbly works for his Master's glory. WM. WARREN BIRD, JUN.

St. Sampson's, Guernsey.

Mr. Cook (Sailors' Resort, Gosport) writes :—On board the Annie, now at Portsmouth, weekly teas and Gospel meetings are being held for our merchant seamen and fishermen. The testimonies of many are indeed most cheering This little act of kindness shown to these poor men, pent up in their little forecastle, proves to be on the winning side for the Lord's work. For the work in general we are wanting supplies. Bibles, Testaments, Gospel books, bags, comforters, &c., all will be most welcome for our winter's need.

THE REVIVAL WE WANT.

THE religious revival we ought to pray for is a revival that shall affect the morals of the Church as well as its worship and religious sentiment, and ennoble the whole life of those who bear the Christian name. The power of the Church depends quite as much on the steadfast justice, the courageous truthfulness, the tender mercy of Christian people, as on the soundness of their creed and the fervour of their religious zeal.

I long to see the day when the faith of the Church shall be so strong that the promises of God will be the adequate consolation of all Christian people in their earthly sorrows, and when the great hope of immortal glory will fill their hearts with perpetual gladness and their lips with perpetual song; when the Church will be inspired with a more fervent love and thankfulness in presence of the Cross of Christ, and with a more passionate loyalty to his throne; when worship will cease to be a weariness, and when in prayer all Christian men will approach God with perfect confidence in his power and willingness to answer them. But I also long to see the time when the Church will discover in the teaching and example of Christ the outlines of a far diviner morality; when the noblest natural ethics will look poor and dim compared with the idea of perfection for which the Church will strive, and which, in the strength of the Spirit of God, it will largely fulfil; when the equity, truthfulness, frankness, courage, industry, patience, temperance, self-sacrifice, public spirit, gentleness, charity, of all those who bear the Christian name will be a perpetual demonstration of the power of the Holy Ghost.—Dr. R. W. Dale.

MR. THORNE AT BRIDGWATER.

A SUCCESSFUL series of united mission services, conducted by Mr. Henry Thorne, has been held under the auspices of the Bridgwater Y.M.C.A. Deep impressions have evidently been produced by Mr. Thorne's earnest addresses, and the effective singing of the United Mission Choir, of about seventy voices, conducted by Mr. W. J. Coles. Throughout the week noon prayer-meetings and afternoon Bible-readings were continued daily, the attendances being very satisfactory. The Bible-readings, especially, were so much appreciated that a larger room had to be obtained, and the Wesleyan school-room, kindly lent for the occasion, was well-filled each day. The evening meetings in the Town Hall were attended by large and increasing numbers, the working-classes especially being well represented, and there is reason to believe that souls were won for Christ at every meeting. One evening a large number of young women were present to hear an address from Mr. Thorne on "The Perils of a Young Woman." The newly-formed Y.W.C.A. of Bridgwater co-operated throughout in the arrangements for the mission. A special address to young men on "Temptation" was given on another occasion.

The meetings were brought to a conclusion by a praise meeting on Monday, November 23, in the Congregational Chapel, in which Mr. and Mrs. Hind Smith both took part. Previous to this meeting the inquirers and new converts met Mr. Thorne at tea in the adjoining school-room. These number over seventy, and a considerable proportion of them have given in their names as being desirous of connecting themselves with the various religious bodies of the town, and with the Young Men's and Young Women's Christian Associations. A series of special weekly meetings has been arranged for the strengthening of the converts, to be addressed by the various ministers of the town.

ALFRED J. WHITBY, } Secretaries.
J. NASH REES, }

MR. SPURGEON ON THE TIMES.

FROM DECEMBER "SWORD AND TROWEL."

EVERYTHING is heaving, and tossing, and yeasting. The world is like the troubled sea, which cannot rest; its waters cast up mire and dirt. Nothing seems stable unless it be the throne of iniquity: all else appears to swing to and fro in the hurricane. That "sea of glass," of which we have so often read, is a thing of another age. We may say of the present moment, "the sea wrought, and was tempestuous." That a great calm will come of it all, because the Lord liveth and reigneth, is our unmoved conviction; but as yet we see not the signs thereof. Looking out of our narrow porthole, for we dare not leave our cabin in such a storm, we spy a few things which strike us as noteworthy, and we jot them down with trembling hand.

We see justice summoning her juries, and setting her judges aloft, in order to punish an attempt to aid her in her own true object. With blindfolded eyes she allows the foulest culprits to pass her by unseen; but she tears away the bandage at the approach of one who has dared to violate the letter of her commands in order to preserve their substance. Law must take its course; no right-minded man would wish to contravene its majesty; but it is a great sorrow to every true heart that zealous philanthropy should be branded as a criminal for its well-meaning mistake, while infamous lust riots with impunity. Is it an inevitable consequence of human frailty that, at times, to prevent the deadliest wrong, a brave man must cross the track of law, and be crushed beneath its iron wheels? If so, let the victim be sustained by the prayers and sympathies of all who approve his designs; and let no good man, clad in the garments of prudence, stand by, and coolly cry, "I told you so." Just now we do hear that provoking voice, like the harsh screams of sea-birds on the storm-waves.

As for the evil itself which has horrified us all, it is not abated nor disproved by the legal censure of the man who bravely exposed it; say rather that it is proved by the ferocious persecution of the reformer who dragged it to light. We have lately seen the most appalling evidence that a "White Slave Trade" is carried on from our shores, and to our shores, of a sort which cannot be described in these pages. This information does not come from Mr. Stead and his commission, but from quite another quarter. Whatever the pages of the Pall Mall may have been, they are whiteness itself to the actual truth. The Commission for Investigating the Traffic in British Girls discloses facts which are enough to drive good men mad. Indignation burns, like coals of juniper, as we cry, "O Lord, how long?" We cannot say more, but our readers may rely upon it that the half has not been told them, never ought to be told them, never can be told them. Those who contend against the foul torrent of vice, which carries away not only men and women, but little children, deserve our admiring sympathy; and if they should ever make a blunder, we need not marvel, and ought not to condemn.

If ever there was an age when the people of God should cultivate a Puritanic purity, it is now. We have need to return to the preciseness of holiness; for it is evident that the laxity of a worldly religion has produced impurity not only among the lowest of the people, but among those from whom we look for better things. Places of authority have become coverts for impurity. The Gospel of the grace of God needs to be turned, like a river, into this Augean stable; and yet there are preachers who reckon that this is no longer mighty to bless the world! What hope remains?

At this hour all men are astir as to politics, and to us it is saddening to observe how much of the furore is for party, and how little of it is for principle. The question is not, "Which is right, and which is wrong?" but, "What will get our party into power?" Hence great questions must wait on the convenience of great men. Shall we never have a party which does not care for party, but only wages war for truth and righteousness? Christian men must not abjure politics when matters are at stake which concern truth, justice, peace, and virtue; but when these are bidden to wait till a more convenient season, godly men are put out of court. As to mere party tactics and policies, righteous men abhor them. Who can have to do with the tricks of party politics, and remain clean in heart and hand? What have the spiritual to do with these grovelling matters? What have we to do to find offices for this set of men or that? Our only care should be to advance the cause of liberty and goodness—the cause of God; and, in the best sense, the cause of men.

[After some strong and caustic references to the Disestablishment agitation, Mr. Spurgeon proceeds]:—

All this hurly-burly is apt to take Christian people off from their chief concern in the world. We shall be glad when the noise is over; that we may give ourselves wholly to the Word of God, and prayer, and the winning of souls, and the feeding of the flock of Christ. It is hard to contend for the holiest principles without allowing some unholy passion to creep in. In many cases, those whom we have to withstand to the face are true brethren in Christ; and this makes the warfare all the more difficult. If we must contend, we may well desire that it may be with the enemies of the cross, but it is painful in the last degree to Paul to be opposed to Peter. Truth is first, and peace afterwards; but oh that the time were come when the peace will never need to be broken, because we shall all be walking in Him who is the Way, the Truth, and the Life!

When we turn our eyes from the world without to the Lord our God, who is the dwelling-place of his people in all generations, we see that all things are in his hand, and ordered for the best results. The things which can be shaken will fall, that only those which cannot be shaken may remain. In the long run truth will prevail. And yet it strikes the thoughtful observer that the coming of the Lord Jesus is far more the hope of the Church than any remedial processes, or evolutions, or progresses among mankind. Under some aspects the world grows better, but in the deepest and most solemn sense, evil men and seducers wax worse and worse. Growingly do we see the weakness of the flesh, and the need of a Divine interposition. It is ours to plod on as if all depended upon us; but it is still more ours to look up and believe that our redemption draweth nigh, and that not from our endeavours, but from the appearing of the Son of God. His day will blaze with his own glory; He alone shall be glorified in his saints, and admired in all them that believe. "The loftiness of man shall be bowed down, and the haughtiness of men shall be made low; and the Lord alone shall be exalted in that day." Oh, that it would soon dawu! In hopeful expectation we look no more upon the flying scud, and the boiling waters; but we fix our eye upon the Pole Star, which abideth and shineth on for ever. "Until the day break, and the shadows flee away," we will with our readers watch, and thus conclude the year.

"Oh, watch and pray! for thou hast foes to fight,
  Foes which alone thou canst not overcome;
Watching and prayer will keep thine armour bright,
  Soon will thy toils be o'er, thy victory won.

Oh, watch and pray! the Judge is at the door,
  Before his flaming bar thou soon must stand;
Oh, watch! and keep thy garments spotless pure,
  And thou shall then be found at his right hand.'

◆

NOTES FROM ACROSS THE ATLANTIC.

IN a recent letter Dr. G. F. Pentecost, of Brooklyn, writes to us:—

You will be glad to know that our friend Mr. Aitken is doing grand service on this side the water. He has closed a two weeks' mission in Brooklyn, and I am sure that our Church friends on this side have rarely heard the Gospel preached so incisively, so lovingly, and so thoroughly. He has not spared to declare the whole counsel of God, and his word has been a fire, a hammer, and a sword. I believe that great good will follow his mission. It seems a pity that his work is narrowed within the limits of the Episcopal Churches, for I am sure he would have thousands to hear him if he could make a catholic mission of it instead of an Episcopal one.

Our Academy services this year are attended with larger blessing than ever before. The great auditorium is crowded to the roof every Sunday. The congregation is about 3000; fully one half of them are young men, for whom we reserve the whole lower part of the house. Already there have been many conversions, and the interest in this work for young men is increasing with every week. Mr. Moody begins a ten days' meeting for young men only, in the beautiful new hall of the Y.M.C.A. in this city, on December 8. We are looking for great results from these meetings.

Our friend J. E. K. Stndd is spending the winter visiting the various colleges of the country, and especially pressing the claims of Christ upon young men for personal service both at home and abroad. This is a new feature of Gospel work amongst the colleges. We are glad to have him, and all others of our fellow-workmen from the other side, to help us in this.

Pastor Frank White is also on this side, as you know, combining recreation with service. His lantern-pictures of the Tabernacle and the Parables have been given with good effect in Boston, in Brooklyn, and in Philadelphia and other cities, which he has visited. We are made glad on this side the water by every bit of good news we hear from your side, and long to have fellowship with you in the work there when it shall please God to free us for a little while from the home work.

A New York correspondent also writes:—Mr. Aitken has gone to Newark, N.J., to hold fourteen days' mission, prior to commencing the United Mission in New York City on Nov. 28. Rev. Francis Pigou, D.D, of Halifax, who is to take a leading part in the coming missions, is expected in a few days We bespeak the prayers of all the readers of THE CHRISTIAN while these workers are with us, that they may be helped to declare the truth in demonstration of the Spirit.

THE FLORENCE MEDICAL MISSION.—During the past year, the patients have been somewhat fewer. The seaside branch of the mission is of the greatest importance, and the applications have been very numerous. A Bible-nurse is about to be attached to the mission; the attendance at the Sunday-school has been very satisfactory, but the teachers are few. Help in clothing and money will be thankfully received by Rev. J. R. MacDougall, 11, Lung Argo, Guicciardino, Florence.

AGED PILGRIMS AT HORNSEY-RISE.

IT is a distinguishing glory of Christianity that it prompts its disciples to seek the good of others, especially of those who cannot provide for themselves. And so, it is only in lands where the religion of Jesus Christ exercises sway that we find orphanages, homes, asylums, and other institutions devoted to the care of the poor and needy, the very young and the very old. Have we not here one of the best possible proofs of the Divine origin and character of our faith?

Many of these societies pursue their noble work in such a quiet and unobtrusive way that they are not so well known to the general public as they ought to be. There is, for instance, the Aged Pilgrims' Friend Society, which for the last eighty years or so, has been doing its best to gild with the sunshine of material comfort and spiritual consolation, the declining days of aged and infirm believers of both sexes and all Protestant denominations. It was an outcome of the revival of religion that came upon the churches in this land in the closing years of the past century, and to this day it is a standing memorial, in the presence of a sceptical generation, of the reality of that pure and undefiled religion which consists as much in helping the specially helpless, as in keeping oneself unspotted from an evil world. The chief method adopted by the Society is to grant life pensions to poor and aged members of the household of faith, so that they may be able, as far as possible, to retain the comforts of a home, and not be compelled to seek the cold and mechanical charity of the workhouse.

At the present time there are nearly 1200 pensioners on the books of the institution, these aged pilgrims on life's highway being scattered up and down the land. A selected number of them, whose circumstances specially demand it, are provided with quiet and comfortable homes in the asylums of the Society, where they can be free from all apprehensions as to the landlord, and under their own roof-tree can spend the twilight of their days in comfort and peace. These asylums are situated at Camberwell, Hornsey-rise, Brighton, Stamford-hill, and Gerrard's Cross. The last named is the gift of Sir J. W. Alexander, who retains control of it during his life, but after his decease it will revert to the society.

The largest of the Homes is that in Hazelville-road, Hornsey-rise, which furnishes house-room for 120 pilgrims. One of our representatives recently paid a visit to this asylum, and was deeply interested with all he saw of the beneficent working of the Society. The buildings, which are the gifts of two generous friends now departed, are on a rising ground in one of the healthiest spots in North London. They form a large square, with ample and well-kept grounds inside, and constitute a place of residence which any dweller in the town might well envy. In company with Mr. Hazelton, the general secretary, Mr. Jackson, the secretary of the asylums, and the genial warden, Mr. John Bowden, our reporter inspected many of the homes of this little Christian community. Everything appeared to be arranged so as to secure the maximum of comfort and convenience, with the minimum of bodily exertion. Many of the occupants are elderly spinsters whose failing strength is one of their greatest claims on the consideration of the Society; while they enjoy almost all the privacy of independence, they are helped in times of sickness or of special infirmity by the nurses whose services are freely provided. It was gratifying to see the general neatness and attractive appearance of the apartments, looking out for the most part on the shrubbery and green sward of the grounds, while over all there was an air of content and restfulness that accorded well with the peculiar character of the institution. Everyone is, of course, free to attend a place of worship in the neighbourhood most in accordance with their individual preferences, but a good many are too infirm to go any distance. A large and comfortable chapel forms part of the square; here Gospel services, prayer-meetings, &c., are regularly conducted and are much appreciated. On the opposite side of the grounds there is a lecture-hall where occasional lectures and entertainments are given, as well as social teas, when all the inmates meet, as far as their bodily health will allow. During the winter season "a meat fund" is in operation, by which a substantial mid-day meal is distributed throughout the rooms as often as the resources of the fund will permit. This effort is under the management of the lady visitors, of whom there are about twelve, resident in different parts of the metropolis; these Christian ladies devote much time to friendly calls on the inmates, and in other ways seek to minister to their well-being. In the summer there is a large demand for such of the inmates as are physically competent to act as caretakers of private houses in London, during the temporary holiday absence of the residents. In this way they are able to eke out their too often scanty incomes. Mr. Bowden, the experienced warden, and his wife are ever ready to aid and counsel the aged pilgrims when occasion requires, and altogether it may be truly said that their lot is cast in pleasant places.

It will be readily understood that such a large institution annually absorbs a considerable sum of money for its due maintenance. Repairs, medical attendance and comforts, nursing, the supply of coals, and the general expenditure, total every year to about £500, which is over and above the sums paid in pensions. The Committee of the Society find it somewhat difficult to collect the amount needed for this current and continuous outlay, probably because it does not appeal so readily to the public sympathy as the other needs of the institution. Nevertheless, it has to be borne, and if this brief notice of one of the most admirable Christian efforts of the time should serve to prompt any to render the help required, we shall feel sincerely thankful at being the medium. Visitors are heartily welcomed at the Asylum any day except Saturday, and those who wish to see in operation one important phase of philanthropic benevolence, would do well to make a pilgrimage to Hornsey-rise. The office of the Society, we may add, is at 83, Finsbury-pavement, E.C.

◆

REV. J. G. PATON.

WRITING to a London friend on Nov. 9, on board the ss. Potosi, off Port Said, this venerable missionary says:—

We had rough, unpleasant weather when we started; it has since been variable, but on the whole good. We have 700 souls on board. I had a pleasant day—I should say a grand day—among them yesterday, and for the first time in my life, I believe, delivered three sermons in succession without a word on heathen missions. But the spirit of missions was present. Jesus, his Person, Character, and Salvation, as related to us all, was the theme I dwelt upon all day, and I think God helped me, for my audiences were much moved. Oh, that God may grant his blessing with much fruit in the salvation of many souls!

We began at 10.30 a.m., when, after the Captain's reading English Church prayers, &c., I preached for twenty minutes in the saloon: about 300 present; 2 p.m. we had a service for children and adults on deck; 3.30, a service among the steerage passengers on deck; 6.30 p m. I had a sermon in second saloon; about 300 present. I have had most attentive audiences. and I think we had the Spirit's blessing and presence. It was one of the happiest Sabbaths I ever spent at sea. May God grant much blessing, and that they may all be like it on this voyage!

"WHERE IS YOUR FAITH?"[*]

"For we have not an High Priest which cannot be touched with the feeling of our infirmities; but was in all points tempted like as we are, yet without sin."—HEB. iv. 15.

OH, say not that the Saviour's smile
  Is hid from thine uplifted eye;
Say not that his unerring hand
  Shall ever pierce thee willingly.

Oh can it be, when every thorn
  That He has asked his child to share,
Was bound upon his bleeding brow,
  And buried half its sharpness there?

Oh, can it be, when every tear
  That starts to thine imploring eye,
Can find within his sinless soul
  The full response of sympathy?

It may be that thy wound lies deep,
  And thou would'st fain weep all alone;
It may be that thy bosom shrinks
  From any hand except his own.

Yes! and when friendship's gentlest voice
  Speaks all too rudely to thine ear,
His has a tenderness of tone
  That e'en a breaking heart may bear.

Ah! well He knows each pilgrim-path—
  There was but one too rough for thee;
He gazed upon that path of blood,
  And onward pressed, to set thee free!

And wilt thou, canst thou, ever deem
  That there is harshness in the blow,
When once thy trembling faith hath seen
  The wounded hand that lays thee low?

O fainting sufferer, trust that hand,
  Trust it with all thy weight of care;
Then lean upon the outstretched arm,
  And rest thy weary spirit there.

◆

A YOUNG WOMEN'S TEA-PARTY.

SURELY there can be no greater pleasure experienced by those who have an abundance of this world's "gear" than that afforded by ministering to the happiness of those not so favourably circumstanced. So, at least, thinks Miss Dudin Brown, who last week gave a tea-party to the young women who reside in the various Homes for Working Girls in London. The festive gathering took place in the Burlington Hall of the Regent-street Y.M C.A., which was crowded with an array of young people, all of whom seemed to enjoy themselves to the utmost extent.

After the hour which scarcely sufficed for "tea and talk," some music, vocal and instrumental, classical as well as of a more homely order, was delightfully rendered, and much appreciated. One youthful performer, Master A. Matthews, of the Chapel Royal Choir, who both sang and played the violin, was a special favourite with the audience, and had to comply with an encore. In a short and sympathetic homily on the properties of a good wife given in the closing verses of the Book of Proverbs, Rev. Canon Fleming added what he called "the solids" to the musical sweets of the evening. Miss Brown, Mr. Shrimpton, and the other friends in charge of the proceedings, must have felt highly rewarded by the large attendance and the close attention of their fair clients, who, we venture to think, will speak of the evening for many a week to come. and will look forward with anticipation to the next similar event.

HENRY DANIEL BRIDGER, of London, went to New South Wales last year; by the last accounts received he intended sailing for England again last April. Since then nothing has been heard of him. Mr. Gawin Kukham will thank any one who may have information of Mr. Bridger, to send it to him at the Open Air Mission office, 14, Duke-street, Adelphi, London, W.C.

---

[*] From SONGS OF THE PILGRIM LAND. By MRS. PENNEFATHER. (5s.) J. F. Shaw & Co.

MODERN POPERY.

A ROMAN Catholic newspaper published at Liverpool has, week by week, a column of ppeals, and some of the applications for help vhich it contains are of a very remarkable kind. One priest, who heads his appeal, "A voice from he hills of Durham," says, "Forget not your ear dead who sleep in the dust of the earth. Every Friday and Saturday throughout the year he Holy Sacrifice will be offered up here for the eparted friends, relations, and benefactors of hose who in their charity send even a trifle to essen the crushing debt under which I am abouring."

Another informs his readers that there is "A vant in the Lake District," and adds, "It seems espairing to have both chapels closed, and given p for want of the paltry sum of £152 a year." A third, whose advertisement is headed, "All Souls," simply announces that "An alms is sked in behalf of the poor suffering souls for heir new church," and another improves upon his, and says familiarly, "Dear reader, kindly end me some assistance for Our Blessed Lady's ew church here."

All these, however, are outdone by one which omes from the very centre of the busiest district n Yorkshire, and its compiler seems to have tudied with advantage the methods followed by keen advertisers, his appeal being headed: "Generous return for 12 pennies," the "return" or the twelve pence annually consisting of blessngs of special Mass on Wednesdays at eight, 'at which hour signify your intentions to St. Joseph and for the week," Mementos daily, the prayers of two congregations, monthly Novenas, Rosary daily, and children's prayers thrice daily. nd, as if all this were not enough, the advertiser ontinues: "Names kept in St. Joseph's 'roll all,' under the altar and by his statue." In his case a stamped envelope is required for cknowledgment and for the two little books vhich are sent along with it, and readers are requested to "enrol others (1s. each) living or dead."

The same newspaper, in a column headed "Domestic Reading," has a long paper, "How o Help the Holy Souls," which begins with a tatement that "the most efficacious means to help the souls in Purgatory is undoubtedly the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass;" and then is added ome noteworthy teaching, as follows, the italics being ours. "All other works besides this, penence, alms, prayer, indulgences, Holy Communion, require special dispositions on the part f those that perform them. But it is not the ame in regard to the Mass which is infallibly fficacious. Whatever be the dispositions of hose that assist at it, whatever be the dispositions even of the priest who offers it up, the Holy Sacrifice infallibly relieves the holy souls. The reason of this is that all the efficacy of the acrifice is derived from the fact that it is offered n the person of Jesus Christ and in his name." After this there are some passages which we should hudder to quote, and then comes the following: "The easiest way to extinguish the flames of urgatory is, therefore, the most holy and most ugust Sacrifice of the Altar. It may be long, dear readers, that souls dear to you are sighing n those devouring fires. What do they ask of ou? They ask, through the bowels of the nercy of Christ crucified for you and for them, he offering of a Mass. Make this offering for hem. The adorable blood of Jesus will draw hem forth from their torments and will admit hem into Heaven. What Christian will be so ruel as to refuse to deliver a soul at such a rice? . . . Now behold those souls destined for Heaven, behold those children of God, those pouses of Christ, condemned to fearful sufferngs and imploring your assistance; and with a rifling sum of money you can have a Mass ffered up for them, can relieve them, can ender them eternally happy! Dear Christian eader, remember the souls towards whom you ave special obligations: parents, relations, riends, benefactors; remember the friendless—ll the prisoners of the King. The most deserving objects of charity are those who are in suffering without being able to help themselves. This is precisely the condition of the souls in purgatory. From their abode of misery they call to us for the help which it is in our power to give so abundantly. We are rich, but they are poor indeed. One day we shall be situated as they are, and self-interest should quicken our charity. 'Blessed are the merciful, for they shall obtain mercy.'"

This is not a Protestant misrepresentation of Roman Catholic doctrine; it is the teaching given through the pages of an influential and widely-circulated Roman Catholic journal. We have no desire to comment upon it, it is so inexpressibly saddening; and we therefore turn away to the New Testament, and read "Every priest standeth daily ministering and offering oftentimes the same sacrifices, which can never take away sins. But this Man, after he had offered one sacrifice for sins for ever, sat down on the right hand of God" (Heb. x. 11, 12), and also, "Whosoever will, let him take of the water of life freely."

◆

BURMAH.—2.

By MR. HENRY SOLTAU.

SINCE the first half of this article was written Mandalay, the capital, and therefore al Upper Burmah, has fallen into the hands of the English. The King and his family are prisoners on English territory, and at length Burmah is united and is governed by one Power.

The people, as we anticipated, have welcomed the English to their country, have shown their confidence in us by not only not running away from us, but even by flocking in large numbers to see our troops land, and it only remains now for the English to put down the Dacoits that swarm in the country, and to administer the laws with justice.

We sincerely hope that the English will retain the country, and not hand it over to any Burmese prince—principally because the people do not wish it, and because the freedom will not be as real as it will be under purely English rule; and also because in the course of time the population will be less Burmese than Chinese, Shan, and Indian.

We note that arrangements have already been made for the future government of the country. A Commissioner, with Deputy and Assistant Commissioners, are said to have been already appointed, and plans are being considered for the promotion of roads and railways for purposes of trade.

But what preparations have been made by the Church of Christ for claiming the country for our Lord? The Government took none of the troops on garrison duty in British Burmah for the pioneer work in Upper Burmah. They sent fresh troops from India, leaving the others to continue at their posts their work, now rendered doubly important by the onward movement into the new country. Where are the "fresh troops" for Christ's work in Upper Burmah? The land is almost unoccupied.

The well-known and highly honoured servants of God, Dr. and Mrs. Judson, were the first to toil and suffer in the capital, and missionaries of the cross laboured in Upper and Lower Burmah before even a shot was fired by the English in that land, so that happily it cannot be said that the sword has gone before the Gospel.

When the English took a portion of Lower Burmah, the American missionaries concentrated their efforts, and with much success, on that part, and, as the country ruled over by England increased in size, they spread themselves out, and have now all the chief towns of British Burmah well occupied.

The Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts, at length followed, and, besides working in Lower Burmah, opened a station in Mandalay, which had to be relinquished when the English Resident was withdrawn.

The China Inland Mission opened the first mission station in Bhamo, on the frontiers of China, in 1875, and were followed in 1877 by the American Baptist missionaries, who, with the aid of Christian Karens, commenced definite work among the hill tribes bordering on China, and with good success. They also commenced work among the Chinese Shans, but that has not been so successful.

The American Baptists will most probably occupy Mandalay, and re-inforce Bhamo; but, as they have lately taken up an important responsibility on the Congo, in Africa, and have a rather serious debt weighing them down, we fear they will not be able to do anything like as much for Upper Burmah as they would wish.

I have mentioned all that is being done for this country. The population will soon be greatly augmented, and yet there will be no one to meet this increase with the Gospel. Numbers of tracts, text cards, and portions of Scripture have been circulated by missionaries travelling up and down the Irawaddy, and by those who have gone overland. A hopeful commencement has been made, and now is the time to follow it up. The Roman Catholics, French priests, are there in force. We know how they have been lately making themselves felt at the capital.

For any who want to work in lands where no others have yet been, there is a vast tract of populated country extending north and west from Bhamo, entirely untouched by a missionary, while on the hills surrounding Burmah are hill tribes whose languages have never yet been investigated or reduced to writing, and where the face of a missionary has never been seen.

Nearly every missionary society seems to be heavily burdened with debt, so that it is hardly to be expected they can undertake any great extension of their responsibilities, but are there no young men with means who would volunteer to go out at their own expense? £200 a year would cover all expenses, and in many places £100 a year would suffice, as servants of Christ abroad are content with few comforts and no luxuries. The climate cannot be said to be healthy, as there is much malaria in many parts, but in some places healthy stations can be found, and with proper care good health may be, under God's blessing, enjoyed for many years. The people are friendly and good tempered.

The numbers of our fellow-countrymen already employed in Upper Burmah will be greatly increased as the country comes under our rule, and will themselves afford a very large sphere of usefulness for any warm-hearted and wise-headed evangelist.

The voyage from Glasgow or London to Rangoon, takes about thirty-five or forty days. Thence steamers every week go to Bhamo, 900 miles up the Irawaddy, and twice a week at least to Mandalay, about 600 miles distance. Once at Bhamo, four days' journey over hills brings the traveller into the Shan districts of Western China, and three weeks more will find him at the most westerly station of the China Inland Mission in China.

The common people of Upper Burmah have been longing for some time for a change of rulers, and many have been so favourably impressed with the liberty and good rule in British Burmah, that they continually express a wish that the whole country could be under English control. There are many faithful followers of Christ among the Burmese and Karens of British Burmah, and we are expecting to see great results through the preaching of the Gospel, and through steady toil in Upper Burmah. May we therefore ask the earnest prayers of the Lord's people for this country, that blessing may be poured out upon it, and that many may go forth to labour there for their Master.

DR. PARKER, acting upon medical advice, will not preach in the City Temple (Holborn-viaduct) during December.

NORTH LONDON EVANGELISTIC CHOIR.—The post of leader having been vacated by Mr. J. W. Godfrey, it is desired that some Christian gentleman with musical talent should offer his services. It would involve one practice and about six engagements per month. Particulars may be obtained from Mr. T. G. Howe, 5, Baronsmere-road, East Finchley, N.

For the Young.

MARTYRDOM OF LOUIS RANC.

COME, English children, will you hear,
A tale to many a Frenchman dear;
The tale of Louis Ranc?
Still flows the Drôme, still Claissac stands,
Where he was seized by wicked hands,
And led to Valence strong.
Shame on the man who led him there,
False Governor Latulière!

Oh, haughtily they questioned him;
Smiling, his name he told:
"I am the pastor, Louis Ranc:
The sheep that to my Lord belong,
Where'er unshepherded they stray,
In Provence and in Dauphiné,
I lead them to his fold."

Condemned for this, his only crime
(It was enough in that dark time),
Poor Pasteur Ranc must die!
With heavy chains on hands and feet,
They led him through each busy street,
Men wept as he passed by:
But gallantly he bore him still,
Ready to do his Master's will.
"Why weep for me?" he asked the throng,
At Pontaix, as he passed along;
"Tears for a funeral are meet;
Gladly I go my Lord to greet:
It is my wedding day!"

And thus along the banks of Drôme
They led him from his village home,
And all along the way
Men thronged to see the gallant youth,
So strong to suffer for the truth,
So patient and so calm;
Through mountain pass and rude defile
He kept undimmed his radiant smile,
While rock and cavern rung the while
To his triumphant psalm.

And when the Jesuits tried each wile
To tempt that noble heart,
He answered calm, with courteous smile,
"Mine is the better part."
And so they brought brave Monsieur Ranc
To the old town of Die,
And hung him 'mid a mocking throng,
Upon their gallows-tree.

Nine drummers all around him beat
Their war-note of alarm,
But high above them, clear and sweet,
Pealed forth his dying psalm.
What psalm? The psalm his Master sang
The night before his death,
The martyr chanted clear and strong,
E'en with his dying breath.
And then—upon the golden street,
'Mid harp and angel song,
He heard his Master's welcome sweet,
"Well done, my Louis Ranc!"

On earth—they bore the head away,
Back to his village home.
Oh, there was weeping sore that day
Along the banks of Drôme.
They dragged the headless corpse along
The stony streets of Die,
(Alas! to think such cruel wrong
In human hearts could be!)
Then when their malice all was wrought,
Thank God! one woman brave,
A pitying Catholic, took thought
To give the corpse a grave.

Upon that grave there is no stone,
But every springtide bloom
Rare flowers, no human hand hath sown,
Upon the martyr's tomb.
But if you stand where I have stood,
In that old town of Die,
Where once was shed the martyr's blood,
Look up, and you will see
Strange marks, as if a bleeding hand
Had left its impress there.
Long as those stately walls shall stand
These walls that stain shall bear.
In vain the dash of autumn rains,
In vain the snowflakes fall,
For nothing can efface the stains
From that cathedral wall.

Ay! view admiring, ye who will,
Its lofty arches strong,
The stain of blood is on it still,
The blood of Louis Ranc.
Long shall the martyr's name be dear,
Pray that men brave as he
May preach the Gospel full and clear,
In the dark town of Die.

SUNBEAM LOVE.

A darling little infant
Was playing on the floor,
When suddenly a sunbeam
Came through the open door;

And falling on the carpet,
It made a golden dot;
The darling baby saw it,
And crept up to the spot.

His little face was beaming
With a smile of perfect joy,
As if an angel's presence
Had filled the little boy.

Then, with his tiny finger,
As in a fairy dream,
He touched the dot of sunshine,
And followed up the beam.

He looked up to his mother,
To share his infant bliss,
Then stopped, and gave the sunbeam
A pure sweet baby kiss.

O Lord, our Heavenly Father,
In the fulness of my joy
I pray that child-like feeling
May never leave the boy!

But in the days of trial,
When sin allures the youth,
Send out thy light to guide him—
The sunbeams of thy truth!

And may his heart be ever
To Thee an open door,
Through which thy truth as sunbeams
Make play upon life's floor!

SOLUTION OF DIAMOND PUZZLE.

A
AMI	Gen. iv. 9.
HAMAN	Esther vii. 10.
LEVITES	Num. iv.
BEERSHEBA	Gen. xxi. 31.
AMMISHADDAI	Num. ii. 25.
ALEXANDER	2 Tim iv. 14.
OBADIAH	1 Kings xviii. 4.
MEDES	Dan. vi. 8.
TAX	Mark ii. 14.
I	Gen. i. 1.

Answers received from M.A.G. A F.B. R.L.B. C.M.C.

MRS. JULIA GUNTHERT, of Calio, Wurtemberg, has just died. For many years she was a most ardent missionary worker, chiefly among children in India.

MILLWALL JUVENILE MISSION.—The fifth anniversary was held on November 23, Mr. G. E. Morgan presiding, supported by Messrs. Temple, T. Howe, H. Fail, J. Kirk (of the Ragged School Union), and other friends. The report showed that although the work had originally commenced amongst children, it had for some time past reached the hearts of the parents. Ragged and night schools, Temperance work, and other efforts, are put forth. The formation of a Y.W.C.A. in adjoining premises (to be secured for that purpose) is under consideration. Some very earnest and practical addresses were delivered during the evening by the above-mentioned gentlemen, and the interest was increased by the testimonies of some of the mission converts, and musical selections by other friends. A very active superintendent and secretary are found respectively in Mr. J. Warner and Mr. H. White. The address of the mission is 1, Tobago-street, Millwall.

"THIS ONE THING I DO."

WE were dining one day at "Helen's Lee," a stately mansion in Scotland, the beautiful home of Mr. Peter Denny, one of the great steel shipbuilders of the Clyde. During the stroll we were having after dinner, we asked our host the origin of the name of his place "Helen's Lee," and he told us how he came to build this beautiful home on the banks of the river and name it "Helen's Lee." "When I was a young man," said Mr. Denny, "working for my father, who was a struggling shipbuilder, I went one evening down to yonder spot," pointing to a place in front of his house and near the water's edge, "to have a swim. I jumped into the Clyde and swam half way over, and as I turned about my eye fell upon this spot, then a wild bit of land overgrown with trees and underbrush. The place struck me as being singularly beautiful and just the site for a splendid house. I had never dreamed or thought of building a home for myself, but in an instant while swimming the river yonder this purpose came to me, and I resolved then and there to myself: 'If I live I will buy yonder bank and will build as fair a house upon it as is in all Scotland, and I will call it Helen's Lee, after my sweetheart,'" and he gave a loving look over toward his wife. "That resolution, or inspiration," he said, "was the turning point in my life. I came out of that water determined to succeed in business and accomplish my purpose. You may think it strange, but I believe the thought of purchasing this spot, building upon it, and calling it Helen's Lee, was the one thing that stimulated my earliest endeavours."

This occurs to us as an illustration of that overmastering purpose which lay at the root of all the great Apostle's doings. "This one thing I do." Paul saw the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus; by the grace of God he meant to win that prize, and henceforth his life was swayed by that one purpose; everything else was subordinated to it. This was spiritual earnestness, striving and pressing toward the high calling of God. This singleness of purpose, this giving oneself up to the attainment of a desired end is not uncommon in this life, indeed it is the principle upon which all men win success. It is said of Henry Clay, that so great and absorbing was his ambition to be President, that all his speeches in the Senate, all his intercourse with men, his courtesy and personal bearing in public and in private life were inspired by this one ambition. Why should not the Christian be fired with a like ambition?—Dr. G. F. Pentecost.

HOME FOR CONSUMPTIVES AT TORQUAY.

A MILDMAY associate at Torquay is anxious to supply a long-felt need in Torquay (where so many victims of consumption come seeking health) of a Home where patients might be received at any stage of their lingering suffering.

This Mildmay Home is designed to be a resting-place for the weary sick ones who linger for weeks and months, hopeless of recovery, while they await their summons to the "presence of the King." Yet it is not to be considered exclusively a Home for the dying, but it is rather hoped that, as at similar institutions elsewhere, many may derive benefit and improve in health for a time, if not permanently, from the care and good nursing. But it is intended as a Home from which the advanced stage of their complaint shall not exclude any sufferers, and from which they shall not be dismissed except at the wish of relatives or friends able to supply their need. Amongst those to whom God has given the means, it is hoped that friends of this projected work may be found, who, either as a thankoffering for health restored in that climate, or in memory of loved ones resting there till the resurrection, would like to help it forward in some practical form.

Fifty pounds per annum would endow a free bed. Annual subscribers of £2 2s. have a nomination yearly, which reduces the patient's weekly payment from 10s. 6d. to 7s. Obviously the claim is not a local one, and this appeal is sent forth to enlist widespread interest and sympathy. Further particulars will be given, and promises of help gratefully received by Miss F. Gumbleton, Connemara, Torquay. No debt is to be incurred, and the promoters wait for promise of funds to start the Home.

NEWS FROM MADAGASCAR.

IN a letter dated Ambohimanga, August 10, Rev. J. Peile, missionary of the London Society, sends some interesting notes of progress on the island. There were rumours of peace negotiations with the French invaders, but nothing appeared to be settled, and additional French troops were being landed. Mr. Peill's sphere of labour, however, is so far inland and removed from the scene of hostilities that the mission work under his care proceeds pretty much as if the Malagasy were at peace. He goes on to say:—

We have lately received a consignment of Bibles and Testaments sent by the Bible Society, consisting of 1000 of each. I believe they are already all sold, or nearly so. They were divided out among the missionaries of the various Protestant Societies, our share being 18 Bibles and 18 Testaments for sale among our people! We hear that another 1000 are on the way. Unfortunately the first batch sent were brought over from Mauritius in the ill-fated coaster, the Hettie, which was wrecked in Vatomandy harbour, and so the Bibles were lost to us. We have now for the first time a small fourpenny Testament. Hitherto there has been nothing under 6d. for sale. This is a great boon, and will sell very largely, I doubt not, among the children, when sufficient numbers shall arrive. We have had quite a famine of the Word of God ately, through no fault of the Bible Society, I believe, but on account of the uncertainty of communications during this time of war.

We have just been holding our annual school examinations in this district. So far as the school at this place is concerned, the result has been eminently satisfactory. As regards the district in general, so much can hardly be said, but the schools are carried on regularly. The great desideratum is good qualified teachers. Out of 990 children present at the examinations 566 passed in reading, 244 in writing, and 300 n arithmetic. The Scripture examinations were much more satisfactory throughout the district han last year. If you could have been present t the Scripture examination of the schools here t Ambohimanga, I am sure your heart would have been rejoiced by them, as ours were. Surely, ll this direct Scripture teaching intelligently received by the children cannot be ultimately fruitless; it must tell on the character and ives of those young people for good.

The Children's Scripture Union is established mong us here, thanks to the exertions of Rev. T. T. Matthews, the secretary in Madagascar. With us the cards are widely distributed, and great pleasure is shown by the children at the receipt of the beautifully-illustrated leaflets presented to them quarterly. I make a point of enquiring of the children frequently whether they are delighted in reading the daily portions, and always find some of them able to tell me the book, chapter, verse, or substance of the parts read, showing that they do really take an interest n the thing.

Our work progresses apace. Congregations keep up well. My preachers' and other classes were well attended. The seed-sowing goes igorously forward. May the Lord of the harvest send forth more labourers into his harvest, and cause the seed sown to bring forth a hundredfold!

THE SHIPWRECKED MARINER for October contains several articles on great gales, awful wrecks, fog signals, and other nautical matters. The storms of the past quarter, with wrecks and casualties, are recorded. The forty-sixth annual report of the Society is included in this issue, and is as full of absorbing interest as ever. The shipping disasters have been considerably less than the previous year; still there have been 1580 wrecks, with a loss of three thousand lives. The income of the Society was upwards of £25,000. The number of fishermen and mariners who regularly contribute to its funds is no less than fifty-three thousand. Mr. W. R. Buck, the Secretary of the Society, and editor of this magazine, calls attention to the new address—viz., The Sailor's Home, Well-street, E.

IN A DANCING-HOUSE.

[The following incident, says The Christian Witness, is taken from the new book, Six Years with William Taylor in South America, and describes a scene in Valparaiso, in the experience of the author, Rev. O. von B. Krauser]

A RUM-SELLER was brought to God that night; and another promised to give up his dancing-house. However, a week after that, I found him still engaged in the same business, and I waited for the usual dancing evening, on Thursday, when I expected to have an opportunity to speak to such people. The dancing-room was crowded. Natives and foreigners were present—mechanics and seamen.

When I came in the rum-seller tried to avoid me, but I walked right up to him, and asked his permission to read, sing, and pray with the crowd. He looked desperate, and said: "Oh, please let us alone here! this is no place for meeting now, and if you attempt to disturb the dance you'll get killed here to-night." The crowd looked to be a rather wild sort. There were many intoxicated seamen, behaving themselves more like brutes than human beings. The rum-seller himself thought he had a rough set there that night, and he called my attention to the fact. "Now, you know very well I don't mind that, and if you just consent, it will be all right. Don't you pity these poor fellows?"

I went on to say, "And haven't you done harm enough in this place? How can you dare turn me away like that? I've got more right here than you, and more right than the devil who damns these souls to hell. God wants to save these harlots, gamblers, blasphemers, and drunkards; yes, God wants to save you, too. Are you not ashamed to send me away? Now come, my good friend, let me shake your strong hand; just see these hard hands! Ah, yes, you used to work once with these strong hands, and in the sweat of your brow, and bread tasted sweet, then; but oh, to-day it is so very different, and so much different now from the days when you were quite a little boy, and your dear mother used to take you up on her lap, and folded your little hands. They were clean then, and innocent, and she taught you to pray 'Our Father, which art in heaven.'" I looked at him, and tried to catch his eye. The poor fellow was quite broken up now, and he gently said: "Go on, Mr. Krauser, I know you are right; I can't refuse you."

Thankful to my Redeemer, and my soul filled with wondrous love, I turned toward the assembly, and began singing a hymn. They instantly stopped the music and the dancing, and the deafening noise ceased to be. For a few moments they were awe-struck, and stood staring at me; but then a drunken sailor broke the silence, and breaking out in curses, advanced toward me and caught my arm, and like a rag he began whirling me round in the middle of the room, and then, with an oath, he let me go suddenly, and I shot across the hall into the next corner, and landed squarely on a chair. Everybody was in an uproar of laughter, and they thought it was great fun, and now they watched me to see what I would do next. But I did not stir. I felt as sweet as ever, and remaining right where I was, comfortably seated on a chair, and finishing the hymn, I opened the Bible, which had not fallen from my grasp in the rather unsought-for exercise, and was about to commence to read.

Again there was a few seconds of silence; but now my friend got fairly mad, and, coming toward me to get hold of me once more, he was confronted by another seaman, who placed himself at that instant between me and the assailant. Clenching his big fist, he shouted: "Who dares touch this man, has to come this way first! Don't you know he is a minister? Now dare if you will! I don't think it will do us any harm to listen to what he will say." I arose now and said to the two men before me: "I am glad to see you are both so courageous, and I'm sure you won't be afraid if I now tell you what God says about poor sinners in this book, and how He loves them. Just sit down, all of you, and then I'll go on." Everybody obeyed, and a pin might be heard to fall on the floor.

"Now, let's have a good hymn. I know sailor-boys like to sing. Let's have a sailor's hymn—Sankey's old hymn—'Pull for the shore, sailor, pull for the shore!' The whole crowd joined in, and the voices were strong and clear. Then I told them of Jesus and his love, and I told them of a young man who used to visit here, and who some of them knew, and said: "Now, you don't know what has become of poor Wickliff. I'll tell you. I met him at the hospital the other day, and now he's dead. I watched him pass over the river: but he didn't talk any more as he used to. You know he often attended our meetings down in the room, and he wouldn't give up his sins; he didn't want to give you up, and he kept on sticking to you, and got drunk with you nearly every night, until you saw him walk about like a shadow, dirty and sick, and you deserted him, and tried to forget him.

"But Wickliff told me his story before he died. He raised himself up in his bed, and told me to come up closer. He said: 'Mr. Krauser, I am going to die, and I am only twenty-two years old.' He hid his face in his hands, and then wept bitterly. What do you suppose the poor boy remembered? I think his lost young life rose up before him. He then bent over to me and whispered, 'My mother!' Ah, that was it. 'My mother!' he repeated, and then tears choked his voice. My boys, do you remember a mother to-night? I wonder whether Wickliff's mother ever prayed with him. That was just what was the matter. He went on then, and said: 'My mother used to pray for me. I could not stand it, and I ran away. But I wrote her I would send her money, for I knew she depended on me for a living. I never sent her any, I spent it all in drink, and now I'm here dying. I have killed myself.' He hid his face again and cried.

"I told Wickliff about Jesus, and I saw how he stretched out his feeble hands, and cried: 'O Jesus, save me, a poor sinner; don't let me die and be lost!' God answered his prayer before he passed away, and he said, when he could scarcely whisper, 'Jesus, blessed Jesus! Yes, Jesus saves me now!' Only one bitter thought rose up once more. He said: 'Only twenty-two years—all lost!' Then he passed over. God has taken him; you will never see him more unless you prepare for heaven. God save you all; let us pray, and get down on our knees, and you cry out to God to have mercy on you, miserable sinners. You will die in your sins if you don't."

There were no dry eyes in that strange assembly and while I prayed, many sighs and groans were heard, and then many came down to the meeting-room with me when I quitted the place, and some there found the Saviour. Two days after this meeting the dancing-house was no more; and visiting the boiler-works soon after, and while among the workmen distributing tracts, whom should I find but my tall American, who kept that dancing-house.

THE POWER OF THE GOSPEL.—In Gwambia, Africa, is a small village, where Josepha, a native evangelist labours. He is helped by a native Christian, Eliab, whose family consists of himself, wife, and four daughters. A Pagan presented himself as a suitor for Fazana, the second daughter, desiring to purchase her for so many head of cattle, according to rule. The father consented, and the lover soon brought three beasts on account. Josepha felt this was not quite in accordance with Christianity, yet he did not know how to meet the case. In his embarrassment he determined to wait until his brother Yakobo, who was M. Jaques' helper arrived. It should be stated that the missionaries forbid Christians to sell their daughters. When Yakobo arrived, Josepha brought Eliab, and stated the facts. Yakobo explained the practice among Christians, but did not feel himself competent to pronounce upon the present case. "However," he added, "when Christ made us free, He made our children free also." This convinced Eliab, and he declared he would not sell his daughter, and would return the cattle. But just as he came to this resolution the three beasts died. He, however, replaced them from his own stock, and though this was a severe loss, he was faithful.

EVANGELISTIC WORK IN LYONS.

WRITING from Lyons on November 26, Pastor Vernier says:—

I have spent four weeks here, labouring in the Gospel with Major Colquhoun, of the McAll Mission. We have not passed a single day without seeing poor sinners coming to Christ. Cases have occurred of whole families of six, five, four, and three members, surrendering to our Saviour and King. In one instance the work of the Spirit commenced in the heart of a little girl of eleven, whom we had observed in the meeting in the attitude of devout prayer. She began to pray aloud most fervently for herself, her father and mother, and two brothers. Each night following we saw a member of that family receiving Christ as Saviour. Now they all rejoice in Him.

We could fill many columns with facts of the same kind. We ask our British friends in Christ to pray for Lyons and these who are coming to Him every day, and very especially upon the workers in this extensive field. Already, out of the four Salles in which the meetings are held, we might fill one with persons newly brought to Jesus. Almost all the new converts are Roman Catholics.

BIBLE CARRIAGE IN AUSTRALIA.

YOU will be glad to hear of the great success the Lord has given in this Bible carriage work. We finished the first year's campaign on August 31, having been a round of two hundred miles from township to city. The circulation of Bibles, Testaments, and Gospel books, has been almost equal to a year's work in England. The crowds who stood for hours to hear the word were attentive, and although infidelity and Popery raged in many places, souls were brought to Christ and thousands of this reading community delighted with the precious seeds of eternal life contained in the books we bring them.

Harry Hind has arrived at Melbourne. Another Bible carriage and stock follow him to New South Wales. He stays with brother Brewster, at Melbourne, until he hears of the arrival of his carriage at Sydney, then the two go to Sydney to look at New South Wales. I believe it is the Lord's mind that they will work together at Sydney. During the exceedingly wet winter we have not been able to be out in the open air, but have had great blessing from the Lord in town halls, and, with a young man from Ballarat, and No. 2 carriage, which I had built smaller and more suitable for the travelling up country, we go, for the first time, this week to a township called Talbot, where the governer of the colony and thousands of pleasure-seekers, as well as farmers from the interior, come to the national gatherings. We go and meet them with Scriptures and Gospel books, paying for our stand. It gives a blessed opportunity of reaching those who are hundreds of miles in the interior, and seldom hear the word of life, or see the Scriptures from one year's end to the other.

Through cities and towns in Australia, in less than fifteen months from the time of leaving England, we shall have three Bible carriages in full harness with platforms at their sides, where thousands of Scripture and thousands of Gospel books and tracts have been scattered, while thousands of souls have heard with interest and attention the words of eternal life. The time is short and there is great need of going out quickly to pull souls out of the fire of coming judgment.—Yours in the Lord,

Irwell Cottage, JOHN HAMBLETON.
Bradshaw-street, East Ballaratt, Australia.

THE RUSSIAN PEOPLE have for some time shown a tendency towards the observance of Sunday rest. The movement does not emanate from the clergy, but from those employed in shops and industrial establishments.

A CRYING SHAME.

I CANNOT help thinking that if the many trials and dangers which surround young women in some of the smaller houses of business in London were only more widely known, many would ask themselves, What can I do to help my toiling sister? And more interest would be taken in them.

Many hundreds of them are expected and, in many cases, compelled, to be out the whole of Sunday till ten o'clock at night, and often later, breakfast being the only meal provided for them; as many are fresh from the country and have no friends in London to whom they might go, who can wonder at them going astray, if no kind, friendly hand is held out to save them?

Feeling the great need of something being done in this district, I have opened a room, on my own responsibility, where these young women can come at all hours in the day on Sunday. A Bible-class is held in the afternoon, when tea is provided, and after spending a little social time together, we take them with us to some place of worship.

Only last week one young girl, coming for the first time, on being asked to stay to tea after the class seemed so thankful, and with tears in her eyes, said, "Oh, Miss, I would not mind having to stay out late at night so much, if only I might have my meals provided on Sunday on the premises, as on other days. I feel as if I have no one to care for me. To-day, after coming out of church, I did not know what to do with myself, so I went into Hyde Park and ate a sandwich I had in my pocket, and then walked round and round till it was time to come to the Bible-class."

Many cases similar to the above are constantly coming under my notice. From thirty to forty attend the Bible-class, many of them staying to tea, when we try in every way to make them feel at home. This work, of course, involves extra expense, and if any friends feel it laid on their hearts to help, I shall be enabled to extend it.

CHARLOTTE F. VIRGO,
Hon. Sec., Y.W.C.A.
3, Allen-terrace, Kensington, W.

[We have at various times heard rumours as to this diabolical arrangement of ejecting young women from their places of residence on Sunday, and now the rumours are confirmed. We have ventured to call it "A Crying Shame," and sincerely wish some plan could be devised to effectually stop the practice. Meantime we hope Miss Virgo will be strongly encouraged in her brave effort to meet a sore need.—ED.]

INDIGENT BLIND.

THE annual social meeting of Indigent Blind in London was held on Wednesday, December 2, at the Archway Wesleyan Chapel. Including the guides, about four hundred assembled to tea, which they heartily enjoyed, manifesting a cheerfulness that was pleasant to witness. At the meeting that followed, Rev. H. Bright, referring to the North London Home for Aged Christian Blind Women, said he hoped they would soon be able to get a home for men as well. At present, however, there was a debt of £700 on the Women's Home; Rev. J. Dickson, Rev. T. G. Young, Mr. Beauchamp, and Mr. Carr also spoke.

VEVEY.—"The Lord hath done great things for us: whereof we are glad," Ps. xxvi. 3. The news of souls saved, in any clime, tends much to cheer other souls, and for this I ask a corner in your paper, that I may let its readers know of the wave of blessing that has recently been passing over Vevey and other adjacent places. The effect of the revival in this town is manifested, not only in the conversion of souls, but in the increased spiritual life infused into the existing means of grace. The movement is, I believe, an answer to the persevering prayers of Christians, who having heard what God had done at Orbe in the Jura, and other places in the Canton de Vaud, determined to meet for prayer night after night at l'Eglise Sibre, to beseech God for a like blessing upon Vevey. Hence the answer came; and in a marked manner upon many of the members of the Y.M.C.A.

Pension Comte, Vevey, Suisse. A. M.

THE SPIRITUAL NEEDS OF INDIA.

DEAR SIR,—Will you allow me to say, with reference to the letter in your last week's issue from Mr. A. Norton, on the subject of the spiritual destitution of the Central Provinces of India, that his description of the condition of the Upper Godavery District is substantially correct, though there is a small mission in the south-eastern corner of the district, where the Church Missionary Society have a single missionary, Rev. J. Cain, and where a little native church has been gathered in. North of this mission lies a vast tract of country—about the size of Ireland—without a single Christian teacher of any kind, wholly unevangelised. The population is sparse, and the climate unhealthy, owing to the great prevalence of fever. A medical missionary would find there a most important sphere of labour.

If any of your readers should feel drawn towards these poor neglected races, I could supply them with a good deal of interesting information on the subject. F. T. HAIG, Major-General.
6, Kemplay-road, Hampstead, N.W.

MISS WHATELY IN CAIRO.

DEAR SIR,—I have again been permitted to rejoin my sister in Egypt. I found the Central Schools progressing well, with an average attendance of between 600 and 700 daily. The Medical Mission is a feature of peculiar interest, being the only one of its kind in Cairo. For five days in the week, from 9 to 11 a.m., the dispensary is thronged with the sick poor, generally of the very poorest class, all awaiting their turn with the doctor. None of these could even pay the few piastres needed for the most simple medicine. Year by year many, unless they can find their way here, lose their sight for want of timely care.

The men and women sit in separate rooms. Sometimes the missionary, Mr. Klein, or his evangelist, reads to the men, and my sister takes the women alone; at other times she sits at the open doorway between the rooms and reads to all. Often the numbers are so great that she and Mr. Shakoor must divide them and read to different groups. Those who are interested in the reading are often glad to send their children to the schools. It is very hard to make them understand their sinfulness and need of a Saviour, but the patient repetition of "line upon line" has had its effect on many, while the kindly ministrations and sympathy for their bodily needs and sufferings have done much to soften the Moslem mind, and show them that, as they themselves are often heard to say: "These Christians love us."

Help is urgently required both for the Medical Mission and schools. The funds are very low, and my sister's slender private resources are taxed to the very uttermost. The kind help of those who have contributed to replenish the store of medicines for the poor has been a most invaluable assistance; but the actual means of meeting the daily outlay—the payment of teachers, &c., who cannot be kept waiting—all this can only be met by a perpetual strain, which must be witnessed to be adequately conceived. Miss Jourdan, 21, Westbourne-park-villas, W., is the English hon. sec.

Yours faithfully, E. JANE WHATELY.
Cairo.

LIVERPOOL.—A week's special services, in connection with the teaching of holiness and healing, have been held at Bethshan, 161, Islington, Liverpool, and have resulted, says a correspondent, in much blessing to many.

SOMERS TOWN.—The Presbyterian Church in Ossulston-street, N.W., under the ministry of Rev. Z. Woffendale, is well known in the North-west of London for its many-earnest and active evangelistic agencies in the open air—at the band-stand, Regent's-park; the Cobden Statue, Ampthill-square; and the Midland arches; and also for its mission work at the King's-cross Theatre. It has again been passing through a season of much spiritual blessing. Recently, some three hundred souls have professed decision for Christ, and out of that number, after careful examination and preparation, no less than one hundred and four were admitted on Sunday evening, November 29, to the fellowship and membership of the church. It is a significant and gratifying fact that with few exceptions, these converts have been won not from the folds of other churches, but directly from the ranks of the indifferent, the non-Sabbath keeping, and the worldly. Praise be to Him who hath given the increase!

The Book World.

BIBLE LIGHT: for Truth Seekers and Christian Workers. 1s. 6d. Shaw & Co. A monthly paper that has been blessed to many. This forms the fifth annual volume.

LAYS FOR LABOUR AND LEISURE. By CLARA THWAITE. Nisbet & Co. Many of the poems in this little book will bring out sweet thoughts and help to cheer weary hours. They are much above the average in originality.

WAIT TILL IT BLOOMS. By JENNIE CHAPPELL. 1s. Partridge & Co. A most delightful tale of every-day life in which everybody tries to do everybody else good, and the seeds of kindness blossom into beautiful flowers.

THE PASTOR'S DIARY AND CLERICAL RECORD FOR 1886. James Gemmell, Edinburgh. Most ingeniously arranged for the convenience of ministers of all denominations, this pocket companion must prove quite a luxury to those for whom it is prepared.

MASTER LIONEL: "That Tiresome Child." By E. M. WATERWORTH. 1s. Partridge & Co. A story to open the hearts of all who read it this Christmas time. The "Tiresome Child" becomes, by God's grace, one of his "chosen vessels," and we are strikingly shown the sweet child-influence that thus so beautifully affected his life.

SHORT RECORDS OF THE MISSIONARY LABOURS OF REV. EDWARD PORTER. 1s. 6d. Morgan & Scott. "Such a book as this just thrills me," was the verdict of an earnest young Christian worker to whom it was lent It is the record of a devoted missionary who spent himself in the spirit of full consecration in the Master's service in India. It is written for his friends at home, and for his native church at Cuddapah, who mourn for him as for a father.

SEA LIFE SIXTY YEARS AGO. By Capt GEORGE BAYLY. Kegan Paul, Trench & Co. This is a tale of thrilling interest, as recounting a series of stirring adventures and hair-breadth escapes in connection with the discovery of the relics of the long-missing expedition commanded by the Comte de la Perouse. The interest is maintained throughout by Capt. Bayly, who forms a living link, as it were, between this age of steam and stokers, and those days of wooden ships and real old shellbacks which now seem to be so far away in the past. The author's style of writing and quaint sense of humour are extremely pleasing. His book will, we are sure, be eagerly read by thousands.

THE LITTLE CAPTAIN. By Mrs. GEORGE CUPPLES. This is the story of a midshipman—his bravery, his truth, his love for God and the Bible, are graphically told by one who understands boy-nature, and knows how to "spin a yarn." The same pen gives us the story of THE OLD "DOLPHIN," another tale of sea and ship, and containing just the adventures and stirring events which will make it dear to the hearts of many boys. IN THE SERVICE. By ISABEL HORNIBROOK. Very touching, very real; a book to make one all the better for reading it. Mervyn is a splendidly natural character, and the lessons he learns are so practical and true, that we want all boys to read this book. ONE LINK OF A CHAIN. By the same author. Another book for boys, quite as good as the preceding, showing that the law of love and kindness can soften the hardest hearts, and win the blackest sheep to the fold of Christ. Gordon's story will charm the boys. These four volumes form a uniform series, published by Messrs. Gall & Inglis. 1s. 6d. each.

THE SUNDAY LIBRARY FOR YOUNG PEOPLE. Hodder & Stoughton. The latest issues are the following: "Quiet Talks with my Young Friends." By M. H. Bible thoughts for each day in the month—brief, truthful, practical. "The Cottagers of Glencarran." By Letitia M'Clintock. A sweet, homely, simple story of a life spent in the highest service. "Lindsay Lee and His Friends." By P. E. S. A thoroughly good story, well abreast of the times, and containing much useful counsel. All the foregoing are 1s 6d. each. "Richard Blake and His Little Green Bible." By M. H. A bright little story on the value and preciousness of the Word of God. "Diary of the Sun" (same author). A pleasant and instructively written story of what the sun saw. He discourses of bright scenes, and all his experiences are happy ones. Full of sound Biblical teaching. "The Golden Chain;" a Story for Children. A simple little story of everyday life among the children strong on the teaching of the Lord's Prayer. "Nothing to Do;" or, the Influence of a Life" (same author). A very beautiful influence it is, teaching, in touching ministry, "the responsibility of using aright God's great gift of life." These four last are 1s. each.

"ISSY;" a Story of Trust and Triumph. By L. L. McL. BACKLER. 1s. 6d. Partridge & Co. A beautiful, tender story of rescue and love, so differently told to many such stories that it is quite refreshing.

THE EARLHAM TEMPERANCE SERIES. 337, Strand. Six little gems of books, got up in the most attractive style, and by their appropriate and well-written contents made singularly useful as Christmas gifts. A luxury in Temperance literature.

FIVE MINUTES TOO LATE. By EMILY BRODIE. 3s. 6d. Shaw & Co. A capital story of school-boy life written in an animated style, teaching the danger of indolent habits and the invaluable influence of some youthful friends.

THE SUNDAY AT HOME. Volume for 1885. 7s. Religious Tract Society. In everything that constitutes a magazine suitable for the Lord's Day this takes the lead. The inevitable serial stories are attractive and unexceptionable; the intelligence about missions abroad and Christian work at home is most useful. The illustrations are excellent.

THE LEISURE HOUR FOR 1885. 7s. Religious Tract Society. What "The Sunday at Home" is for Sunday this is for every-day. Current events, facts about distant lands, religious, moral, social, and scientific subjects, are treated by able and experienced writers, and the cream of a library is condensed in a volume. The illustrations improve with every year.

CHRIST AND THE BIBLE. By STANLEY LEATHES, D.D. 1s. 6d. Partridge & Co. In these four lectures, written in a popular style, Dr. Leathes boldly meets the hostilities of the present day to the Bible and the Christ of the Bible. The Saviour stands out in majestic proportions from these pages, and we trust they may establish, in the truth, many who are blown about by adverse winds of doctrine.

OUR OWN GAZETTE, bound volume for 1886. 2s. 6d. and 1s. 6d Partridge. Truly a wonderful book for the price; but, leaving that out of the question, it is so full of good things, so cheery, helpful, wise and suggestive, that we are constrained to repeat the opinion that it is the best publication of the kind to be found within the realm. Pre-eminently the Christian young woman's paper.

DOT. By ANNIE LUCAS. With illustrations by T. PYM. 3s. 6d. Hodder & Stoughton. One of those touching stories of life among the poor which cannot be read without tears. In this case the scene is laid in Manchester; but Manchester or London, Dublin or Glasgow, the sad facts are all alike, though the local colouring be different. The illustrations are a feature of additional interest.

THE FIRESIDE ANNUAL. Conducted by Rev CHARLES BULLOCK, B.D. 7s. 6d. Home Words Publishing Office. This is the yearly volume for 1885. The type is larger than in most serials. Its matter is unique. We open upon an article from The Fireside News, "The Perils of Society" which admits "the painful necessity of stern and faithful testimony against the crying evils of the age." There is a large amount of valuable information interspersed with lighter, but always useful and elevating, articles.

THE PROPHET OF GLORY; or, Zechariah's Visions. By J. DENHAM SMITH. 5s. Hawkins. Those who have read and valued the chapters on Hosea by the same writer will all the more welcome this series of expositions of the visions of Zechariah. We are not able to follow our old and valued friend in all his interpretations, but none can read them without having his heart stirred with the blessed hope of the glorious appearing of our great God and Saviour Jesus Christ. We shall give our readers an early opportunity of reading for themselves one of the most striking chapters, "The World's Last Battle." The book is beautifully printed and bound, and will doubtless be a favourite for a present with many givers.

SONGS OF THE PILGRIM LAND. By C. PENNEFATHER. 5s. J. F. Shaw & Co. Few Christmas issues will be so welcome to a large number of pilgrims on the King's highway, and labourers in his vineyard, as these poems by their revered comrade and fellow-worker, Mrs. Pennefather. We are told that "at the request of many friends, and with the permission of the writer (though very reluctantly given)," the editor, E. St. B H., sends forth this volume. It may truly be said by her out of whose large and long experience these poems have been written, that the author is one of those who "learn in suffering what they teach in song." We have given (page 6) "Where is your Faith?" one of the poems written in early life, but which succeeding years proved to have been meat given for a journey which would otherwise have been too great for her.

AFLOAT. By the Author of "The Caged Linnet." 3s. 6d. Shaw & Co. There is a degree of originality in the structure of this tale which sharpens the edge of the reader's interest more and more as he proceeds with its perusal.

SUGGESTIVE PRAYERS FOR THE YOUNG, and Helps for Mothers. 6d. Drummond's Tract Depôt, Stirling. An admirable little book. The compiler not only loves the young, but understands their modes of thought. Pure doctrines are inculcated in the simplest words.

Four little stories by Mrs. GORGES, entitled GUY'S FISHING ROD; THE BOG MYRTLE; THE SCARLET POPPY; and NELLY'S STORY (1d. each), teach some precious truths of God for the little ones. They are very suitable for giving away at Christmas to missions, &c. (Caswell, Birmingham).

HER HUSBAND'S HOME. By EVELYN EVERETT GREEN. 4s. 6d. Shaw & Co. This tale has some very uncommon and interesting characteristics which should win for it a good place amongst the season's books issued by these publishers. The satisfactory conclusion of some years' misunderstanding between a young wife and her mother-in-law is led up to by a series of vividly-narrated circumstances. The visit to a misanthrope is exceedingly good.

THE PATHWAYS OF PROMISE. Words of comfort to the Christian Pilgrim. 138th thousand. By Author of "Able to Save." 3s. 6d. Isbister. A choice little treasury of Scriptural meditations. A few well-chosen texts are the ground-work of each picture, a few sacred verses are a graceful frame, while on each canvas he paints with sweetness and skill such pilgrim comforts as the Bow in the Cloud, Guardianship, Daily Strength, Assurance, God's Presence, and Rest.

NEW YEAR'S ADDRESSES.

"A BORDERLAND OF TIME" (by Mrs. GORGES), though written in the minor key, has its message, which we trust will be blessed to many readers. 1d. Partridge & Co.

THE PATH TO PENTECOST; or, Faithful unto Death. By Rev. E. W. MOORE. 1d. Partridge. These are earnest thoughts and burning words—a blessed desire with which to begin the year, "Let a double portion of thy Spirit be upon me." Full of encouragement to the timid disciple to follow the Lord fully, it is sure to be owned of God in the blessing of souls.

In WANTED A REST (2d. Whitefield Book Depôt, 37, Grafton-street, W.), Rev. JACKSON WRAY is in his best mood. Though highly poetical in style, as his manner is, Mr. Wray is here intensely practical in thought and teaching. In these days of unrest, such a soothing message ought to come home to many a weary heart, at the opening of another year. A fine original poem is appended to the address.

"AGAIN," by SOPHIA M. NUGENT (1d. Partridge & Co), is an inspiring call to faith and holy expectation of oft-renewed manifestations of the Divine presence and power in the soul. The argument of the homily is built on the solid rock of facts in our Lord's life and teaching, and it is enforced in the choice and comforting language which this spiritually-minded writer knows so well how to use.

EVEN NOW! or, Hindrances to Pentecostal Lives removed. By Rev. C. A. FOX. (2d. Partridge & Co.) Few present day teachers are so well qualified as Mr. Fox to lead his fellow-believers into the profound depths of spiritual truth, and up to the lofty heights of spiritual experience. This address sparkles with clear-cut gems of thought—genuine jewels of heavenly lustre for the daily adornment of the Christian walk. We are tempted to quote, but we should not know where to stop. Instead of giving specimens, we earnestly advise experimental Christians to get the whole and digest it well, and then distribute it widely. These forty pages are certainly worth their weight in gold.

A new series of a well-known American periodical, The Princeton Review, will be commenced in January under the title of The New Princeton Review It will be edited by Professor W. M Sloane, of Princeton College, and will be published bi-monthly, in New York by Messrs. A. C. Armstrong & Son, and in London by Messrs. Hodder & Stoughton.

The interesting recollections of the late Lord Shaftesbury that appeared in The City Mission Magazine, from the pen of Mr Weylland have been reprinted in pamphlet form with additions and illustrations and an excellent portrait of his Lordship on the cover Mr Weylland is well able to deal with the aspects of the late Earl's life here presented, and the purchaser, in addition to the pleasure of perusal, will be helping on a good work. The tractate is entitled THE SEVENTH EARL OF SHAFTESBURY AND OUR MISSION, and may be had from the City Mission House, 3, Bridewell place, E.C., 2d each, 1s 3d. per dozen, 10s. per 100.

Notes and Comments.

OUR next issue will be a Double Number (price Twopence); it will contain a full and special report of the two days' Conference held last week at Manchester on "The Evangelisation of the World;" Christmas stories by Mr. James Bowker and Mrs. Evered Poole; a piece of Christmas music; portrait and sketch of Rev. E. P. Hammond, with other illustrations and seasonable reading matter. We hope our friends will aid us in its circulation.

Once more we are on the eve of Christmas, season of blessed memory to every Christian heart. Those who toil among our city masses are laying their plans for celebrating the great festival of the Church universal, by the usual gifts to the poor and needy. In past years our readers have generously assisted many of these friends in their work of faith and labour of love. We doubt not that this reminder will prompt to a like liberality again, so that we may respond to the many applications for help we are receiving.

With reference to the incident headed "A Terrible Story," which appeared in our issue of November 26, we would direct the attention of our readers to the note from Mr. Soltau on p. 15. We deeply regret that his correspondent has apparently misled him as to the date, though, as will be seen, he still says that the facts are as asserted by those who gave him the information.

A gentleman holding a responsible official position in connection with the Great Western Railway has called on us with regard to the matter. He states that during his term of office at Paddington Station, extending over twenty years, no facts such as those given in the incident have ever come to the notice of the officials there. A strict watch, he tells us, is kept on the arrival of all trains, and any suspicious-looking persons seen to frequent the platforms are called to account, and if necessary removed. He admits that parents and friends throughout the country not infrequently send their children by rail without having made proper arrangements for their care on arrival, but in all such cases the company's agents take the greatest pains to ensure that they get into right hands, sometimes taking them to their own homes till this can be effected.

We have never had the least doubt that our railway companies do all that lies in their power in such cases, but the moral hawks of our great city are keen-eyed and sharp-witted, and it is only too possible for them to circumvent the most perfect railway arrangements. Parents and guardians ought to obviate this danger by providing a responsible chaperone in every case.

An advocate of a wider theology, who objects to an article of Dr. Eustace Conder in The Congregationalist, and who has been expounding his opinions in The General Baptist Magazine, thus writes concerning the doctrines of Regeneration, Atonement, and the Divine Sonship of Christ:—

> My contention is that the Apostles did not teach these doctrines in the sense we have been accustomed to understand them—that of theological tenets—but that they taught something very much wider; taught it not because of their historical position, but as the sum and essence of Christianity—viz., the Christian facts and their moral relations, including in the term "facts," not only historical events, but essential truths.

Such is a specimen of the haze of words in which these new theologians confuse themselves. It is sad that men who think after this obscure manner should attempt to be teachers, but sadder still that unstable souls should be led astray by such writing.

In relation to the French celebration of the Revocation of the Edict of Nantes, a Protestant lecturer overheard the following while travelling: "If the Protestants were clever and bold they might easily regain what they lost; but they will preach about this, and then say, 'Good-night for a hundred years.'" This expectation that speech and courage should be the mark of Protestants is by no means a solitary one among Frenchmen. What was the daring confidence in God of the old Huguenots is told in a thrilling narrative in the current number of Good Words.

The Pope has written to the Mikado of Japan, and the document contains the following remarkable passage:—

> All they who bear the name of Christians are above all enjoined—not through fear of punishments, but by the voice of religion—to reverence the kingly sway, to obey the laws, and not to seek aught in public affairs save that which is peaceful and upright. We therefore most earnestly beseech you to give the utmost freedom in your power to all Christians, and to deign, as heretofore, to protect their institutions with your patronage and favour.

This is very proper, but it is scarcely in accord with the practice of the Church of Rome. Whenever she has had the power she has applied the rack and the thumbscrew, and lighted the martyr-fires in the attempt to suppress the truth, and we need only call to mind the condition of the Papal States when the civil power, too, rested in the Pope's hands, if proof is needed that in all her relations she has ever been opposed to all real liberty and freedom.

To those who are labouring under the burden of mental doubt with regard to prayer, a little pamphlet by the late Professor Birks may be helpful. The Professor sets forward most ably the folly of attempting to sever the physical from the spiritual, seeing that the existence of both is admitted, and urges that the "iron rule" of law is exceeded by the "indeterminedness" arising from conditions which cannot be separated from that law, the course of nature even being greatly modified by "spontaneous action" in various ways.

A great writer who looks at the question from even a higher standpoint than that which Professor Birks took, has said:—

> If one should say "The laws of God ought to admit of no change," I answer, The same working of unalterable laws might, under new circumstances, look a breach of those laws. . . . Shall God create that which shall fetter and limit and enslave Himself? What should his laws, as known to us, be but the active mode in which he embodies certain truths, that mode, also the outcome of his own nature? If so they must be always capable of falling in with any, if not of effecting every, expression of will.

It is an illustration of what has finely been termed "the imbecility of unbelief," that there should be an idea that God has bound Himself by a chain of his own making.

M. Renan has turned aside from his depreciatory studies of Christ and the Apostles to write a philosophical play, and a very poor contribution it is to the literature of the day. In the preface to it (and if the preface is not as instructive as the writer doubtless intended it to be, it is at any rate amusing, whereas the drama is neither the one nor the other) M. Renan says that his play teaches that "we should not be too much moved by whatever of the unstable there may be in the equilibrium of humanity." It is satisfactory to find that M. Renan apparently does not lay much stress upon the value of his own attempts to upset that equilibrium, and that he is ready to avow his belief in "the final triumph of religious and moral progress."

That he has done much to hasten that triumph may reasonably be doubted, but it is certain that he has not been able to do anything to retard it. Other and greater men than Renan have attacked Christianity and professed to find defects in the character of Jesus, and their volumes have long ago been consigned to the oblivion whither in due time M. Renan's contributions will follow them. The "equilibrium of humanity" has to be preserved, and is preserved, by something more potent than that which the French savant has to offer, if anyone can find out what he has to offer; and that power is the old-fashioned faith in Christ.

M. Renan has been trying to improve the Apostle Paul's great utterance respecting "faith, hope, and love." The Frenchman would say, on the other hand, that the "three great things were goodness, beauty, and truth, and that the greatest of these was truth." The man deeply taught in the Scripture would teach the savant that love in Paul's idea included, necessarily, both truth and goodness, and that if there were no faith to trace creation's beauty to a Divine hand, and no hope that it would be "a joy forever," beauty would lose its attraction. The philosopher of this world has reason to say, "I said I will be wise; but it was far from me."

"Marshal" Ballington Booth, of the Salvation Army, has been interviewed by the reporter of The Auckland Star, to whom he has made some startling revelations as to the social enormities he finds at the antipodes. He has visited many houses of ill repute, where he has found the daughters of clergymen, of leading merchants, of magistrates, and of judges. Gentlemen of influence had assured him that in Sydney little girls of twelve, thirteen, and fifteen, are used in this loathsome and terrible trade. He is intending, therefore, to inaugurate Rescue Brigades and Homes. The condition of the Colonies is as bad as England.

Rev. Dr. Howard Crosby, of New York, has written a pastoral letter, warmly protesting against the growing habit in the States, even among professing Christians, of patronising the Sunday newspaper. He calls on all true Christians to resist the incoming tide, and vindicate the sacredness of the day. On this side of the Atlantic, happily, the Sunday newspaper is not so universal an institution as in the United States, but a word of exhortation to keep the first day of the week intact from worldly intrusion may not be unneeded in these latitudinarian times.

There is a temporary lull in the strife waged in the Balkan Peninsula, but probably not for long. "The beginning of strife is as when one letteth out water." The flood-gates of human passion and human ambition have been opened, and the pressure behind is too strong to admit of their being shut. The future of the Turkish empire is a subject of the deepest interest to those who are watching the course of events in the light of prophecy, and the following utterances of a Continental statesman, which appeared in a recent issue of The Times, are most significant. They harmonise in a wonderful way with the observations contained in the recent paper by Rev. H. Grattan Guinness. The statements were made in conversation with a Times correspondent :—

> The Mussulmans have no longer any function in Europe. They never had any other function than that of a military and conquering oligarchy, even when at the climax of their power. They have never done anything for art, literature, science, industry, commerce, navigation, or agriculture, nothing for human liberty, or, in short, for anything conducive to civilization. They have never been anything but a fanatical caste, fancying themselves the sole possessors of the true faith, and commissioned to propagate and enforce it. This religious doctrine is now demonstrated to be a thorough fallacy, contrary to the development of civilization.
>
> The Turks have now ceased to be a military nation, for their armies are powerless. So far from being conquerors, they are conquered. To-day an inert member, to-morrow they will be a gangrened member, and the day after the mortification will extend to the entire European body, unless the member be amputated. The Sultan, moreover, does not require temporal sovereignty in order to remain the spiritual head of the Mussulmans, any more than the Pope requires it to influence Roman Catholics. Europe will not violate the consciences of believers by settling the political destinies of the Mussulman nation and its head. Their creed will remain free, as long as the Caliph, with or without temporal power, enjoys freedom. Hence the recent events in the Balkans ought to have opened the eyes of Europe.
>
> Circumstances are exceptionally favourable for settling, once for all, this threatening Eastern question. The Turks are reduced to immobility; no convulsion even is to be feared from them. Their fanaticism has no other object than their creed, which remains free. The policy of Europe is now directed by a man of unquestionable power, who, by the greatest good luck, is only indirectly interested in this Eastern question, and having nothing to covet may settle everything.

If Scripture predictions fail to open the eyes of Christians as to the things that are coming upon the earth, is it any wonder that recent events do not have the effect of opening the eyes of Europe? In the midst of the "Fool's Paradise" of speculation and ignorance will be heard ere long the voice of the Lord God calling to each individual, "Where art thou?" Startled nations bearing the name of Christian will be summoned to meet Jesus Christ, and have to confess the fact of the beguilement of the Prince of Darkness, notwithstanding the clear light of God's written word.

The drying up of the Euphrates goes on apace. The Times of Friday says :—"It is truly astonishing that the Sultan should not see the dangers of the course he is adopting (with regard to the Servo-Bulgarian complication). Pushed on by his deadliest enemy (Russia), he is embarking on an adventure which may very well be the ruin of Turkey. We know, from the revelations as to Russian intrigue in Philippopolis last spring and summer, what are the real wishes of Russia with regard to the Balkan provinces—namely, that a 'big Bulgaria' should exist, but that it should be wholly under Russian domination. This, too, is only a step towards something more; towards the acquisition, at no distant date, of Constantinople."

The Daily News of Saturday says :—"The peace of Europe is gravely endangered. . . At present it seems likely enough that diplomacy will result either in a war between Austria and Russia, in which the Turkish Empire will assuredly perish, dragging down with it, it may be, the external independence and internal freedom of the Christian races of the Balkan Peninsula, or in a treaty of partition which will bring Austria to Salonica, and Russia within measurable distance of Constantinople. . . . The war, once begun, all the States, great and small, which deem that they have a reversionary interest in the European territory of the Sultan will join in the scramble. Whoever gains by it, Turkey is sure to lose. Her end will have come."

Meanwhile, the Sultan, who is very fond of confectionery, does not spare expense in indulging it. A short time ago (writes a correspondent of The Pall Mall Gazette), a German confectioner travelled from Moscow to Constantinople, in hope of securing a situation. His pastry found its way to the Sultan's table, and His Highness was so pleased with it that he at once made the stranger from Germany his confectioner, with 1000 piastres a month for making tarts!

A very different estimate of the character of the Sultan, and of the future possibilities of the Ottoman Empire is given by Hobart Pasha in this month's Nineteenth Century. He, nevertheless, lays great stress on the gravity of the present crisis. Those who are interested in the Eastern question (and who is not?) should by all means read Hobart Pasha's paper, "A Strategical View of Turkey."

With reference to a note concerning the word, "Goat," quoted by a correspondent from the "Helps to the Study of the Bible," published by the Oxford University Press, in our issue of Nov. 12, the Queen's Printers write as follows :—

> Dear Sir,—Having noticed your comment upon the "Oxford University Helps to Bible Students," in your paper of November 12, we draw your attention to the enclosed letter from Canon Tristram, which appeared in The Record of March 19, 1879. Under the circumstances there set forth, you will readily understand our strong desire that the public should not confound the "Aids to Bible Students" with the "Oxford Helps."
>
> The printer at Oxford undertook the compilation of the "Helps," and, as the University there conferred distinction upon him, and waived the usual examination, we understood in consequence of his literary work, it would be ungracious on our part to express an opinion.
>
> We hand a copy of our "Bible with Aids," and will thank you, if you submit it to examination.
>
> Yours respectfully, Eyre & Spottiswoode.
>
> Great New-street, London, E.C., Nov. 26.

The letter of Canon Tristram is a severe stricture on the Oxford "Helps," the gist of which is that each Oxford edition has come out shortly after the publication of the Queen's Printers' book, of the plan and contents of which it is an imitation. The following sentences will indicate the complaint made on behalf of the Queen's Printers :—

> Not only have the plan and contents of the work of a rival been copied by the authorities of the Oxford Press. They have also attempted to rival its articles, written by competent authorities, whose names were given by compilations from the works of those authorities, written, I presume, either by hacks or by 'professors," who have added nothing of their own to their compilations, and have not given their names. . . .
>
> For these mistakes [misprints and errors as to animals and birds] certainly copyright may be claimed; but it is indeed startling to authors whose works have been pillaged, with scant acknowledgment, to find the whole claimed as copyright. How far it is fair to the firm which has spared neither labour nor cost in making their book as perfect as they can, for the University Press to duplicate their work, and to reproduce it with colourable alterations, I leave to others to decide. My object is simply to draw attention to the claim of priority in this work.

The Bible student cannot afford to be indifferent to the advantage of having the aids to which he commits himself written by scholars eminent in their various departments, rather than compiled by an unknown writer. The "Aids to the Student," published by Messrs. Eyre & Spottiswoode, Her Majesty's Printers, are beyond comparison more trustworthy and more complete than any other similar book.

We quote the following from "John Gordon, of Pitburg and Parkhill," by his Widow (Nisbet), a memoir which we have already commended, and now again press upon the attention of our readers :—

> "With regard to Infidelity, he had during that year a long correspondence with one professing Infidel views. Unremitting were his efforts to win that soul from the errors of its way, and for this purpose, as he would not speak in ignorance, he read many of the Infidel works which are misleading so many. It was while he was engaged in this painful duty and study, that he first became aware of the extent of the dissemination of error throught the land. Specimens of short telling Infidel tracts, with attractive titles, fell into his hands, which were being circulated by thousands at the doors of Mr. Moody's meetings in Edinburgh alone, and of a style singularly well adapted for the capacities of the masses. He sent these to Rev. Professor Blaikie, of the Free Church College, Edinburgh, with the earnest suggestion that they should be met by a series of equally cheap printed and popular tracts, to form an antidote to all this poison. This excellent suggestion still remains, however, to be carried out. The Religious Tract Society are at present issuing, it is true, a series of tracts on the subject, but they aim at a higher class, and are not within the grasp of the multitude. Three of these excellent tracts are by Professor Blaikie."

Mr. Gordon was in the van of those whose chivalrous sympathies were stirred into practical action concerning "the burning horrors revealed as the consequences of the want of legal protection of the girls and children of Great Britain. He felt it needed but to be studied in the most superficial way to stir every thinking, feeling man and woman into at least some sensation of pity and some desire to help." The Sentinel of May, 1881, bore witness that "the enlightenment of the churches of Scotland on the matter of this infamous traffic was largely due to the noble efforts, extending over many months, of Mr. Gordon, of Parkhill."

Mr. A. R. Fenn, Cardenal Cisneros 55, Madrid, in acknowledging some help sent from our readers, says :—

> I am glad of this help. There is much misery on all hands. As much is being done in many ways to relieve the distress, we confine our help chiefly to cases we come in contact with personally. Let me ask your prayers, and those of Christians you meet, that a great work of the Holy Ghost may be done this winter in Madrid and throughout the country, of which we see some signs here.

Mr. George Müller, who has recently completed his eightieth year, has again arrived in America, where he will doubtless be as warmly welcomed and as divinely blessed in the ministry of the Gospel as in his former visit, and as in other quarters of the globe. He is a wonderful example of bringing forth fruit in old age.

One of those whose eyes are open observes that man's lost condition is not dwelt upon in present-day preaching; the outward habit of sin may be spoken of, while the inward evil of the heart is not exposed and judged in the presence of the holy God. It is when men do thus see themselves lost and guilty in God's sight that they value Him who saves not only from the habit of sin, but from the guilt and power of sin, as well as the hell to which it leads.

The same friend says:—"What a mockery of justice when those who unmask guilt and sin are punished, while those who commit it escape." This has become a trite saying now; it is repeated in newspapers and letters from all parts of the earth. But it needs repeating. Governments learn, like the Scribes and Pharisees of old, by "line upon line, line upon line."

It is true, and we need to remember it, that now the dreadful iniquities of our great cities, nor of them alone, are brought to light, we may be in danger of looking more at this awful habit of sin and these vicious lives, than at the guilt of sin before God; and that there is a danger of depending on human remedies for the habit of sin more than of seeking God's salvation through the precious blood of Christ from the guilt and power of sin.

Mr. Henry N. Custance, the Secretary of the Hospital Sunday Fund, having been invited to attend the general meeting of the Governors of the British Lying-in Hospital, and after hearing the evidence with relation to Dr. Heywood Smith, said, according to his own showing, that "in matters of this kind, which devolved upon the internal management of the Hospital, unless the Governors of the Hospital took action, our Council might have something very material to say to them next spring." This is a singular way for the Secretary of a Council, whose function it is to distribute money subscribed by the public, to address a body of gentlemen responsible for the management of a charity for which, amongst others, the money was given.

Well may The Methodist Times ask, "Who gave him authority to intimidate the Governors in this way? Many of the warmest supporters of the Hospital Sunday Fund believe that Dr. Heywood Smith is being iniquitously persecuted, and the Secretary of that Fund has no right to encourage the persecutors." If the Council whom Mr. Custance represents do their duty, they have already something very material to say to Mr. Custance; and if not, the supporters of the Hospital Fund who appreciate Dr. Heywood Smith, and object to an honourable and able Christian physician being ruined without cause, will have "something very material" to say and do next spring.

Mr. Samuel Smith, who, to the loss of Liverpool and of the poor and oppressed everywhere, is no longer, for the present, M.P., thus writes to the same paper:—

> It is with feelings of deep gratitude that I now write to thank you for the noble part you have taken in connection with those who have been persecuted and oppressed by "the powers that be," under the guise and in the name of justice. But now to complete and crown these extraordinary proceedings, it appears that another victim has to be sacrificed upon the altar of "envy, hatred, and malice" of the medical profession and the hospital authorities in the person of Dr. Heywood Smith, who has rendered such valuable service to Mr. Stead and his co-workers. It seems almost incredible that that great profession, containing in its ranks as it does not a few who are the very salt of the earth, should be so utterly blind to all sense of justice and mercy as to act in this vindictive way towards one whom they themselves admit to be a man of high standing in the medical world. But, should they do their worst, I for one at least would be most happy to fall in with your suggestion, and I believe there are hundreds who would do the same, and gladly give five guineas to start a fund for the purpose of opening a private Hospital for Women, for the relief and healing of those who suffer, and would also become an annual subscriber to the same. Having (in the case of my own wife and family) reaped such untold benefit from Dr. Heywood Smith's eminent medical skill and uniform Christian kindness, I should only be too thankful to do all in my power to help in carrying out your suggestion.—Yours very truly,
>
> 13, Colville-mansions, W. Samuel Smith.

We shall be only too thankful to contribute to such a hospital, and we believe that many of our readers would do the same.

Mr. Spurgeon, we regret to say, is for the present prevented from going to Mentone, by an attack of illness which confines him to his room. We learn with equal regret, that in consequence of feeble health, Rev. J. P. Chown has resigned his pastorate at Bloomsbury Chapel.

Still another active worker has been obliged to succumb to the high pressure of the times. Mr. H. Hankinson, well known for his work in connection with the Children's Special Service Mission, left London on Saturday last for a three months' sea voyage to Sydney, in the sailing ship Carisbrook Castle. This has been imperatively ordered by his physician as the only hope, humanly speaking, of restoring him to bodily vigour. At a meeting of sympathising friends at Mildmay, last week, he was commended to God.

In these days we are hearing much of the duty of parents to rule their households well, so that our young people may enter on active life properly equipped to fight its battles and meet its dangers. Mrs. Bayley, of Streatham, has just written an excellent and timely pamphlet on the subject, entitled "Home Rule" (Messrs. J. F. Shaw & Co.), which ought to be very extensively circulated among the more thoughtful class of working people. The best results are sure to follow from a study of this "old mother's letter to parents," and those who are accustomed to distribute useful literature at Christmas time should certainly make free use of this valuable brochure. We understand that the publishers will give specially favourable terms where a quantity is ordered.

We doubt not many friends throughout the country have been securing signatures to the petition for the release of Mr. Stead. It is desirable that all the petitions should be completed and sent in by Saturday next. They may be forwarded either to this office, or to Mr. Henry Varley, 48, Elgin-crescent, Notting-hill, London, W.

The venerable Dr. Somerville, of Glasgow, has been designated by the Committee of Selection as the "Moderator," or the Chairman, of the next General Assembly of the Free Church of Scotland. In responding to some remarks on the subject by Dr. Adam, at the Free Presbytery of Glasgow, last week, Dr. Somerville said he trusted that his connection with foreign evangelistic work might warrant the hope that the great subject of "The Evangelisation of the World" would receive consideration at the Assembly's meeting in May.

TEMPERANCE NOTES.

Sunday, December 13, is Temperance Sunday for all the Methodist Churches.

A National Temperance Hospital and Medical College is to be established at Chicago.

The Cambridge University and Town Coffee Palace Company has declared a dividend of 15 per cent.

The Church Temperance Sunday in the United States was observed in twelve dioceses, and about 1000 temperance sermons were delivered.

The Bishop of Bloemfontein (Rev. G. W. H. Knight-Bruce) is a member and warm friend of the Church of England Temperance Society.

According to The Christian Commonwealth, the disestablishment of whisky is more vital for Scotland than the disestablishment of the Church.

A great temperance demonstration is to be held in Wellington, New Zealand, January 25th, on the occasion of the inauguration of the New Zealand Alliance.

Under the Scott Act, Canada, any person may prosecute for a violation of the Act. Many more licences would be endorsed were such a provision in force in England.

Dr. Richardson has proved, with Professor Hughes' electric balance, that all the senses fail to a certain extent under the influence of even small quantities of alcohol.

The Indians at the Indian Village, Albert Palace, Battersea, soon found their way to the public-houses, and with very evil effects. They have now to be strictly watched.

In the "offence record" for September of the Grand Trunk Railway, on which more than 50,000 are employed, out of eighty-four cases there was only one of "intemperance."

Sir Donald Stewart, Commander-in-Chief, Bombay, has accepted the Soldiers' Temperance Association Medal. For five years past he has been a practical abstainer, and is in full sympathy with the Association.

Amongst several searching questions on temperance The Crusader asks if it is right for a Sunday-school teacher to condemn drinking while his own breath smells of alcohol, and for a minister to preach against intemperance while he uses that which leads to it.

A contemporary warns the public against public-house raffles, &c., at Christmas-time. The law is, "Any person who promotes a lottery or raffle shall forfeit £500, and be deemed a rogue and vagabond." Accessories are treated as principals. Information of such lotteries, &c., should instantly be given to the police.

THE SWISS TEMPERANCE SOCIETY held its seventh anniversary at Bâle last month. This society now numbers over 4000 members, of whom 1350 are reformed drunkards. In many places the police have testified to the great improvement in the people as a result of the work of this society.

THE HEBREW ALMANACK.—This almanack has been found very useful for distribution amongst Jews in past years. Many of them will not read a Christian tract, but will have no objection to adorn the walls of their houses with an almanack containing texts of Scripture from the Old Testament only, most of them printed in the Hebrew language. The texts are chosen with an endeavour to point the Jews to the Messiah. It is believed that this humble effort has done much good under God's blessing, and it is earnestly hoped that many may be inclined to help in circulating the issue for the coming year. It is published by Mr. Joseph, 394, Hackney-road, London, E.

THE ACTIVITIES OF CONSTRAINING LOVE is the title of the twentieth report of the North-east London Gospel Mission, and Country Holiday Home for Children. Mr. William Chorley, the superintendent (2, Marquess-grove, Canonbury, N.), says:—"From one of our missions comes the welcome news that from sixty to seventy professions of conversion have been given during the past year, and that in one of the poorest and vilest neighbourhoods in London." At some of the preaching stations many cannot get in, and have to be turned away. The Kingsland Night School is now used for a Sunday afternoon service. Early in the year 1885 free dinners were given to unemployed labourers. The little pamphlet is well worth sending for. Mr. Chorley asks praise for the abiding stedfastness of the converts and the general tone of spirituality that prevails at each of the several mission-halls under his care.

MR. HAMMOND AT THE EAST END.

THE attendances at Mr. Hammond's meetings in the Edinburgh Castle were very large last week, notwithstanding the adverse nature of the weather. Nightly, crowds of boys and girls assembled at the Castle gates before the hour of meeting; after the address it taxed all the energies of the band of workers to cope with the numerous cases waiting to be personally dealt with. The order and decorum now prevailing throughout the meetings are admirable, and except when the children pour into the hall the services of the stewards are not much called into requisition. Large distributions of Gospel tracts and leaflets have been judiciously made in the neighbourhood of the Castle, and a general and sympathetic interest has been excited throughout the vicinity.

It the close of the first week was worthy of being commemorated by a special thanksgiving, the second will have yet greater things to tell. Perhaps the most striking feature of the mission during the week has been the deep and real spirit of interest and conviction which has been at work amongst the boys of Dr. Barnardo's Homes. The boys resident at Stepney Causeway have been conspicuous at the Castle not less by their smart uniform than by their reverent demeanour on several occasions since the opening of the mission. Several cases of decided impression had come under the observation of Mr. Hammond's co-workers at the after-meetings; but on Tuesday and Wednesday last week Mr. Hammond conducted special meetings for the boys in their own schoolroom at the Home, and the result has been a marked outpouring of Divine blessing. Forty or fifty at the close of the meetings professed to have found a Saviour, and the spiritual tone of the Homes has been greatly deepened by the experience. Boy after boy, broken down by deep feeling, told at the after-meetings the story of their change of heart. Mr. Hammond's searching but kindly cross-examination in most cases only established the intelligent earnestness of the little fellows who confessed Jesus as their Saviour. "What makes you think that you love God now?" was asked of a little boy walking with difficulty on crutches. "Oh," said he, "because I love to pray now!" The thoughts of the boys were centred round the text: "Him that cometh to Me, I will in no wise cast out," and a clear and full apprehension of the great truth of this passage was manifested by most of those whose hearts were touched. At their own request, a prayer meeting for the boys of the Home was established on Thursday last by Mr. Cannan, the governor, and it was inaugurated by a very impressive service, of which the boys themselves took a fall share. A simple but powerful address on prayer was given by Mr. Cannan, and then the boys themselves were invited to pray. Very many responded, and in boyish but real and earnest language, they asked for help in the Christian life upon which they had entered, and thanked their Father in heaven for the blessing which they had already received. A similar meeting was conducted by Mr. Hammond at the Youths' Labour House, one of Dr. Barnardo's Institutions for elder lads. Several of these lads have also professed Christ.

The special blessing that marked the Castle meetings on Tuesday and Wednesday, and the testimonies given, were eloquent in many cases to the real change of heart which had resulted through the instrumentality of the mission.

At one of Mr. Hammond's meetings at the Edinburgh Castle, he read the following letter, just received from Captain J. Armstrong, well known as an earnest evangelist in Scotland:—

Dear Brother,—I have been reading in The Christian the accounts of your meetings, and how the Lord has been with you. I believe that work amongst the young is the most important work for God, and the most profitable. If men want to know how to reach the lapsed masses, let them work for God amongst children, and in a few years the masses will be reached; but it must be all day and every day. How diligent teachers are to cram the young mind with secular knowledge! If the same zeal were exercised for God, there would be less work for evangelists amongst the hardened hearts of the old. Ministers would have the lapsed masses as their hearers and helpers; the Government would have to build fewer prisons, and more churches; the police would have rest from their labours, the public-houses would become private, and the pawnshop would be closed. I continually praise the Lord for the work now going on amongst the young everywhere, but with all the efforts put forth there remains a lapsed mass still. Until Christian men and women come to the help of the Lord against the mighty, and realise their individual responsibility in this matter, the lapsed masses, as they are called, will continue to exist.

I am sure you are encouraged by seeing so many children pressing into the kingdom at this time. It seems to me that there is an outpouring of the Holy Spirit upon the young in this land, and wherever the Gospel is preached in faith children are converted to God. But there is unbelief in parents, in teachers, and in preachers which is hindering God's work. God is no respecter of persons, and He is no respecter of age either. There are many who would shut up the kingdom of heaven against little children. They neither go in themselves, and the children that are entering in they hinder. I believe a child ought to be given to God before birth, and brought to Christ as soon as it can lisp his name. I have known children of two-and-a-half and three years exercising faith in the Son of God.

J. Armstrong.

The Home, Girvan, N.B.

Letters to the Editor.

"A TERRIBLE STORY."

SIR,—The letter of mine that you recently published under the above heading has led to an overwhelming amount of correspondence, and, though I have been unable to answer many of the letters, I beg to thank the numerous friends who from all parts have sent offers of help towards finding the two girls.

The information, which was given me in writing, I have since found was not correct as to time, though it is substantiated as to the facts. The abduction took place many years, not months, ago, and at the time every effort was made, though in vain, to trace the children, who have never since been found.

The public will, I trust, remember the warning which the relation of the circumstances was intended to give.

Would you kindly give this explanation the same publicity as my letter.

Hastings, Dec. 3. Henry Soltau.

THE MORAL CRISIS.

Dear Sir,—With reference to the letter by Mr. F. A. Bevan in your issue of last week, I write to thank you most heartily for the noble stand you are making in the cause of public morality. I hope, and believe, that the circulation of The Christian will not only not suffer, but be largely extended thereby. Mr. Bevan's remarks would apply with equal and more force to the Bible itself, and he will, perhaps, be surprised to hear that I have myself heard the same objections urged against allowing young people to read it. It is foolish to urge that children (boys, at any rate) can be kept ignorant of the vice which exists. The true remedy is to show them the wickedness of it in God's sight.

I wish Mr. F. A. Bevan, and those who have discontinued taking in The Christian would let us have their views as to the way in which the Bible deals with the matter.—I am, yours faithfully,

W. B. Habershon.

Shirley, Southampton.

Sir,—In contradistinction to what your correspondent "Mr. Bevan" says, respecting the discontinuance of The Christian by some of his friends, I beg to say that four of mine have taken it in solely on account of the noble manner in which you have taken up the great moral question. For my part I have not seen anything that could offend any healthy and sober-minded Christian. Will your correspondent refer to Joel iii.

Mr. Horsley has truly said in his able letter, "that little sympathy or co-operation in putting down these shames and crimes has ever come, or will come, from the Press, or police, or Parliament, until forced into a semblance of rightness by the enlightened action of the people, arising from the establishment and energetic action of purity societies and vigilance committees in all districts and towns." Therefore, "cry aloud, spare not, and lift up thy voice as a trumpet" through the length and breadth of the land, till the people are roused in righteous indignation and needful action against these monstrous iniquities. M. Cross.

122, Camden-street, Camden-road.

Dear Sir,—I am very sorry to see that pressure is being brought to bear to induce you to desist from the open and straightforward line you have taken in the moral questions of the day. If Christian men and women could be induced to lay aside their prejudices, and look the matter fairly in the face, how different would be their conclusions.

With reference to the Armstrong case, no one would be more ready to concede that the whole thing was a blunder from beginning to end than Mr. Stead himself. We all know now that it has thrown very little light on the subject of the revelations, and, moreover, that there were other sources of information really open, so that there was no actual necessity for the adoption of such a course. But this is being wise after the event. Doubtless many of Mr. Stead's accusers could have enlightened him on many points, of which he, as a nonfrequenter of clubs and brothels, was ignorant. And had Mr. Stead obtained the information which high officials had it in their power to give, and the protection of the police which he had a right to demand, there would have been no "Armstrong case" at all. Let this case, then, be left out of the question all round; but let the fact be kept before the public mind, that the moral corruption of this country as revealed by Mr. Stead is being proved every day, and has been well known for years by the Government, by dignitaries and ministers of the churches, and by thousands of Christian people. And if the question be asked, How could it be possible that this seething mass of iniquity should be going on unchecked for years? the answer plainly is, because of the SILENCE of those who were cognisant of the fact.

And now that light has come, for "whatsoever maketh manifest is light," what is the action of those whose guilty silence has more than anything else contributed to the fester? Officialdom, the press, the clubs, the traffickers in strong drink, the corruptors of youth, and the despisers and destroyers of the purity and chastity of women and little girls all combine in a cry against "unwholesome revelations!" Surely hypocrisy has reached its limits! And alas, it seems as if the churches, as such, were participating in this guilty alliance. But, thank God, there are hundreds, yea, we trust thousands of individuals in the churches—high dignitaries, ministers and people, who are rejoiced to obey God rather than man, and to "lift up their voice like a trumpet," against sin and wickedness in any form, and who, seeing the sword which must inevitably come upon this nation, of which they form an integral part, because of its abominations, are determined that the blood of the slain shall not be required at their hands.

To you, Mr. Editor, the thanks of a whole army of Christian workers are due. Through long weary years they have struggled on, handicapped and gagged, witnessing scenes that have sometimes caused even reason to totter, because they were compelled to bury the atrocities in their own bosom, or to speak of them only in a whisper, because dainty Christians "could not bear to hear of such things."

And now, after having drawn a long breath of relief, and offered up many a "thank God that the silence is broken at last," is it not only to be renewed, but enforced on those who, like Elihu, must speak that they may breathe. God forbid. Surely everyone knows that no public abuse can be remedied without publicity. And where in the whole Bible can a passage be found which enjoins God's witnesses to be silent about the sins and iniquities of the people, when the object is cleansing and purification? "The pure in heart see God," and in his light they can look upon things as they are with the view of bringing in his remedy.

Let Christian parents learn for themselves, and teach their children to distinguish between purity and false modesty, and they will cease to "smite with the tongue" and pen those who are fighting the battles of the Lord.

My intimate acquaintance with Christian workers, and strong sympathies with their difficulties and trials must be my excuse for troubling you with this long letter. Charlotte Mason.

Cambridge Gardens, Kilburn, N.W.

[We thank the writers, but we have not space for other letters to the same effect, of which we have received a number; with three exceptions they are similar to the foregoing —Ed]

SOLDIERS AT GIBRALTAR.

Dear Sir,—Colonel Clarke knows me and my interest in the Gibraltar Soldiers' Institute too well to imagine its work was meant to be disparaged by me in forwarding you the letters I had received.

He hits the right nail on the head by stating the institutes and homes are established as "places of recreation and resort for the soldier when out of barracks."

The state of things referred to by my correspondents is that existing when in barracks, and refers not to Gibraltar itself but to a camp outside, where the gates are locked at 5 30, and the keys brought into the garrison to the main guard. There is no provision made in this outside camp for evening services or meetings, and an afternoon meeting which used to be held has been discontinued, though the men are marched on Sunday mornings into the garrison to attend service. It is the state of the outside camp which the Christian soldiers, shut up in it, so bitterly deplore in their letters to me, and was never meant for a minute to be a representation of the state of things in Gibraltar itself, where many efforts are being made for our soldiers' spiritual welfare.—Yours faithfully,

Eva Travers Evered Poole.

Enfield House, Southampton, Dec. 3.

ELECTION.

Dear Sir,—I do not wish to enter into any controversy with Mr. Horace Noel, but I must reply to his remark that it would be better if I used a Concordance. It is just that too frequent modern plan of stringing texts from a Concordance that I deprecate. I should be, indeed, ashamed to write on a subject of which I knew so little the scriptural references as he implies.

May I point out to your correspondent that I used the word "individual" election. I did not touch on the election of the Church, save as included in that of Christ, since all who come to Him are elected in Him. There is no individual specified in the election of the Church at Thessalonica, to which he refers, but there is distinct individuality in such phrases as, "If any man thirst, let him come unto Me, and drink." "Whosoever will," &c., &c.

As to the argument that if people are chosen to be holy, they must have been chosen to be saved, it is simply illogical. If I find two men in my garden, and ask one of them into my house, it does not follow that I had invited both or either into the garden! I give this merely as an example, not an illustration, of the subject. Is not the old illustration the true one, that whereas, on the outside of the portico is the free invitation, "Whosoever will," inside the saved soul finds and rejoices in the blessed truth that he has been chosen to fill the highest destiny as joint heir with his Saviour? R. E. F.

A QUERY.

Sir,—Can any of your readers say whether the last two lines in the first stanza of the well-known hymn, "Come, Thou Fount of every blessing," are correctly given as follows :—

> "Praise the mount—I'm fixed upon it!
> Mount of Thy redeeming love."

These two lines always seem to me to be a compound of doggerel and nonsense, and I can hardly believe that they form part of the original composition. A version I have met with combining sense and poetry, is the following :—

> "Teach me some melodious measure
> Sung by flaming hosts above,
> While I sing the countless treasure
> Of my God's unchanging love."

—Your obedient servant, Inquirer.

CHRISTIANS AND POLITICS.

Dear Sir,—I hope "S. C. C." is a better Christian in deeds than he is in his letter. Let us see how his ideas will work.

Two brothers unexpectedly fall heir to a fortune, but the one has been unsuccessful in business and so is poor; the other, being well to do, takes advantage of his position, and secures the fortune to himself. The poor man cannot afford legal expenses, and is unwilling to make public the unbrotherly conduct of his brother, so he applies to "S. C. C." for assistance to bring his brother to a right frame of mind. "S. C. C." (according to his letter) distinctly refuses, goes off to his counting-house, and so has done the Christ-like act. Has he?

A public meeting is held in the town to protest against flagrant injustice done to females by one-sided legislation, and to petition Parliament in favour of a Criminal Law Amendment Bill. "S. C. C.," however, is engaged consulting with a friend as to extension of business connections, and in so doing exhibits (according to his letter) the true Christ-like spirit. Does he?

Should the Pope regain his old power and take to burning Italian Christians, and should public meetings be thereupon held to urge our Government to protest and remonstrate, "S. C. C." would keep his clerks in the counting-house and discuss with his book-keeper the best means of reaching the Japanese market. In all this he is (according to his letter) attending to his business as Christ did to his, and so is doing the Christ-like act. Is he?

"S. C. C." holds that Lord Shaftesbury, when he took part in the Factory Acts, and such like movements for the alleviation of human misery and the elevation of his fellows, was disobeying the precepts and deserting the example of his Lord. Was he?

"S. C. C." has been in business for thirty-five years; but, during all that time, none of the great movements for the elevation of his fellow-men, for the removal of wrongs, for the protection of the poor, oppressed, or feeble, has had his energetic public aid or vote; and this is Christ-like? Neither has he aided in any agitation for the liberation of slaves, for the unfettering of commerce, or the removal of unjust restrictions on honourable trade, or for better protecting the lives of those engaged in dangerous avocations. Being, however, in business, I have no doubt he has availed himself of all the advantages British legislation has conferred, though secured for him by others at the cost of disloyalty to their and his King. All this is a correct exemplification of the neighbourliness Christ enjoins?

The denunciations by O. T. prophets are now obsolete; oppression and righteousness must forever be unreproved; iniquity and injustice may be rampant in high places; but the Christian (according to "S, C. C.") must keep silence and attend to his business. The advice of Jeremiah (of God through him) to the pilgrims and strangers in an alien land (Jer. xxix. 7) was misinterpreted by such as Ezra, Esther, and Nehemiah. Mordecai misread Providence, and so led Esther into sin. Daniel, the greatly beloved and holy man of prayer (Ezek. xiv. 14), was un-Christ-like, worldly minded and sinning, when administering the political affairs of a heathen empire. I use "sinning" advisedly, for the principles of a God-approved life on earth must be unvarying as the moral character of life's King.

Yea, according to "S. C. C.," Paul himself was disobedient to his own instructions when he "stood on his dignity" with the magistrates of Philippi (Acts xvi. 35—40), and, though he was unaware of the sin, so far as can be made out, he was far astray, indeed, when he took his stand on his political rights and claimed the intervention of the Imperial tribunal! When he "appealed unto Cæsar" "S. C. C." means to say, Paul transgressed all the teaching of the Apostles and despised the precepts and practice of the Master. Perhaps Paul may have had more of the mind of Christ than even "S. C. C.," with his thirty-five years of engrossing business life, and self-contained attention thereto. He "confounds things that differ," and must search his Scriptures again.

Tyro.

CHILDREN'S SCRIPTURE UNION.—Portions for the ensuing week :—Dec. 13, Exod. xxx. 1—15; Dec 14, xxxii. 1—14; Dec. 15, xxxii. 15—24; Dec. xxxii. 25—35; Dec. 17, xxxiii. 1—11; Dec. 18, xxxiii. 12—23; Dec. 19, xxxiv. 1—14.

REQUESTS FOR PRAYER.—For blessing on the Evangelical Mission to the Bretons, under the charge of Pastor Lecoat.——For blessing on a mission at St. Chad's, Liverpool, conducted by Rev. Dr. Morris, Dec. 6—22.——For guidance in difficult circumstances, and that peace may be restored to a household.

EVANGELISTIC NOTES.

REV. SAM JONES.—The Christian Million of last week gave a biographical sketch, with portrait, of this remarkable preacher; also the first of a series of his eloquent, soul-stirring sermons. Sam Jones is attracting much attention in the United States, and will probably visit this country shortly.

GOSPORT Y.W.C.A.—Mrs. W. E. Legg has had a ten days' mission in this town, holding Bible readings every afternoon, and evangelistic meetings every evening, in St. Matthew's schoolroom. At the praise-meeting many audibly thanked God for blessing received during the mission. Rev. Charles Tanner threw himself heartily into the work. A number of lads came out thoroughly on the Lord's side.

SHAFTESBURY MISSION HALL.—On Monday, November 23, a mission hall was opened at 179, Tabard-street, Borough, in memory of the late Lord Shaftesbury. Special services were continued during the week, and were well attended by the working classes. Christian workers who can assist, especially among the children, will be welcomed. The secretary is Mr. G. H. Breton, 84, Great Dover-street, S.E.

CHEPSTOW, MON.—Evangelistic services were held in the Baptist Chapel for eight days, conducted by Mr. F. C. Spurr. Great interest was manifested in the meetings. The solos rendered by Mr. Spurr were very telling. There has been an awakening among Christians, and we believe many conversions to God We are profoundly thankful to the Lord for our brother's visit. He is full of holy enthusiasm, and is a true evangelist.

A. J. Davies, Baptist Minister.

SHEFFIELD.—Mrs. Joshua Kaye (née Miss Marianne Pooke, of Devonshire), after two years' severe illness, is again labouring most successfully for the Lord; many are flocking around her to hear the sweet story of the cross, which is so simply yet powerfully spoken by her. Mrs. Kaye has now a comfortable (Unsectarian) Hall, accommodating about 1500 persons. It has been presented to her by her husband, and God has already blessed it in the salvation of many. A Sunday-school has been opened, which is growing rapidly. A. Parker.

TURKISH MISSIONS' AID SOCIETY.—It gives us pleasure to announce that the Earl of Aberdeen has consented to assume the office of President of this Society in room of the late Earl of Shaftesbury.

CAMBRIDGE—The week of Intercession for Foreign Missions was observed here by a united service in Great St. Mary's Church on Monday evening. The large church was well filled, and on a very inclement evening; and the tone of the occasion was one of spiritual attention and expectation. There were two addresses, one by Dr. Westcott, and one by Rev. A M. Christopher, who is spending a few days in Cambridge. Both were characteristic, and both full of truth and usefulness, Dr. Westcott began with a noble assertion of the magnificence of the actual results of missions. Mr. Christopher spoke from his own old Indian experiences, and, amongst other things, brought in a very timely reference, of course in a spirit of warm Christian love towards all true workers for Christ, to the work of both the great Church Societies and to that done by Nonconformist missionaries.—Record.

THE INTERNATIONAL BIBLE READING ASSOCIATION, worked by a Committee of the Sunday-School Union, held a conference of branch secretaries, at 56, Old Bailey, London, on November 27. Rev. J. T. Briscoe delivered an address on the "Bible in the Home," which was received with great interest. Mr. C. Waters made a statement showing the great success which had attended the work; he reported that during 1885, 80,000 cards of membership had been issued not in Great Britain alone, but in Australia, New Zealand, Canada, South Africa, West Indies, Russia, France, and other countries. He described the object as being the daily reading of the Bible, the selected portions for each week having reference to the international lesson for the following Sunday. Branches are formed in Sunday-schools, &c., the members subscribe one penny annually, and receive a four-page circular letter free each month. Reference was made to the testimony from all parts of the good results of the Association, and the anticipations for 1886 were stated to be very sanguine.

Harrow.—The Wheatsheaf Gospel and Temperance Hall was opened a short time ago Is situated in a very poor and isolated part of Harrow, where Gospel testimony was much needed. The work is being carried on single-handed; all the expenses have been met by a working-man who appeals for help. Address F. J. Snelling, 3, Bertha-terrace, Headstone-drive, Wealdstone, Harrow.

Hodder & Stoughton's List

THE CHINA INLAND MISSION.
This Day, with Portrait, price 3s. 6d.

MEMORIALS OF
R. HAROLD A. SCHOFIELD, M.A.

(Late of the China Inland Mission),
First Medical Missionary to Shan-Si, China.
By his Brother, A. T. SCHOFIELD, M.D.

This Day, handsomely bound, 3s. 6d.

SONGS OF EARTH AND HEAVEN.
By NEWMAN HALL, LL.B., Author of "Come to Jesus," &c.

This Day, 3s. 6d., handsomely bound.

BIBLE CONQUESTS IN MANY LANDS.
STRIKING EXPERIENCES OF DISTRIBUTORS AND PIONEERS.

CHOICE NEW GIFT BOOKS.

FAITHFUL SERVICE. Sketches of Christian Women. By MARY PRIOR HACK, Author of "Consecrated Women," &c. Crown 8vo., 5s.

BIBLE FLOWERS AND FLOWER LORE. Fcap. 8vo., 1s. 6d., cloth extra.

THE CHILDREN OF AFRICA. Written for all English-speaking Children. By the Author of "The Children of India." With Map, and numerous Illustrations, handsomely bound, 5s.

COMPANION VOLUME. BY THE SAME AUTHOR.

THE CHILDREN OF CHINA. With numerous Illustrations and Map. Gilt edges, 5s.

NOTICE.—Now Ready, the LARGE TYPE EDITION (Old Test.) of

THE ENGLISHMAN'S BIBLE. Designed to give, as far as practicable, the accuracy, precision, and certainly of the original Hebrew and Greek Scriptures on the page of the Authorised Version; both for the Biblical Student, and for the ordinary English reader. By THOMAS NEWBERRY. With Diagrams of the Tabernacle and Temple, and Appendices. LARGE TYPE EDITION. Parts I. to IV., containing the Old Testament, price 8s. 6d. each. Also the OLD TESTAMENT in one Volume, price 30s. PORTABLE EDITION, complete, cloth, 16s.; morocco, 21s.; yapp, 30s.

London: HODDER & STOUGHTON, 27, Paternoster-row.

Addresses for Christmas and the New Year.

By the LORD BISHOP OF LIVERPOOL,

Let us Hold fast our Profession. Thoughts on Hebrews iv. 14. An Address for 1886. Crown 8vo, 2s. per dozen.

What did he Choose? A Searching Enquiry. Thoughts on Hebrews xi. 24–26. 2s. per dozen.

The Morning Without Clouds. 2 Samuel xxiii. 24. Small book form, 2d.

Perilous Times. Being Thoughts for 1886. 1s. per dozen.

I Ought. Thoughts for 1886. A Broadsheet in large type. 6d. per dozen.

Many Shall Come. Thoughts on Matthew viii. 11. An Address for Christmas. 2s per dozen.

Our Home. A Thought for Christmas. 1s. per dozen.

The Whole Family. 1s. 6d. per dozen.

One Blood. Thoughts on Acts xvii. 26. An Address suitable for Christmas. 2s. per dozen.

Thoughts on Prayer. Uniform with "Thoughts on the Lord's Supper." Paper cover, 3d.; Cloth, 6d.

I am Glorified in Them. A Motto for 1886. By Rev. J. E. SAMPSON, Vicar of Barrow-on-Humber. Small book form, 1d.

Little Things: Their Bearings on Daily Life. By Rev. GORDON CALTHORP, M.A. New edition, 1d.

The Lighted Lamp. An Address for New Year. By the same Author. Small book form, 1d.

The Kingdom and the King. An Address for the New Year. By Rev. S. C. MORGAN, D.D.

A Time to Dance. An Inquiry as to whether Dancing is a becoming Amusement for a True Christian. By Rev. F. A. C. LILLINGSTON. New edition. 2d.

List of Addresses for Christmas and the New Year, by various authors will be sent on application.

London: WILLIAM HUNT & Co., 12, Paternoster-row.

FOR NEW YEAR. 6d. per Doz.

CONQUERING CAPTIVES.

By J. T. WRENFORD,
NEWPORT.

"A bright and cheering word for the New Year: just the truth multitudes of God's children are needing."—Life of Faith.

London: S. W. PARTRIDGE & Co., 9, Paternoster-row.

EVEN NOW!

Or, Hindrances to Pentecostal Lives removed.
By Rev. C. A. FOX, price 2d.

"This address should be scattered broadcast. It is a casket full of gems"—Rev C Bullock, B.D.

"In his fervent, earnest, trenchant, happy manner the writer deals with these hindrances and sweeps them away. A guide and manual of help to many a harassed soul."—Life of Faith.

S. W. PARTRIDGE & Co. 9, Paternoster row, E.C.

Just published, Crown 8vo., cloth extra, 5s.; gilt edges, 6s.

THE PROPHET OF GLORY;

Or, Zechariah's Visions of the Coming and Kingdom of Christ.

BY J. DENHAM SMITH.

The Best and most suitable Present of the Season.

SONGS OF THE MASTER'S LOVE.

By FRANCES RIDLEY HAVERGAL.

Price Six Shillings.

A book of Poems on the Love of Jesus, with beautiful illuminated initial letters and choice sprays of flowers. Printed in twenty-two colours and gold. Size 8½ by 6½, with extra cloth cover, handsomely printed in five colours and gold and silver, gilt edges.

The Stationery Trade Journal says: "This is one of the prettiest and most charming of books we have ever seen. The printing is perfection."

The Prettiest Christmas Presents ever Published.

The "BIBLE LILIES" Series of Chromo Scripture Text Books.

Price One Shilling Each.

BIBLE LILIES. Scripture Selections for Morning and Evening. Small Square, 96 pages. A prettily Chromo-lithographed Text Book, with Lilies on every page.

THE PILGRIM'S REST. A very choicely-printed Daily Text Book for a Month. With Preface by LADY HOPE. Small square, 96 pages.

DAISIES FROM THE PSALMS. A Garland of Words in Season. Gathered and arranged by F. M. H. Small square, 96 pages.

THE CHILD'S OWN TEXT BOOK. A very pretty book for Children, printed in Five Colours. 96 pages.

LIVING WATERS. A new Text Book, uniform with "Bible Lilies" style and prices.

THE BEAUTY OF THE KING. Daily Food for the King's Household. By the Author of "Daisies from the Psalms." A very pretty oblong Text Book printed in Nine Colours and Gold, size 3 by 4½.

These TEXT BOOKS may also be had in the following styles and prices:—

Cloth extra, or French Morocco, gilt edges ...	1s. 6d.
Roan	2s. 0d.
Roan, cushioned sides	2s. 6d.
German Calf, round Corners, cushioned sides ...	3s. 6d.

Any three of the above Books can be had bound in leather, with leather case, price 6s.

MILDMAY AND OTHER
CHRISTMAS & NEW YEAR CARDS

"For richness of colouring, beauty of design, and general artistic merit, it would be hard to excel them."—The Christian.

SELECTION FROM CATALOGUE.

Price 2s. Packet No. 129.

TREASURES OF THE SNOW. Six Cards, by E. ST. B. HOLLAND, being a New Series of Alpine Flowers, with botanical names, on Ivory-grained card (Mildmay).

Price 2s. Packet No. 130.

SONGS OF TRIUMPH. Four Cards, about 6 in. square, by A. SCHLIENZ, with designs of berries on grained card, octagonal borders in grey and gold; very novel and bright (Mildmay).

THE FATHER'S LOVE. A Series of Six Chromos, illustrating Swiss scenery.

Price 2s. Packet No. 156.

THE LORD OUR KING. A Series of Six Waterfall scenes, in ornamental wrapper.

Price 2s. Packet No. 128.

PEACE IN BELIEVING. A pretty Series of Eight Cards, with choice designs of Primroses and early Spring Flowers. In ornamental wrapper.

FULL LIST SENT FREE ON APPLICATION.

MR. HAWKINS WILL SEND A SPECIALLY SELECTED SAMPLE PACKET, ON RECEIPT OF A POSTAL ORDER FOR 2s.

London: JAMES E. HAWKINS, 36, Baker-street, W.; and 17, Paternoster-row, E.C.

The Seventh EARL OF SHAFTESBURY, K.G.,
AND OUR MISSION.

By J. W. WEYLLAND.

Reprinted from the London City Mission Magazine, with Additions, and Illustrations.

"Perhaps one of the most interesting contributions to the obituary literature of the Earl is that from the pen of Mr. Weylland. . . . Vivid glimpses are given both of the public and private life of his lordship."
The Christian.

PRICE TWOPENCE.

London: PARTRIDGE & CO., 9, Paternoster Row.

THE CHILDREN

IN SUNDAY AND RAGGED SCHOOLS want the Lessons written by Dr. Watts, taught by Robert Raikes in his Schools; that Teachers can Teach, Children can Learn and Teach, Parents can Train and Profit by at Home, and Ministers and Superintendents can Examine upon; so that ALL can answer. Contained in the SYSTEMATIC BIBLE TEACHER and BIBLE VOICES FOR THE YOUNG. } Post Free, 2s. 6d.

These would soon reach all the homes.

SPECIAL OFFER

To the Clergy, Ministers, Superintendents of Sunday Schools, and Others.

MIMPRISS'S GOSPEL TREASURY HARMONY.

New Edition, large type, Demy 4to. Printed on good paper, 1,100 pages, cloth boards. Originally published at 42s.; now offered at 12s. nett.

ON RECEIVING THE PRICE OF 6 COPIES 7 WILL BE FORWARDED.

For Particulars, Catalogues, &c., apply at

The Systematic Bible Teaching Mission, 67, Paternoster Row, E.C.

NEW BOOK EXPLANATORY OF THE PRAYER-BOOK BY MRS. CAREY BROCK.

In a few Days, price 5s.

CHURCH ECHOES: A Tale Illustrative of the Daily Service of the Church. By Mrs. CAREY BROCK, Author of "Sunday Echoes in Week-day Hours."

BY THE SAME AUTHOR.

CHANGES AND CHANCES. 5s.
WORKING AND WAITING. 5s.
MARGARET'S SECRET. 5s.
CHARITY HELSTONE. 5s.
MICHELINE. 5s.
MY FATHER'S HAND. 2s.
CHILDREN AT HOME. 5s.
THE RECTORY AND THE MANOR. 5s.
HOME MEMORIES. 5s.
THE VIOLETS OF MONTMARTRE. 5s.
DAME WYNTON. 3s. 6d.
ALMOST PERSUADED. 1s.

SUNDAY ECHOES IN WEEK-DAY HOURS. A Series of Illustrative Tales

Eight Volumes, 5s. each.

1. THE COLLECTS. 49th Thousand.
2. THE CATECHISM. 29th Thousand.
3. JOURNEYS OF ISRAELITES. 18th Thousand.
4. SCRIPTURE CHARACTERS. 14th Thousand.
5. EPISTLES AND GOSPELS. 12th Thousand.
6. THE PARABLES. 12th Thousand.
7. THE MIRACLES. 9th Thousand.
8. THE EXAMPLE OF CHRIST. 7th Thousand.

MUSIC FOR SCHOOLS AND FAMILIES.

Cheap Edition, price 1s. cloth.

THE BIRD'S NEST, and other Songs and Ballads. Edited by Mrs. Carey Brock. With accompanying Tunes, composed and arranged by M. A. SIDEBOTHAM, Musical Editor of "The Children's Hymn-Book." Small 4to.

"The music has been most judiciously chosen to catch the ear of the juvenile singer quickly . . . . . Teachers will find it an easy task to teach their pupils both the easy verses and tuneful melodies."—Graphic.

Seven Hundredth Thousand.

THE CHILDREN'S HYMN-BOOK. Edited by Mrs. Carey Brock, and Revised by Bishop W. WALSHAM HOW, BISHOP OXENDEN, REV. J. ELLERTON.

A. Royal 32mo. price 1d. sewed; 2d. cloth extra.
B. Royal 32mo. price 1s. cloth; 1s. 6d. cloth extra.
C. With Music, price 3s. cloth; 3s. 6d. cloth extra.
 The Book contains 387 Hymns, 13 Litanies, and 20 Carols.

Tenth Thousand.

THOUGHTS ON CHRISTIAN SANCTITY. By the Rev. H. C. G. Moule, M.A., Principal of Ridley Hall, Cambridge. Price 1s., cloth.

"A most attractive little pocket volume, which cannot fail to be of much value. The practical character of the work is not its least recommendation."—Cambridge Review.

Just Published. Price 1s.

THOUGHTS ON UNION WITH CHRIST. By the Rev. H. C. G. Moule, M.A., Author of "Thoughts on Christian Sanctity."

Just Published. Price 5s.

A CRIPPLED ROBIN. A Story by M. E. Winchester, Author of 'A Nest of Sparrows.'

BY THE SAME AUTHOR.

A CITY VIOLET. 5s.
A NEST OF SPARROWS. 5s.
UNDER THE SHIELD. 5s.
CHIRPS WITH THE CHICKS. 2/6.
A CABIN ON THE BEACH. 5s.
A WAYSIDE SNOWDROP. 3s. 6d.

London: Seeley & Co., Essex-street, Strand, W.C.; and all Booksellers.

LONDON BIBLE AND BOOK SALOON,

14, PATERNOSTER ROW, LONDON, E.C.

New Publications, Almanacks, &c., Season 1885-6.

MR. ALFRED HOLNESS is pleased to announce that he has now on sale a Choice Selection of Cards and Beautifully Executed Hand-painted Designs for the present Season. A beautiful assortment of "Christmas" and "New Year" and "Scripture Designs" now on view, including the "Mildmay" and "Peniel" Series, and New Designs by the Baroness Elga von Cramm, E. St. B. Holland, Miss Schlienz, and many others. An early inspection of his very varied stock in the above Saloon is respectfully invited.

A Special Selection of Framed Texts and Hand-painted Designs. Also New Books suitable for Prizes and Gifts. Discount allowed off Bibles, Books, and Cards. The Trade supplied on Liberal Terms.

THE "SEARCH AND SEE" ALMANAC AND TEXT BOOK FOR OLD AND YOUNG for 1886 (Illustrated). Price One Halfpenny; 2 dozen, post free, for 1s.; or 3s. 6d. per 100, post free. Prizes are offered to the young readers of this Almanack, to encourage Bible Study.

THE BELIEVER'S ALMANAC: Christian Remembrancer for 1886. Price 1d., 5 copies post free; cloth, interleaved, gilt edges, price 6d. post free.

"FAITHFUL WORDS" ALMANACK FOR 1886. First Edition of eighty-five thousand. Price One Penny. This Almanack is issued in an enlarged form, so as to admit of the texts for each day being in much bolder type. The sheet contains various illustrations, the centre one being a large and very striking engraving of an Eastern Shepherd. There are also nine other beautiful illustrations.

THE "GOLDEN TEXT CALENDAR" FOR 1886. For Home, Office, or Workshop. Price 1s. post free. With Daily Scriptures specially and carefully selected.

"We have all this year been using a "Golden Text Calendar," and have been much struck by the very choice selection of Texts; they have often been 'a word in season.'"—Extract from Letter.

London: Alfred Holness, 14, Paternoster-row; Glasgow: R. L. Allan, 143, Sauchiehall-street.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

SUITABLE PRESENT FOR CHRISTMAS AND THE NEW YEAR.

In Crown 8vo., cloth, price 3s. 6d., post free.

AUNT FRANK'S BIBLE STUDIES:

Being THOUGHTS AND REFLECTIONS ON EVENTS AND CHARACTERS IN THE OLD TESTAMENT, FROM THE CREATION DOWN TO SOLOMON.

DEDICATED TO HER NEPHEWS AND NIECES IN EUROPE, ASIA, AMERICA, AND AUSTRALIA.

By CAROLINE AMELIA ELIZABETH COLE.

"A bright, cheerful, profitable book."—Methodist Recorder.
"Suitable as an alternative reading book in families."—Clergyman's Magazine.
"Calculated to be useful by its many valuable lessons."—Christian Age.
"The reading of this volume has given real pleasure and much profit."—The Christian.
"The lessons are healthful and helpful, and the book ought to be largely circulated."
Christian Commonwealth.

London: Elliot Stock, 62, Paternoster-row, E.C.

DAILY LIGHT ON THE DAILY PATH.

In various attractive Bindings. Morning or Evening Volumes separately or in Sets.

"These two Text-Books have long been favourites, they are devotional text-books containing only the words of Scripture. They are very precious little books, and few more suitable gifts could be found."—The Christian.
"These works are well calculated to refresh the Christian reader."—The Rock.
"Two beautiful pocket volumes."—Christian Age.

Cloth, 1s. each Vol.; French morocco, gilt edges, 2s.; German calf, round corners, 4s. Lists free.

S. BAGSTER & SONS, Limited, 15, Paternoster-row, London.

THE RUBY ILLUMINATIONS.

"These Cards are not only exceedingly rich in colour, but chaste and artistic in design. The Scripture Texts also are admirably chosen."—Fireside News.

"Really exquisite."—Belfast Witness.

WATERS OF QUIETNESS.—Two Artistic Illuminations, with Texts. Suitable for framing. Price 1s. 6d. (51)

CHRISTMAS SUNSHINE.—Six folding Cards. Choice views of Italian scenery, with Texts and Original Copyright Verses. Price 2s. (52)

NEW YEAR SUNSHINE.—As above. (53)

THE ROCK OF MY REFUGE.—Twelve highly-finished Cards, with Texts. Price 1s. Christmas (54). New Year (55). Birthday (56). Texts only (66).

OUR LITTLE ONES.—Twelve Choice Designs of Children, with Texts. Price 1s. Christmas (57). New Year (58).

WILDFLOWERS.—Twelve Text Cards, beautifully illuminated. Price 6d. Christmas (59). New Year (60). Texts only (61).

SUMMER SCENES.—Folding Cards. Designs by E. de C. W., with Texts; and Verses by Dr. Bonar and H. M. Burnside. Price 3d. each. Christmas (41). New Year (42).

IMMANUEL.—Twelve Cards, in Blue and Gold, and Blue and Silver, with Texts. Price 6d. Christmas (39). New Year (40). Texts only (44).

GOLD.—Twelve Cards, similar to "Rubies" and "Silver." Price 6d. Christmas (31). New Year (32). Texts only (30).

THE MOTTO PACKET.—Containing Two each of the Ruby Mottoes for 1886. Six Cards. Price 6d. (64).

THE CHOICE SELECTION.—On receipt of One Shilling in Stamps or Postal Order, a choice selection from various Series will be sent —SPECIALLY GOOD VALUE. These packets in previous years have given great satisfaction.

THE RUBY MOTTOES FOR 1886.—No. 5: "Fear thou not, for I am with thee," with Lines by N. E. R., and part of Ps. xxiii. 4. No. 6: "The Christian's Motto," 2 Cor. ix. 8. No. 7: "Gospel Text Motto," John iii. 16. Or any Text. Send for particulars. Price 1d. each, or 7s. per 100.

WATCHWORDS.—Neatly Printed in Red, Blue, Brown, or Green, and Black, with Ribbon for hanging up. No. 1: "Jesus Only." No. 2: "Trust and Obey." No. 3: "All for Jesus." No. 4: "Only for Jesus." Price 1d. each, or 7s. per 100.

CHRISTIAN WORKERS' PARCEL.

"The Watchtower," "Golden Treasure," "Rubies," "Silver," "Little Folks," "Blossoms."
Sixty-six Cards, value 5s., for 2s. post free.

THE MISSION PARCEL.

The above "Christian Workers' Parcel," with the addition of a grant of other Cards, to the value of 2s. Total value, 7s.; for 2s. post free.

 Only supplied to Missions. Name of Mission must be given.

N.B.—Conductors of Missions requiring a large number of Cards for special purposes are invited to write to J. G. W., who is prepared to supply on exceptionally favourable terms.

The Ruby Illustrated Almanack

AND TEXT BOOK FOR 1886.

Court Envelope Size, 32 pages. In Coloured Wrapper. Price One Penny. Roan, gilt edges, interleaved, One Shilling.

With four Illustrations.

"Adorned on the cover with an excellent picture of the Conference Hall, and on the title page with a correct and pleasing likeness of its Founder the late Rev. Wm. Pennefather."—Service for the King.

London:
JOHN G. WHEELER, 88, Mildmay Park, N.

Notes on Daily Readings.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 10.—EXODUS VI.

1.—"Now shalt thou see what I will do to Pharaoh."—Now that Israel has been brought into the lowest depths of misery is the time for Jehovah to manifest Himself as the Deliverer of his people. But there must be no partnership in this deliverance. It must be effected wholly and entirely by the Lord Himself. His must be the work, and to Him must be the glory. Hence these first eight opening verses of the chapter contain a magnificent assertion of the Lord's revelation of Himself in his self-existent personality—the meaning of Jehovah—to fulfil to the full his promises, and to effect Himself not only the deliverance from Egypt, but also the bringing in of Israel unto the land which He had sworn to give them.

The remarkable reiteration of the pronoun "I" (expressed in Hebrew by the first person of the verb) in the first eight verses is worthy of attention. Mark also in the specific message from Jehovah to Israel in verses 6—8 seven distinct promises, beginning thus: (1) "I will bring you out;" (2) "I will rid you;" (3) "I will redeem you;" (4) "I will take you to me;" (5) "I will be to you;" (6) "I will bring you in;" (7) "I will give it you for an heritage."

9.—"They hearkened not unto Moses for anguish of spirit, and for cruel bondage."—The contrast between their present misery and the promised deliverance seemed too great. The news was too good to be true. So unbelief now rejects the "glad tidings of great joy" presented in the Gospel concerning the "Saviour who is Christ the Lord," and hearkens not. "Who hath believed our report? and to whom is the arm of the Lord revealed?" (Isa. liii. 1).

14.—These be the heads of their fathers' houses."—"When they were about to execute a duty of the highest importance which had been imposed upon them; just then it was right and natural for them to state, for the satisfaction of Hebrew readers, the descent and position of the designated leaders of the nation."—Sp. Com.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 11.—EXODUS VII.

The division of chapters should have occurred at the twenty-eighth verse of the last chapter, for here commences the narration of the miracles wrought in Egypt. It begins, "according to the general rule in the Pentateuch, with a brief recapitulation." Moses acknowledges his own weakness and unworthiness—"I am of uncircumcised lips." Compare the similar confession of Isaiah (vi. 5) before receiving his prophetic commission.

1.—"I have made thee a god to Pharaoh."—"That is, he was promised Divine authority and power over Pharaoh, so that henceforth there was no more necessity for him to be afraid of the king of Egypt; but the latter, notwithstanding all resistance, would eventually bow before him. Moses was a god to Aaron as the revealer of the Divine will, and to Pharaoh as the executor of that will."—Keil.

11.—"They also did in like manner with their enchantments."—"The derivation of the original expression is ambiguous. It may come from a word meaning 'flame,' or from another meaning 'conceal'; in either case it implies a deceptive appearance, an illusion, a juggler's trick, not an actual putting forth of magic power. Moses describes the act of the sorcerers as it appeared to Pharaoh and the spectators; living serpents may have been thrown down by the jugglers—a feat not transcending the well-known skill of their modern representatives, with whom it is a common trick to handle venomous serpents, and benumb them so that they are motionless and stiff as rods."—Canon Cook. But Keil, after referring to this explanation of the magicians' miracles, adds: "With our very limited acquaintance with the dark domain of heathen conjuring, the possibility of their working 'lying wonders after the working of Satan,' i.e., supernatural things (2 Thess. ii. 9), cannot be absolutely denied."

13.—"He hardened Pharaoh's heart." "Pharaoh's heart was hardened" (R.V.). Margin, "was strong."—"The word is here used intransitively, as in many passages; thus all the ancient versions"—Canon Cook.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 12.—EXODUS VIII.

This chapter contains the record of the plagues of frogs, lice, and flies—the second, third, and fourth of the penal inflictions on Egypt. "If we carefully examine the account of these nine penal miracles, we shall find that they are arranged in three groups of three plagues each. For the first and second, the fourth and fifth, and the seventh and eighth, were announced beforehand by Moses to the king (vii. 15, viii. 1, 20, ix. 1, 13, x. 1), whilst the third, sixth, and ninth were sent without any such announcement (viii. 16, ix. 8, x. 21). Again, the first, fourth, and seventh, were announced to Pharaoh in the morning. . . . This grouping is not a mere external arrangement, adopted by the writer for the sake of greater distinctness, but is founded in the facts themselves, and the effect which God intended the plagues to produce, as we may gather from these circumstances—that the Egyptian magicians who had imitated the first plagues were put to shame with their arts by the third, and were compelled to see in it the finger of God (viii. 19); that they were smitten themselves by the sixth, and were unable to stand before Moses (ix. 11); and that after the ninth Pharaoh broke off all further negotiation with Moses and Aaron (x. 28, 29). The last plague, commonly known as the tenth, . . . differed from the nine former ones both in purpose and form. It was the first beginning of the judgment that was coming upon the hardened king, and was inflicted directly by God Himself."—Keil.

9.—"And Moses said unto Pharaoh, Glory over me."—R.V. renders this, "Have thou this glory over me." It seems to be a courteous and deferential expression prefacing a request to know when Pharaoh would wish him to entreat the Lord to remove the plague of frogs.

16.—"Lice."—"The word occurs only in connection with this plague. These insects are generally identified with mosquitos, a plague nowhere greater than in Egypt. Thus the LXX., Philo, and Origen, whose testimony as residents in Egypt is of great weight."—Sp. Com.

21.—"Swarms of flies."—"It is now generally supposed that a particular species—the dog-fly—is described."—Keil.

SUNDAY, DECEMBER 13.—EXODUS IX.

4.—"And the Lord shall sever between the cattle of Israel and the cattle of Egypt."—This severance between Israel and Egypt began in the last plague (viii. 22), and is found in the next (ver. 11) one as well as in the following one (ver. 26), that of hail, where, likewise, "He that feared the word of the Lord among the servants of Pharaoh" was allowed to put his cattle and servants in safety. In the eighth—that of locusts—the severance is not mentioned, but may be taken for granted. In the ninth it is expressly mentioned (x. 23), and in the tenth the blood of the lamb on the lintel and doorposts effected the severance.

9.—"A boil breaking forth with blains upon man, and upon beast."—"The Sixth Plague. This marks a distinct advance and change in the character of the visitations. Hitherto the Egyptians had not been attacked directly in their own persons."—Sp Com.

11.—"And the magicians could not stand before Moses."—"This verse seems to imply that the magicians now formally gave way, and confessed their defeat."—Ibid.

18.—"A very grievous hail."—"With this (the seventh) begins the last series of plagues, which differ from the former both in their severity and their effects. Each produced a temporary but real change in Pharaoh's feelings."

34.—"He sinned yet more, and hardened his heart."—The special aggravation of the "sinning" here referred to seems to be its following a profession of repentance and promise of amendment (vv. 27, 28), owing to which the Lord had removed the plague of hail.

MONDAY, DECEMBER 14.—EXODUS X.

1.—"I have hardened his heart."—"The word I is emphatic, equivalent to 'as for me, I have,' &c."—Sp. Com. On the other hand, Godet's remarks on Rom. ix. 18 should not be forgotten: "Five times it is said of Pharaoh that he himself hardened or made heavy his heart (vii. 13, 14, 22, viii. 15, 32, ix. 7) before the time when it is at last said that God hardened him (ix. 12). We do not speak of iv. 21 and vii. 23, which are a prophecy. Then at length, as if by way of a terrible retribution, God hardened him five times (x. 1 20, 27, xi. 10, xiv. 8). Thus he at first closed his heart obstinately against the influence exercised on him by the summonses of Moses, and the first chastisements which overtook him: that was his sin And thereafter, but still within limits, God rendered him deaf not merely to the voice of justice, but to that of sound sense and simple prudence: that was his punishment."

21.—"Darkness which may be felt."—"The cause of this darkness is not given in the text; but the analogy of the other plagues, which had all of them a natural basis, warrants us in assuming, as most commentators have done, that there was the same here—that, it was, in fact, the 'Chamsin' (or wind from the desert). This wind, which generally blows in Egypt before and after the vernal equinox . . . fills the air with such a quantity of fine dust and coarse sand that the sky is covered with a dense veil, when it becomes so dark that the obscurity caused by the thickest fog is nothing in comparison."—Keil.

"The express sign, 'darkness which may be felt,' has a special application to darkness produced by such a cause. The consternation of Pharaoh proves that . . . no previous occurrence had prepared him for its intensity and duration, and that he recognised it as a supernatural visitation."—Sp. Com.

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 15.—EXODUS XI.

1.—"And the Lord said unto Moses."—"The announcement made by Jehovah to Moses, which is recorded here, occurred before the last interview between Moses and Pharaoh (x. 24—29); but it is introduced in this place, as serving to explain the confidence with which Moses answered Pharaoh (x. 29). The verb, therefore, in ver. 1, is to be taken in a pluperfect sense, 'had said.'"—Keil.

"Moreover the man Moses was very great," &c.—This seems introduced as an additional reason for the Egyptians being ready to give their jewels, so great was the influence that he had acquired in Egypt by reason of the miracles he had wrought. One is reminded of a greater influence than that of Moses producing a similar result: "If any man say aught unto you, ye shall say, The Lord hath need of them; and straightway he will send them" (Matt. xxi. 3).

5.—"All the firstborn in the land of Egypt shall die."—Severe as was this judgment, it was less than Egypt deserved for the wholesale murder perpetrated in the land by the cruel command of Pharaoh to slay all the male children of the Israelites. This was a judgment upon one child in each family only.

8.—"He went out from Pharaoh in a great anger."—If this "great anger" was that of Moses, as the words seem to indicate, it was but the reflection of the great anger of Pharaoh himself expressed in chap. x. 28: "Get thee from me, take heed of thyself, see my face no more; for in that day thou seest my face thou shalt die." There seems much reason to think that this is the "wrath of the king" referred to in Heb. xi. 27 (where the word "wrath" in the Greek is the same as that used by the LXX. here for "anger"): "By faith he forsook Egypt, not fearing the wrath of the king: for he endured, as seeing Him who is invisible."

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 16.—EXOD. XII.

2.—"This month shall be unto you the beginning of months."—"The name of the month, Abib, is given xiii. 4. It was called by the later Hebrews Nisan. It corresponds nearly to our April. The year previously began with the month Tisri (or September). The injunction touching Abib or Nisan referred only to religious rites; in other affairs they retained the old arrangement."—Canon Cook. Comp. John iii. 7, "Ye must be born again."

6.—"In the evening" (margin, "between the two evenings.")—"The meaning of the expression is disputed. The most probable explanation is that it includes the time from afternoon, or early eventide, until sunset. . . . . It is to be observed that it coincides exactly with the death of our Saviour at the ninth hour of the day."—Ibid.

7.—"They shall take of the blood, and strike it," &c.—"This direction was understood by the Hebrews to apply only to the first Passover; it was certainly not adopted in Palestine." The Passover is so distinct a type of Christ and his salvation (as we learn from 1 Cor. v. 7) that it is deeply interesting to trace in the institution of the Passover as here recorded, the great principles of the salvation of the Gospel. These may be classified thus: (1) The lamb "without blemish," taken or set apart on the tenth day and killed on the fourteenth day, represents the Christ of promise slain four thousand years afterwards—("one day is with the Lord as a thousand years.") (2) The blood first shed, then sprinkled on the houses, typifies the precious blood of Christ sprinkled, i.e., applied by faith to the soul, thereby procuring its safety, for the word is, "When I see the blood, I will pass over you" (ver. 13). (3) The lamb itself eaten "roast with fire," presents to us Christ tested by the fire of trial so as to become food for the soul which is sheltered by his blood. (4) The unleavened bread is (as 1 Cor. v. teaches) a type of the Christian's "unleavenedness" of sincerity and truth," and the pilgrim attitude, "shoes on feet, staff in hand," proclaims the Christian attitude "strangers and pilgrims upon earth" (1 Pet. ii. 11).

(For Forthcoming Meetings, Donation List, &c., see p. vii.)

MISSION to DEEP SEA FISHERMEN.

Five Mission Vessels are cruising amongst the North Sea trawling fleets. 12,000 smacksmen are engaged all the year round in providing our tables with fish. These men, who for us toil through furious blast and sleety storm—who hazard their lives and fall victims, hundreds of them, to the pitiless waves, that markets at home may be well supplied—may rightly claim some small share in the privileges we so richly enjoy and so highly prize.

THIS THEY CAN ONLY HAVE THROUGH THE PRESENCE OF THE
MISSION VESSELS

Carrying to the fishermen the message of Divine mercy and pardoning love, bringing the pleasure of books to while away the weary hours, affording relief in case of sickness and injury, and cheering and brightening dull and monotonous lives by their presence and ministry.

"The Mission smacks are doing in the North Sea a grand work, worthy of the support of a great maritime nation like England; and I believe that the results of their effort, great as they are in the present, will, if only supported liberally by the public, be of untold value in the future."—Edward Birkbeck, Esq., M.P.

FUNDS are greatly NEEDED to enable the Society to place a Mission Vessel with every fleet.

E. J. MATHER, Director.
31, New Bridge-street, E.C.

Ham Yard Soup Kitchen & Hospice,

Established 1846.

President—H.R.H. THE DUKE OF CAMBRIDGE, K.G.
Treasurer—WILLIAM ASH, Esq., Tower House,
119, Camden-road, N.W.

The Committee, relying on the success of former efforts, purpose giving a CHRISTMAS DINNER to 1,000 POOR FAMILIES, each to receive 4 lbs. Beef, 3 lbs. Plum Pudding, a Loaf of Bread, with Tea, Sugar, &c.

Additional Funds are needed to maintain the efficiency of the Institution, which is OPEN ALL THE YEAR. Last year 119,351 meals of Soup and Bread, and 3,181 Night's Lodgings in the Hospice, were gratuitously provided.

Bankers—Union Bank, Charing-cross; Messrs. Lloyds, Barnetts, & Bosanquets, Lombard-street, E.C.; Messrs. Hatchards, 187, Piccadilly, W.

W. STEVENS, Supt. and Sec.
Ham Yard, Great Windmill-street, W.

British Society for the Propagation of the Gospel among the Jews.

This Society undertakes a work beyond the aim and capability of ordinary Missionary Societies. It is founded on an unsectarian basis, and receives its support from Christians of all denominations. Its Committee and Agents belong to several Christian bodies, and its Honorary Secretaries are A. Saphir, D.D., and J. H. Rigg, D.D.

It has upwards of 100 who carry the Gospel to the Jews in England, Italy, Germany, Switzerland, Austria, Russia, and Turkey. Tracts and copies of the Scriptures are circulated. Many Jews have by this Society been led to believe that "Jesus is the Christ." Much good has been done among the thousands of Jews in London by the Missionaries, by the House of Call, and by the new Mission House, with its important Medical Missions.

Increased Funds are urgently needed, and will be thankfully received by the Secretary, Rev. J. Dunlop, at the Office, 96, Great Russell-street, Bloomsbury, London.

The Anchorage.

Hebrews vi. 19.

To Shelter Young Women (otherwise respectable) lately Fallen into Sin.

FOR rules of admission to the Anchorage House, and for the particulars of its work, and for trained servants, apply (by letter only) to Mrs. H. Stuart-Wortley (President of the Ladies' Committee), Rosslyn House, Grove End-road, N.W., London, and to whom, or to any member of Committee, subscriptions may be sent, or to Messrs. Morgan & Scott.

CLOTH EXTRA, 3s. 6d.

CHRISTIANUM ORGANUM;

Or, The Inductive Method in Scripture and Science.

BY THE

Rev. JOSIAH MILLER, M.A.,

Author of "Singers and Songs of the Church," &c.

With an Introduction by John Hall Gladstone, Esq., Ph.D., F.R.S.

"I have been reading large portions of the volume, and it strikes me as based on a capital idea—the application of inductive study to the reading of the Bible as well as to the examination of nature. There is much in the work that is truly valuable, and may be read by young students with great advantage. I don't know of any other compressed treatise that treats the important subject so well as this does."

Extract from Letter from Dr. Stoughton.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

GRAY'S YARD RAGGED CHURCH AND SCHOOL,

James Street, Oxford Street, London, W.

President—F. A. BEVAN, ESQ. | Treasurer—GEORGE HANBURY, ESQ.

Gospel Services, attended by about 500 of the Homeless Poor, are held on Sundays, at 11 a.m. and 3 p.m., after which each person present is supplied with Bread and Coffee. About £2 each Sunday are required for the Food alone, and there are other heavy expenses connected with the Work of the Church and Schools. Funds are Urgently Needed, and will be thankfully received by the Treasurer, 21, Portman-square, W.; Mr. Philip Gough, 33, Cambridge-street, Hyde-park, W.; or by Mr. A. G. Fraser, 4, Inverness-terrace, W.

"The Christian" ALMANACK.

NOW READY,
Price Sixpence.

WITH A

Striking Portrait of the late EARL OF SHAFTESBURY.

Beautifully Printed in Eleven Colours, similar to an Oil Painting.

Containing an appropriate and carefully-selected Scripture Text for Every Day in the Year. Each of the Twelve Months is surmounted by a Choice Pictorial Illustration, in Colour.

(Size of Sheet, 17 by 13½ inches.)

Copy of Letter from Mr. W. J. Orsman, Hon. Superintendent of the Golden-lane and Hoxton Costermongers' Christian Mission (of which the late Right Hon. the Earl of Shaftesbury was the President):—

Milton House, Shacklewell-green, Hackney, E., October 30, 1885.

My Dear Sirs,—Many thanks for the advance copy of The Christian Almanack for 1886. It is a beautiful and useful work of art; and the likeness of the late Earl of Shaftesbury is exceedingly good. The coloured pictures surrounding the portrait, and the twelve cartoons of the season, add greatly to the value of the Almanack, which, I consider, is worthy of a place in every house and every workshop. I venture to hope that you will be able to supply 500 copies for our Mission.

I am, yours faithfully,
W. J. ORSMAN.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

SPECIAL CHEAP EDITION. Price One Penny.

REBECCA JARRETT.

By JOSEPHINE E. BUTLER.

"What I have to do is to speak of Rebecca Jarrett. I am prompted to do so by my love and pity for her; and also in response to multitudes of letters pouring in upon me, from men and women alike, expressing an opinion of her differing very much from that given in all the leaders of the London Press on the morning after the verdict."—Extract.

Of this Cheap Issue, a very large Edition has been printed.

Price One Penny; 7s. per 100.

SPECIAL TERMS FOR QUANTITIES.

 THE LARGE TYPE EDITION, TINTED COVERS, 6d, IS STILL ON SALE.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings, E.C.; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

NEW YEAR MOTTO CARDS.

With Original Verses by GEORGIANA M. TAYLOR,
Author of "Oh, to be Nothing!"

"MY EXPECTATION IS FROM HIM."

A MOTTO FOR 1886.

Neatly printed, with ribbon loop for hanging up, 1s. 2d. per dozen, post free; also on Leaflets 1s. 1d. per 100. Or with other Motto Hymns by the same author, in assorted packets, same prices. Specially suited for distributions in Bible Classes, Christian Associations, &c.

Also by the same Author, lines entitled,

"CONSIDER!"

A WATCHWORD FOR THE NEW YEAR.

On large cards, printed in extra-sized type (for hanging up), price 1s. 8d. (post free) per packet of Six. Uniform with the above, at same price,

OUR HAPPY HOME.
THINK AND THANK.
"WE WALK BY FAITH, NOT BY SIGHT."

Also on tinted cards, gilt, lines entitled, "My Heart's Desire for Thee," and "Heartfelt Wishes;" both suitable for Christmas. Price 1s. 1d. per packet.

To be had only from G. M. T., Young Women's Christian Association, 14, Regent-street, Leamington.

The Book Season,

1885-6.

VISITORS to London and Residents in the Metropolis are invited to visit the Book Saloon at 9, Paternoster-row, where they will find, conveniently arranged for inspection, one of the Largest and Choicest Collections of Evangelical and Temperance Literature.

The SALOON is open from 9 till 6;
SATURDAYS 9 till 2.

S. W. PARTRIDGE & CO., 9, Paternoster-row, London

SCRIPTURE READERS' SOCIETY FOR IRELAND.

President, The Rt. Hon. the Earl of SHAFTESBURY, K.G.
ESTABLISHED 1822.

For the purpose of employing humble Christian men well versed in the Scriptures to visit and read the Bible from house to house throughout the country. The Scripture Readers are invariably placed under carefully selected Christian Superintendents, and are also employed by the Society in the large towns and cities, such as Dublin, Belfast, Waterford, &c., as City Missionaries, and visit all classes and denominations, where permitted so to do. Irish-speaking Readers are sent to Irish-speaking districts when required, but are now seldom or ever asked for. The work is carried on in a spirit of love, and not of controversy.

The Scripture Readers also visit amongst the Sailors in seaports and hold Bethel Meeting on board Ships, at hours not to interfere with the usual Public Services. The Society is supported by voluntary contributions.

OFFICES:

27, LOWER PEMBROKE STREET, DUBLIN;
AND 9, PATERNOSTER ROW, LONDON.

Full particulars, reports, &c., can be obtained post free on application to the Secretary, Capt. JAMES KEARNEY WHITE, or by the Proprietors of this paper.

NOTE.—Subscriptions or Donations may be sent to the above addresses, or will be received by the Proprietors of "THE CHRISTIAN."

Friends will please notice the exact title, "Scripture Readers' Society for Ireland," and not "Irish Scripture Readers' Society."

ARTICLES and ADDRESSES on IMPORTANT SUBJECTS.

In Small Books. Suitable for enclosing in Letters.

BY JAMES VAN SOMMER.

Price 6d. per Dozen; 3s. 6d. per 100.

REDEMPTION TWOFOLD.	6d. per Doz.
EXTEMPORE PRAYER.	6d. per Doz.
FAMILY PRAYERS.	6d. per Doz.
THE SCRIPTURE READING MEETING.	6d. per Doz.
CHRISTIAN VISITATION.	6d. per Doz.
PUBLIC ADDRESSES.	6d. per Doz.
SUNDAY.	6d. per Doz.
THE JUDGMENT-SEAT OF CHRIST.	6d. per Doz.

Price 1s. per Dozen; 7s. per 100.

PREACHING "THE KINGDOM OF GOD."	1s. per Doz.
PRAYER MEETINGS. Practical Suggestions.	1s. per Doz.
CATHOLIC CHRISTIANITY distinguished from Roman Catholic Christianity.	1s. per Doz.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

JACKSON WRAY'S MAGAZINE.

"Good Company,"

PRICE TWOPENCE.

Decidedly interesting."—Christian World.
"Wise and witty, not a dull line in it."—Sheffield Independent.

The First Volume of

GOOD COMPANY.

Elegantly bound in Cloth, price Three Shillings.
AN ADMIRABLE GIFT BOOK.
Pithy and practical. Sound and wholesome."—Nonconformist.
Will be welcome to every member of the family."
Literary World.

CHRISTMAS COMPANY.

Containing a Budget of Timely Talks, Stories, Poems, &c.
PRICE THREEPENCE.
J. NISBET & Co., 21, Berners-street; and all Booksellers.

WANTED—A REST! JACKSON'S WRAY'S NEW YEAR'S MESSAGE. Price Twopence. And THE GOOD COMPANY ALMANAC. Price One Penny. May be had at THE WHITEFIELD BOOK DEPOT, 37, Grafton-street, Tottenham Court-road, W.; and of WOODFORD FAWCETT & Co., 8, New Bridge street, E.C.

OUR OWN GAZETTE.

Edited by MRS. STEPHEN MENZIES.

Highly entertaining and helpful. For Girls of all ages. Bright Stories, Useful Articles, Cooking, Dressmaking, Household Hints, &c. Last year 14,000 Charts were issued for Prizes offered by Lord Shaftesbury, the Lord Mayor of London, Lord Polwarth, and others.
New Competition, £18 18s.
12 Prizes.—Send for Engraving and Rules, 1d.

Through any Bookseller, One Penny. 1s. per annum, or by post 1s. 6d., from 18, Paternoster-square, London, E.C.

THE

"Carter" Home for Destitute Boys,

52 & 65, HIGH STREET, CLAPHAM, S.W.

President.
SIR WILLIAM McARTHUR, BART.
Vice-President.
SIR JOHN KENNAWAY, BART., M.P.

OWING to numerous applications for admission, the Committee have rented another house, and as the income is much less than the expenditure, they make

AN EARNEST APPEAL FOR HELP.

The Home is quite Unsectarian. Many of the boys have been saved from a life of crime and won for Christ. The older lads are taught useful trades. Thirty of the boys, under fourteen, attend the Board School (all full timers). Encouraged by the good accounts of boys they have sent to Canada, the Committee now desire to fill up the few vacancies with big boys suitable for emigration. Another party will leave in the spring. Funds are specially needed for this purpose. £10 will train and fit out a boy, and £13 will keep a boy in the Home for one year. As no uniform is worn, and most of the boys when admitted are quite destitute, parcels of left-off clothing will be most acceptable. The Report for last year may be obtained at the Home.

Donations will be thankfully received at the office of THE CHRISTIAN, or by the Treasurer, EUGENE CRONIN, M.D., Old Manor House, Clapham.

SHOREDITCH IRON ROOM.

For upwards of Twenty-one years I have laboured in the Gospel among the masses bordering on the poor and populous Parishes of Shoreditch, Bethnal Green, Spitalfields, and Whitechapel, a work upon which the Lord has vouchsafed very many tokens of his favour. By the preaching of the word—both in the open air and in the Hall—not a few have been awakened, and have been turned from the power of Satan unto God.

Owing to the fact that many Christian friends who were accustomed to support the Mission have departed to be with Christ, "which is far better," I am left with but little assistance towards the expense of maintaining this Gospel effort in the midst of a district where the population is dense, the ignorance is great, sin is abounding, and the need is deep.

I am therefore led to ask, through the columns of THE CHRISTIAN, my brethren and sisters in Christ to render me help in carrying on this work. And I venture to hope that from many a Christian home and many a happy dwelling-place, some encouragement and assistance will be sent to those who, in literal obedience to the Master's word, are going out into the streets and lanes of the city, and compelling men to come in.

I shall be glad to send a copy of my last Report to anyone who will kindly send me their address.

21, Benthal Road, Stoke Newington, N.
JOSEPH KNOWLES,
Superintendent of the Mission.

Donations will be thankfully received by HENRY THOMPSON, Esq., 33, Mincing-lane, E.C. (Treasurer of the Mission); or by the Superintendent, Mr. J. KNOWLES, 21, Benthal-road, Stoke Newington, N.; or at the Office of THE CHRISTIAN.

WINTER WORK AMONGST THE DESTITUTE.

Field Lane Refuges & Ragged Schools

VINE STREET, CLERKENWELL ROAD, E.C.

This Institution (Established 1843) comprises:—
A CRECHE, OR BABIES' DAY NURSERY. HOMES for POOR GIRLS and BOYS.
A SERVANTS' TRAINING HOME for FRIENDLESS GIRLS and YOUNG WOMEN.
REFUGES FOR DESTITUTE MEN and WOMEN of CHARACTER.
ALL THE ADJUNCTS OF A LARGE MISSION.

150 CHILDREN AND POOR PERSONS RECEIVE BROKEN FOOD DAILY.
UPWARDS OF 3000 PERSONS ARE BENEFITED WEEKLY.

The Committee are most anxious to provide as usual, a DINNER on CHRISTMAS DAY, for 1000 of the Outcast and Destitute (including some 500 poor deserving families). An earnest appeal is made for Funds. The Work is crippled for want of Money.

BANKERS ... Messrs. RANSOME & Co., 1, Pall Mall East, W.
Messrs. BARCLAY & Co., 54, Lombard Street.
TREASURER... WILFRID A. BEVAN, Esq., 54, Lombard Street, E.C.
SECRETARY... Mr. PEREGRINE PLATT, Vine Street, Clerkenwell Road, E.C.
By either of whom Contributions will be thankfully received.

BOOKS SUITABLE FOR CHRISTMAS PRESENTS.

Published by MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster Buildings, London, E.C.

And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

Just Published. New Work by A.L.O.E.

PEARLS OF WISDOM FROM THE PARABLES OF CHRIST. By the favourite writer, A.L.O.E., Author of "Exiles in Babylon," "Rescued from Egypt," &c. &c. With Twenty-four full page Original Illustrations. Handsomely bound in cloth, bevelled boards, 3s. 6d.; with gilt edges, 4s.

"These are 'pearls' indeed. We wish this delightful work the wide circulation it well deserves."
Christian Treasury.

"This unique volume is sure to be popular."
Christian Commonwealth.

Just Ready. Attractively bound in Pictorial Covers, price 1s.

THE "HERALD OF MERCY" ANNUAL VOLUME. Profusely Illustrated.

"A periodical which must contribute largely to the making of happy homes."—Edinburgh Daily Review.

"Full of good tidings. Here we have no word written for mere amusement, but all for conversion and edification."—Sword and Trowel.

Third Thousand.

BIRDS OF THE BIBLE. Chats with the Children about Bible Birds. By James Bowker, F.R.G.S.I. Beautifully printed on glazed toned paper, with Carmine Borders. Very attractive. Frontispiece in Colours, and Twenty-nine other Illustrations. An Elegant Gift-Book. Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 2s.

"A beautiful little volume, printed in red and black, with numerous engravings. Will be found both interesting and instructive to the young folks who are fortunate enough to obtain a copy. One friend to whom we showed the book at once ordered three dozen copies for Sunday School Rewards. We hope that many others will follow his example."—Christian Treasury.

New Edition, complete in One Volume. 1,083 pages.

FOXE'S BOOK OF MARTYRS. A Complete and Authentic Account of the Lives, Sufferings, and Triumphant Deaths of Early Christian and Protestant Martyrs in all parts of the World. By John Foxe. With Twelve full-page Illustrations and Steel-plate Frontispiece. Handsomely bound in cloth, 10s. 6d.

"Messrs. Morgan & Scott deserve most cordial thanks for the production of this noble edition of a noble book."
Christian Leader.

"We most heartily recommend the new edition of Foxe's famous work. It is a wonderful compilation."
Protestant Standard.

"As a complete edition of Foxe's Martyrs this is by far the handiest and most attractive we know."
Primitive Methodist.

"We are pleased to see the 'Book of Martyrs' well to the front. It is a great thing to have such a copy of Foxe in the market at 10s. 6d. We wish Messrs. Morgan & Scott an immediate sale of the present issue, which is marvellously cheap."
Rev. C. H. Spurgeon, in The Sword and Trowel.

"We strongly advise our readers who do not already possess this truly national standard work to secure it in the attractive form in which it is now produced."
Fireside News.

"An excellent edition of this famous work."
Footsteps of Truth.

Just Published.
New Work by Rev. Andrew A. Bonar, D.D.

JAMES SCOTT: A Labourer for God. By Rev. Andrew A. Bonar, D.D., Author of "Memoir of R. M. M'Cheyne," &c., &c. Tinted covers, 1s.; Cloth limp, 1s. 6d.; Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 2s. 6d.

"Dr. Bonar was peculiarly qualified to write this Life of Mr. Scott, and has produced a very interesting and useful volume."—North British Daily Mail.

Ninth Thousand.

JOE WITLESS: A Book for Boys. By E. J. Hunter. With Seven Illustrations. Tinted covers, 1s.; cloth boards, 1s. 6d.; cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 2s. 6d.

"The tale has strong points in it, without being unnatural. We can cordially recommend the book as calculated to arrest the attention and impress the conscience of the most thoughtless of our youth."
Sword and Trowel.

Fifth Thousand.

"OUT OF EGYPT." A Series of Addresses and Bible Readings on the Exodus of Israel, and its Spiritual Lessons. By Rev. Dr. Pentecost. Tinted covers, 2s.; Cloth limp, 2s. 6d.; Cloth bevelled boards, gilt edges, 3s. 6d.

"Dr. Pentecost's power as a teacher and expositor of the Word is anew displayed in these Addresses; and we are not surprised to learn that there has been an earnest demand for their publication."
Word and Work.

Tenth Thousand.

"IN THE VOLUME OF THE BOOK;" Or, The Profit and Pleasure of Bible Study. By Rev. Dr. Pentecost. With Introductions by Revs. Joseph Cook and J. H. Vincent, D.D. Tinted covers, 1s. 6d.; Cloth limp, 2s.; Cloth boards, 2s. 6d.

"We cannot too highly commend this publication."
Preachers' Analyst.

Fourth Thousand.

THE KING'S PALACE. A Series of Readings for Each Day of the Month. By Rev J. H. Rogers, M.A. Attractively printed, with Carmine Borders; and beautifully bound. Cloth limp, 1s.; Cloth boards, 1s. 6d.; Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 2s.; Leather binding, gilt edges, 3s. 6d.

"Its counsels are wise, loving, and direct. All that art, taste, and skill can do to make the theme attractive has been done by the well-known publishers. The result is that, within and without, The King's Palace is simply perfect."—Irish Congregational Magazine.

Twelfth Thousand.

THE BIBLE REMEMBRANCER. Being an Analysis of the whole Bible. With Frontispiece engraved on Steel, and Twelve choice Coloured Maps. Tinted covers, 1s.; Cloth boards, 1s. 6d.; Cloth bevelled boards, gilt edges, 2s.

"We do not know a more useful Handbook for Bible Readers and Bible Students. It seems to embody everything that is necessary in such a book."
Christian Commonwealth.

THE BIBLE INTERPRETER. A Condensed Bible Dictionary. With Frontispiece engraved on Steel, Twelve full-page Illustrations, and numerous smaller cuts. Tinted covers, 1s.; Cloth boards, 1s. 6d.; Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 2s.

"A compact and handy manual of reference, which will be found useful by all students of the Bible. The pages are interspersed with numerous engravings illustrating the text, as well as views of places famous in Bible History."—Literary World.

Tenth Thousand.

CHOICE SAYINGS. Being Brief Notes of Expositions of Scripture. By Robert C. Chapman. New Edition. Tinted covers, 9d.; Cloth limp, 1s.; Cloth limp, 1s. 6d.; Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 2s.; Leather bound, gilt edges, 3s.

"Worthy of its title. A book which busy Christians may take up in a moment of leisure and find on every page helpful and suggestive thoughts."
Word and Work.

Fourth Thousand.

CALLS TO CHRIST. A Series of Addresses. By Rev. R. W. Nicoll, M.A., Editor of The Expositor. Tinted covers, 1s.; cloth neat, 1s. 6d.

"Force and freshness are eminently the characteristics of these 'Calls to Christ.'"—Kelso Courier.

Fourth Thousand.

SEARCHING THE SCRIPTURES. In order to Abiding Communion with God. Also, Suggestions for Bible Reading and Study, and a Plan for Consecutive Daily Reading. By Dr. J. Anderson, Graduate of King's College, Aberdeen, and M.R.C.S. London, Author of "What Saith the Scripture?" Cloth, bevelled boards, 3s. 6d. Second Edition.

"A very valuable work, in which attention is drawn to the necessity for quiet, thoughtful Bible reading, as a means of promoting abiding communion with God."
The Rock.

JOHN WESLEY: His Life and Times. By John W. Kirton, LL.D., Author of "Buy Your Own Cherries," &c. Tinted covers, 6d. With Portrait. Cloth limp, 1s; Cloth boards, 1s. 6d.

"It is wonderfully complete, pleasant to read, and leaves a most delightful satisfaction in the mind."
Irish Christian Advocate.

GEORGE WHITEFIELD: His Life and Times. By J. R. Andrews, Author of "The Life of Oliver Cromwell." Tinted covers, 6d. With Portrait: Cloth limp, 1s.; Cloth boards, 1s. 6d. Crown 8vo.

"We cannot imagine a better sixpennyworth of human authorship."
Rev. C. H. Spurgeon, in The Sword and Trowel.

Published in One Volume under the following title:

WESLEY and WHITEFIELD: The Two Great Evangelists of the Last Century. 256 pages, Crown 8vo. With Portraits of Wesley and Whitefield. Cheap Edition, tinted covers, 1s.; cloth limp, 1s. 6d.; cloth boards, 2s. 6d.; cloth boards, gilt edges, 3s. 6d.

Thirty-sixth Thousand.

DUNCAN MATHESON. The Scottish Evangelist. His Life and Labours. By Rev. J. Macpherson. With life-like Portrait. Tinted covers, 1s. 6d.; Cloth boards, 2s. 6d.

"This biography will not only interest, but benefit a wide circle of readers."—The Sword and Trowel.

Fifth Thousand.

HENRY MOORHOUSE. The English Evangelist. By Rev. J. Macpherson. With life-like Portrait. Cloth gilt, bevelled boards, 2s. 6d.

"Full of interesting incidents from which counsel and encouragement may be gathered."—The Rock.

Fourth Thousand.

LIFE, WARFARE, and VICTORY. A Series of Bible Readings to Young Converts. By Major D. W. Whittle. Tinted covers, 1s.; Cloth limp, 1s. 6d.; Cloth boards, 2s. 6d.

"Just the book to put into the hands of young converts. The contents are both spiritual and instructive."—Railway Signal.

Twenty-fourth Thousand.

CHRIST AND THE SCRIPTURES. The Living Word and the Written Word. By Rev. Adolph Saphir, D.D., B.A. Cloth extra, 3s.; with gilt edges, 3s. 6d. Cheap Edition, tinted covers, 1s.; cloth neat, 1s. 6d.

"It is the old truths to which we listen; but the old truths clothed in a living language, set in new lights, and drawn out in fresh applications."—Weekly Review.

MORGAN AND SCOTT'S UNABRIDGED EDITION.
With the Proper Names newly translated.

CRUDEN'S CONCORDANCE TO THE OLD AND NEW TESTAMENTS. Popular Edition, strongly bound in cloth, 5s. Presentation Edition. Handsomely bound in cloth boards, 7s. 6d. Illustrated Edition. Containing Twelve Exquisite Steel-Plate Engravings and Six Beautifully Coloured Maps. 10s. 6d.

JESUS, THE LAMB OF GOD: Showing how He died on the Cross for Children; and how Little Ones have learned to love and trust Him. By Rev. E. P. Hammond. With Seven Full-page Illustrations. Tinted covers, 1s.; Cloth limp, 1s. 6d.; Cloth boards, 2s. 6d.

Seventh Thousand.

JOHN, WHOM JESUS LOVED. By James Culross, M.A., D.D., President of Baptist College, Bristol. New and enlarged Edition. With Chromo-Lithographic Views of the "Sea of Galilee" and the "Isle of Patmos." Cloth, bevelled boards, 3s. 6d.

"It is altogether without reserve that we commend the work before us."
Rev. C. H. Spurgeon in The Sword and Trowel.

ON

CONSUMPTION,

CHRONIC BRONCHITIS,

AND ALL OTHER

CHEST DISEASES.

READ

MR. CONGREVE'S NEW WORK,

SIXPENCE, POST FREE,

Or LARGE EDITION (cloth) for 1s. 3d.

FIFTEENTH SERIES

OF WEEKLY CASES.

NOTICE TO THE READERS OF "The Christian," WHO MAY BE personally or relatively INTERESTED IN THIS MATTER.

Mr. Congreve will give ONE RECENT CASE, NOT PUBLISHED BEFORE, in this Journal EVERY WEEK.

CASE FOR THIS WEEK.

EARLY STAGE of PHTHISIS.—Case of Miss EDITH LONG, of AXMINSTER, DEVON.

This young person, who resides with her father at Furzeley Farm, Axminster, came to see me on the 10th of February last. Her friends were very anxious, seeing that two sisters had died of Consumption. I examined her very carefully, and though there was no breaking down of the lung, there were evidences of commencing disease,—a case requiring instant attention and the greatest care. The little cough, "with hectic flush, boding no good," * was there, with the usual expectoration and shortness of breathing. I advised her, and my directions were, I believe, strictly followed.

From the commencement she rapidly improved, which was manifest to all; so much so, that her mother writes me, July 14:—"I am thankful to say that, with the blessing of the Almighty, your medicine has completely cured my daughter. She has had no relapse, and is in perfect health. I am recommending your treatment to a great many."

* Page 2, "On Consumption."

NOTE.—Days of Consultation.—TUESDAY, THURSDAY, and SATURDAY MORNINGS ONLY, at Coombe Lodge, Peckham. Patients from any long distance should choose either of the two former days Everyone is expected to have seen the book first.

"Manna Cake"

Children take it readily. Truly termed by an Agent, "The Children's Friend." A First Class Family Medicine for every household. Highly approved by Adults. Manna Cake is the mildest and yet the most certain in action of all aperients; it does not gripe, and leaves no after constipation. A singularly mild, pleasant, and efficacious substitute for Castor Oil.

From W. H. HAYWARD, Chemist, Trowbridge:—"A Physician in the West of England says he gave Calomel and Jalap in repeated doses without effect, but a Manna Cake acted almost immediately."

Ask for Manna Cake, price 1s. 3d. per packet of one doz., of any chemist or medicine vendor. Wholesale of BARCLAY'S; EDWARDS; HOVENDEN'S; NEWBERY'S MAY ROBERTS; SANGER & SONS; SUTTON & CO.; &c., &c.

GAZE'S EGYPT AND HOLY LAND TOURS.—Quarantine being now removed, Conducted Parties will start Feb. 15th for Egypt, Holy Land, Asia Minor, Greece, Constantinople, Black Sea, Danube and Germany. Programme for stamp.—H. GAZE & SON, 142, Strand, London.

"This fine collection of familiar faces
Is one our 'Sweet Princess' so ably graces,
'The Prince,' 'our General,' and the 'G. O. M.,'
'Lost Gordon,' Beaconsfield,' you'll treasure them,
For you will find that every one's a gem."

"FUN'S" Opinion of RIDDLE & COUCHMAN'S

POPULAR SERIES OF SHILLING PORTRAITS.

Apply for Terms to 22, SOUTHWARK BRIDGE ROAD, LONDON, S.E.

EPILEPTIC FITS!

ALL PERSONS SUFFERING FROM EPILEPSY should SEND Name and Address to JAMES OSBORNE, MEDICAL PHARMACY, ASHBOURNE, who will forward, free of charge, full particulars (with Testimonials) of the most successful remedy ever discovered for this distressing malady. Reference permitted to the Rev. J. BAKER, M.A., 254, Plymouth-grove, Manchester.

NON-FLUCTUATING SECURITIES.
Six per Cent. First Mortgage Real Estate Bonds

THE ANGLO-AMERICAN LOAN AND INVESTMENT CO.,
WICHITA, KANSAS, U.S.A.
Capital, 250,069 dols.

Sir Edward S. Hutchinson, Bart, President,
Joseph S. Smithson, Vice-President.

These Bonds are secured by Farm Lands in the best agricultural State in America. The interest, which is guaranteed and collected by the Company, is payable Half-Yearly at

The Bank of Ireland, Dublin, or
The Alliance Bank, Limited, London.

American Bankers—
Metropolitan National Bank, Chicago, and
The Wichita National Bank, Wichita.

Address—HENRY ANDERSON,
Managing Director
(Late Bank of Ireland),
WICHITA, KANSAS.

Intending Emigrants and parties desiring to invest in Real Estate should correspond with us.

AMERICAN BREAKFAST CEREALS
ABC

A B C WHITE WHEAT.
A B C WHITE OATS.
A B C BARLEY FOOD.
A B C YELLOW MAIZE.

The Purest, most Nutritious and Health-giving Foods in the World. Hulled, crushed, steam-cooked and desiccated. Ready for table in ten minutes.

Sold by Grocers, &c.

A Delicious Breakfast at little cost.

Ask for the A B C Brand.

Particulars of B. LAMPE, 44, Great Tower-st., E.C.

TWENTY-TWO PRIZE MEDALS AWARDED TO THE FIRM.

FRY'S
Pure Concentrated
COCOA

FRY'S
PURE
COCOA

Prepared by a new and special scientific process securing extreme solubility, and developing the finest flavour of the Cocoa.—"It is especially adapted to those whose digestive organs are weak, and I strongly recommend it as a substitute for tea for young persons."—Sir Chas. A. Cameron, President Royal College of Surgeons, Ireland, &c.

NEURALGIA and its TREATMENT.

NEURALGIA is one of the commonest ailments, and is such an everyday complaint, that, as in the case of a common cold, the poor sufferer meets with but little sympathy. We refer just now chiefly to facial neuralgia; but the complaint may affect any part of the system, and be known by various names (as, when in the sciatic nerve it is known as Sciatica), and may arise from causes other than cold. Fatigue, anxiety, and over-work are fertile sources of Neuralgia, and impaired digestion, with all its train of evils, ofttimes gives rise to Neuralgia of the most distressing character.

Those who have not suffered from this malady cannot form any idea of its excruciating effects, which are the more tormenting, in many instances, because of the seeming inability of anything to relieve, let alone remove, it. There are multitudes trying first one remedy, then another, in the endeavour to obtain rest, but in numberless instances failing, and becoming prematurely old through intensity of suffering.

Perhaps to some such sufferers it would seem like mockery to say there is real and tangible ground for hope, and the method by which relief is to be obtained may be as much misjudged as the persons who speak of it. Nevertheless it is a well-attested fact that a large number of sufferers have found in Magnetic Treatment a degree of relief which under medical treatment had been denied to them, and in not a few instances exemption from a return of the ailment has been secured. The reason of this is plain when we consider the fact that nine-tenths of neuralgic affections are traceable to some constitutional derangement or weakness, resulting from the overstrain referred to, and treatment, to be effective, must be directed to the removal of the constitutional cause before the neuralgia consequent upon it can be overcome. Sufferers recognise this when they take quinine with the object of "strengthening the nerves," but this secures only temporary and partial relief, even when most successful: hence it fails to effectually eradicate the complaint. What is necessary to accomplish this is something possessing power to invigorate and regulate every organ and its functions, improve the circulation and perfect muscular and nervous action. The use of narcotics or tonics can scarcely be expected to do this. One of the commonest, yet, in our experience, one of the most disastrous practices for the relief of neuralgia, is the subcutaneous application of morphia. Although it may for a time allay the pain, simply through destroying nervous sensibility, we have noticed that the ailment offers greater resistance to subsequent remedial measures at the spot at which the injection was made. Testimony in favour of the Odo-Magnetic treatment of chronic affections is continually forthcoming, and the following bears further witness to its success:—

From Mrs. HARRY, Broad-street, Lyme Regis.

November 19, 1885.—"I had quite made up my mind to call upon you previous to my leaving town, but could not very well manage it. I am certainly improving in health, if only slowly. The irritability of the nervous system is much lessened, and the general tone of health improved. I am not, of course, equal to much exertion but can still go about certain domestic duties with comparative ease. You know from what you saw that this means much in a case like mine. Another boon is that I sleep much better. In fact, since wearing my vest, and using the gloves, I have enjoyed some nights of unbroken sleep. So thankful am I for this relief that you are at perfect liberty to make what use you like of this statement, or any further one I may send."

Although we do not assure any applicant that cure is certain, we are permitted to refer such inquirers to a goodly number of those who know from experience what Magnetic Treatment has done for them. A list, containing the names of 1000 such persons willing to answer inquirers, can be had free, together with all information on the treatment, from B. CORSON GARRATT, 16, Finsbury-square, London, E.C.

WHAT SHALL I DRINK?

The LANCET says:—'We counsel the public to drink their Lime-Juice whenever and wherever they list. As a rule, Lime-Juice is, particularly during the summer, a far more wholesome drink than any form of alcohol. We have subjected the samples of the "Lime-Fruit Juice" of the Montserrat Company to full analysis, with a view to test its quality and purity. WE HAVE FOUND IT TO BE IN SOUND CONDITION, and ENTIRELY FREE FROM ADULTERATION."

MONTSERRAT
LIME-FRUIT
JUICE & CORDIALS.

Limetta or Pure Lime-Juice Cordial.
Aromatic Clove, Strawberry, Raspberry, Pineapple, Sarsaparilla, Jargonelle, Peppermint, Quinine.

Allen & Hanburys'
"Perfected"
COD-LIVER OIL

'Is as nearly tasteless as Cod-Liver Oil can be.'—Lancet.
'Has almost the delicacy of salad oil.'—British Medical Journal.
'No nauseous eructations follow after it is swallowed.'—Medical Press.

It can be borne and digested by the most delicate; is the only oil which does not 'repeat;' and for these reasons the most efficacious kind in use. In capsuled bottles only, at 1/4, 2/6, 4/9 and 9/. Sold everywhere.

SAVE 30 PER CENT. by DIRECT TRADING.

THE "HOPWOOD" Registered Trade Mark.
PURE CALICOES

Write to The HOPWOOD Manufacturing Co., Princess Mills, Hopwood, Manchester, Who will send, POST FREE, Patterns and Prices of

Free Patterns—(Post Free) may be kept without charge.
ANY LENGTH CUT.

Unadulterated Longcloths and Twilled Shirtings, bleached and unbleached pure Calicoes, Twills, and Sheetings.

All parcels are delivered Carriage Paid to nearest Railway Station, or per Parcels Post.

Hudson's
Extract
of Soap

USED BY HER MAJESTY'S SERVANTS.
Gold Medals and Diplomas of Merit at all Exhibitions.

Needham's
"THE FAVORITE."
Polishing
TRADE P MARK
Dazzling
Mirror
Finish.
Paste

The reputation of nearly a century as the most reliable preparation for Cleaning and Brilliantly Polishing BRASS, COPPER, TIN, BRITANNIA METAL, &c.

Inventors and Sole Manufacturers—
JOSEPH PICKERING & SONS, SHEFFIELD.

Ask for Cadbury's

REFRESHING
PURE

Cocoa

"It is often asked, 'Why does my doctor recommend Cadbury's Cocoa?' The reason is, that being absolutely genuine and concentrated by the removal of the superfluous fat, it contains FOUR TIMES MORE OF NITROGENOUS OR FLESH-FORMING CONSTITUENTS than the average in other Cocoas which are mixed with sugar and starch."

8 Large Glasses at a Cost of 2D.

BIRD'S CUSTARD
POWDER

ALFRED BIRD & SONS, DEVONSHIRE WORKS, BIRMINGHAM.

Eight Large Glasses of delicious Custard at a Cost of 2d., by using Bird's Custard Powder. The Original and only Genuine. No Eggs Required. Saves half the cost, and is half the trouble. Sold Everywhere, in 6d. and 1s. boxes, and 2d. Packets. Recipes for tasty dishes enclosed in each box. To prevent disappointment see that each packet bears the name of the Inventor, Alfred Bird, Birmingham.

"THE CLEAN BLACK LEAD."—Vide Press.

JAMES'
DOME
BLACK LEAD

E. JAMES & SONS, Sole Makers, PLYMOUTH.

The Christian.

December 10, 1885.

CONTENTS.

Mr. George Hatton (With Portrait). 1
Supping with Thieves 2
Is there not a Cause? 3
Poetry—A Song of Degrees 3
The Iron Law of Wages 4
The Revival we Want 4
Mr. Thorne at Bridgwater 4
Mr. Spurgeon on the Times 5
Notes from Across the Atlantic 5
Aged Pilgrims at Hornsey Rise 6
Rev. J. G. Paton 6
Poetry—"Where is your Faith?" . 6
A Young Women's Tea-Party 6
Modern Popery 7
Burmah.—2 7
For the Young 8
"This one thing I do" 8
Home for Consumptives at Torquay. 8
News from Madagascar 9
In a Dancing-House 9
Evangelistic Work in Lyons 10
Bible Carriage in Australia 10
A Crying Shame 10
Miss Whately in Cairo 10
The Book World 11
Notes and Comments 12
Temperance Notes 14
Notes on Daily Readings 20

☞ Our next issue will be a Double Number (price 2d.), and will contain a special report of the Conference at Manchester, on "The Evangelisation of the World;" Christmas Stories, Poems, and Music; Portrait of Rev. E. P. Hammond, &c.

EVANGELISTIC MISSION.

The late Right Hon. THE EARL OF SHAFTESBURY, K.G., one of its warmest supporters from its commencement, lately testified of the work of this Mission:—

"Of all the Associations in London, I do not know of one more deserving of commendation and support."—Vide Speech at Kensington Town Hall.

SAMUEL MORLEY, Esq., M.P., says:—"I am satisfied that the people (using the word in its broadest sense) are tired of being used for the purpose of swelling denominations. I believe they were never more ready earnestly to listen to the preaching of the Gospel, not even in the Master's time, than they are now, when it is presented on its own intrinsic merits. This Evangelistic Mission endeavours so to preach the Gospel, and has been successful in so doing; thus I am quite prepared to avow myself a hearty partner in the concern, and to press for an amount of support the Mission has never yet received. I believe that we are bound to secure the freedom of the workers from financial anxieties. We are bound to rise to the necessities of the case with which we are dealing; if so, the question of funds will be very secondary indeed. For what are the few thousand pounds for which we are asked when compared with the religious needs of the people amongst whom the Mission is labouring, and whose case it is endeavouring to meet?"

FUNDS ARE MUCH NEEDED AT THE PRESENT TIME.

Contributions will be gratefully received towards the following Funds:—

I. For the GENERAL EXPENSES of the LONDON MISSION, embracing Evangelistic Work—
  1. In several TENTS during the Summer.
  2. In Halls, Theatres, and other Buildings.
  3. For assisting small Missions in various parts of the Metropolis.

II. For EVANGELISTIC EFFORTS in COUNTRY TOWNS and VILLAGES, AND ABROAD.

III. The BUILDING FUND for the Erection of Halls in Needy Districts.

IV. For the PERSONAL EXPENSES of EVANGELISTS and MISSIONARIES labouring in connection with the Mission.

V. For FREE TEAS, DORCAS, COAL, and GENERAL RELIEF FUND.

VI. For COLPORTAGE MISSION for Circulating the Scriptures and Christian Literature, with Bible Carriage, &c.

VII. For FREE DISTRIBUTION of TRACTS and GOSPEL PAPERS in Public Parks, Streets, and at Excursions, &c.

VIII. HOUSE OF REST, HASTINGS, FOR CHRISTIAN WORKERS IN THE HOME AND FOREIGN MISSION FIELDS.

IX. PROPOSED RESCUE HOME FOR FALLEN GIRLS, brought under the influence the Mission.

Donors will please state to which of the above funds they wish their donations to be applied. They will also oblige by adding name and address (as it should be written), not for publication, but in order that a receipt may be sent in due form, and the Report when issued.

Cheques should be crossed "London and County Bank," and Post Office Orders made payable at the General Post Office.

Should no acknowledgment of contributions sent be received within one week, friends are particularly requested to write again on the matter.

Donations may be sent to Messrs. Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings, E.C.

C. RUSSELL HURDITCH.

All communications should be addressed to 164, Alexandra-road, St. John's-wood, N.W.

FRIENDLESS AND FALLEN.

CONTRIBUTIONS BY THE END OF THE YEAR.

Every year since 1851 the Lord has GRACIOUSLY SUSTAINED in labours for the PROTECTION OF YOUNG GIRLS and the RESCUE OF THE FALLEN; and supplied means to maintain the Homes and Open-All-Night Refuge. Now I am anticipating that He will both enable and dispose the hearts of his stewards to supply all that is needful before the 31st inst. At least £1000 will be required.

The Committee, on the occasion of their first meeting in January last, unanimously adopted the following Resolution:—

> "That all suitable cases be admitted to the Homes and Open-All-Night Refuge during the year 1885, irrespective of any fluctuations of income which may arise; believing such a course to be in perfect harmony with the mercy of God in Christ Jesus, and also in exact unison with the benevolent desires of all who co-operate with this Mission of Mercy."

Messrs. Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings, E.C., will receive Donations, or 200, Euston Road, N.W.

EDWARD W. THOMAS, Sec.

HOMES OF HOPE,

(Established 1860),

For the Restoration of Fallen and the Protection of Friendless Young Women. Special efforts are made on behalf of young mothers, before and after confinement.

Nos. 4, 5 & 6, Regent-square, Gray's-inn-road,
London, W.C.

The applications every day are most distressing, and the Committee anxiously appeal for funds to enable them to utilise to the utmost the room in the Homes.

IMMEDIATE HELP IS NEEDED.

Henry Thompson, Treasurer.
William Hornibrook, Secretary.

IRISH CHURCH MISSIONS.

DUBLIN VISITING MISSION.

"Many anxious to get in have to be turned away from the door for want of room, after hall and stairs had been packed. Many more would come if we had a larger room." Such is the testimony of the workers in a Mission centre recently opened near Dublin. Will those who love the Gospel, and are anxious to spread it among all creeds and classes, help on this work for the Lord? We want a room capable of holding 200 or 250. The work should commence at once. About £250 needed. Smallest donations will be gratefully received and acknowledged by Rev. H. Fiske, 12, D'Olier-street, Dublin; or Mrs. Smyly, 35, Upper Fitzwilliam-street, Dublin.

GEORGE YARD RAGGED SCHOOLS, &c., Whitechapel, E.

Received with many thanks "Annie's Present." Two parcels of Clothing from unknown friends.

The Infant Day Nursery. The Free Ragged Day Schools. Toy Classes. Work amongst little Girls. Rations of Food to Hungry Children. Shelter for Houseless Girls and Boys. Bible and Industrial Classes for Big Boys. Classes and Meetings for Elder Girls and Young Women. Bible Classes for Men. Mothers' Meetings. Mission to Inebriate Women. Sewing Class for Poor Women. Room to room visitation. Lodging House Gospel Services. Evangelistic Services, &c.

Friends are invited to visit the Institution any day but Saturday.

Post-office Orders should be made payable at 66, High-street, Whitechapel, E. Letters and parcels should be addressed to George Holland, The Ragged Schools, George-yard, High-street, Whitechapel, London, E.

THE BENEVOLENT OR STRANGERS' FRIEND SOCIETY.

For Visiting and Relieving the Sick Poor by an unpaid agency of over 280 Christian visitors.

Ald. Sir R. N. Fowler, Bart., M.P., Treasurer.
J. H. Anderson, Esq., Chairman.
Clarence Smith, Esq., J.P., Hon. Secretary.

The 100th ANNUAL MEETING will be held at the MANSION HOUSE on Friday, December 18, at 3 o'clock p.m.

The Right Hon. the Lord Mayor will preside. Speakers: Alderman and Sheriff Evans, Mr. Sheriff Clarke, Rev. Canon McConnell Hussey, D.D., Mr Alderman Cotton, Henry Swafield, Esq., Watson Surr, Esq., Horace B. Marshall, Esq., C.C., and others.

Free admission by tickets, to be obtained at the office, 52, Finsbury-pavement, E.C.

THE COMMITTEE of the Ladies' Samaritan Society of the National Hospital for the Paralysed and Epileptic, 25, Queen's-square, Bloomsbury, earnestly plead for contributions in aid of the poorer patients and their families. The smallest gifts in money or clothing will be thankfully acknowledged by the Committee. Old coats and trousers are much needed.

LATYMER ROAD MISSION.—Infant Day Nursery. Boys' and Girls' Evening Shelters.—An earnest cry for help from the West.—The funds of this Mission are so low that the Committee are compelled to ask for Help. Sunday Schools, Night Schools, Gospel Preaching, Youths' Institute, Bands of Hope, Mothers' Meetings, are a few of the various agencies.—Aulay Macaulay, Hon. Sec., Blechynden-street, Notting-hill, W. Gifts in kind are always welcome.

THE GENERAL ELECTION AND THE LORD'S DAY.—The Committee of the Lord's Day Society appeal for Funds. The crisis is great. The work is great. Help the Committee to enlighten public opinion, and to influence the Elections in favour of the holy Rest Day. Help may be sent to the Treasurer, F. A. Bevan, Esq., 54, Lombard-street, E.C.; or to the undersigned at 20, Bedford street, Strand, W.C. John Gritton, D.D., Secretary.

FRENCH PROTESTANT MISSION in London.—This extensive and important Mission, which includes a church in Bayswater, schools near Fitzroy-square, medical mission close to Oxford-circus, Governesses' Home in North Kensington, and altogether some twenty agencies by means of which thousands of French men and women are yearly reached and benefited, is dependent upon voluntary contributions alone for support. To carry on the work effectively an annual sum of £1,500 is required. Contributions are earnestly solicited, and will be gratefully received by the Superintendent of the Mission, Pastor Du Pontet de la Harpe, D.D., French Parsonage, Bayswater, W.; by the Treasurer, Colonel Elphinstone, 27, Arundel-gardens, Kensington, W.; by Messrs. Ransom, Bouverie & Co., 1, Pall Mall East; and by Messrs. Coutts & Co., 59, Strand, W.C.

UNIVERSAL WEEK OF PRAYER, JANUARY, 1886.—The Evangelical Alliance by its representatives throughout the world, has issued the invitation and programme for the Week of Prayer, commencing January 3rd. Papers containing the suggested subjects may be obtained of the Secretaries of the Alliance, 7, Adam street, Strand, London. The co-operation of Ministers and others friendly to the object, in all lands, is earnestly invited.

GEE STREET Christian Mission, Goswell road, St. Luke's.—Funds urgently needed to carry on the Lord's work in this neighbourhood. Clothing or food for poor also thankfully received by Honorary Superintendent, H. Rudgley, 82, Wood-street, Cheapside; Treasurer, Robt. Baxter, Esq., Victoria-street, Westminster; Bankers, Barclay, Lombard-street.

CONVALESCENT AND SEASIDE HOME, Beach Rocks, Sandgate, Kent.—Admission by small weekly payments, with recommendation by subscriber or by arrangement.—For particulars, apply to Henry H. Board, London Samaritan Society, 57 and 59, Ludgate-hill, London, E.C.

ANXIETY OF SOUL.—Any to whom the way of salvation is not clear, are invited to communicate, either personally or by letter, to W. S., care of Evangelistic Secretary, Exeter Hall, Strand, W.C.

FAITH-HEALING and Power for Service.—Meetings conducted by the Rev John Allen or his workers. Blackheath Hill, Greenwich (Auction Rooms, Trinity-street), Tuesdays, 7 p.m. Camberwell Gate (The Hall, Horsley-street), Tuesdays, 7 p.m. Hackney (Trinity Church, Triangle, Mare-street), Sundays, 3 p.m.; Mondays, 7 p.m.; on Fridays, Baptism of the Spirit 7 p.m.; Ilford Workmen's Hall, Thursdays, 7 p.m.

Postal address, Balclutha Lodge, Southgate, N.

A HUNDRED GUINEAS has been given by W. C. G. for training a Lady at the Zenana and Medical Mission School, 58, St. George's-road, S.W. Application to be made to Hon. Sec. Next term commences Jan. 7, 1886. Lady Peto, £1

Educational.

LONDON.—First-class Education for the Daughters of Gentlemen in an establishment of long standing, conducted by members of the Church of England, occupying a spacious house in a most healthy locality in the West-end. The pupils have the advantage of loving care and safe training while pursuing their studies under first-rate Professors; their health, individual temper, and disposition carefully and tenderly watched over, and the whole system based on Christian principles. — Delta, Boddington's Library, Notting-hill-gate, W.

MARLBOROUGH COLLEGE FOR YOUNG LADIES, Larkbeare, Exeter, Devon. For Resident Pupils only. Miss Bamber offers to parents seeking safe Christian training for their daughters the advantages of a University education, without its attendant dangers. Miss Darling, of Newnham College, Cambridge, L.L.A. of St. Andrew's University, is Resident Head English Teacher at Marlborough College. The highest testimonials from Clergymen, Ministers, and Gentlemen whose daughters have been entrusted to Miss Bamber's care. Pupils are always accompanied from London.

ERDSLEIGH HOUSE, Jeffreys-road, Clapham, London.—High School for Young Ladies, in association with, and under the same supervision as Marlborough College, Larkbeare, Exeter. Residents only received.

BELLE VUE, Ambleside.—Good School for Girls.—Having increased accommodation, Mrs. Fleming can now receive six additional Pupils. House well and healthily situated, with large rooms, garden, tennis ground. Careful Christian training, and thorough teaching. Distinguished success in Cambridge Examinations, which are optional. Resident foreign and English governesses. Visiting masters. 50 to 60 guineas.

EDUCATIONAL HOME for the Daughters of Gentlemen, Fair View, Cazenove-road, Stamford-hill, N.—Miss Brown and Miss Good receive a few Resident Pupils. First-class education, with careful Christian training and home comforts. Children from India received and lovingly cared for. Terms moderate. References kindly permitted to Mrs. Pennefather; J. E. Mathieson, Esq., Mildmay; and parents.

MISS WATTS (Evangelist) has vacancies in her quiet country home for two young ladies, who will be educated by her sister. Assisted by a competent governess and masters.
Wetherden, Stowmarket.

A LADY, with select Morning School, solicits Boarders. Christian training. English instruction, languages, music, drawing, painting. Eight guineas per term (inclusive).—Carlyle House, Warkworth-street, Cambridge. Half term, November 3.

TO FILL VACANCIES, a few Resident Pupils can be received on very advantageous terms, in a high-class Ladies' School, in the South of England. Highest references.—Alpha, 24, St. Lawrence-road, N. Kensington, London, W.

KEMPLEY HOUSE, Coronation-road, Bristol.—Principal, Mrs. Prescott. An excellent education for Girls. Ten guineas a term, payable in advance. Accomplishments and all expenses included, except for books. See Prospectus.

LONGTON COLLEGE, Longton Grove, Sydenham, S.E.—High-class School for Girls, based on Scripture principles. Pupils very successful in public examinations. Moderate terms. Principal, Mrs. Kent, assisted by her daughters, certificated Oxford and London Universities, College of Preceptors, South Kensington, &c. References to parents.

MR. EDWIN ARROWSMITH, of the Children's Special Service Mission, recommends any parents requiring the comforts and privileges of a good Christian home, combined with an excellent education, for their Daughters, to apply to D. C. L., Farley's Library, FitzJohn's-parade, Hampstead. One vacancy in January. Terms 100 to 120 guineas per annum inclusive.

BEDFORD.—Howard College.—Principal, Mrs. J. Compton Burnett.—A Boarding School for Girls. Modern methods. A very superior Education and careful Christian training. During past year pupils have passed the Cambridge Local Examination, College of Preceptors, Royal Academy Local, and Trinity College. Sixty-six passes in last two years. Eighteen distinctions. Vacancy for Governess-Pupil at Christmas; premium.

A LADY, residing at Clifton for her sons' education, offers a comfortable home and supervision of evening lessons to two or three boys, whose parents, going abroad or otherwise, desire the advantages of Bristol schools. Special care of delicate children. Unexceptionable references.
Mrs. Wood, Oldford, Frome.

ASSOCIATION OF GERMAN GOVERNESSES for mutual help, without the medium of Agents. Under patronage of Their Royal Highnesses the Duchess of Connaught, the Grand Duchess of Mecklenburg Strelitz, the Princess Mary Adelaide, Duchess of Teck, &c., &c. Ladies wishing to engage Governesses resident or daily, are invited to communicate with the Lady Principal, 16, Wyndham-place, Bryanston-square, W. Private lessons arranged. Good schools and private pensions in Germany recommended. Office hours and interviews every day from 11 to 1, and from 3 to 5 o'clock.

WANDSWORTH HIGH SCHOOL FOR GIRLS,
EAST HILL HOUSE, S.W.
Lady Principal—Mrs. WINTER
(Widow of the late Rev. C. Winter).

Conducted on modern principles. Preparation for Public Examinations. Professors attend for music, drawing, French, German, singing, dancing, and calisthenics. A large play ground, with lawns, swings, &c., is at the service of the pupils, and the extensive commons of Wandsworth and Clapham are within a few minutes' walk. Boarders receive home comforts and careful supervision. References to Rev. Andrew Mearns, Memorial Hall, E.C.; Mr. Robert Rae, National Temperance League, 337, Strand; and to parents of pupils.

EDUCATION.—High-class School for Young Ladies.—Finishing Masters, Certificated Governesses, and personal supervision, with home comforts. Pupils prepared for any examination. Instruction made pleasant, and no overworking countenanced. Terms moderate and inclusive. Highly recommended by parents of pupils and Rev. C. H. Spurgeon.—Prospectus on application to Mrs. Hale, A.C.P., 1, Carlton-mansions, Clapham-rise, London, S.W.

Balham, May 29, 1880.

I am very reluctant to recommend schools, because I am not always able to judge of the interior arrangements; but in this case I have the utmost pleasure in standing as reference. I can highly commend Mrs Hale, and have the greatest confidence in her capacity, management, and character, having known her for several years. C. H. SPURGEON.

BEDFORD.—Melrose House.—Principals, the Misses Ray, daughters of the late Rev. R. Ray. Pupils received for high-class education and board. Personal supervision, with Christian training and home comforts. Preparation for Cambridge and other Local Examinations when desired.

THE FERNS, South Hayling, Hants.—Ladies' Collegiate School. Boarders received on moderate terms. Comfortable home. Most healthy locality; recommended by medical profession.—Principal, H. Lewis.

THE POPLARS' SCHOOL, Addlestone, Weybridge (in connection with the Christian Women's Education Union). Director: Miss Cavendish. Pupils prepared for the Cambridge Local and College of Preceptors' examinations. Terms from twenty to thirty guineas per annum.—For particulars apply to Miss Scott, Principal, The Poplars, Addlestone, Weybridge.

EDUCATION for the DAUGHTERS of Gentlemen. Glen Lyon, West Hill, Sydenham.—Principal, Miss Sykes.—English and foreign resident governesses. Pupils prepared for the Cambridge Local Examinations.

MARGATE.—Addiscombe House.—Young Ladies' School, conducted by the Misses Cowley, assisted by a resident French governess and visiting masters. A thorough education is combined with Christian training, and home and personal comforts. Pupils prepared for Local Examinations when desired.

A HAPPY HOME for young people with a Christian who educates her own children. Can be well recommended by one who knows her as a mother and an instructress.—Particulars from M. F., 3, Holland-road, Loughboro'-road, London, S.W.

A CHRISTIAN LADY is prepared to receive, after the Christmas vacation, six clergymen's daughters as finishing Pupils, on very easy terms. Highest references.—For particulars, address 20, Pencester-road, Dover.

KIND HOME OFFERED for Christmas holidays to Christian Governess. No salary; only laundry. Three children, 7 to 13. Music and painting desirable.
Mrs B., 65, Harpur-street, Bedford.

PASTEUR DU PONTET DE LA HARPE wishes to recommend to schools and families an efficient and experienced foreign Tutor, who can teach French, German, and classics. Terms very moderate.
M. G., French Church, Bayswater.

WANTED, by a Gentleman resident in an Eastern quarter of the Metropolis, a Holiday Tutor to take entire charge of two little boys (11½ and 8), from the 16th December. He would reside in the house, and, in addition to three hours' instruction daily, would have to give his young charges all his attention from rising till their bedtime, taking long walks, &c., when fine. A converted abstainer preferred. Evangelical Churchman or Nonconformist.—Address, stating terms and experience, and giving references, Holiday Tutor, care of J. G. King & Co., 10, Bolt-court, Fleet street, E.C.

HOLIDAY ENGAGEMENT wanted, in a Christian family, for a nice Protestant Lady (18), diplomée. Has only been in England a few months.—Miss Du Pré, Beaconsfield, Quex-road, West Hampstead.

GOVERNESSES' HOME, 6, Lower Fitzwilliam-street, Dublin. — This Institution provides a comfortable Christian home for ladies seeking engagements, and for daily governesses.—Applications for admission, enclosing copies of last two testimonials or references, should be addressed to Ladies' Committee.

AN ENGLISH LADY can recommend a comfortable German home, in Dresden, where Lady Boarders can be received. Lessons given in German, painting, and French if desired. Terms moderate and inclusive.—A., care of Housekeeper, 13, Rose-street, Newgate street, E.C.

MRS. NORWOOD EARLE is anxious to obtain a few more Boarders and day Scholars. Home comforts. Mother's care. High testimonials. Healthy part of Ealing.
Gowbusk Villa, Richmond-road, South Ealing.

TO GODLY PARENTS.—The undermentioned (who is in no way connected with the school) is desirous of recommending an old-established YOUNG GENTLEMEN'S BOARDING SCHOOL, DELIGHTFULLY SITUATED ON HIGH GROUND, WITH VIEWS OF THE SEA on the South Coast, a short run from London, in which a thorough and a first-class Education is given, based upon the teaching of the Holy Scriptures.

It is one of the few remaining schools in which the power of the Gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ influences the hearts and conduct of the pupils.

The success, happiness, and training of the Boys have been so remarkable in this school that a BOOK OF TESTIMONIALS GIVEN BY THE PARENTS, together with the papers of Examinations passed and Honours gained, should be read to appreciate results so unusual. Two Vice-Chancellors have placed their wards as pupils in the school. Reference kindly permitted to Dr. Thorn, Paddington, London.

THE OLD HALL SCHOOL,
WELLINGTON, SHROPSHIRE.

Principal—J. Edward Cranage, M.A., Ph.D., Author of "Mental Education," of three Lectures on the "Tabernacle in the Wilderness," &c., &c. Vice-Principal—Robert Weston, Esq., B.A., T.C.D. And other Masters. Secretary—H. Whittaker, Esq., F.S.Sc.

Terms for Board and Lodging (exclusive of School Fees, as under):—*Boarders under 10 years of age, 15 guineas; Ditto, 10 years of age and over, 20 guineas; Ditto, under 18, separate bed-room and share of private sitting-room, 33 guineas; Private Pupils above 18 years of age, with separate bed room, separate private sitting-room, and other privileges, 60 guineas. Entire charge taken of Boys from India, the Colonies, &c.

* For Boys who enter the School under 10 years of age the charge remains 15 guineas.

School Fees (for education only), per term of twelve weeks: English Education, with Latin, Greek, and Mathematics, £4 4s.; French and German (each), £1 11s. 6d.; Italian and Spanish (each), £3; Drawing in lead, £1 11s. 6d.; Ditto, water colour, oils (each), £3 3s.; piano, singing (each), £1 11s. 6d.; organ, £4 4s.; shorthand, £1 11s. 6d.; drilling (during summer months) per annum, £1 1s.

Dr. Cranage's undeviating aim is to train the boys committed to his care, not only in mental acquisitions, but in their whole moral and physical being; believing that as much pains and unremitting attention are required for the latter as the former. Attention is given not only to the studies which the boys pursue, but to their recreation, games and amusements—upon the principle, that almost every incident affords material for improvement, and opportunity for the formation of good habits. All education is on Christian basis.

The School-house is delightfully and most healthfully situated within a mile of the railway-station of Wellington; it is well adapted for its purpose, and constructed with the necessary appliances. The school-room, reading-room, dining-hall, lavatories, and dormitories are spacious, airy, and convenient; the dormitories are fitted generally with "cubicles." The play-grounds are very extensive, and well suited for healthy recreation. There is a gymnasium, fives-court, and cricket pitch, with a comfortable hut.

The next term will begin (D.V.) on Thursday, January 21.

HOME FOR ENGLISH BOYS in Stuttgart.—Mrs. Vernier, 17, Archiv-strasse, has a few vacancies. Special facilities for acquiring languages, and music. Home life. References: N. Learoyd, Esq., Albion Chambers, Moorgate-street; the Hon. Lady Beauchamp, 2, Cromwell-road, S.W.; Madame La Marquise de la Valli di Casanova, Pallanza, Italy.

SEAFORD COLLEGE, SUSSEX.—Finest and healthiest site in England, facing the Channel. Preparation for all Examinations, the professions, public schools, and commerce. The widest intellectual and physical training are added to the greatest possible care and comfort. All learn French and shorthand. University masters. Athletics and good sea bathing. Refined Christian home. All the advantages of the highest class schools, at inclusive and moderate fees.—Address, The Principal.

BAYSWATER.—St. John's College, close to Parks. High-class Boys' School. Large, well-ventilated class-rooms, 55 feet long. School chapel. Good playground. Thorough teaching. Inspection invited.—Rev. C. Baker, 41-42, Moscow-road, Pembridge-square, W.

BOYS receive thorough Christian Training and sound Education with Mr. and Mrs. Dixon, Middle-class School, Kingston-on-Thames. Number limited. Very happy home. Beautiful locality. 20 to 25 guineas.

A LADY HIGHLY recommends a decided Christian Governess. Great experience in training and educating the young. Thorough English, with accomplishments. Good salary required.—Hope, 105, Newington-green-road, Islington, London.

RESIDENT JUNIOR GOVERNESS.

An experienced young Lady requires re-engagement as above, in school or family. Drawing, music, French. Good references.
N. D., 87, Sandling-road, Maidstone.

PARIS.—Protestant Boarding School for Young Ladies (founded 1866), offering thorough instruction in all branches. Masters for music, painting, &c. With a private bed-room, £5 per month. References: Rev. Baron Hart, 3, Lordship-terrace, Stoke Newington, London; W. F. Lockie, Secretary Paris City Mission, 71, rue des Batignolles, Paris.
Mme Flamant, 43, rue Trézel.

FRANCE.—HAVRE.—Mdlle. Cournil de Lavergne, 28, Rue d'Epremesnil. Protestant Boarding-school for Young Ladies. Comfortable home. First-rate instruction. Highest references (Pasteur Theodore Monod) in France, England, Germany, Holland.

PARIS.—Mdlle. Vienot, 36, Avenue des Princes, Gare d'Auteuil, Paris. Protestant Boarding school for Young Ladies. Careful instruction. Pleasant, comfortable house, with large garden. References and prospectus on application.

SURREY HILLS.—Select Preparatory School, La Brède, Caterham Valley. Home comforts, with maternal care. Highly recommended.—Principal, MISS PRICE.

GOOD ARTICLED PUPIL required, in a Ladies' Boarding School. Must be fairly educated, cheerful, and teacherlike. Would receive lessons in art of teaching; also English or accomplishments. Small premium.
MISS OLIVER, Prospect House, St. Neots.

RESIDENT GOVERNESS. — An experienced Lady requires, after Christmas, a re-engagement as above, in school or family. Thorough knowledge of music. Good references.
K. M. S., 37, Sandling road, Maidstone.

WANTED. IMMEDIATELY (with a view to permanency), a Lady to take entire charge of five little children, during the holidays. No menial duties. Good music, singing, and needlework. Dissenter preferred. A willing Christian helper would be thoroughly appreciated, and ensure a comfortable country home.
MISS OLIVER, Prospect House, St. Neots.

A CHRISTIAN wants a situation as Governess, where she will have some evenings for Christian work. School or family. Salvation Army family preferred.—ADA. Mrs. Newson's, Cumberland-street, Woodbridge, Suffolk.

HOLIDAY AND PERMANENT ENGAGEMENT required, by Protestant German Gentlewoman (diplomée). Fluent French, English, music, drawing, &c. Long experience, great success, and high references.—MADAME, Aberfeldie, Finchley New-road, Hampstead, London.

A FRENCH YOUNG MAN, son of Pastor, having just taken his University degrees, desires situation as Tutor in a family or institution.
M. J. WOOD, Pasteur, 4, Rue Roquepine, Paris.

SUPERIOR NURSERY GOVERNESS required. Churchwoman. Good English, French, music, and needlework, junior Latin. Entire charge. £30, and laundress.
AMICUS, Church Club, Chester.

GOVERNESS in Christian family, by a successful teacher, with high qualifications. Christian worker. (Res. or Vis.)
Mr. R. C. P., Gazette Office, Harrow.

A LADY SEEKS a holiday engagement for her foreign Governess, whom she can highly recommend. Very good German, fluent French, good music. Conscientious, ladylike. Pupils not under 13.—MINNA, care of Mr. Bachhoffner, Bookseller, High-street, Clapham, S.W.

Appointments, Situations, &c., Wanted.

LAY READERSHIP.—A Gentleman of education, 28, unmarried, fond of Church work, desires above. First-class references.—F. R. BARTLETT, care of Rev. J. Fowler, Grammar School, Colyton, Devon.

MATRON, or Superintendent for Convalescent Home, or Orphanage. Boys' preferred. Can be well recommended. Varied experience. Reference is permitted to Hon. Secretary, St. Luke's Home, Ramsgate.
N. H., 165A, Clapham-park-road, Clapham, S.W.

A COACHMAN (thorough), married, seeks a situation in Christian family. Age 27. Used to single or pair. Five years' excellent character from present employer. Willing to be generally useful.—G. SMITH, East Donyland Heath, near Colchester, Essex.

AN ENGAGEMENT wanted, by a young Lady, as Companion to an elderly lady. Musical. Or as musical teacher in a school. Senior Trinity Certificate.
EDNA, Aston-on-Clun, Salop.

A LADY (35) desires situation as Lady Housekeeper or Companion, or care of Motherless Children. Domesticated, musical. Where loving Christian care will be valued.
BETA, 26, Cambridge-street, Hyde-park, W.

A WIDOW, with two daughters, giving up front lodging house, desires entire charge of one, Temperance Hotel, or any place of trust. 14 years' experience. Highest references.
B., 93, High-street, Ramsgate.

A CLERGYMAN'S WIFE is anxious to meet with a home, with salary, for six months, for a Christian lady who has lived with her six years. She is invaluable for Bible Classes and visiting the poor.
Y. Z., care of Mr. Joyes, Post-office, Midhurst.

A CHRISTIAN WORKER desires an engagement as Biblewoman. As to fitness, Rev. F. S. Clark, St. Peter's Vicarage, The Circus, Greenwich, will answer inquiries.

CHRISTIAN YOUNG PERSON seeks daily employment. Thoroughly domesticated, and used to children. Situation lost through principle.—L. A. H., 26, Keppel-mews N., Torrington-square, W.C.

A LADY WISHES to recommend a Swiss Protestant children's Maid for the holidays. Will make herself useful. Laundress and travelling expenses must be paid.
MRS. CAVE, Spring-grove, Isleworth.

A CHRISTIAN WIDOW is most anxious for lessons in Cooking, under a lady's experienced Cook for a few weeks. Will any of the Lord's people kindly assist Advertiser?
E. E., Y.W.C.A., Bedford-place, Bournemouth.

SUPERINTENDENT of Working Boys' Home requires an appointment. Age 41. 17 years' experience. Eight years in present position. Baptist. Total abstainer. Non-smoker. Accustomed to emigration work.
J. H. STEPHENSON, 322, Gray's-inn-road, London.

URGENT.—As Collector, Clerk, &c. Ten years' experience. Excellent references and security. A Christian and abstainer.
A. S. K., 4, Ludgate Circus-buildings, E.C.

AS HOUSEKEEPER to a Gentleman or Tradesman wanted, by a respectable Person, aged 28. Can keep accounts, is a good correspondent, musical, good cook and manager, is fond of children. Three years' reference.
S. D., 37, Broad street, Leominster, Herefordshire.

SEVERAL PLACES wanted in Christian families for girls who have gone astray, but have since been two years in Homes, doing well.—Miss MARRIOTT, Oldbury House, St. Michael's hill, Bristol.

COMPANION. — A Clergyman's Daughter is anxious for engagement to a Lady, or any light post in Christian home. Fond of housekeeping. Could help in studies, or any kind of Christian work. Highest references.
DELTA, 50, St. Giles's, Oxford.

WANTED, in same house, two sisters (French), one aged 26, first-class maid, perfect dressmaker, hair-dresser; three languages. Second, aged 15, as Companion to children, or light work. Good sewer; good characters.
Miss MARTIN, rue Lauriston 9, Paris.

WIDOW LADY desires engagement as Housekeeper to a gentleman, or Companion Housekeeper to lady. Domesticated, active, good needlewoman and pianist. Fond of children. Good references.
ALBERTA, 29, Legard-road, Highbury-park.

HOUSEKEEPER. — Re-engagement required by a thoroughly domesticated Lady, experienced in every branch of housekeeping, and the management of children and servants. Good needlewoman. Highest references. Age 40.
C. F., 5, East-terrace, Walton-on Naze, Essex.

SITUATION WANTED as good Plain Cook in a quiet Christian family. Age 23. London preferred.
M., 1, Chase-terrace, Southgate, N.

PLAIN NEEDLEWORK.—Wanted, by the Caretaker of an empty house, plain sewing, mending, or knitting.—CARETAKER, 126, Queen's-gate, South Kensington, S.W.

AS VERY GOOD PLAIN COOK, by an elderly person of good health, in a small Christian family near town. Light housework.—P. S., 5, Russell-place West, Old Dover-road, Blackheath.

GENERAL SERVANT under kind working mistress or fellow-servant; a girl requiring supervision. Strong and good-tempered. Also UNDER-HOUSEMAIDS (16 and 20). With decided Christians and abstainers.
Miss GREENE, Midgham, Reading.

SERVANTS' AGENCY, SOHO BAZAAR. — Unexceptionable references required. Testimonials of religious character fully appreciated. Male and female servants are in daily attendance from 11 to 2; on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday the number is very large. Entrances, Soho-square, and 77, Oxford-street.

Appointments, Situations, &c., Vacant.

HENSHAW'S BLIND ASYLUM.—Assistant Matron wanted, to superintend and instruct the female inmates in needle, wool, and fancy work, and generally to assist in the efficient management of the Institution. For further particulars address as below. Salary £30 per annum, with board and residence in the Asylum.—Applications, with testimonials or references, stating age and experience, to be addressed on or before Monday, December 14, to the Secretary, at his offices, Bloom-street, Salford.—By order,
JAMES W. RATTRAY, Secretary.
Manchester, November 25, 1885.

MATRON, for Rescue Work, required, to take charge immediately of Girls' Shelter. Age over 30. Replies to likely applications only.
S. L. B., 29, St. Michael's-place, Brighton.

A MATRON wanted, for a Home for fallen women. Must be a Christian.—Mrs. STORY, Winchester-terrace, Newcastle-on-Tyne.

HOME FOR CHRISTMAS VACATION offered to a young German Lady in a Missionary's family, in return for useful services rendered. Two children.
MATER, 41, Brighton-road, Stoke Newington, N.

SINGLE-HANDED MAN-SERVANT wanted; active, steady Christian; total abstainer. Single.—Mrs. DUNNE, Bircher Hall, Leominster, Herefordshire.

SUPERIOR NURSE wanted in a Christian family. Must be clean, active, conscientious, and a good needlewoman. Under-nurse kept to assist. Nonconformist preferred.
CARROSSIER, Guildford.

NURSE, decided Christian, wanted, about 30. Must be an abstainer. Good needlewoman, fond of children. Under nurse kept. Comfortable home.—Mrs. D., care of Mr. Sharpe, 26, Clifton-terrace, Brighton.

USEFUL MAID wanted, to attend on a Lady and two daughters. Must be a good dressmaker, and willing to assist in housework.
Mrs. MARSH, Westward Ho! Devon.

UNDER NURSE wanted, for country vicarage. Age about 18. Out before. Abstainer. Wages to £12.
F. L. B., care of Mr. Simpson, Hertford.

CAN ANY LADY recommend a strong, active girl of 16 or 17, with good character, to help in house and kitchen work?
X., Thompson's Library, Malvern.

A THOROUGH good Plain Cook wanted. Small dairy, butter only made for the use of the house. Wages £22, and all found except beer.—Apply to Mrs. C. W. SCHROETER, Tedfold, Billingshurst, Sussex.

WANTED, in a Gentleman's family (small), a thoroughly trustworthy person as good Plain Cook. Dairy and baking. Age about 30.—Apply, by letter, Miss CRABB, Stonehurst, near Mayfield, Sussex.

GOOD COOK wanted, as second Cook in a first-class Ladies' School, near London. She must have a good personal character of not less than twelve months. Kitchenmaids and scullery-maid kept. All found except beer. Wages £25.—Apply, by letter only, to Miss METCALFE, Highfield, Hendon, N.W.

REQUIRED, DEC. 21st, good Plain Cook for large family. Assistance after 1 o'clock. £22, rising £1 yearly to £28. All found. Also HOUSE-PARLOURMAID. £16 to £18. Must be abstainers and Christians.—E. M. C., Farley's Library, Fitz-John's-parade, Hampstead, N.W.

GOOD COOK wanted, for Christian family of two. Five women-servants. Assistance half the day. Age from 36. Active, and early riser.—X., Thompson's Library, Malvern.

WANTED ABOUT DEC 18, in a small family, country vicarage, thorough Plain Cook; also Parlourmaid. Trustworthy. Christian characters valued. Wages £20 and £18. Abstainers. — Mrs. CARUS-WILSON, Stonewall, Edenbridge, Kent.

WANTED, two middle-aged Christian women, abstainers, as Kitchen Servants for Bristol Penitentiary. Also, Nursery for Homeless Infants.—For either situation, Miss MARRIOTT, Oldbury House, St. Michael's-hill, Bristol.

WANTED, IN QUIET FAMILY, good General Servant. Age 25. Wages £16. Also Young Girl, age 16, to assist above. Wages £9. All found. No beer.—Apply, by letter, Mrs. O., Carlisle Villa, Southfields, Wandsworth, S.W.

GENERAL SERVANT WANTED (now or after Christmas) in a family of two. Must be a very good plain cook. No washing. No basement. Assistance given in housework. A quiet, comfortable home for a steady, reliable servant. Good wages.—Mrs. STARR, 17, Crouch End-crescent, Hornsey rise, N.

AS GENERAL SERVANT wanted, in a small family. Age 18 to 20. Good character.
A. B., South View, Grove-road, Walthamstow.

CAN ANY LADY thoroughly recommend a truly Christian woman, from 25 to 30, as Useful Maid to two Ladies?—Apply, by letter, to B., Mrs. Beattie, 5, Bertie-road, Leamington.

To Let, Apartments, &c.

PERCY'S HOTEL, LONDON.
40, Bedford-place, Bloomsbury-sq., W.C.

This First-class Private Hotel is highly recommended by readers of THE CHRISTIAN from all parts of the world. The Bishop of Algoma writes: "The comfort, perfect order, and attendance at PERCY'S Hotel, render it all that can be desired as a central place of sojourn in this great city." Beds from 1s. 6d. Tea, 1s. 3d. Tariff on application.

HUTCHINSON'S PRIVATE HOTEL, 24, Guilford-street, Russell-square, the most central position for all parts of London. Extensively patronised and strongly recommended. Home comforts. Terms moderate.

LONDON. — Insull's Temperance Hotel, 20, 21, Burton-crescent, Tavistock-square, W.C.—Five minutes' walk or 1s. cab fare from Euston, St. Pancras, King's Cross Railways; easily reached from other stations. Patronised by readers of THE CHRISTIAN.

ST. LEONARD'S-ON-SEA.—The Widow of the late Rev. FREDERIC WAGSTAFF, and Mrs. LOCKE, offer superior Board and Residence. Replete with every comfort. Close to sea, gardens, &c. Terms moderate.
Meliora House, 21, Carisbrooke-road.

WORTHING HOME OF REST for Christians. — Vacancies for the winter. Every comfort. Terms, one to two guineas.—LADY SUPERINTENDENT, Rutherford Lodge, Worthing.

SOUTHSEA. — Solent House Boarding Establishment, 16 and 17, South Parade. Sunny and cheerful position, directly facing sea and the Isle of Wight. Liberal table, and every home comfort. Winter terms from 30s. to 3 guineas a week.—Miss BAKER.

BRIGHTON. — Sussex House Boarding Establishment, pleasantly situated in the Old Steine, having a sea view, and the beautiful Steine Gardens in front. Near to Pavilion, Aquarium, and piers. Liberal table, with every home comfort.—Mr. & Mrs. Box, 58 Old Steine.

MENTAL.—A vacancy occurs in a Home, where a small number of Ladies of the upper and middle class is received. The services of an experienced resident physician are supplemented by Christian kindness and care. One hour by Midland from London.
Dr. CRAIG, Bishopstow House, Bedford.

PARIS.—Board and Residence in French Protestant family. Highly recommended by English doctor who resided there some months. Terms, &c.
M. D., 14, Maitland-park-villas, N.W.

BOARDING ESTABLISHMENT, Warrior-square, St. Leonards-on-Sea.—Cavendish House is replete with comfort. Rooms lofty and well heated. Every delicacy in season. Fine sea view. Central. Musical society, organ, and piano. References from ministers and doctors.
Miss NEWBURY.

WILL ANY QUIET FAMILY care to occupy a small country House in Beds, for the winter months? Rent £1 per week. Housemaid left. Tenant to bring cook. Use of cow and vegetables given.
Miss MOORE, Maulden Cottage, Ampthill, Beds.

A COLONEL'S WIDOW and Daughter would like the upper part of a House, unfurnished. Near Mildmay preferred. Refined Christian society desired. Terms moderate.
Mrs. W., 7, Gordon-road, Ealing.

A LADY having a comfortable and refined Home, in the best part of Brixton, would receive one Lady as inmate. A little daughter could be educated with her own.—MATER, Muntz's Library, Atlantic road, Brixton, S.W.

A COMFORTABLE and refined Home offered to one or two little girls, orphans, or whose parents are abroad. Education if required. Terms moderate.
Coombe Lodge, Rugby-road, Leamington.

PARTIAL Board and Residence offered to two gentlemen, in a Christian family in North London. Bath-room.—M., care of C. Perrin, Stationer, 115, High street, Stoke Newington.

WANTED TO RENT, compact eight-roomed House in a village where two Christian ladies could strengthen the hands of an earnest evangelical Pastor.
C., Mortimer House, Lansdown-road, Cheltenham.

STONEHOUSE, GLOUCESTERSHIRE.—A quiet, comfortable Home offered, in the above neighbourhood. Only two in family. Companionship desired.
Mrs. L., Stonehouse, Gloucestershire.

UPPER NORWOOD.—A Gentleman and Lady, occupying detached house, sheltered from east wind, offer a Christian Home to two or three Ladies or Gentlemen. Home comforts.—MAJOR, Oakdene, Vermont-road.

HOME WANTED for a Lady in a private family, near London. Kindness, attention, and knowledge of epilepsy required.—Write full particulars and terms, B., care of Leathwait & Simmons, 1, Pope's Head-alley, E.C.

TO THOSE VISITING London at Christmas.—A Lady going away will let her nicely furnished House for three weeks or month. Three reception rooms, eight beds, piano, and organ. Terms, three to four guineas per week. Good references required.—BETA, care of 6, St. Anne's-road, East-hill, Wandsworth, London.

RENT FREE TO CHRISTMAS.—A nice House and pretty Shop to let. Christian people, abstainers, preferred. Suit married lady whose husband is in the City. A very low rent. Quiet, respectable situation; 71, Brockley-road, New Cross.—Particulars, H. K., at Horncastles, Cheapside, E.C.

HANOVER.—A comfortable Home for a child or a very young Lady. Quiet German family life. Best English references.
Miss IDA SCHMIDT, Lehzenstrasse 9a, Hanover.

MARGATE.
SHAFTESBURY HOUSE,

The Seaside Home of the Y.M.C.A.

Until March, married ladies and gentlemen with their daughters are received as Boarders. A comfortable Home for invalids. Terms moderate.

WILL A LADY join another in Rooms, 8s. 6d. per week, with attendance? House large and healthy; no children. Those wishing work for the Master would find plenty here.—BERTHA, Housekeeper, 13, Rose-street, Newgate-street.

INTEMPERANCE.

COLEMAN HILL HOUSE RETREAT, Halesowen, Worcestershire. For Ladies only.—For terms and all particulars apply to the Proprietors, Townsend House, Halesowen, Worcestershire.

Miscellaneous.

ANXIOUS INQUIRERS are again earnestly invited to write to Titus iii. 4—7. EVANGE 111 Clapham, S.W.

FLORIDA, the Italy of America.—Orange Groves bought or started and cared for, for non-residents. Money lent, interest 10 per cent. Pupils boarded and instructed.
HUGH MACCALLUM, Solicitor, Winterpark.

IRON CHAPEL FOR SALE, seats 130, with rostrum, vestry, and fittings complete. Price £65. May be seen on application to Mr. J. Ely, Abingdon, Berks.

TO BOOKBUYERS.—The Christmas Catalogue of new and second hand books, offered at prices greatly reduced, is now ready, and will be sent post free upon application to W. H. Smith & Son, Library Department, 186, Strand, London, W.C.

IRON MISSION ROOMS, &c., erected on the most reasonable terms, by R. Saunders, 216, Brecknock-road, London, N. Estimates and designs free. 25 years' practical experience. Also Churches and Schools, &c.

INTEMPERANCE. — A Lady, thoroughly experienced in the care of ladies suffering from alcoholic and narcotic indulgence, can receive a few ladies. Terms moderate.—Miss Pudney, Buxton House, Earl's Colne, Essex.

INTEMPERANCE.—A successfully established private Home at the seaside for six, suffering from excess of morphia, chloral, absinthe, stimulants or Nervous Debility. Christian care and influence. Judicious supervision and home comforts

Medicus, 9, Stokes Croft, Bristol.

AMERICAN ORGANS, Harmoniums, Pianos, of any make, for Church, School, or private purposes, supplied at great reduction through Ede & Co., 177, Upper Thames-street, E.C. Price lists and discounts on application.

SPECIAL OFFER.—Musical Boxes playing Mr. Sankey's and other sacred airs Messrs. Wales & McCulloch have a limited number of these choice Instruments, by the original Nicole and other eminent makers, which they are offering at greatly reduced prices. Particulars will be sent on application, addressed to 22, Ludgate-hill, London.

ASTHMA. — Persons suffering from Asthma, Difficulty of Breathing, &c., are invited to try (free of charge) a remedy for affording immediate relief

O., Mr. G. A. Kevworth Hastings

FURNISH on Norman & Stacy's Hire-Purchase System. No registration. Deposit not necessary. Economical. Strictly private. 1, 2, or 3 years. Sixty genuine wholesale firms to select from.—Offices, 79, Queen Victoria-street, E.C., & 121, Pall Mall, S.W. Carriage paid.

MAGIC LANTERNS, or Dissolving Views. Buy of the manufacturer, William Catlin, 17, Claremont-square, Pentonville, London. Exhibitions (Gospel), town or country. Slides on hire, 1½d. each. Second-hand catalogue gratis.

A PATIENT SUFFERING from Epilepsy, Hysteria, Paralysis, or otherwise requiring experienced treatment with care and supervision, is offered a loving Christian home at the seaside, where the above has for many years been very successfully treated. Highest references.—Medicus, care of Messrs. C Tayler & Co., Advertising Agents, Fleet-street, London.

EPPS'S

GRATEFUL—COMFORTING.

COCOA.

SPARE TIME WORK, which will pay, may be obtained by Secretaries of Temperance Societies, Bands of Hope, Good Templar Lodges, visitors, and others, by applying to The Blue Ribbon Life, Accident, Mutual, and Industrial Insurance Company, Limited, Colmore Chambers, Newhall-street, Birmingham.

BUNTERS

Cures Toothache, prevents Decay, saves Extraction, 1s. 1½d.

NERVINE.

DR. G. H. JONES, Surgeon Dentist, 57, Great Russell street, facing the entrance to the British Museum, London. Pamphlet, with list of diplomas, gold medals, and other wards, sent free by post. Consultation grati

CHRISTMAS AND NEW YEAR'S CARDS.—A packet of 52 splendid large cards by Raphael Tuck and Sons and others, will be sent by parcel post free for 1s 3d; published price, 8s. 6d. Money returned if not approved.

J Willis, Paris House, Hull.

CHRISTMAS CARDS — Selling off over three millions. Twelve 6d., twelve 4d., and forty-eight 1d. sent post-free for [illegible]s. 3d

John Knight & Co., 47, Boar lane, Leeds.

HARMONIUM. — Exceptional opportunity. Full compass solid walnut Harmonium with seven stops, perfect and new, condition rich organ tone. Price only £6 18s. carefully packed. Sent for trial.

Beta, 58, Bickerton-road, London, N.

LONDON ANTI-VIVISECTION SOCIETY.—A List (free) of publications at low prices to be had of the Secretary, 180, Brompton-road. Members of Young Men's Debating Societies supplied with papers gratuitously.

Illustrated Tracts for General Distribution

THE DEACON'S WEEK; or, A Week of Prayer turned into a Week of Practice. By Rose Terry Cooke. With full-page Illustration and five smaller Engravings. Eight quarto pages. Price 3s. 6d. per 100; or 500 for 17s. 6d.

READING THE APPOINTMENTS. A Poem suggested by the Appointments of Ministers to the various Circuits during the Methodist Episcopal Conference. By Rev. Alfred J. Hough. With full-page Illustration. Four quarto pages. Price 2s. per 100; 17s. 6d. per 1000.

BROTHER HARKLISS; or, CHANGING PLACES. A Lesson for Pulpit or Pew. By Mrs. James D. Chaplin. With full-page Illustration. Four quarto pages. Price 2s. per 100; 17s. 6d. per 1000.

THANKSGIVING ANN. A Story of Systematic Giving. By Kate W. Hamilton. With Two full-page Illustrations. Eight quarto pages. Price 3s. 6d. per 100; or 500 for 17s. 6d.

A SAMPLE PACKET OF THE ABOVE TRACTS ASSORTED MAY BE ORDERED OF ANY BOOKSELLER.

Or will be sent, on receipt of Postal Order for 1s., direct by the Publishers—
London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings.

JUST READY.

"THOU ART WITH ME."

(Ps. xxiii. 4.)

A New Year's Address.

By JOHN E. LINNELL,

Vicar of Pavenham, Bedford.

Neatly printed on Tinted Paper, suitable for enclosing in Letters, or for General Distribution.

1s. per Dozen; 7s. per 100.

"Yes, with me to supply my wants in every time of need; with me to deliver my soul in every time of danger; with me to comfort a sinking heart in every season of sorrow; with me to give thy gracious guidance at every time of perplexity; with me to be my sure defence in every hour of temptation; with me—yes, ever with me!

"And 'Thou' art with me. Well for the soul that through this word gets the eye firmly fixed on Jesus. Let it never be recalled; and if ever drawn away, let it return to Him again. How necessary to one's peace to be looking unto Him! 'Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace, whose mind is stayed on Thee: because he trusteth in Thee.' The peace of salvation can only be enjoyed while the eye is resting on Jesus."—Extract.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

BAGSTER'S BIBLES.

Extra flexible, silk sewed, in best Bagster morocco, kid-lined, elastic band. With full helps. Prices from 20s.

In French morocco, projecting edges, elastic band. From 4s.

Samuel Bagster & Sons, Limited, 15, Paternoster-row London.

KINDNESS TO ANIMALS. — Card Pictures, with suitable anecdotes. Very attractive. Eight varieties in English, French, German, Italian. Score, 1s. 1d.; hundred, 4s. 9d., carriage free.

Mrs. Barrow, 11, Ampton-road, Birmingham.

Cloth, 3s. 6d.

"WHAT SAITH THE SCRIPTURES?"

An Exposition and Analysis of the Pentateuch and earlier Historical Books of the Old Testament, with explanatory and practical Notes.

By Dr. J. ANDERSON,

Author of "Searching The Scriptures."

"Embodying the results of wide reading, as well as earnest personal reflection."
Christian Leader.

"Its careful scholarship and suggestive hints will make it useful to ministers."
Methodist Recorder.

"Local preacher and others will find Dr. Anderson's pages both informing and stimulative."—Home Evangelical Magazine.

"Though not professing to be a commentary, it is really one of the best kind."
Edinburgh Courant.

"A happy combination of spiritual suggestion with critical comment."—Christian.

"Warmly commended to teachers and students of Scripture."—London Quarterly Review.

"The exposition of Genesis is very carefully and completely considered."—Church Times.

"For Sunday-school teachers and Bible Classes it would be of great service."
Homiletic Magazine.

London: Messrs. Hodder & Stoughton, 27, Paternoster-row, E.C.

Further Issue of Shares.

The Aylesbury Dairy Company, Limited.

(Established 1868.)

The Dividends paid during seventeen years have averaged over 8½ per cent per annum.

Incorporated as a company limited by Shares under the Companies Acts, limiting the liability of shareholders to the amount of their shares.

The Directors of the Aylesbury Dairy Company, Limited, are prepared to issue the Balance of the Unissued Capital.

Prospectuses may be obtained from the Secretary, The Aylesbury Dairy Company, Limited, 31, St Petersburgh-place, London, W.; or of the Brokers, Messrs Cavell, Strachan, and Lardelli, 50, Threadneedle street, London, E.C.

Pocket size. In Neat Wrapper, 2d. In Cloth, 6d.

COMING OF THE LORD.

AN ADDRESS BY

Rev. NEWMAN HALL, LL.B.

"A little treatise on the Second Advent, showing the mistakes in the popular mind respecting it and what should be the action of professing Christians in looking and preparing for it."
Christian World.

London: Morgan & Scott, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

BIBLE READING for Sunday Schools.—The International Bible Reading Association provides daily readings in connection with the "International Lesson." Sunday-schools can form branches, members of which subscribe one penny annually, and receive card of membership and a monthly circular letter free.—Mr. C. Waters, S. S. U., 56, Old Bailey, London, E.C.

Publications.

"SEVEN RULES FOR DAILY LIVING." By Rev. F. B. Meyer, B.A., Leicester. Also "Warning Words—The Perils of Young Girls." By same Author. ½d. each; 3s. 6d. per 100.—Published by Marshall & Co., Amen-corner, London, E.C., and J. & J. H. Vich, Leicester.

TRUST IN JESUS.

Four-page Floral Tracts for Children, with Chromo-Lithograph on first page. By Rev. E. Payson Hammond, M.A. Packets 1 and 2 (each containing 32 tracts), Sixpence per packet.

JESUS AND THE LITTLE ONES.

By Rev. E. Payson Hammond, M.A. Crown 8vo., 96 pp., with Illustrations. Sewed, 6d.; limp cloth, 1s.

HOW TO BE HAPPY.

By Rev. E. Payson Hammond, M.A. Crown 8vo., 96 pp., with Illustrations. Sewed, 6d.; limp cloth, 1s.

WORDS ABOUT JESUS.

Eight pp. Illustrated Booklets, tinted paper. By William Luff. Packets 1 and 2 (each containing 50 assorted of 8 Nos.), 6d. per packet.

ARDEN SERIES.

Eight pp. Illustrated Booklets, tinted paper. By H. K. Wood ("A Glasgow Merchant"). Packet of 50 (assorted of 8 Nos.), 6d.

GOSPEL LEAVES.

Two pp. Tracts. Illustrated. By Cheyne Brady. Packet 3. 100 assorted of 16 Nos., 6d.

Drummond's Tract Depôt, Stirling, N.B.
London: S. W. Partridge & Co.;
And all Booksellers.

A useful Christmas Present for every Schoolboy.
Price 6d., by post 6½d.

DAILY THOUGHTS FOR SCHOOLBOYS. By the Rev. Arthur Sewell, M.A., Principal of Waterloo House School, Leamington. "It is just the sort of thing to place in the hands of a schoolboy. Would that such efforts to reach them were greatly multiplied."—Christian.
W. H. Smith, The Parade, Leamington.

Suitable for Rewards, and Readings and Recitations in Christian and other Assemblies.

SONGS AND READINGS (original), by John H. L. Christien. Cloth gilt, 3s. 6d., paper, 2s. Schools and Religious Societies 2s and 1s. Per post 3d. extra. Ford & Shapland, Great Turnstile, Holborn; all booksellers; and Author, 50, Thornhill-square, London, N.

THE NEAR RETURN of the Lord Jesus Christ. By Cheyne Brady. 7th Thousand. Price 1d. London: S. W. Partridge & Co., 9, Paternoster-row.

C. H. SPURGEON'S GREAT WORK ON THE PSALMS is now complete, in seven volumes, cloth, 8s. each, and can be had in whole calf or half calf.—Messrs. Passmore & Alabaster, 4, Paternoster-buildings

MRS. GRIMKE'S TEXT CARD MISSION.—56 Languages. Precious souls in many lands have been led to Jesus Christ by these cards, and others brought under Christian influence. Records come of great blessing. Millions are asked for by Missionaries and others, who, able wisely to distribute to the nations afar, have no means to buy them. To meet this need, we pray God to send gifts and bequests, also increased sales. For new list send stamped envelope to Mrs Grimke, Prestwich, Manchester; or apply to Elliot Stock, 62, Paternoster-row, London.

BIBLE LIGHT,
For Truth Seekers and Christian Workers.

MONTHLY, 1d. Enlarged to 14 Pages.
John F. Shaw & Co., 48, Paternoster-row, and of all Booksellers. A specimen copy sent free on application to the Editor.

Terms for Advertisements.

(PREPAID.)

Miscellaneous Advertisements in small type are charged at the following rates:—

Not exceeding 30 Words	3	0
,, 39 ,, ...	3	9
,, 48 ,, ...	4	6

And 9d. for every additional line of nine words or under, the address being in all cases charged for.

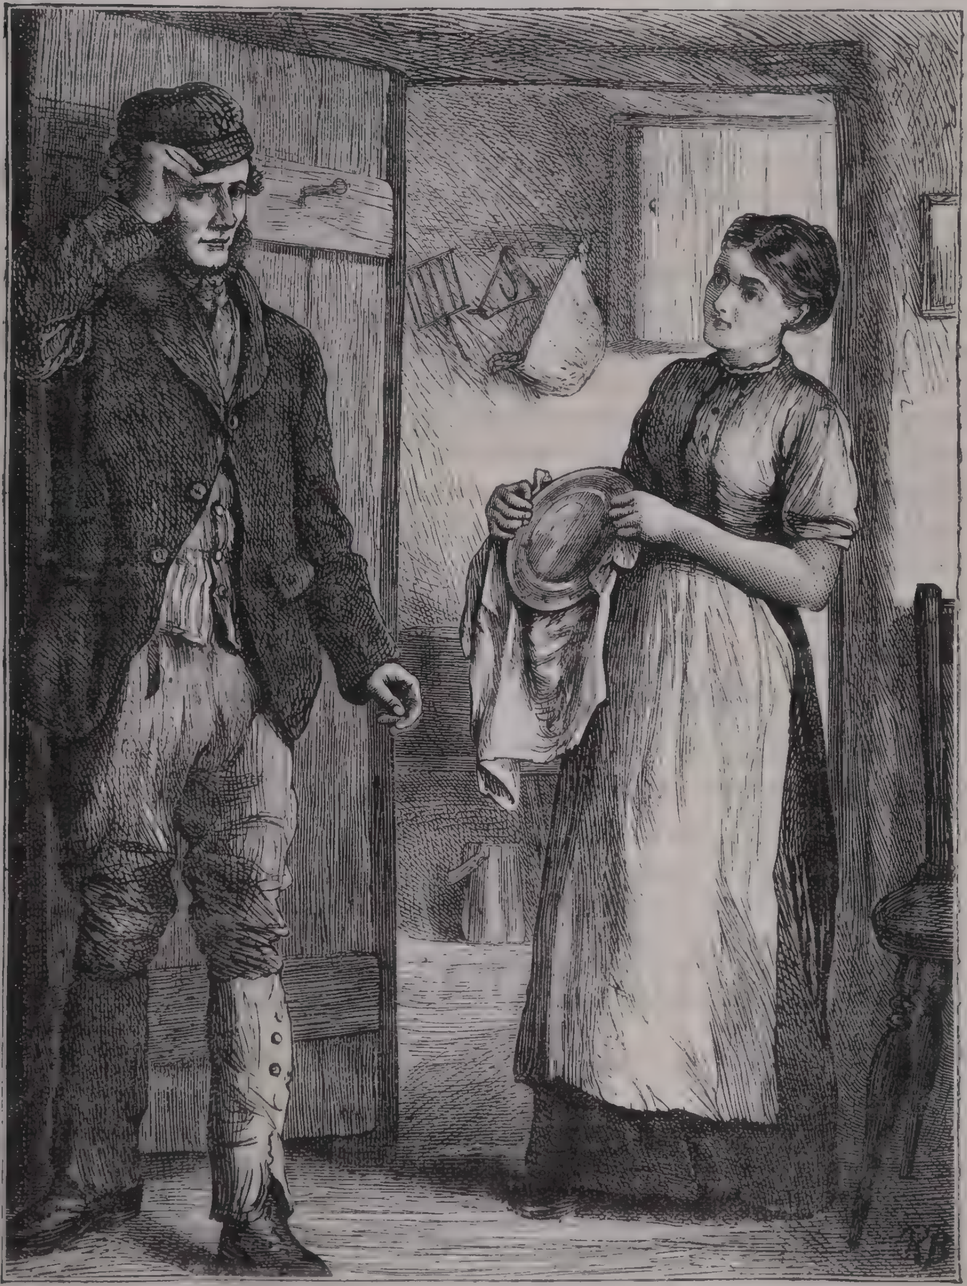
Scale for larger Advertisements sent on application.

☞ To prevent delay, all business letters should be directed to the firm. Private communications should be so marked.

JUST READY. Price 2s. per 100; 18s. 6d. per 1000. WITH FULL-PAGE ILLUSTRATION.

A Four-page Gospel Message specially adapted for wide distribution.

A NEW YEAR'S GIFT.



HARRY'S PINT; or, Threepence a Day.

By Rev. MARK GUY PEARSE.

This Four-Page Illustrated Tract will be found eminently adapted for General Distribution at Mission Halls, in Sabbath Schools, and from House to House, at the close of the Old Year and the beginning of the New.

ASSORTED NUMBERS of the "NEW YEAR'S GIFT" may also be had in Packets of 50, 1s.; or 100, 2s.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster Buildings; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

"NOBODY'S BOYS."

Dear Friends,

An excellent opportunity will be afforded of seeing the inner working of our Home on Tuesday and Wednesday, December 15 and 16, from 12 till 7 each day, when our

ANNUAL SALE OF WORK, &c.,

will be held in the large Schoolroom here. It would greatly cheer us if all friends of our work would make a point of visiting the Home on one of these days. The Boys will be working at their trades, under instruction in school, engaged in the kitchen, &c., as nearly as possible like ordinary days.

We much need further contributions of work, produce, &c. Besides the useful and ornamental articles generally to be found on the stalls, we are particularly anxious for dairy produce, flowers, gift books, and photographs, &c., for an Art stall. Some friends are coming to buy a quantity of clothing for winter gifts to the poor, and we will most thankfully receive any parcels of children's clothing, socks, warm shawls, &c., by which a double good will be effected —the poor warmly clad and our receipts increased.

I do not wish to appear unduly urgent, as I have learnt, by nearly fifteen years' experience of work for Christ amongst the poor, that our gracious Lord can be counted upon to supply in His own way, and at His own time, all that is needed for His work; but I feel I ought to let those who sympathise with home missionary work like ours, know that we are to provide for the daily wants of the 250 waifs and strays whom we have rescued from the gutter and the gaol, and are now seeking to train for God in our Homes.

IN ACTUAL STRAITS

It is especially trying to be hampered thus just as we enter upon our winter's work, when we have so many pitiable cases presented to us day by day. Hitherto, I have gone on helping every really urgent case, but the question forces itself most painfully upon me now—against the shelterless, friendless, famishing street-arab suppliants who crave for our help in the name of Christian pity?

SHALL OUR DOORS BE CLOSED

The smallest contribution will help us to feed some poor boy. If only 2s. 6d. were sent by all who read this appeal, our hearts would be lightened, and our hands strengthened, and the winter of 1885-6 would see (God willing) scores of rescued boys added to the hundreds already saved through our Homes from sin, misery, and crime in this great city.

I am, dear Friends,

Yours faithfully,

J. W. C. Fegan

The Boys' Home,
95, Southwark-street,
London, S.E.

P.S.—Cheques should be crossed "London and County Bank, Southwark;" and Post Office Orders made payable at G.P.O.

Forthcoming Meetings.

EVANGELISTIC.

The Evangelisation Society will send evangelists to any part of England, Scotland, and Wales on due notice. Apply Hon. Sec., 21, Surrey-street, Strand, W.C.

The Irish Evangelisation Society will send evangelists to any part of Ireland on due notice. Apply to Mr. J. Barton, Hon. Sec, Dundalk, Ireland.

The Metropolitan Tabernacle Evangelists' Association will send lay preachers and evangelists to any chapel or hall of any evangelical denomination in London. Apply Hon Sec., 121. Camberwell New road, S.E.

The Children's Evangelistic Mission will send evangelists to any part of Great Britain to conduct missions for children and young people. No charge. Apply T. Eyres, Hon. Sec., 253, Southampton-street, Camberwell, S.E.

The Church Army will send evangelists (working men) to any clergymen on due notice, for short or long missions. Apply Hon. Sec., 36, Southampton-street, Strand, W.C.

Social Purity.—The Gospel Purity Association is prepared to send competent lecturers to address meetings of men or women on the above subject Apply J. B Wookey, General Secretary, 31, Paternoster-square, London, E.C.

Messrs. Fullerton and Smith.—To December 20, Upper Norwood; 31, at 7 and 10 30 p m., Metropolitan Tabernacle; January 9 to 31, Broadmead, Bristol; February 7 to 28, the New Great Assembly Hall, Mile end-road, E. Mr. Fullerton will preach at the Metropolitan Tabernacle on December 27 morning and evening.

Mr. F. E. Marsh.—Brighton, to December 20; Peterhead, N.B., January 1 to 24; Darvel, N.B., February 14 to March 7.

Mr. Gawin Kirkham—December 10, Somers Town; 11, Chelsea; 12 and 13, Margate; 14, Barking; 15, Willesden; 16, Edgware-road; 17, Great Marlow; 26, Norwood; 28, Exeter Hall; 30 and 31, Mildmay-park.

Rev. E. P. Hammond.—Upper Norwood, December 25 to January 1; Camden-road Presbyterian Church, 2 to 8; Kingston-on-Thames, 9 to 22; Mrs. Meredith's Conference Hall, Clapham, 23 to February 5; Finsbury Park Y.M.C.A, 6 to 19; Presbyterian Church, Hampstead, 20 to March 5; Richmond, 6 to 19. In each place commencing with united meeting for prayer and conference with ministers, parents, Sunday-school teachers, and other Christian workers, on the Saturday evenings, at 7.30.

Mr. W. Spencer Walton.—December: Wandsworth, Barnet.

Mr. Henry Thorne.—December 12 to 21, Stratford, London.

Mr. James Neech—To December 18, Swinderby; Carlton-le-Moorland, Lincolnshire, January 3 to 17.

Mr. G. Clarke (The Railway Mission).—To December 23, St. Andrew's Hall, Plymouth.

Mrs. Reaney every Sunday afternoon at Stepney Meeting House.

Mr. J. M. Scroggie.—December and January, N.E. Coast, Banff, Macduff, Portsoy, Buckie, and Fraserburgh.

Mr. Denham Smith.—St George's Hall, Langham-place, W., during December, Sundays, 11 a.m. and 7 p.m.; Burlington Hall, Savile-row, Wednesdays, 8 p.m.

Mr. E. P. Telford.—December 13 to 23, Southend.

Mr. Stevenson A. Blackwood will preach at St. Andrew's Church, Upper Norwood, December 11, 7.30 p.m.

Bow and Bromley Institute, Bow-road, E.—Mr. Evans Hurndall, M.A., Sundays, 8.30 p.m.

Clapton Hall, Upper Clapton.—Mr. J. G. McVicker during December, Sundays, 6.30 p.m.; Fridays, 7.30 p.m.

Hammersmith Baths (near Broadway).—Gospel services, in the Board-room on Sundays during the winter, 7 p.m.

Metropolitan Music Hall, Edgware-road.—Every Sunday in December, Mr. Chas. Cook and Male and United Choirs.

Westminster Chapel, Buckingham Palace-road, S.W.—Mr. Russell Hurditch throughout December, Sundays, at 7 p.m.

Agricultural Hall, Islington, N.—Sunday, December 13, 3.30 p.m., Rev. E. A. Stuart; Mr. G. E. Elvin and a soloist, 7 p.m.

Gospel Purity Association.—Mr. Wookey will preach in Foresters' Music Hall, Cambridge-road, E., on Sundays, December 13 and 27.

Meeting for Germans, Conference Hall, Eccleston-street, Victoria Station, Saturday, December 12, 3.30 p.m., address in German by Dr Ziemann.

Dr. Thain Davidson's Monthly Sermon to Young Men, Islington Presbyterian Church, Colebrooke-row, N., Sunday, December 13, 6.30 p.m.

Children's Special Service Mission.—Mr. Seyler, Walker-street, Bermondsey, December 7 to 11, 7 p.m.; Mr. H. M. Trickett, Stoke-on Trent, December 12 to 15; Mr. Spiers, London, assisting Mr Hammond.

North London Evangelistic Choir.—December 10, Mission Hall, Lennox-road, Finsbury Park; 15 Cambridge-heath Congregational Church, 8 p m; 19, Conference Hall, Mildmay, 7 p.m.; 31, Conference Hall Mildmay, Watch Night Service, 10.30. Christian workers with good voices glady welcomed.

Union Hall Mission (under the direction of Mr. Robert Bilke).—Services on Sunday next, December 13: Union Hall, Carlisle-street, Edgware-road, N.W., Mr. Jas. E. Hawkins (editor of "The Gospel Watchman"), at 7 p.m. Kensal Hall, Kensal-road W, Major Michael, at 7 p.m. Queen's-park Hall, Kilburn-lane, N W., Mr. S. Stidolph, at 7 p.m. Gospel Hall, Green-lane, High-street, Battersea, S.W., Mr W. Lindale, at 7 p m Gospel Hall, Market-place, Brentford, Mr. Walter B. Strutt, at 7 p.m.

Evangelistic Mission (under the direction of Mr. C. Russell Hurditch).—Bignold Hall Bignold-road, Station-road, Forest Gate, Mr Geo. Hucklesby, Sunday, 7 p.m.; Wednesday, 8 p.m, on "Balaam's Seven Parables Dalston-lane 163A—Mr S E. Angel, Sunday at 7 p m.; Mr Geo. Hucklesby, Thursday 8 p.m, on "Balaam's Seven Parables." Hammersmith—Upper Mission Room, 181, King-street Dr. Popham, Thursday, 8 p m; on Sundays, at 7 p m, special services for the young, Messrs. Russell and Brothers, 7 p m. Kilburn Hall, Kilburn Gate (near Town Hall), Mr. W. R. Lane, Sunday, at 7 p.m.; Wednesday, 7 30 p.m. Malden Hall, Kentish Town—Mr. Abraham Wallis Sunday, at 7 p m.: Thursday, 1 p.m. Mortlake, Rest Mission Hall—Mr R Calder, Sunday 7 p.m St. John's Wood N.W., 190, Alexandra-road—Weekly workers' meeting, Wednesday, 10.30 a.m. West Kensington Hall (known as Cadby Hall), Hammersmith-road, West Kensington—Mr. C. V. T. Onslow and Dr. Popham, Sunday, at 3 and 7 p.m.

Religious Services for the People.—Sunday services at Pavilion Theatre, Whitechapel-road, 7 p.m; Town Hall, Shoreditch, 3.30; Town Hall, Holborn 3 30 and 7; Town Hall, Bermondsey, 3 30 and 7; Town Hall, Kensington, 7; St. James's Hall, Regent-street, 3.30 and 7; Temple of Varieties, Hammersmith, 3.30 and 7; Croydon Theatre, 7; Good Duke Humphrey Hall, Greenwich, 3.30 and 7; Alexandra Temperance Hall, Southwark-park-road, 6.30; Park Hall, Camden Town, 3.30 and 7; Morley Hall, Hackney, 7 Evangelical Hall, High-street, Homerton, 7.

◆

MISCELLANEOUS.

City of London Central Noon Prayer Meeting, 186, Aldersgate-street.—Daily, 12 to 1.

Holiness Meeting, at 39, Park-lane-terrace, Albion-road, Mildmay-park Station, every Monday, 7.30 p m.

Upper Norwood, Stafford House, Tudor-road.—Drawing-room meetings every Thursday, at 3 and 8 p.m.

Merchants' Lecture, Finsbury Chapel, Moorfields, City.—Dr. Allon, Tuesday, December 15, 12 noon.

Conference Hall, Clapham-road, S.W.—December 19, mothers' sale, 6 to 8 p m., admission by ticket only.

Rev. J. Wilkinson's Bible-readings in Ezekiel every Wednesday evening, at 7 30, in the Ladies' Waiting-room, Conference Hall, Mildmay, N.

Miss Mittendorff's Annual Meeting, Tuesday, December 15, at the Y.W.C.A, 17, Old Cavendish-street, Cavendish-square, W., 7.30 p m.

Church Army.—Consecration service, every Friday, in Brunswick Chapel, Upper Berkeley-street, at 8 p m, Rev. F. S. Webster and Rev. E. W. Moore.

Deepening of Spiritual Life—Meetings at Stafford Rooms, Titchborne-street, Edgware-road, Friday, December 11, 3 30 p.m., address by Rev. E. H. Hopkins; 18, Rev. C. A. Fox.

House of Rest, 8, Cambridge-gardens, Kilburn, N.W.—Friday, December 11, at 7 p.m., "Holiness," by Miss Mason; tea at 6. Sunday, 13, at 3.30 p.m., "God's Men in the Old Testament," by Miss Mason.

Colonel Puget will commence, on Wednesday, December 9, at 8 p m., "Expositions on the Gospel of St. John," at Board Schools, Walton-street, Cadogan-square, S.W., to be continued every Wednesday.

3, Highbury-place, N.—Each Tuesday, 6.30 p.m, at Rev. W. E. Boardman's, a meeting held for advancement in spiritual life. On Thursday, at 11 a.m., Mrs. Boardman's Bible-class for ladies at same place.

Commercial Travellers' Christian Association.—Thirteenth annual meeting, Cannon-street Hotel, December 29, 6.30 p m., Mr George Williams (president) in the chair Devotional meeting, 4 p.m., speaker, Rev. H. Webb-Peploe.

Home of Industry, 60, Commercial-street, Spitalfields, E.—Monthly meeting for Christian workers, Wednesday, December 16, tea at 6, meeting at 7. Dr. McKilliam will give the address, "The Cherubim of Glory, expressive of our Future State" Mr F Auvache (visitor to our children in Canada), who is shortly sailing for India as a missionary, will be present to say farewell.

◆

Y.M.C. ASSOCIATIONS.

61, Gracechurch-street.—Daily prayer meeting, 1.30 to 2.15 p.m. (Sat. excepted). Bible study, Tuesdays, 6.15 p.m. Workers, Mondays, 6 30 p.m. Youths, Wednesdays, 7 p m. Soldiers Fridays, 7 p.m. Mission work in poor districts each evening, 8 p.m.

Exeter Hall.—Bible lecture on "Fruits of Divine Indwelling," by Rev. Evan Hopkins, Thursday, December 17, 8 p.m. Special mission to young men, conducted by Rev. Dr. Morris, the first week in the New Year, beginning January 3.

186, Aldersgate-street.—Thursday, at 8 p m, lecture by Dr. Anderson on "Foundation Truths, illustrated by Old Testament Types"; Monday, 8 p m., "A Month's Cruise with the North Sea Fishing Fleet," by Mr. C. Stansfeld-Hicks (open to all); Tuesday, 8 p.m., "Hindrances to Power," by Rev. J. L. Topping (men only).

The Priory, 186, Upper-street, Islington, N.—Thursday, December 10, 8.30 p.m., address, by Rev. John Evans; Sunday, 13, 3 15 p.m., Bible class, Luke v. 18—26; Wednesday, 6 to 10, anxious inquirers and strangers.

Shaftesbury House, Margate.—Noon-day prayer meeting, daily, to which all friends visiting the town are invited.

17, Camden-road, N W.—Thursday, December 10, 8.30 p.m., address to young men by Rev. Marcus Rainsford.

Conference Hall, Stratford.—Sunday December 13 to 20, mission by Mr H Thorne, of Exeter Hall. Sunday, 3 and 7 p.m.; week-day meetings: 12 noon, prayer meeting; 3 p m., Bible-reading; 7.30 p.m., Gospel service.

◆

Notices.

Communications Received with Thanks.—W H.W. T.H W. J C.H H. W.D. A.A.G. S.W. A.J.W. J.T. F.H.H. A.W.W. A.C.J. F.R J.B. W.H.B. A.J.B H.R J.T. A.H. S.R G.D.C. W.W.B. T.C. J.E E.B.H. J.N.G. E.J.K. W.H A.R. E.H. D.R M.B J.B A.J.D. F.A.R. J.S.M. E.P. W.G C.H.B E.D.A. G.H.B A.G.W. F.J.S. T.S. M.G. C.F.V. W.O. S.M.E Gray. M.M.S. C.L. J.R.M E.L.R. G.W. R.U. M.J.H Q.S. F.M. H.A R.D.F. K.Y.W. S.M. R.H.W. M.J.M. J.S.T. J.E.W J. A.M. W.Y.F. A.F.P. H.S. R.D.T. E.F. S.J. J.A.G C.M M.S M.G. M.A.S. W.W. J.S. F.T.H. C.P. G.S. W.H.J. J.M. W.G. H.H.E. C.W. A.M.C. F.J.S. English Mother. G.H.J. C.B. M.L. M.R. C.R. A Friend. Mrs. L M.McC G.F. E.P A.L.O. H.S. J.J. W.F. F.P. D.C. J.O. J.A.O'C. E.C.T. M.F. W.N. M.C. E.J. C.E.C. E.M.R. N.P. J.A. E.J.F. J.C. G.H.F. H.W. M.C.

Applicants for Tracts.—Theo. Schreiner, Kimberley, South Africa; H. Bartlett, 53, Smith-street, Stepney, E.; Miss Strout, Sea View Cottage, Port Isaac; J P. Baker, Temperance Hotel, Camelford; A Powell, 97, High-street, Deptford, S.E.; J W Coleman, Clarence House, Tewkesbury; Miss Martha Hanson, 153, Great Homes-street, Liverpool; Mrs Oliver 25, William Moult-street, Kirkdale, Liverpool; Miss Anne Weston, Westley, near Tetbury, Gloucestershire; F. Ruddle, 28, Crozier-street, Lambeth; Mrs. S. E. Whitburn, Waterside, Devoran Cornwall; J Jackson, Willoughby, near Alford, Lincolnshire; Rev. W. L. Brimmeth, Herbert-street, Hemel Hempstead, Herts; W. Young, 25, Albert street, Grantham, Lincolnshire.

[As it is found that infidels and others send tracts to the persons whose names are inserted here, it is most important that all books and papers received should be carefully read before being given away.]

Subscriptions received by Messrs. Morgan & Scott to Saturday Morning, December 5, 1885.

◆

 Donations should be sent by Cheque or P.O. Orders, not by stamps. Cheques to be drawn in favour of Morgan and Scott, and crossed City Bank; P.O. Orders payable to Morgan and Scott, at G.P.O.

◆

	£	s.	d.
Dr. Barnardo's Homes—E. C. £2; M. H. 12s. 6d.; S. A. L. T. £2; J. R. C £1; M G. G. 10s.; M. V. £2; M B. 5s.; Keturah, 10s.; (Injured Children) S. A £2; (Rescue Little Girls) M. H. £1; M. A. K. 10s.	12	7	6
Gray's-yard Casuals (Rev. Denham Smith)—C T. £2 2s.; L. H. 10s.; Inasmuch, £2; S. A. L. T. £1; D M. £5; L. M. £3; Mrs. C. £2; A Lady, £1; F F. £2; E. M. and E. P. £2; R B. J. £2; A. E. W. 2s 6d.; R. and J. C 2s; Leam. 10s.; J. S. 5s.; H. A. T. £1; G. W. P. £1; Lady B. £2; E. S £1; F. G. 5s.; M. £5; Mrs D. £1; Lady G. £2	36	16	6
London City Mission—G. C. B	5	0	0
Mr. Fegan's Boys' Home—Perthshire, 1s.; S. A. L. T. £2; J. R. C. £1; Mrs. P. 1 s.; C. P., Clifton, 10s.; V. W. 10s.; M G G. 5s.; M B. 5s.	5	1	0
Mr. A. Dyer's Derby Election Expenses—Miss H. T. £5; E. C. £5; M. £5...	15	0	0
Stead, &c., Defence Fund—E. C. £5; Mrs. L. 5s.; small sums, 5s.; G. L. 5s.; A L. 2s. 6d.; R. B J. £3; Z. 5s.; W. N. 10s.; Walthamstow, 1s; E. J. B. 5s.; Young Women's Bible Class, Dalkeith, 5s.; Mrs. R., Worthing, 10s.; L. W. L. 2s.; Two Sisters, 4s 6d.; Mrs J. 3s. 2d.	11	3	2
St. Giles' Christian Mission—M. H. 10s; (Prison Mission) E. C. £5; M B 5s.	5	15	0
Testimonial to Mr. G. Smith, Coalville—E. C.	5	0	0
Friendless and Fallen—E. C. £2; T. A. F. L. £5; Gloucester, £1; S. B 5s	8	5	0
Sick Children's Dinners—E. C...	1	0	0
St. Bride's Youths' Institute, Shoe-lane—E. C.	2	0	0
Homes for Working Girls—E. C.	1	0	0
Miss Cole's Orphan Homes—E. C.	2	0	0
Miss Weston's Work in Royal Navy—M. H.	0	10	0
Strangers' Rest, 165, St. George's-street—M. H. 5s.; M. S. R., Edin. £1	1	5	0
Mrs. Hilton's Crèche and Orphan Home—Corporal W. A. 2s. 6d; S. S. 10s.	0	12	6
Miss E. Hopkins' Work—T. A. F. L.	1	0	0
Mission to the Kabyles (Berber Races)—T. A. F. L.	1	0	0
Destitute Children's Dinner Society—T. A. F. L.	0	10	6
British Society for the Propagation of the Gospel among the Jews—S. L	0	10	0
Rev J C Whitmore's Work, Kentish Town—J. R. C.	1	0	0
Miss Mason's House of Rest—J. R. C.	1	0	0
Working Lads' Institute (Mr. H. Hill)—J. W. and K. A.	3	0	0
Poor Clergymen's Society—J. W. and K. A.	6	0	0
Madeira Sailors' Rest (Mr. Smart)—J. W. and K. A.	2	0	0
Church Association—J. W. and K. A.	3	0	0
"Chichester" and "Arethusa" Training Ships—J. W. and K. A	5	0	0
Army Scripture Readers' Society—J. W and K. A.	3	0	0
Bridge of Hope, Ratcliff—J. W. and K. A. £4; Leam, £1	5	0	0
Sailors' Welcome Home, Cardiff—J. W. and K. A.	3	0	0
Christmas Letter Mission—J. W. and K. A.	3	0	0
Missionary Training College, Puerto St. Maria—J. W. and K. A.	4	0	0
Destitution in Foula Isle—J. W. and K. A.	2	0	0
Work at Chiswick (Mr. R. T. Smith)—J. W. and K. A.	2	0	0
Theatrical Mission—Mrs B.	0	5	0
Miss De Broen's Work—Mrs. J. £2; (Belleville Mission) Mrs. H. 10s.	2	10	0
Dock Labourers' Mission—Two Young Ladies, 5s.; (Christmas Dinners for the Poor) G. W. B. 10s.	0	15	0
North-East London Gospel Mission—G. W. P.	1	0	0
Gospel Work in Dublin (Rev. H. Fiske)—C. P., Clifton	0	2	6
Rev. R. W. McAll's Work, Paris—H. G M.	2	0	0
Church Missionary Society—Mrs. A. W. £2 10s.; C. L. M T £1..	3	10	0
Cholera Patients in Spain Fund—Bristoliensis	0	2	6
China Inland Mission—Bristoliensis, 2s. 6d.; V. W. £1 10s.; Tenots £2	3	12	6
Miss Sharman's Orphans' Home—M. G G...	0	5	0
Home of Industry—(Poor Widows) M V.	1	0	0
Cow Cross Mission—(Dinners to Poor Children) M. V. £1; M. B. 5s.	1	5	0
Night Shelter for Homeless Men—M. V.	1	0	0
Gordon Memorial Boys' Camp—S. A.	2	0	0
Working Men's Mission, Collingwood-street—S. A.	2	0	0
Methodist Free Church Mission, John-street, Edgware-road—M S...	5	5	0
Gray's-yard Ragged Church and Schools—M. S. R., Edin.	4	0	0
CHRISTIAN Tract Fund—Miss D.	0	1	7
Deptford Ragged Schools—S. B.	0	5	0
Midnight Meeting Movement—S. B...	0	5	0
Rescue Society—S B	0	5	0
Mission to Deep Sea Fishermen—F. A. V. 10s.; Miss B M P. eight pairs of cuffs	0	10	0
Bristol Orphan Houses—C. L. M. T.	1	0	0
Pastor Chiniquy's Loss by Fire—Two Sincere Sympathisers	0	4	6
Mrs. Meredith's Washing Mission—Keturah	0	15	0
Moravian Missions, London Association—Keturah	1	1	0
London Medical Mission—Keturah	1	1	0
Miss Mittendorff's Home—Keturah	1	1	0
Homes of Hope, Regent's-square—Keturah	1	1	0
Dublin Prison-gate Mission—Keturah	2	2	0
Miss Whately's Schools, Cairo—Keturah	1	1	0
Hospital for Paralysed and Epileptic—Keturah	0	10	6
Ladies' Samaritan Society for Paralysed and Epileptic—Keturah	0	10	6
Bloomsbury Refuges—Keturah	1	1	0
Miss Leigh's Work, Paris—Mrs. J...	2	0	0
	£204	3	9

◆

[Advertisements.]

Bridge of Hope—L. W. Phillips, Esq. 10s.

Sailors' Welcome Home—Mrs. A. B. P. 10s.

Bethnal Green Free Library, E.—Miss E. P. N., Chislehurst, 5s.

Home for Girls, Uxbridge (Mrs. A. R. Grimsdale)—Anonymous, Gloucester, £1.

The "Casuals," Gray's-yard—Rev. Denham Smith begs to acknowledge the following sums received in response to the appeal in THE CHRISTIAN: The Misses Lovell, £3; Mr. G. Smith, £2 2s.; Mrs Boldero, £5; Miss Florentine Read, 5s; Mr. G. W. Pitters, £1; Mrs. Moore and circle, £3 10s.

HELP WANTED FOR THE ANNUAL SALE

ON BEHALF OF

Dr. Barnardo's Homes for Destitute Children,

Now Sheltering, Educating, and Training over 1,400 Poor Boys and Girls.

Will all who are preparing gifts for the Annual Sale on behalf of the Homes

KINDLY SEND THEM IN AT ONCE,

for as yet but very little has been received? Will those whose busy fingers are at work for the Sale, remember that shirts for boys and men, suits for little boys, aprons and pinafores for girls, and sets of baby-clothing, are particularly valuable additions, being much asked for and readily sold? Well-made woollen shawls are frequently asked for, and, indeed, women's garments of all kinds would be especially useful. Of course, besides these, jewellery, old coins, old china, curios, musical instruments, and fancy work, trinkets, articles of vertu, books, drawings, bric-a-brac, and other examples of the thousand-and-one tasteful ornaments which are sought for by purchasers, will be very gratefully received and acknowledged.

The SALE will this year be of the SAME CHARACTER as LAST YEAR, that is to say,

Instead of holding a Public Bazaar at the West End during the month of December, as formerly, all the Goods received will be made up into

£5 and £10 Boxes. These Boxes will each contain a very excellent selection of at least the value of £6 and £12 respectively, and will be sent on receipt of P.O. Order or Cheque to any part of the country.

Ladies ordering these Boxes confer a great benefit on the "Homes;" for by this easy method all the articles receive may be disposed of without any loss in the way of such expenses as are usually incurred by holding a Bazaa at the West End of London.

Many kind-hearted sympathisers have repeatedly expressed warm approval of this plan, and promised to purchase boxe with the contents of which they propose to hold in their own houses, to which their personal friends can be invited during the present season.

SMALL LOCAL BAZAARS

If there be many articles left over unsold, they can be disposed of in the last week of January (D.V.), in th New Hall of the "Edinboro' Castle."

Dr. Barnardo earnestly invites all who love poor children, to co-operate with him in this new plan to increase th funds of the "Homes," by which, too, all the wearying, disappointing, and expensive drawbacks of a publi Bazaar may be avoided.

The Boxes, carefully lined and packed, will be ready for transmission on the 10th of December, and can be despatche on receipt of order to any railway station in the Kingdom. Applications (Prepaid), with full instruction as to conveyance, &c., should be sent in as soon as possible, addressed to

The TRADE MANAGER,
18, Stepney Causeway, London, E.

To all who have already in any degree helped by Contributions of Useful or Fancy Articles, Dr. Barnardo desires to offe the expression of his very grateful acknowledgments.

18 to 26, Stepney Causeway, London, E.

Christian Literature
IN THE Mission Field.

AMONG the most potent Influences exerted at the present time in the Mission Fields of the World must be counted that of the CHRISTIAN PRESS.

In addition to their ordinary work, many Missionaries have earnestly devoted their energies towards the production of a Literature, the power of which is already telling in a wonderful manner.

The Religious Tract Society

FOUNDED 86 YEARS AGO

has borne a large share of the work. That which has been done is, however, very little compared with the necessities of the work. As converts increase and Missions extend, books, Christian in tone, and tracts full of GOSPEL TRUTH must be provided.

The Rev. W. R. Blackett (C.M.S.), of Calcutta, recently said at one of the Society's Meetings:—

> "The diffusion of a wholesome literature in India depends on you; we appeal to you therefore most heartily and earnestly to increase the amount of your work for the millions of readers."

A Native Pastor in India wrote:—

> "My belief is, that these leaflets are like the white ants that gradually but completely destroy a gigantic rotten tree in this country. Silently, and unnoticed by us, heathenism, in its diversified forms of observance, is being eaten up and demolished by the precious and powerful influence of the true bread of life."

The late Rt. Hon. the Earl of Shaftesbury's opinion:—

> "I never hear of the Society's operations, and see what it is doing, without giving humble and hearty thanks to Almighty God that it was ever called into existence, and that it has so nobly discharged its duty. . . . . I am astonished at its operations, and at the way in which the Society seems TO LOOK OUT FOR EVERY POINT at which aggressive work can be carried on."

⁂ The Committee specially invite the young to become Collectors for the Society, asking them to remember how great their advantages are as regards literature, and how few are the advantages in other lands.

The Religious Tract Society.

56, PATERNOSTER ROW, AND 164, PICCADILLY, LONDON.

THE SOCIETY'S MISSIONARY WORK

Is carried on in ONE HUNDRED AND SEVENTY-FOUR different Languages.

HELP is given to the Church Missionary Society; London Missionary Society; Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts; Baptist Missionary Society; Wesleyan Missionary Society; China Inland Mission; the Presbyterian Missionary Societies; Paris Evangelical Missions; Gossner Missionary Society; Basle Missionary Society; American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions; Rhenish Missionary Society; and numerous others.

In Roman Catholic countries it is still necessary to expend considerable sums, until the time arrives, when the revived zeal of the Protestant Churches in these countries shall prepare them to take their full share in the spread of the pure Gospel by the press.

M. le Pasteur DARDIER, of the Geneva Evangelical Society, says:—"Brethren of the Religious Tract Society,—We have worked together for many a long year in sowing good seed in the soil of France. To-day the Lord permits us to rejoice, showing us in many places a ripening harvest. We must now, more than ever, remain closely united. We reckon on your help, and we look to the Lord."

Pasteur F. GALLAND, Anduze:—"Your Society does an immense work for the advancement of the Kingdom of God on the earth."

The Society a "Unique one."

Through the Method adopted a small sum of money often goes a long way. None of the amounts given to the Parent Society are deducted for Working expenses, which are met ENTIRELY out of the Trade Funds.

FRANCIS PEEK, Esq., Chairman at the last Meeting, in giving his view of what the Society really is, and of the claims it has to the support both of the nation and of the Church said:

"You have heard that its funds have fallen off; and it has certainly been a matter of wonder to me to see other societies, which I believe are not doing half the work that this one is doing, receiving large legacies and large subscriptions, while this Society, a unique one in its way, one which has no rival in the work it undertakes, is passed by. . . . It is a unique Society; there is nothing else that could take its place; and if it were done away with it would leave a frightful gap. I don't know how we should be able to go on without it."

So far from the Committee being able to meet the growing needs of the work, they are constantly compelled to refuse grants in aid of much needed extension.

They have confidence in making an EARNEST NEW YEAR'S APPEAL for a large number of new subscribers, which is the most permanent form of help.

Subscriptions, Donations, and other Contributions may be sent to the Secretaries, Rev. LEWIS BORRETT WHITE, D.D.

Rev. SAMUEL G. GREEN, D.D.

The Religious Tract Society.

56, PATERNOSTER ROW, AND 164, PICCADILLY, LONDON.

LIST OF 174 LANGUAGES AND DIALECTS

In which the Society has carried on its Operations. Arranged in the order in which the Countries are mentioned in the Report.

English
Welsh
Gaelic
Irish, Native
Irish, Roman
Manx
French
Breton
French-Basque
Flemish
Upper Enghadine
Romanz
Italian
Latin
Maltese
Spanish
Spanish-Basque
Judæo-Spanish
Portuguese

◆

German
Ditto, Low
Dutch
Icelandic
Swedish
Danish
Norwegian
Lapponese
Kvæner
Hungarian or Magyar
Slavonian
Upper Wendish
Lower Wendish
Bohemian or Czech
Russian
Ditto, Wendish
Dorpat-Esthonian
Reval-Esthonian
Lettish, or Livonian
Ostjak
Finnish
Ruthenian
Polish
Lithuanian
Samogitian Greek, Modern
Ditto, Ancient
Servian
Croatian
Romanian
Wallo-Gipsy
Bulgarian
Tosk-Albanian
Gheg-Albanian

◆

Turkish-Tartar, or Karass
Turkish
Greco-Turkish
Armeno-Turkish
Georgian
Turkish, Azerbijan dialect
Samojede
Hebrew
Arabic
Syriac, or Aramaic
Sanskrit
Kashmiri
Punjabi, or Sikh
Leptcha
Urdú, or Hindustani
Urdú, Roman characters
Ditto, Persian
Bengali
Ditto, Roman characters
Mussulmani-Bengali
Hindui, or Hindi
Ditto, Nagri
Ditto, Kaithi
Assamese
Shyan
Nagas
Khassi
Oriya, or Orissa
Tirhutiya, or Mithili
Mandari
Manwari
Santali
Sindhi
Marathi-Balbodh
Marathi-Modhi
Gujarati
Parsi-Gujarati
Tamil
Canarese
Telugu, or Telinga
Malayalim
Tulu
Pali, Burmese characters
Singhalese
Indo-Portuguese
Persian
Pushto, or Afghan
Malay, Roman characters
Ditto, Arabic ditto
Sœrabayan, or Low Malay
Javanese
Dajak, Maanjan
Ditto, Ngadju
Batta, Toba dialect
Ditto, Mandailing
Bugis
Madurese
Burmese
Sgau-Karen
Pwo-Karen
Peguese
Taleing
Cambojan
Siamese
Laos
Anam, or Cochin Chinese
Loo-Chuan
Chinese, classical
Mandarin Chinese
Shanghae Colloquial
Ningpo Colloquial (Romanised)
Foochow Colloquial (Native characters)
Amoy Colloquial (Romanised)
Hoklo Colloquial (Native characters)
Swatow Colloquial (Native characters)
Hakka Colloquial (Romanised)
Punti, or Canton Colloquial (Native characters)
Corean
Mongolian
Buriat, or Northern Mongolian
Calmuc, or Western Mongolian
Japanese

◆

Amharac
Ethiopic
Coptic
Dualla
Galla
Ga, or Akra
Tschi, Otji, or Tui
Fanti
Nupé
Igbiru, or Ibo
Otyihereró
Kongo
Yoruba
Grebo
Isubu
Efik
Sechuana
Sesuto
Kinyka
Kafir
Zulu
Malagasy

◆

Greenlandish
Esquimaux
Cree
Ojibbeway, or Chippeway
Micmac
Mohawk
Takudh
Fijian
Hawaian
Tahitian
Rarotongan
Tongan
Samoan
Nieuan
Maori
Mosquito
Karif, or Carib

SUMMARY OF OPERATIONS.

The Year's Circulation from the London Depository	70,966,650
Total Annual Circulation, including the Issues of Foreign Societies, about	85,966,650
Total Circulation in 86 years, about	2,368,277,880
Languages and Dialects in which the Society has published ...	174
New Publications during the Year	737
Number of Publications issued in 86 years, about	18,401
Publications at present on Society's Catalogue, about	10,000

LIBRARIES.

Nearly 40,000 Libraries have been granted since 1832, at reduced prices, exclusive of those sent to foreign lands, the reduced prices gratuitously voted being £166,119, namely:

For Sunday and Day Schools	20,707
For Districts and Parochial Objects	12,379
Ministers, Students, National, British, and other Teachers	2,331
For Union Poor-houses	650
Lunatic Asylums, Hospitals, and Prisons	836
Miscellaneous...	2,445

Subscriptions, Donations, and other Contributions may be sent to the Secretaries, Rev. LEWIS BORRETT WHITE, D.D.

Rev. SAMUEL G. GREEN, D.D.

FOUNDED IN 1799.

Tract Society Facts.

THE RELIGIOUS TRACT SOCIETY proclaims the Gospel of the Grace of God in 174 languages. It was founded 86 years ago with the object of spreading the news of God's love at Home and in Foreign lands.

It is supported by, and aids Christians of all Evangelical Denominations. Circulated nearly 86 millions of publications last year.

Does not expend one shilling of its subscriptions or donations on management or other expenses.

Uses all its Missionary Funds for the object for which they are subscribed, but pays all its expenses out of Trade Funds.

Has aided in printing the Pilgrim's Progress in 70 languages.

Has published its New Testament Commentary in nine languages—Chinese, Arabic, Syriac, Mahrati, Bengali, Canarese, Urdu, Singhalese.

Distributes packets of healthy interesting literature to almost all the Emigrants leaving the ports of the United Kingdom.

Provides for a very large distribution of Books and Tracts for sailors of all nationalities.

Has issued nearly forty thousand libraries, varying from 25 to 500 volumes, since 1832, either at very reduced rates, or for very poor districts free.

Helps all the great Missionary Societies in their work of providing Gospel literature in their fields of work.

Maintains in all its publications a testimony to Evangelical Truth.

A subscription of 10s. 6d. or upwards constitutes membership in the Society; a sum of £10 10s. constitutes Life-membership. All subscribers receive copies of the new tracts and other small publications.

◆

Subscriptions may be sent to the Secretaries, REV. LEWIS BORRETT WHITE, D.D., and REV. S. G. GREEN, D.D., 56, Paternoster Row, London, E.C. Cheques should be crossed, and made payable in the name of Mr. Joseph Tarn, Cashier.

ST. GILES' CHRISTIAN MISSION.

CHRISTMAS SERVICE AMONGST LOST MEN AND LADS

BY PEARL FISHER.

THROUGH all the Christmas season when most of us are intent only on pleasant re-unions and social pleasures, the St. Giles' Christian Mission to Discharged Prisoners is busy at its chosen service seeking to win fallen men from ways of sin and folly to paths of honesty and wisdom. Few, it may be, think of the weary despairing ones who, morning by morning, are released from the various Metropolitan Prisons, Coldbath Fields, Pentonville, Holloway, and Wandsworth; yet with many of these men a whole future for weal or woe hangs upon the decision of the first few hours of freedom. They have sinned, but they have paid law's penalty. Are they now to be left to sink deeper and deeper in crime and ill-doing? Or, are they to be rescued, as they may be if some friendly hand be outstretched to guide them in better paths?

THE PRACTICAL QUESTION.

HERE then lies a very practical question; a question for the servants of Him who came to seek to save the lost; and a question, too, for every lover of his country; a question which must be met and answered after a practical fashion. As the man who has broken the law steps forth from his prison, he finds awaiting him, old comrades in crime. These have no intention he should escape their toils, they are prompt to endeavour to snare him afresh. Probably in his enforced retirement he has learned to look at things in a different light. Said one such the other day: "Till I wur in quod, I ne'er "took no heed; I ne'er thought of right or "wrong of it, I ne'er had a Bible in my hand since "I wur born till then." In such case the man may be eager to turn over a new leaf; but where shall he find strength in the hour of temptation? How shall he endure the long weary waiting till work be found? And who will employ a convicted thief?

But as he passes forth a friendly hand is laid upon his shoulder, a friendly voice urges him to step across the way to the Mission Room. There he hears good and sound words of counsel, there also he receives the offer of help in obtaining employment. Best of all he hears there is mercy even for him, and he learns that One stands ready to pardon and to save. Coming at such a juncture, reaching him just when he is inclined to attend, touching him in a practical and tangible way, what marvel if he be led to listen to his own eternal profit as well as social reformation?

A LIVING WITNESS.

THE case is no hypothetical one; it is a simple and true story, repeated over and over again in the records of the St. Giles' Christian Mission to Discharged Prisoners. But the other day I met in a little Mission Hall, a man now acting as caretaker thereof, throwing himself heartily and earnestly into the work, helping in every way he finds opportunity, having great influence with the children, as well as with the rough men of the district; and indeed a true and useful helper. Yet that man has been five times convicted, receiving on the last occasion seven years' penal servitude. On his discharge he was got hold of by Mr. Wheatley; so far as man may judge (and his subsequent life has confirmed the judgment) he truly and really accepted the Saviour and thus became a new creature in Christ Jesus. Now he is seeking to serve and honour Him he so long depised and dishonoured. The annals of the Mission teem with such stories of grace, trophies of redeeming love, brands plucked from the burning.

SAVING THE LADS.

HERE, however, I am anxious to call special attention to a very beautiful and touching phase of the Mission's work; a preventive service which has already proved wonderfully fruitful in the best results. I refer to the lads; and it is pitiable to find how many mere boys get into prison from various causes. Left to himself, a lad who has been once in prison is apt to sink into the common rut of crime; laid hold of at the right moment by those who know how to go about it, he may be saved just in time. Saved from a life of shame and sin, saved from breaking a mother's heart, saved from adding one more to the company of those who live by their wits.

One very common form of boyish crime is "smashing," i.e. passing bad coin. Very generally the first or second offence is innocently committed. A bright, honest-looking boy is entrapped by the hardened rascals who thrive by the nefarious trade—and it is a regular trade. They know well enough the value of a fair honest face in the trickery. Getting hold of such they ask him to change a florin or a half-crown, or to purchase some trifling article therewith. The coiner keeps well out of sight, and if the dupe is caught the tempter vanishes. If the boy is successful he is rewarded with a copper, and asked to try again. By-and-by it dawns upon him what he is doing, but his protests are met by the cool rejoinder that he has committed himself and may as well go through with it.

Instances of this kind come frequently before the Common Serjeant, Sir W. T. Charley, Q.C., who knowing well the true state of the case, sends for Mr. Wheatley and arranges the boy should be lightly punished and handed over to the care of the Mission to be sent away out of reach of his tempters—who are ever on the alert to secure those they have found useful. Thus the young victim is rescued from the clutches of his would-be destroyers, and placed in a position to recover himself by steady and honest labour.

RESCUED IN TIME.

FROM many such cases I select one by way of illustration. G. L. was the son of a very respectable tradesman. He was seduced, in the way I have described, by a gang of coiners, and set to pass counterfeit coin. The gang were captured, his associates and tempters were convicted; but on clear evidence of his betrayal and previous good character, he was handed over to the Mission. At his own request he was sent abroad, where he has done well. He has since been home on a visit, and returned to his adopted country. His parents are deeply thankful for the assistance given in saving their boy.

THE COINER'S VICTIM.

THE following conversation noted in the Interviewing Room at the Brooke Street Home will illustrate better than words of mine this feature of the work:—

"Can you send me to sea?"

"Why do you want to go to sea?"

"I've no chance here. I've had a narrow squeak this morning. I've been discharged at Guildhall, on a technical plea, but I was guilty, sir; I am ashamed to say, I was."

I believe this is one of the first guilty prisoners I have met with in my wanderings. One and all with unanimous voice declare that though they have done wrong on other occasions, on this particular occasion they are innocent. However, we have here at length a guilty and seemingly repentant one. He had been charged with uttering counterfeit coin.

"Who gave you the coin?"

"Old——on the Dials."

"I know him, he means the ruin of you."

"That he does, sir, and he's been the ruination of dozens of lads. Two boys were up at the last Sessions through him."

"You want to go to sea, then?"

"Yes: it's no use trying here. I meant to do right last time, but they got hold of me again."

Commending his decision, the Secretary said, "When will you go?"

"To-morrow morning, if you please, sir."

"Very well, come here in the morning and we will be ready for you."

RESCUED LADS.

LET me now give two or three other cases dealt with, to illustrate the various ways in which boys fall into crime, and in which they have been rescued by the Mission; saving them, undoubtedly, from a life-long course of crime.

F. C. a boy who joined others in breaking and entering unlawfully. His father was a painter, a decent working man, who had been many years in one situation. The lad, it appeared, was silly enough to be led away by older companions, and this after he had worked honestly for eighteen months. No one was more surprised than his employer when he heard of the charge. The judge when the facts were put before him was very reluctant to send the boy to prison, knowing well the inevitable result; the employer was persuaded to take the boy back again and give him another trial. Thus the Mission was successful in pleading with judge and master. His parents, of course, gladly received him home again. It is satisfactory to know he is now doing well.

BAD COMPANIONS.

ONE more case from the lad's branch is that of F. M. K., age 17, whose mother, a most respectable woman, came to Mr. Wheatley in great trouble about her son, who stayed out at night with bad companions. Shortly afterwards she returned to say he had been arrested and sent to Coldbath Fields for six weeks, having stolen a small sum of money from his employer. On his discharge an outfit was provided, and he was sent to sea. Recently, after a voyage, he called at the office, nicely dressed and looking well, declaring he would not leave the sea on any account. He has signed the temperance pledge, but best of all, he has found the Saviour. He, with his mother, was deeply grateful for the help afforded in saving him from a life of crime. A letter just to hand also expresses his warm gratitude for his rescue.

WRITES TO MR. SPURGEON.

IN another case, a most respectable lad, whose parents are well-to-do, had been sent to prison for two years for passing bad coin. On his discharge he wrote to Mr. C. H. Spurgeon, asking help and guidance in trying to do right. Mr. Spurgeon passed on the letter to the St. Giles' Mission, which took up the case. The lad was helped, a situation found him, to learn a good trade, the premium being advanced by the Mission, and the lad provided for until he earned sufficient to support himself. His letter, now lying before me, gives every evidence that he is really seeking better things

DIMINISHING THE CRIMINAL ARMY.

SUCH is one beautiful phase of the Rescue and Preventive work carried on by the St. Giles' Christian Mission to Discharged Prisoners. On the one hand, hundreds who had plunged in the whirlpool of crime and wrong, beyond, to all seeming, the reach of man, have been rescued, set on their feet, and are now leading, at home or abroad, God-fearing and industrious lives. And on the other hand, hundreds shivering just on the brink, tempted, hurried, impelled towards a life of law breaking, have been saved in the nick of time, and are now steadily and honestly earning their bread by the sweat of their brows. All these, humanly speaking, would, but for the Mission, have gone to swell the ranks of the Criminal army. To them it has been practical and personal salvation; to society and the nation a clear and positive gain.

DAWN OF HOPE.

IN the wide and ever extending sweep of this Mission, criminals of all grades, and of all ages, are being reached and rescued. Scarce a prison in the land where the news has not been whispered that "for them who've been in trouble there's still a chance." Convicts, after long terms of penal servitude, take their discharge to the Brooke Street Home; men and boys doing shorter terms also look to the same helpers, and few look in vain. Let a released prisoner show genuine evidence of repentance, evidence satisfactory to the shrewd and observant secretary, and whatever his crime may have been, he is sure of help in the most practical and tangible way. Somehow or other, a situation will be found him at home or abroad; he will be clothed and set to work, while in his early career of honesty he will be watched over lovingly, cheered and guided in the path that leads to better things, and to eternal life.

THE SINEWS OF WAR.

SUCH in briefest outline is the work of this truly Christ-like Mission in seeking and saving the lost. The work grows apace; poor, perishing ones, who breaking the law have felt its power, are eagerly raising their eyes longing for deliverance. The truest interests of the nation, the well-being of the individual, alike demand no means be neglected promising to aid in rescuing and raising such fallen ones, whose very existence is a menace to Society. Here then is an agency which has proved its singular fitness for the task. But while it does the work, and find the workers, others must supply the means. The work is being nobly done, but those who are doing it must be backed by prayer and liberally aided by funds. This matter of funds presses sorely on the work and the workers, hampering efforts and crippling wide-reaching endeavours. It is from the very nature of it an expensive work, but it is one of the most remunerative of works. By our own best interests, by the love we bear to Him whose birth we commemorate at this season, by the love and pity He has shown us, which we should show to those fallen ones, we are surely constrained to large, prompt and liberal aid. Gladly for such a service may we lay our silver and gold at His feet.

Christmas Service amongst Lost Men and Lads.

"A MERRY CHRISTMAS."

IN wishing one and all "A Merry Christmas, and a Happy New Year," I would add the season will be all the merrier and the New Year all the happier if you help in extending the hand of Christian love to those who have erred from the way. And you, dear reader, must do it; you cannot go to these and save them, but you can support those who do. You can give and give liberally, so that those who have learned the secret of such rescue work may vigorously and energetically press forward "Rescuing the perishing and lifting up the fallen."

There is an old time carol, I have quoted once before in this connection; I trust its repetition may stir many hearts to a practical response :—

Old Christmas brings the greatest joys
Of all the joys that come ;
He gladdens the poor man's ingle-side,
And feasts in the richest home.
Full many a bright and happy face,
Looks out upon the morn ;
Arise, good people, one and all,
For a great, great day is born.
The rich man opens his festive door,
And opens his heart also ;
And a churl is he that hath the power,
And doth not alms bestow.

Donations for the St. Giles' Christian Mission should be sent to the Superintendent, Mr. GEO. HATTON, 4, Ampton Street, Regent Square, W.C.

Fill up with loving Christmas Gifts the form below. Hand it round on Christmas morning. Pass it round the Christmas Dinner Table.

Superintendent—Mr. GEO. HATTON, 4, Ampton Street, Regent Square, W.C. Secretary—Mr. W. WHEATLEY, 13, Duncan Terrace, Islington, N. Treasurer—F. A. BEVAN, Esq., 54, Lombard Street, E.C. Bankers—Messrs. BARCLAY, BEVAN, TRITTON, TWELLS & Co., 54, Lombard Street, E.C.

WORK AMONG DISCHARGED PRISONERS.

		£	s.	d.
1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8
9
10
11
12
13
14

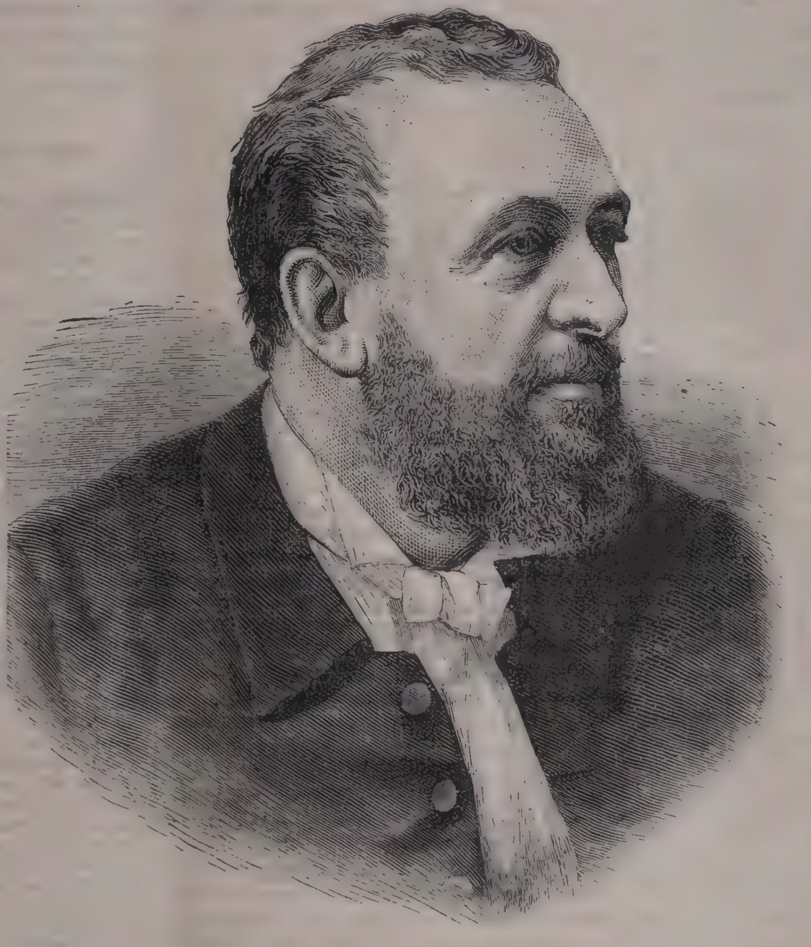
The Christian:

A WEEKLY RECORD OF CHRISTIAN LIFE, CHRISTIAN TESTIMONY, AND CHRISTIAN WORK.

DOUBLE NUMBER. WITH WHICH IS INCORPORATED "THE REVIVAL." DOUBLE NUMBER.

No. 829.] LONDON: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, PATERNOSTER BUILDINGS, E.C. THURSDAY, DECEMBER 17, 1885. REGISTERED AT THE G.P.O. AS A NEWSPAPER. [TWOPENCE. POST FREE, 2½d.

REV. E. PAYSON HAMMOND.



WE do not attempt here to give a sketch of the life and work of Mr. Hammond, whose portrait is to-day presented to our readers. To furnish even an outline of his busy and much-honoured career, as an evangelist on both sides of the Atlantic main, would claim far more space than we have at disposal. Those who would like to read such a detailed account, may find it in Mr. Headley's profoundly interesting volume, THE REAPER AND THE HARVEST, published at the office of this paper.

Though Mr. Hammond would probably object to be styled "The Children's Evangelist," we do not know that he could have any better or more truthful designation. Not that he is less successful among adults than most other labourers in the Gospel field, but that he is more successful among those of tender years. Very special gifts seem to be needed to be a constant winner of souls among the young; whatever these gifts may be, Mr. Hammond certainly possesses them, as the records of his work for the last twenty-five years will amply testify. Many preachers are not able to stoop—or shall we say rise?—to that combination of simplicity and tenderness which carries conviction to the unsophisticated mind, and storms the citadel of the fresh young heart. Nobody need go twice to the meetings conducted by Mr. Hammond to see that he has discovered the priceless secret of this simplicity. In his methods he is unquestionably "a law unto himself," and these methods have not escaped criticism. All that we would say on that score is simply to quote a couple of sentences from an utterance of one of the professors of Williams' College, at which Mr. Hammond graduated: "His success is wonderful, because God gives it to him. And before I dare to criticise, I must wait till I find a style of labour that God more signally blesses." That, in our opinion, is an argument that is unanswerable.

It was in the year 1860, and at the little northern seaport town of Musselburgh, near Edinburgh, where Mr. Hammond experienced the turning-point in his career. He had been pursuing his theological studies in the Scottish capital, but his active nature and warm heart prompted him to engage in Gospel work. Meanwhile Dr. W. L. Alexander sent him to Musselburgh, which was then deemed a specially needy spot in a spiritual sense. A remarkable revival resulted. Here we must quote from an address delivered by Dr. Alexander before his ministerial brethren of the Scottish Congregational Union. The extract is rather a long one, but it is too good to be curtailed. Describing what he had seen at Musselburgh, the Doctor said:—

"Allow me to mention what struck me very much—the work among the children. I confess I had something of the unbelieving state of mind upon that subject to which reference has been made. Having never come in contact myself with anything of the kind, I frankly confess I had not just the same cordial belief in the conversion of very young children as I have now. I happened, when I was out there one evening, to leave my great-coat in one of the small vestries, and feeling the night air a little chilly I thought I would put it on. When I went to the vestry door I found it bolted. I was going to retire, when the door opened, and a very little girl appeared. I asked if there was anybody in. She said, 'Yes, sir.' Whispering, I said, 'I was going in for my great-coat, but I will not disturb you; but who is it?' She said, 'A wheen o' us lassies.' I said, 'I will not go in then; could you get me my coat?' She said, 'It's here, sir, but I canna get up to't.' I was going away, when she said, 'You might come in.' So I went in, and there I found some six or eight—I forget exactly how many—little girls like herself upon their knees, and one of them was engaged in prayer when I stepped in. Whether she had overheard us talking at the door, or supposed that some person had come in, I don't know, but her voice faltered, and she concluded very quickly. I had hardly heard her; but immediately she had concluded, another girl began to pray without their rising from their knees, and a very simple, very child-like, but very beautiful prayer it was. I stood listening to that child's prayer, and the tears rushed down my cheeks as I listened; I could not help it, because I felt that I was reproved, that I had doubted the work of God in that particular, and now He had brought me face to face with the work itself. After she had concluded her little, short prayer, they rose up, and very abashed the poor little things looked when they saw I was standing in the midst of them.

"I began to talk to this little girl who had been engaged in prayer, and I said to her after I had reassured her a little, 'Well, now, I heard you thanking God for pardoning your sins, and for the peace of mind you have; I suppose you feel that you have been converted?' And she said, 'Yes, sir,' with great quietness and great assurance of mind. I said, 'Now, how did that come to pass? you didn't always think of these things.' 'Oh, no!' she said, 'I never cared about these things at all.' 'Well,' I said, 'just tell me how it came to pass that you did come to care about them.' She said, 'I came to the meetings, and attended them for a while, but I did not care much about what was going on. One night I went with some others into a room. There were a good many women there, and some of them were greetin' about their sins; and a lady was present who spoke to them and told them about their sins, and told them how they were to get pardon of their sins; and,' she added, in her simple sort of way, 'the thought just came into my mind that I was a sinner, too.' I said, 'And did you go away with that thought?' 'Yes,' she replied. I said, 'Did that grieve you?' Looking up into my face with a most earnest and striking expression, she said, 'Eh, sir, I was in an awfu' way!' In this state she continued, she said, for a good while. I asked, 'How did you find peace of mind?' 'Oh, sir,' she said, 'it was something that Mr. Hammond said when he was preaching.' I asked, 'What gave you peace of mind?' Turning on me again the same intense and earnest look, she exclaimed, 'Oh, there is nothing can give peace of mind to the sinner but the blood that was shed on Calvary.' Now, I just put it to any experienced minister whether a statement like that does not show that this child knows the way of salvation, and affords evidence of having experienced the grace of God in truth. For my own part all my doubts and unbelieving suspicions were gone.

"I may just mention that, as this talk was going on, there was a little boy in the corner of the room—so little a fellow that he had just emerged from the condition of petticoats, and had not reached the dignity of a jacket; his whole costume being in one piece from his neck to his heels. He was standing in the corner of the room, and sobbing very hard. The only idea that came to my mind was that the little fellow was sleepy, and that he wanted to go home as it was now about ten o'clock. I said to one of the girls that he was wearied, and that someone had better take him home. She said, 'Oh no, sir, he is not wearied; he is crying for his sins.' I went to the little fellow and I spoke to him; however, he was really past speaking to. He was in a state of great distress, whatever was the cause. I said to one of the girls, 'Perhaps you could speak to him better than I could;' and she said to me, 'Well, yes, sir, I will speak to him, but he does not belong to this place.' I said, 'Indeed.' 'No,' she said, 'puir fellow, he has walked all the way frae Prestonpans tonight.' Now this was a dark wintry night, and yet this little creature had walked by himself about four miles to get to the meeting. I asked about him the last time I was out. This little girl told me that she believed he was going on in the right way, but that he did not come to Musselburgh now, as there was a revival in Cockenzie in his own neighbourhood. This was a very striking instance to me, and I was struck also with the manifestation of a kindly interest in him on the part of his juvenile companions. I said, 'This poor little fellow cannot go home at this time of night.' 'Oh,' said one little girl, 'I'll no lat him gang hame; I'll tak' him hame wi' me.' This struck me as like the time of the beginning of the Gospel at Jerusalem, when they had all things in common, and every man received into his house those from a distance who were converted to the truth.

"Mr. Hammond has referred to some who went down to Musselburgh from Edinburgh. One servant girl went down, and she got into conversation with one of those little girls, or the little girl got into conversation with her, I don't know which, and the little girl began to preach Christ to her as the Saviour of sinners, to the utter amazement and astonishment of this grown-up woman. She said to her, 'Lassie, where did you learn this?' After a little while the little girl, to her still further astonishment, said, 'If you will kneel down, I will pray with you.' And to use the woman's own words 'she just drappit doun on her knees and I couldna but gang doun too.' And the little girl prayed; and the woman, strongly moved, when they rose up, exclaimed, 'Lassie, wha ever learned you to pray?' The child's answer was, 'Naebody learned me; I think the Lord just pits't into me.' That was the means of that woman's conversion; she is now one who gives evidence of being really converted."

This graphic and affecting narrative will be recognised as a typical one by those who have had any considerable experience of Mr. Hammond's subsequent work. With the alteration of names, dates, and places it might stand as a representation of the wonderful awakenings that have accompanied the evangelist's labours throughout Scotland, England, Ireland, and many parts of the United States and the Canadian Dominion. There are few modern preachers whose work stands the test of time more satisfactorily. Again and again on revisiting a place he is cheered by the confession from active workers that they gave their young hearts to the Lord at his meetings so many years ago, and have been working for Him ever since.

No better estimate of the elements that go to make up Mr. Hammond's success as an evangelist could be given than that written some years ago by Dr. Thompson, editor of the Chicago Interior, which has been transferred to the pages of "The Reaper and the Harvest." After recording some of the many Gospel triumphs connected with the evangelist's American missions, Dr. Thompson says, "His preaching, whether to children or adults, consists in a clear, well-defined, and well-illustrated statement of the central doctrine of the cross. His system of truth is cast in Biblical rather than technical or theological forms. The personality of Jesus as a heavenly friend; the fatherhood of God, calling for our confidence and filial love; the joyfulness of Christ's service, and the certainty of its rewards in a real heaven of endless progress and endless work—these truths come from his lips with the freshness and force which only a deep conviction of them can give. His manner of preaching is in harmony with the matter of it. He brings a dash of Christian sunlight, and a breath of free Christian courage and hope with every sermon. Another element of his success is in his generalship; he has singular tact in setting people to work. He was one of the first men to grasp firmly the truth that a public revival service unfollowed by the close quarters of heart to heart has failed at the point of its highest success. . . . Mr. Hammond was a pioneer in the work among children. The essential idea that supports the work among children, both in Sunday-schools and revival meetings, that little ones can be soundly converted; that the law of spiritual growth, from very feeble beginnings, may be emphasised in religious life, and children trained up for the Church, rather than recovered to it after prolonged wandering, is one that will throw heavenly radiance on all the future life of the Church."

One of the results of Mr. Hammond's labours in London in 1867 was the founding of "the Children's Special Service Mission," which has since been the channel of untold good in the salvation and sanctification of the young. Its influence has extended far beyond the limits of these islands; within recent years, indeed, by means of its illustrated Gospel leaflets, in different languages, it may be said to have encircled the globe, and planted a witness for Jesus Christ among the rising generation of every people, kindred, and tongue. What may be the total outcome of the evangelist's present Gospel campaign, recorded in our columns week by week, we must leave to the future to reveal. If parents and others who can influence the young people in our midst are true to the opportunities afforded them, one outcome, at least, will be a great accession to the ranks of the active Christian workers of the next generation.

Mr. Hammond has written over eighty tracts and books for children and adults, that have been published in this country, besides a hundred or more that have been published in the United States; numbers of these have been translated into foreign languages. His "Better Life, and how to find it," has been much blessed in leading young men and women to accept the Saviour.

MRS. ALLISON'S BIBLE-CLASS.

THE eighth anniversary of the Bible-class conducted by Mrs. Allison, wife of Mr. Allison, one of Mr. Spurgeon's deacons, was held in the Lecture Hall of the Metropolitan Tabernacle on Friday week. Mr. Spurgeon was unhappily unable to be present, owing to illness. In his absence Canon Fleming presided. The hall was filled to overflowing.

The annual and encouraging report having been read, Mrs. Allison expressed her gratitude to Canon Fleming for acceding to her request to be present. Addressing herself to the Christians in her Bible-class she said her heart's desire ever was to impart unto them such spiritual gifts as might establish and comfort them in the faith.

Miss von Finkelstein gave one of her interesting talks on the manners and customs of the Jews in Palestine.

The CHAIRMAN, in a hearty address, said he was very sorry not to have had the pleasure of meeting their pastor, Mr. Spurgeon, on this occasion. He had enjoyed Mr. Spurgeon's friendship, both in Bath and London, for more than twenty years past. They had been hearing that evening of Bible-readings, Bible-lands, and Bible-women. How thankful they should be for the written Word of God, and that the Lord had imparted to his servants the ability to write it. He was glad to have been reminded by Miss von Finkelstein of the beauty of the revised version of Ps. lxviii. 11—the Lord gave the word, and mighty was the host of the women as well as the men that published it. The Bible record is full of good women, while it also contains a history of bad women, given as beacon lights to warn us that we make not shipwreck of our faith. We are all books ourselves, and we not only read others, but they read us; especially do the little children read us through and through. We should all of us, therefore, strive to be living epistles of Christ, known and read of all men. In conclusion, he appealed most affectionately to the "weary and heavy laden" to give their hearts to Christ. He also earnestly entreated Christians to strive more to win souls for their Saviour.

Requests for Praise and Prayer.

PRAISE.—For marvellous help in a season of deep difficulty.

PRAYER.—That a way may be opened out for some young men who desire to preach Christ to the heathen.——For blessing on meetings at Topclyffe Grange, Farnborough.

MIDNIGHT TO MORN.

COLLIER'S RENTS, as a picture-gallery, may not be so extensively known as the Royal Academy, the National Gallery, or the various salons of Bond-street and Piccadilly, but its Sunday morning exhibitions present more truly realistic pictures than have ever left an artist's studio. From midnight to dawn, too, is a somewhat inconvenient time for ordinary patrons of art, and possibly this is an additional reason why these pictures are not more widely known.

There is, however, this marked distinction between the ordinary Exhibition pictures and those at Collier's Rents. The latter are living pictures—pictures of sin and sorrow, of want and wretchedness, of privation and poverty, of bodies without homes and souls without hope—pictures mostly of faint-hearted soldiers, who have fought life's battle against tremendous odds, and, being unsuccessful, have almost, if not quite, given themselves over to despair.

We join Mr. and Mrs. Mearns and other explorers as they meet at the Hall after the fatigues of the night. In the contemplation of the “Studies from Nature,” and of nature, which have been brought together, the wind and rain, the mud and slush, that we have encountered during the night are all forgotten.

Here are two boys whom we found soon after midnight near Charing-cross Station. The youngest, nine years old, is fast asleep. What a picture! A shock-headed boy, with a prematurely old kind of face, and very scantily clothed. Through a double rent in his very much tattered trousers we see his cold-pinched legs, and his soddened boots account for the cough which troubles him even in his sleep.

We look round again, and recognise some seventy men and women whom we found, or by whom we were found, at Covent Garden. Where they came from was a mystery, for we had only seen a few stragglers, when suddenly from some mysterious quarter they flocked to one spot, as if there had been a general resurrection. Evidently some one who had received a ticket, and who was in the secret of their resting-places, had given a friendly intimation that breakfast was looming in the future, and as this is not an everyday luxury with the nomads of the night, they eagerly gathered round their visitors.

Ah, here comes our happy-faced cripple, hobbling into the Hall, evidently tired out with her long walk. We found her near Trafalgar-square, walking with difficulty, even with the aid of a crutch and a stick. She had been trying to sell “lights.” We had put the question—

“Why, how is it you are out so late; isn't it time you were home?”

“I'm afraid I can't go home yet; I had to borrow three-ha'pence, and I haven't made enough to pay for my lodging.”

A few kindly words unlocked the old lady's heart and unloosed her tongue. With brightened face, she furnished a brief account of her experiences, in such a cheery way as to impart to her listeners an abiding lesson on contentment.

“How much do you make by selling lights?”

“Sometimes I am out twelve or fourteen hours, and don't take more than three-halfpence or twopence, but”—looking at the sunny side immediately—“then sometimes it is better. Why, this night week I was lucky enough to take fifteen pence!”

“How came you to lose your leg?”

The look of surprise on the lady's face was a picture.

“Lose my leg! I haven't lost my leg. It's here all right. I had a compound fracture of the thigh, and broke my collar-bone and shoulder—had a sort of general smash-up, you know—through falling from a window.”

This “general smash-up” seemed to be rather a sunny memory with the old lady, for while telling the story her face shone like a new sixpence. We arranged for cheering her heart a little, and now here she is at Collier's Rents. “You are looking tired, come into the other room and have a cup of tea.” After partaking of the tea, the sunny side of life is again presented. Troubles are all forgotten, and only bright experiences remembered.

“Why, sir, five weeks last Friday a gentleman asked me about my accident, and gave me two shillings. He was a nice little man.”

“Do you often meet with kindness like that?”

“Oh, yes, I find very good hearts at times; sometimes a working-man will give me twopence for a box. I always pray to God that I may take enough to enable me to stay in on Sundays. If I am obliged to go out, I wait till after church-time. If I haven't any money at all, my landlady lets me leave my bonnet as security. You know I have another bonnet beside this one.”

“Don't you do business on Sundays?”

“Well, once I went out on a Sunday, and opened my bag so that people could see the ‘lights,’ but it nearly broke my heart when a little boy and his sister came along. He looked at me, as he passed and came back, and gave me a ha'penny. I thought my heart would break, for it made me think of my own little one. I closed my bag and went off to Gray's Yard, where a lady sang so nicely and spoke to me very kindly.

So the old lady ran on, telling bright stories about the time when she could sing, adding parenthetically, “You know I can sing a little now;” and about last Christmas's experiences, dissolving view entertainments, Band of Hope meetings, and numerous other sunny memories, but not a word of complaint came from her lips.

“Don't you feel anxious sometimes, when you can't sell your lights, or you haven't any money?”

“Yes, sir, a few minutes before you met me I was feeling a little bit troubled, but when I feel like that I just say, ‘O Lord, guide my steps,’ and He always does.” Another lesson on trust and contentment.

“You are fond of singing; what are your favourite hymns?”

“One of my particular favourites is ‘Do not pass me by;’ and ‘Saviour, gentle Saviour,’ is a great favourite, too.”

We quietly arrange for the singing of these, and subsequently share the old lady's joy, as she joins in the prayer, “Do not pass me by.”

“How much would enable you to live comfortably?”

“Well, I am content on threepence or fourpence a day for food. I manage it this way. Suppose I take eightpence or ninepence. Then I don't owe anybody. I get in an ounce of tea and half a pound of sugar, and I get a half-quartern loaf for twopence-farthing. An ounce of tea lasts me three times; a half-quartern loaf lasts me three days. I get a pound of potatoes for a ha'penny. I don't eat a pound of bread a day. Well, at another time I may get a little of something else in. I very seldom have any butter. There is a place I go to—a good fishmonger's—and he gives me four nice bloaters for a penny. I think I'm a favourite there. One of these lasts me three or four times. Sometimes I get a penn'orth of bacon. I had a ha'porth of sprats the other day. I couldn't eat them all at once. I picked out the large ones, and put them on the gridiron. The Lord Mayor eats sprats, why shouldn't I? Yes, I can manage very well on two shillings a week.”

It is wonderful how the poor live. This little revelation has to some extent solved the mystery. It has, moreover, given us an insight into the truly religious life of one of the very poor, and as we have listened to the practical sermon of this old lady, we have had our own hearts drawn out in devout gratitude, and have been led to a more entire trust in “our Father.”

We turn to another case, a Welshman, a prodigal son, who has not written home during the last two years. Fortunately, we have a warm-hearted Welshman among our exploring party (Rev. T. Eynon Davis), and as he talks to the prodigal in that mother tongue which Welshmen assure us was the language spoken in Paradise, the old home memories are stirred, and in the emotion which follows, we think we hear the silent resolve, “I will arise and go to my Father.”

So, one after another, the guests respond to kind words. Life histories are told in few words. At six o'clock breakfast is quickly served, for there are many willing helpers. During the breakfast song-sermons cheer the hearts of the guests. After breakfast Mr. Mearns presides at a service which lasts just half an hour. Mr. Benjamin Clarke gives a ten minutes' address on “Trust.” Bright singing occupies a large portion of the time. How heartily the people sing! The boys cannot remember all the words, but the choruses are quickly caught and sung with tolerable exactness. So a cheery time is spent together, and when the hour arrives for separating, a hearty exchange of “good morning” tells of acquired friendships and mutual benefits.

We look at the morning's statistics: 198 present, 48 only of whom have attended any previous meeting in the Hall; 39 have been in London less than a month; 87 slept out three nights or more during last week; 129 had no work at all last week; 68 have earned less than five shillings during the last month.

This mission to the homeless is only one of the many “loving ministries” of the London Congregational Union. During the year upwards of 10,000 persons have been benefited by this agency alone. Very many who have been gathered in from the streets are now occupying good positions in society. Work has been found for willing workers, and a large number have been forwarded to their homes, or helped to emigrate. Ministers, district visitors, and others labouring in poor districts have been largely helped in their work by means which have enabled them to relieve cases of distress, in the way of food and clothing. Upwards of 40,000 garments have been distributed during the year. Further monetary help will be gladly welcomed by Rev. Andrew Mearns, at the Memorial Hall, Farringdon-street, E.C. Clothing of any description, new or old, will be equally welcomed and promptly acknowledged if sent to Mrs. Mearns, No. 25, Oakley-street, Chelsea.

SEPTIMUS SCRIVENER.

◆

RAILWAY MEN IN THE NORTH.

DURING the past twelve months Mr. John Waite has been most successful in organising mid-day Gospel meetings at fourteen railway stations in Liverpool, which have been well attended by all classes of railway employés, from inspectors and superintendents down to the boys. Hundreds of men and boys have been brought under the sound of the Gospel at these meetings, many of whom never attended any place of worship on the Lord's Day. The results, up to the present, have been most blessed; many have professed faith in Christ and signed the pledge. Thank God, their lives and homes are now bright and happy. The testimony of the officials is, that as workmen they are most reliable.

Never has there been such blessed work among the railway men of Liverpool. Mr. Waite now leaves the Liverpool work in the hands of a good committee, of which Mr. George Ellis, of the Midland Railway Company, is hon. secretary, and at the invitation of the Christian railway men, has commenced organising a movement in Manchester, which we trust will prove an eternal blessing to the railway men, carters, and boys of that city. We wish him great success, and our prayer is that God may use him in Manchester even more than in Liverpool. Already he has started meetings at the Liverpool-road Station, and Cheshire Lines Goods Station, which have been attended by all grades of railway employés. These meetings have been addressed by Revs. Canon Kelly, J. Harker, J. Mackie, W. D. Fairburne, Mr. A. Gibson, and others. All communications for Mr. Waite to be addressed care of Y.M.C.A., Manchester. Help for this work should be sent to the Treasurer, Mr. Charles Sacre, Sunny Side, Victoria-park, Manchester; or to the president of the mission, Rev. Canon Tonge, Diocesan Chambers, South King-street, Manchester.

LEARNING BY HEART UNION.—Will any members of this Union, whose addresses have changed, notify the same? Others who may wish to join will receive the card for 1886 if they write, enclosing three stamps, to the Secretary, Miss May, care of Mr. E. Benthall, 30, Tregunter-road, South Kensington, S.W.

Notes and Comments.

SO much of our space this week is taken up by the report of the important Conference at Manchester on "The Evangelisation of the World," that we are compelled to hold over many articles, letters, and reports.

Our portrait and sketch for next week will be those of Rev. J. B. Figgis, of Brighton.

As our circulation extends, and our correspondents multiply, it becomes imperative upon us to beg that all communications may be made as brief as possible. Many an important article and letter, &c., are omitted because of its length, which might be inserted if within the possibilities of our space.

The London Missionary Society's recent news from the foreign field is full of interest. A member of a Government staff bears witness to the zeal and powerful influence of two of the Society's agents in New Guinea. The Foreign Secretary writes of the relief to long-felt anxieties in relation to the Central African Mission; that the secret of avoiding heavy losses through sickness has, it is hoped, been learnt; and that the work has been at length consolidated. From South Africa, on the station founded by Moffat, we learn that there is a Church of 638 members, and thirteen out stations. Concerning Madagascar the news is confirmed that while the Queen refuses to accept the subjection of a protectorate, she is prepared to make every effort on behalf of friendly relations with the French; while from India come the tidings of schools flourishing beyond all precedent.

The unusual Benediction of the Dean of Manchester, after a sermon for the late Bishop, when peace was asked to "be with him and with you," has brought forth a protest from the Manchester Clerical Society. Dean Oakley justifies prayer for the dead in a somewhat flippant manner, and tells the evangelicals that the keys of the Church have gone out of their hands, and will not pass into them again. About this confident utterance we now say nothing, but in regard to prayers for the dead we say that than this teaching there has not been a greater curse to Christendom. Priests, through long centuries, have encouraged men, after godless lives, to leave to the Church the patrimony that ought to go to their children, and they encourage, at this hour, throughout Europe, millions of the poor to pay for masses for the dead the money needed to buy necessaries for their families. Principiis obsta justifies the protest of the Manchester clergy.

The latest of the books called "The International Scientific Series" (Kegan Paul & Co.) is on Anthropoid Apes, by Professor Hartmann, of the University of Berlin. As it is the last, it is the most complete and exhaustive treatise on the subject, and by a highly distinguished naturalist. The work shows that the differences between these apes and man are greater than the resemblances. Their intelligence is peculiar, but not greater than that of other animals. They are interesting subjects of study, but can never become useful. They cannot adapt stones to their personal use; they grow less like man as they become older, especially in the head; and any close connection with man cannot be proved.

Professor Hartmann thus sums up the argument: Man cannot have descended from any of the fossil species which have hitherto come to the notice of scientific inquirers, nor yet from any species of apes now extant. A supposed progenitor of our race is necessarily completely hypothetical, and all attempts hitherto made to construct even a doubtful representation of its characteristics are based upon the trifling play of fancy. Even if the assumed ancestral type should really be discovered in some geological stratum, yet research will have to overcome immense difficulties, if it is to explain the development of the understanding and speech, and the growth of independent local intelligence.

This latest outcome of natural science has great significance. Darwin maintained that "the great principle of evolution stands up clear and firm," and made light of the intelligence which believed that "man is a separate act of creation." But here is an investigator of European fame who affirms that so far as science has pursued inquiries among living species, or in fossiliferous rocks, no progenitor of man has been found. Evolution, then, is not "clear and firm" in relation to man: he is exceptional in creation, and believers in Genesis may maintain that he is, as stated, "a son of God."

The conclusion of Professor Hartmann touches a statement of Professor Huxley in his reply in this month's Nineteenth Century to the recent article of Mr. Gladstone in the same review. "The horse," says Mr. Huxley, "is the last term of the evolution series to which he belongs, just as Homo sapiens is the last term of the series of which he is a member." Although this cannot have been intended as a sophism, is it correct? There is no break in the series to which the horse belongs, but that is not the same with man. Homo sapiens is not "a last term" of a known series, for "a supposed progenitor of our race is a play of fancy."

It is proper to say that Professor Huxley's article is not at all marked by that contemptuous tone which formerly obtained among a certain school of scientists when referring to the first chapter of Genesis. He differs from Mr. Gladstone's geology, and lays stress on the fact that water, land, and air populations went on contemporaneously, but there is not the old dogmatic scorn. Nor need any suppose that inspiration will, to a candid interpreter, be invalidated even by the criticism of such a scientific authority. As a picture of the way the earth was prepared for man, the opening chapter of the Bible still stands in its beautiful and unique sublimity, and while adapted to three thousand non-scientific years, is increasingly destined, we believe, to awaken the wonder of a scientific future.

In his article Professor Huxley deals with "The Interpreters of Genesis and the Interpreters of Nature." He states that in his opinion the antagonism between science and religion is > Purely factitious, fabricated on the one hand by short-sighted religious people who confound a certain branch of science, theology, with religion; and on the other, by qually short-sighted scientific people who forget that science takes for its province only that which is susceptible of clear intellectual comprehension, and that outside the boundaries of that province they must be content with imagination, with hope, and with ignorance.

A little further on in the same paper Mr. Huxley expresses a hope that the "true science will continue to fulfil one of her mos beneficent functions, that of relieving mer from the burden of false science which i imposed upon them in the name of religion."

This is a knife which cuts both ways, fo many of Professor Huxley's followers are o those "short-sighted scientific people" wh find it convenient to forget that true scienc is susceptible of clear intellectual comprehension. How far imagination can be pu forward as knowledge, is perhaps best illustrated by Mr. Nicholson, who writes over th name "Grant Allen," and who allows hi gifts of fancy and hope full play wheneve he endeavours to bring science down to th level of the ordinary reader of the monthl magazines. The really scientific reader i not deceived by contributions which have not inaptly, been termed "the reductio a absurdum of crude evolutionism;" but unthinking people are apt to accept assertio for argument, and to fail to notice the absenc of that accuracy which is essential in science In the hands of Grant Allen the simple wayside flowers become endowed with wonderfu consciousness, creating at will their colour and peculiarities of form, for certain cleverl conceived purposes, and the only wonder i that they do not also evolve the power o speech.

This kind of writing may be pleasant reading for those who do not rise above "ligh literature," but it certainly is not science though by many who deplore the antagonisn to which Professor Huxley alludes it i accepted as such. With all true science th Bible is in accord; for, as regards the mos vital subject of dispute, that of the physica evolution of man, it can safely be affirme that not the slightest direct evidence "capable of clear intellectual comprehension has as yet been produced in support of th new theory, and that the argument is base entirely upon analogy, and is in no wis capable of proof.

At the half-yearly meeting of the Londo Congregational Union held last week, th recent Old Bailey prosecution was the subject of a sharp debate, on the proposal t pass a resolution of sympathy with M Stead in his main object, while declining t approve of all his methods. Very divergen views were expressed in the course of th discussion. Mr. Pye Smith went so far a to say that he believed Mr. Stead's actio had put back the progress of social purity on the other hand, Mr. Fleming William thought that the same action would do mor for the purification of London life than ha been done by all of them through all thei Christian agencies for many years. Eventually the resolution was passed with twelv dissentients.

We would counsel abstinence from extrem statements on either side. Apart, altogethe from the merits of the recent trial and i results, surely no one can doubt the realit or the extent of the evil. Mr. Stead, w are certain, would be the first to forgive an even to commend his critics, if they w only adopt and set in motion some mo excellent way of preventing and counteracti that evil. When so much has been urged some quarters as to the baneful results of t "revelations" on the young, we are glad have the testimony of Rev. F. Hastin (Tolmer-square Church), who is reported have said at the meeting last week, th though he mingled freely with the childr of his large Sunday-school he had not learn of any evil outcome of the disclosures.

We observe with much satisfaction that Mr. Poland's appeal on behalf of the Armstrong family has been so liberally responded to, that the girl Eliza has been placed in a well-known institution for education and training. That is a result of the trial in which everybody must rejoice; though in the minds of many it will seem stranger than ever that those who wished to accomplish a similarly good result in a somewhat different way should have been deemed worthy subjects of a Government prosecution, and the fit occupants of a felon's cell.

"He sung that 'ere hymn till he died." Such was the testimony of the sentry of a barrack in Ireland with reference to a young soldier who was buried a short time ago. The hymn was Cowper's justly-celebrated one, "There is a fountain filled with blood." The poor lad, for he was little more, was taken with a sudden illness, and was in deep gloom and anxiety until the visitor repeated the first verse of the noble hymn, which it appeared the soldier had been in the habit of singing after his conversion some years before. As he repeated—

The dying thief rejoiced to see
That fountain in his day,
And there have I, as vile as he,
Washed all my sins away,

peace and rest in the Saviour he had wandered from came back to him; and resting upon the finished work of Christ, he was able to sing at the entrance into the valley of the shadow.

In the introduction to a Selection from Cowper's Poems, published by one of our leading publishers, no less gifted a writer than Mrs. Oliphant makes the following reference to the hymn in question; the italics, it is only fair to say, are ours:—

> He [Cowper] and his fellow-believers were in the position of being very sure of every tenet they held. Doubt to them was sin, to be sternly crushed upon the threshold of the mind, not gently encouraged and applauded almost as a virtue. The fires of hell blazed, to them, upon the very confines of this world, only to be escaped by a flight which, if not accomplished to-day, it might be too late to make to-morrow. The "fountain filled with blood drawn from Emmanuel's veins," which horrifies us now with an image at once disgusting and profane, was to them a reverent and loving description of the chief object of faith.

The volume, unfortunately, will doubtless be purchased as a gift book, and the insidious teaching we have quoted unconsciously placed in the hands of young people, who will attach value to it by reason of the writer's name and position in the world of letters. It is due from authors who circulate such opinions as the one we have quoted, that they should at any rate state what they have to offer in place of the old faith they wish to destroy. Cowper's hymn, however, will be sung as long as there is a Church Militant, and Mrs. Oliphant's attack upon it will be as powerless to dethrone it from its position as a loving description of the chief object of faith as every other back-handed blow at the doctrine of the Atoning Sacrifice of Christ has been.

William Taylor, the Methodist Bishop of South Central Africa, who headed a missionary expedition to the Dark Continent last March, is now on a visit to Europe, in connection with the furtherance of his work. In a very interesting statement published by Messrs. Hazell, Watson, & Viney, of Long-acre, the Bishop describes what has been already accomplished, and the principles on which he purposes to proceed in his pioneering efforts to pierce the spiritual darkness of the African Continent. Out of the forty-four who comprised his band when it started last March, one has died, and eleven have returned owing to ill-health. Thirty-one remain, "all well, happy, and hopeful," when he left them in October.

Six stations have been opened and manned —"the commencement of a line of stations, to be extended year by year to the centre of the Continent, and onward as fresh recruits shall arrive." All these are intended to be on the self-supporting principle; that is to say, the workers will labour for their daily bread, either at teaching, or at some useful trade, till the nucleus is formed in each place of a Christian church, which will contribute to the support of its spiritual overseers. This point is explained in a most interesting way by Bishop Taylor in his statement, which we commend to the study of every friend of missions, home or foreign.

The help of the Christian Church is needed only for the transit expenses and the cost of planting the stations. Anyone wishing to found a station, says the Bishop, or assist in the transit of the missionaries, may address Mr. A. Fowler, 2, Queen-street, Liverpool, or Mr. R. Grant, 181, Hudson-street, New York. Mr. Taylor himself purposes, by the will of God, during next year to send further recruits to the fields he has opened, and to lead a missionary expedition up the Congo and Kasai into the Tushelange country.

Our readers will be glad to learn that Dr. Barnardo has returned to London greatly benefited in health by his brief respite from active work. We are asked to say, however, that he feels compelled to decline all engagements this winter outside of his own immediate work. His numerous friends throughout the country could not show their gratitude to God for his restoration better than by generous help at this time when the demands of his institutions must be so many and so pressing.

The severe weather of last week brought into abnormally sharp relief the pitiable condition of the great masses of the poor in our great city. At the best they live from hand to mouth, and in such seasons many are dependent on charity for the barest sustenance. We commend to the sympathy of our readers the various appeals put forth by those who are seeking to minister relief to their destitute brethren and sisters. It is well to give some "Christmas cheer," but it is even better to spread one's bounty over a longer period, so that there may not be fulness one day and famine the next, but enough to carry them through the inclement winter time.

We regret that, in error—an error into which we observe other contemporaries have fallen—we attributed to Mr. Samuel Smith, late M.P. for Liverpool, the letter in The Methodist Times, with reference to Dr. Heywood Smith, by a gentleman bearing the same name.

We notice with pleasure that some considerable sums are already offered for the founding of the proposed hospital for women, to be under the charge of Dr. Heywood Smith. We trust the project will be warmly taken up, and a practical protest thus made against the high-handed and unjust treatment to which this Christian physician has been subjected.

We expect that a favourite gift book for the present season will be the unique and sumptuously illustrated volume, "The Sermon on the Mount," with its valuable expository introduction by the Bishop of Ripon (Hodder & Stoughton. 25s.). Every page is profusely pictorial, and many of the pictures are artistic and beautiful. Nevertheless, we cannot say that we altogether welcome this use of those eternal statutes, the foundation precepts of his kingdom, which the Lord Jesus uttered on the Mount. We fear lest the wonderful words themselves should be less thought of than the gorgeous setting in which they are produced.

CONTINENTAL AND FOREIGN NOTES.

BELGIUM.—Rev. Henry Merle d'Aubigné, eldest son of the late Dr. Merle d'Aubigné, has been ordained as suffragan pastor to Rev. Kennedy Anet. The latter, having succeeded his late father in the secretaryship of the Belgian Evangelical Society, is no longer able to supply alone the spiritual wants of the large and increasing Protestant community at Jumet—all converts from Romanism, spread over a number of neighbouring communes, in a populous manufacturing and mining district.

THE ZAMBESI MISSION.—A long and very interesting letter from M. Coillard, dated Leshoma, Zambesi, appears in the Journal des Missions. He and his party are much inconvenienced and distressed by the repeated loss of oxen. They were also in doubt whether, through native battles, they would receive some boats that had been sent out to them. The Jesuits, after being settled there six years, are going away, leaving these evangelical missionaries a clear field. The cool weather having set in, the party were more free from fever. M. Vernia, of Tahiti, had just succeeded in teaching some young natives to sing "Sowing the Seed," which has been translated into Tahitian. The difficulties, he says, were enormous, but the hymn gave the greatest pleasure when sung in the church at Papiti.

HUNGARY.—Among the Jews in the countries lying near to the Carpathian Mountains, there rarely occurs any movement. In many towns of Hungary of from 5000 to 10,000 inhabitants the Jews outnumber the people of the land. The New Testament translation into Hebrew has been completed by Professor Delitsch, of Leipzig, and 40,000 copies have been distributed among the Jews of these regions. This has created a stir—a decided spirit of inquiry as to Christianity. Well-to-do Jews send their children to Leipzig for education. In some towns circles of cultivated Jews with Christian leanings are formed, and groups of 30 or 40 meet together to speak about Christ and to sing Christian hymns which have been translated into Hebrew. Many have been cast out of the Synagogue, but, notwithstanding, the numbers increase, and a union has been formed to strengthen and build up a Christ-believing Jewish nationality.

MOROCCO.—The first anti-slavery meeting ever held in the dominions of the Sultan Mouley el Hassan took place in October, at the house of a well-known English resident in Tangier. The object of the meeting was to welcome Mr. John V. Crawford, late Her Majesty's Acting Consul-General in Cuba, a member of the Committee of the British and Foreign Anti-Slavery Society, and Mr. Charles H. Allen, the secretary, who are visiting Morocco as a deputation of the society. The meeting was a large and representative one, comprising well-known names of nearly every European nationality resident in Morocco, and also one wealthy Moor. Resolutions were passed warmly welcoming the gentlemen above-named to Morocco, where it was stated Mr. Allen's former visit had produced good results, which would now most certainly be increased, and the meeting resolved itself into a committee pledged to assist the Anti-Slavery Society by every means in its power, more especially by the transmission of reliable information. It was also resolved to encourage the society in its endeavour to arouse the public opinion of Europe, so that "the Governments of all civilised Powers may renew their efforts unitedly to put down this traffic in human beings by all peaceful means in their power." The proceedings, which were of a very interesting and animated character, were conducted in Spanish and English, and the meeting lasted about three hours.

A CHRISTMAS QUESTION.

By Dr. CHARLES STANFORD.

[An attractive volume of "Familiar Talks with Young Christians," by this eminent preacher, on "The Wit and Humour of Life," has just been published by Mr. Elliot Stock. One would scarcely expect to find in such a book the chapter from which the following extracts are taken. Dr. Stanford explains it thus, and we feel that the explanation is perfectly sufficient:—

"Every truth is in keeping with every other truth, and every Christian principle with every other Christian principle. The new life that animates Christian wit and humour should be thought of in connection with the faith in which that new life begins; therefore, not a soul should feel the slightest abruptness in the question: 'Are you a Christian?'"

The civilised world is about to celebrate the festival which speaks to us of the birth of the Christian faith; it is, therefore, not unfitting that we should repeat Dr. Stanford's question, and the various answers which he describes and comments upon. After all, the great lesson that each recurring Christmas time should teach us is the necessity of making sure that we truly belong to "the household of faith," whose hopes and affections centre round Him who was born a babe in a manger at Bethlehem.]

MINE is a happy religion; but a shadow comes over the sunshine, and a discord into the music, at the fear that some of you do not share it. Heaven is in prospect, and we are not far from "the city that shines like the sun;" but I cannot enjoy the thought of being in it, in connection with the thought of you being out of it. This is my apology for the bold, plain question. In asking it I assume nothing; I have no accredited phrases at command. I only take your hand, look into your eyes, speak straight out of my soul into your soul, and ask, "Are you a Christian?"; Sometimes this question leads to a conversation, in which one after another will speak, and which may be outlined thus:—

"Am I a Christian? Well, yes, I suppose so. I never heard to the contrary. All my friends take it for granted. I think it would not be 'good form' for anyone to deny it; indeed, if I had to make a return as to my religion in a census paper, for instance, and in one word, I think 'Christian' would be the word." You wrong yourself, for you are evasive when your most vital interests demand that you should be decisive. Are you a Christian?—yes or no?

"Am I a Christian? What is it to you? I dislike your evangelistic pertinacity. You are personal. I receive my orders from headquarters only. The question is not one that is between me and you, but one between my conscience and my God." Then, speaking to you with reverence, as a spirit speaking to a spirit, let me ask you to forget me, and answer your conscience and your God.

"Am I a Christian? You mean, have I faith in Christ? Why do you lay so much stress on faith? Why should more be made of it in religion than in anything else?" More is not made of faith in religion than in anything else. The rule of faith is the rule of common sense, and its necessity is owned in every department of human life. Every builder has faith in the law of gravitation, whether he has heard its name or not; every miller has faith in the downward way of the water; every sailor has faith in the time of the tide. There would be no business, there would be no learning, there would be no love, there would be no life, without faith. I only mean this: as food will not strengthen you unless you take it, as the most sovereign specific will not cure you when you are ill unless you take it, as the softest pillow will not rest your head unless you lay your head upon it, as the guide will not lead you unless you trust yourself to his guidance, so the Saviour will not save you unless you come in contact with Him as your Saviour.

"Am I a Christian? Yes, but not, perhaps, in your sense of the term. I draw no long face, and say no catechism, but worse Christians are to be found than I am; I am not 'goody,' but am fairly good; if I am not white as snow, I am not black as ebony." While you say this you mean something else. You know that you are not satisfied with yourself; you know that somehow you have lost your way; you know that in your heart something has certainly gone wrong; you know that you have not found opening in your soul that love to God, and that life of grace, which is to heaven what the bud is to the flower, what the dawn is to the day. Look to Jesus. Find out by experiment what is meant by faith in Him, let Him lift off that weight from your mind, and take out that stone from your heart; make a Friend of Him who has, in a thousand melting ways, declared Himself to be the Friend of sinners.

"Am I a Christian? Well, I subscribe to most of the Thirty-nine Articles, I have made notes all through 'Lightfoot on the Colossians,' I have written examination papers on religious questions, and I know all about the controversies." It is not enough to know what other people know of Christ; what do you know? The question is not about their faith, but about your own.

"Am I a Christian? Not absolutely. In fact I am waiting for further evidence." That requirement is like that once made by the Jews. Though you have had already a thousand signs, as though you had not one, the spirit of your cry is, "Show us a sign!" . . . Signs the most impressive and convincing were given to seal the claim of Christ; such as the sign of the star, the sign of the song, the sign of the voice at his baptism, the sign of the dove, the signs given in the works that He did, such as no other man could do, the signs at the crucifixion, and the sign which of all others is most intelligible, most irresistible, and most at hand to everybody, the sign that we have in Christ Himself. . . . The sea itself is the sign that proves the sea. The sun itself is the sign of the sun, and it would be a symptom of insanity for anyone to say, "Really now, is that the sun?" So, for my part, I want no sign of that more convincing than Christ Himself. . . . I say that too much is made of Christian evidence after the judgment is already convinced. In the name of simple common sense, run to Christ on the strength of the evidence you have, and for the present leave all the rest. Look to Jesus, and while you look for life, you will have evidence that you are looking to the right Jesus. Jesus Himself proves Himself.

I appeal to young Christians, as well as to all who are at the point of consciously becoming such, and say to each, How old are you? What have you done? Have you really taken your working life for Christ, and found your working axioms in his Gospel only? Is the Church any better for you? Is the world? The only way to be witty and wise, Godward and manward, is to abide in Christ, so as in growing measure to think as He thinks, to love as He loves, to will as He wills, and to judge by his estimates. Then all your natural impulses and power will work in his service, and be musical to his praise.

MR. DENHAM SMITH has had a good month again at Clapton; overcrowded meetings and much blessing in souls awakened. The lectures for Christians on the Friday evenings were largely attended. He has now entered on his winter's work in West London, at St. George's Hall.

BELLS OF THE NATIVITY.

SOUNDING faintly through the stillness
Come the voices of the night;
Floating softly through the gleaming
Of the distant dim starlight
Come the voices of the bells.

Soaring with the soaring breezes
Loud and full the tidings peal;
Falling with the falling starlight,
Low and clear the tidings steal—
Tidings of the birth of Christ.

"Peace on earth, goodwill and gladness!"
(Saith the chiming of the bells)
"Sing, rejoice, and banish sadness!"
(Rings the rhyming of the bells)
"Christ is born in Bethlehem!"

Far across the span of ages
List the pealing of the bells!
By the breath of Time re-echoed,
Still the same sweet message swells
"God with us, Emmanuel!"

So each year which bears us onward
Still the grand old message hears,
And with voice of thrilling deepness
Rolls it on to other years—
News of the Nativity!

Till the strange and mystic music,
Echoed from the angels' song
By the bells of vanished ages,
Shall have swept its course along,
Shall have chimed its latest peal.

And in heaven, among the angels,
Where eternal music dwells,
Shall the voices of the harpers
Ring the echo of the bells,
Ring the solemn advent song.

J. E. W. J.

DINNERS FOR DESTITUTE CHILDREN.

SIR,—We hope you will kindly give us space to make a most urgent appeal to our friends and the public for funds on behalf of the Destitute Children's Dinner Society. Our late president, the late lamented Earl of Shaftesbury, recognising as he did the great need that existed and still exists for the work of providing improved sustenance for the half-starved children thronging the courts and crowded streets of our poor neighbourhoods, personally presided over, and took the warmest interest in our operations, and urged us to extend them as widely as possible. Last year we gave in all 238,397 meat dinners in fifty-four dining-rooms, towards the payment for which the children themselves contributed £532 16s. 2d. in halfpence.

This year instead of extension we are seriously considering the necessity of curtailing our operations owing to the want of the subscriptions and donations which have usually flowed in so liberally; and we now make this appeal trusting to the generosity of the public, and especially of those whose little ones never know the need of a good meal, or what it is to be sent to school without food. Subscriptions and donations will be gratefully received by ourselves, or may be paid into our account with Messrs. Ransom, Bouverie & Co., 1, Pall Mall East, S.W., or to our secretary, Mr. H. Morton Carr, 89, St. George's-square, S.W., who will be happy to receive the names of any gentlemen willing to assist in visiting the dining-rooms, and to give every information about the society.

Your obedient servants,
Arthur F. Kinnaird,
William Fuller,
Treasurers of the Destitute Children's Dinner Society.

MEDICAL MISSION, NEW YORK.—On Novembe 4, a new Home and Training Institute was opened in connection with this mission. Many friends were present to express their deep interest in the growing movement for combining, both at home and abroad, the healing of the sick with the preaching of the Gospel. Besides this new branch, the mission has four dispensaries, and ten students preparing for work as medical missionaries.

MISTLETOE CHRISTIANS.

IN his new book, "Jottings from the Pacific," Rev. Wyatt Gill gives, among he native illustrations of Bible truths, a ery striking metaphor used by a native reacher: "Let not your faith in Christ be ike the mistletoe, which may easily be torn ff; but as a tree firmly rooted in the parent oil, which the severest storms cannot destroy. e rooted and grounded in the faith. The hrase 'mistletoe Christians' may often be eard in their prayers."

"Mistletoe Christians!" Parasites, really, rawing all the nourishment they get, not rom Christ, but from some other Christian; ot depending on Him alone; not "rooted nd grounded" in Him by whom we live, ut getting a second-hand sort of nutriment rom others! Well may they fall away, drop ff entirely when the storm comes!

Are there any such Christians nearer ome than these islands of the Pacific? et us see.

"Well, Mrs. Smith, how are you getting n in your new home? You do not look ery cheerful."

"Cheerful! No; I am like a fish out of ater. Here have I been for ten years proting by Rev. So-and-so, depending on him or all my spiritual help, and now to be in a lace where the minister is a stranger to me like being in a heathen country. It is a ery sore temptation to me."

"But surely you did not depend on your ate minister for everything? You have our Saviour here as well as there. In heathen ountries the missionaries depend on Him lone, and upon whom does the Rev. So-ando depend? Go to the Fountain Head, Mrs. mith; 'the Holy Ghost, which is the Comorter' will be your teacher, and remember he Lord Jesus says, 'Come unto Me.'"

Or: "Dear me, what a remarkable passage! Mr. A. always said quite the oppoite; but they say Dr. B. is a very learned an, and he must be right. It is a comfortng thought!"

"Have your ever looked at the passage for ourself, in the light of the Holy Spirit? r. B. may be wrong."

"Oh, I hope not, it is a much pleasanter heory than that of Mr. A. I hope to hear confirmed."

"But 'let every man be persuaded in his wn mind'—there is the danger of being blown about by every wind of doctrine,' nd of falling a victim to 'cunningly-devised ables'—'God is his own interpreter, and He ill make it plain.'"

Or: "Are you going to this entertainment, rs. C.?"

"Well, I hardly know. If Mr. D., our eacon, goes; I do not see why I should not o the same. He is such an excellent Chrisian, that his actions always settle my little oints of conscience. It is very safe."

"Indeed! Is not conscience beyond the nfluence of man and his actions? It is the oice of God within us."

"But, surely, something must guide our hristian course?"

"Certainly; let conscience decide. The oment it protests, be it ever so slightly, he 'point' is settled per contra."

Or: "You engaged in this kind of thing, r. E.! I thought you were so opposed o everything of the sort till you came down ere. How is it?"

"Well, you see, it's just this. I was opposed to it, but my wife's relations are mmensely rich, they lead the Church here, nd I was somehow led into it before I new."

"Then you are still opposed to it, though you'are supporting it?"

"Well, I hardly know, I'm in a fog; but here's my train. Good-bye."

Oh, yes, there are "Mistletoe Christians" everywhere. Christ knew this when He said, "Yet hath he not root in bimself" (Matt. xiii. 21). Paul knew it when he wrote of some who "concerning the faith have made shipwreck" (1 Tim. i. 19). Peter knew it when he warns of the "many," "by reason of whom the way of truth shall be evil spoken of" (2 Peter ii. 2). Bunyan knew it when he created his Pliable. Yea, we all know of these "Mistletoe Christians"; and, knowing, shall not we seek to be the more firmly "rooted and grounded," "built up in Him" who gives us such strength and consolation in Himself, when He says, "I am the vine, ye are the branches," that we have no fear about our living and fruit-bearing. He will see to that. Abiding in Christ we are part of Himself—no mere parasites—branches that, without the aid of man, shall, He says, bring "forth much fruit."

M. B. Gerds.

THE GOSPEL IN ST. GILES'S.

ON Sunday, November 29, we commenced at the London Medical Mission a week of Gospel services, conducted by Mr. Turner, of the Metropolitan Tabernacle Evangelistic Association. It was joyful work to see the people flocking in tohear the Gospel. The power of the Spirit was in our midst, and many went away deeply impressed. One poor fellow, sitting next to me, sang the hymns in a fine, rich voice. His voice and expression plainly told that he had not always lived in a lodging-house, nor worn a coat that hardly held together, and shoes little better than none at all. As I sought to speak to him at the close of the meeting, he said in an accent full of meaning, "Ah! it was not always so!" Another poor drunkard who had wandered in the wilderness of sin "forty years," went away seeking, and came again the next night to find, the drunkard's Saviour.

The meetings all through the week were well attended, and were concluded on Saturday evening with an address to Christians and converts by Rev. F. A. Griffiths, Rector of Christ Church, Endell-street. The weekly addresses to children on Thursday evenings were overcrowded. We therefore arranged to have services for children this week, to be conducted by Rev. W. R. Mowll and Mr. H. M. Barnett.

F. A. Pring, M.R.C.S.,
London Medical Mission.

SHELTERING HOMES, LIVERPOOL.

OUR city has a surging mass of poverty and distress in it, and our poor children are drawn in crowds from their unhealthy cellars to beg what will keep life within them. The public very generously responded last year, and enabled us to feed and comfort in some degree every miserable child that found its way to our doors.

We have a hundred children in preparation for Canada, some of them splendid boys. Two godly male teachers are doing all that is possible to train them. Many of our dear lads in Canada have already developed into ministers, doctors, and merchants, and well-to-do farmers.

Our three hundred widows meet every Wednesday to sew, and get their sixpence, their meat-tea, and a short Gospel address. On Dec. 26, we hope to give a good dinner, in our beautiful St. George's Hall, to 3000 of the very poorest street children we can find. It is a wonderfully gracious thing on the part of the Financial Committee to lend us this lovely hall for this purpose, and our good Mayor is coming to preside over "The Street Arabs' Dinner." Our treasurer, Mr. Joseph Thorburn, of 13, Rumford-street, Liverpool, will be glad to receive any money help on behalf of the Sheltering Homes.

1, Sugnall-street, Liverpool. Louisa Birt.

MRS. K. YEOLAND has been conducting a series of Christian mission services during the month of November, at Brighton, Sheffield, under the auspices of the Primitive Methodist Church there, assisted by contingents of Christians from the Wesleyan Methodist and United Methodist Free Churches. The work done, to all human appearance, has, by the blessing of God, resulted in the salvation of precious souls, and in the edification and spiritual growth of many believers.

THE SERVO-BULGARIAN WAR.

IN a letter from Philippopolis, Bulgaria, dated November 27, Pastor J. A. Tonjoroff writes to a friend in London:—

"This war with our brethren the Servians has put us under greatest distress. It was not expected; it was begun without any cause whatever, and it is with our own brethren. To be conquered would be woeful; to be the conquerors we cannot rejoice.

"All our Protestant communities have been praying and fasting, that the Lord may be gracious to us and to our country, and spare us the abominations of this terrible war. But after it began the Lord has strengthened our soldiers, and they have succeeded in expelling the enemy from our country. Several hundred Servian soldiers have been captured, and some of them brought here. Hundreds are killed and thousands wounded. As the Servian army in every battle is compelled to retreat, most of the wounded fall into our hands, to care and to provide for them. I am happy to say that the Bulgarians, so far, have behaved with the wounded and captured very humanely and kindly.

"Our Women's Benevolent Society have done, and are doing, all they can to buy materials, and to work and prepare some clothing for the wounded. Some have gone to the seat of war to help the wounded. Some are going by and by with more supplies. My wife intends going, but the children have not been very strong. If they are better she will soon start. All help in clothing, bedding, or money, will be thankfully received. Let all our friends pray for us in this our great affliction."

[We shall be happy to receive and remit any sums in response to this appeal.]

MR. ARROWSMITH AT CHELTENHAM.

A MOST successful mission has been held here for nearly a month, for the children of the upper classes, by Mr. Arrowsmith, with addresses at various times to parents and guardians, teachers, young ladies, college and school-boys. During the first week the services were in the parish room, the first meeting being presided over by Canon Bell. Afterwards the Rotunda was engaged for a fortnight, with the most encouraging results.

For three Sundays the meetings there were as follows: 2.30 p.m., for boys only; many school and college boys attended, whose interest deepened, and numbers increased. 4 p.m., for children; at which so many attended, with their parents and friends, that the meetings were quite crowded out. 5 p.m., for parents and guardians; also well attended. The Sunday's work ended with an address at the Y.M.C.A., to a lare audience. The addresses were most earnest and stirring, and some very real work has been done, especially amongst the children, college boys, and young ladies, who attest the reality of their conversion by their desire to give up "all for Jesus." There was a large meeting for Sunday-school teachers, whose hearts were deeply searched as the speaker put before them their solemn responsibilities, and asked why they had undertaken their work.

By the kind permission of Dr. Kynaston, the Head-master of Cheltenham College, Mr. Arrowsmith addressed all the prefects with regard to the introduction of the Public Schools Scripture Union into the college. The matter was warmly taken up, and some 200 boys have already joined.

HOME FOR LITTLE GIRLS, CROYDON.—Sir,—We are trying to establish a little orphanage in Croydon. We wish to receive little girls who have lost either or both parents, upon a small weekly payment, without canvassing or election, but we find that the majority of those brought under our notice have no friends in a position to contribute even the small sum we ask towards their maintenance; we are therefore obliged to appeal to the public for help. The children will be clothed and educated, and trained in domestic duties. Our present Home will accommodate twelve children; we have now eight, and can fill up by Christmas, if funds permit. I shall be pleased to send any further information to any one desiring it.—Yours faithfully,

(Mrs.) M. A. Smith.

Dalkeith Cottage, Wellesley-road, Croydon.

JACK'S SISTER.

A STORY OF A CHRISTMAS EVE.

ALL the day long the snow had been falling softly and silently, covering the frozen earth under its spotless flakes, and clothing the bare branches of the weird-looking trees in a garment white as angel wings. In the early twilight the wind rose, and as it moaned, like a hunted living thing, round the lowly cottages, and whistled at the windows, it drove the sleet before it into every cranny and corner, and dashed it against the diamond panes. The children who were gathered round the cosy fires crept nearer to their mothers, the wildness of the winter night outside only deepening the comfort within. Here and there a ruddy light flashed from a casement, and that was the only sign of life; for not a creature was astir in the village street. It was not yet time for the sturdy bell-ringers to fight their way through the storm to the belfry of the old weather-beaten church standing sentinel-like over the quiet God's-acre, where the weary were at rest.

Quiet as it was, it was Christmas Eve, however, and if the children were glad, scarce knowing why, the hearts of some of the elders were heavy with memory's burdens. Loving faces, long lost, passed before them, like the phantoms of a feverish dream, and the snow that rested but lightly upon the graves in the churchyard, or in bleak and uncared for burial-grounds in the far-away cities, pressed heavily upon the living and sorrowing as they remembered their dead. Sadder still were those who had not even the comfort of mourning for loved ones who had been laid to sleep beneath the daisies, for they knew not what had become of the wanderers who, lured by the lights of the great city, had strayed out into the paths of sin and suffering, where only the infinite love of the Heavenly Father could find them.

"Dead, or alive, this night?" such bereaved ones whispered in the silence of their own hearts, as they saw in the fading embers the fair face of the son or the daughter, perhaps never more to be seen upon earth, if even in heaven. The only happiness that Christmas Eve brought to them was when the clang of the midnight bells sounded out the story of the birth of Him who came to seek and to save the lost; and they remembered One who scorned not to touch the outcast, and to lift the burden from the weary and heavy-laden.

One of the cottages, from the diamond-paned window of which a ruddy light was gleaming, was almost at the end of the straggling row, and in its little kitchen three people were seated by the fire. Upon the faces of two of them there was a deep shadow, as of a wearing care. Now and again, as the wind battered the sleet against the glass, they looked uneasily towards the window, and then turned again without speaking. The lad sitting between them broke the silence, however, when a louder gust shook the door, and moaning among the leafless trees in the orchard, sighed itself away.

"It must be a terrible night on the moor yonder," he said, "and it's to be hoped nobody's crossing it to-night. It was just such a night as this, last winter, when that woman and her child were frozen to death by the mere."

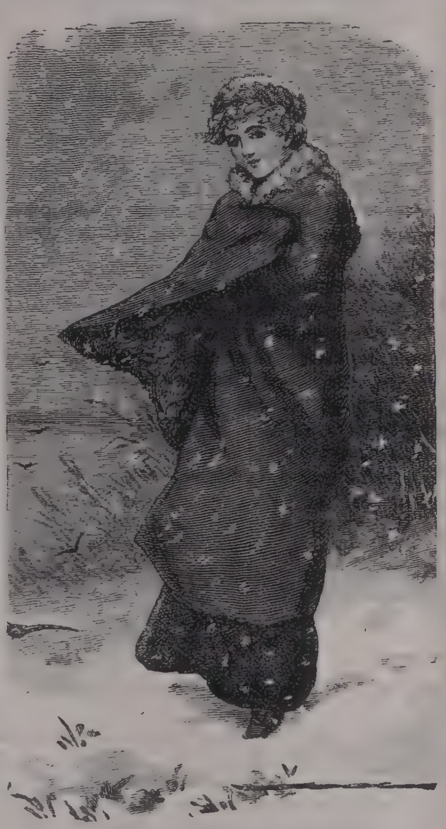
The lad's father said nothing, but a look of sharp pain passed over his features, as he glanced suddenly and tenderly at his wife, in whose eyes the tears were brimming over.

"I saw them afterwards," the lad continued, with the thoughtless garrulousness of youth, "and I shall never forget them. The child was just like marble, and as white as snow, and the woman's arms were clasped tight round it—so tight that they could hardly unclasp them. The mother was very bonnie," he added, "and such a young thing, too. I don't think she was any older than our Nan was when she went away."

The poor woman's face suddenly went pallid, and putting up her hands to her face, she cried, "Oh, my child, where art thou this night? Dead or alive, who knows?"

The lad sat still and stared in mute astonishment, half terrified at the result of his innocent words; but his father went over, and placing his arm around his wife, he said, softly, "Don't give way like that, lass; wherever she is, she can't get away from God. She has forsaken us, but the Lord hasn't forsaken her, or lost his hold of her; if she has forgotten our love and no longer loves us, He still is loving, and may be He will bring her back when we least expect it. Why shouldn't He? She's a lost sheep wandering we don't know where, but God knows; and some day He will bring her to the still waters. Even if she has gone wrong, and I don't believe she has, she cannot be more of an outcast than that other woman, 'who was a sinner,' and if He could save one, He can save another."

In a little while the mother's grief was stilled, and at a word from his father the lad, with a new burden of some unknown shame upon his childish heart, brought the Bible from the shelf. The voice of the rough-looking man trembled as he read the words of Divine comfort, "In all their affliction He was afflicted, and the angel of his presence saved them: in his love and pity He redeemed them; and He bare them and carried them all the days of old."



"Our Nan. . . . when she went away."

Then they knelt down, and from the lowly little dwelling straight up to the great white throne of a loving and pitiful God went the cry:—"Lord Jesus, Thou whose lost sheep are wandering on dark and barren wastes where no water is, do Thou find them and take them up in thy Shepherd arms, and bear them in thy broad bosom, and bring them back into the sunlight, and to the green pastures. Amen." A deep silence followed, and through it sounded the plaintive plea of the lad: "Our Father, who art in heaven, bring back our Nan to-morrow."

Then with a sudden clang out burst the Christmas message of peace on earth and good-will to men, but to the weary hearts in the little cottage the wild music brought nothing more joyful than a little more patience in their hope; and even that hope withered away as the Christmas Day passed, and its night fell without the wanderer having come home.

It was Christmas Eve, too, in the huge cit in the frosty night the moon was shining brightl and the stars, the "forget-me-nots" of t angels, were twinkling in the clear sky. Strea of people were hurrying homewards, most them laden with gifts for the little folks. Son of them were hard-faced men to whom t coming day meant nothing more than a day respite from wearying toil. There were othe with eyes lighted up with loving expectatio and a peace that probably was not of this worl All were more or less regardless of those who they passed or met. The going home was each one a part of the daily routine, and ev the tender-hearted among them rarely gave thought to the wanderers who had no home go to. Yet there were many such about t streets that night, outcast of men, reckless a despairing, with nothing to live for, yet clingi instinctively to life with all its misery and privation; most of them prayed for in distant hom where the memory of them was both sad a sweet, each one pitied of God, whose infinite lo flows round his creatures like the pulsations a mighty tide. They had "lodgings," a "rooms," shelters in dismal garrets up dism courts; but they were homeless notwithstandin They hated the approach of Christmastide; f to them the season brought nothing but bitt and painful memories of bygone days in count homes, and of faces they dared not dream of, a yet could not forget. The crowded shops h nothing for them, but the publichouses had, a they forced their way to the bars and spent the last coppers in the vain hope of finding son surcease from their misery.

Women some of them were, and their pall faces still had a nameless something which to of girlish comeliness and purity, but their ey were not womanly, and the light that shone them told that they were at once man's victi and his shame. The history of more than one these might have been recorded in tears; some d it will be written in fire. Their laughter, with i sharp discordant notes, was their own requien even drink was powerless to drown in them t shadow of the coming death, and the darkne beyond the nettle-covered grave.

One of these outcasts was more miserable th all the rest, and therefore her laughter was t loudest. A girl in years, she seemed sadly o of place in the gin-shop crowd; every now a again between the jests and the hollow mirth look of pain passed over her face, and her ey were dimmed. She was "keeping up Chris mas," like the people about her, and she w trying to drown care just as the others wer but in the midst of the noise and glitter s could not restrain herself from thinking of t Christmas Eve at the distant home. She sa again the face of her mother, and heard t strong soft voice of her father as he read fr the old Bible. The tears welled up in her ey and putting down her glass suddenly she hurri out into the street, but the vision of her mothe haunting eyes went with her. She walk along like one in a dream, the noises around h all stilled, and only the long hushed music her father's voice sounding solemnly in h heart. With the picture before her eyes of t village street, and the little cottage with wealth of apple bloom, where she had been peaceful and so happy, the streets seem hateful to her as she passed through the gi shop glare; but whither could she go? S had no home, and there was no one who had kind word or a kind look for her. A roug looking man accosted her and awakened her o of her dream; with a shudder she fled from h and turned down a side street, not knowing caring where it led to. A little further on lighted doorway attracted her, and scarc conscious of what she was doing she entered t place. Suddenly she found herself in a la warm room where a number of girls and wom were seated. A sweet-faced lady was singing a harmonium, and as Nan sat down upon one the chairs near the door, upon her ears fell t words—

> "Just as I am, without one plea,
> But that thy blood was shed for me,
> And that Thou bidst me come to Thee,
> O Lamb of God, I come.

Often and often she had heard the words at home, and in the little village church, but they had never sounded so strangely sweet before. "Can cleanse each spot," she whispered to herself. "Can it cleanse me of my sin?" Then her tears burst over the barrier of her bitterness, and she covered her face with her hands.

Just then in the cottage far away her little brother was crying to God, "Our Father, who art in heaven, bring back our Nan to-morrow." God had the outcast by the hand; leading her to a better and brighter home even than the loved one upon earth.

When she looked up again the lady was reading from the New Testament, the story of the woman who was a sinner, and speaking of the infinite tenderness of the loving Saviour. "He will be as loving and as pitiful with you to-day," she heard the lady say softly, and in a solemn hushed voice. "He knows all that you have gone through, all you have had to bear. Man may have been cruel to you; He will be gentle. If you are lost, He can find you, and save you. He will take you out of the weariness and sorrow of your life of sin and wretchedness into that peace which the world can neither give nor take away. To some of you the door of the earthly home is still open, and the mother is praying for you to be brought back; to others that door is closed, for the mother has died broken-hearted with shame: but the heavenly door is always open, though the door of your hearts is closed. Jesus stands knocking at it; will you not open it to Him, with his message of divine forgiving love, "Come unto Me, all ye that are weary and heavy laden, and I will give you rest"?

There was a little silence, but in the courts of heaven there was joy in the presence of the angels over one repentant sinner. The lady who had been speaking had observed the girl crying, and made her way down the room; but before she reached the end Nan rose up hastily, and rapidly left the place, as though afraid of being spoken to.

When she got into the street she looked about for a moment in uncertainty; and then she turned in the direction of the river, and walked hurriedly, talking to herself. The moon had been obscured by clouds, and the houses she passed looked gloomy enough in the dim light. Few people were out in that unfrequented locality, for it was after midnight; but several gazed after her as she hastened along like one with a set purpose. She soon reached a narrow way down to the water, and hurrying down it she stood for a moment or two at the low wall which barred the passage; then with a cry she was throwing herself over into the flowing stream, when she was caught suddenly and held firmly by the arm.

She turned round wildly as a gentle voice said, "Don't try that, dear girl; it is no remedy for your sorrow or sin." The lady who spoke was the one whom she had heard sing in the mission-room, and beside her there stood a kind-faced, elderly man.

"Let me go," Nan cried; "there's nothing for me but the river. I'm not fit to live. I must get rid of this wretched life some way or other: let me go;" and she made another attempt to fling herself into the water. The man held her with a strong hand, however, and as he did so he spoke softly to her, as one does to a fretful child. "Tell us your trouble," he said gently, "this lady will befriend you. We saw you in the hall, and followed you through the streets, hoping that we might be of use to you if you wanted help and comfort."

Nan looked at him with surprise, it was so long since she had heard any words of kindness, and as the lady came and took her hand, she broke into passionate weeping. "I've deserted my home," she said, "and I'm not fit to go back again, and this Christmas time makes me wretched; I wish I were in the grave."

"Come with me," the lady answered, "come and spend Christmas with me, then we shall have time to talk about your trouble, and what we can do to take you out of it." Without adding more she put her arm through Nan's, and led her away. When they reached a more frequented part of the city, the gentleman called a cab, and gave the driver an address which was unknown to Nan; but she had an unaccustomed feeling of confidence and trust in her rescuers, who from time to time addressed her in words of comfort and encouragement. The cab stopped in front of a lofty house in a better-class street, and stepping into the hall, the lady said, "This is my home, my child, and it is yours too as long as you may need it." The old gentleman, wishing them good-night, went away.

Before the fire in a comfortable little room Nan told her kind friend her simple and sad history. The lady comforted her as a loving sister might have done, and after a few words from a well-worn little Testament, and a low hushed prayer, took her to a room and left her there alone.

It was a strange and new experience for Nan, and the quiet and peace fell like balm upon her troubled spirit. Like one in a dream she sat for a while, and went over in her mind the events which had led to her being brought into so unexpected and so happy a place. Once more she saw before her the village home and the loving eyes of her mother; this time, however, the vision did not make her heart bitter, for in it there was a new-born feeling of hope, as in tears she whispered to herself, "Shall I ever see my poor mother again?"

When she looked up, her glance fell upon a framed text over the mantelpiece, one of those voiceless messengers so often eloquent for God, when those whom He has gifted with speech are silent in his cause. It was only a small card with a border of red and white anemones, but it bore the wondrous words of Him who spake as never man spake:—

> "I came not to call the righteous but > sinners to repentance."

She remained still with her eyes fixed upon the gracious and comforting statement; gradually, as the divine fulness of the blessed utterance dawned upon her, she felt that there was a Saviour even for her, One who would have no words of scorn or reproof for the repentant and loving, or for those who could bring to Him only their wasted lives. With a suppressed sob she sank upon her knees by the side of the little white bed; as she knelt there in earnest prayer, the great loving arms of Jesus closed round another saved soul.

In the distant country home the Christmas Day died away into the darkness of the solemn past, and the hope born of faith became enfeebled with it as little Jack saw the night come without bringing back Sister Nan. He did not know that God was answering his prayer in his own way and in his own good time. After his father had read the Bible and prayed, the lad's petition was repeated, "Our Father, who art in heaven, bring back our Nan to-morrow," and again through the mighty harmonies of heaven the lad's weak cry went straight up to God. Night after night for some weeks Jack's most intense prayer followed his father's, and then one morning a letter was brought to the door.

The poor frightened mother scarcely dared venture to open it, and when she did so it was a terrible shock to learn of her child's fall. The lady who had rescued her told the story very tenderly, and finished the letter by saying that Nan was longing to come home, that she was far from well, and that the anxiety seemed to be more than she could bear. Day by day the poor woman put on one side the task of telling her husband the sad intelligence, for he had so resolutely refused to entertain any idea that the girl might possibly have wandered away from rectitude, she was afraid to try and break the news. At length, without having revealed her sad secret, she wrote to the lady, asking her to send her child home. In fear and trepidation she looked for the girl's coming, and after receiving another letter announcing the departure from the lady's house, she made up her mind to tell her husband. The man's usual tender look vanished; his face went like marble, and he simply said, "This is no place for her; let her stay with those she deserted us for." All appeals and protestations were in vain, and that night the poor mother went to her rest with a breaking heart.

Next morning her husband went out to his work, as usual, but he left the house without the usual few loving words, and she feared to speak to him, he seemed so hard and cold. In the evening, as the night fell, and before he returned home, the carrier's cart stopped opposite the cottage, and there came a gentle knock at the door.

Only two words were spoken when the door was opened—

"Nan!"

"Mother!"

Then the mother took the girl in her arms and led her in, and took her upstairs to the little room, with its diamond-paned window looking out upon the old orchard, where the trees were just bursting into leaf. Soon afterwards the father came from his toil, and he peered somewhat closely into his wife's face, upon which there seemed to be a happier light, but the poor woman kept her precious secret within her own breast.

Next morning at breakfast, however, the man said suddenly, "Who is that in the back room?" and the mother answered, softly and nervously, in one word only, "Nan."

"Did I not say this was no place for her?" he asked sternly.

"She is my child," the mother answered, looking straight into his eyes.

"She is no longer mine," said her husband solemnly, and then rising from the table he went out without another word.

Weeks passed thus, the girl coming down about the house when her father had gone to work, and as regularly going back to the little upstairs room before he returned. She seemed to be getting weaker and weaker, though, and at length one day she was too feeble to rise. That evening the mother ventured again to speak of her, but the husband responded briefly, "If she is here it is not with my consent. Don't mention her name to me."

The following day the village doctor was sent for, and when he came downstairs from the little room, he shook his head sadly. "You must take every care of her," he said quietly, "she is very weak." And then he added inquiringly, "I am afraid she has some mental trouble of which, perhaps, you are not aware?"

"She has had a great sorrow," the mother answered, "and I know all about it, but we don't speak of it.

"I see," said the doctor kindly; "it is weighing heavily upon her, though, whatever it is, and it makes her illness all the more serious."

"Is she, then, seriously ill?" the mother asked.

"She is," the doctor answered, "and it is right you should know it. I don't wish to pry into anything you like to keep from me, but the girl's constitution is quite undermined, and I am afraid it will be a difficult matter to bring her round."

Thus it was broken to the poor woman that she might not have Nan with her for very long, and during the day she resolved to make one more attempt to break down her husband's pride and coldness. When he came home and was seated at his tea, she therefore said quietly, but with a heavy heart, and with tears welling up in her eyes, "Nan is very ill, the doctor says."

"The doctor?" he answered, with a look of astonishment.

"Yes," the wife replied. "I sent for the doctor, for I was nervous about her, and it seemed to me he was doubtful if she would be with us much longer."

There was a short silence, and then the woman added, "Won't you forgive her, William? She is only a girl yet, and she was but a child when she went to earn her bread in service in the great city. If Christ had met her He would have forgiven her; nay, she has met Jesus, and He has pardoned her. Forgive her, William, for Christ's sake."

The father still did not speak, and the mother began to fear that her appeal would be as fruitless as the preceding ones; but after a moment or two he rose and went up the stairs to the little room, and the thankful woman heard him close the door as he entered where his child lay. When he stepped forward the girl was dozing, and she looked at him in some little alarm, but her fears were soon dispersed, for he walked softly across the room and took her wasted fingers in his and bent down and kissed her tenderly.

"Father," she whispered softly, and then the tears, not entirely of sorrow, streamed down her pale cheeks.

"Nan," he said in a husky voice, "this is a great blow to me and to your poor mother, but the Lord has pardoned you, and what am I that I should withhold my forgiveness?"

"God bless you, father," the girl answered, and lifting herself slightly, she threw her arms round his neck and buried her face in his broad breast. There was a deep silence, for it needed no words to express the love with which each heart overflowed, but intensely still as it was, angelic wings waved in the room; for once more "the angel of his presence saved them."

After this the little household seemed to have recovered some of its wonted happiness and peace, and poor little Jack, not comprehending it all, and only knowing that the Lord had answered his prayer, went about with a light heart. Day by day he took a bunch of primroses to his sister's room, and sat with her by the hour together. A burden, too, appeared to have been lifted from Nan's mind, and she recovered sufficiently to go about a little, enjoying the brightness and beauty of the summer days.

With the coming of autumn, however, as the leaves began to wither and drop into the miry lanes, and the mists crept up over the damp meadows, and shrouded the churchyard in white clinging folds beneath the moonlight, Nan became worse, and the hearts of her father and mother grew heavy again with the old dread. The girl herself, however, seemed to become happier and happier as the days darkened, and the winter approached, and her face in its pallor was lit up with gladness and peace.

At the ivy-covered vicarage there had been some little talk of Nan; the vicar's wife, naturally enough, had expressed some little curiosity with regard to her, and the mystery with which her return home seemed to be surrounded. "A bruised reed shall He not break, and the smoking flax shall He not quench," said the vicar, softly; and then he added, "I should like you to be particularly kind to her, and to her people in their trouble. Whatever it is, God knows it, and we may be privileged as his servants to do someting to alleviate it."

So day by day the vicar's wife went to the little room from which Nan no longer came down, and the promise was richly fulfilled that wherever two or three gather together in his name there will He be in the midst. It was only a little human love that was shown towards her, but it helped her to forget the shame and bitterness of her past. As the one who bestowed it did so for Christ's sake, it was blessed to both, the girl being "one of the least of these."

One winter eve she died, her fingers clasped in her father's rough hand. "I know in whom I have believed," she said triumphantly, and then whispering, "Even so, Lord Jesus, come quickly," she passed away into the rest that remaineth for the people of God.

Nan was rescued, but day by day lost ones are dying neglected in cheerless garrets and workhouse wards, outcast of man, pariahs of that society which has too often made them what they are. Many of them might be saved from a life of degradation and from a dishonoured death, by a little practical help and love. Who of us will dare to go forth in the name and strength of Jesus, and seek to save the bodies and souls of these our sisters—sisters, whether shivering in rags or flaunting in the finery of shame—these our sisters for whom Christ has died?

JAMES BOWKER.

FLORIDA.—Mr. Philip Hannington writes that he is ready to give information about Florida to any who may wish to go there and settle. He is hoping very shortly to receive a fresh and revised catalogue of orange groves for sale, and land suitable for such. For the next month his address will be Darling's Hotel, Edinburgh.

SIX YEARS' LABOUR AND SORROW.[*]

THIS is the latest report of the Committee formed to suppress a shocking evil; at a time when the public and even many Christians are "halting between two opinions" in the matter of dealing with the purity question, it were well that this little volume of facts should be made universally known. Here we have an account of the commencement of the work in 1879, in the first case of rescue from a Belgian brothel of a young English girl who had been ruined there. It is shown that the police were the agents for introducing English girls "into tolerated houses of prostitution." A little band of ladies and gentlemen associated themselves "to investigate the allegations as to an organised traffic in British girls," and speedily found out the reality of what filled their souls with horror. A visit of inquiry to Brussels was made, and the real state of things was found to be far beyond the worst fears. The aid of the British Government was sought in 1880, and prosecutions took place in Brussels, resulting in the dismissal and resignation of some of the officials of the Brussels police. A Lords' Committee was appointed; the report made before it is here given, and the extent of the traffic is most fully confirmed. Yet those who directed attention to it were called "enthusiasts, more zealous than accurate."

Then follow the accounts of years of labour and sorrow in the stupendous effort to right the wrong and to defend the utterly helpless, with accounts of the import and export trade in white slaves, the shipment of "parcels" and the fate of some of the victims.

Truly, this "peep behind the scenes" is heartrending. To read that the profession of "flesh broker" is a recognised calling in the Port of London, is to grow sick at heart, remembering that the subsidiary questions of good or bad taste are raised as to the form in which we shall expose these evils! In a recent letter to The Morning Post, a female writer of note, who boasts of having written more newspaper articles than perhaps any living woman, says of these revelations:—"No possible good can come from them. They will familiarise women with bestialities best left alone." No matter that innocent girls are practically familiarised with "bestialities" more gross than the saturnalia of old, so awful that the poor murdered Rosina Marks said on her death-bed, "I have seen worse things than hell," so terrible that even "the blatant and indecent publicity" spoken of by the before-named writer has failed utterly in revealing one-tenth of the evils which this noble society of philanthropists has set itself the task of at least lessening. To read that there are at present hundreds of British women and girls detained unlawfully in prison-houses of debauchery on the Continent of Europe is to ask, Why shall we stop at anything that tends to the rescue of these sisters and daughters from a wretched living-death? Are there no encouragements? Yes, for these emancipators have given themselves to the work, and it must prosper, by the blessing of God—that God whose retributive justice and holiness both declare that it were better for the offender of these helpless ones that that he were cast into the sea, than commit such offences.

DEAR SIR,—There have been of late collections of large sums in connection with the Social Purity movement, all which I rejoice to notice. But the Committee over which I preside is left in debt, in consequence of the action of the Home Office in withholding, in the Jeffries' case, the contribution which is customary in reference to prosecutions in which individuals intervene on behalf of the Crown. The result is that the Committee is indebted in the sum of about £150, the balance of the costs in that case.

Will you permit me to appeal to your readers for a share of their Christmas liberality to aid in clearing off this indebtedness? We have no president, vice-presidents, or wealthy patrons to fall back upon, nor any regular subscribers (outside the Committee). We have never made any public appeal during the six years of our existence. We pay no rent for offices, and excepting a clerk at £5 a year, we have no paid officers, the work being done by the members. If information is needed as to the work accomplished, it will be found in "Six Years' Labour and Sorrow," published by your firm, price 6d. BENJAMIN SCOTT, Chairman.

16, Basinghall-street, E.C.

[The liability mentioned by Mr. Scott was incurred in a most righteous and necessary cause, and it will be little to the credit of the community, which has been so deeply stirred by the revelations that were the direct outcome of the Committee's action, if this liability is not met. It would not be a great test of sincerity if many of us were to forego some small Christmas luxury, and hand the equivalent amount over to the Committee.—ED.]

LONDON CITY MISSION.—At the Mission Hall, 69, Webber-street, Blackfriars, the fifth annual meeting of the work carried on was held on Thursday, Nov. 26, Captain Charleton presiding. Addresses were given by Rev. R. Dawson, secretary of the parent society, the Rev. F. C. W. Wood of Malden, Mr. T. Clarkson, Messrs. J. Pascall and H. Perry. An account of the general work of the district was given by the missionary, N. S. Licence. The services in the hall, which was opened just a year ago, have been attended with the Divine blessing. Several had been led to profess Christ, and a good number of Temperance pledges have been taken. The children's services are well attended, and very much improved in order and behaviour. There is very urgent need of one or two ladies who would undertake a mother's meeting. The district being altogether inhabited by the very poor and working classes, good service might be done for the Master, and the homes of the people benefited.

WEST CHINA.—I have regularly received for some time copies of THE CHRISTIAN, but do not know who sends them. They are very interesting and profitable, and I should much like to thank the sender. The Lord's work here is moving. We have now about twenty Christians, who some years ago were in the darkness of heathenism, some enslaved by the deadly opium. A girls' school has been carried on for several years, and several of the scholars are Christians; they know the Scriptures well. If they are asked a question about the New Testament they can generally give chapter and verse in their answer. There are several inquirers who we trust will be received into the church by and by. This year we opened a boys' school, and hope to see much fruit. There has been a good deal of trouble in this province lately, owing to the war with France, but now peace is declared. We have not been molested in this city, but the people have sometimes been rather excited. We ask the prayers of your readers.—Sincerely yours,

JESSIE ANDREW (née Findlay).

Kuei Yang Fu, West China.

KENSAL TOWN is a district inhabited entirely by the working class, many of whom are, through want of work, in great distress. Our Mission House is situated in the most wretched part of this neighbourhood, and is the centre of various branches of work amongst the poor. We have established a soup kitchen to supply children with halfpenny dinners, and soup is sold at twopence per quart, and we have found it difficult to meet the demand. Many respectable families are living in a state of semi-starvation, and thankful if they have even one meal a day. There is a day nursery, which has proved a great comfort to many mothers. Efforts are made to reach the women in the laundries, by visiting them while at work, and singing and speaking to them; in this way some have been led to the Saviour. We have also occasionally asked them to a coffee supper, followed by an address, after their work is over. We have an evening-room for girls (a junior branch of the Y.W.C.A.), which is much used and appreciated. There are Gospel or Gospel Temperance meetings or Bible-readings every night in the week, open-air preaching, and afternoon meetings for mothers or children. Christian ladies desirous of taking part in this work would be heartily welcome. Gifts of old or new clothing, lentils, beans, rice, tea, and sugar, would be very acceptable.

EMILY C. THOMPSON.

1, Adair-road, Kensal Town, W.

---

[*] SIX YEARS' LABOUR AND SORROW: In reference to the Traffic in the Souls and Bodies of British Girls. 1885. Dyer Brothers, and Morgan & Scott. 6d.

For the Young.

KATTIE'S CHRISTMAS ANGELS.

"KATTIE! Kattie! you foolish child, what are you doing at the window this cold night, and with bare feet too?"

The child addressed was curled up on a deep window-sill one cold Christmas Eve, looking out into the clear, bright night, and up into the cloudless, frosty sky, where countless golden stars were shining out of their dark sapphire setting with unwonted brilliancy.

The child, in her little white night-gown and scarlet dressing jacket, with bare marble-cold feet, made a pretty picture in the clear starlight, as she bent forward listening to the silvery joyful music of the bells, floating out upon the still night air; their mellow notes reminding the listener of the angel-voices that long since sang their wondrous hymn of praise to human hearts.

She looked round at the call, and jumped off the window-sill, saying, "Oh, Miss Evans, it does seem such a pity."

"What seems a pity, Kattie?" asked her governess, kissing the eager face upturned to hers, as she tucked the small shivering figure into bed.

"Why, that there are no more Christmas angels, Miss Evans, no more beautiful, bright messengers to bring gladness to poor creatures at Christmas-time, and to tell them the story of Jesus and his love. Oh! I wish I had been alive when they came to the earth long, long ago."

"I don't think you need wish that," replied Miss Evans thoughtfully; "you have seen some of God's Christmas angels, Kattie."

"I," cried the astonished child; "no, Miss Evans, I have never seen an angel. I have often dreamt of one with great golden wings and a sweet, shining face all lit up with heaven-light, but I know I have never really and truly seen one."

"Don't be too sure about that," said Miss Evans, with a curious smile on her face; "the mission of the Christmas angels is not yet ended, Kattie; we can still see them, ay, and hear their voices, too, at Christmas-tide, if God only gives us the right kind of ears and eyes."

"I don't understand," said the child, "but I know you can explain it to me, and I will be ever so good, Miss Evans, if you will just sit on the edge of my bed for a little while and tell me about the Christmas angels, and when and where I can see them. You won't feel one bit cold if you wrap my eider-down quilt round you, and I will make you a little soft place on my pillow to rest your head on if you are tired."

Miss Evans did not resist the little pleader, but in her sweet, clear voice, she began:—

"One Christmas Eve, when the hills were snow-clad, and the fields looked cold and dreary, and the great busy cities were wrapped in fog and gloom, a poor ill-clad woman made her way home from work, down a crowded London street. She shivered in the keen blast, but stopped now and then to look in at the well-lighted and attractive shop-windows, and to wish she could buy Christmas gifts and comforts for the little lonely girl she had left lying on a hard couch in the tiny attic they called 'home.' She never thought of herself, although her ill-clad, ill-fed body ached with cold. It was all 'Molly,' 'Molly.' Her heart had no room for any other thought.

"At last she went into a sweet-shop, and laid out a penny in a wonderful pink and white sugar mouse. She sighed as she laid the hardly-earned coin on the counter, for she could ill afford to spend it so, when bread was so scarce and dear. But home she went, and up the dark stairs, nearly falling over something that lay just at her door. What was it? She stooped over it, and felt the handle of a basket, then called to Molly to strike a match, and light the little bit of candle in its tin holder—the candle which, however dark it grew, Molly never lighted till mother came home to share the brightness—and then to gaze wonderingly, half doubtingly, at what she held; while little lame Molly hobbled to her mother's side, and asked, with wide-open eyes, 'What is it, mother?'

"What was it? Why, a moderately large basket covered with a snowy cloth, which, when lifted, revealed some delicious-looking sausages, tea, sugar, butter, buns, and two real mince-pies, enough to furnish such a feast of a Christmas dinner for hungry Mrs. White and pale-faced Molly.

"'Mother,' cried Molly, in an awe-struck voice, 'do you think the Christmas angels left it for us?'

"'I think they must have,' said the poor widow, between laughing and crying. 'Anyway, one of his good angels passed this way and thought of us.'

"But had you seen her, Kattie, you wouldn't have thought her an angel. She was only a poor little dressmaker, whose heart had grown very tender since believing in the good news of God's love. This Christmas she had been thinking over the sweet praise given by the Saviour to those who saw Him 'hungry, and fed Him,' or 'naked, and ministered unto' Him in this world, and she put aside the thought of the new, warm winter dress she had meant to buy with her hardly-earned savings, and looked round for some poorer and needier ones than herself to cheer and comfort at the blessed season of his birth. She had no silver wings or star-crowned brow as she mounted the dark rickety stairs to the attic, and laid down the basket softly just inside Mrs. White's half-open door. You would never have guessed she was a Christmas angel, Kattie, would you?"

"No," said the child, with eyes tremulous with tears, "but she was one, wasn't she, Miss Evans?"

"Yes, Kattie; there are hundreds of these blessed angels moving in and out of the crowded alleys of our great cities, full of loving, Christ-like pity for the misery and shame of men and women. Only yesterday evening I stood with your father in a large mission hall in the far East of London. It was almost filled with rough and sinful men, many of them fresh from prison, and with faces marked and scarred by sin. A lady was singing to them. It was a very simple melody, and the refrain—

> 'Nothing to pay! Ah! nothing to pay,
> Jesus has borne all your sins away'—"

rose and fell amidst a wonderful silence. I looked at the lady; she was neither young nor pretty, but slightly deformed, and her hair streaked with silvery threads, yet, as she sang the old sweet story, I could almost feel the despairing hearts round me look up; I could almost see the souls, so sunk in sin, stirred into life, and longing, and love, for the Lord who came to earth for them.

"Yes, Kattie, that lady, whose loving lips faithfully strove to tell out her Lord's glad tidings, was as truly an angel breathing out heaven's music on earth as ever were those white-robed choir of Bethlehem." And Miss Evans paused.

Kattie whispered, "I see now: I can understand, too. I can think of lots of Christmas angels now, Miss Evans. I'm going to ask Jesus to let me be one, too, while I'm a little girl. I can wait for my golden wings and star-crown till by and by, but I'll try to sing the heavenly music—the beautiful angel-song—everywhere now. Do you think He'll let me join the angels in telling people how He came, and lived, and died, Miss Evans?"

"I am sure He will, darling; He will love to help you tell out the Christmas story."

"I'll begin right away to-morrow, then, and tell every one I know that Jesus was born for them, and that now there is 'Peace on earth, and goodwill to men.'"

And Kattie kept her word, and from that very night she joined the glad choir of Christmas angels.

EVA TRAVERS EVERED-POOLE.

Additional answers to Scriptural Diamond Puzzle AMMISHADDAI received from M.K.H. C.E.J. D.W.H. M.H.G.

A CHRISTMAS SONG.

Prince of Peace.

R.L. With expression. ROBERT LOWRY.

1. Bright and beau - ti - ful the morn - ing Broke up - on the Sa - viour's birth;
2. Ah, what heaven-ly pro - cla - ma - tion! Ah, what mu - sic filled the sky!
3. Still the world is look - ing for Him, In the pride of earth ar - rayed;
'Twas the love of God a - dorn - ing All the hills and vales of earth.
Gift of God, with sweet sal - va - tion, Lo! the King is com - ing nigh.
But the hum - ble who a - dore Him, Find Him in a man - ger laid.
Long in bond - age wept the loy - al, Wait - ing for the soul's re - lease;
Haste, ye mor - tals, to re - ceive Him! Let your night of sor - row cease;
Still He gath - ers all the low - ly, And his king - dom shall in - crease, rit.
Came at last the In - fant Roy - al, Lord of Life, and Prince of Peace.
Now with hap - py hearts be - lieve Him, Lord of Life, and Prince of Peace.
Till He comes a - gain, the Ho - ly, Lord of Life, and Prince of Peace.

WOMEN IN CHINA.

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE WOMEN'S PRAYER UNION FOR THE WOMEN OF CHINA.

DEAR FRIENDS,—I am glad to be able to send you a few words of Christian greeting from the land for whose blessing you are continually pleading. I do so the more readily, because of the encouragement which the Lord is giving to workers among women, which He has permitted me to see and hear about since my arrival in China. I have often felt regret that many of those who so regularly pray for blessing, are unable to see how very distinctly the Lord has been answering their prayers. We have often been reminded that prayer is real help in the Lord's work, and, perhaps, when we see things in the light of the judgment-seat of Christ, we may find that far more has been effected by the prayer and faith of those who never saw a foreign mission field than we are now disposed to estimate. Certainly the knowledge that the Lord has raised up a band of praying ones is always a source of strength and comfort to the workers here, many of whom are in lonely and often trying circumstances.

From my own observation and from intercourse with other missionaries, I would say that the work now is peculiarly encouraging all over China. There seems to be a general willingness to hear, and in many places a seemingly real desire to hear the truth. Many are pleading for a special work of the Spirit, and are expecting an ingathering of souls.

In connection with the China Inland Mission the work among the women at several points is most encouraging. Many will remember that great numbers of women visited Mrs. Nicholl at Chung-King—the first lady missionary in the large province of Si-chuan—when she reached that important city. Of course, these great numbers have not continued to visit our sister, and there are now other workers in the city—but there is still a good work going on among the women there, and special prayer should be made that God would bless the much seed that has been sown. At Chen-tu, the capital of the province, Mrs. Riley and Mrs. S. Clarke, and Miss Stroud and Miss Butland, are much encouraged by the numbers of women to whom they have access. Several are interested in the truth. Mrs. Eason, at Yunan Fu, also finds the women far more accessible than they were some time ago. She has recently been joined by Miss Malpas and Miss Todd, and we may soon hope to hear that their united prayers and efforts will be blest to the salvation of many of the women of that city.

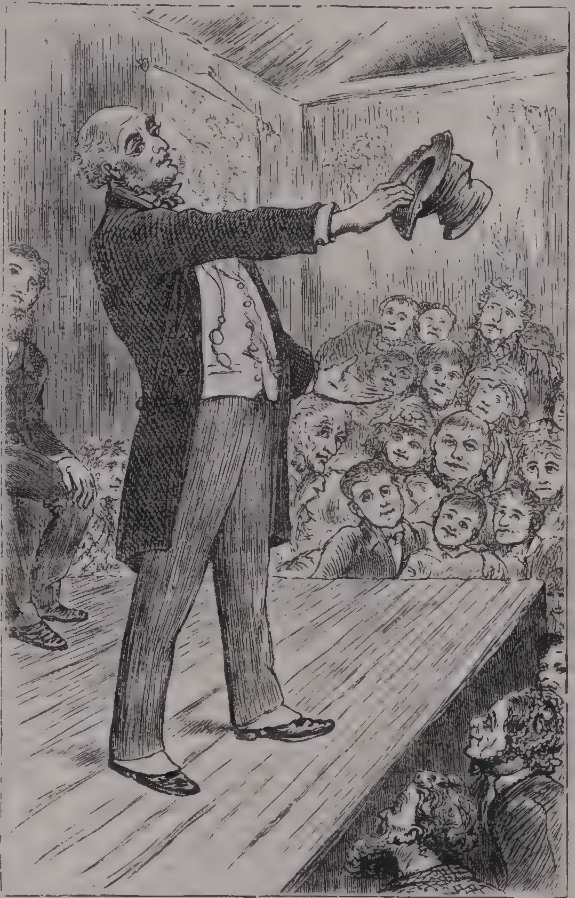
At Gan-King, in the Gan-hung province, too, the ladies have found that efforts among the women have not been in vain. At Yang-chow, in the Kiang-su province, a city for which much prayer has been offered in the past, several sisters, recently arrived, have been living, learning the language. Though still only able to communicate very imperfectly, they have been much encouraged by the friendliness of the women, who come in great numbers to see them, and there are more openings for visiting the women at their homes than our sisters at present can overtake.

God has been specially blessing the work at Weng-chow, too, and Mrs. Stott has been cheered of late by a great many additions to the Church from among the women who attend her classes. The long illness and recent removal by death of our dear sister, Miss Littlejohn, from this sphere of work has been a great blow to us all. She was working away steadily at the language, and promised to be as useful a worker here as she had been at home, when the Lord saw fit to remove her to higher service. The other older stations in the Chin-Kiung province are not without their quota of encouragement. At Kin-Chun, where three of the sisters, who had been for some time at Yang-Chow, have gone, to join Mr. and Mrs. Thompson in the work, they have between thirty and fifty generally on the Sunday afternoon for a woman's class or service. And they are finding a great many openings for visiting the women in their homes. Did I not fear extending my letter to my friends too much, I might be tempted to give you a few facts from the north too. I can only refer to one sister, Mrs. Rendell, who, with her two little ones, is now mourning the loss of her husband, taken away so suddenly. She will command your special prayers and sympathy. She is intending to remain, and visit among the poor women of Tai-yuen Fu.

These few facts will encourage you still to persevere, and to seek to get others to join you in the blessed service of daily remembering your sisters who are labouring here, as well as the women among whom they labour.

While at home, I often suggested that ladies who had the time could do a good service by writing occasional news-letters to the workers. I am thankful that some have adopted the suggestion, and if they could see the pleasure that these unexpected letters give, they would be amply repaid for their trouble. Might not others help in this way? A letter addressed to any lady of our mission, China Inland Mission, Shanghai, China, will be forwarded.—Yours in Gospel bonds, J. McCarthy.

Shanghai, China.



THE SQUIRE AND HIS HAT.

MILDMAY DEACONESSES.—A gloom has been cast over our Mildmay circle by the news we have received of the death of one of our most devoted workers—Miss Mangan, the head of the Mildmay Medical Mission at Jaffa. Three of our deaconesses are on the point of taking up work in Northumberland, in one of the colliery districts; two others leave England on the 2nd inst., one for Jaffa, the other to aid in the work of garrison visiting in Malta.—Service for the King.

THE SQUIRE'S HAT.

A VOLUME of capital Gospel Temperance narratives,* by Rev. J. M. Russell, has been published by Messrs. Jarrold & Sons, which ought to have a wide circulation among those who are in danger of becoming a prey to the drink demon. Each story has a vigorously drawn illustration: one of these, by the kindness of the publishers, we are able to reproduce. It represents the Squire addressing a Temperance meeting, and telling the story of his recovery from the snare of drink. We will not anticipate the pleasure that will be afforded to the reader of the book, by re-telling the story here, but we commend all alike as excellent readings for Band of Hope and other Temperance gatherings.

◆

REV. W. HASLAM IN ONTARIO.

THE congregation of St. John's Church, Whitby, Ontario, and the residents of the parish, have been greatly blessed by the recent visit of Mr. and Mrs. Haslam. The clear utterance of the Gospel, as delivered by these evangelists, was heard in mighty power, almost as if it were a new thing. To many, at least, a very special interest was added to the meetings also, through the Rector, Rev. J. Westney, standing up at the close of one of them, and telling the people that he himself had only known the blessedness of forgiveness of sin a few months himself, and that he had been brought from darkness to light, and from spiritual death to life, by reading the wonderful life and work of the mission preacher, as recorded in his book, "From Death into Life." At the earnest solicitations of the people of the town, services were continued the second week, until these servants of the Lord had to leave for Brooklyn.

Each afternoon Mrs. Haslam addressed ladies' meetings, and the surprising numbers that attended caused quite a stir in the town. There are many testimonies to the real value of these meetings, and much good has resulted from them. One afternoon her address was chiefly directed to the subject of Temperance; her earnest words touched many hearts, and were not spoken in vain, as the result has proved. Notwithstanding the most unfavourable state of the weather during the whole week the congregations were very large, and each day added to the interest taken in the services.

It is a great cause for thankfulness that God has put it into the hearts of these earnest and gifted labourers to visit this continent, and hold services throughout our Dominion. After finishing at Brooklyn, Mr. and Mrs. Haslam go to Port Hope, to commence a mission there. The prayers and blessings of a large number of people in Whitby will accompany them.

Y.W.C.A., CLAPHAM.—A tea and missionary meeting was held at the above institute on the 3rd inst. to bid farewell to Miss M. L. Legg, who has been accepted for the China Inland Mission. Miss Legg told how she had been led to give herself to God for missionary work in China, and how much she praised Him for all the spiritual help and blessing she had received since becoming a member of the Y.W.C.A. Five other members are willing to go to China, should the Lord make the way clear. In the meantime, they are being trained for the work. A handsome Bible was presented to Miss Legg by the members of the association, with many prayers for God's blessing on her new work.

---

* The Squire's Hat, and other Stories. Jarrold & Sons.

Conference at Manchester.

TUESDAY and WEDNESDAY, December 8 and 9.

